C. PATCH & SON.

The Time to Buy Carpetings.

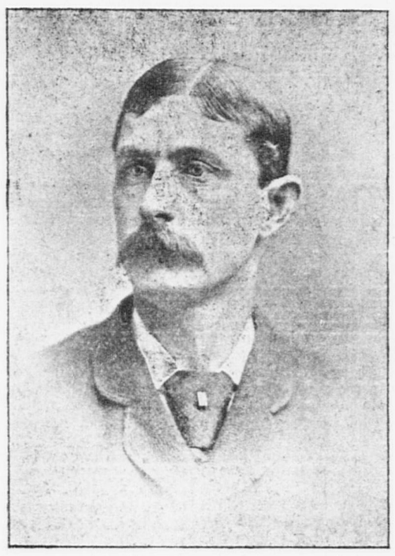

THIS Dingley Bill you've heard so much about, is like the old wolf story. You've heard increased prices cried so much, that when they actually do come, you are inclined to discredit them. Fact is, however, that wool has already advanced. Carpet mills have just increased prices from 5 to 10 cents per yard, with a still further increase positively assured for the near future.
If you wish to buy carpets at the lowest prices the world has ever known, do so at once, before present stocks are sold. You'll never know what down right panic prices are, if you don't take advantage of them now. We will hold the old low prices as long as possible. A word to the wise is sufficient.

HEROES' DAY.

The Patriotism of 1861 Will Ever Be Green in Our Memories.

Those Who Have Faced the Cannon Were Not Daunted by Rain.

COMMANDER WARNER.

It was a great disappointment to the comrades of Paul Revere Post, 88, Grand Army of the Republic that Monday could not have been a pleasanter day than it was. While at no time did it rain hard it was threatening and showery and the streets were in such a condition as to make walking horrible.

Nothing daunted however the comrades turned out in good numbers for the performance of their sacred duty of decorating the graves of those of their comrades, with whom they had marched shoulder to shoulder during those dark days of the years '61-'63, and who had survived the many battles to return to their peaceful occupations once more but who have since again been mustered into service, not for war but into the service of the Lord.

Each year sees the ranks of the veterans growing visibly less; each year sees the once quick step grow less elastic; and each year the familiar face of some comrade, who one short year ago marched with them, is missed, although like in the battles of old the vacant place has been effaced by the closing up of the ranks and again they marched shoulder to shoulder.

In a few years there will be but a remnant left of that Grand Army of the Republic, but their deeds will live after them, and the duty they are now performing will be taken up by the Sons of Veterans and carried on for eternity.

In accordance with general orders the Post assembled at headquarters at 7 A. M Details visited the grave of Col. Paul J. Revere at Mount Auburn, and the graves of those comrades who are buried in cemeteries out of town. A detail also visited the National Sailors' Home and held appropriate services, and a detail visited Mount Wollaston cemetery and decorated the graves of comrades resting there.

At West Quincy.

At 9:30 the Post and Sons of Veterans formed in front of headquarters, under command of Commander William H. Warner and Capt. W. C. Hart, and headed by the City band, marched to the junction of School and Franklin streets where barges were taken for West Quincy.

At the junction of Copeland and Cresent streets the line was reformed and a short march taken to the Hall cemetery.

After decorating the graves the Post assembled at the Willard monument where Commander Warner read a brief address, after which Rev. Edgar W. Preble, chaplain of the day, offered prayer. The Commander then read from the ritual of the Post and the exercises closed with a salute to the dead.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the command entered the Catholic cemetery where the exercises were conducted by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti.

The graves of the departed heroes buried there were then decorated.

The command then returned to headquarters where lunch was served at Hancock hall.

Afternoon Programme.

It rained some at the hour for the afternoon ceremonies but there was no interruption in the order of exercises. The procession was formed on Hancock street near headquarters in the following order:

POLICE
Comrade J. W. Hayden, chief

OFFICER OF DAY
Warren B. Munroe

CITY BAND OF QUINCY
24 Pieces

S. of V. Drum Corps

FRANCIS L. SOUTHER Camp 27, S. of V
42 Men
W. C. Hart, captain

PAUL REVERE POST 88, G. A. R.
65 Men
W. H. Warner, Commander

Carriages with invited guests, city officials and chaplain of day.

Barge with Disabled Veterans

Barges with Woman's Relief Corps.

The route was via Hancock, Greenleaf, Valley and Sea streets to Mount Wollaston cemetery. Many citizens accompanied the procession either in carriages or on foot, and at the cemetery a large number assembled, although umbrellas were necessary at times to keep off the rain.

With muffled drum and reversed guns the procession entered the cemetery and the organizations formed a hollow square about the soldiers' monument. The exercises included :

Hymn by band.
Hymn by band.
Remarks by Rev. Mr. Preble.
Ritual of G. A. R.
"Nearer My God to Thee" by band.
Benediction by chaplain.

Auditor Hall was glad it was Memorial day—a day of memories and a day of recollections. Although the soldiers suffered many privations he believed they would respond as promptly were they as young. The city appreciated their services and their patriotism.

How inestimably rich is our country in the record of her heroes, said Rev. E. W. Preble ! What a heritage of noble deeds, splendid memories, immortal names and sacred mounds belong to us as the citizens of this republic! Scattered all over the land there are graves where the whole nation stands today a grateful mourner. They are shrines of patriotism, altars of freedom, and they will furnish the best devotion and highest inspiration of the future. One of the most pathetic spots on the face of the earth is at Arlington, where rest the bones of eleven thousand unknown dead, gathered from the various battle fields of the vicinity. What histories of sacrifice, bravery and devotion to country are memorialized by the stone that marks that hallowed spot!

Forty-Eight Finished and There Were Fifty Prizes.

Many Riders Were Thrown and Some Injured.

The twelve mile handicap road bicycle race was the principal attraction in the centre Monday morning and it was witnessed by a large crowd. Many of the participants in the race came from out of town and as they brought their friends with them the square was full of bicycle enthusiasts, the crowd that gathered at the starting point numbering thousands. Not only was there a crowd there but all along the route the sidewalks were lined with man, women and children who anxiously awaited the appearance of the riders.

The race as a whole was not as successful as was expected, as the heavy rain of Sunday night had put the streets in a horrible condition, and so muddy were they at the hour announced for the race to start that it was proposed to postpone it. This the riders, especially those from out of town, objected to, and it was decided to start the race.

The race was characterized by many mishaps and few of the riders escaped a roll in the mud. This alone would have been bad enough but many were cut about the limbs and face by their falls, and that none were seriously injured is a wonder. But as it is there are many who will be sore and lame for some days, and there are others who will have to lay out considerable on their wheels before they will be able to ride them again. But then that is only one of the pleasures of bicycle racing.

It was eleven o'clock and after when the riders lined up in front of the Insurance office for the start, the route having been reversed. There were something like one hundred and sixty entries but there were but fifty-seven to start. Here came the first spill, for the first riders had only reached a point opposite the residence of N. B. Furnald when the treacherous mud begun to get in its work and several were piled up in a heap. This was not the only bad place for they were thrown off all along the line.

The course was three times over the following route:—Down Washington street to South street, to Howard street, to Quincy avenue, to Hancock street, to Temple street, finishing at City hall on the last round.

When the riders came in on the last lap they were a sorry looking set of men. There was not one of them who was not covered with mud, while little streams of blood was running down their faces, legs and arms, and so completely played out were they that some of them were barely able to cross the line.

Of the 57 to start in the race 48 finished and no sooner was the race over than protests begun to come in. There were protests of all kinds and it will be some time before the officials get the thing straightened out.

The order of finish and time was as follows:

ENSHRINED IN GRATEFUL HEARTS.

Colonel Robert Gould Shaw, One of Massachusetts' Gallant Heroes.

HIS BRAVE DEEDS PERPETUATED.

Beautiful Monument In Boston Common Unveiled.

AUG. ST. GAUDENS' MASTERPIECE.

Seventh Regiment of New York Attends to Pay Loving Tribute to a Favorite Comrade---Valorous Deeds of Colored Soldiers Recalled---Memorable Fight at Fort Wagner, Where Shaw Met His Death.

Boston, May 31.—Today's celebration of Memorial day was more that ordinarily interesting. The unveiling of the monument to Colonel Robert G. Shaw drew a large crowd, and the exercises were most impressive. The parade was brilliant and the spectators were appreciative. Patriotism seemed to shine from the eyes of men, women and children as the soldiers and sailors went by.

From a spectacular point the Seventh regiment, New York's famous soldier boys, were the feature of the day. But deeper than this was the prevaling feeling of reverence and gratitude which was manifested by all when the monument was unveiled.

Colonel Shaw's memory is dear to New England hearts and is dearer still to the colored people who have heard the story of his life. No eulogy, however beautiful, could overpraise this gallant young patriot, who led the first regiment of colored men off to the battlefields of the South, where he led them in many important movements and finally fell on the ramparts of Fort Wagner at the head of his column. Colonel Shaw's career was short, but noble, and a recital of his deeds is enough to inspire patriotism of the grandest character.

Professor William James of Harvard was the orator of the day, and his glowing words touched responsive chords as he related the life story of the hero. Booker T. Washingtonof Tuskegee, Ala., responded for the colored race.

In the parade there were 19 companies of the state militia, the Seventh regiment of New York, 900 strong; detatchments from the United States ships Massachusetts, Texas and New York, besides local organizations, all under the chief marshalship of General Francis H. Appleton.

The Parade.

The parade was formed on the streets adjacent to Beacon and Clarendon, and was ordered to move at a few minutes past 10 o'clock. The roster of the parade is as follows:

Platoon of mounted police.
Second corps of cadets, M. V. M., as escort to chief marshal and staff.
Chief marshal.
Chief of staff.
Honorary staff.
Aids.
United States army.
United States marines.
United States bluejackets.
Massachusetts Volunteer militia.
Seventh regiment, National Guard, state of New York.
First corps of cadets, M. V. M.
Light Battery A, M. V. M.
Battalion of survivors Fifth-fourth and Fifty-fifth infantry.
Fifth cavalry and navy.
Ambulance corps, M. V. M.
Governor and party.
Platoon of mounted police.

The chief feature of the parade was the presence of the Seventh New York regiment, with nearly 1000 men in line.

Governor Wolcott reviewed the parade at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Dartmouth street, after which the governor and distinguished guests were escorted to the memorial by Colonel Hallowell's battalion of survivors, passing in front of the troops. The unveiling was the signal for the United States ships in the harbor and battery A on the Common to fire salutes in honor of the occasion.

The route of the parade was as follows, the march being interrupted by a halt during the ceremony of unveiling: From the corner of Clarendon and Beacon streets, through Clarendon street, Commonwealth avenue (north side), Hereford, Beacon, School, Washington, State, Congress, High, Summer, Winter, Tremont and Park streets, the line being dismissed on the latter thoroughfare.

The carriages containing the governor and distinguished guests were as follows:

Carriage No. 3—Colonel J. L. Carter, governor's staff; Brigadier General W. S. Stryker, commanding the New York, and Hon. William P. Lawrence, president of the senate.

Carriage No. 7—Hon. M. P. Kennard, Lieutenant B. H. Harlow, flag lieutenant, U. S. N., and Colonel H. S. Hooper.

The program of the exercises in Music Hall, immediately following the unveiling of the monument, were as follows:

Description of Monument.

The memorial structure is of granite, with bronze entablatures portraying the life of the one in whose honor it was erected. It consists of a broad base or platform, 70 feet in length, by about 40 in breadth, surrounded by a heavy balustrade of granite, and a superstructure, which constitutes the real memorial—a granite tablet 14 feet in height and 20 in width, upon which the historic bronze reliefs will be placed.

The memorial occupies a position on the north side of Boston common, near Beacon street. The basement rises from the surface of the common a height of about eight feet to the level of Beacon street, thus rendering the platform accessible from the street. This platform is built after the manner of a floor of a fireproof building, with beams of steel, between which are sprung arches of brick. Above is a solid floor of concrete, upon which are laid large slabs of stone.

The walls of the structure are of large blocks of pink Milford granite, perfectly plain, with the exception that upon the front, on the common side, are cut, in bold relief, three lions' heads, in life size. From the open mouth of each of these issues a stream of water, falling into a huge granite basin below. Upon either side of the structure rises a flight of granite steps, giving access to the street above, and to the floor of the structure.

The balustrade which surrounds the platform is composed of alternate pilasters and panels. The latter are cut in simulation of the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew. The pilasters are five in number. Upon each is carved, in heavy relief, a wreath of laurel. Surmounting the wreaths are carved the names of the officers of the Fifty-fourth regiment.

Upon the balustrade, midway of the east front, will rise the granite tablet which constitutes the real memorial, 20 feet in width and about 14 feet high. Upon the common front each side of this superstructure is bordered with a pilaster of bronze. The ornamentation of these pilasters is in the style of the Italian renaissance, surmounted by a doric capital. Between these pilasters the bronze reliefs to the memory of Colonel Shaw, by the sculptor St. Gaudens, representing the gallant colonel mounted and leading a march of his colored troops, will be placed. Above floats a female figure, symbolizing fame. Across her forehead is laid a veil, and in her hands she carries branches of palm.

On the reverse of the upper structure is sculptured in heavy raised antique capitals upon the granite an inscription to the honor and memory of the rank and file, who followed their gallant colonel in the terrible carnage of Fort Wagner.

The structure is to be crowned with a broad Greek scroll in granite. Each corner and the heavy stone buttresses of the steps upon either side is to be surmounted with a large sculptured urn.

Along the lower portion of the south front of the structure, at either side of the basin, runs a heavy granite bench, for the accommodation of the weary. Benches will be placed also upon the platform of the basement for the convenience of visitors.

Built by Subscription.

The movement to erect a memorial to Colonel Shaw originated in the autumn of 1865, when a meeting was held at the call of Governor Andrew, Dr. S.G. Howe, Senator Sumner, Colonel Henry Lee and others to consider the matter. A committee was appointed to carry this purpose into effect, consisting of J. A. Andrew, Charles Sumner, J. B. Smith, H. P. Kidder, C. R. Codman, H. W. Longfellow, J. L. Little, W. W. Clapp, Jr., C. Beck, W. G. Weld, L. A. Grimes, R. E. Robbins, R. E. Apthorp, F. W. Bird, E. W. Kinsley, C. B. Loring, A. W. Beard, S. B Stebbins, R. K. Darrah, C. W. Slack. Within the next three months after the meeting the sum of $3161 had been raised. The death of Governor Andrew occurred soon after, and later several of the chief promoters of this memorial, including Senator Sumner, passed away, which seemed to quench all interest in the movement for a time.

In 1883, however, the fund having reached nearly $17,000, it seemed to be time to move for the execution of the work. A desire had been expressed by Senator Sumner that the work should consist of a statue of Colonel Shaw, mounted in very high relief upon a large bronze tablet. A suitable place for such a work seemed to be in the curve on the front of the state house. Application was made, through Governor Long, with his hearty approval, for a right to place the tablet at this point if such a work should be executed, and was cheerfully granted.

On the submission of the plan for an alto-relievo in front of the state house, Augustus St. Gaudens was suggested as the sculptor, and a contract was made with Mr. St. Gaudens on Feb. 22, 1894, in the hope and expectation that an alto-relievo suitable to the place chosen would be put in position in two years.

But as Mr. St. Gaudens dealt with the subject it grew upon him in its importance, and with that conscientious spirit which marks the true artist he has devoted the better part of two years to constant thought and work upon his grand design.

As the artist's conception developed, the size of the panel became too great for the space originally chosen, and the site was then made on the common between two large trees, where it now stands.

The funds for the memorial have gradually accumulated, until the original subscriptions will yield nearly $23,000, all of which will be needed in covering the expense of the work.

Colonel Shaw's Career.

The life of R. C. Shaw up to the age of 24 years was as uneventful an existence as fell to the lot of the average young man of New England who lived prior to the stormy scenes of the early 60s. He was born in Boston, Oct. 10, 1837, the son of Francis C. and Sarah Shaw. He went to school at several private institutions, and he continued his studies both in this country and in Europe until in 1856 he was fitted to enter Harvard college.

At Harvard college his career appears to have been rather along the lines of athletic and a general “good time” than those of studious thought. He was extremely popular with his fellow students. At the end of his third year he gave up college to enter a mercantile office as clerk at the invitation of his uncle in New York. He had no greater love for business than for learning. Still he performed his duties faithfully until 1861, when he enlisted as a private in the Seventh regiment, New York National Guard. On April 19, at the president's call for 75,000 men, he marched with his regiment to Washington, ready for immediate service.

The call for the Seventh extending to only 30 days, young Shaw applied for and obtained a commission as second lieutenant in the Second Massachusetts, and left with that regiment for the seat of war in July, 1861. He took part in those early conflicts of the war, serving at Cedar Mountain as aid on General Gordon's staff.

In 1863 Shaw had risen to a captaincy in his regiment. Early in the year the government had decided to form negro regiments, and Captain Shaw was offered the colonelcy of the first one raised in Massachusetts by Governor J. A. Andrew.

At first he did not feel competent to command such a regiment, but being encouraged by his superior officer to accept the appointment he finally decided to do so.

Captain Shaw reported to Boston to undertake the task of drilling and commanding the 54th Massachusetts regiment.

His efforts were so successful that on May 28, 1863, he had the regiment in condition to report for duty. Colonel Shaw was married May 25, 1863.

The troops saw considerable service among the sea islands along the Carolina coast, and took part in several engagements. The first actual battle which they experienced, however, was the assault upon James island, where their conduct was such as to merit the special commendation of General Terry, the commanding officer. The next employment of the 54th was the memorable attack upon Fort Wagner, July 15, 1863. The honor of leading the assault was offered to Colonel Shaw by General Strong, who commanded at that place. The offer was accepted with enthusiasm by officers and men, but as they rushed forward at the double quick the mound in their front belched forth a solid mass of flame and iron. Still the black regiment went on.

Colonel Shaw was at the head of the regiment, and as he gained the first rampart he stood for a moment with uplifted sword, shouting, “Forward, 54th.” Then he fell with a shot through his heart. The influence which he had over his men, and the circumstances of his heroic death, fully justified the wisdom of Governor Andrew in choosing him for the responsible position of heading the first black regiment in New England.

Colonel Shaw was buried in a trench outside the ramparts of Fort Wagner with his colored troops. An effort to recover his remains was checked by his father, who said “that a soldier's most appropriate burial place is on the field where he has fallen.”

Colonel Shaw was well connected, being a relative of the Sturgises and Parkmans, and several other exclusive families.

The widow of Colonel Shaw is an invalid, and, with the colonel's mother, is now traveling in Europe. Neither will be present at the unveiling of the memorial. Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell is a resident of New York, and Mrs. Curtis lives at Staten island.

This evening there is to be a welcome and benediction meeting in Faneuil hall to the veterans of the Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth infantry, the Fifth cavalry regiment and the naval veterans. It will be presided over by George T. Downing, who was one of the first men in Massachusetts to organize colored troops. Governor Wolcott and Mayor Quincy are to be present, and addresses will be made by prominient citizens.

Fought to the Death.

Sweethome, Tex., May 31.—Will Lewis and Wit Bosworth fought to the death yesterday at Salem church, where the neighborhood had assembled in observance of Decoration day. Bad blood existed between them. Together they walked away from the crowd, and while in apparent calm conversation one turned as if to leave, when the other drew a revolver. Both fired about the same instant and continued until their revolvers were empty. They were dead when their friends got to them. Every bullet fired by each took effect in his opponent. Lewis was shot three times through the body and once through the arm. Bosworth was hit twice in the head, twice in the body and once in the leg.

Shot by His Daughter.

Mount Clemens, Mich., May 31.—Frederick Heidt, a farmer in Warren township, nine miles from this city, was shot and killed yesterday by his daughter, Minnie, 22 years old. The girl was arrested and brought here. Her father attended church at Roseville, but got badly intoxicated on the way home. Entering his home when his daughter was there alone, the frenzied parent seized a razor and made for the girl. She succeeded in wrestling the weapon from him, and the father's threats being repeated the girl, in her excitement, grabbed a loaded gun and fired at him. The ball struck Heidt in the temple, killing him instantly.

Glad to Get Home.

Quebec, May 31.—Baroness von Turkheim, neé Jennie Young of San Francisco, arrived in Quebec yesterday on the Allen line steamship Laurentian, accompanied by her little boy. She is in good health and apparently glad to be back on this continent. She leaves today by the Canadian Pacific railroad for Montreal, and will proceed direct on her homeward journey.

Runner In Critical Condition.

Hanover, N. H., May 31.—J. F. Moody, the best two-mile runner in Dartmouth college, is in a critical condition with one side paralyzed and a blood vessel in the brain broken. His condition is attributed to the effects of the hard race he ran in the intercollegiate games at Worcester, Mass., May 22, after which he was physically exhausted.

Roosevelt Hasn't Time.

Detroit, May 31.—Theodore Roosevelt has declined to be a candidate for president of the League of Republican clubs in the election in July, as his duties as assistant secretary of the navy completely occupy his attention. Mr. Roosevelt has been regarded as one of the most prominent candidates for the position.

Thought to Have Been An Accident.

Lowell, Mass., May 31.—Medical Examiner J. C. Irish viewed the bodies of Frances and Maria Butler yesterday. He does not believe that their death on Saturday was suicidal, but is of the opinion that one was stricken with apoplexy and the other turned on the gas in her excitement and was overcome by it.

CALHOUN CRITICISED.

Havana, May 31.—In a leading article El Diario La Marina makes a scathing indirect attack upon Commissioner Calhoun by criticising articles which have appeared in a Washington newspaper over the signature of Mr. Pepper, who, in the guise of an intimate friend of President McKinley and Mr. Calhoun, accompanied the latter to Cuba.

El Diario maintains that many incidents wholly private have been divulged in Mr. Pepper's letter, thus tending to compromise Mr. Calhoun. The paper also resents Mr. Pepper's unfriendly attitude toward Spain in his reports on the Cuban situation, expressing disgust that while he blames Spain for the natural result of the war, he has no word of censure for the Cuban insurgents, whose torches are destroying the wealth of the island.

In closing its articles, El Diario calls attention to the fact that two New York newspapers, whose Cuban reports are scarcely favorable to Spain, maintain bureaus in Havana under the same roof with the United States consul general, intimating, without much delicacy, that the correspondents of these newspapers are virtually under the wing of General Fitzhugh Lee, and draw the bulk of their inspiration from him.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Mlle. Arnould-Plessy, the celebrated French actress, is dead.

The London Post says: We are requested to contradict the rumors that the Duke of Leeds will succeed the Earl of Aberdeen as governor general of Canada.

The 21st annual convention of the Catholic Total Abseinence union of the archdiocese of Boston was held yesterday. Rev. Thomas Scully of Cambridge was elected president of the union; Edward Mulready of Rockland, secretary; Patrick F. McDonald of Boston, treasurer. Bishop Watterson of Columbus, O., and Vicar General Byrne addressed the convention.

A collision, in which three men went overboard from the sloop Millionaire, was the most stirring incident in connection with the Harlem Yacht club's big annual regatta on the Sound yesterday. The accident was caused by the Millionaire trying to cross the bows of the coasting steamer L. A. Hanlon of Providence, and the sloop was badly damaged. The men were rescued.

A very large delegation of Knights of Columbus from the different councils of the state had a field day in Portland, Me. The number would have been even larger, but for the threatening weather. From 8 o'clock until 12:30 the knights gathered at Foresters' hall, where they were handsomely entertained, and the time flew quickly in conversation and making new friends. At 2 o'clock a steamer was taken to Long island, where a shore dinner was served. After dinner there were such sports enjoyed as the condition of the grounds would permit, and about 6 o'clock the party returned to the city and witnessed the conferring of the third degree.

Russia Wants Mediterranean Port.

London, June 1.—According to a dispatch to The Daily News from Odessa, there is a revival of the report that Russia is negotiating with Turkey to get a port on the Mediterranean. It is also rumored that when peace between Greece and Turkey is concluded Russia will demand the exclusive privilege of free passage for her fleet through the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles.

Inhaled Gas Through Tube.

New York, June 1.—Hosford B. Niles, the president of the Equitable Mercantile company, was found dead in bed at 218 West Sixteenth street yesterday. He had inhaled gas through a tube attached to an open jet. Mr. Niles was nearly 70 years old, and was well-to-do.

Love-Crazed Youth's Act.

Atlantic City, June 1.—Mrs. Phoebe H. Phillips, proprietress of a fashionable boarding house on Ocean avenue, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by Robert Hibbert. Mrs. Phillips is 43 years of age, and has three grown up children. Hibbert is only 22 years of age. Mrs. Phillips said in her antemortem statement that for some time Hibbert has been importuning her to marry him, but that she declined, owing to the disparity in their ages. Hibbert was arrested.

Woman Indicted For Infanticide.

Atlanta, June 1.—Mrs. Z. A. Godfrey, 40 years old, handsome and wealthy, daughter of Hon. Benjamin Dugger, has been arrested for murder. She was indicted on the testimony of her children, who swore that six years ago she strangled and buried her daughter's illegitimate child.

DEATH ON A TALLYHO.

Train Crashes Into Coaching Party, Killing Five Young People.

Victims Ground to Pieces Under Engine.

New York, June 1.—A coaching party came to a terrible end at Valley Stream, L. I., yesterday. As the tallyho was crossing the railroad track a train crashed into it. Five young people were instantly killed and several others injured. The party was from the Green Avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, and was returning from a day's outing. Following are the names of the killed:

The injured were: Emma Bruge, skull fractured; Clara Stuart, skull fractured; Anna Andrews, both legs broken; Lawrence Barnes, Jr scalp wound; Walter Wellbrock, both thighs fractured; John Lewis, bruises; Edward McCormick, the driver of the coach, badly injured; Earl Barnes, slightly injured; Miss Pashley, back broken; Tillie Hern, severe shock; Edna Bulmer, severe shock; Richard Bates, scalp wound; Bessie Gilson, scalp wound; Edward and Richard Bibbons, the two other drivers, slightly injured; Miss Ray Stillman, badly injured.

The body of Lester W. Roberts was ground to pieces. The body of Miss Burch was also badly mangled. Winslow Lewis had his neck broken, both legs were broken and his head was badly gashed, and he was severely cut about the body.

The crash came almost without warning, and the occupants of the coach had no time to make any effort to escape. Before the most of them knew of the impending danger, the train was upon them and the coach was puset and the engine pushing it along the rails with the dead and injured being cut and mangled beneath it.

The train that struck the tally-ho was bound east from Mineola. It was not running fast when the accident happened, and accounts differ as to whether the whistle was blown. It is also a matter of dispute whether the bell was being rung. It is claimed by some that it was and that the merry party on the coach was making so much noise that the driver could not hear the bell. The double team of the tally-ho had crossed the track and had the front wheels of the coach upon the rails when the pilot of the engine was seen by the driver. He gave the horses a cut with the whip, but it was too late, and a moment later the crash came. The heavy engine raised the coach and its load of persons from the ground and hurled it forward. The shock threw some of the passengers into the air and they handed on the rails and in the gutters which run on either side of the track. Others went down under the coach, which was pushed along the rails by the train for some distance. Those who were killed and those most badly injured were caught under the coach and crushed.

Photography In Mid-Air.

New York, June 1.—William A. Eddy yesterday afternoon took the first double photograph in midair that has ever been secured. He did this with special apparatus, after a year of study. By his invention it will be possible to take from midair a perfect photograph of the entire horizon line. With such an apparatus, Eddy claims that a photograph can be taken at sea, which will show a ship approaching when it is 10 miles beyond the horizon line as seen from a ship's deck. The inventor is confident his apparatus can be used to great advantage during war. The photographs were taken with two cameras, but it is proposed to arrange eight so that they will photograph the entire horizon at once.

The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many years in the employ of the L., N. A. & C. Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy for ten years or longer—am never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured. I take pleasure in recommending it.'" It is a specific for all bowel disorders. For sale by A. G. DURGIN.

CALHOUN AND LEE TALK.

Both Declare That the Editorial Attack Upon Them Is Unwarranted.

Havana, June 1.—W. J. Calhoun, the United States commissioner, who is investigating the death in the prison at Guanabacoa of Dr. Riccardo Ruiz, was interviewed with reference to the article in the Diario de La Marina, making an indirect attack upon the commission by criticising articles which have appeared in a Washington newspaper over the signature of Mr. Pepper, who accompanied Mr. Calhoun to Cuba, and who is said to be a friend of President McKinley. Mr. Calhoun said:

"Mr. Pepper is in no way connected with the commission. On the contrary, he came to Havana on his own account, as other correspondents might have come.

"No secrets of the commission have been divulged, nor has any special information been supplied to him which was not obtainable by other correspondents. I suppose Mr. Pepper's information was gathered from personal information or from heresay."

General Fitzhugh Lee, the United States consul general, disclaims exercising any influence over newspaper reports sent from Havana to the United States, and resents the insinuation of the Diario de La Marina that resident American correspondents draw their inspiration from him.

Costly Blaze at Boston.

Boston, June 1.—Last evening a fire started on the fourth floor of the five-story building, 154 Tremont street, from an unknown cause, and by the time it had been controlled the occupants of the building had suffered a loss of $25,000 to $30,000 by fire and water. All above the fourth floor is water damage. The heaviest losers are Henry Brown & Co., millinery, on the second floor, and W. B. Crocker, millinery, on the first floor and basement. Their stocks were thoroughly soaked, and their losses will be heavy. The third floor is occupied by the room of the various music teachers; the fourth by the Boston Conservatory of Music, and the fifth by Mrs. Henrietta Anthony, photographer. All these tenants suffered serious damage. The loss on the building will not exceed $2000.

STILL NEGOTIATING.

Constantinople, June 1.—The ambassadors are urging the Turkish government to engage to prolong the armistice in the event of the peace negotiations not being ended when the armistice expires.

The prevalent opinion here is that Germany is playing a bold game in order to force Russia to declare openly either for or against Turkey.

Athens, June 1.—The Greeks are greatly encouraged by the rumor that a navy contractor named Koila has received an order to provision the British fleet of 40 men-of-war, to be concentrated at Phalerum.

The Greek governmnt has issued a denial of the report that an anti-dynastic movement is on foot, and it also denies the existence of dissensions between King George and the government of Greece.

Earthquake In the South.

Washington, June 1.—A distinct, but slight, earthquake was experienced yesterday afternoon throughout the South Atlantic and middle Southern states. It is stated at the weather bureau that the direction of the wave was from south to north, but reports received from various sections are conflicting. In some localities is stated the direction of the disturbance was in an easterly to westerly direction, but the records of the instruments here probably are correct. The shock occurred as nearly as has been estimated at 2 o'clock. In some localities the time is given as 1:58, and in others as late as 2:10, and its duration was less than a minute. As far as can be learned, Savannah was the furtherest point South at which the tremor was felt, while the northern boundary of the wave was middle Maryland. West it was felt as far as Knoxville, Tenn. The disturbance seems to have been most severe in the Appalachian mountain region.

Decision Against State Liquor Law.

Charleston, June 1.—Judge Simonton of the United States circuit court has filed a decision in the case of the Vandercock company against the state of South Carolina restraining the state from preventing the sale of liquors brought into the state. This decision, if sustained on appeal, it is claimed, will have the effect of rendering nugatory the state dispensary law. Under the decision of Judge Simonton any person may import and sell liquor in original packages.

WE ARE suprised at the rumors we hear regarding the treatment by the Quincy Historical society, of a patriotic society of ladies which visited our city last week. Miss Fioretta Vining, regent of the John Adams chapter, D. A. R., of Boston, planned an outing in Quincy for her chapter and wrote the local chapter of D. R and the Quincy Historical society, asking to be allowed to go over the birthplaces of the presidents.

The Adams chapter responded that they would gladly open their house and have a committee receive the visitors. The Quincy Historical society, through Mr. Spear, wrote they would open the house provided the ladies paid twenty-five cents each. Miss Vining, thinking this too much for a party of patriotic people to pay, called personally on Mr. Spear and asked to have a lower price, and Mr. Spear agreed to put the price at fifteen cents each.

When Miss Vining and her party went to the house they were not very courteously received and Mr. Spear announced as there were only forty in the party they would have to pay twent-yfive cents each, and he was very anxious about the money and that each should be counted as they entered.

Ten dollars is pretty good pay for opening the house an half hour. We know it is customary to charge admission to old historical houses to pay the running expenses and caring for property, but reductions are generally made to parties, especially if they are interested in the same work. Miss Vining asked Mr. Spear to make out a bill to the John Adams chapter, asking whatever he wished for admission, as the chapter were responsible and able to pay his demand.

It is humiliating to Quincy people that a society bearing the name of John Adams should not have been given the freedom of the house in which John Adams lived so many years.

The Quincy Historical society seems only to work against the interests and good name of our good city, and the antagonistic feeling it has ever manifested toward local patriotic societies is harmful and will react on the society.

City Council Tonight.

There is not a large amount of business to come before the City Council at its meeting tonight. The Committee on Streets have some reports to make. The street watering order comes up for its final passage, and the order granting the Street railway a turnout on Hancock street comes up for its second reading.

There is likely to be some debate over the turnout order, as there will be an effort to strike out the condition which requires that the company shall pave the street at the turnout. Although the turnout is much needed by the railway, and it will be a great convenience to their patrons who attend entertainments in the new hall, it is said that the company will not accept under such restrictions. It is not the cost but the precedent they say which underlies it all. If turnouts seem to be demanded for public convenience, there should be some compromise.

Installation.

Rev. Charles Hunt Porter son of ex-Mayor Porter of this city will be installed as pastor of the Second and Third Unitarian parishes at Hingham, on Wednesday, June 2, in the New North church.

Special music by quartette choir, assisted by violin and harp.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon with Rev. E. C. Butler are delegates to the installation.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. HEROES' DAY.

Do we fully appreciate the value of the blessings bequeathed to us by these gallant defenders of the Union? Some one has said, "That in order to realize the worth of one's country, one most have lost it." Had we lost our country, had our cause failed, had our flag gone down in that struggle, had these men been devoid of courage and patriotism, how much more we might prize the benefits which we thoughtlessly enjoy today. It was all through them that we possess these privileges and blessings. In the time of war, Lincoln said, "Brave, loyal and patriotic men are better than gold." And so our country found it in the crisis of her trouble. Only brave, loyal and patriotic men could save the union. Gold could not do it. All the money of the world could not do it. It was the brave heroic men, who sleep here and throughout the land; and their comrades who decorate their graves, that under God saved the Union and preserved the nation which we love and honor today.

ON MEMORIAL DAY.

They fought for the flag,
They fell for the land.
They died in heroic array;
And we garland the grave
Of the true and the brave
With myrtle and laurel today.

They were ours,—our own,--
The light of our life,
Our heart and our happiness all;
But the battle rolls nigh,
And the sword flashes high,
And grandly the heroes fall.

Sleep, comrades, in peace!
For freedom and right
Your low, silent tents were spread.
Serene be your rest,
In the land you have blest,
Our honored, our patriot dead.

From the monument the organizations proceeded to the grave of Francis L. Souther, the first Quincy soldier to fall in in the war, where services were conducted by the Sons of Veterans.

There was a stirring address by Rev. A. A. Brown. He said we could not come to a better place to learn the lesson of patriotism. The soldiers died to emphasize the fact that we are all equal. He would not separate the races and those who advocated it did not love their country as they should. The speaker was glad to see the flag over the schoolhouses. Patriotism and love of country stand next to love of God.

Capt. Hart said we were assembled to pay tribute of love and respect, and to realize the sanctity of the hour and our duties.

Prayer was offered by the chaplain, a salute of twelve guns fired, the band played "Star Spangled Banner" and benediction closed the exercises.

The command then marched to the "Unknown Lot" where the exercises were in charge of Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps. "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung by the corps accompanied by the band. The Relief Corps service was then given. Miss Sadie Smith recited "A Memorial Tribute." Wreaths were deposited, benediction offered by Rev. E. W. Preble and the exercise closed with a selection by the band.

The command returned to headquarters via Coddington street and City Square, and after a collation was dismissed.

Sale at Wollaston.

The Ladies' Aid connected with the Wollaston Unitarian society held a largely attended sale in the church vestry on Monday afternoon and evening. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. George W. Bennett. Mrs. Edmund F. Taylor and Miss Helen Comins; the ice cream and cake table was presided over by Mrs. Charles S. Comins, Mrs. Thomas F. Mitchell and Mrs. Delano; and the apron table by Mrs. George Weston, Mrs. Joseph N. Smith and Mrs. E. Walter Arnold. A delightful entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. Charles T. Baker.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY.

The Grand Army Attended Two Church Services.

Paul Revere post was invited to two services on Sunday, and there were in other churches sermons appropriate to Memorial day.

At West Quincy.

Rev. A. A. Brown gave an elcquent Memorial day address Sunday morning at the West Quincy Methodist church and it is only to be regretted that so few of the Grand Army and Sons of Veterans were present to hear it.

He took for his text these words found in Exodus xii:14. "And this day shall be unto you for a memorial."

After speaking of the first Memorial day among the Hebrew people, he said it was well to remember this for the blood upon the door foretold of other blood that was to be spilled in God's world in the future. In a country like ours patriotism is but another name for liberty. We love her for her liberty, for having freed the slaves and for her education. With the Bible in one hand and the flag in the other we go forward in the conquest.

While we think much of our country we should not forget how it was purchased for us at the price of blood. We are here today in their name to recall their suffering and their life. Nowhere will such chivalry and patriotism be reproduced as that displayed in our civil war. Their graves are all about us and of all the sentimental places we could visit today would be the graves of those heroes. We stand before them remembering what they did for us. We think of those graves in the South we can not go to. To those we bow.

A few years ago it was the many that were decorating the graves of the few, now it is the few who are decorating the graves of the many. Yet we should not forget the mother and wife, what they suffered men cannot understand. Let us not forget that these institutions of ours were purchased at a great cost to keep and employ and hand down to the generations to follow, only remembering that there is now here but one flag, one country and one God.

At Christ's Church.

Sunday evening Paul Revere Post accompanied by the Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps, attended services at Christ church and listened to an address on "The Nation" by Rev. Walter R. Breed.

The speaker took for his text Acts 8:26. "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation."

The nation does not exist in any single period of time, but that which has been and always shall be. Achievement can not be measured by the scope of an individual life. It is not something that can be torn down and built up again. It has a moral purpose and if the nation is to continue it must continue to be divine. It is a moral purpose because it is called of God. It has a divine origin and a divine foundation. It is called of God and created by him. What is its end? To make freedom real for every person. The freedom of man embodies itself in rights. It is only right that freedom is realized in its true sense.

There is no security for life or property without the nation of divine spirit. It is the unit power in which God has laid history. In the middle ages it was oppressed because it was said it was not sacred. It is the great force in history which antagonizes nations. That evil force was confederacy. It was a combination of several societies. A mere tem porary organization to further selfish ends. The greatest instance in history of force was here in America. There has been no nation whose foundation has been so divine as ours. The Declaration of Independence was the act of a whole people. The whole history of the development of the United States as been as a unit.

Our nation has moved forward as a unit. The Confederate principle denied all this. It strikes a death blow at that which you want to preserve. It was constructed for selfish purposes and after many years it culminated in the late war. It was not a war against slavery but between the nation and Confederacy. It was a battle of the nation for its life. The Confederacy was the embodiment of an evil spirit. The nation must die that the Confederacy might live. The nation must be held together said Lincoln. The Confederacy is not dead. The late war was but a beginning.

There has been no people to whom Christianity has come but has become a nation. Where Christianity has gone there has come a nation and nations have stood as long as there was Christianity. The foundation of America is in Christianity. It is the corner stone that has never shaken. If the conception holds that the nation is divine then the nation itself is immortal. God grant that America may be worthy when she marches us into that eternal city as a nation.

At Bethany Congregational church Sunday evening there was a patriotic and memorial service. In his address the Rev. E. N. Hardy said it was appropriate for the churches to unite annually in memorial services, and spoke of the patriotism of 1861 and of today. There was special music by the choir.

OVER A NEW COURSE

Boats of Wollaston Club Unable to Finish Within Time Limit.

The first club race given by the Wollaston Yacht Club was started at 11.20 A. M., on Monday over a new course. First to a barrel off the Squantum shore, to and around barrel off Half Moon Island, to starting point, three and one-half miles, and repeat.

What little wind there was when the first gun was fired seemed to fluke out at once, leaving the boats almost as though they were anchored.

The Magnolia in the second class crossed the line first at 11 21-10, followed by the Burgess ten seconds later, the Clara Lou following.

In the Fourth class the gun was given at 11.25. The Thelma (formerly the Locia) crossed thirty seconds later, followed by the West Wind at 11-26 10, the White Wing at 11-26 12, and the Gypsy at 11 27-28, while the Doris S., brought up the rear and crossed at 11-28-12. After crossing the line they all run free for about five minutes, when the wind shifted, making it a beat for a few minutes, when it again shifted to west-south-west, as at the start. After the first hour there being no perceptible change in their speed, it was apparent that they would not finish in the time limit of three hours, and subsequent events proved the apprehension to be correct. The Thelma however was less than five minutes over time.

Golf Tournament.

There were some close scores in the open tournament of the Wollaston Golf club on Monday, although E. H. Brock the winner had but one close rival. The gross and net scores with handicap were:

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

You Look to Your Husband,

Mrs. Newlywed, for protection from the storms of life—but don't be ungrateful.

Our word for it, the state of the masculine stomach is responsible for more social and business woes than most people wot of—even when they're wotting for all they're worth.

Our advice to you, madam, is to keep your husband's "inner man" in prime order, through the medium of MERRILL groceries; and, as a reward, you will find the outer man healthier, wealthier and wiser for it—and more comfortable to live with!

Our injunction to shippers of goods to our establishment is always, "We want best quality first and will talk about prices afterwards."

Isn't it better to buy Tea, Coffee, Flour, Cereal goods, Butter, Cheese, Eggs, and a thousand other articles you have to use in your house, of a firm with twenty years' experience right here in Quincy, than take chances with peddlers or cheap John places in Boston where you know nothing of what you are getting until too late to change? You know every thing you buy of us is fully guaranteed pure and wholesome.

PATRIOTIC NOTES.

Love and Devotion to Country Still Strong Here.

The Grand Army decorated 287 graves.

Why could we not have had today's weather yesterday.

Owing to the rain the Merry Mount Tennis club tournament on Monday was postponed.

Mrs. George E. Merrifield of Wollaston, who has been quite ill with appendicitis, is rapidly convalescing.

Mrs. J. F. Dozier of Lynn formerly of Quincy has been in town visiting friends for the past few days.

Work was commenced this morning connecting the Quincy Point and Neponset tracks via Washington street.

Miss M. E. Fish of Lynn, formerly of Quincy, was in town yesterday visiting friends on Hancock street.

Mr. Ralph Saxe of Wollaston has returned from an extended business tour through the southwestern states.

It is somewhat remarkable that out of the large number of people in Quincy Monday no drunkenness was seen and it speaks well for the city.

Mrs. Robert Chisholm, Mr. William B. Chisholm and Miss Lena McGilvary of Saugus were the guests of Misses Marion and Hattie Chisholm of Atlantic, Memorial day.

A warrant in insolvency was issued on Friday against the estate of William L. Faxon of Middleboro, formerly of Quincy. There will be a hearing at Brockton next Monday.

Mr. Edward M. Manning of Wollaston, has returned from a western trip and will remain until the wedding of Miss Poison and Mr. McClintock, at which he will act as usher.

The Savin Hill Yacht club has extended an invitation to the officers and members of the Quincy Yacht club to be present at the formal opening of the club house this evening.

The first race of the Squantum Yacht club for the Burkhardt cups was sailed Monday morning. There was little or no wind and none of the boats finished inside of the time limit.

Memorial day passed quietly away at the Point, there being no other excitement than the bicycle race. It was a dirty looking crowd after their many splashes of mud and fall.

The travel on the cars of the street railway was very large Sunday and on the Neponset line it was necessary to run cars every ten minutes. The other lines were equally as well patronized.

Franklin D. Rideout has lost his position as secretary of the board of trustees of Mt. Hope cemetery, at a salary of $500, but continues as a registrar. The cemeteries are under a new management.

The regular meeting of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, will be held this evening. The council is preparing for the third degree work, which will be exemplified on Wednesday evening, June 16.

Auctioneer Johnson sold the estate of Mrs. Jane M. Pope situated on Squantum street, Atlantic, at auction on Saturday for $2000, to Mary A. Spencer of East Milton. It was a great trade, the best bargain in Quincy for a long time.

A sick horse attracted quite a crowd nearly opposite Tisdale's stable Sunday afternoon. He was taken suddenly sick while passing along Washington street. Dr. Henderson was quickly called and soon arrived and attended him.

The change of service at the Washington Street Congregational church still gains in favor. A good attendance being present on Sunday both morning and evening. The service next Sunday evening will be held in the auditorium and the subject is, especially for young people, "Youthful Days."

The morning service at the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday, was a baptismal service. Rev. Preston Gurney took his text from Luke 15:17,—"And when he came to himself, he said." The singing by the quartette was especially appropriate, the last selection carrying out the rest of the theme.

The beautiful residence of Charles H. Johnson, situated on River street, is to be sold at auction Saturday and to one looking for a permanent home or investment an exceptional opportunity is offered. The residence is a new one, has all the modern improvements and cost $5000. A larger part of the purchase price may remain on a mortgage if desired.

Mrs. Albert R. Smith has gone to Stonington, Conn., to attend the funeral of her father, Mr. Manuel Olives Levy, who was 104 years of age and the oldest person in Connecticut. Mr. Levy was born in Lisbon, Portugal, May 10, 1793. He had good health up to a few weeks ago. He retained his senses and faculties to the last. He came to New London sixty years ago. He had been many voyages on whalers and coasters, and for a term of years was keeper of Eel Grass Shoal Lightship.

"MIDDLEMEN."

"Stone" Tells What They Are in the Granite Business.

Stone for May publishes some correspondence from W. C. Townsend and others relative to criticism in a previous number relative to "Middlemen" in the granite business. The editor writing further on the subject pays his compliments to the middlemen as follows:

"Who are the producers and manufacturers in the granite industry? Why, first, the quarryman, who may also be a manufacturer and wholesaler; and, second, the operator of a plant for the manufacture of the material, who may or may not be a quarryman or a wholesaler.

Our middleman, No. 1, is none other than the homeless and creditless jobber—the man who hustles for the orders of the retailer, or of customers in the retailer's bailiwick—and securing such peddles them among manufacturers, or among another species of 'middlemen' we shall mention further on, for the best price he can get for them. He flourishes most liberally in the West and South.

Our middleman, No. 2, is the commission agent for foreign manufacturers as well as for home manufacturers. He has headquarters in one city, and a 'branch' in several cities. He employs numerous sub-agents who traverse the territory of the local dealer. He cuts the life out of the trade of the latter by paring his commission and compelling the manufacturer to stand a shave or turn down the business. We regret to say that nowadays manufacturers can readily be found who will accept orders for work from this source on which there is but a very slight margin of profit, or practically no profit at all, because they are anxious to tide over the depression and keep their plants in operation. This middleman, having no costly plant to grow rusty from inactivity; no salary list that may not be suspended on the instant that it doesn't pay; no loss to fear from a relaxtion of effort; who can afford to watch and wait, and is prepared to pounce upon the first prospect of getting an order, is not a bad fellow in good times, nor is he a good fellow in bad times. We think he is not essential however at any time.

"Manifestly, having nothing else at stake but his commissions, he is usually willing to earn a dime if it is impossible to earn a dollar. The real sufferer is the quarryman or manufacturer who has capital invested in a costly plant that must be kept in operation at any cost and who will attend and bid at this middleman's auction sale of rare orders. There are not many of this class of middlemen. We do not count Cook & Watkins and Wm. C. Townsend in the category, nor any of the firms mentioned in their correspondence. Every one of those firms have had, or have now, capital invested in the business that shows itself in tangible property that protects any obligation they might incur. Furthermore, they have been in business long enough to establish a reputation that is sufficient to indicate that they conduct their business on legitimate lines. Not so with our middleman No. 2 who has only a rented office, highly enriched stationery, a typewriter, a collection of stolen designes, superlative cheek and diminutive conscience as his entire outfit.

"Our middleman No. 3 is a self-styled 'manufacturer.' He owns a kit of granite-cutter's tools. His ambition is to rise in the world, to be his own boss, and we admire him for that, but he ought to be known for what he actually is. He is not a 'manufacturer,' in the common acceptation of the term. He is an independent granite-cutter. The fact that he sets up a banker in a wood-shed or a blacksmith shop, and has credit sufficient to obtain a block of granite from a quarryman, and can pawn an order for a monument to the owner of a polishing machine, doesn't make him a manufacturer in a commercial sense. He advertises, without paying cash, in our middleman No. 4's newspaper, and ordinarily can be relied on by our middleman No. 1 to help out on any orders the latter may secure, that nobody else in the trade can be induced to execute. What show would any one have in getting a bill for damages from such 'wholesalers?' This fellow is the worst specimen in the whole lot of middlemen with which the ligitimate business of making and selling granite monuments is beset.

"Our middleman No. 4 is the publisher of an alleged trade journal. He barters advertising space for finished stock and conducts a wholesale and retail trade in competition with his misguided advertisers and subscribers. While he is able to run a business of that sort successfully we don't think it is anybody's business to complain, except in pity of the fools who support it. It would be an uncommon display of upright business principles however if such a middleman refrained from price-cutting, or hesitated to 'plug' a monument, and sell it for a perfect piece of work.

We trust we have made our diagnosis of the middleman clear to our readers and critics.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY

DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,

A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this. August 4th, 1891.

J. M. LAMBERT, N. P.,
Comanche County, Texas.

CATARRH CURED BY P. P. P.

Woman's weakness, whether nervous or otherwise, can be cured and the system built up by P. P. P. A healthy woman is a beautiful woman.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT

Weather Has Been Most Discouraging For Farmers.

A Rainfall of From Two to Three Inches.

All Farm Work Is Practically at a Standstill In Consequence.

Boston, June 1.—The weather in northern New England must have discouraged farmers. The rain was almost continuous—not a pleasant working day. Total rainfalls of more than two inches for the week were common, and at Burlington and Middlebury, Vt., the falls exceeded three inches. Under such conditions farming operations came to a standstill, leaving much work to wait for more favorable weather.

In the south the week was cool and cloudy, with frequent rains, but not as heavy as in the north. Not much could be accomplished in working land; otherwise the rain was beneficial. The abundant moisture in all sections will leave land in splendid condition after a few days of drying weather. Crops in the south are ready to move forward rapidly with warm days, and the time lost in the north may be regained.

Maine.

The season continues very backward. Farm work practically at a standstill, except on dry uplands. Land is almost completely water soaked, owing to heavy rain. Grass is in poor condition in the northern and eastern counties, some farmers being without necessary pasturage. Present indications point to a light hay crop in those sections. Scarcely any corn planted in Oxford county; planting half done in Cumberland county. Potatoes that are planted are sprouting nicely. Pear, cherry, and plum trees blossomed full; apples fair. The prevailing weather is excellent for grass, which, as a rule, is making remarkably good growth. The coming week, if favorable, will witness very busy times in this state.

New Hampshire.

Reports are more favorable from this state, but the wet weather has retarded planting, and considerable remains to be done, especially corn. The temperature has been too low for planted crops. Grass is the only field crop that now appears well; the earlier varieties are headed out. A large hay crop seems assured at this time. Corn and potatoes are backward; some corn rotted in the hill last week. Garden crops look well. Fruit prospects continue favorable, except apples, which remain uncertain. Damage by caterpillars is still reported by numerous correspondents.

Vermont.

Almost constant rain during the week has made farm work out of the question. In western Vermont the ground has not been so thoroughly soaked in years. Lowlands are saturated all over the state. It is feared that much of the early seed is spoiled and will require replanting. Grass is the banner crop thus far. A great deal is yet to be sown, mostly barley. The outlook for fruits and berries is in the main propitious.

Massachusetts.

Crops are growing acceptably well, although needing sunshine. Corn and potatoes receiving first hoeing in a few localities. Tobacco setting began on the 24th in the Connecticut valley. An unusual growth of clover in old mowing lands is reported in Hampshire county. Rye and oats are promising. A large fruit yield is expected, also berries. Present appearances favor a heavy grass crop. Teht caterpillars plentiful and cut worms are working havoc among vegetables.

Rhode Island.

Frequent rains have kept the ground in good condition for crops, consequently everything is doing well. Warmer weather would, however, be acceptable. Planting is practically completed and hoeing commenced.

Connecticut.

The week favored grass, rye and oats. A little too cool for corn, which is coming slowly. Potato hoeing is under way generally. Cherries and strawberries setting well. Gardens somewhat backward, owing to cloudiness. A considerable amount of tobacco has been set under favorable conditions. Grass is the crop most highly spoken of.

BALD BEATS COOPER.

Thousands Attend Waltham Meet to See First Contest Between Crackerjacks.

Waltham, Mass., June 1.—There was an attendance of about 8000 people at the fifth annual meeting of the Associated Cycling clubs, held at the Waltham bicycle track yesterday, and this number would have been largely increased had the weather conditions been more favorable. The track itself was in fair condition. The greatest interest centered in the professional events in which Cooper, Bald and Kiser took part. In the 1-mile professional, Bald and Cooper were brought together for the first time. This was a very pretty race, but Bald crossed the line first in the final heat.

In the New England interscholastic championship races there was excellent riding in the trial heats, but the final was first called off, and later run over, and a time limit of 2:30 placed on it. The time was 2:34, and was allowed to stand, and Hopkinson wins the championship.

After the regular races exhibition riding was done by Bald, Cooper and Porter. All of the pacing was done by members of the Eagle Cycle club. Bald rode an exhibition mile in 1:51 3-5; Cooper a half in 55 1-5, nad Porter two-thirds in 1:15 3-5. Throughout the afternoon an ambulance corps, from the militia, was in attendance in case their services were needed.

IN HER RIGHT MIND.

Mildred Brewster Recovering From Bullet Wound—Miss Wheeler Buried.

Montpelier, Vt., June 1. — Mildred Brewster, who shot Annie Wheeler and herself Friday, still continues to improve, and barring inflammation in the wound will probably recover, although she is very anxious to die. She is in her right mind, but refuses to talk, except to answer questions in monosyllables and ask her father occasional questions. She pleaded with her father to get the revolver and let her finish the work of self destruction. She told her father that Jack Wheeler must not be blamed, as the fault was entirely her's, and that he did not in any way cause her to commit the crime. She also asked her father to go to the house where she boarded and get several letters, which were left there, one of which, she said, was addressed to Jack Wheeler. Mr. Brewster went there, but failed to find the letters, and it is believed that some person has stolen them.

Doctors performed an autopsy on the body of Annie Wheeler under the direction of State Attorney Howland.

The funeral of Annie Wheeler yesterday afternoon was attended by an immense crowd. Rev. J. Edward Wright officiated, and John Wheeler was present, and during the services appeared almost hysterical with grief.

Miss Brewster is closely watched by the nurses of the hospital lest she should attempt to destroy herself. Her aged father sits constantly by her bedside and refuses to eat or sleep. His health is critical, and he declares that he cannot stand the strain much longer.

Watching Irishmen.

New Haven, June 1.—The Leader publishes a long story to the effect that the British government has recently had at work in this city a corps of detectives, whose business it was to ascertain whether or not a movement was on foot looking toward the organization of another Irish movement. These detectives were in the city several days in various guises, The Leader states, and maintained an espionage over everyone and everything connected with the "Catalpa Jim" Reynolds banquet of May 17.

Memorial Day at Sudbury.

Sudbury, Mass., June 1.—The new soldiers' monument presented to the town by Hon. Homer Rogers was dedicated yesterday with appropriate services. The monument was formally turned over to the town by the donor and accepted by Rufus F. Hurlbure, one of the selectmen. Hon. John L. Bates, speaker of the Massachusetts house, delivered an eloquent oration. The exercises were participated in by G. A. R. posts from Maryland, Hudson and Framingham.

Boston's New Postmaster.

Boston, June 1.—Postmaster Henry A. Thomas took formal possession of the Boston postoffice last evening. After the required technicalities were attended to and receipts signed the new postmaster was the recipient of congratulations from Acting Postmaster Burnett, the heads of the various deparments, superintendents of the sub-stations, and many others, who called for the purpose of greeting the new postmaster.

Seventh Goes Home.

Boston, June 1.—The Seventh regiment, N. G. N. Y., left Boston last evening in a blaze of glory, and amid the inspiring strains of its band. The men had enjoyed their visit greatly, and they were all enthusiastic in regard to Boston and Bostonians. The regiment was taken to Providence by train, and from Providence to New York by boat.

INDIAN WAR SCARE.

Report of Massacre In Montana Is Not Confirmed by Late Reports.

Helena, Mon., June 1.—Reports of the killing of several men by the Cheyenne Indians at Lame Deer agency are not verified. It is not believed that anyone was killed, except a sheep herder named Hoover, whose murder some time ago causd the statement. Settlers and cowboys determined to avenge his death and give the Cheyennes an object lesson, to deter them from similar acts in the future. They sent all the women and children to places of safety, armed themselves and congregated near the agency, and demanded the surrender of the Indians accused of murdering Hoover. The Indians armed themselves and make threatening demonstrations against the whites, but no battle has been fought nor massacre begun, so far as is known. Six companies of United States troops are at the agency of the Indians, who declare that they do not want to fight the soldiers, but are anxious to have a brush with the white settlers and cowboys. There is a conflict of authority between Indian Agent Captain Stouch and the sheriff of Custer county. The sheriff's deputies were ordered off the reservation by the agents. They returned to Miles City and got a warrant for the arrest of the agent for interfering with the officers, and started back to arrest him. Lame Deer is 60 miles from a telegraph office, and the result of their expedition is not known.

The trouble is due to the charges of the settlers that the Indians kill their cattle, and counter charges of the Indians that the settlers continue to intrude on the reservation. Governor Smith wired President McKinley yesterday protesting against the action of Captain Stouch, and asked that he be directed not to interfere with civil orders. Stouch says he can, and will, arrest the murderers as soon as the excitement dies out.

Mark Twain Reported Dying.

New York, June 1.—The sad news comes from London that Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) is seriously sick, and possibly dying. Worse still, we are told that his brilliant intellect is shattered, and that he is sorely in need of money. Bravely and sturdily he fought up to the last, endeavoring to regain some portion of his lost fortune, and now it seems that his indomitable energy has left him, and that we are not likely again to hear any of those flashes of genius which long ago showed Mark Twain as the greatest living American humorist.

"Good Indians."

Winnepeg, June 1.—Almighty Voice and the two Indian murderers, who have been holding Belleview Bluff, near Duck Lake, for the past two days, against the mounted police, were killed Sunday. A rush was made on the bluff about 3 o'clock and an Indian was slain. It was found that Almighty Voice and another Indian had been killed by the shells fired earlier in the day. The rebellious Indians have been brought in. The father of Almighty Voice is under arrest here as an accomplice. No further trouble is anticipated.

Died of Appendicitis.

New York, June 1.—A special to The Journal and Advertiser from Jacksonville, Fla., says: The famous filibustering tug Dauntless was captured yesterday morning by the United States steamer Marblehead after an exciting chase near Miami, Fla., just as she was about to start with another batch of recruits and cargo of arms and ammunition for the insurgents.

HOUSE TAKES RECESS.

Republicans Did Not Wish to Work on Decoration Day.

Democrats Tried to Enforce Bi-Weekly Rule.

Immediate Appropriation Must Be Made For Public Printing Office.

Washington, June 1.—The attendance at the house session, both on the floor and in the galleries, was good. The Republicans desired to take a recess on account of Memorial day, but the Democrats objected. The latter attempted to hold the house to the bi-weekly rule.

When the journal was read Mr. Lewis (Dem., Wash.) protested against its approval, saying that there was "no constitutional house that can legally approve the journal, and if there was it could not be approved in the manner and form adopted," and gave notice that he merely filed his protest to act upon it in the near future as might seem best.

Then Mr. Cannon (Rep., Ills.) asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution to make immediately available funds for the work of the government printing office, which had been provided for in the general deficiency bill. The appropriations for the printing office were exhausted, he said, and the work there must be stopped unless some provision for it was taken.

"Does the gentleman think this a proper way to legislate?" Mr. Richardson of Tennessee asked.

Mr. Cannon explained that the house had done its duty when it passed the deficiency bill some time ago, and that the fault was the senate's.

The discussion was vetoed by Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.), who said he must object to legislation, as he understood it was the plan to take a recess in honor of the dead.

Speaker Reed presented a letter from Mr. McLaurin (Dem., S. C.) announcing his resignation, to take the seat in the senate, to which he had been appointed by the governor, and the announcement was applauded by Mr. McLaurin's friends.

Then the motion of Mr. Dingley for a recess until today was carried, with a few dissenting votes on the Democratic side.

Effort to Amend Sugar Resolution.

Washington, June 1.—There will be an effort on the part of some senators to have the senate committee on contingent expenses amend the Tillman resolution for an investigation of the charges that senators have been speculating in sugar stock so as to have the inquiry made by a standing committee rather than by a special committee, as provided for in the resolution. Objection is made on the part of some of the Republican senators to having the chairmanship of the committee go to a Democrat, as it would, if the author of the resolution should be given this post. While this parliamentary precedent is not always in the senate, the resolution under which the inquiry of 1894 was conducted was introduced by Senator Lodge, though the original resolution leading up to the investigation was presented by Senator Peffer. Senator Peffer was not given a place on the committee, and Senator Lodge was given a place next to the last. It is suggested by those who object to a special committee that the investigations should be made either by the committee on privileges and elections or the committee on judiciary.

Alger Has No Information.

West Point, N. Y., June 1.—Secretary of War Alger, when asked by a representative of the press about the Indian outbreak in Montana, said that he had no information whatever in regard to the matter. He has received no official news of the Indian outbreak.

Phil Daly Has Heart Disease.

New York, June 1.—A special to The Journal and Advertiser from Long Branch says: Phil Daly, Sr., proprietor of the Pennsylvania clubhouse, was taken dangerously ill late Sunday night at his private residence, Brookside villa. Mr. Daly had been out driving during the day and was apparently enjoying his usual health. He retired early, and was missed from his bedchamber at 1:30 a. m. Search revealed Mr. Daly in the bath room, gasping for breath and partially unconscious. He had evidently been taken ill and gone to the bath room, when the attack became serious and prostrated him. The family physician was hurriedly summoned, and Mr. Daly was put to bed, it being found that he was suffering with acute cardiac failure and odema of the lungs. The patient for several hours was in a very precarious condition and his life was despaired of. Physicians from New York were summoned and a consultation will be held today.

Denunciation of Our Senate.

London, June 1.—At the annual meeting of the International Arbitration and Peace association of London, held here yesterday, Moncure D. Conway, minister of the South Place Ethical society, denounced the United States senate for its rejection of the arbitration treaty, and characterized it as "a rotten borough body" and "an anti-Republican relic." He said the United States would become a happy nation when that non-representative body was finally swept away. All the speakers expressed their regret at the action of the senate.

M. D.s Convene at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 1.—The annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges opened here yesterday with an address by the president, Dr. J. M. Godine of Louisville. The object of the association is the creation of a high standard for admission to all the medi-colleges of the country, and it aims to counteract the influence of the institutions that give a diploma without proper study. At about the same hour the American academy of medicine began its 22nd annual meeting in the Continental hotel.

Republican League Meets July 13.

Cincinnati, June 1.—President D. D. Woodmansee and Secretary M. J. Dowling have issued a call for the tenth annual convention of the National Republican league at Detroit, July 13. Each state and territorial league is entitled to four delegates from each congressional district, and six delegates at large.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Progress Made by Senate on Tariff Bill Is Phenomenal.

Sugar Schedule Will Come Up This Week.

Senate Adjourned Over Decoration Day---Forecast of Both Houses.

Washington, May 31.—The senate has made a record on tariff debates. As much has been accomplished in one week as was done in thrice that length of time on the Wilson bill. It is expected that the sugar schedule will be reached the latter part of this week.

The Republicans generally concede that good progress has been made, but they are not inclined to felicitate themselves too much until they see what policy is to be pursued when questions of more general interest are reached than have yet been broached.

The sugar schedule in all probability will excite more prolonged and animated debate than any other in the bill. The Democrats are making very extensive preparations for the discussion of this schedule, and several set speeches will be made upon it. The indications are that various other questions of general interest will be considered in connection with the sugar duty. Senator Pettigrew is contemplating presenting his amendment against trusts in this connection, and it is certain that the Hawaiian question will come to the front in an amendment providing for the continuance of the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian islands. With reference to the Hawaiian treaty there is no longer much room for doubt that provision will be made to continue the present treaty in effect. It is probable that this will be done by a direct declaration that nothing in the bill shall be construed as abrogating the treaty. The Republican members of the committee are contemplating this change. If Senator Pettigrew insists upon offering the trust amendment to this schedule he will precipitate one of the most interesting debates of the session.

The Republicans are not yet decided whether they will caucus on the sugar schedule, but there is more or less talk to this effect. There are two schedules to be considered after the conclusion of that under present discussion before the sugar schedule can be reached.

These are the metal and wood schedules. The metal schedule is not especially objectionable to the Democrats, containing as it does many of the Wilson law rates, but it is more or less complicated and will necessarily consume time. The wood schedule will develop no little antagonism on account of the duty on lumber. There will be a determined effort to restore white pine to the free list.

The Tillman resolution for a sugar investigation probably will be reported to the senate tomorrow. It will be passed without difficulty when taken up, according to the present outlook, but Senator Tillman will find opportunity to make another speech if there is any apparent effort at delay. The senate is not in session today, adjourning on account of the death of Speaker Reed.

The House Forecast.

Washington, May 31.—The attempt to embarrass Speaker Reed for the program of inaction pursued by the majority has become the settled policy of Representative Simpson and other members of the minority, and the sessions of the house this week will witness a continuation of these tactics. The conference reports on the sundry civil and Indian appropriation bills are ready for consideration, and this week the leaders would like to dispose of them. But the difficulty now is that many of the members have gone home, and at present there is no quorum in the city. This will interfere with the desire of the leaders to recess until tomorrow, when the house meets today and an adjournment until Thursday will follow. On that day after a quorum is present the house will proceed with these two conference reports and also the bill carrying a special appropriation for the government printing office.

Durrant Will Hang on June 11.

Sacramento, May 31.—Theodore Durrant will hang on June 11, one week from next Friday. Governor Budd last evening telephoned that much in effect to Warden Hale of San Quentin, at the same time ordering the death watch placed upon the prisoner. Immediately after telephoning this message to Warden Hale, the governor was driven, in a closed carriage, to the depot, where he took the train for San Francisco. Notwithstanding the fact that the governor has made known his decision, and that the telephone message has leaked out, the same secrecy is being maintained regarding the statement which the governor has prepared, and this statement will not be given out until this afternoon.

Minors In Postal Service.

Washington, May 31.—The policy of the postoffice department as to the appointment of minors in the postoffices has been definitely fixed, and they will be debarred from chief clerkships and deputy postmasterships except a few of the third-class offices, where circumstances urges their peculiar fitness. Even then they will not be allowed to become acting postmasters, on account of the legal declaration that contracts made by minors are void. This effectually bars them from being even temporarily postmasters, so far as the assumption of the real responsibilities of that office is concerned.

Bad Boys.

Manchester, N. H., May 31.—Two boys broke into a contractor's shanty, in the neighboring town of Bedford, yesterday, stole a keg of powder, buried it, attached a fuse, ignited it and ran away. The explosion aroused the whole town, and farmers ran from their dwellings in fright. Neighbors apprehended the boys, but one of them presented a revolver, and the captors were scared and let them get away.

DR. GRIFFIN LOCATED.

Missing New York "Promoter" Sought Seclusion In Pittsburg.

New York, May 31.—A special to The Press from Pittsburg says:

Dr. G. Hamilton Griffin, the Wall street promoter of many companies, for whom many persons have been looking everywhere recently, has been discovered at 177 Wylie avenue, in this city, where he is living with his wife and 4-months-old son, under the name of Jean Baptiste Le Blanc. He has been here since April 27, and has not been out of the house since May 28, when New York papers published his picture and record. He was recognized by this picture, and the fact that he wrote a prescription which was filled at the drug store. This prescription was written on a note head, on which was engraved a crest, which crest was also printed on his cards.

A press representative called on the doctor and asked him if he were not the man so many creditors were hunting. He admitted he was Dr. Griffin, but said all the companies he was interested in were legitimate business concerns, and that he had not been guilty of any wrong.

His wife then visited the local newspaper offices and pleaded with the editors to keep out of print the news that the doctor was in town. She said that her husband had been sick and in trouble, and it would be an act of mercy to keep his identity secret. She wept, and admited that about one-firth of the charges against her husband were true, but said he was not as bad a man as he was painted.

The doctor ordered diamonds worth $900 since he came to this city, but has been living at a retired and quite boarding house. He was also anxious to keep his identity from becoming public, but the police were informed, and they have sent out notice to New York and San Francisco that he is in the city and being watched, and will be arrested if wanted.

Griffin said he did not fear to face his accusers, and he could prove that all his business transactions were honest. He promoted companies capitalized at many millions.

FATHER THINKS HER INSANE.

Miss Brewster, the Montpelier Homicide, May Recover.

Montpelier, Vt., May 31.—It now seems possible that Mildred Brewster, who killed Annie Wheeler because of jealousy, may recover, though she has a 32-calibre bullet in her brain. Drs. Chandler and McGuire tried to remove the bullet, but failed to find it. Miss Brewster, however, has grown stronger and regained consciousness.

She was asked Dr. Chandler if she remembered what she did, and she replied "yes, and inquired if Annie Wheeler was alive. When told she was not, she closed her eyes, but said nothing. The doctor asked her if she still wanted to die, and she said she did. The hospital authorities allow no one but the doctors and her father to see her.

Wesley Brewster, her father, is much distressed over the affair, and hopes his daughter will die, as the disgrace would be less than if she lived. He believes his daughter was insane or she would never have shot Miss Wheeler. He said Mildred was always strong willed and impatient under restraint. Annie Wheeler's funeral will take place this afternoon.

MANHATTAN BANK ROBBERY.

Thieves Offer to Return Securities Stolen Nineteen Years Ago for $50.000.

New York, May 31.—Nineteen years ago the country was startled by the report of the biggest bank burglary known in the history of the world. It occurred Sunday, Oct. 27, 1878. The Manhattan Savings institution of this city was robbed of securities valued at $2,747,700, and $11,000 in cash.

With the exception of a few of the bonds offered for sale some time ago none of the securities have been recovered. It was believed that they had been buried or destroyed.

That the securities are still in existence is known here. A short time ago negotiations were opened between men said to represent the burglars and President Joseph Bird of the Manhattan Savings institution for their return.

The burglars have made a demand for $50,000, and no questions to be asked, with the understanding that the securities are to he handed over in good shape, and that immediately upon their delivery the money shall be paid in cash.

President Bird, who, at the time of the robbery, was paying teller of the Manhattan Savings institution, says that $50,000 had been asked for the return of the bonds, and although the bank officials would like to get them back, he declared they would not pay that amount. Many of the securties are worthless today.

Convicts Uncontrollable.

San Francisco, May 31.—The riotous convicts in the San Quentin penitentiary caused no serious trouble yesterday, but they are still defiant and vaguely threaten that they will yet compel the authorities to yield to their demands. During the religious exercises some of the convicts not implicated in the strike, but sympathizing with the leaders, pelted the doors of the dungeons where the men on short rations are confined with potatoes and pieces of bread, and in this way managed to give them considerable food before the very eyes of the keepers. The shouting and hammering on the doors was continued all day, but those who approached within hearing distance were greeted with the vilest curses. The men declare that they will never submit to discipline again, and prison officials are fully aware that it will be a difficult task to restore tranquility. Warden Hale declares that there is no foundation for the complaints regarding the quality of food served. He thinks this charge is merely a pretext for the convicts refusing to work in the jute mills, and positively declares that having quelled the first outbreaks he is now master of the situation.

Assaulted and Robbed His Father.

Stoughton, Mass., May 31.—Charles Eugene Coombs, 24 years of age, was arrested last night charged with assaulting and robbing his father, Joseph Coombs, on the highway at West Stoughton, Saturday night. It is alleged that he jumped upon his father, put his feet on the old man's neck, tore his clothes and robbed him of $47 in money. Joseph Coombs is about 60 years old, and his condition is regarded as critical. When young Coombs was arrested he was about to take a train for Boston, and all the money was found on his person.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. XII.

The editors and their ladies, to the number of three hundred or more, arrived in the city of Mexico on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 25, about dusk, and were received very cordially at the station by the representatives of the newspapers in that city. A very eloquent address from Manuel San Juan welcomed us to the old city; responses being made by President Holtman, ex-President Thomas and Secretary Page.

After the speeches the excursionists scattered; some for a supper, others for hotel accommodations, but many went to the central post office, in hopes of getting news from home; and some were delighted to find both papers and letters.

After getting our mail we went to a restaurant kept by an American named Wise, and found a well cooked supper. When the evening meal was finished it was between 9 and 10 o'clock and many of us, who were to sleep in our Wagner coaches, thought it about time to return to the railroad station. When we arrived we found the gates closed but soon aroused the keeper and got in. The depots are surrounded by fences so that thieves and tramps can find no lodging therein. On our way to the depot we were surprised to find men and women setting on steps in front of buildings which were closed for the night, and were told that thousands who had no place to lay their heads slept on the steps of buildings every night. It is certainly not a very soft comfortable place to stop; especially for those who are thinly clad; for we found the first night we were in the city, an overcoat was not uncomfortable. It being the dry season there was no danger of rain or moisture to injure the sleeper, but usually he or she had no overhead protection, as there were but one or two low steps; and the doorways were nearly flush with the sidewalk. But there we found them, as many women as men, enjoying their night's rest unmolested. There appeared to be good police protection. An officer was stationed at the corner of every street, which were but a few rods apart. Instead of walking about he was located at that spot, and always has a lantern, so that he could be easily found.

The next morning our party met at central plaza, on which faces the National Palace and the great cathedral. From this plaza, street cars run in nearly every direction. We were first shown through La Catedra, which Campbell calls "the most ambitious church building in the Western world." It is built upon the site of the great temple of the Aztecs, which was destroyed by Cortez soon after his capture of the city. The first church was built in 1523. The corner stone of the present cathedral was laid in 1573, the walls were completed in 1615 and the roof in 1623; the first mass was said in it in 1626 and the dedication was in 1667. The towers alone cost $190,000 and were completed in 1791. The entire cost of the cathedral was over $2,000,000. The building is 387 feet in length and 177 feet in width. The great bell is 19 feet high. The dome, the chapels and the altars are gorgeously adorned with carving, gilding, fluted columns, etc. And yet the decorations go on, and as we passed through, artists were at work on high scaffolding in one of the chapels. From another came the melody of youthful voices in the morning service. There are many fine paintings, by Murillo, Cortena and other noted artists. Yet with all this grandeur it is but one of seventy-seven church edifices in the city.

On leaving the cathedral a long string of cars was waiting to take us to Guadalupe; to which place we were escorted by the president of the road and the press committee. It is one of the suburbs of the city, has about 5,000 population, and the cathedral there is considered the finest in Mexico.

We were told that the ground about Guadalupe had long been considered holy, not only in the eyes of modern Christians, but also in the eyes of the Aztecs who lived in the valley of Mexico long before the conquest of the country by the Spaniards. Here the Aztecs offered up horrible human sacrifices.

A pretty little legend connected with this place says it was shortly after the destruction of the power of the Aztec divinity that the Virgin is said to have appeared to an Indian from the hills and bade him see that a temple be erected to her honor on the place where now stands the little church; how he was met by unbelief and only convinced the bishop of the character of his visitation when he brought to him his tilma (blanket) filled with flowers, which had sprung into existence from a rock, and exhibited the tilma, which bore a miraculous picture of the Virgin. At last convinced, the bishop yielded and the humble Indian laid nearly four centuries ago the foundation of one of the grandest places of worship ever erected by man. As an illustration of the lavish character of its ornamentation, it is sufficient to state that the altar railing is of solid silver and weighs twenty-six tons.

The wonderful part of the legend is the original tilma, which is seen encased in frame of gold over the altar; it retains all its colors bright and fresh, while other old pictures near it are faded and worn. Artists have examined it and decided that the picture upon it is not painted and they have no knowledge of how the colors are put on. The tilma is a coarse textile fabric made from the fibre of the cactus; and the image of the Virgin upon it differs from others by having the halo around the entire figure instead of only the head. A fund of some thousands of dollars was collected to provide a crown of gold for the mysterious image on the tilma, and in October, 1895, was with great ceremony placed over the picture. It cost $35,000 to make the crown and the wealth of precious stones worked into the crown is said to run into the millions.

Each year, thousands of Indians, native and visitors come to Guadalupe Dec. 12th—the great feast day—commemorating the day the Indian placed the flowers at the bishop's feet. Street venders of pottery, rosaries, etc., abound in the street near the cathedral, and the pottery bears something on it relating to the pretty legend or the cathedral.

While returning to the city we noticed handsome stone arches along the line of the steam railroad—the Mexican National—an elaborate ornamentation surmounting each. We were told they were shrines, and one would be found every mile for a distance of twelve miles into the interior. They are on what formerly was the highway, and natives on their way to "Ma-heco, la capitale," paused at these shrines to worship. These are found all through Mexico. That country formerly was church and priest ridden, but today it is different. While a great majority are Catholics yet all denominations are accorded privileges alike—the same as in the United States. The government confiscated all the nunneries, etc., sold them and turned the money back into the church treasury—to show its independence in religious as well as secular affairs.

When we arrived in the city it was time to go to the hotel for our dinner. There was considerable to be seen and done in the afternoon. President Diaz was to give us a reception; the national museum and other places visited; but we shall be obliged to leave the particulars of the afternoon for our next letter. G. W. P.

Old Colony Resorts.

The publications of the passenger department of the Old Colony system of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad afford all needed information regarding the summer resorts reached and served by this system. They are in pamphlet form and designed to be carried in the pocket or hand bag without inconvenience to the possessor. For the present season their titles are as follows: "Manual of Old Colony Summer Resorts," "Along the South Shore," "Plymouth as a Summer Resort," "Quaint Cape Cod and Its Summer Delights," "Martha's Vineyard," "Nantucket," "Handbook of Newport," "A sketch of Narragansett Pier." All or any of these handbooks may be obtained by application to the passenger department of the Old Colony system, Park Square station, Boston, or they will be sent to any address upon receipt of stamps for postage, 4 cents for "Quaint Cape Cod," 1 cent for "Narragansett Pier," and 2 cents each for all others named in list as above.

Zeigler Sets a New Mark.

San Jose, Cal., May 31.—The first Sunday meet, under the auspices of the California Associated Cycling clubs, yesterday afternoon was a success as regards the races, but the attendance was only fair. One world's record, two-thirds of a mile handicap, fell to Otto Zeigler, he making the distance in 1:20. C. R. Coulter had held the record since last year, when he made it at Denver in 1:21 2-5.

Nine Killed at Pisa.

Pisa, Italy, May 31—The official report of the disaster at the cathedral Saturday, upon the occasion of the unveiling of an image of the virgin, when a candle fell, setting fire to the building and causing a panic, shows that nine were killed and 21 others seriously injured. Most of the victims are women and all of them residents of Pisa.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register.

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sallow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is more than skin deep. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is not a thing by itself, and skin diseases are frequently not skin diseases at all. All the lotions and bleaches and creams and powders in the world won't make a good complexion if the digestion is wrong. If the stomach is sour, and the liver torpid, and the bowels constipated, the skin will show it. No use trying to treat the skin for such a condition. The only way to relieve it is to cleanse the system and purify the blood. As long as the heart is pumping impurities to every part of the body, just so long these impurities will show through the skin.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it makes the whole body healthy—because it clears and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkles and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It isn't a miracle. It is merely the result of a combination of rational, natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp, simply because all these diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered digestion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure you, if suffering from diseases named above.

If you want to know hundreds of great medical truths, send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and we will send you FREE a copy of Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser." Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. —Another evidence of the growth of the protective sentiment in the South is found in the presence at Washington this week of a delegation from several of the Southern States urging that the protective clause of the Dingley bill on rice be maintained, and the lower rates named by the amendment of the Senate Committee rejected.

Tubular Rivet Nine Administer Whitewash in Quincy Game.

The T. R. & S. nine showed in their opening game at Wollaston park on Saturday that they have the make up of a strong team, although it was a very one-sided game. They fielded finely and batted heavily, while their battery was very effective, as nine of the Revere Unions struck out. Kelley of the visitors put up a fine game. The full score:

Another Victory.

Again on Memorial Day at the New Downer Landing, the T. R. & S. nine were victorious, defeating the South Boston Red in a well played game of five innings. Again the battery of the home team was a feature, while Camerson of the Reds did fine fielding.

National League.

At Boston—

Rain prevented the Boston-St. Louis morning game yesterday, and in the afternoon game the slippery grounds made good fielding impossible. The St. Louis presented a crippled team, Houseman being sick and Hartman laid off with a sprained ankle. The Bostons batted terifically, and the playing of Lowe and Collins were features.

My Sunday At Home

By RUDYARD KIPLING

This is one of a series of original and copyrighted stories which will soon be published in this paper.

You know Kipling.

You know his reputation.

You know what kind of stories he writes.

What more need be said?

High class original fiction is expensive. But we regard it none too good for our readers.

—Myron L. Fuller, son of A. H. Fuller, publisher of the Brockton Enterprise, won the first prize of $100 offered by the Natural History Society of Boston for the best paper of the year by students.

A BICYCLE TOUR

Three gentlemen for a European tour purchased new hundred dollar bicycles. One a Columbia—the others of well-known high-grade manufacture. They had an agreeable trip—particularly the Columbia rider. Before returning to America, it being late in the year—and wishing to buy new machines in 1897—they sold their wheels to a London dealer. The Columbia bicycle brought $65.00. The others $40.00 and $35.00 respectively. But one of the many proofs of Columbia superiority. If you look a year ahead there is wise economy in

GAMBLER'S DUAL LIFE.

"Colonel" Blanchard and "Big Bill Leggett" Were Same Person.

Romantic Story of Man Who Was Well Known In New England.

Boston, June 2.—The affairs of William L. Blanchard, known in Boston, Portland and New York as Colonel Blanchard, the gambler and faro man, and in South Braintree, as "Big Bill Leggett," the shovel welder in the Ames foundry many years ago, will be settled by Referee Rastus H. Ranson in New York today, and his estate will go to his brother, Thomas Leggett, who is also known in Boston and has relatives in South Braintree, but who up to the time of his good fortune pushed a cart around the streets of New York as a collector of old rags.

Blanchard died about a year ago at Oceanic, N. Y., leaving an estate of between $70,000 and $80,000, but it was only last February that Lawyer George A. Smith succeeded in finding the heirs. The dead gambler left no will, but he provided for a number of people in such a way that they received large sums of money as soon as his death was announced. Among these were several friends of Blanchard living in the vicinity of Boston, one of them a woman living a few miles out in the suburbs, whom Blanchard at one time wanted to marry, but who threw him off when she learned he was a gambler.

He was a most remarkable man. He was known in Boston by all the old sports and gamblers as William L. Blanchard, and was usually referred to as the colonel. When he died he was 87 years old. In South Braintree, where the "colonel" was an occasional visitor, people greeted him as "Big Bill Leggett." It was while in South Braintree, in 1861, that he joined company C of the Fourth Massachusetts infantry and went to the front as a three-months' man. He never lived there again, but he visited his friends often and they welcomed him as a successful business man, member of the New York Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, 33rd degree Mason and hail fellow well met. They did not know he was Colonel Blanchard, the gambler, and that the money he displayed so lavishly was earned at night much of it from wealthy men whom he met at their summer homes and fashionable clubs, and with whom he would not play cards until they coaxed him and apparently shamed him into it.

Then Blanchard would play. He always entered the game when the pot was largest, and when he had won everything in sight invariably received a telegram from somewhere which made it necessary for him to depart on urgent business. He made thousands of dollars in this way, and those from whom he won never suspected that he was anything more than he pretended to be—a wealthy man, who played for the fun there was in it.

Blanchard was a splendid looking man of striking personality, 6 feet 5 inches in height, weighing about 250 pounds. He dressed plainly, but with the best the tailor could give him. He was proud of his appearance, his physique and manners, and he took every precaution to keep from the public, and even some of his most intimate friends, his real character and business.

This is the only reason known for his change of name. He tried to make people believe that he was the scapegoat of an aristocratic family, and, while his brother was pushing a ragman's cart through the streets of New York, Blanchard told his friends stories about a sister who married, he said, a millionaire, living on Fifth avenue, New York. She would not recognize him, her scapegoat brother, he was wont to remark.

His was a double life such as we read about in novels, and when death came to him at Oceanic, where he had gone to get over the effects of a long debauch, the plot had developed to such a point that it seemed it would require a Dickens to unravel it. This work, however, fell to Lawyer George A. Smythe of Boston, and yesterday he saw the end of his labors, matters having been straightened out so that the property will come into the possession of its legal owners.

COW WAS TUBERCULOUS.

Three Children Dead and Three Dying In One Family From Consumption.

Bangor, Me., June 2.—Dr. G. H. Bailey, state veterinarian, has returned from a visit to Bluehill and other towns in Hancock county, after investigating a case of tuberculosis and its resultant effects in the family of Luther Bridges.

Bridges has had a cow four years, and his family and nine children, all under 17 years of age, with one exception, have used the milk, and while heretofore they have been quite well they have always been emaciated and poorly nourished. Five of them have recently had tubercular pneumonia, and three died in as many days, and three others lie at the point of death now.

The cow was killed, and Dr. Bailey states that the animal had the worst case of tuberculosis that has ever come to his notice. The little girl, the only child having an aversion to milk and not drinking any, is strong and appears to enjoy the best of health.

No Demand For Wool.

Boston, June 2.—The demand for wool in the market here this week has been almost nothing, and this dullness in the market has tended to weaken the holders of the raw material, and if a buyer was disposed to operate he could get lower prices on nearly any kind of domestic, as well as most kinds of foreign wools. Domestic and territory wools are largely nominal in price for all kinds. Australian wools are meeting with some spot call, and are being taken to some extent on delivery of former sales.

Michael and McDuffie Matched.

Boston, June 2.—D. C. Shafer, for Jimmy Michael and Eddie McDuffee, has signed articles for a 15-mile match race, with standing start, to be run at Charles River park on June 17. The purse will be $1000, with a side bet of $250. It is stipulated that each party shall furnish his own pacemakers, and pacemaking machines, the number of which is to be unlimited. It is agreed that each man is to follow his own pacemakers, making no effort to take the pace away from his opponent, although it will be allowable for either contestant to drop his own pacemakers and take pace from the rear wheel of his contestant, in the event that he so wishes.

An Interesting Wedding.

Hartford, June 2.—An interesting wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hoadley, the bride being the mother of Mrs. Hoadley and widow of A. A. Lufkin of Walnut Hill, Me. She is 77 years of age. The bridegroom is T. D. Lufkin of Sacramento, Cal., brother of the deceased husband. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Raney of the Park church. The bridal couple will spend their summers in Maine and their winters in Sacramento. They will spend the honeymoon in the Pine Tree State, going there from this city. The bridegroom is 79 years of age.

Company's 94th Anniversary.

Worcester, Mass., June 2.—The Worcester Light Infantry, company C, Second regiment, M. V. M., celebrated its 94th anniversary yesterday afternoon and evening by a street parade and a banquet. An incident of the evening was the presentation to the company of a small fragment of the flag, carried by the Twenty-second Cheshire regiment at the storming of Quebec, Sept. 13, 1759. This came into the posession of James Logan on a recent visit to England, and he made the presentation.

Maine Savings Banks Assessed.

Augusta, Me., June 2.—The state assessors completed the assessment of taxes on savings banks doing business in Maine, one of the most important incomes which the state has at this period of the year. The total is $190,202.07 for the six months preceding April 30, against $190,054.90 for the period preceding that. The Portland Savings bank pays the largest tax, $25,893; Augusta, $22,357. The several express companies taxes amount to $4,981.97, an increase of $183 over 1896.

Opening of Eastern Circuit.

Hyde Park, Mass., June 2.—The Eastern grand circuit opened yesterday at the Readville track with two good races. The weather was good, and the track in fair condition in spite of the rain Monday. The slow trot went to Lon McDonald's Architect, but not until Volante had won two heats. A. S. L., after bringing up the rear in the first two heats of the 2.24 pace, took the three last heats and the race in handy fashion.

No Evidence Against Defendants.

Roxbury, Conn., June 2.—The hearing in the cases of John Gaffeney and his two sons, Peter and James Gaffeney, and Thomas Dooley, on the charge of murdering Mrs. John Gaffeney at Judd's bridge, May 16, was concluded yesterday afternoon, and the men were discharged. The opinion of Justices Prindle and Gillette was that the evidence was not sufficient to hold the men for the superior court.

Pine Tree Homeopathic Society.

Waterville, Me., June 2.—The 31st annual meeting of the Maine Homeopathic Medical society was held here yesterday. The following officers were elected: President, W. Scott Hill, Augusta; vice presidents, N. D. Williams, Augusta; M. D. Holmes, Oakland; recording secretary, C. M. Johnson, Skowhegan; corresponding secretary, B. D. Spencer, Union; treasurer, W. M. Pulsifer, Waterville.

Well-Known Maine Man Dead.

Biddeford, Me., June 2.—John M. Goodwin, aged 87, for many years a business man here and in the town of Dayton, died yesterday. He had been postmaster of Biddeford and was a representative from the town of Hollis to the state legislature in 1850. He had been an assessor and deputy sheriff. A son, Octave Goodwin of Philadelphia, survives him.

Duse's Paris Debut a Success.

Paris, June 2.—Mme. Elleonora Duse made her debut in Paris last night at the Theatre de la Renaissance in an Italian version of Alexandre Dumas' "La Dame aux Camelias." The house was crowded and Mme. Duse's impersonation was a brilliant success. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt led the applause from a proscenium box.

The Bostons took both games yesterday with ridiculous ease, St. Louis playing lifeless ball. The visitor's pitchers were almost batted at will, and a number of the home team had an opportunity to fatten their batting averages. Sullivan made his first appearance for some weeks and did well.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The mill tax for schools comes up in the Senate today.

The Littles defeated the Hogan Alleys at base ball yesterday 10 to 2.

Mrs. Geo. A. Sidelinger and son Roy are at West Medway for a few days.

It was Rev. Ira Price of Atlantic who made the address at the Francis L. Souther lot on Memorial day.

The ice cream sale of the Dorcas society advertised for tomorrow night, June 3, has been indfinitely postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Nahum Cobb of Weymouth will celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage next Monday.

At a meeting of Christ's church parish held Tuesday evening the matter of enlarging the church was referred to the board of vestry.

Nine young ladies have purchased tickets for Sweden through Carlson's agency and will sail on the Gallia on Saturday for Liverpool.

An attempt will be made today to reconsider the action of the Senate yesterday, which refused by a vote of 14 to 18 to order the Quincy & Fall River Bicycle railroad bill to a third reading.

The game of ball between nines composed of employes of the West End and Quincy & Boston street railways will be played Tuesday on Town field, Dorchester, at 2 o'clock. Ring up the fares, boys.

Co. K will be inspected by Lieut. Col. J. H. Whitney on Friday evening. Every member must be present; no excuses will be recognized. Examinations will be held in guard mounting and general orders.

Edward L. Heain of South Framingham, State deputy of the Knights of Columbus, visited Quincy council last evening. While in the city Mr. Hearn was the guest of Mr. Brainard T. Dyer of the Granite shoe store.

When the street railway was built through North Weymouth the company ran short of rails and were obliged to put in a light rail for a short section. This is now being taken up and replaced with a heavy T rail.

It is some time since Bethany church has been the scene of a grand wedding, but the Crane-Sargent wedding this evening is likely to be followed by others at an early date. The church has been prettily decorated today for the occasion.

At the regular meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club held Tuesday evening it was decided to sail off the unfinished race of Monday on Saturday, June 5, start at 2 15. Three new members were admitted to the club and a club uniform was adopted.

N. G. Nickerson, real estate, reports the sale of lot containing 10,875 square feet fronting on Grand View to Chas. W. Jones; and lot containing 6,000 square feet at the corner of Prospect avenue and Marion street to B. S. Wiley of Charlestown.

Representative Thompson's committee in the Legislature reported favorably on Tuesday on a bill authorizing the appointment of a special committee to investigate and report upon the relations existing between street railways and the cities and towns of the state.

Never have we seen Mount Wollaston Cemetery look more inviting than it was Monday afternoon. An unusually large collection of flowers was placed on the graves, and the lots throughout the cemetery are green and attractive. A large amount of work has been done the past few weeks and the numerous showers has made the grass and shrubs keep green and beautiful.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Devotes an Evening to Street Railway Matters.

Committee Overruled and Billings Street Favored.

Effort to Strike Out Paving at Turnout Unsuccessful.

Street railway matters were at top at the meeting of the City Council last evening including the Squantum extension, the Hancock street turnout, and the Boynton Bicycle railway.

Councilman Sidelinger was the only absent member.

Communications.

President Bryant read the communication forwarded by the School Committee in relation to their budget, before it was passed, but which had been lost. It was placed an file.

The Mayor in a communication stated that the bill before the Legislature for the Bicycle railroad from Quincy to Fall River, gave certain rights in the city in regard to locations that took the matter out of the hands of the city and thought the city should have some say in regard to location.

The communication was laid on the table until later in the evening when Councilman Anderson offered a resolve requesting our Senator to oppose the bill. Adopted.

Petitions.

A petition was received that Russell Park be accepted as a public way. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from W. P. Martin for State aid, and also several petitions for licenses.

Reports of Committees.

The Committee on Ordinances reported the street watering order as properly engrossed, and it was passed to be ordained.

The Committee on Legislative matters reported no legislation necessary on the petitions in regard to licensing peddlers. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order laying out Miller's Stile road as a public way and appropriating $1200 for laying out the grade and building a stone arch bridge. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Streets offered a majority order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway to a location. Squantum via Sagamore street, Newbury, Atlantic avenue, and Squantum streets.

Councilman Parker offered a minority report signed by Councilman Parker, Swithin and Murray, substituting Billings street in place of Atlantic street. He moved the substitute as an amendment to the report.

Councilman Parker in support of the minority report said. The committee gave the railroad leave to withdraw on its petition for a location through Prospect street as it was thought the road should pass the stores. Before the second petition was handed in the chairman of the Committee on Streets without authority of the committee went to the railroad and requested them to put Atlantic street in their petition. No councilmen from that ward were consulted. At the first hearing Mr. Read objected to the railroad upon any ground, then he switched off to Atlantic street. At the second hearing he was the principal remonstrant.

He stated that there was more curvature in turning into Billings street than there would be into Atlantic street, when the fact is that both would be the same. Then he said Mr. Pope would give twenty feet of his land. But fortunately Mr. Pope was present to correct him. He stated that the name of J. J. Clean was on the petition which was false as the name was J. J. Chisholm. He stated that he had a letter from Mr. Beckford objecting to Billings street, but had left it in his office. You will find among the papers here a letter from Mr. Beckford stating that he desires the road to go through Billings street. On Billings street between Newbury avenue and Squantum street there was 41 per cent. by frontage who favored Billings street, and on Atlantic street there was 97 per cent. who opposed the location on Atlantic street. Squantum street is of uniform width. Atlantic street was much better for driving purposes, and Billings street was as direct as Atlantic street was. He hoped the minority report would be accepted.

Councilman Badger favored the minority report. Atlantic street has no cross streets and would shut out a large territory. The people want the road. The little widening of Squantum street should not stand in the way.

Councilman Nickerson said he was not aware that he was answerable to any councilman for any individual acts. The railroad were anxious for a location and the suggestion was made that both streets be put into the petition. He was satisfied that Atlantic street was the proper place. If you want to develope Atlantic you want the road on Atlantic street. Why should the Council undergo the expense of widening Squantum street? The boulevard was as likely not to go through Atlantic street as it is to go there.

Councilman Little said he only had the city's interest in mind. He had not been influenced by Mr. Reed, but thought Atlantic street the best location. He went over both proposed routes Monday and did not think Reed's trees would be injured. The opinion of people from that ward should have some weight.

Councilman Edwards favored Billings street as it would reach the people. Squantum street should be widened by railroad. He moved to amend by adding that Squantum street between Billings and Atlantic streets be widened to 40 feet by the railroad.

Councilman Field said, as he understood it, the chairman was instructed to do as he had done. He did not know what we wanted the railroad to Squantum for anyway. Why should we give away our streets and lay ourselves liable to a large expense? If we are to locate the railroad it should be on Atlantic street.

Councilman Sprague said if it was good investment to build a road to Squantum for people there it was good for the city. He said it was customary to put railways on thoroughfares, and Atlantic street was regarded as such.

Councilman Poland favored the minority report. Atlantic street has no cross streets and to get to the road would require a walk to the square from south of Billings street. As to the widening of Squantum street it would only be a short time before it would have to be widened in any event.

Councilman Anderson had looked into the matter and thought it would be a mistake to locate the road on Atlantic street. That section of Squantum street has got to be widened at no distant date. Billings street was not the best location, but all things considered he should vote to locate it there.

The minority report was then adopted.

The amendment of Councilman Edwards that Company should widen Squantum street, was defeated by a vote of 13 to 7.

Councilman Nickerson moved a reconsideration of the vote adopting the minority report. Motion lost.

The report was then ordered to its second reading.

The Turnout.

The order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway a location for a turnout on Hancock street near Cottage avenue providing the company pave from curb to curb, took its second reading and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Upon motion of Councilman Anderson the reference was withdrawn.

Councilman Badger moved to strike out the paving clause. The double tracking, one of the biggest improvements ever contemplated was defeated by a similar restriction, and it would be so in this case.

Councilman Field was satisfied now that the company could pave the street if it desired as was being done on Hancock street, and he believed they should.

Councilman Pinkham was called to the chair.

President Bryant said we were facing the old issue as at the time of the double tracking order. The street should be paved at the proposed turnout. We who use the streets have some rights. Franchises were worth considerable to street railway companies, and Council should be careful how it votes away the rights of the people whom it is sent here to protect. The street railway could find way to pave at turnout as on Hancock street.

Councilman Anderson agreed in part. The company had valuable privileges. Didn't think Quincy and Boston would object to cost, but to principle. Ought not to insist upon paving if it would kill turnout. We should encourage the Quincy Real Estate Trust, which has courage to build a large hall. Believed company would not accept if required to pave.

President Bryant asked how he knew?

Councilman Anderson said the president and superintendent had told him so.

Councilman McGrath thought Council should know if this was so. Thought railway ought to pave, but would waive this to get turnout.

Councilmen Bryant and Field further opposed amendment.

Councilman McGrath asked if paving on Hancock street was done of own accord or on condition.

Councilman Bryant said "on condition" and explained that company was required to put the part vacated in as good condition as the new location before the taking.

Councilman Sprague had heard favorable comment on the way work was being done on Hancock street, and said the street would be improved. Believed company would see necessity of paving at turnout, but was willing to strike out requirement.

Councilman Geary said it was generally admitted the street should be paved. If assured the company would do it he would vote to strike out clause. Moved to lay on table for conference.

Councilmen Sprague and Field opposed and Councilman Little favored.

The motion was lost, also the amendment to strike out paving. Upon a rising vote for verification the vote was 8 to 12.

Upon roll call the order was unanimously passed 20 to 0.

Adjourned at 9.55.

FIFTY PER CENT.

Senate Adopted Committees Rate on Granite.

Effort Will be Made to Get It Higher in Conference.

Senator Lodge and Gallinger Advocated the Increase.

The National Senate completed yesterday its consideration of the tariff bill so far as it relates to schedule B,—Earths, Earthenware and Glassware. A dispatch to the LEDGER from Hon. John Shaw says: "Monumental granite paragraph passed at fifty per cent. with prospects of increasing this rate in conference committee."

When the granite paragraph was reached Senator Vest moved a reduction from 50 to 30 per cent. It had reached a point he said, when the advocates of the bill had lost all veneration and respect for that tariff act bearing the name of the President of the United States.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire spoke of the greater labor cost in the quarrying of granite in the United States over that in Scotland and Sweden, and Mr. Gallinger expressed the hope that when the bill got into conference the protection afforded American granite workers would be greater than ever before.

Senators Caffery, Mills and Vest spoke against the committee rates. Mr. Vest's amendment was then disagreed to, yeas 19, nays 23.

Mr. Vest made a contest on the paragraph relating to manufactures of agate, etc., moving a reduction of the rate from 50 to 25 per cent. The amendment was defeated—Yeas, 17; nays, 29.

The committee proposed a change in the amendment relating to marble and onyx, leaving the marble rate as reported, and placing onyx in block at $1.50 per cubic foot. After debate it was agreed to 31 to 17.

Otherwise there were no changes in the manufactures of marble and stone.

Sewer Pipe Arrives.

It begins to look like business in the Sewer department, for there has arrived at the new siding at Wollaston the first consignment of iron pipes for the force main, consisting of six car loads. Other consignments will arrive nearly every day until all has been received. The pipe is 24 inches in diameter and is in twelve foot sections, each section weighing about one ton. The pipe is being distributed along the line as fast as it is being received.

"I have never had a day's sickness in my life," said a middle-aged man the other day.

"What a comfort it would be," sighs some poor invalid, "to be in his place for a year or two." Yet half of the invalids we see might be just as healthy as he, if they would only take proper care of themselves, eat proper food—and digest it.

It's so strange that such simple things are overlooked by those who want health.

Food makes health.

It makes strength—and strength wards off sickness. The man who had never been sick was strong because he always digested his food, and you could become the same by helping your stomach to work as well as his. Shaker Digestive Cordial will help your stomach and will make you strong and healthy by making the food you eat make you fat.

MARRIED.

MELONG—BRIEN—In Quincy, May 31, by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti, Mr. Frederick Melong to Miss Louisa Brien, both of Quincy.

They All Come Back

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine continue the round, steady To keep up and whole year as a clock.

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The Time to Buy Carpetings.

THIS Dingley Bill you've heard so much about, is like the old wolf story. You've heard increased prices cried so much, that when they actually do come, you are inclined to discredit them. Fact is, however, that wool has already advanced. Carpet mills have just increased prices from 5 to 10 cents per yard, with a still further increase positively assured for the near future.

If you wish to buy carpets at the lowest prices the world has ever known, do so at once, before present stocks are sold. You'll never know what down right panic prices are, if you don't take advantage of them now. We will hold the old low prices as long as possible. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The Sultan's Scheme.

London, June 2.—Eastern affairs appear to have reached the drifting stage. The exact position as to the armistice negotiations is not yet clear. Evidently it is the object of Turkey to create delays and to discover any latent weakness in the European concert.

During the councils of the ministers at the yildiz kiosk, the peace conditions have certainly been discussed, but all mention of Thessaly is studiously avoided. The assumption seems to be that Thessaly belongs to Turkey by conquest, and there is nothing more to be said on the subject. The powers will have to show a united and very energetic front before the sultan will recede from this position. In the meantime, in order to remove the impression that she rejects all the peace proposals, Greece has sent another note to her representatives abroad, repeating that she is prepared to acquiesce in the decisions of the powers, but that the payment of a large indemnity is impossible.

Queen Olga and Princess Sophia left Athens by the royal yacht en route for the camp of the crown prince, to participate in the celebration of the anniversary of his name day. It is reported in some quarters that the crown prince will shortly sail for London.

Edhem Pasha, having sent the alde-de-camp, whom the sultan appointed to watch him, back to Constantinople, under escort as a spy, the officer was forthwith promoted by the sultan.

It is expected that the representatives of the two armies will meet today to sign an extention of the armistice.

Monday night the Cretan insurgents furiously attacked Hierapetra. The French and Italian warships bombarded the positions of the assailants, causing considerable loss to the insurgents.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says there is strong reason for believing that Bulgaria is exerting a strong influence to induce the sultan to transform Macedonia into an autonomous province under an imperial prince.

Havana, June 2.—A decree issued by Captain General Weyler, dated Sancti Spiritus, May 27, was published here yesterday. He announces the approaching commencement of military operations in the eastern part of the island of Cuba, and orders the enforcement of the provisions of his decree of Jan. 30 in the provinces of Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba, the organization of cultivation zones, the closing of stores in unfortified towns, the concentration of the country people and the destruction of all resources which are undefended, as was done in the other provinces. The captain general gives the people of those two provinces one month in which to comply with the terms of the decree, the time to begin on the date of the publication of the decree in the various districts of those provinces.

Astor Entertains Aristocracy.

London, June 2.—William Waldorf Astor gave a brilliant reception last evening at his residence in Carlton House terrace. It was a notable gathering of English aristocracy, among those present being representatives of upwards of 40 of the oldest English families, including the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, the Duke and Duchess of Somerset and the Marquis and Marchioness of Lansdowne. Among the Americans present were Ambassador Hay and Mrs. Hay, Governor Levi P. Morton and Mrs. Morton, Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. Ronalds and Henry White. The floral decorations were sumptious, while the music was contributed by leading artists, among them Mme. Melba and Signor Ancona, who sang, and M. Ignace Paderewski.

West Point's Oldest Graduate Dead.

New York, June 2.—A special to The Journal from Richmond says: General Daniel Ruggles, probably the oldest graduate of West Point in the country, died yesterday at his home in Fredericksburg. Deceased was 88 years of age. He served through the Mexican war and rose to the rank of brevet lieutenant colonel. He served in the Confederate army, and was a major general in the Southwest. General Ruggles graduated from West Point in 1832. Since the war he has been a member of the board of visitors of that institution. Deceased was born in Berne, Mass.

Luetgert Held Without Bail.

Chicago, June 2.—Adolph Luetgert, the rich sausage maker, charged with the murder of his wife, has been held for the grand jury without bail. The examining magistrate said that there was strong circumstantial evidence that a crime had been committed, and that it pointed to the conclusion that the defendant was guilty of the crime with which he was charged.

LABOR NEWS.

Fifty Italians working for Molloy & Co. on the dam at the Meriden (Conn.) reservoir have struck over a question of wages.

Over 500 men in different departments of the Reading (Pa.) iron works have stopped work because of a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Hugh D. McClellan of Belfast, Me., has been chosen principal of the Waterville high school. He was graduated from Colby in 1895, and has been studying law with his father in Belfast.

The striking garment makers at New York held a mass meeting in Cooper Union last night. Meyer Shoenfeld, the leader of the strikers, spoke in Hebrew, and his remarks were received with great enthusiasm. He asked all present who favored a continuation of the struggle for the betterment of their condition to stand up, and the audience arose in a body.

THE SCHOOL CENSUS.

Quincy Has More Children of School Age than Voters.

Comparisons by Wards and Ages and by Years.

South and West Quincy Have Over Half the Children.

Mr. D. Vinton Pierce who took the census of school children this year for the School Committee has completed his labors, and has made a report. He finds that there are in the city of school age (five to fourteen years inclusive) 4720 children, divided by ages and wards as follows:

	WARDS
	1	2	3	4	5	6	City
Age 5,	58	45	125	143	77	61	507
Age 6,	46	69	146	147	60	56	524
Age 7,	70	63	116	158	69	46	522
Age 8,	59	60	133	178	59	47	536
Age 9,	62	60	128	159	49	52	510
Age 10,	48	69	124	134	63	41	479
Age 11,	55	49	94	122	51	36	407
Age 12,	46	52	90	105	60	37	390
Age 13,	47	54	88	114	52	34	389
Age 14,	59	67	103	118	63	46	456
All ages	550	586	1147	1378	603	456	4720

The school census this year for the first time was taken by wards. Previously it has been upon the old town lines as districts. This will account for the apparent large loss in Wards Three and Four and the large gain in Wards Two and Five. While the centre as Ward One remains about the same.

By the old districts Albertina, Jackson Lane, Clark, Garfield, Kidder, Quarry, Smith and Center streets were taken in the West District. By wards the West loses Albertina, Jackson, Clark, Garfield and Kidder and a part of Quarry, Center and Smith streets to Ward Three. The West also loses part of Adams street to Ward Five, and also off Adams street to Ward One. There is a loss of about 175, to the West District which gains nothing from any other ward.

Ward Three while gaining perhaps 150 from the West District, loses even more to Wards One and Two. Quincy avenue, High School avenue, Glencoe place, New Road, part of South and Elm streets formerly taken in the South District, are now by ward lines given to Ward Two. The South loses to Ward One Packards lane, Gass place, Whitwell, Parker, Carlson and Curtis streets, or North Common and part of Granite street.

Ward One loses to Ward Five, Carruth and Gilmore streets. To offset the gain from Ward Three, Ward One loses to Ward Two, Baxter, Edwards, Union, Newcomb place, part of Main, South Walnut, Washington and Elm streets.

Ward Six loses a few in the Downs district to Ward Five and gains nothing from any other Ward.

Ward Four and Six lose to other wards without any gain from the other wards, while Ward Two gains largely from both One and Three without losing to any other ward.

The following summary shows the total number of school children each year since 1887 and the increase each year. The total gain in ten years has been 1567 and the average increase 156.

YEAR.	CHILDREN.	INCREASE.
In 1887,	3,153	—
In 1888,	3,296	143
In 1889,	3,495	199
In 1890,	3,565	170
In 1891,	4,045	380
In 1892,	4,377	332
In 1893,	4,320	*57
In 1894,	4,443	123
In 1895,	4,571	128
In 1896,	4,702	131
In 1897,	4,720	18

*Loss.

A comparison by ages is given below for three years, but does not show the expected gains in the primary grades:

Age 5,	510	467	507
Age 6,	567	550	524
Age 7,	569	551	522
Age 8,	484	556	536
Age 9,	430	459	510
Age 10,	414	431	479
Age 11,	393	393	407
Age 12,	387	401	390
Age 13,	360	395	389
Age 14,	457	499	456
	4,571	4,702	4,720

A comparison of children and voters will be of interest. In all wards except the Centre (Ward One) the children outnumber the voters, but the difference is not great except in Wards Three and Four.

	Voters Nov. 1896.	Children May, 1897.
Ward One,	724	550
Ward Two,	581	586
Ward Three,	827	1147
Ward Four,	840	1378
Ward Five,	586	603
Ward Six,	444	456
	4,002	4,720

The census taken this year, is as it should hereafter be taken, and during the succeeding years the gain or loss of each ward can be noted.

The city continues to show an increase in the number of school children, although a smaller gain than there has been for the past few years. This may be owing to the dullness of the granite business the past year as a large number of families have moved out of town who will probably return should the granite business pick up again.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

Mrs. Stella Algers, aged 26, committed suicide at Woolstit, Conn.

Harry Wood, aged 15, was accidentally drowned at Northport, Me., yesterday.

John Gow of Nova Scotia was found dead in a room in a Boston hotel. Suicide by gas.

John Driscoll, who escaped from the Goffstown (N. H.) jail, was captured last night at Lawrence, Mass.

C. H. Russell of Concord, N. H., was badly cut up in the Boston and Maine railroad yards at Manchester last night while attempting to steal a ride.

Royce H. Paterson, aged 18, was drowned off High island, three miles from Rockland, Me., yesterday, by the capsizing of a fishing boat. Paterson's companion was rescued and resuscitated.

An engine on the Norfolk and Western railroad blew up yesterday near Christiansburg, Va., killing Joe Waskie, engineer; Jim Gillespie, fireman, and Flagman William Byrne.

The American schooner Walter W. Raskin, 640 tons, went ashore at Griffin's Head, N. B., three miles from Quaco, on Monday afternoon, and overturned. The galley stove was upset, and the vessel caught fire and was completely destroyed, nothing being left but the chains and anchors.

Postal Delegates to Visit Boston.

Boston, June 2.—The universal postal congress, which has been in session at Washington, will visit this city June 9. Arrangements are being made to entertain the delegates by Postmaster Thomas, Mayor Quincy and the Boston Merchants' association.

Despondent From Ill Health.

Fitchburg, Mass., June 2. — Fred A. Beckwith, aged 37, a business man, killed himself by shooting yesterday afternoon. Poor health brought on despondancy, which resulted in self-destruction. He was unmarried, and in well-to-do circumstances.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 2.—The Boynton bicycle railroad bill, which authorized the construction of a line between Boston and Fall River, which was passed by the house last week, was refused a third reading by a vote of 14 to 18 in the senate yesterday.

Haverhill Elects a Mayor.

Haverhill, Mass., June 2.—Alderman Edwin H. Moulton has been elected mayor for the next seven months to fill the term made vacant by the death of Mayor Brickett.

Opened by General O. O. Howard.

Saratoga, June 2.—General O. O. Howard, as president, last evening in the Washington Street Methodist church formally opened the 21st anniversary of the Congregational Home Missionary society, a national body. The pulpit and platform were artistically decorated and draped with the national colors. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Dr. P. B. Davis of Boston. The opening address was made by General Howard. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. Frank S. Bayley of Denver. He took for his text, John IV, 13-14, and John XVII, 37-39. There were fully 1000 persons present.

Miles Returns from Thermopylae.

Athens, June 2.—General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., has returned here from Thermopylae, the headquarters of the Greek army, where the general met the crown prince, and was enabled to inspect the defenses of the Greeks. The Turks have retired from the Othrys mountains to the plains of Thessaly, owing to the difficulty of transportating rations to the troops stationed on that range.

☞ The Wabash Railroad continues to cater to the travelling public in the most up-to-date way with through sleeping cars from Boston to Chicago and St. Louis, vestibuled trains, parlor and dinging cars, and rates as low as any for such service. Its freight service shows the same desire to serve the public. Daily merchandise cars are run from Boston to St. Louis and to Kansas City and Denver, making on the the Wabash rails an average running time, including stops, of 21 miles per hour, Shippers, to obtain this service, should see that their shipping receipts are marked "via Wabash Railroad." 22-tf

RACE WAR IN ARKANSAS.

Serious Outbreak Expected In Lee Township. Blood Has Already Been Shed.

Atkins, Ark., June 2.—A race war is in progress in Lee township, Pope county, five miles south of Atkins, in which two or three men have already been killed or fatally wounded, and the community is in a state of great excitement, with a more serious outbreak liable to occur at any moment.

The killed or fatally injured, so far as can at present be ascertained, are: Will Gaylord, colored, whipped to death by a mob of whites; Jesse Nickels, terribly cut with knives by negroes, will probably die; white man, name unknown, fatally shot by a gang of negroes; Reason Egg, white, shot by deputy constable, extent of injuries not known; Constable C. E. Edge, badly cut.

The trouble began Sunday night when a party of three or four negroes attacked two white men, Jesse Nickels and J. R. Hodges. Nickles was cut by the negroes. Warrants had been issued for the negroes on Monday, but they declared that they would not be arrested. Reason Egg, white, helped them resist arrest, and when the officers went to the scene, Reason Egg attacked Constable Edge with a knife, and inflicted a dangerous injury, the constable succeeded in arresting Reason Egg after shooting him in the arm.

Monday night, one of the negroes, Will Gaylord, who had participated in the riots, was taken from his home by a mob, supposed to be composed of white men, and after being stripped, was tied to a post and beaten into insensibility. He was alive, but was unconscious, and has since died. The whole county is stirred up and further outbreaks are looked for at any moment. A posse of citizens from this place, including Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Tom D. Brooks, have gone to the scene of the trouble, and further developments are being anxiously awaited.

The third degree work under the auspices of Quincy Council will be exemplified on the evening of Wednesday, June 16, in St. Mary's hall West Quincy, this being the only hall in Quincy suitable for the work. Visiting delegations will be present from Boston, Randolph, Milton, Stoughton, Rockland and Brockton, and at the completion of the exposition a banquet will be given.

In the South Boston race the Beatrice was an easy first in the first class, against Emma C., Harbinger, Elfreda, Tantrum, Heroine and Nettie. The Privateer and Nancy Hanks were first in their classes, but none of these finished within time limit. Only the second, fourth and knockabout classes were within limit and first prizes were taken by the Hoodlum, Fastasy and Cockatoo.

Ernest F. Prentiss who was arrested in Portland, Me., last week, is wanted by Quincy officers for embezzling $1000 from Mrs. Pauline Howes. Prentiss was the lover of Miss Howes, an Adams school teacher, who died last fall in Boston, and Prentiss was trusted by Mrs. Howes at the time with a $1000 United States bond to pay the funeral and other expenses, and he skipped out. Mrs. Howes now lives at Brockton.

WEAK AND WEARY WOMEN AND MEN

P. P. P. restores shattered nerves, gives strength and tone to the entire system, revives the worn out, nervous and debilitated. You cannot but be nervous if your blood is impure.

P. P. P. gives the proper nourishment to the blood, and cures nervous prostration, debility and nervous headache.

P. P. P. cures that tired, languid, "all gone" feeling, cures dyspepsia, indigestion, and that awful distress of the stomach.

P. P. P. cures that weak, nervous condition, that dreadful jumping of the heart, followed by dizziness and sinking spells. Make your blood pure by taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and you will be well and happy. Women are benefited, their organization regulated, and their weakness and lassitude cured by P. P. P.

WEAK, TIRED PEOPLE

should take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, without delay. While not actually sick, you feel weak and tired, ready to get sick, and what you need is strength to drive out of your system that which is the cause of Spring Fever. P. P. P. is needed at once.

Mr Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th street, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for her complete restoration to health.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

Smith Denies Tillman's Charge That He Speculated In Sugar.

Good Progess Being Made on the Tariff Bill.

House Minority Again Attacks Speaker Reed. Three Orders Passed.

Washington, June 2. — The senate worked all the afternoon on the tariff bill, and made considerable progress by disposing of paragraphs which had been reserved, although the actual advance was not sufficient to quite carry the consideration into the metal schedule. The senate, however, has almost finished 31 pages out of the 216 in the bill.

Its most important action yesterday was to ratify the compromise reached by the representatives of the conflicting interests affected by the duties on china, porcelain, parian, bisque, earthen, stone and crockery ware, by which the compound duties proposed by the finance committee Republicans were abandoned, and the sections of the Dingley bill proposing ad valorem duties of 55 per cent on undecorated and 60 per cent on decorated ware were adopted, and also the adoption of the marble or onyx schedule proposed by the Republicans of the finance committee.

As a sequel to the recent sensational speech of Mr. Tillman, Mr. Smith of New Jersey rose to a question of personal privilege while the tariff debate was proceeding and made a brief, but pointed, denial of all speculation in sugar stock, either recently or at any time when sugar was the subject of legislation. Mr. Tillman was among those who heard the denial, but he made no comment on it. Senator McLaurin of South Carolina was sworn in early in the day, raising the membership of the senate to 89.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate: William Haywood of the District of Columbia, to be secretary of the legation and consul general of the United States at Honolulu; William L. Penfield of Indiana, to be solicitor for the department of state; John K. Thompson, marshal of the United States for the district of West Virginia; John de Haven, United States district judge for the northern district of California.

IN THE HOUSE.

Richardson and Jerry Simpson Lead Attack on Policy of the Majority.

Washington, June 2.—There was a lively session of the house yesterday, at which the policy of Speaker Reed and the Republican majority again were made subjects of attacks by members of the minority. Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) and Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.) led the onslaught for the minority. The majority position was ably defended by Mr. Henderson (Rep., Ia.) and Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.).

The appeal of Mr. Lewis (Dem., Wash.) taken last Thursday from the decision of the chair that a resolution relating to foreign affairs did not constitute a question of privilege was laid on the table, and after the skirmish over the methods of procedure three special orders were successively adopted, two of which, the senate bills making a special appropriation for the government printing office and for granting the secretary of the navy permission to contract with two vessels to carry contributed supples to India, were passed. The other provided for the consideration of the Frye bill to prevent collisions in harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States connected with the ocean. But Mr. Payne, in charge of the latter bill, was forced to abandon it for the day to avoid the point of no quorum. The conference report on the sundry civil bill was adopted.

CALHOUN'S REPORTS.

Special Agent Will Make No Written Official Statement of Conditions In Cuba.

Washington, June 2.—While no official communication, either letter or report, has come to Washington as yet from Mr. Calhoun, the special counsel sent by the president to Cuba in connection with the Ruiz case, private advices received here from him indicate that he expects to leave Havana for Washington tomorrow or Friday. He will go directly to New York by steamer.

It is said at the department that no official report upon Cuba is to be expected from Mr. Calhoun; that all he will have to submit officially will be upon the Ruiz case, which was the subject of his official appointment, and anything he will have to communicate respecting the general conditions in Cuba, as affected by the war, will be in the shape of a verbal report to the president.

As for the Ruiz case, it is now clear that there will be two reports, but in the absence of an exact knowledge as to the points of disagreement, it is not possible for the officials at the state department to predict the next step to be taken in the matter. Although it is certain that it will not be allowed to rest on the record so far taken.

Tillman's Resolution Buried.

Washington, June 2.—The senate committee on contingent expenses, to which was referred the Tillman resolution, providing for an investigation of the charges that senators have been speculating in sugar stocks, has decided to look into the charges to a certain extent before reporting the resolution back. The fact that Senator Smith, the only member of the senate mentioned by name as having engaged in such speculation, has made a denial in the senate, was noted, and this fact, coupled with Senator Aldrich's general denial in behalf of the finance committee, taken into consideration in connection with the resolution. There was some talk in the committee of an infefinite postponement as the wisest course. The committee, therefore, concluded to postpone making any recommendation for the present.

Monthly Statement.

Washington, June 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that the debt, less cash in the treasury, at the close of business on May 29, 1897, was $996,684,052, a decrease for the month of $1,560,080, which is principally accounted for by an increase of over $2,000,000 in cash in the treasury. The debt, independent of the cash, was increased during the month $462,215, accounted for in redemption account. The comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures during May shows that the total receipts were $29,797,390, and the expenditures $29,109,259, leaving the surplus for the month $688,131. The statement for May, 1896, showed a deficit of $3,782,875. The receipts from customs during the last month amounted to $16,885,011, an increase as compared with May, 1896, of nearly $6,000,000. The receipts from internal revenue amounted to $10,673,011, a decrease of $577,098. The deficit for the 11 months of the present fiscal year amounts to $32,273,121.

Sugar Debate May Be Postponed.

Washington, June 2.—There is some talk among Republican members of the finance committee of postponing consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill until all the other schedules shall have been disposed of. There are still differences of opinion as to the rates to be fixed on sugar. Members of the committee say that if this differences can be adjusted before the schedule is reached it probably will be taken up in its order, but as there are only two schedules to be considered before sugar will be reached they admit the possible necessity for some postponement. It is the established policy of the Republican managers not to go into the senate on any article until the party can be counted upon as solid in support of the rate recommended, and this rule will apply to the order in which the sugar schedule will be taken up.

Naval Promotions Soon to Follow.

Washington, June 2.—Admiral Brown has been relieved of the command of the Norfolk navy yard by Captain Farquhar, and has been granted leave of absence until his retirement from active service on the 19th of the present month. Admiral Brown is the ranking officer of the navy, and will be succeeded in that position by Admiral William Kirkland, now in command of the Mare island navy yard. By the retirement of Admiral Brown, Commodore Matthews, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, becomes an admiral.

Chess Match Ended a Tie.

Washington, June 2.—The international chess match between members of the house of representatives and the English house of commons tyesterday resulted in a draw, each side having won and lost two games, and one being drawn. The time made Monday in transmitting messages was surpassed yesterday, when a message was sent from Washington, a move made in London and the answer sent back in 40 seconds.

Gold and Silver Production.

Washington, June 2.—The director of the mint has about completed his figures of the gold and silver production in the United States during the calendar year 1896. He finds the production of gold to have been about $53,000,000, an increase of over $6,250,000 as compared with 1895. The production of silver is given as 57,700,000 fine ounces, an increase of 1,900,000 ounces over 1895.

Ellis H. Roberts Selected.

Washington, June 2.—It is understood that the president has fully decided upon Ellis H. Roberts of New York for United States treasurer, and that his nomination will be sent to the senate in a day or two. Mr. Roberts at one time was assistant United States treasurer at New York.

Beri-Beri In Havana.

Havana, June 2.—The plague of beri beri continues to ravage the province of Santiago de Cuba. Its rapid spread is due to the abandonment of the sick poor, who have been entrusted to the care of the municipal doctors, and to the great difficulty in obtaining medicines from the city authorities. There are municipal doctors who inhumanely allow the poor to die without offering them the slightest assistance. Paper money continues to depreciate. A centine, now $5.30 in Spanish gold, brings $15.34 in paper.

Funeral of Frank P. Hastings.

Washington, June 2.—The funeral of Frank P. Hastings, secretary of the Hawaiian legation and delegate from Hawaii to the international postal congress, who died in this city on Saturday last, took place at St. John's church yesterday. The services were attended by the delegates to the postal congress, by the members of the diplomatic corps, still in town, and by many representatives of official and social circles here. The burial will be in Portland, Me.

Suits Against Quay's Son.

Pittsburg, June 2.—Statements placing damages at $100,000 each have been filed by State Senators William Flinn and Chris L. Magee in their libel suits against Hon. Richard Quay, son of Senator M. S. Quay. Counsel for Mr. Quay has filed pleas of not guilty in each of the cases.

Japanese Securities In Demand.

London, June 2.—The Japanese loan of 43,000,000 yen, equivalent to about $21,947,916, at 5 per cent, and payable in gold, the issue price of which is 101½, was subscribed several times over yesterday within an hour.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. IN A BLAZING TENT.

Six Persons Terribly Burned, Two Fatally, In a Side Show.

Employe Attempted to Fill Lighted Gasoline Lamp.

Then, In His Excitement, He Upset a Large Tank of the Inflammable Liquid.

Lynn, Mass., June 3.—This city was visited by one of the most disastrous fires in its consequences last night that it has had since the holocaust at the Sagamore hotel, July 4, 1895.

Six people were seriously burned while attending an exhibition of the "Zoo," a combination tent exhibition on the vacant field between Washington and Tudor streets. Briefly stated, a vessel containing gasoline exploded and ignited, and the flames spread around the interior of the tent, setting fire to the clothing and burning the hands, legs and faces of six of the spectators.

While one of the employes was filling a burning torch from a small tank of gasoline, which he had drawn from larger tank, the fumes took fire and spread to the flap of the tent, running upward to the main pole, against which was the larger tank of gasoline. The man dropped the torch and ran to the centre of the tent, intending to pull down the pole, but in his hurry he overturned the large tank, and the flames spread rapidly.

The tent was well filled and all became greatly excited and attempted to get out. Several crawled under the canvas and escaped uninjured. Those who tried to get out by the entrance were not so fortunate, as here the heat was intense, and six persons were badly burned.

The injured are:

Maud Rhodes, 52 Rockaway street, Lynn, face hands, legs and body badly burned, will probably die.

Robert A. Hodgden, East Newton street, Malden.

John Cobin, Lynn, burned about the face and hands.

All were taken to the Lynn hospital and it is feared they may have inhaled the fumes of the gasoline and this may result in their death. The uproar caused by the fire created almost a panic among the animals in the zoo, and in the rush to get out a cage of lions was overturned, but no damage was done. One unknown woman was trampled under foot and was reported seriously injured.

"HOUSE OF LORDS."

Fletcher Webster Post of Brockton Makes Protest Against Commander Deane.

Brockton, Mass., June 3.—Fletcher Webster post last night adopted resolutions appealing to the Grand Army posts and members of the department from the ruling of Department Commander Deane that the department commander is vested with power to suppress any resolution that may be forwarded by any post.

These resolutions are the result of the suppression by Department Commander Thomas of resolutions forwarded by the post to the department encampment of 1896, protesting against the use of G. A. R. funds for the purpose of purchasing presents for the retiring officers of any encampment. The delegates from the post, say the resolutions, were at that time informed that they were not wanted in the encampment and had better return home.

Then, say the resolutions, the post declined to elect delegates to the encampment of 1897, believing that the encampment is so conducted that delegates are habitually slighted because of the influence of the clique known as the "house of lords," which it says is a power in the department.

This, continued the resolutions, led to correspondence and a visit to the post by Department Commander Deane, who, according to the resolutions, said he was vested with absolute and unqualified power to suppress any resolution forwarded by any post to the encampment; that the senior and junior commanders need know nothing of the matter before the commander, who may ignore or insult delegates, and that Fletcher Webster post had no option but to put up with its grievance.

Then, reiterating the allegiance of the post to the Grand Army, the resolutions protest against this ruling of the department commander and appeal to the individual members and posts of the department.

The resolutions will be sent to Department Commander Deane and each member of the council of administration of the department and to every post.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 3.—Another chance for the Boynton bicycle railway was given by the senate yesterday, when it reconsidered its adverse vote of Tuesday and decided to take another vote today. The Berkshire railroad bill was passed to enactment. The house voted to establish a commission to look into the subject of voting machines, thus breaking up the monopoly of the McTammany invention.

The senate began forenoon sessions as a regular thing, and the house voted to consider each forenoon and afternoon session as a legislative day. In the afternoon the house passed and sent to the senate the bill providing a uniform system of preparing jury lists and impanelling juries, and passed to engrossment the resolve for Winchester and Woburn boulevards. The senate took up a large part of its time with the one-mill school tax bill, thus delaying action on the Boston elevated railroad matter.

Vandals at Historic Tombs.

Boston, June 3.—It was discovered yesterday that relic hunters had been getting in their work in the old Granary burying grounds, and several of the ancient gravestones show the effects of the vandalism. The work was evidently done on Memorial day, when the grounds were open for inspection by the public.

The stones that attracted the relic hunter or hunters were those over the graves of Paul Revere, John Hancock and Governor Increase Sumner, and each one was clipped as if by a hammer. The stone of Paul Revere's grave had one piece about two inches long taken out near the base, and one of the corners was clipped off. The stone over the Governor Sumner grave was treated in like manner, and the marks of the hammer were easy to be seen.

End of Haverhill School Fight.

Haverhill, Mass., June 3.—The school board last night elected R. B. McKean of Bradford superintendent of schools, to succeed Albert D. Bartlett. This ends a contest that has been carried on for eight years, and had divided the school board during all that time. For the past two or three years attempts have been made at the annual election to defeat Superintendent Bartlett and have failed by one or two votes. Yesterday there was no choice on the first ballot, but on the second McKean got 12; Bartlett, 9, and 1 blank. Mr. McKean was superintendent of Bradford and Merrimac schools previous to the annexation of Bradford to Haverhill last year.

Roosevelt Still Investigating.

Boston, June 3.—Assistant Secretary of Navy Roosevelt arrived from Newport last evening and will remain in or about the city for a few days. Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will begin his examination of the Charlestown navy yard, but as in the case of New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk yards, the examination is for the purpose of obtaining from personal inspection an idea of the capabilities of the different navy yards. This morning Mr. Roosevelt went to Concord, N. H., to attend the anniversary exercises of St. Paul's school. He will return tonight. Mr. Roosevelt will not examine the Portsmouth yard on this trip, reserving that until later when he also expects to visit the Bath iron works.

Reply to Governor Wolcott.

Boston, June 3.—Chairman Johnson of the state board of lunacy and charity has sent to Governor Wolcott a reply to the letter which the governor sent to the board a few days ago, censuring the members for permitting lobbying by department employes or agents. The purport of the letter is to the effect that its members assume that the governor did not intend to reflect on them, since they had no opportunity to be heard in regard to the matter. It also promises that the board will at once proceed to examine into the charges made if the governor will furnish the names and addresses of the persons who made the charges and the names of the alleged offending employes.

Manchester Home Rulers.

Manchester, N. H., June 3.—Rev. Dennis O'Callaghan, permanent rector of St. Augustine's church, South Boston, addressed a large meeting of local sympathizers with the cause of Irish home rule last night in McDonald hall. The meeting was held for the purpose of reorganizing the local branch of the Irish federation. Father Callaghan scathingly denounced factionalism in the Irish parliamentary party, and spoke of the necessity of supporting the party which adhered to the principles of majority rule. John O'Higgins of the Boston Post also spoke. A large amount was collected in subscriptions to the cause.

Suit For Illegal Detention.

Boston, June 3.—Daniel Rollins, a lawyer of this city, has filed a suit for $5000 damages against Chief Inspector William B. Watts, Captain Joseph Dugan Inspector Patrick A. Mahoney and Dr. George F. Jelly, the insanity expert whom he accuses of false imprisonment and other indignities. The plaintiff claims that he was illegally detained in confinement by the defendants, on Feb 16, 1897, when he called at the inspector's office to complain of annoying neighbors, and that he was examined as to his sanity under protest. The defendants allege that at the time, Rollins was insane.

Hanover, N. H., June 3.—H. O. Aiken, general secretary of the Dartmouth college Y. M. C. A., died of peritonitis yesterday afternoon. The deceased was graduated from Dartmouth in 1887, pitched on the 'varsity nine that year, and was tennis champion in singles and doubles. He was an active Christian worker.

TARIFF PROGRESSING.

Senate Has Completed More Than One Half the Metal Schedule.

Vest's Numerous Amendments Rejected, Except One.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Aldrich was slightly under the weather yesterday, and so did not appear at the senate, but his assistants, Senator Allison and Senator Platt of Connecticut, managed the tariff bill so well that, before the senate adjourned, they had got half way through the long metal schedule, with very much less friction than might have been expected. The finance committee amendments, with one slight exception, were all adopted, and all opposing amendments, except one, were voted down.

After the metal schedule is completed today or tomorrow there will be only the wood schedule to dispose of before the sugar schedule is reached.

Messrs. Jones of Arkansas and Vest urged numerous amendments, embodying in the main the Wilson rates, but these were rejected with only one exception. This exception related to anvils, on which Mr. Vest secured a reduction of the committee rate from 2 to 1¾ cents per pound. It was the first change made without the assent of the committee, and it was due mainly to listless manner of many senators in voting.

Early in the day Mr. Tillman of South Carolina secured the adoption of a resolution directing the judiciary committee to inquire into the recent decisions against the South Carolina dispensary law, with a view to reporting such legislation as might be desirable.

Report on Derelict.

Washington, June 3.—Captain Shoemaker, chief of the revenue cutter service, has received from Captain Phillips, commanding the cutter Perry, a report giving the details of the finding of the derelict American schooner General Siglin. The Siglin was sighted 10 miles off the west coast of Graham island, northwest of Vancouver, B. C. The wreck was found with bow and stern just out of water, dismasted, decks swept and bulwarks gone. The vessel was boarded and search made for bodies, but none was found. The coast of the adjacent islands were examined by skirting the land as closely as possible for any indications of survivors. Two Indian villages were visited, but nothing could be learned of any one having landed on the islands. This report seems clearly to indicate that the 11 persons on the Siglin were lost in the storm which wrecked the vessel.

Newspaper Men's Trial Set.

Washington, June 3.—The cases of Messrs. John S. Shriver of Washington and E. J. Edwards of New York, the two newspaper men who figured in the Sugar trust investigating committee's prosecution of contumacious witnesses, will be called for trial next Monday. Shriver's trial will be proceeded with first, and that of Edwards will follow. Three or four witnesses have been summoned for the defense. District Attorney Davis intends that the trials shall be pushed through without delay, and will contend that their cases are radically different from those of the acquitted sugar magnates on the ground that they explicitly and unequivocally refused to answer questions.

Senator Aldrich Confined to His Room.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Aldrich, who has charge of the tariff bill, is confined to his room at the Arlington hotel by an attack of indigestion. The senator's physician says there is nothing serious in the attack, but advised him to refrain from senatorial labors for a few days.

Loyal Legion at Detroit.

Detroit, June 3.—A hundred members of the military order of the Loyal Legion, all more or less distinguished as army or naval officers during the War of the Rebellion, are discussing important questions relating to that organization at the Turkish room of the Hotel Cadillac, which is patriotically decorated in honor of entertaining the quarriennial conference of the legion. General Alger, secretary of war, is among those present. Rear Admiral Gherardi, U. S. N., who is commander-in-chief of the legion, opened the conference by introducing Mayor Marbury, also a companion of the legion, who made an eloquent address of welcome. After some discussion, the conference proceeded to business, taking the much-mooted question as to what the legion's membership shall consist of when its present membership shall have passed away, still preserving the hereditary distinction which characterizes the order.

THE STREET railway company should realize the necessity of paving Hancock street at the proposed turnout and promptly accept the location granted. It is more than a convenience to the public; it is dollars and cents to the company. If there is no turnout and no cars after entertainments at the hall, the company will be the loser. The public will not wait long. The N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad paved Granite street under the bridge when it was found that they had caused a nuisance there. They are also compelled to maintain overhead bridges and approaches.

Because the city requires paving at this point is no indication that it will at other turnouts or that Weymouth may. Here is a narrow business street where a turnout is somewhat of a nuisance at best, and the company is fortunate to obtain a location under any restrictions. Why not meet the city half way?

WITH ALL the extravagance in State affairs for the legislative department, parks, highways, boulevards, etc., it is pleasing to note that there will be no advance in the State tax this year. The total will be $1,750,000, or as last year, and as it is assessed on the same valuation as in 1896 the tax of each city and town is the same: Quincy, $11,777; Milton, $13,737.50; Brookline, $41,632 50; Braintree, $3,115; Weymouth, $4,777.50; Hyde Park, $5,932; Dedham, $4,602.50. Boston will pay $628,740, over one third.

THE QUINCY & Boston street railway are making a permanent improvement and doing a good job at the junction of Hancock and Washington streets, but it is unfortunate that the track from Boston does not continue in the centre of the street as far as the junction. Now it curves so far to the west that teams cannot go between the rails and the sidewalk and renders that part of the street on the west useless.

DID THE City Council make a mistake when it adopted hastily without consideration resolutions antagonistic to the Quincy & Fall River bicycle railway? There was certainly undue haste, for the matter has been before the Legislature some weeks and should have received attention of the City Council some time ago. A five minute trip to Boston at reduced rates of fare might be a great boon to Quincy.

ALTHOUGH THE LEDGER called the attention of the City Council to the fact that a new street watering law had been passed by this Legislature, that body passed this week an order similar to last year. The new law requires that the Council shall determine the rate of assessment per frontage, and assessments levied in any other way may be difficult to collect.

THE GRANITE manufacturers should be content with the duty at fifty per cent. and not strive in conference for a further increase lest they lose what they now have in their grasp. However it will be well to be alert that no reduction is made in conference.

SOME LAW which would curtail the number of peddlers would be welcomed by housekeepers, who are greatly annoyed.

MANY JUNE BRIDES.

Fashionable Wedding at the Bethany Church.

Miss Charlotte L. Sargent Becomes Mrs. Henry E. Crane.

Six to seven hundred gathered at the Bethany Congregational church last evening at the Crane-Sargent wedding, the number including people from Concord, N. H., New York, Braintree, Boston and elsewhere. The church was elaborately decorated in green and white. Over the centre aisle were four large arches of cedar boughs, and on every other pew was a large wreath of daisies. The altar was hid by green boughs and daisies, and there were also decorations on the organ, window sills and elsewhere.

The bride, Miss Charlotte Lane Sargent is the daughter of Mrs. Charlotte E. Sargent of Elm street, and the groom, Mr. Henry Everett Crane, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Crane, and a member of the grain firm of F. H. Crane & Sons.

Six ushers preceded the bridal party. Then came the bridemaids, Misses Hattie E. and Olive R. Sargent, sisters of the bride; the maid of honor, Miss E. May McPhail; and the bride leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. E. C. Sargent. At the altar the party was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Ernest Gourd, and the pastor of the church, Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, who officiated.

The bride was gowned in white silk trimmed with Duchess lace, and wore a tulle veil; she carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor was in white organdie over Nile green silk, and the bridemaids wore white organdie over pink satin and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The short ceremony was soon over, and a reception followed at the home of the bride's mother from 8.30 to 10 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Crane being assisted in receiving by Mrs. Sargent, Mr. E. C. Sargent, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Crane. The ushers at the church and house were Mr. William P. Tanner, Mr. Delcevare King, Mr. Ernest V. Fitts, Mr. William T. Isaac, Mr. Walter C. Sampson and Mr. Walter L. Sargent, all of Quincy.

The house like the church was profusely decorated with green and flowers, pinks, roses, and snowballs being conspicuous. After congratulations, the guests viewed a beautiful and valuable display of wedding presents, and were pleased with an autograph, not one of ancient or historical interest, but the name of an uncle of the groom, affixed to a check for $1,000.

A bountiful supper of ices, cake, strawberries, etc., was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane left about ten o'clock for a short wedding trip, and their young friends gave them a royal "send off." Rice and old shoes were freely showered upon them, and some of the young men followed them on their journey and saw that the second hack (for a change was made) was appropriately decorated.

The future residence of the new couple will be at No. 13 Elm street, where Mr. Crane has built an attractive house. They will be "at home" after September first.

Pennock—Tirrell.

There was a pretty home wedding Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Tirrell at Weymouth Centre, when their daughter, Miss Edith Mabel Tirrell and Mr. Gilbert Vermilyea Pennock of South Braintree were united in marriage by Rev. Hill Crathern of the Congregational church of South Braintree, in the presence of relatives and a few friends of the family. The house was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers.

Mr. Fred Pennock, a brother of the groom was best man, and Miss Ada B. Tirrell, a sister of the bride, the maid of honor.

The bride was married in a travelling dress of gray broadcloth trimmed with green satin velvet, and carried bride roses and maiden hair fern. The maid of honor was gowned in light blue organdie over white silk trimmed with lace and blue ribbon.

Mr. Arthur M. Raymond of East Weymouth was organist for the occasion, and the ushers were: Mr. Wallace H. Pratt. Mr. Chester F. Tirrell and Mr. Frank D, Tirrell, all of Weymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennock will reside at Wollaston, and will be at home Wednesdays in September.

Edgren—Anderson.

There was quite a gathering at St. Paul's Swedish church Wednesday evening to witness the marriage of Mr. Carl Edgren to Miss Hannah Anderson, both of Quincy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Swanson, pastor of the church, after which a reception was held at the church, at which refreshments were served. Following the reception at the church Mr. and Mrs. Edgren repaired to their new home on Cranch place where a reception was given to the immediate friends.

That pond at the junction of Crescent and Miller streets is being filled up with stone chips. This has always been a mud hole and if the Commissioner can fix it he will receive the blessing of the whole of West Quincy.

In his sermon Sunday evening, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church took strong ground against the apologizing for wrong doing which has recently been so noticeable in the press editorials. Such apologizing for sin is dangerous to the wrong-doer, dangerous to the others who may be placed in similar situations of temptation, dangerous to the sympathizer himself, and inimical to the cause of righteousness. The less men feel the guilt of sin, the less they feel their need of a saviour, and, by the same token, the greater that need. "Yield not to temptation, for yielding is sin."

Merit

Made and Merit Maintains the confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla. If a medicine cures you when sick; if it makes wonderful cures everywhere, then beyond all question that medicine possesses merit.

Made

That is just the truth about Hood's Sarsaparilla. We know it possesses merit because it cures, not once or twice or a hundred times, but in thousands and thousands of cases. We know it cures, absolutely, permanently, when all others fail to do any good whatever. We repeat

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion, biliousness. 25 cents.

You Look to Your Husband,

Mrs. Newlywed, for protection from the storms of life—but don't be ungrateful.

Our word for it, the state of the masculine stomach is responsible for more social and business woes than most people wot of—even when they're wotting for all they're worth.

Our advice to you, madam, is to keep your husband's "inner man" in prime order, through the medium of MERRILL groceries; and, as a reward, you will find the outer man healthier, wealthier and wiser for it—and more comfortable to live with!

Our injunction to shippers of goods to our establishment is always, "We want best quality first and will talk about prices afterwards."

Isn't it better to buy Tea, Coffee, Flour, Cereal goods, Butter, Cheese, Eggs, and a thousand other articles you have to use in your house, of a firm with twenty years' experience right here in Quincy, than take chances with peddlers or cheap John places in Boston where you know nothing of what you are getting until too late to change? You know every thing you buy of us is fully guaranteed pure and wholesome.

The Time to Buy Carpetings.

THIS Dingley Bill you've heard so much about, is like the old wolf story. You've heard increased prices cried so much, that when they actually do come, you are inclined to discredit them. Fact is, however, that wool has already advanced. Carpet mills have just increased prices from 5 to 10 cents per yard, with a still further increase positively assured for the near future.

If you wish to buy carpets at the lowest prices the world has ever known, do so at once, before present stocks are sold. You'll never know what down right panic prices are, if you don't take advantage of them now. We will hold the old low prices as long as possible. A word to the wise is sufficient.

THE BICYCLE RAILWAY.

Inventor Boynton Talks of Its Advantages to Quincy.

Mr. E. Moody Boynton, president and treasurer of the Boynton Bicycle Railway System, visited Quincy last evening and gave an interesting talk upon his system at Savings Bank hall. But a few hours' notice had been given of the lecture and therefore there was not as many present as there would have been with more notice, but those present were more than repaid, for the talk was a very interesting one. Mr. Boynton illustrated his talk with stereopticon views showing the cars, engines, stations, structure, etc. In the course of his talk, Mr. Boynton said, that among the advantages of his system were that but a single line of rails were used and it was not necessary to cover up the street as is now done in many places. The bicycle trains have but one third the weight of ordinary trains, no noise and no dust. Two bicycle trains can be run on one set of poles placed in the middle of the street with scarcely any obstruction.

Another important factor is the cost, as a structure for two lines can be built for one-fifth the cost of the present elevated structure in New York. Some of the cars built weigh but five tons and have a seating capacity of 108 people, while one story cars can be built weighing about three and one-half tons and with a seating capacity of 54.

Many schemes have been advanced for rapid transit but the average speed is but ten miles an hour. Real rapid transit can be obtained by the bicycle road where a speed of from 90 to 115 miles an hour can be attained with perfect safety.

Mr. Boynton claimed that it was possible to make the trip from Quincy to Boston on an express train in five minutes and in ten minutes with the stops. Each car is supplied with thirty-six doors and a car of 108 passengers can be emptied in a few seconds.

The motive power now used on the cars was electricity and the trains would take the sharpest curves with no jar, going at the highest speed.

Mr. Boynton said he was ready to answer any questions and several took advantage of the opportunity.

It was claimed that with the line passing through Quincy that an inestimable benefit would be derived as it would increase the population and the taxable property.

Almost Landed a Prize.

The Beatrice took out a cod fishing party Wednesday and among the number was a gentleman whose place of business is not a thousand miles from the Adams building. When off Minot's light the party began to fish and each was, of course, anxious to hook the largest fish. Suddenly our friend felt a strong tug at his line and a heavenly smile illuminated his countenance. So hard did his line pull that he thought he must have hooked the anchor and Capt. Cavanagh was sent below to see if that was all right. Finding the anchor secure our friend commenced to haul in his line and after some exclamations which served to attract the attention of the rest of the party, he was seen to raise a large skate fish above the water.

He did not know what species of the finny tribe he had hooked, but when informed that he had secured a rare specimen known as a three tailed chicken halibut, his interest reached a fever heat and so anxious was he to secure his prize that he shouted for the boat hook, but before that was forthcoming his line parted and he lost his capture. So melancholy did he become that the party finally took compassion on him and brightened him up by telling him what he had upon his line.

Doing a Good Work.

The Violet club is composed of four little girls belonging to the Sunday School class of Mrs. Herbert F. Nye. These children are devoted workers for the Universalist church and they are making a noble record for good deeds. Tuesday night, the club presented to the parish committee a tablet for the front of the church bearing the pastor's name, the hour of services, etc., which it had undertaken to provide. The work was performed by Messrs. Gay and Newcomb, who kindly contributed their services. Wednesday the club presented to the Ladies' Aid Association a beautiful marble clock which was purchased from the money raised at various entertainments in which the members took part. The gift now adorns the ladies' parlor of the church and is highly appreciated by the association. What club so small can show an equal record?

—The second festival of the choir guild was held at the Church of the Advent, Boston, Wednesday evening, and the third occurs next Wednesday at St. Paul's church.

GROCERS' BANQUET.

Quincy Grocers and Others Entertained at Braintree.

The Braintree Grocers and Provision Dealers association entertained the Old Colony Grocers and Provision Dealers Union, in Odd Fellows' hall, South Braintree last night.

A grand spread was laid by the committee, Mr. H. W. Mansfield, Mr. Josephus Sampson and Mr. O. A. Bridgham, consisting of lobster salad, cold meat, roast turkey, ice cream, cake, coffee. Music was furnished by Cuff's orchestra.

It was 9.45 when the president, Mr. O. A. Bridgham rapped for order and introduced as the first speaker, Judge French, who spoke of the objects of the association, of the advancement that has been made during the last fifty years and he created much merriment by telling a story.

The other speakers were Rev. A. A. Ellsworth, Rev. C. F. H. Crathern, Editor Crooker of the Observer, Rev. Mr. Clark of Weymouth, Mr. Whitman of South Braintree, and Mr. Keon, president of the Old Colony Association. Each speaker received his share of attention and applause, and everyone present felt that this, the first banquet was indeed a success.

The matter of a union picnic was discussed and it was voted to go to Crescent Park. The date was left to be arranged by the committee, but July 29th, seemed to be favored by nearly all present.

Fine Concert at Weymouth.

Last evening a large audience listened to a fine concert given in the Old North church under the auspices of the Weymouth Heights Social Club by the following talent: Miss Agnes Hyde, reciter and impersonator; Miss Mary Virginia Hastings, soprano; Harry R. Bates, baritone; Lewis B. Canterbury, tenor; E. Walter Arnold, baritone; Frank Swift, in his original imitations and songs; Commonwealth Male Quartette and Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, pianist.

Miss Hyde is a reader of the first class and very much pleased the audience with her numerous selections. Her rendering of "A Ghost Story," being particularly good. Miss Hastings of Wollaston has a beautiful voice and her solo "For all Eternity" with violin obligato by Mr. Nelson Smith was very fine. Mr. Swift captured the house with his clever imitations, the "Mocking Bird" being very well rendered. Other numbers are worthy of special mention but space forbids. The programme was excellent throughout.

Church Robbed.

St. Anthony's Catholic church at Cohasset was entered by burglars Wednesday night by breaking a window in the basement. The parties broke open the poor box and secured its contents. They also took the communion plates, the call bell and a gold chalace, the latter having been presented to Fr. Eagan by his former parishioners at Charlestown. They also carried off some of the priestly robes. Not being satisfied with taking everything of value they could find they smashed and twisted several of the chandeliers.

QUINCY BOY INSTALLED.

Rev. C. H. Porter, Jr., Becomes Pastor of Hingham Church.

The installation of Rev. Charles Hunt Porter, Jr., of Quincy, as pastor of the New North Unitarian church at Hingham, took place Wednesday afternoon and was very largely attended, many Quincy friends being present. The church was very prettily decorated with palms and lilies. The order of services was as follows:

Organ prelude,—Redemption.
Anthem,—"Lovely appear."
Invocation,—Rev. W. S. Jones.
Trio,—Violin, harp and organ.
Reading of Scriptures,—Rev. M. C. Ward
Hymn,—Choir.
Sermon,—Rev. Francis G. Peabody, D.D.
Hymn,—Choir.
Prayer of installation,—Rev. Samuel A. Eliot.
Anthem.
Charge to minister,—Rev. E. C. Butler.
Right-hand of fellowship,—Rev. J. W. Day.
Anthem.
Address to people,—Rev. C. T. Billings.
Closing prayer,—Rev. Joseph Osgood, D. D.
Hymn,—"St. Anne."
Benediction,—Rev. C. H. Porter, Jr.

The music, which was exceptionally fine, was by the following: Mrs. Lester M. Bartlett, soprano; Mrs. Sewell H. Hooper, contralto; Mr. James C. Bartlett, tenor; Mr. Morris F. Whiton, bass; F. O. Nash, organist; F. A. Kennedy, violin; Miss Edith Allen Howe, harp.

Accidentally Shot.

There was a narrow escape from a serious shooting accident on Garfield street last evening shortly after seven o'clock. At about this time Mr. James B. Fletcher was getting ready to shoot a cat, and gathered about him to see the fun was Mr. Fletcher's two sons and John Brownrigg. Mr. Fletcher brought out his gun, while the three spectators took seats on a nearby log.

The gun happened to be loaded, but Mr. Fletcher did not know it. He blew down the muzzle to see if it was clear, and finding that it was not he held it in his hands, examining the trigger, with the muzzle pointing toward the three spectators. The charge exploded and Brownrigg received a severe flesh wound back of the ear, which would have resulted seriously had the gun been loaded with shot. He was taken into the house and Dr. McLennan summoned, who dressed the wound.

King's Daughters' Social.

The "Pastor's Helpers" Circle of King's Daughters gave a social in the basement of the First Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening. Owing to the showers during the evening the attendance was reduced, but a pleasanter gathering there has not been for many a day. The following programme was given:

Solo,	Mr. Bowman,
Reading,	Miss Esson,
Solo,	Miss Maggie Milne,
Reading,	Miss Mackenzie,
Solo,	Miss Duthie,
Duet,	Miss Maggie Milne, Miss Maggie Esson,

Every number received a hearty encore. The selections were well chosen, in each instance. Afterwards, lemonade and cake were served by the young ladies in charge.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. TODAY'S COURT.

John Daly was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frank Deree was arraigned for being an idle person and for disturbing a religious meeting at Weymouth. The complaint for disturbing a religious meeting was placed on file and the complaint for being an idle person he was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory at Concord.

James Galvin was arraigned for breaking and entering the house of C. P. Anderson on April 7, and the larceny of an umbrella, a boa and a tin box, all valued at $10. Case continued until Friday morning.

The case of William Connors of Weymouth was called and again continued for one week.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

"Take a Sneak."

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

A certain officer of this city frequently uses the term "take a sneak," when ordering people to move off the sidewalk. At times the term "can you play checkers" is used.

If the officers of this city are instructed to speak in this manner when on duty, it is time the public was notified to that effect, in order that people may understand what an officer means; or it is high time the city of Quincy appoint on the police force men who will speak the plain American language when ordering people to move along on the sidewalk.

M'KINLEY AN OPTIMIST

Notable Gathering at Banquet at Philadelphia Bourse.

Philadelphia, June 3.—In the great exchange room of the bourse, last night, the commercial leaders of the Western Hemisphere assembled at what was probably the most notable banquet of its kind ever given on this continent. It was notable not only in point of number—nearly 1500 persons participating—but in the distinction of the guests.

The banquet was notable not only in point of number, nearly 1500 persons participating, but in the distinction of the guests.

President McKinley was there, and he spoke to the assembly. Seated also at the table of honor were Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Attorney General McKenna, Congressmen Dingley, Dalzell, Grosvenor, Heatwold and Tawney, the ministers from Mexico, Brazil, Chili, Argentine, Venezuela and other South American governments. The Chinese minister and a number of other eminent officials of the Capitol.

Owing to the number of guests nearly an hour was occupied in getting them seated, and almost immediately after this had been accomplished a great shout from the eastern end of the hall announced the arrival of the presidential party.

Escorted by Mayor Warwick and Dr. William Pepper, president of the Commercial museums, and followed by Secretary Porter, the cabinet officers and foreign ministers, the executive passed to his seat amid a storm of cheers.

President McKinley sat at the right of the presiding officer, Dr. Pepper, and on his other side sat Theodore C. Learch. The secretary of agriculture, the attorney general, Mayor Strong of New York, Mayor Warwick and a number of the foreign ministers occupied the same table.

Governor Hastings opened the list of toastmaking by responding to "A Welcome From Pennsylvania." Theodore O. Learch followed with "Our Manufacturing Industries," the Brazilian minister spoke, and ex-Secretary Olney then responded to "International Law." The ex-secretary said in part:

"I hasten to say that I have taken some pains to be here at this time, because I heartily sympathize with the objects of the Philadelphia museums, and have entire faith in their accomplishing great results. Your museums are but a device by which, for practical purposes, foreign countries come to us instead of us going to them, by which their raw materials and their manufactures and the crucial facts respecting them are brought to our doors for our information and examination, instead of having to be sought by expensive journeying to other lands. If the American man of business wants all the world for his customers, another thing he wants almost as badly is to reach them with his wares without necessary dependence upon the marine of any foreign state. He wants to conduct his foreign trade in American bottoms under the American flag. He wants to feel that the more he exports and the more he imports, the more he is building up what should be the most important industry of the country."

The Chinese minister answered to "The Orient," and then followed President McKinley's speech in response to the toast, "The President of the United States." He said:

President McKinley's Address.

"Mr. Toastmaster, gentlemen of the Manufacturers' club and delegates to the international convention:

"Ladies and gentlemen: For the cordiality of your reception I am indeed grateful, although from my recent experience in this great city it is not surprising. A recent visit to your city gave me an opportunity to feel the warm heart touch of the people of Philadelphia and to enjoy their hospitality. I must tell you that from first to last I have been deeply impressed with the scenes witnessed in Philadelphia today. I have seen the remarkable spectacle of the representatives of all the American republics with the products of their skill and their soil in one great warehouse. The first great convention of these republics was organized by the diplomacy of that splendid American, James G. Blaine. Seven years ago he brought the governments of this continent together and taught the doctrine that general reciprocity in trade required reciprocity of information. And it was his genius, with that of many gentlemen I see around this board tonight, that originated the bureau of American republics located in the capital city, which has already done much good, and which I believe will yet play an important part in our trade relations with the governments supporting it. My fellow citizens, there is no motive to make a product if you can't find somebody to take it. The maker must find the taker. You will not employ labor to make a product if you cannot find a buyer for that product after labor has made it.

"Gentlemen, I am glad to meet the representatives of the American republics here tonight. I am glad to meet representatives of the governments of all the world here tonight. I have met the manufacturers of Philadelphia and the state of Pennsylvania. I met you in the days of your highest prosperity. I cannot avoid meeting you if I would, and I would not if I could. But let me tell you, my countrymen, a resuscitation will not be promoted by recrimination. The distrust of the present will not be removed by distrust of the future. A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist, and we have got to be patient, for much as we may want to move out of the old house we cannot do it until the new one is finished. A tariff law half made is of no practical use except to indicate that in a little while a whole tariff law will be done, and it is making progress. It is reaching the end, and when the end comes we will have confidence and industrial activity. Let us keep stout hearts and steady heads. The country is not going backwards, but forwards. American energy has not been destroyed by the storms of the past. It will yet triumph through wise and beneficent legislation. Philadelphians have in the past shown what busy industries and what employed labor can do to make a great city and a contented population. They do not mean to accept the present condition as permanent and final. They will meet embarrassments as they have bravely met them in the past, and in the end will restore the splendid industries and the magnificent labor to prosperity, and, gentlemen, Philadelphia is but the type of American pluck and courage everywhere throughout our great United States."

Following the president, Minister Ferez of Mexico, San Fernandiz of Costa Rica, the Argentine minister and Congressman Dalzell responded to appropriate toasts.

ARMISTICE RENEWED.

Turkey Promised to Sign Today---General Review of Situation.

London, June 3.—The Turks have promised to sign the extension of the armistice, and it is expected that peace negotiations will begin promptly at Constantinople.

King George, it is understood, has yielded several points with a view of hastening the negotiations and of bringing about the Turkish evacuation of Thessaly. In this matter it is said that the Russian government has promised to support Greece. The Turkish military commission continues to hold long sittings at the Yildiz Kiosk, and it is very evident that the general impression in Constantinople is that the peace negotiations will collapse, and that the war will be renewed.

The plan of sending Crown Prince Constantine to London has been abandoned, as the trip might be interpreted either as a desertion from his post in time of danger or as a removal from the chief command, and, consequently, a disgrace. The likelihood is that Prince Nicholas will go in his stead.

Both King George and the crown prince have offered to forego a portion of the civil list in view of the straitened finances of the country.

National League.

At Boston—

The Bostons yesterday, through terrific batting in the first inning, and Wilson's wildness in the second, made a total of 14 runs before Cleveland realized that the game had begun. Klobedanz was practically invincible after the first inning, while all the home team still further fattened their batting averages.

Calhoun Maintains Reserve.

Havana, June 3.—Mr. Calhoun, the American special commissioner to watch the Ruiz investigation, maintains a strict reserve as to his own opinion of the case, and says that the nature of his report to the government cannot be made known except through the government. He has, however, stated that his own mission here has not the importance given to it in some sections of the American press, which greatly exaggerate the actual condition of Cuban affairs.

Dauntless' Crew Arraigned.

Key West, June 3.—The 35 men found on the Dauntless were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Otto, charged with unlawfully and feloniously beginning to set on foot, provide or prepare means for a military expedition against Spain. Colonel Nunez, their spokesman, pleaded not guilty, and the case was postponed until the 9th. Each person is held under a bond of $100, furnished by Carlos Recio.

Durrant Loses Again.

San Francisco, June 3.—Murderer Durrant's first effort to gain a respite, by appealing to the federal courts, has failed, United States Circuit Judge Gilbert having refused to issue the writ of habeas corpus for which his attorneys applied. Notice of the intention to appeal to the United States supreme court has been filed, and today application for leave to appeal will be made formally.

is there any reason for dodging and ignoring a great and vital fact simply because a few prejudiced, misguided people have antiquated ideas of what constitutes morality and modesty? Reason and honesty say —certainly not. Men and women are attracted to each other because they are men and women and because it is right and necessary that they should be so attracted. The things that make a man attractive are the characteristics caused by his inherent manliness—by the strength which makes him a perfect man. The same is true of woman. There is strong attractiveness in perfect health. There is fascination and magnetism in it. A woman cannot be entirely womanly—she cannot be a perfect woman—if she is not in perfect health. In just so much as her sickness affects the organs that make her a woman, in just so much she loses attractiveness. This is the vital part of her health. If anything is wrong there, it may result in all manner of ills all over the body. Careless, or too busy, physicians frequently treat the symptoms of this kind of disorder as separate and distinct ailments. The symptoms are many and varied, so much so that when a woman is sick in any way, the first thought should be given to the organs distinctly feminine. About 9 times in 10 the cause of the trouble will be found there. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all disorders of this kind. There is no guesswork about it. There is no chance about it. It is a fact that has been demonstrated in 30 solid years of extensive practice.

Thousands of women have written grateful letters, who have wished the whole world of women to know the wonderful things the "Prescription" has done for them.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Sold by all druggists.

MILITIA FIRES ON MOB

Would-Be Lynchers at Urbana, O., Are Shot Down.

Two Men Killed and Seven Badly Wounded.

Over a Thousand Men In the Attacking Party. More Troops Asked For.

Urbana, O., June 4.—The grand jury last night reported an indictment against "Click" Mitchell for criminally assaulting Mrs. Eliza Gauder, white. Then Sheriff McLean and his deputies brought Mitchell into court in a soldier's uniform. As the militia were on duty about the courthouse and the jail this guise of the prisoner worked perfectly. The crowds that were about the grounds and in the streets did not know what was going on. The doors to the courthouse were all guarded by the militia. With the military about the building and the crowds outside, Mitchell was badly scared. He waived the reading of the indictment, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the extreme limit, 20 years in the penitentiary.

After Mitchell was sentenced and the sheriff was ordered to take him to Columbus tonight there was trouble. The mob demanded the prisoner. The jail was strongly guarded by the militia. The governor refused to send more troops to Urbana last night.

At 1:30 this morning the mob advanced on the jail. For two hours the jail was surrounded by a howling mob of at least 1000 to 1500 people. Advances were being made so close to the guards that they at last were ordered to fire on the crowd, and at least 20 shots were fired.

The killed are: Harry Bell, shot through the head; ——— Hagins, shot through the body. Wounded: Dr. Charles Thompson of North Lewisburg, shot in the head; West Bowen of Cable, shot in the hip; Ray Dickerson, shot in the shoulder; Dennis Granery, shot in the leg; Zack Wank, shot in the arm; Sherman S. Deaton, shot in the hip; Ray McClure, shot in the arm. Physicians are on the ground attending to the injured. The sheriff has wired Governor Bushnell for assistance.

Officials Sustained.

Boston, June 4.—The joint committee of the board of aldermen and common council, appointed to investigate the recent purchase by the executive department of a municipal printing plant, submitted its report to the common council last night. The majority of the report declares that the executive department, in the purchase of the printing plant, acted honestly and prudently, and secured for the city a fair value for the money expended, and that the establishment of a municipal printing plant was, and is, for the best interest of the city. There was no evidence to prove any fraud, negligence or undue influence employed by any person in regard to the purchase of the printing plant now owned by the city. Aldermen Presho and Berwin, and Councilman Miller dissented.

An English Tariff Editorial.

London, June 4.—The Daily Chronicle, in an editorial on the tariff debate and the allegations that the United States senators have been improperly involved in sugar stock speculations, says: It would be hard to find a more striking instance of the folly of protection as the real cure of economic depression. While the British exchequer is full to overflowing, the American treasury is suffering from a deficit. If we should be fools enough to begin this business of tariff tinkering which destroys all commercial stability, we would soon find ourselves in the same predicament.

A Theater Dynamited.

London, June 4.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: Great excitement has been caused here by the act of a number of Hungarian Chauvinist agitators at Buda-Pesth, who, by scandalous scenes and outrages, succeeded in driving from the new Comedy theater there a company from the burg theater of Vienna. The agitators laid dynamite cartridges around the theater and exploded them. One person was killed and another seriously injured.

Making a Distinction.

London, June 4.—In the house of commons yesterday Mr. John Dillon, chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, asked if the government proposed to follow the example of all civilized nations, upon occassions of great national rejoicing, and brant amnesty to the Irish treason-felony prisoners. Mr. Balfour denied the relevancy of the question, and declared that the prisoners referred to, in view of the house, did not belong to the classification of political prisoners.

Fell From Window.

New York, June 4.—Mrs. Mariamme M. Kauffmann, wife of Isaac Kauffmann, the millionaire lace importer, met with probably a fatal accident last night at Bath Beach, Brooklyn. She and her husband were staying at the Argyle hotel. After they had retired for the night, she rose in the dark and in some unaccountable way fell out of the second story window, sustaining severe bruises and a compound fracture of the leg. Amputation was necessary.

HER HAIR TURNED GRAY.

Trying Experience of a Lone Woman in an Isolated Lighthouse.

Boston, June 4.—A special to The Transcript from North Sydney, C. B., says: A tragic story from the lonely lighthouse on Great Bird rock, far out in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 50 miles northeast of the Magdalen islands, has been brought here by the schooner Rob Roy, just in from the islands. The supply steamer of the Dominion government, which visits the lighthouse quarterly, called at the rock on May 5. The only person there was the wife of the lighthouse keeper, Angus C. Campbell.

Campbell and two seal hunters had been carried out to sea on the ice three months ago, and probably perished. Mrs. Campbell ever since has kept her lonely vigil on the rock tending the lights nightly and watching for her husband by day.

The skipper of the supply steamer asked Mrs. Campbell how she managed to get through the winter. She said: "I can hardly tell. I know I have kept the light burning. It was a dreadful experience all alone on a rock. I might just as well have been in the middle of the Atlantic so far as the prospect of getting relief was concerned. Although I have plenty of provisions, I do not think I have eaten more than one meal a day. My hair has turned gray. I have seen no living things except sea birds and seals. I fancy I will just beginning to go crazy when you came."

Decision Affecting Bequests.

Portland, Me., June 4.—An important decision affecting a bequest made by the late Ira P. Farrington of this city has been handed down by the supreme court. By Mr. Farrington's will two-thirds of the residuary estate, after certain bequests were paid, was to go to the Maine eye and ear infirmary of this city, to be devoted to charitable purposes. Mr. Farrington's heirs at law brought a bill in equity to restrain the executors from paying the legacy to the infirmary, on the ground chiefly that by law the infirmary could not hold property in excess of $100,000. They asked that the property so devised be distributed among the heirs. The defense contended that no one but the state could raise the point, and that the heirs had no standing in court in this matter. The law court has just rendered a decision sustaining the contention of the defense. The amount involved is about $200,000. Chief Justice Peters drew the opinion.

Securities Sold.

Nashua, N. H., June 4.—The most important stock sale that ever occurred in this city took place yesterday afternoon for the purpose of raising a part of the 10 per cent dividend to be paid the depositors of the Nashua Savings bank on July 15. In all 519 shares of gilt edged stock were offered, nearly all being sold. Fifty-eight shares of Indian Head National bank stock sold at $60 per share, one share Jackson company stock brought $912.50, 10 shares Nashua Manufacturing company from $505 to $513, 200 shares Pennichuck waterworks stock, $163.50 to $171 per share; 25 shares Quincy Railroad Bridge company at $160. The remainder of the stocks was not sold, all bids being too low. The sales made aggregated $47,000.

Maine Medical Association.

Portland, Me., June 4.—The Maine Medical association yesterday elected the following officers: President, Dr. W. K. Oakes, Auburn; first vice president, Dr. E. A. Thompson, Dover; second vice president, Dr. G. M. Woodcock, Bangor; corresponding secretary, Dr. H. B. Palmer, Farmington; board of censors, Dr. W. B. Moulton, Portland; F. C. Thayer, Waterville; W. J. Maybury, Saco; E. M. Fuller, Bath; A. King, Portland; committee of publication, the recording secretary (ex-offico), Drs. H. H. Brock, Portland; G. C. Parker, Winthrop; W. T. Goodale, Saco; G. M. Elliott, Brunswick; business committee, Dr. F. J. McDonough, Portland; A. S. Gilson, Portland.

Editor In Contempt.

Worcester, Mass., June 4.—Austin P. Cristy, publisher of the Worcester Telegram, and R. C. Finley, its court reporter, appeared before Judge Dewey in the superior civil court yesterday afternoon to answer to a charge of contempt of court, by publishing an article commenting on a case on trial. The judge took the case away from the jury and summoned the newspaper men Judge Dewey took the case under consideration.

NO RECORD KEPT.

Peace Negotiations at Constantinople Conducted Without a Secretary.

Constantinople, June 4.—The ambassadors of the powers and Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, held the first sitting of the peace negotiations yesterday afternoon at the Tophane palace. There was no secretary present and no record will be kept of the proceedings.

It is understood that the result of three hours of deliberation was that Count Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, will prepare a memorandum as to the rectification of the frontier; M. Cambon, the French ambassador, a memorandum as to the capitulations in the case of Greek subjects in Turkey, and Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, a memorandum as to indemnity.

The conference then adjourned to meet again tomorrow to consider these memoranda.

Commanders Sign Armistice.

Athens, June 4.—It is officially announced that an armistice has been signed between the Greek and Turkish military commanders in Thessaly and Epirus.

National League.

At Boston—

Boston won from Cleveland in a short, decisive game that was uninteresting after the first few innings. There were no sensational plays. Young was an improvement over Wilson, who pitched for Cleveland Wednesday, but the visitors were unable to make their hits count. Long's home run was made by the aid of a ball put over the fence.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. BOAT CAPSIZED.

Race of Floral Yacht Club Postponed—All Went to Rescue.

The race of the Floral Yacht club Thursday afternoon in Weymouth Fore river came to a rather sudden end, for it looked for a few minutes as though one of the skippers would be drowned. The race had started and the boats were on the way up the river, when a sudden puff overturned the Violet, and her skipper, Capt. Nathan Pratt, was tumbled into the water. The boat turned bottom side up and Capt. Pratt swam for her and held onto her until help arrived. The accident was seen by the other boats in the race and by parties on shore. All thoughts of the race were abandoned and the boats all put to the rescue of Capt. Pratt, and he was saved from a watery grave.

THE GRANITE DUTY.

Congressional Report of Debate in Senate.

Credit for Increase Due to Senators Lodge and Gallinger.

Documents for and Against the Increase of Duty.

The LEDGER has already reported in brief the action of the National Senate in increasing the duty on imported dressed granite. It is pleased today to give the Congressional Record of the debate which took place on Tuesday. It will be seen that great credit is due Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Gallinger of New Hampshire for the outcome. Quoting from the Record:

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Finance was, in paragraph 115, page 31, line 14, before the words "per centum," to strike out "forty" and insert "fifty;" so as to make the paragraph read:

115. Freestone, granite, sandstone, limestone, and other building or monumental stone, except marble and onyx, not specially provided for in this act, hewn, dressed, or polished, 50 per cent ad valorem.

Mr. VEST. I move to strike out "fifty" and insert "thirty."

Mr. President, it becomes my melancholy duty to call the attention of the Senator from Rhode Island to another rate in excess of that in the McKinley Act. He informed us that there were only five or six. I think we have already gone over some thirty or forty—I have not enumerated them—and here is another duty exceeding that in the McKinley Act. The further we go with this bill, I am sorry to say, the more evident it is that our friends on the other side have lost all respect and veneration for their great ideal tariff act, named after the President of the United States. I ask for the yeas and nays on the question of agreeing to the amendment.

MR. LODGE. Mr. President, I do not desire to take up any time on this schedule or on this particular duty, but I do wish to say that it is far from being a high duty. It strikes me and always has struck me that it is one of the lowest, in view of the comparative labor cost. The labor cost here is just double what it is in Scotland, and it is a very heavy competition for us to meet. I myself think the duty ought to be a great deal higher. The cost of the product is almost entirely labor, and having to pay here just double wages, renders it absolutely necessary, unless we want to drive the granite industry out of this country, to give it adequate protection. I consider this very far from what it ought to be. It is less than what is given to marble.

Mr. GALLINGER of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I shall not occupy much time, as I am very anxious to vote on the amendment, but I wish to put in the Record some facts concerning the matter under discussion.

First, without reading, I ask permission to insert in the Record an extract from a letter received by me from J. G. Batterson, Jr., who is very largely interested in the manufacture of granite in my own city as well as in other cities of the country, and whose firm furnished the beautiful granite that was used in the construction of the Congressional Library. I ask permission to have the letter inserted in the Record without reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and that will be the order.

The letter is as follows:

NEW YORK, May 28, 1897.

MY DEAR SENATOR: You will be conferring a great favor and earning the everlasting gratitude of the stone cutters and manufacturers of New England if you succeed in increasing the tariff on finished work to a point where American labor can compete with the foreign product. There are only a few concerns in the United States who make it a business of importing, and the majority of those have little or no financial standing; and any statements made by them as to hardships imposed upon them by increase of tariff are of no importance as compared with the other side of the question.

There are about 15,000 stonecutters in the United States, and 10,000 of those men are employed in New England. The granite centers, such as Quincy, Barre, Concord, and Westerly, have suffered severely during the past few years of hard times; and the small work, such as headstones and small monuments costing from $100 to $500, on which the small manufactures have been depending for their work, has been, through competition with foreign granites, so cut to pieces that there is nothing left in it for any except those handling foreign work on commission.

Yours truly, J. G. BATTERSON, JR.
HON. JACOB H. GALLINGER,
United States Senate Chamber, Washington, D. C.

A letter from the Concord Commercial Club also appears in the Record indorsing action of granite manufacturers.

Mr. GALLINGER. I will read a letter received a short time ago from T. P. Sullivan, of Concord, N. H., who has had very large experience in the matter of manufacturing granite, but who is not now in that business. He writes me as follows:

CONCORD, N. H., May 10, 1897.

MY DEAR SENATOR: Your favor of the 6th is at hand; also a copy of the Dingley amended tariff bill. I would say that of course I am interested in the granite end of it, although I am entirely out of the business; but nevertheless I am interested in every item in the bill that keeps United States dollars to be spent in the United States instead of having them spent in any other country. As to the granite part of it, the item on the rough material is probably all right, because I think from the nature of the European quarries we can not get hurt from that source; but there are some in Canada and the Provinces that we should have no special cause for allowing to be opened up at our expenses; but I think 14 cents sufficient.

As to the duty on dressed granite, it should be more than 50 per cent. ad valorem. While 50 per cent. may look large, the real fact is that 50 per cent. of the duty on the actual cost is as much as we ever get on account of no real supervision or intelligent inspection at the port of shipment. Today the entire granite importation is in the hands of combinations that control the price and control who the buyers are to be on this side, and in many cases it is the same firm in Scotland that ships and invoices to itself in the United States, and you can imagine what sort of an invoice you might expect for ad valorem purposes. The price they sell for here is not controlled by any honest margin of profit on the selling price in Scotland, but is simply placed low enough to just beat the salesman of American granites.

One well-paid, competent granite expert in Scotland could have saved, at least in some years in the past, over $100,000 a year in the establishment of proper costs on manufactured granite when offered for importation into this country, and I presume the same defect will be found in connection with every other article that is imported on an ad valorem duty. The granite cutters in this country get from $2 60 per diem to, say $3, at an average. The grades run in about that line. The same grades in Scotland would run at from 90 cents to $1 25 per day, and 50 per cent. of duty will not protect us by any means.

Today granite is not a product of any particular section of our country. Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, Missouri, Georgia the Carolinas are in fact greater granite states than either of our New England states, and in either can be found as fine a granite as can be found anywhere. And with such a vast field to compete from, I don't understand why we should have a single foreign granite monument in our country. If the same conditions existed in any country of Europe as to other products the United States could not sell a single dollar's worth there. There are granite dealers in every section of our country trying to establish business, and these people should be given all the aid possible.

The Brady monument in Atlanta shows as fine a class of granite as can be found in the world. Virginia, from Petersburg to Fredericksburg, can show as fine and as varied granites as can be found, and in all those places men are struggling to establish a business, and I cannot see why the farmer or the millionaire who enjoys the privilege of making money and selling his goods in the best market of the world should not be compelled to buy his goods in that same market.

In view of the combinations in Scotland and the United States, and in view of the easy way goods can be sent at a reduced value, and they can beat our market if the price was placed at 80 per cent. ad valorem, and it should not be put at any less. You will find nobody to oppose it, excepting the middlemen, who manipulate invoices and prices in this country, and the paid attorneys or lobbyists from the millionaire Scotch granite dealers. I remain yours,

T. P. SULLIVAN.

HON. JACOB H. GALLINGER,
U. S. Senator, Washington, D. C.

That, Mr. President, is expert testimony from a man of thorough American instincts, and whose sole interest is for the welfare of American producers and laboring men. His words carry infinitely more weight than that of importers who desire to break down the American market so that they can sell imported monuments.

From the accompanying comparative tables, which I desire to submit, it will be seen that the manufacturers of granite work and their workmen, to be fairly protected against the low wages paid abroad, are entitled to a duty of 100 per cent. ad valorem placed on finished granite to equalize the cost of labor. If the proposed duty remains, it would be but fair to make a compound duty adding say fifteen or twenty cents per cubic foot to the ad valorem duty. Even that would only partially protect the American manufacturer, but it would be a great help, and I shall hope that the committee of conference may revise the rates as I suggest.

Santa Rosa, capital of Santa Rosa county, Cal. has a Baptist church, which holds over 200 people, built entirely from timber sawn out of a single redwood. Timbers, weather-boarding and inner lining are all of wood, there being no plaster or bricks and mortar about it. The roofing too, is of shingles cut from the same tree, and after it was all finished there were 60,000 shingles left.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

The Time to Buy Carpetings.

THIS Dingley Bill you've heard so much about, is like the old wolf story. You've heard increased prices cried so much, that when they actually do come, you are inclined to discredit them. Fact is, however, that wool has already advanced. Carpet mills have just increased prices from 5 to 10 cents per yard, with a still further increase positively assured for the near future.

If you wish to buy carpets at the lowest prices the world has ever known, do so at once, before present stocks are sold. You'll never know what down right panic prices are, if you don't take advantage of them now. We will hold the old low prices as long as possible. A word to the wise is sufficient.

CUPS FOR YACHTS.

A. L. Baker Offers Two for Boats of 13 Feet or Less.

A. L. Baker a well known citizen of Wollaston and an enthusiastic member of the Wollaston Yacht club has presented the club with two silver cups valued at $15 and $10 to be raced for by any boat owned in Wards Five and Six of thirteen feet and under.

There will be three races which will be sailed on June 17, July 5 and August 14, under the auspices of the Wollaston Yacht club.

The conditions are: Boat winning best two out of three races wins first prize, cup valued at $15. Boat winning next best out of their races wins second prize, cup, valued at $10. An entrance fee of 50 cents will be charged for each entry, entrance must be made to Mr. George C. Ela, Secretary Wollaston Yacht Club Regatta Committee, at least three hours before race starts. Each boat must carry her number on each side of her mainsail, same to be furnished by applying to Mr. Ela at the club house, foot of Beach street, Wollaston Park, at least one hour before race.

Course to be sailed over is as follows: Across starting line between judges boat and flag boat, leaving flag boat to port, to stake boat off Faxon's beach, leaving it to port to and across starting line, leaving flag boat to starboard and repeat, making two miles.

Hoisting red flag and firing a gun from judges boat will be preparatory for this class, five minutes later starting gun will be given from judges boat. When a steam yacht is used for judges boat a whistle will be given instead of a gun. These races will start soon after the fourth class has got away.

Mr. F. W. Green official measurer of the W. Y. C. will be at the club house to measure all boats before the race. No restrictions on sail, no time allowance, time limit, 2 hours and 30 minutes. Crew, two men allowed for each boat. Protests must be made in writing to judges within one hour after race is finished. For any other information address Mr. W. J. Coombs, chairman Regatta Committee, Wollaston Yacht club.

Q. & B. WON.

The Invincible West Enders Meet Their First Defeat.

The newly organized ball club of employes of the Quincy & Boston street railway covered themselves with glory at Field's Corner on Thursday. Their rivals were Div. 3 of the West End company, who had not lost a game this season, and who have a challenge ouf to play any street railway club in the State. The Quincy boys won by a score of 20 to 13. The features of the game were the effective battery work of Hayes and Dunn, the fielding of Faircloth, Gould and Chubbuck, and the batting of Putnam, Gould, Faircloth and Dunn.

HILL—BENNETT.

Popular Young People at Atlantic Married Last Evening.

Miss Agnes C. Bennett and Mr. Walter P. Hill were quietly married Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen M. Bennett, of Newbury avenue, Atlantic. Rev. F. L. Bristol, of Bristol, a former pastor of the Memorial Congregational church, was the officiating clergyman.

Miss Blanche Bristol, a cousin of the groom, was maid of honor, and Mr. Stephen E. Bennett, a brother of the bride was best man. The bride was gowned in light blue taffeta silk trimmed with chiffon and lace, and wore a veil; in her hair were lilies of the valley, and she carried bride roses. The maid of honor wore white silk and carried pink roses.

The couple were married at 7.30 beneath a bell of bridal wreath. Only the immediate families were present. From 8 to 9.30 a reception was given, at which the people of Atlantic generally and many from Quincy, Boston, Melrose, Dorchester and elsewhere called to offer best wishes and congratulations.

A pretty display of presents was made, including a piano from groom to bride, a dinner set from Boston & Albany railroad employes who work with the bride's father, a substantial gift from the Novelty Wood Works where the groom is head bookkeeper and assistant manager, and many articles in silver, china and bric a-brac.

A shower of rice awaited Mr. and Mrs. Hill when they left last evening for Boston. After a brief trip they will take up their residence with the bride's parents. They will be at home after July 1.

Missing Yacht.

Quite a flurry was caused in yachting circles on Thursday afternoon by the discovery that the big Cape cat Arbutus, owned by Messrs. Amos L. Merritt and Charles W. Hall of this city, had disappeared from her moorings off the Quincy Yacht club house, and was supposed to have been stolen. The boat is one of the finest and most costly in the Quincy Yacht club's fleet. Word was sent to Captain Bragdon of the harbor police of the loss. Search was immediately begun for the missing craft. Late last night it was learned that the James Bros. of Hull had found her on Bumkin island at about eleven o'clock in the forenoon. She had apparently broken away from her moorings and drifted over to the island. They put up her jib and ran her into Hull harbor.

Sewer Contracts.

At a meeting of the board of Sewer Commissioners Thursday evening the contract for building the first section of the brick sewer was awarded to Charles G. Craib of Boston, whose bid was $22,900. This section is about one mile in length and extends from the pumping station to a point about 200 feet south of Coddington street.

The board also awarded the contract for furnishing 600,000 brick to George R. Sampson of Middleboro whose bid was $7 50 per 1000.

A Good Game Saturday.

The T. R. & S. team has showed up wonderfully at the commencement of the season, both in the field and at the baf, and on Saturday they will cross bats with the Dedham base ball club when some hot playing will be seen. The Dedhams are considered to be a very strong team. On Saturday, June 12, the team will go to Haverhill to play the Haverhills, and it is expected to take a party of fifty friends which will be interesting for both teams. Don't forget the game Saturday afternoon, June 5, at 3 P. M. sharp.

SELECTMAN IN COURT.

Is Held Responsible as Individual for Acts as Official.

Ansel O. Clark, chairman of the board of selectmen of Braintree, was arraigned in court this morning, upon complaint of Edward B. Putnam of the State Police, for violating the law relative to the employment of labor which says that nine hours shall constitute a day's work by employes of corporations.

The complaint alleges that Clark, as manager of the Braintree Electric Light plant, the same being owned by the town of Braintree, employed Sydney S. Tilden and Joseph L. Folsom at the plant more than nine hours.

Mr. Clark was represented by Charles C. Mellen, Esq., who moved to quash, on the ground that the complaint was improperly drawn, as no offence was described in the complaint, and that the complaint was against Mr. Clark as an individual and not against the town of Braintree as a corporation.

Mr. Putnam had little to say except to state that he had secured three convictions under like circumstances during the last three years.

The court was somewhat in doubt as to jurisdiction and took the matter under advisement and continued the case one week.

Young Men's Christian Association.

A prayer service will be held in the rooms Sunday afternoon at 3.30.

The spring Sloyd classes close this week, after a very successful session under the direction of Mr. Nowland. It is probable that another class will be organized for the summer.

The Junior cycle club will make its second Saturday excursion, Saturday morning, probably to Fort Point. The last trip was to Blue Hills observatory, where a lunch was eaten and the sights viewed.

The association will send a cycle team to Worcester tomorrow. The outcome is uncertain, as the men have unfortunately been unable to run together this season. The bad weather has interfered so with the athletic work at the park that the plan for sending a team had been abandoned. Possibly, however, a team may be sent to Springfield, June 19. There is also some talk of having a field day in Quincy soon.

The educational exhibit has just been returned from Mobile, Ala., where it was viewed by visitors from all over the country. The monumental designing and Sloyd work attracted particular attention. The work will at once be placed on exhibition in Quincy, probably in one of the large store windows.

June Magazines.

Elihu Burritt, "the Learned Blacksmith," was in many respects one of the most noteworthy characters that New England has produced during the century. The extent of his linguistic attainments, self-trained as he was without the privileges of the schools, was something remarkable and almost incredible. But he was not simply a machine for learning languages; he was a man of a most virile mind, of great public spirit and of world-wide sympathies. Miss Ellen Strong Bartlett's article upon him in the June number of the New England Magazine will be widely read. We do not know of any better popular account, and it is rendered the more valuable by the fine portraits of Mr. Burritt which accompany it, the views of his various homes and haunts, and the curious fac-similes of many of his productions. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

TILLMAN AND TARIFF.

Two Important Features of Yesterday's Senate Proceedings.

Another Sugar Investigation Not Wanted by Senate.

Metal Schedule Disposed of---Sugar Debate Almost at Hand.

Washington, June 4.—The senate again made good progress on the tariff bill yesterday, covering about 10 pages of the metal schedule and almost completing it. The formal contest against the measure was not maintained, but all the amendments that tended to change the bill as reported were voted down and the finance committee sustained. The debate was mainly of a technical character, the Republican senators continuing the policy of refraining from making speeches.

Before the tariff bill was taken up, Senator Tillman of South Carolina gave the senate another hour of exciting controversy over the proposed sugar investigation. He defended himself from public charges relative to his administration of the governorship of South Carolina, and then moved that the committee having charge of the sugar resolution be discharged from further consideration of it, thus bringing the sugar schedule directly before the senate. Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire, in behalf of the committee, made a spirited protest against this course, and also urged that the senate should not turn asid from its public work to investigate charges affecting the private character of senators.

There were frequent lively changes between Mr. Tillman, Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Jones (Nev.), but Mr. Tillman withdrew his motion.

Day In the House.

Washington, June 4.—The house proceedings yesterday were enlivened by a single incident, the attempt of Mr. Terry (Dem. Ark.) to secure consideration as a privileged matter of a resolution for the immediate appointment of the committee of foreign affairs, in order, as the preliminary whereas recited, to permit action on the senate Cuban belligerency resolution. It was ruled out of order, and an appeal taken from the decision of the chair was laid on the table by a strict party vote.

Mr. Simpson, the Populist leader, was absent, and several bills were passed by unanimous consent. The Frye bill, to prevent collisions on certain harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States, and the senate resolution for the relief of the El Paso flood sufferers, amended so as to make the appropriation of $10,000 out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation for the Mississippi flood sufferers, were passed and the conference report on the Indiana appropriation bill was passed.

State Department Investigating.

Washington, June 4.—Inquiry at the state department as to the firing on the Ward line steamship Valencia by the Spanish cruiser Maria Mercedes at the entrance of the harbor of Guantanamo, Cuba, is met by the statement that the matter is under investigation. It is said that more than a year ago the attention of the Ward Line Steamship company was called to the fact that the commanders of some of their vessels running into Cuban ports failed to fly the United States colors, and thus made it difficult for the Spanish navy to establish their identity. The Valencia was new to this particular line, and the Spanish naval officers did not know her from her appearance. In such cases it is customary to call for an exhibition of the ship's colors, first by firing a blank shot, and if this is disregarded, by a solid shot across the bows. This affair happened within the three-mile limit.

Posting the Senate Committee.

Washington, June 4.—Captain W. D. Smith of the Cuban army, and said to have formerly been on the staff of General Gomez, was before a sub-committee of the senate committee on foreign relations yesterday. He supplied the committee with many details as to the strength of the insurgent forces and their resources, and also furnished much information concerning the treatment of pacificos and other residents of Cuba by the Spanish. His testimony was strictly guarded by the committee as private.

Arbitration Conference.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., June 4.—At yesterday's session of the international arbitration conference at Mohonk Lake there was a large attendance. There was much discussion of Edward Everett Hale's resolution, proposing a special embassy from our government to the government of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Austria and Russia in behalf of the establishment of a permanent international tribunal.

New York Cloakmakers Will Strike.

New York, June 4.—Notice has been served upon the cloak manufacturers that their employes are preparing for a strike, which will be second in magnitude only to the tailors' strike. The cloak makers are 1000 strong. The manufacturers have been invited to a conference at which a new scale of prices will be ordered. The men say that they cannot exist under the present scale.

Its Work Concluded.

Detroit, June 4.—The quadriennial session of the Loyal Legion has concluded its work. Many amendments to the constitution were offered. Only one amendment was adopted, which admits to membership officers and the sons of officers who had served in the war, but whose names were not upon the official muster roll.

Home Wrecked by Wind.

Dallas, June 4.—A very severe wind and rain storm prevailed yesterday throughout a good portion of north Texas. The wheat and oat crops are just about ripe for harvesting, and fears are expressed that the crops have been greatly damaged. Hundreds of houses were blown from their foundation.

Preacher Shoots Himself.

Philadelphia, June 4.—Rev. Adam Boley, pastor of a Lutherian church in this city, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in a room at the Swiss hotel. No cause is known.

OUR COMMERCIAL RELATIONS.

Speaker at Philadelphia Congress Declares Proposed Tariff Inimical to Trade.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The international commercial conference held its session yesterday in the Philadelphia Commercial Museum hall. A number of addresses were delivered by foreign delegates, all of which related to the commercial, banking and industrial conditions prevailing in the respective countries represented by the speakers, and in all of which suggestions were embodied looking to the increase of trade with the United States. Prudencio de Murgiondo, Uruguyan consul general at Washington, made an address in which he said:

"The representatives of South America stretch out their hands to you of the United States, asking that they may be permitted to trade with you by an exchange of products. But we feel that the efforts this great institution, the Philadelphia museum, to open up commercial relations with us, will be futile to a great extent, and entirely prohibitory, as concerns Uruguay, if the tariff bill, such as is proposed, is passed by the honorable congress of the United States. Our hearts go out to this great republic as our friend, but when you close the door of commercial intercourse on our faces we can do nothing."

The products exported from Uruguay to the United States, he said, are wool, hides, skins and hair. A heavy tariff on these articles would act as a prohibition of their import, and hence would prevent that interchange of products which is so greatly desires.

Doggerel In Prayer.

Springfield, Ills., June 4.—The chaplain of the house, Rev. David G. Bradford, opened proceedings yesterday in the legislature with the following fervent prayer: "Almighty God, we seek thy presence and blessing at the beginning of another day's diligent labor. Help us, pray thee in the discharge of this day's duties. Help these men to remember the poor tax-burdened people of this great state. Contract, we pray thee, the capacious maw of the penal reformatory, charitable and educational institutions of Illinois. May they learn to be content with less money, and may we who refuse to worship a golden calf refuse also to worship gold in any other form. Forbid that any foreigners visiting our shores shall ever again have occasion to write:

"Money, money is all their cry;
Money's the total sum.
Give us money or else we die,
Oh, let the money come.'

"And we will ever give thee endless praise—amen." This prayer was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Scheme to Corner Whisky.

New York, June 4.—The Journal says: A private message of over 10,000 words from Louisville to New York capitalists—a message involving one of the most gigantic schemes ever devised—was received here day before yesterday. Great financial interests here are deep in cogitation over a proposition to corner two-thirds of the whiskey in the United States. They are contemplating the formation of a pool to buy up 80,000,000 gallons of whisky, now in bond in the state of Kentucky. The plan necessarily implies advancing the price of whisky. Among the other reasons urged is the statement that the banks, which have loaned money on the liquor held in bond, are afraid of a decline in price, which will effect the money they have already loaned.

Respite for Durrant.

San Francisco, June 4.—The attorneys for Theodore Durrant again appeared before Judge Gilbert in the United States circuit court yesterday and applied for a writ of supercedeas for the purpose of staying the execution of sentence, but this was denied by the court. An application for leave to appeal from this decision to the supreme court of the United States was then granted. Attorney General Fitzgerald told Warden Hale to take no action in the premises pending the appeal. As the United States supreme court does not meet again until October next, this virtually means a respite for six months at least.

Lowell Professor Going to Scotland.

Lowell, Mass., June 4.—Christ P. Brooks, director of the Lowell textile school, has been appointed special representative of the United States bureau of education to the international congress of technical education in London, June 15.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Forecast for New England: Thunder storms, clearing at night; cooler in southern portion; high south westerly winds, becoming northwesterly.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The Portland (Me.) Transcript's building was damaged to the extent of $2000 by fire last night.

Joseph W. Davis, 62 years old, one of the oldest members of the Boston Stock Exchange, died yesterday.

F. H. Bigelow, '98, of Worcester, Mass., was unanimously elected captain of the Harvard Mott Haven team last night.

Trouble in the New Foundland fishery waters, on account of the bait act, passed at the last session of the New Foundland legislature, has been continuous throughout the present season.

Spanish securities were nearly one point higher on the London Stock Exchange yesterday, owing to the hope that the resignation of the Canovas ministry means a speedy termination of the Cuban troubles.

Thetariff reform committee of the Tariff Reform club has established headquarters at Washington and intends to maintain an organization until the close of pending legislation. James G. Parsons is in charge of the undertaking.

A banquet is to be given at Montreal on the evening of June 21 in honor of the queen's diamond jubilee, and invitations have been issued to ex-presidents Cleveland and Harrison to attend. It is expected that the former, at least, will be able to accept the invitation.

The Beverly, Mass., board of aldermen has granted permission to the Lynn and Boston Railroad company to equip the branch to Beverly cove with electricity. There has been considerable opposition on the part of the summer residents at the cove to such action on the part of the board.

G. D. Bates, department commander of the Connecticut G. A. R., has announced the following staff appointments: Department inspector, James T. Twichell, Meriden; judge advocate, William E. Simonds, Hartford; chief mustering officer, Theodore A. Sage, Middletown; senior aide-de-camp, A. S. Chickering, Putnam.

Pauncefote Going to London.

Washington, June 4.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, called at the state department yesterday. He gave notice that he expects to go to London with his family, sailing on the 24th of the present month, with the intention to be absent from Washington about four months. The summer home of the embassy will be at Newport, or Manchester-by-the-Sea, N. H., just which has not been determined.

Altgeld Denies Charges.

Chicago, June 4.—Ex-Governor Altgeld denies in detail the charges brought against him in the report of the special committee of the state senate, of which Senator Berry is chairman. The former governor said: "So far as his report is concerned it is not simply unfair, but is absolutely untruthful. The testimony on which the report is based was shown to be untruthful. It is intended simply for political effect."

King of Siam In Rome.

Rome, June 4.—The King of Siam, Chulalongkorn I, has arrived here. He was received at the railroad station by King Humbert and the crown prince of Italy and was driven to the Quirinal, where he was received by Queen Marguerite and the crown princess. Chulalongkorn will visit the pope today.

Torrens Law Unconstitutional.

Columbus, O., June 4.—The supreme court has declared the law unconstitutional which last winter adopted the Torrens system of recording land titles. The law is similar to that in Illinois.

Throat Accidentally Cut.

Waltham, Mass. June 4.—F. C. White, engineer at the Roberts paper mill here, met with a peculiar and possibly fatal accident while sharpening the knife of a lawnmower upon a grindstone. In some manner the knife slipped, inflicting a deep gash in Mr. White's throat and reaching within a short distance of the jugular vein. The doctor took 14 stitches in the wound, but states that the chances for his recovery are very slight.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 4.—The Boston elevated bill passed to a third reading in the senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 2. Every hostile amendment was rejected, although not until after a prolonged debate. In fact, almost the entire day was given up to the discussion of this important measure. The committee on agriculture reported ought not to pass on the bill for the better enforcement of the oleomargarine law.

Spalding's Stock Farm Sold.

Merrimac, N. H., June 4.—The stock of the Naticook stock farm here, owned by President C. W. Spalding, late of the Globe Savings bank of Chicago, was sold at auction yesterday. There was a large attendance, including Hebert Skinner, President Spalding's private secretary. The farming implements brought a very good price. Seven finely bred horses and one pair of heavy work horses were sold.

Renominated by Governor.

Boston, June 4.—Governor Wolcott has renominated Charles F. Donnely of Boston, and Henrietta G. Codman of Brookline as members of the state board of lunacy and charity.

Prodding the Senate.

Chicago, June 4.—The National Business league has sent out a letter to the most prominent business men in over a hundred different cities asking for their immediate action in urging the United States senate to dispose of the tariff question before June 15. It is the intention of the league to keep up this kind of work until the senate is thoroughly informed of the desire of the business men in every part of the country.

Cora Routt Arrested.

New York, June 4.—Cora Routt, the dancer of Seeley dinner notoriety, was arrested yesterday on acharge of stealing silver from the La Grange hotel here. It is said that the stolen property was found in her trunk.

Calhoun Leaves Havana.

RHEUMATISM

THE EXPERIENCE OF A COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

The Social Realm.

A glow in the crimson clover,
A laugh in the bubbling spring,
The flower-decked sod is a gift from God,
There is joy in everything.
—Grace F. Pennypacker.

Wollaston seems to be the favorite village for bridal couples this season, no less than three out of town couples selecting a home there the past month. Wollaston is a pretty place and the people are cordial and progressive.

Miss Edith Randall is riding a bicycle.

It is at present good form for a widow to use her late husband's full name on her visiting cards, for formal invitations and social purposes, instead of her own name as formerly.

Commissioner Knowlton attended the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Knowlton, of Swampscott, on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Emery L. Crane has become a bicyclist.

Mr. Bert Pennock, one of South Braintree's popular young men, was this week united in marriage to Miss Edith Tirrell a well known young lady of Weymouth. They are to make their home at Wollaston being at home Wednesdays in September. Wollaston will doubtless extend to the young couple its usual cordial welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Adams are at the old presidential house on Adams street, for the summer.

The marriage of Mr. Edward A. Haskell of Newton Centre and Miss Jennie Frances Thayer of Braintree is to take place at Braintree next Wednesday, June ninth.

Mrs. Maud Livingston who has been visiting friends on the Cape is now at her summer home in Quincy.

It is said there were over a dozen engaged couples at the Crane-Sargent wedding Wednesday night, so there are many more weddings to be anticipated in the future. Some will take place this month, others in the early fall.

Class Day invitations have made their appearance this week and caused the usual flutter of excitement among the lucky recipients.

Miss Irma C. Tilton celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary Friday afternoon by entertaining a few friends of about her own age, at the residence of her parents on Merry Mount road, from 3 to 7 o'clock. The young misses passed the hours in an enjoyable manner with games and music, the inclement weather keeping them in doors. At 6 o'clock light refreshments were served, the march to the table being a feature of the occasion. Miss Irma received a number of pretty birthday remembrances from her young friends.

Children's Sunday is the event of the month among the little ones and the churches are preparing for the day.

The Washington Street Congregational church is one of the first to announce the date for its observance of Children's day, which will be one week from tomorrow, the thirteenth.

The white wedding at the St. Paul's church on Wednesday evening was one of the prettiest ever celebrated in the church and there have been many. The bride, Miss Hannah Ericson; the bridemaids, Miss Mary Vitting and Miss Annie Edgren and the little flower girls, Ethel Johnson and Rosie Olson were all in white organdie and carried white flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edgren are at home to their friends at their new home on Cranch place.

Mrs. Walter Russell Breed is to give a reception at the rectory next week for the parish of Christ's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden A. Thorndike, and Mrs. Samuel Thorndike, of Braintree, sailed last week from New York for England. They expect to make a tour of the world and will be gone a year or more.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw have become converts to the joys of cycling.

It is said that in Paris the women of fashion wear their hair waved all over their heads. The severe simplicity adopted by many Americans only finds favor with domestics.

Miss Elsie E. Drinkwater who has been spending several weeks in New York as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Mitchell returned on Saturday to her home in Braintree.

The bridal party at the wedding of Mr. Everett Crane and Miss Lottie Sargent at Bethany Congregational church, Wednesday evening was a very pretty one. The bride's dress of white silk, the maid of honor in white organdie over green and the bridemaids in white organdie over pink, made a group of dainty coloring. Miss May McPhail was maid of honor and the Misses Sargent, sisters of the brid were bridemaids. The best man was Mr. Ernest Gourd and the ushere, Mr. Delcevare King, Mr. Walter Sampson, Mr. William Tanner, Mr. Ernest Fitts, Mr. William Isaac, and Mr. Walter Sargent.

THE GRANITE DUTY.

Congressional Report of Debate in Senate.

Credit for Increase Due to Senators Lodge and Gallinger.

Documents for and Against the Increase of Duty.

CONTINUED.

I wish to have printed in connection with my remarks the comparative tables to which I have alluded, and which have been furnished by the Granite Manufacturers' Association of Quincy, Mass., showing the relative cost of granite monuments in Scotland and in this country, and the rate of duty required to equalize the cost, from which it will be seen that in almost every instance it would require 100 per cent. upon finished granite to equalize the labor cost between this country and Scotland, from which latter country so many of our granite monuments are brought.

The statement referred to appears in the Record.

MR. GALLINGER. A little time ago a resident of my own city, who was born in Sweden and from which country he recently came after a visit of several weeks, stated as an absolute fact, which he determined from inquiry and observation while in his native land, that quarrymen in Sweden, from which some granite is coming to this country, are working fourteen hours a day for 39 cents, and that the stonecutters are working twelve hours a day for 87 cents. He made a comparison of those wages with the wages paid in Concord, N. H., Barre, Vt., Quincy, Mass., and other large granite centers, and it appears that in Concord and the other places they are paying for nine hours' labor $1.80 a day as against 39 cents a day in Sweden for fourteen hours.

MR. CHANDLER. For quarrymen?

MR. GALLINGER. Yes, for quarrymen, and we are paying our granite cutters a minimum rate of $2 65 for nine hours' work, while in Sweden they are working twelve hours for 87 cents. That is upon the authority of a native of Sweden, who has recently visited that country and who brings back absolutely correct information.

Mr. President, I do not intend to delay the Senate, although much other valuable information could be furnished on this subject. My own judgment is that the proposed duty of 50 per cent, which the Committee on Finance have suggested, while larger than the House rate, is entirely inadequate; and if I were not extremely anxious to have the bill passed, believing that it will tend to relieve the business distress that has overtaken almo t every American industry, I should be inclined to make a contest for a larger rate. For this reason I will forbear offering an amendment, but will repeat the hope that when the bill gets into conference, the granite interests of this country may be better protected than they are even by the Senate amendment, to the end that the men who are engaged in this great industry in the United States may be fully and adequately protected from the cheaper labor of foreign countries. That is all the American granite manufacturers ask, and their demand is both reasonable and just.

MR. MILLS. Mr. President, I understood my friend, the Senator from Massachusetts, [Mr. Lodge] to say a while ago that the labor cost in this work is twice as great in the United States as in foreign countries. Therefore, he justified the high rate imposed by the pending bill for the equalization of the difference in labor cost of the foreign and the domestic product. I find by our census returns, as to marble and stonelwork, in the United States, that the labor cost in 1890 was $41.58 in every $100 worth of product, and as to limestone, $46 61.

Now if these two sums are double the labor cost in foreign countries, $25 in the $100, or 25 per cent., would cover the difference; but the amount given, at $46.61 and $41.58, would cover the entire labor cost. So forty per cent. in the bill would cover the entire labor cost. It would cover not only the difference, but it would make a present to the manufacturersof marble and stone and limestone—they are all in the schedule. The Government would give to those parties a sum amply sufficient to cover all their labor—not the difference, but the whole of it.

My friend the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER] said we ought to have 100 per cent. if I understood him correctly. A hundred per cent. would cover all cost—the cost of material, the cost of labor, the cost of everything. When we put 100 per cent. on articles which we purchase in a foreign country, free on board, which covers a margin of profit to the man who is conducting the business, it covers the entire thing, and not the cost of labor only. The quotation of prices of labor by the day amounts to nothing. We know that the machinery makes the great reduction in the cost of labor in this

A DEPUTY CULPRIT

By FRANCIS LYNDE.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]

Vigo—not the Spanish city of that name, but Vigo of the coal mines in Harmony valley, Tennessee—had two daily events—the departure of the passenger train in the morning and its arrival at supper time. To do honor to both of these the Vigon corps de loisir was wont to gather in force on the station platform twice a day, and, knowing this, Inspector Jaffray dropped from the farther side of the incoming train and beckoned to a man who stood in the shadow of a loaded coke car on the mine siding.

"How are you, Layne? Let's get away from here before anybody recognizes me," he said. "You got my letter?"

"I did so. Hit come last night."

"Good. I hope it won't put you out to take care of me."

"I reckon you know better'n that," said Layne reproachfully. He was a Tennessee farmer in whom hospitality was in some sort a birthright, and Inspector Jaffray was an old friend.

"I do know it, but it's one of those things a man says from force of habit. Have you seen Cantrell?"

"Yes. He'll be 'long up to the house after he's called the mail. I didn't tell him you all was comin."

"That was right."

Layne led the way up to the mine shoot, keeping behind the coal and coke cars, and from thence they skirted the village, reaching the farmhouse in its farther fringe without meeting any one. As a man the inspector was known throughout his district as a jovial companion, the best of story tellers and an undisguised good fellow, but as an officer of the postoffice department he was skillful to plan, quick to execute and a very beagle of the service in the secrecy of his methods and the rapidity of his movements. And it was an as officer that he came to Vigo on this September evening.

The little mining town was the terminal station on the Long Mountain branch of the railway and the distributing office for a biweekly mail route which included a half dozen villages in the upper end of the valley. Within a month a number of valuable letters and packages had been missing on this route, and the inspector had come to Vigo to locate the leak, and, having found it, to stop it.

Will Cantrell, the Vigo postmaster, met him at Layne's after supper, and the inspector was soon in possession of such information as Cantrell had to give.

"You say it's always money that's missing?" asked Jaffray after the postmaster had told what he knew.

"Yes, mostly. But as far as we know it began with a ring that John Corny ordered from Nashville for his girl. It came this far all right because I mind seein a little package marked to John. But he says it nev' did re'ch him."

"What kind of a ring was it?"

"Plain gold was what he sent for. There was goin to be a marryin, I reckon."

"Where does Corny live?"

"Up in Loder's Cove. Graffville's his postoffice."

"That's this side of the gap, isn't it?"

"No, it's on the far side, the way the route's carried. Ande'son goes up on this side of the valley and comes back on the other—makes a circuit."

"Humph! Anderson's the carrier, I suppose. What do you know about him?"

"Well, I don't know. Lafe's a toler'ble good sort of a boy—son of old man Ande'son up on Long mountain. Does his work all right, far as I know, and I nev' heard anything against him."

The inspector nodded absently and began to make idle hieroglyphs with his pencil on the margin of a newspaper he had been reading. Cantrell waited patiently for the final question, and presently it came.

"What is your theory about this thing, Cantrell?"

The postmaster tilted his chair and thrust his hands deep into his pockets. "I don't know as I've got any, Mr. Jaffray. Seems like it's amongst half a dozen of us up here, and I reckon I'd better stand on a line with the rest till you find out who's doin it."

"But you reported the thing yourself," said the inspector.

Cantrell smiled. "Ye-es. But a heap bigger fool than I am might've thought of doin that."

"That's so. We'll keep you in mind as one of the possibles," said the inspector. But he laughed in a way to set Cantrell's mind at rest upon that score. Then, with a sudden return to the business of the moment: "Let's see. Tomorrow is the regular mail day. I suppose you have the pouch Anderson carries?"

"Yes. It's down at the store."

"Get your hat, and we'll go down and have a look at it."

They went out together and stumbled along the rocky road through a half mile of inky darkness to the country store. Cantrell admitted his companion, struck a light and found the pouch. It was old and well worn, and the inspector pointed out a small hole frayed through one of the creases in the leather.

"Why haven't you reported this?" he asked.

"I have. I've kicked about it till I'm plumb tired. You know the supplies for the route are ordered by Godfrey at the gap, and I've sent word to him by Lafe half a dozen times."

Jaffray threw the pouch under the counter. "That's the leak," he said briefly. "Good night."

And the next morning, when Farmer Layne would have called his guest to breakfast, the porch bedroom was empty.

At half past 8 the same morning young Anderson rode up to the porch in front of Cantrell Bros.' store, threw the lean mail pouch across his saddle and set out whistling upon his 23 mile ride to the gap. He was a handsome young fellow, as the mountain youth go, which is to say that he was not leaner than was consistent with grace and suppleness, that his face had not yet taken on the expression of settled melancholy which seems to be the heritage of the mountain folk, men and women, and that his eye was bright and fearless, and his laugh had the ring in it which is supposed to vouch for a light heart and a clear conscience. If Inspector Jaffray, being endowed with the gift of invisibility, could have ridden beside the mail carrier through the September forenoon, he would have seen nothing amiss. At Bray's Flat, at Powderville, and again at Long Mountain, Anderson kept well within the letter of his instructions, handing the locked pouch to the postmaster and lounging about in front of the store until it was brought out to him again. At the Gap, however, which was the end of his route for the day, he hitched his horse before the largest of the three stores and carried the pouch back to the high desk, where

"Howdy, Lafe?" she said, getting down to open the pouch.

"Purty toler'ble. Whar's you uns pawr?"

"I don't know—down to Lukens', I reckon."

She pulled the strap through the staples and, dumping the mail on the counter, began to call it off to the group of expectant loungers and townspeople, keeping up a desultory conversation with the mail carrier at the same time.

"Doc Parks, Many Golfin, John Trevor—what—all news is there down at Vigo, Lafe?"

"Nothin much, not as I heerd."

"You'd nev' hear anything, nohow—Jeff Greer—Eph Sanders—here's a letter for you—all, Eph—hawss gone lame, Lafe?"

"No. Why?"

"Thought you—all seemed sort of tired—Bud Gordon—Wiley Pryor"—

Lafe straightened up, and then thought better of it, resuming his lounging position on the counter because it brought him nearer to her. She went on calling the names, and he watched her dexterous fingers juggling the letters and stole occasional glances under the brim of his soft hat at her face. It was a face for which the language provides no adjective. "Pretty" is too trivial. "Beautiful" is too fine. It was a face on which strength of character was written very legibly and yet without marring its womanly attractiveness; dark eyes that mocked oftener than they caressed; finely penciled brows; masses of dark hair gathered back into a heavy knot which was transfixed by a lead pencil; a nose that would have been pert without the correcting suggestion of firmness about the mouth and chin; a young woman who would rise to her opportunities, one would say, adding the saving clause that she would probably never miss them if they should happen to pass by on the other side.

When the last of the expectant ones had gone, Lafe asked, "Have you told you uns pawr yet, Willie?"

"Reckon I have to be, don't I?"

She twisted the ring on her finger and smiled down upon him. "There's plenty of time." Then suddenly, "Where did you—all get this—get this ring, Lafe?"

"Bought hit, of course. Whar did you 'low I got hit?"

"I didn't know. I was just thinkin of John Corny and Annie Hester. He 'lowed to get her a ring and says he sent to Nashville for it. It nev' did come, and now Annie she don't believe he ever meant to get it, and she won't so much as say 'Howdy?' to him. Didn't you all hear about it down at Graffville?"

Lafe's lips said "No," but he looked up into her eyes and changed it to "Yes." Then some one came in, and there was no more said about John Corny or his ring.

The dew was still on the grass the following morning when Lafe called at Godfrey's store for the mail pouch. The girl brought it out to him.

"Lookout you all don't fall off the hawss," she said, mocking him. And then, by way of compensation, "Maybe I'll tell paw before Friday."

"I wisht you would, Willie. Seems like I cayn't look him in the face no mo' till you do. He wouldn't take nothin from me, but he'll listen at you."

"Maybe," was all she would say. But she stood on the porch and watched him as long as he was in sight.

Graffvillle was the first office on the return route, and when the carrier went in with the mail the postmaster was busy. When he got around to the government's business, he made a show of hurrying. He was relocking the pouch, when a farmer drove up and came in with a letter in his hand.

"Hold up a minute, Mr. Johnson—got a letter to go in thar, and I reckon it'll have to be registered."

'Shucks!" said the farmer, mopping his face with a bandanna. "Done druv fo' mile to get that thar letter off this mornin. Hit's got $10 in for that feller that sold me the mowin machine, and I 'lowed to him he could count on hit shore today."

"Cayn't he'p it, Mr. Kilgore. Like mighty well to do you all a favor, but I cayn't hold the mail to register no letters now. Orders is mighty strict."

Then Lafe spoke up: "Thess put hit in with the rest of 'em," he suggested. "Might' nigh ever'body does that away."

The farmer hesitated for a moment and then concluded to risk it, and five minutes later Anderson was once more jogging on his way to Vigo.

There was the usual crowd of loafers in Cantrell Bros.' store when the mail carrier rode up to the porch and dismounted on the high platform. Throwing the bridle to his 10-year-old brother and giving the pouch to Will Cantrell, Lafe edged his way into the group of loungers to distribute his budget of up valley gossip.

Cantrell went behind the counter and disappeared beyond the low partition which fenced off a sleeping room in the end of the building. Behind the partition Inspector Jaffray was smoking a cigar, sitting with his chair tilted back at a comfortable angle against the wall. But he came out of his listlessness with a jerk when Cantrell entered with the mail pouch.

"Open it quick—right here," he commenced. And in a moment he had scanned the address on every letter in the small heap.

When Bud Cantrell came in, the inspector handed him a $10 bill. "Go into the crowd out there and ask if any one can change it. Give Anderson a chance to do it if he will."

Cantrell came back almost immediately and gave the inspector four bank notes. There were two twos, a one and a five, and Jaffray glanced at the numbers before putting the money into his pocket.

"He's our man," he said quietly. "Go and talk to him and take him to the door with you. When you see me at his other elbow, grab him and hold him. Do you understand?"

Cantrell nodded and sauntered back into the store. "Want to see you a minute, Lafe," he said, linking his arm in that of the mail carrier and leading him toward the front door. On the step Cantrell saw the inspector over Lafe's shoulder and obeyed his instructions literally. There was a fierce struggle, like that of an unbroken horse when he first feels the weight of a man on his back, ending in the ratchetlike click of the handcuffs, and then the prisoner relapsed quickly into quietude and sullenness.

Jaffray spoke to Cantrell. "I want you to come with me. We'll take him up to Layne's for the night."

Lafe suffered himself to be walked away between them, and no word was spoken until they reached the porch of the farmhouse. There the inspector placed three chairs and sat down to question his prisoner.

"You may as well make a clean breast of it, my boy," he said after Lafe had sulkily resisted for a time. "It'll go easier with you in the end, and I'll do what I can to get your sentence shortened if you'll open your head and tell us all about it."

In the silence that followed this appeal there was a rustling in the laurel bush at the end of the porch, and Jaffray got up to investigate. He came back in a moment, apparently satisfied, but this was because he failed to see little Joe Anderson cowering under the drooping branches of the laurel.

"You'd better open up, Anderson," he repeated. "We've got all the evidence we need; but, as I say, I'll do all I can to help you if you'll tell us the whole story."

Whereupon, being something less than a hardened criminal, the young mountaineer broke down.

"I don't keer much what—all you do with me, 's long as you git me out of here 'fore pawr 'r—'r Willie Godfrey fin's out," he said. "I reckon she'd say things 'at I nev' could forgit. Hit all commence' with that thar ring of John Corny's. You see, I done ast Willie, and I was a-wonderin which way I could git a ring when that thar little box dropped out thoo the hole in the mail bag. I knowed what hit was, 'caze John he 'lowed to me he was a-lookin for hit. I didn't 'low to keep hit, and I on'y opened the box to see what for kind of ring hit was. But that thar very evenin I slipped hit on Willie's finger, thess in fun, an she 'lowed I done meant hit to be her'n."

The sweat stood thickly on his forehead, and he tried to get his manacled hands around to his pocket for a handkerchief. Jaffray helped him and said, "Well, what then?"

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 6. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The tongue as a Christian's tool.—Ex. iv, 1-17.

The tongue is a small but powerful organ of the human body. It is powerful for good or powerful for evil as it is used for good or evil. With the tongue, "bless me, God, even the Father, and then with curse me, men, which are made after the similitude of God. Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing." This is possible and often an actual fact, but the Christian should use his tongue in but one way—as a tool for God.

In the topical reference Moses, feeling the responsibility of leading the children of Israel out of Egypt, tries to escape it and pleads that he is not eloquent enough to perform the duties of the task. But God promised him that He would be with him and tell him what to say. Let us note:

1. The kind of a tongue that should be a Christian's tool. It should be a consecrated tongue—one so unreservedly consecrated to God that when it spoke God spoke. It is not a question of eloquence or of slowness of speech. The eloquent tongue and the stammering tongue may both be used for God if they are only thoroughly consecrated to Him. Many overrate and many underrate the importance of eloquent speech. Let us always bear in mind that it is not a question of eloquence, but of consecration.

2. The ways of using the tongue as a Christian's tool. The tongue may be used in many ways for God and Christ. Moses was to use his in breaking down opposition to God's people and in calling them back to God and to freedom. The tongue may be used in praising God. It may be used in denouncing wrong, as when Nathan declared David's sin to him, as when Christ so often denounced the sins of the Pharisees. How often we hear God's name used in vain, Christ and His church defamed, and yet never utter a word of defense or in condemnation of the wrong. The tongue should specially be used spreading the gospel of Christ, in leading sinners to Christ, in comforting and consoling the unfortunate and afflicted in the name of Jesus Christ.

3. The time for using the tongue as a Christian's tool. It should be God's time. Moses was to speak when God directed him to speak. God's time is the opportune time. Harm is often done. Good fails to be done very often because of the inopportune use of the tongue. There is a time to speak and a time to be silent. We should study the time to speak. To know just when to speak is as important as to know how to speak or what to speak.

Let us consecrate our tongues to God in Jesus Christ. Let us ask Him what we should say, when we should stay it and how it should be said.

Bible Readings.—I Kings xviii, 36-39; Ps. xxx, 1-5; xxxiv, 1-14; cv, 1-7; cvii, 1-3; Prov. x, 19, 20; xii, 17-19; xv, 4; xviii, 21; xxi, 23; Math. v, 16; Luke xii, 8-10; John iii, 11; Jas. i, 26; iii, 1-18; I Pet. iii, 10, 11; I John iv, 14.

Depend on Christ.

Reckon on Christ to do His part perfectly. Directly you give He takes. Directly you will open the door He enters. Directly you will open the floodgates He pours in a glorious tide of fullness—fullness of wealth, of power, of joy. The clay has only to be plastic to the hand of a Pallissy, the marble has only to be pliant to the chisel of a Michael Angelo, the organ has only to be responsive to the slightest touch of a Handel, the student has only to follow the least hint of a Faraday or a Whewell, and there will be no failure in results. Oh, to be equally susceptible to the molding influences of Christ! We shall not fail in realizing the highest ideal of which we are capable, if only we will let Him do His work unhindered.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

The Only Agency.

No law can be efficient which has not the general support of the people. The only hope must rest upon the change to be effected in individuals. The only agency which can do this is the gospel. It and it alone makes such an alteration in the hearts of men as causes them to hate evil and love righteousness. Here must a beginning be made by every one who seeks to elevate his fellow man.—Episcopal Recorder.

Eternal Love.

The eternal love tireth not, the eternal wisdom knoweth the hearts of men, and still to us all crieth very longingly the voice of the Man of Sorrows, who is faithful to perform all He promiseth, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Sunday at Home.

Only Has Theories.

The faith or conviction that the nature of things is on the side of right comes of itself. There is no use of arguing the point or trying to prove it. Tell a man to enter the battle and see for himself. The looker on does not have the faith. He only has theories.—W. L. Sheldon.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

"Christian Endeavor is co-operative energy," says the bright topic card used by the First Presbyterian society, San Diego, Cal.

"Christian Endeavor," says Rev. James Mursell, a well known English Baptist, "is teaching the rising generation the practicality of prayer."

There has been formed an Irish national Christian Endeavor council consisting of 20 members, 12 representing Belfast and 8 representing Dublin and the south and west of the island.

Some of the most important Christian Endeavor work in Ireland is done in small, out of the way places where Protestants are few.

There are now in Germany about 80 Christian Endeavor societies.

SCROFULA
AND ERYSIPELAS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.
GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.
GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.
Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.
Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.

WOOL AND INCOME TAX

Senators Mantle and Butler Stopped Progress on Tariff Bill.

Western Wool Growers Want Higher Duties.

Washington, June 5.—Although the senate met an hour earlier than usual yesterday, comparatively little was accomplished, because, after wasting three-quarters of the extra hour in waiting for a quorum, the senate had to spend nearly three hours in listening to general speeches.

Senator Mantle of Montana, the young silver Republican, made a long speech, warning the Republicans of the wrath of the wool growers if the wool schedule was not changed so as to suit them.

Then Populist Butler of North Carolina stopped the consideration of the tariff bill entirely by a speech in favor of his resolution to amend the constitution so as to meet the objections raised by the supreme court to the income tax of 1894.

Mr. Mantle argued as follows:

The great majority of wool growers of the country, he said, are protectionists and Republicans; most of them are believers in the free coinage of gold and silver, independently, by this country, but the question of protection and free coinage having been divided in the last campaign, the wool growers, accepting the pledge contained in the Republican national platform in favor of "Ample protection for wool," and believing protection to be the paramount issue, cast their votes in the doubtful states for President McKinley, and elected him.

The tariff bill, as it passed the house, and as now amended by the senate, he said, utterly fails to meet the expectations of the wool growers, and is regarded by them largely as a repudiation of the Republican pledge of "Ample protection for wool."

The wool growers of the country, he continued, are indignant over this treatment of their interests, and warned the Republicans that they must change the proposed rates or they would lose the support of this numerous element in ensuing campaigns. He asserted that the McKinley law had not afforded the necessary protection to the wool growers, and quoted statistics to prove the assertion. He charged that it was full of loopholes, permitting fraud and evasions, and was especially emphatic in his denunciation of the advalorem duties proposed on third class wools.

Mr. Mantle referred to the opposition of the wool manufacturers aginst the wool growers, whereupon Mr. Platt (Conn.), who, with Mr. Allison, was in charge of the bill for the day, arose to state that he did not regard the remarks fair to the bulk of the wool manufacturers. Some wanted free wool; some did not. But he believed that the general sentiment of the wool manufacturers throughout the country was favorable to a sufficient duty on wool. Mr. Mantle answered that he did not mean that there was an active warfare, but experience had shown that there was a hostility by the wool manufacturers aginst the growers.

Mr. Mantle was followed by Mr. Butler, who spoke on the income tax. Mr. Butler had no sooner started than he was involved in a lively colloquy with Mr. Cullom of Illinois. The North Carolina senator referred at the outset to recent supreme court decisions on the income tax and on the anti-trust law. He added an expression of surprise at the indecent haste with which the pooling bill was being urged before congress, immediately after the decision of the supreme court on the anti-trust law. This aroused Mr. Cullom, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, now considering the pooling bill, to a spirited reply. The senator from North Carolina was making statements about which he knew nothing, said Mr. Cullom. The pooling bill had been before congress for months before the supreme court decision, and it sought to strengthen the interstate law. He resented the statement of "indecent haste," and said such a characterization was a misrepresentation of facts.

Mr. Chilton of Texas, another member of the interstate commerce committee, here took a hand in the controversy. Mr. Chilton said he had been on the committee for two years, and he had never known of the pooling bill being pressed until after the recent supreme court decision against railway pooling. He differed in toto, he said, from the chairman of the committee that the pooling bill sought to strengthen the law. In his judgment it would destroy the interstate commerce law and the passage of the bill would be a fatal experiment.

Mr. Butler, resuming, said Mr. Chilton's statement had fully justified his original assertion, and he would leave it to the public to judge whether there was indecent haste. He would, he said, insist on the consideration of a measure authorizing an income tax, before any pooling bill was brought before the senate. He declared that the pooling bill was in the interest of the most gigantic trust in existence, compared with which all other trusts are pigmies. The senator then spoke on the merits of an income tax. He pointed out the inequalities of our present system of taxation, and declared that the tariff bill, when enacted, would impose its burdens on the 98 per cent of poor people who were least able to bear it, while it benefitted the 2 per cent of those who did not need assistance.

Mr. Butler declared that if this question of income tax could not be presented to the people then it was time they should know it in order that they might adopt the remedy of a constitutional convention to right the existing wrongs. He warned the elements of wealth that the income tax was but a small part of the demands of the people, and that if driven to a constitutional convention there would be a supreme effort to go back to the first principles of a government by the people.

The consideration of the tariff bill by paragraphs was then resumed.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate: Ellis H. Roberts of New York, to be treasurer of the United States; Conrad N. Jordan of New York, to be assistant treasurer of the United States at New York; William E. Andrews of Nebraska, to be auditor for the treasury department; William W. Browne of Pennsylvania, to be auditor for the war department; Lawence Townsend, to be minister to Portugal.

Sugar Debate Begins Monday.

Washington, June 5.—Senator Allison, who in the absence of Senator Aldrich has charge of the tariff bill, thinks that the sugar schedule will be reported in its order on Monday and that it will be taken up if Mr. Aldrich has then so far recovered as to take charge. If Mr. Aldrich finds it impossible to be in the chamber when the schedule is reached, the Republicans will ask that it be passed temporarily, because of his generally conceded superior information on the subject. Senator Allison says, however, that it is his desire that the schedule should be disposed of as promptly as possible. There is a possibility that the tobacco schedule may also be passed over in case Senator Aldrich is not able to be present when it is reached in its regular order. The advocates of a higher duty on wool are quite confident, from assurances received from members of the finance committee, that they will secure an increase over the rates ordinarily reported by the committee of an average of 1 cent a pound. This increase would give a duty of 9 cents on first class wool, 10 cents on second and 5 cents on lower qualities of third class wool. They are also hopeful that the dividing line in third rate wools can be lowered to 8 cents.

Heirs to Californian's Fortune.

Norwich, N. Y., June 5.—James Williams died in California a few months ago, leaving a will bequeathing his estate of $60,000 to his brothers, William and George, whom he had not heard from in many years. The brothers formerly lived here, but no one knew just what had become of them. After two months of search the attorneys who had the matter in charge have just learned that one of the brothers was a printer in New Haven and died four years ago, leaving a family. The other brother, they learn, enlisted in the Union army in the Civil War and was killed. The estate will go to the family of the New Haven man.

Informer Wants Reward.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 5.—The libel case against the steamer Three Friends, charging that she carried a filibustering expedition from this port on May 23, 1896, and also with being armed and fitted out to cruise against the kingdom of Spain, came up for a hearing in the United States court yesterday. John J. Crook was the only witness. He told of being a passenger on the trip and of landing a cargo of arms and ammunition in Cuba. When asked as to his interest in the case he admitted that he was an informant to secure the statutory reward of one-third of the boat in case she should be condemned.

Protection For Labor Unions.

Harrisburg, June 5.—Governor Hastings has signed the Weiler bill to protect the employes of corporations in their right to belong to labor organizations. The bill provides for a fine of not less than $1000 nor more than $2000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year, for any officer or agent of any corporation who discharges any employe for being a member of a lawful labor organization, or who seeks to dissuade him from joining or belonging to any such organization, or to accept from any applicant for employment any agreement or promise not to join or belong to such organization.

THE WILD PIG.

How a Mother Defended Her Family of Three Little Ones.

The wild pig is a large, powerful animal, with very strong and formidable canine teeth or tusks. The strong bristles with which it is covered are of a blackish brown color, mingled with a yellowish gray. The male animals have a thick mane of coarse hair. By their voracity and ruthless grubbing they do great damage to crops and to young trees. On account of this, as well as for the sake of their flesh and bristles, they are much hunted in the regions where they are found, the fury of the enraged male and the zeal of the female in protecting her young adding a spice of danger to the chase.

In some parts of India pig sticking, as it is called, is the chief sport, the animal being hunted by men on horseback, armed with long spears; but it often happens that in the fury of the contest, when the boar stands at bay, it contrives to make a rush at the nearest horseman, and if it does not succeed in injuring him it may plunge its terrible tusks into the body of the horse.

The wild hog is found in many of the warmer parts of the world. There are various kinds, differing somewhat both in appearance and in habits. Our picture shows the wart hog of Natal. As its flesh is much esteemed it is hunted with dogs, which are often killed in the encounter. It is so fond of water that it is often known by the name of the water hog, but the wart hog of Natal sometimes finds its match in the swampy woods of this part of the world.

In Natal there are many snakes, some of which are poisonous, though others are quite harmless. The boa, or python, which attains to a large size, is found in the seacoast forests, also in the reeds and swamps by the river sides. This species of serpent is very dangerous both to man and beast, from its habit of seizing its victim with its teeth and then rapidly coiling itself round the body and so crushing man or beast to death. The wart hog is very fond of swamps and rivers, and therefore it often falls a victim to this terrible destroyer.

On one occasion a wart hog and her family of three little ones, while rooting and grubbing among the juicy leaves of the water plants, became suddenly aware that a boa, which had been extended along the trunk of a tree overhanging the river, was watching their every movement with malignant eyes. It was too late, however, for the poor mother to sound a retreat, for, with the swiftness almost of lightning, the terrible creature had fixed its cruel fangs in the back of one of the young ones, and was rapidly coiling itself round its body, at the same time tightening its folds till every rib in the little animal's body must have been broken.

In a moment the furious mother had thrown herself upon the boa and, quite regardless of her own danger, was desperately engaged in attempting the rescue of her little one.

It was a very unequal combat, and without doubt the terrible serpent would soon have contrived to enfold them both in its coils had it not been for the tusks of the wart hog, which so mangled the body of the boa that it seemed to lose its muscular power. Gradually its hold both on the tree and on the little pig relaxed—its long body fell to the ground, where it shortly died. The mother hog now went to her offspring, but, alas! it was quite dead. When she had made sure of this, she uttered a curious cry, which her other little ones must have understood, for they immediately joined her, and all three disappeared into the depths of the forest.—K.

The Elephant Ducking His Keeper.

Elephants when kindly treated become very much attached to their keepers and will obey every command, like good little children.

Sometimes the keepers are cruel men. Instead of managing the beasts by kindness they beat and goad them. One day an elephant in India was being thus treated by its keeper, when the animal suddenly seized the man in its trunk and ran down to the river which was close by. After giving the man two or three good ducks in the water the elephant put him quietly down on the ground, as much as to say:

"Now, behave better in future, sir, or I'll duck you again."

A Young Japanese Traveler.

A little Japanese boy named Youmitsu is looked upon as a hero and prophet in his own land. In his native town of Tosa he is regarded with something more than admiration. He has traveled the world over and is not yet 21 years of age. The entire journey was made on the meager sum of $3.

Youmitsu left the seaport town of Nagasaki on an American ship bound for Hongkong. The missionaries taught him much of America and of the English language, and after he outgrew the mission school he worked all day, that he might study his English books at night. But Youmitsu was ambitious and chafed at the slow progress he was making in acquiring the ways and knowledge of civilized men.

He worked his way as a deck boy on the American ship, and after landing at Hongkong set manfully to work, turning his hand to whatever came uppermost, and saving his money to carry him to another port. In this way he spent the first ten months of his journey visiting the open ports of China and many of the cities of Siam and Burma.

Then he set sail in a merchantman for San Francisco. He had worked very hard and had, by dint of denying himself all but the necessities of life, amassed enough money to pay for a steerage passage. He worked in San Francisco and other California cities in various capacities, ever studying and observing and learning from his civilized surroundings.

When his savings were large enough, he went to Denver. He worked in the mines at Leadville, Colo., as a cook and then went on again, ever eastward.

He remained in Chicago only long enough to save sufficient money to enable him to reach New York. Here he remained for fully six months, working by day and studying at night.

Soon he secured the position of steward on a vessel sailing from New York, and ere long was again on the high seas, his face steadfastly toward the rising sun and his resolution to circumnavigate the globe unbroken. He visited London, Paris, remained in Spain awhile, saw the paintings of Vandyke and Rembrandt in Holland, visited the great German capital and then went to Constantinople.

While in Europe he made the acquaintance of such great men as Gladstone, Prince Bismarck, M. Clemenceau and others. His unassuming though dignified manner, his wonderful perseverance and fortitude, made him a favorite wherever he was known. He was given a helping hand here and there, and when there was no outstretched hand he made his way manfully alone, remaining cheerful and light hearted in the face of most trying difficulties.

In his wanderings he stopped at Colombo, Bombay, Cape Town and other far distant ports. Finally he returned to Japan by way of Australia, staying for a short time at Sydney and Melbourne.

When nearly home, the vessel in which he had taken passage was wrecked, and he and his fellow travelers made their way in an open boat in a high sea to one of the Pacific islands. Here he was forced to remain for three months, until rescued by a trading vessel and taken to Honolulu. From this port, after working until he had amassed money enough to pay his fare home, he shipped for Yokohama.

Since Youmitsu landed on his native shores after his long and eventful travels he is deemed a personage of much importance in Tosa and enjoys a modest pension from the mikado. He is not done traveling yet, he says.

"My Mother Wants Me."

The dandelions were going to seed.
Their soft globes shining all over the mead,
Cloudlike and feathery, downy and white,
The my-mother-wants-me so airy and light.

"I'll try one," said Katie, "one, two three,
And see if my mother is wanting me."
Off at her breathing each winged seed flew,
And she gayly came running to ask was it true.

Next Lulie her one, two, three times puffed,
But she blew off but half of the snowy tuft.
So she laughingly said, "I can play all day,
For the my-mother-wants-me says I may."

But little Nell, sorrowful, turning aside,
No sign of the my-mother-wants-me tried,
For her mother dwells in the far land where
They make no sign when they want us there.

Then I said, "Little Nellie, take me and blow
And hasten to me if the seeds all go."
And I hope the dear mother in heaven smiled
When she saw that I wanted her orphan child.

Our Water Supply.

Supt. Cavanagh of the Water department reports that the reservoir which filled last December continues to remain full and overflowing and the probabilities are that there will be no scarcity of water this year.

Last year the reservoir began to lower early in May and reached its lowest point in September. In 1895 the water began to lower the latter part of May. In 1894 early in June. In 1893 the latter part of May remaining below until the first of July when it filled but almost immediately began to lower again, and in 1892 the reservoir remained full until the first week in July.

The lowest point the reservoir has reached since July 1892 was 9 feet 6 inches below the overflow which was in October 1894 and 1895.

Great Improvement.

The Universalist church, which has a prominent location on Washington street, and an excellent clock in its steeple, now looks very attractive.

Mr. D. C. Nelson of Atlantic was given the contract several weeks ago to paint it two coats in a first class manner, which he has done, greatly to his credit. It having been many years since it has had a coat of paint it was found that the front which has a warm southerly exposure required the third coat, and Mr. Nelson was ordered to give it what was needed; and it is now one of the prettiest churches in the city.

The panel in front which was placed there when it was remodeled, now bears the following words in gilt:

First Universalist Church,
Built in 1832,
Remodeled in 1882.

There has also been placed this week near the entrance a tablet, the gift of one of the Sunday school classes, which bears the name of the pastor, and the hours of service.

An Important Week.

This has been indeed an important week for Mr. James H. Bayley, Jr., of Braintree, who has just completed a four years' course at the Boston University.

Monday evening he had charge of the reception which was given to the faculty and friends of the University. On Tuesday afternoon the graduating class marched to Tremont Temple where the twenty-first annual baccalaureate address was delivered by President William F. Warren, LL. D.

Wednesday was commencement and Mr. Bayley received the B. A. degree.

Wednesday night the trustees gave a reception to the graduating class.

Mr. Bayley's thesis was "The Berkeleian Ideolism." The programmes were latinized and his name appeared like this: Iacobus Henricus Bayley, Iun.

Mr. Bayley is deservedly popular not only in Boston, but at home. His plans are not yet completed but he deserves a bright and successful future.

"THE LOITERERS."

Case Against the Depot Carriage Drivers Strikes Snag.

The case, celebrated case it might be called, between the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and Messrs. Bisson and Dunn, in which the latter are charged with loitering about the Quincy depot, came up in the Quincy court this morning by continuance.

When a similar case was brought up last year it terminated without result as the point raised at that time was that the City Clerk of Quincy had not been properly notified of the appointment of the railroad police.

This morning when the case was called Paul R. Blackmur, Esq , appeared for the railroad and J. W. McAnarney, Esq., for Messrs. Bisson and Dunn.

The first witness called was City Clerk Keith who testified as to the notice received by the city of the appointment of the railroad police, being mainly to show that Peter Moran was a qualified officer.

A snag was immediately struck, as Mr. McAnarney objected to the copy of these names as it was certified to only by the town clerk of Mansfield and not by the clerk of the board of selectmen.

Mr. Blackmur argued that the Town Clerk had only certified that he had made a true copy of the records of the Board of Selectmen.

Judge Humphrey said that a Board of Selectmen were not compelled by law to keep records and their record had no validity as records.

Mr. Blackmur differed and the case was continued until June 17, with the understanding that the points of law involved should be discussed next Saturday.

Baby Reception.

What is a baby reception? Why it is the cutest little entertainment you ever saw. Talk about the billing and cooing of doves—what is that compared with a bright galaxy of babies, all wreathed in smiles and sweeter than all the lilac blossoms in the world. Did you ever go to a baby reception? If you never have, you had better remember the one to be held at the Universalist church the 9th of June. Everybody, except crusty old bachelors and cranky old maids, is interested in babies, and hence everybody will want to be present on that joyful occasion. And besides the babies, a general good time may be expected.

Now a word to the mothers. All who have babies,—single, double or otherwise,—under three years old, are invited to bring them to the church at that time. Every child, without regard to age, sex, color or previous condition of servitude, will receive a present. Here is a chance for a baby to distinguish itself. Reception will be from 3 to 5 P. M., and all who intend to be present with a baby will please drop a postal to that effect to Mrs. Frank Hobart, Mill street.

Dr. Storrs.

DEAR OBSERVER: Not being able to attend the semi-centennial of Dr. Storrs, I sent a letter as representative of my church, and his friends in Braintree. The enclosed is his reply by a steel-engraved letter, to which is affixed his sign manual. It is so impersonal that I felt many of your readers would be glad to read it.

Yours,
A. A. ELLSWORTH.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 29, 1897.

MY DEAR FRIEND: A temporary failure of vigor in the winter, with subsequent unusual solitudes and cares consequent on severe sickness in my family, prevented me from responding as I otherwise should have done by personal notes to the multitudes of delightful and most welcome letters—from friends in this country, and from others beyond sea—which greeted the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of my Pastorate in the Church of the Pilgrims.

I am thus regretfully while thankfully indebted, to this day, to many, whom I love and honor—to you among them; and I hope that you will allow me to acknowledge, even after so long an interval, by this undesired but necessary means, your letter of affectionate congratulation, assuring you that it is carefully preserved, and will be cherished among the choice souvenirs of an occasion delightful in itself, and made more delightful by the surpassing wealth of friendship to which it brought such memorable witness.

Ever gratefully and faithfully yours,
RICHARD I. STORRS.

Founder's Day.

For a long time a feeling has existed that the public was not wanted at Thayer Academy and that only a chosen few ever received invitations to special occasions.

JUNE 3, 1897.

The citizens of Braintree are cordially invited to be present at the public exercises which will be held in the hall of Thayer Academy on Founder's Day, Saturday, June 12, at one o'clock in the afternoon.

Besides the usual features there will be a debate on the question of the annexation of Hawaii to the United States.

WM. GALLAGHER.

—In a few weeks a complete street railway system will be in operation between Nantasket beach and Fall River. The connecting link between Brockton and Taunton, a distance of sixteen miles, passing through Bridgewater, West Bridgewater and Raynham to Taunton, will be completed and open for travel June 15th.

WAS IT MURPHY?

John Hall's Case to Recover for Services as Undertaker

By agreement between parties, the jury in the case of John Hall of Quincy vs. O. A. Galvin, rendered a verdict of $80.50 for Mr. Hall, the plaintiff.

Thursday's Transcript said: A curious case for trial in the Superior Court, is that in which John Hall, a Quincy undertaker, sues Owen A. Galvin, as public administrator, to recover $80 50 for money paid out and for services, with interest from December 1893, incident to the burial of James Murphy. But Mr. Galvin denies that James Murphy is dead, that the plaintiff paid out any money for him, and that James Murphy left any property of any kind.

Lewis Bass, Jr., is counsel for the Quincy man, and the oddity of the case is attracting some attention to it. It has brought up with renewed interest the question as to whether the body of the man buried by James Murphy's relatives in Mount Wollaston cemetery in 1893 was that of James Murphy or of Jose Francisco d'Oliveira.

Francisco came from the Azores a few years ago, and worked for a number of farmers in New Hampshire, the last of whom was Governor Smith. A fellow-countryman of Francisco, Joe Smith worked for the governor at the time. Francisco came to be known as John Francisco, instead of by his whole name.

James Murphy was a native of St. George, N. B., who worked in several places in Maine and New Hampshire, and who was last heard from in Hartford, Conn.

These two men are not known to have been together at any time; but one night in November, 1893, a man went into hotel Eastern in Boston so badly intoxicated that he could not write his name. He told the clerks that his name was James Murphy, and when he was found dead from gas poisoning next morning, it was announced in the papers that he was James Murphy, and James Murphy's brother and sister of Quincy came into town, looked at the dead man, and supposed him to be their brother whom they had not seen for several years. They took the body out to Quincy for burial.

When the unknown man was found at the hotel he had $120 in money and two watches in his possession, and these were turned over to Mr. Galvin as a public administrator. When his other effects were delivered by the undertaker to Mrs. Levenson, James Murphy's sister, it was found that among them was a card and a small key. This card contained the name of an agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in Boston. On the back of it was marked in lead pencil: "This is the man you want to buy your ticket from." Mrs. Levenson wanted to know what the card meant, supposing that it had reference to her brother, so she called on the agent and asked him if he knew James Murphy. He replied in the negative. Then she showed him the card. He recognized it at once. He had given it to Joe Smith some weeks previous, when Joe told him that he was going to California, and that he would send to him for a ticket a friend who was to follow him. The friend whom Joe had in mind was Jose Francisno d'Oliveira, otherwise known as John Francisco.

The key that was found with the other effects, strangely enough, fitted exactly the lock on a box which was found in a valise which Francisco had left with the agent. There was also on the arm of the man found dead in the hotel a tattooed figure like one that was known to have been tattooed on the arm of Francisco. These circumstances are enough to raise a doubt as to whether the man buried at Mount Wollaston was really James Murphy or Francisco.

—It is to be sincerely hoped that those business men who yield to the request that they advertise in "official programs" which are neither official nor programs, will not insist on making their returns from such advertising the basis for a subsequent and persistent opinion that advertising does not pay. The man who buys a gold brick is not so thick headed as to insist, because of his error, that all gold coin is counterfeit and valueless.—Charlestown Enterprise.

You Look to Your Husband,

Mrs. Newlywed, for protection from the storms of life—but don't be ungrateful.

Our word for it, the state of the masculine stomach is responsible for more social and business woes than most people wot of—even when they're wotting for all they're worth.

Our advice to you, madam, is to keep your husband's "inner man" in prime order, through the medium of MERRILL groceries; and, as a reward, you will find the outer man healthier, wealthier and wiser for it—and more comfortable to live with!

Our injunction to shippers of goods to our establishment is always, "We want best quality first and will talk about prices afterwards."

Isn't it better to buy Tea, Coffee, Flour, Cereal goods, Butter, Cheese, Eggs, and a thousand other articles you have to use in your house, of a firm with twenty years' experience right here in Quincy, than take chances with peddlers or cheap John places in Boston where you know nothing of what you are getting until too late to change? New construction is now being put in at this point, and the company evidently does not intend to accept the location for the turnout under the restrictions.

A DELUGE AT NASHUA.

The Severest Storm In Twenty-Five Years Visits the City.

Houses Flooded and Damage Reaches Thousands.

Nashua, N. H., June 5.—The severest storm in years raged in this city yesterday afternoon, and in half an hour, 1⅜ inches of rain fell. The sewers could not carry off the water in such quantities and all were practically stopped up. Hundreds of houses were flooded and damage to private residences will amount to many thousands of dollars. At Esterbrook & Anderson's shoe shop, employing 900 hands, the engine room was flooded and the shop had to shut down. At Cross & Tolles lumber shop the engine room and cellars were so badly flooded that the fire department worked the entire afternoon pumping out the water.

There was a bad washout on the Keene division of the Boston and Maine railroad, delaying southbound trains for a considerable while. The stock of Chamberlain, Patten & Co., large dry goods dealers, was damaged to the extent of more than $1000. At the Whitney cafe the water was eight inches deep on the floor, and the Lund cafe was severely wet down.

Lightning struck a barn owned by Mrs. W. S. Collins of Temple street and ran to the house on the telephone wire, doing considerable damage. A barn on Locke street, owned by H. B. Atherton, was also struck, and a maple tree was shattered only a few feet in front of James McFadden, who was sitting at a window in his house, every pane in the window being shattered. Sidewalks in many places were caved in. It is estimated that more than 500 hens were drowned during the storm.

This city was at the very center of the storm, as not nearly so much water fell at any of the neighboring places. It was the worst storm which has visited this city for more than 20 years.

FRAUDULENT REPORTS.

Sensational Testimony Brought Out In Trial of Boston Street Contractors.

Boston, June 5.—The most startling climax which has come in the city hall false-pretense cases was that which came yesterday afternoon during the cross-examination of young William Tobin.

It was wholly unexpected, and it fell on the assembled listeners in the courtroom with the suddenness of a thunderbolt.

Tobin, whose father is foreman of the south end district, was on the witness stand, and had told what his duties were, and of his assisting in the carrying of the daily reports of the foremen from the city hall to the south yard for storage last January, just as he had in the previous trial.

There was nothing in his manner to indicate that he knew anything more than he had previously testified to, up to the moment that Assistant District Attorney McLaughlin sat down with the laconic "That's all," which signalizes the close of a witness' testimony.

The moment the assistant district attorney sat down Mr. Chaplin proceeded to cross-examine young Tobin.

In the lengthy cross-examination which followed it was one long uninterrupted series of admissions on the part of Tobin that his reports did not agree with his father's books, of which they were supposed to be a copy, that in some cases where the names of contractors did not at all appear on the father's books he had himself credited them with anywhere from one to three or four teams a day, and that this had continue all through the period for which the daily reports were available.

Young Tobin's testimony produced a tremendous sensation amongst those who heard it, and the murmurs in the courtroom told plainly enough how it affected the listeners. His father, who immediately followed him as a witness, said that he had no idea that such a state of things existed in his office until he heard his son cross-examined.

The significance of young Tobin's testimony lies in the fact that he admitted without qualification that there was a systematic adding or taking away from the daily reports which he copied from his father's books of the amount of work credited to certain contractors.

The daily reports of the district foremen covering a lengthy period during 1896 are missing, and were not produced during the preceding trial.

Mr. Chaplin's cross-examination was intended to show that Mulrey had no means beyond the reports of the foremen, sent in from the various districts, from which to make up his payroll, and young Tobin admitted over and over again that the reports that he had thus made were in excess of what appeared in the foreman's books, which formed the basis of comparison in the preceding case.

THE SUBWAY EXPLOSION.

Gas and Construction Companies Jointly Responsible For the Accident.

Boston, June 5.—The Massachusetts board of gas and electric light commissioners has presented to the legislature its report on the investigation which it has been holding for several weeks past into the explosion at the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets, in this city, just before noon of March 4 last, by which 10 persons lost their lives and nearly 50 were more or less injured.

The report attaches responsibility to the Boston Gas Light company and the Metropolitan Construction company, jointly.

Commissioner Arker, the chairman, and Commissioner Schaff, agreed upon the report, but Commissioner Gifford was not altogether satisfied with their finding, and he filed a separate report.

This is the report of the third investigation of the disaster. Judge Ely, after an inquest on the death of one victim, declared the Gaslight company responsible. Fire Marshal Whitcomb's report, after an investigation, did not place the blame.

District Attorney Stevens has said he would take no action in the matter until the commissioners' report was received.

Editor O'Sullivan Found Guilty.

Salem, Mass., June 5.—Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan, an editor of Lawrence, who came into national prominence during the last campaign through his support of Bryan and the Chicago platform, and later in Massachusetts politics through his precipitating a contest in the Democratic party over the same issues, was last night found guilty on three counts of criminal libel. The plaintiffs were William T. Kimball, city clerk; John J. Donovan, license commissioner, and F. T. Remick, a police inspector, all of Lawrence. They alleged that O'Sullivan, through his paper, libelled them by word and picture by charging each and all with wrong acts, both political and personal. The alleged libels were the outcome of political fights in Lawrence. The trial began Tuesday, and the legal contest in it has been upon the admissibility of evidence having direct bearing on the political situation in Lawrence. The case will go to the supreme court on legal questions, and sentence will be deferred.

Bondholders Take Road.

Boston, June 5.—A special to The Herald from Farmington, Me., says: At a meeting of the bondholders of the Franklin and Megantic and of the Kingfield and Dead River Railroad companies, held in Farmington under calls signed and published by Varnum B. Mead of Boston and Josiah S. Maxey and Philip H. Winslow of Gardiner, all of whom are bondholders of the roads, four-fifths of the bondholders of the Kingfield and Dead River company were present. The bonds of the Franklin and Megantic were figured to be in default 13 years, while those of the Kingfield and Dead river are in default 3½ years. It was unanimously voted to proceed to foreclose each mortgage and to take possession of the roads and operate them in the interests of the bondholders.

Knights of the Plane Strike.

Boston, June 5.—One hundred and fifty carpenters, employed in Roxbury by Contractors Haboloff and Lavine, by order of the Carpenters' union 56, struck yesterday. Recently the Hebrew carpenters, who are members of 56, demanded that their employers should grant them an 8-hour day and $2.50 per day. Nearly all of the Hebrew contractors acceded to this demand. Contractors Haboloff and Lavaine refused to comply, hence the strike was ordered. There is a probability that more men will become involved as all of the other trademen employed on the Roxbury work are willing to assist the strikers, and if the two contractors put non-union men to work, the other employes will refuse to work.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 5.—A report against spending any money to fight the brown-tail moth was sent to the house by the ways and means committee yesterday. The house rejected the East Boston hospital bill; the bill providing for the inspection of street excavation by corporations; sent the East Boston grade-crossing matter to the next legislature; passed to engrossment the bill for payment by the state for cattle slaughtered on account of tuberculosis. More adverse action was taken on the McTammany voting machine bill. The house finished its calendar. The Boston free-transfer bill, after being debated nearly all day in the senate, was thrown out by a vote of 11 to 25.

Heavy Individual Failure.

Dedham, Mass., June 5. — Henry W. Richards, an accountant of this town, has filed a petition into insolvency in the registry of insolvency. His liabilities are placed at $133,320, with assets, which include a very large number of shares of mining stocks, the values of which are unknown, with other substantial equities.

Limit on Bike Races.

Springfield, Ills., June 5.—The Shannahan bill to prevent "long continued and brutal bicycle racing" was passed in the senate yesterday. The bill had previously gone through the house, and will receive Governor Tanner's signature. The bill was introduced shortly after the six days bicycle race in Chicago, during which one of the contestants became insane from incessant riding. The new law makes 12 hours' continuous riding the limit allowed. The anti-department store bill was killed in the house.

Tug Blown to Atoms.

Chicago, June 5.—The tug Andrew H. Green was blown to atoms at 1:45 o'clock this morning by the explosion of her boiler just after having passed through the Rush street draw with three mud scows in tow. The explosion was heard for a great distance, and all the buildings in the vicinity were shaken to their foundations. No trace of any of the crew can be found, and there seems to be no doubt that all on board the ill-fated vessel lost their lives. Five men are known to have been on board.

Cadets Build Bridge.

West Point, N. Y., June 5.—Yesterday afternoon the cadets gave an exhibition of their skill at bridge building across an inlet of the Hudson river. It was the construction of a pontoon bridge by successive pontoons by details from the first and second classes, under the command of Cadet Captain H. S. Morgan. Eleven pontoons and two trestles were used, and the bridge when finished measured 275 feet in length.

May Be Minister to Spain.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—President McKinley has, it is reported, selected one of the best posted men on the Cuban question in the country to represent the United States as minister to Spain. Ramon O. Williams, for many years consul general of the United States at Havana, has, it is said, been tendered this important mission.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. XIII.

After a little rest, and a fair noon-hour meal, on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 25th, we started out with others to the National Museum. It is the most interesting place in the city, containing as it does, so many of the relics of the unwritten history of the mystic races of a mysterious age. The ground floor contains the great heavy monliths of stone that have been gathered from all parts of the country. One might well imagine himself in ancient Egypt so closely do some of them resemble the works of that ancient race; and indeed it is a question whether those who wrought them were not at some remote time of the same origin. Who shall unravel the mystery of those ancient races? By far the most interesting are the Calendar and Sacrificial stones. They are circular in form, some ten or twelve feet in diameter and four or five feet thick. The Sacrificial stone was dug up in Plaza Mayor in 1791, where it had been buried since the time of the destruction of the Aztec temple.

These stones stood on the site now occupied by the National Palace. The one that the days, weeks, months and seasons might be correctly computed, while on the other the blood of 50,000 victims flowed as an offering to the great sun god for peace and good will. An excavation in the centre of the stone, with a channel to the rim, carried off the blood, as the priest tore the heart from the bleeding victim and threw it into the huge stone basin, which is also in the museum.

The history of the calendar stone is quite well defined. It antedates the discovery of America by Columbus a few years, and was set up near the temple amid great ceremonies, and the sacrifice of hundreds of human victims.

So perfect were their astronomical calculations that the Aztec calendar stone is said not to lose a day in 5000 years, while the Gregorian calendar, the acme of of the wisdom of the civilized world, loses one in about 3000 years. A rare old race were the ancient Aztecs. The museum also contains very many interesting relics of the later people of Mexico, including the State coach of Maximilian and innumerable other articles connected with the history of Mexico.

The National School of Fine Arts was next visited. This school was established in 1779. It contains many beautiful paintings, the great mass of which are of religious subjects. The picture of the Dominican nun is said to be a portrait of Maria Ave of Austria, wife of Philip IV of Spain.

One picture, which occupies a commanding position and never fails to attract the attention of the observing visitor, is that representing the torture of Montezuma and his body guard by Cortez, in his vain effort to extort the secret of the hiding place of the Aztec treasure. Both Montezuma and his guard are bound to couches in a reclining position with their feet extended over a fire kindled by the Spaniards. The guard's face, distorted by pain, is upturned to Montezuma as if pleading to his chief for the privilege of speaking the words that would end their unspeakable torture, but he finds no consolation in those stern-set features, and the words for which Cortez and his followers eagerly wait, through fear of his chief, who is made of sterner stuff, remain unspoken to the last. It is a grand piece of work that once seen will never be forgotten. It was while enduring this torture at the hands of his cruel tormentors that Montezuma uttered that sentence which has become immortal, "Am I reclining on a bed of roses?"

Days could be profitably spent here viewing the pictures, instead of hours, and one needs to be well versed in the history and legends of the country to tell the story. Here too is found the National Library, which contains over 200,000 volumes, some of them very rare and of priceless value.

The sight-seeing of the afternoon was interrupted at 4 o'clock by the informal reception tendered our party by President Porfirio Diaz at the National Palace; an imposing building occupying a large part of one side of the Plaza Mayor, at right angles with the Cathedral. It is upon ground once belonging to Cortez, upon which, before it came into his possession, "Montezuma's new house was built." Later Cortez built a palace here which remained in possession of his heirs until 1562, when it was bought by the Crown for the residence of the Viceroys. Of the original palace there is probably nothing remaining, but that of the Viceroy's, as constructed more than 300 years ago, forms one of the ends, and has given character to the entire building, which has been constructed in accordance with the original design. The original, designed in Spain, was intended, it is said, for one of her South American cities, but owing to an official blunder the orders were taken to Mexico and the building well under way before the mistake was discovered.

The palace of today occupies an entire square fronting nearly 700 feet on the Plaza Mayor. There are many evidences of royalty about it, although it is now used much the same as our National Capitol. It is occupied by the President's offices, the Departments of State, Treasury, War, Archives, and other minor branches of the Federal Government. The exterior affords no idea of the interior magnificence of the halls and salons within. The Hall of the Ambassadors is the most imposing. It is a magnificent room, extending nearly half the length of the front, and contains life size portraits of many of the presidents, noted statesmen and soldiers of Mexico. Occupying a prominent position near the centre of the hall, is a portrait of our own Washington, whom the Mexicans hold in grateful memory. Other beautiful pictures besides portraits adorn the walls, the most notable of which is a very large one of the "Battle of the 5th of May," with the French forces of Maximilian, and an allegorical work, entitled "The Constitution."

A gorgeous throne occupies one end of Ambassadors' Hall, whether a relic of Maximilian's reign or not, we did not learn. The senate holds its sessions here, but the House of Deputies occupies the old Iturbide theatre which was remodeled for congressional uses. There were many other elegant apartments of the Palace, some of them hung with rich tapestries. In two of the large reception rooms we awaited our audience with the President of the Republic. The reception was held in the President's room, an elegant apartment, hung in crimson tapestry, upon which is wrought the fluer de lis, the national flower of France, indicating that the rooms were decorated during the reign of the late deposed emperor. Everywhere around the public buildings are traces of the wealth which Napoleon III of France expended with a lavish hand in his futile attempt to set up an empire upon this continent.

President Diaz, although in his 67th year, appeared much younger. He was dressed in a plain black suit, wearing a Prince Albert coat. When in full military dress, ablaze with jeweled decorations—but, as one writer has said, "with not enough medals to cover one apiece the scars that earned them"—this hero of more than fifty battles appears every inch a soldier, without a doubt. He has a remarkably strong face, an eagle eye and a commanding presence that will not soon fade from the memory of one who has had the privilege of meeting him. He is well built, of medium height, and is as erect as the typical Indian.

Brief addresses in English were made by Judge Sepulveda, secretary of the American Legation; Col. Thomas, of Pennsylvania, the retiring president of the National Editorial Association; and Louis Holtman, of Indiana, the new president of the association. These were interpreted to Mexico's distinguished executive, who responded in Spanish, the speech being interpreted as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen, delegates to the National Editorial Association:

"From the age of twenty years my life was passed in conflict and in warfare. During my long term of military service, extending over a period of thirty years, I faced many a cannon of brass and iron; for me they have no terrors. But never did I face before so many cannons of pens and pencils, cannons before which even my military training experiences a few slight shivers; and of these cannons, the most forceful that can be levied are those of the lady journalists.

"I particularly appreciate this pleasant visit, and I beg to thank you for the very feeling terms in which your two representatives have expressed your sympathy and regard for Mexico and for myself. It is with the greatest pleasure that I have listened to those words of good cheer and good wishes for Mexico, words of gallantry and compliment to my country, and I appreciate them the more because they are the words of the representatives of so great a power as that of the press of the United States."

At the close of the address the visiting editors and the ladies of the party were each formally presented to President Diaz, who shook hands with the entire company in the most cordial fashion. Replying to an inquiry as to how American immigrants would be received in his country, President Diaz said:

"You may say to the men of the United States that they are welcome, thrice welcome in Mexico. Men of energy, of genius, of brains, are they—men fitted for the upbuilding and development of any country. Tell them to come, and that in their lives, their possessions and their liberties they will receive from the government of Mexico the same justice, the same protection, the same encouragement which she accords to her own citizens. Bid them come."

In the evening the press of the city tendered a reception at the Iturbide Hotel, and by orders of President Diaz the famous Artillery Band, the leading band of the country, gave a concert in our honor. This is the famous band which played at the Atlanta exposition, and I think is the same which represented Mexico at the recent Grant celebration in New York. President Diaz was a warm friend and admirer of Gen. Grant.

The Time to Buy Carpetings.

THIS Dingley Bill you've heard so much about, is like the old wolf story. You've heard increased prices cried so much, that when they actually do come, you are inclined to discredit them. Fact is, however, that wool has already advanced. Carpet mills have just increased prices from 5 to 10 cents per yard, with a still further increase positively assured for the near future.

If you wish to buy carpets at the lowest prices the world has ever known, do so at once, before present stocks are sold. You'll never know what down right panic prices are, if you don't take advantage of them now. We will hold the old low prices as long as possible. A word to the wise is sufficient.

THE URBANA TRAGEDY

Two Innocent Men Were Instantly Killed and Ten Wounded.

Sheriff McLean Ordered the Soldiers to Fire.

Governor Bushnell Making Personal Investigation—Sheriff Leaves.

Urbana, O., June 5.—In the tragedy at the jail here yesterday, when a mob attempted to take "Chick" Mitchell, the rapist, from the jail, and were fired upon by the soldiers, two men being instantly killed and 10 wounded. Some of the latter will probably die.

In addition to this list, it is feared that Mrs. Eliza Gaumer, who was assaulted by the negro, will not recover, and several of the injured are in a serious condition. There is intense feeling against some of the officials and further complications are expected. While the past two nights and days witnessed scenes of lawlessness and bloodshed, yet the feeling at no time has been as intense as it is now. The body of Mitchell was exposed all day in a rough coffin and it intensified the feeling among the crowds who viewed it. The bodies of the citizens who were killed were tenderly cared for, and their funerals tomorrow will tend to keep alive the bitter feeling. Several of the wounded will be crippled for life.

One week ago, Mrs. Eliza Gaumer was assaulted by Mitchell at her home in this city, near the courthouse. The brute accomplished his purpose. Keenly realizing her position the woman requested her son to announce that she was assaulted for robbery. It was given out that Mitchell attempted to force her to sign a check for $500.

But as Mrs. Gaumer's condition became more serious the facts became known and it was also stated that the negro was afflicted with a loathsome disease. The negro was first held for robbery, but on last Wednesday was arraigned for criminal assault. Mrs. Gaumer was unable to appear in court and the hearing was held at her home. As Mitchell entered her room she exclaimed: "The brute, hang him, how dare you face me again, you brute."

Soon after the identification on Wednesday, at Mrs. Gaumer's home, there was talk of lynching. Crowds surrounded the jail that night and the sheriff and the local militia had trouble in protecting the prisoner. Thursday night a grand jury was impanelled, and it soon returned an indictment for criminal assault.

The lynching occurred in bright daylight and no masks were worn. The local militia had been on duty two nights and they did no more shooting. Governor Bushnell had been asked for more troops during the night, and before 7 a. m. a company from Springfield arrived. Just then the local company was withdrawn from the jail. Mayor Ganson met the Springfield company en route from the depot and sent the troops back, saying they were not wanted. The mob seeing the way open, broke for the jail. No force was needed, as Sheriff McLean delivered the keys and the crowd soon found Mitchell's cell. Throwing a rope over the trembling wretch's head, he was dragged out, receiving some kicks and blows. When the outer door was reached the noose slipped off, and Sylvester Zimmerman tied it so securely as to receive the cheers of the crowd.

The rope was thrown over one of the limbs of a tree in the courthouse yard. Mitchell was jerked up until his head struck the limb and his neck was broken and then his body dropped to the ground. The crowd repeated the jerking several times until they were sure he was dead. While the body of Mitchell was lying on the ground hundreds crowded about to see it. The colored people were greatly excited. They had previously met and adopted resolutions for the punishment of Mitchell, but many of them offered the opinion that he was not guilty. Women and children, as well as a multitude of men, witnessed the lynching.

There was no attempt at disguise or secrecy. The assemblage in the public square was as open as any public meeting that had ever been held in that place.

An hour or more after the lynching, Mitchell's body was picked up and placed in a rough coffin, but left under the tree, where hundreds of people continued to view it. Later in the day the body was removed by the coroner. Meantime crowds of people poured into the city from all surrounding towns and viewed the blood-stained steps of the jail and the marks of the bullets on the surrounding houses.

Governor Bushnell is here to investigate the trouble, and especially the action of the troops. Citizens from Urbana asked him for protection by the troops for Sheriff McLean, against whose life threats had been freely made.

Sheriff McLean left yesterday afternoon for Dayton. He escaped by the back door of the jail, and claims that dynamite was being prepared to blow him up. In the excitement and bitterness that prevails it is almost impossible to get at the facts as to the responsibility for the loss of life, but it is generally claimed that Sheriff McLean ordered the troops to fire.

It is believed that there will be a thorough investigation into the action of the mayor, as well as that of the sheriff and military officers.

Another Unconstitutional Law.

Philadelphia, June 5.—President Judge Hanna of the orphans court has decided that the new direct inheritance tax law is unconstitutional. The law was recently passed by the legislature as a revenue measure, and was expected to add between $600,000 and $1,000,000 annually to the revenues of the state. The case will probably be carried to the supreme court for a final decision.

Waltzed Over Five Hours.

Livermore Falls, Me., June 5.—At a ball held here by the Foresters a prize of a gold ring was offered to the lady who waltzed the longest without stopping. Twelve couples competed. Miss Bessie McGraw, the winner, and her partner waltzed 5 hours and 25 minutes. For a continuous waltz this record probably not only breaks the state, but also the New England record.

Thankfulness.

My God, I thank thee, who hast made
The earth so bright,
So full of splendor and of joy,
Beauty and light;
So many glorious things are here,
Noble and right.

I thank thee, too, that thou hast made
Joy to abound;
So many gentle thoughts and deeds
Circling us around
That in the darkest spot of earth
Some love is found.

I thank thee more that all our joy
Is touched with pain,
That shadows fall on brightest hours,
That thorns remain;
So that earth's bliss may be our guide
And not our chain.

I thank thee, Lord, that here our souls,
Though amply blest,
Can never find, although they seek,
A perfect rest—
Nor ever shall until they lean
On Jesus' breast.

—Adelaide Procter.

When Is a Woman Old?

This query on my mirror hung:
"When is a woman old?"
It clings to me and long has clung.
The answer must be told.

Ah, some are old before half way,
And some are never old,
For these but laugh life's cares away,
While those both fret and scold.

And yet it is no easy task,
However well controlled,
To answer one, if she should ask,
"When is a woman old?"

The graceful ones are still young,
And those alone are old
Who try to make themselves look young
When age has taken hold.

The oldest ones of all the old
Are those who would look young,
For they will always fret and scold
When age's sign is hung.

The old in years who live among
Those younger in their hearts
Will find themselves remaining young
Long after youth departs.

As long as women cling to youth
And disregard their age
They never can be old, forsooth.
Their youth fills up the page.

Yes, some are old before their time—
Old age usurps their youth—
And some are young beyond their prime Unless they hide the truth.

—Washington Post.

The Reason Why.

I know a little maiden who is always in a hurry.
She races through her breakfast to be in time for school;
She scribbles at her desk in a hasty sort of flurry
And comes home in a breathless whirl that fills the vestibule.

Like an engine at high pressure, as if leisure were a crime;
She's always in a scramble, no matter where she's going,
And yet—would you believe it?—she never is in time.

It seems a contradiction till you know the reason,
But I'm sure you think it simple, as I do, when I state
That she never has been known to begin a thing in season,
And she's always in a hurry because she starts too late.

—Priscilla Leonard in Churchman.

BRADSTREET'S TRADE REVIEW.

Only Favorable Feature Is Encouragemen In Orders for Fall Trade.

New York, June 5.—Bradstreet's says: The only favorable features of trade is encouragement at the outlook for fall business and improvement in demand for and prices of iron and steel. Crops at the southwest, particularly Texas, have improved with seasonable rains, and the prospect favors larger exports of wheat from the Pacific coast. A fairly satisfactory jobbing trade continues at leading cities in northwestern spring wheat states.

Business as a whole shows no pronounced activity, and the tendency of funds is to accumulate. Eastern shoe factories have not received expected orders for fall delivery, and the cotton goods market is depressed by the outlook for further restriction of output to prevent accumulation of stocks. Where the volume of business exceeds that of a year ago, as it does in a few lines, profits are frequently so reduced as to render this year's movement less satisfactory. Orders for dry goods, clothing and shoes for nearby delivery have fallen off. The anticipated midsummer industrial disturbances, particularly in iron and steel, promise to influence business unfavorably during the summer months.

Prices of some of the more important staples continue the see-saw movement of recent weeks, with marked weakness in wool and lower prices for cotton goods, wheat and wheat flour, coffee and petroleum, practically unchanged quotations for lumber, coal, print cloths, cotton, pork and lard, and higher prices for iron, steel, corn, oats, sugar and rosin.

The most bullish aspect of the wheat situation is found in a decrease of 21,000,000 bushels, June 1, compared with stocks on both coasts. Supplies of wheat afloat for and in Europe actually increased 2,000,000 bushels last month, and are 11,160,000 bushels larger than one year ago.

May bank clearings at 73 cities aggregate $4,159,731,000, a gain of 1.8 per cent compared with the April total, but a decrease of 1.4 per cent from May a year ago, and of 14 per cent from May, 1895. The gain over May, 1894, is 7.1 per cent, but with a single exception the total last month is the smallest May total since 1886. A gain of 18 per cent is shown by southwestern cities over May, 1896, 6 per cent by New England cities and 1.5 per cent by Western cities.

There are 107 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, a sharp falling off from last week, when the total was 257. The total one year and two years ago was 236 in each instance, and in the like week of 1894 it was 207.

Interscholastic Games Postponed.

Cambridge, Mass., June 5.—Rain came in the midst of the 12th interscholastic athletic championships on Homes field yesterday, making necessary a postponement of some of the games until Monday. The water came in torrents, turning the track into a lake and spoiling one of the best of the association's annual events. Only seven events were finished, and three new records were established, beside one being equalled. The hammer throwers, high jumpers and high hurdlers set new marks, and the winner of the half mile equalled the best previous school record.

THE old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children and his children's children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man who has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Once in a while you find such a man who has never taken any medicine. That man has lived a perfectly natural life. Not one in a thousand does do it. Sometimes very slight indiscretions or carelessness pave the way for serious sickness. The germ theory of disease is well authenticated, and germs are everywhere. This need make no difference to the perfectly healthy man. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. They are hurried along rapidly and thrown off before they have time to develop or increase. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of rich, life-giving properties, the blood will be a sluggish, putrid tide of impurity. Instead of giving strength to the tissues, it will force upon them unwholesome and innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh. The more flesh he loses and the weaker he becomes, the more susceptible he is to disease. His trouble will become complicated and serious consequences will follow. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease, replaces impurities with rich, red blood, feeds the tissues and makes strong, healthy flesh.

BRAINTREE.

The Saint Francis' Sunday School will hold a picnic on the Common at an early date.

The passage of the school tax bill by the Legislature would mean a net State aid of over $2000 for Braintree.

The pupils of the lowest grade in the High school are preparing to take the Thayer Academy examinations.

The Literary club met last Monday night with Mrs. Caldwell. The next and last meeting for the season will be with Miss Annie Shaw, Monday night.

The graduating exercises in the grammar school grade of the Monatiquot will be an address. The regular school work will be kept up to the end of the term.

Mr. A. E. Harlow of Brockton is the leader and instructor of the Braintree band. He has received many compliments upon the good showing the band made last Monday. The boys like him and they have put in some good work.

Miss Marion Arnold has consented to arrange the programme for the school piano benefit, to take place in Monatiquot hall, Friday night. Some of our best talent has offered to take part, including Miss Goulland, Mr. Waterman and Cuff's orchestra.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners commenced a survey of West street, Thursday, from Washington street to the reservation. It will be laid out 75 feet wide. A grass plot 14 feet wide will be on each side and if the plan goes through, will add much to the beauty of Braintree.

Firemen's Memorial Sunday will be observed one week from tomorrow.

Mr. B. J. Loring attended the reunion of the Fifth regiment in Concord, Monday.

Yesterday was visiting day in the kindergarten school in the town hall building, and the little tots made a fine showing.

Hon. James T. Stevens who was the first commander of the Post in Braintree, attended memorial services Monday, for the twenty-ninth time.

One week from tomorrow will be observed as children's Sunday. At the South church the sermon in the evening will be to the boys, and the collection for the boys' brigade.

A team owned and driven by P. J. Clark of Randolph was badly smashed near the residence of Elmer Thayer, Wednesday evening. Mr. Clark was thrown out and badly cut. The team was completely demolished. The horse ran to Randolph and is badly used up.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are today its warmest friends. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

THE GRANITE DUTY.

country. The report from which I have read shows that the labor cost here is so far beneath 100 per cent. that 40 per cent. in the pending bill would amply cover the whole labor cost, and not merely the difference.

Mr. LODGE. The amount of machinery used in granite cutting is very, very small. It is almost exclusively hand labor.

Mr. MILLS. I understand it is very considerable.

Mr. LODGE. I am not speaking of getting the stone out, but of working it afterwards. I have here the figures of cost. The cost in Scotland, freight added, of monument No. 1—these are samples of monuments—is $76.98; the same monument would cost in Quincy, Mass., $165. That is absolute cost, and it is almost entirely labor cost.

I will not take the time of the Senate to go through a series of these monuments. It is the same throughout. The labor cost here is just about twice as much as it is in Scotland. I referred to the difference between this country and Scotland. Comparing with Sweden, as the Senator from New Hampshire did, it would be rather greater, I think the Senator from Texas will find that the labor is largely hand labor and that the cost is largely labor cost.

MONTPELIER, VT., January 6, 1897
Committee on Ways and Means:

The tariff on granite is now 30 per cent., under the McKinley bill it was 40 per cent., and before that time it was 20 per cent.; but 30 per cent. is sufficiently high for the protection of American labor.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the granite imported into this country is red granite. The red granite of the United States is very limited. There is some found at Red Beach, in Maine, but it is of a quality that will not hold its color and is not very desirable, and if the people of the United States want a red granite, they can not obtain a good article in this country. The result is that excessive duty on this granite will take it from the consumer and will not be any advantage to the American work.

If you will look at the schedule of granite imported into the United States within the past year, you will find under 30 per cent. tariff a large decrease, and we hope the duty will be left as it now stands and not increased.

We are large handlers of Barre granite, and know that it does not affect the trade in our native stone and would not in any other granite centers in the United States.

R. C. BOWERS GRANITE CO.
R. C. BOWERS, PRESIDENT.

There is another communication:

BOSTON, January 5, 1897.
Committee on Ways and Means:

I wish to enter my protest against any change in the present rate of duty on imported granite, as I know, from present cost of the same style work in both Scotch and American granite, that the present rate of duty is more than ample to protect the American product. The principal reason for sales being made in the imported granites is that purchasers have a larger variety of colors from which to make their selections, in Scotch and Swedish, which colors the American granite quarries do not produce.

From this you will see that it is not the prices named to purchasers that effect the sales and bring in the imported granite work. You will find, by careful reference, that the importations of gray granites are very slight. This is owing to the fact that our American quarries produce principally gray granites, and we can, as far as price is concerned, sell American granite at a much lower price than the same article in imported granite can be sold for.

I am largely interested in granite quarry property at West Quincy, Mass., as well as handling all other American products, and do not consider that my interests in the American granite industry, require any further protection than the present tariff provides. CHARLES CLEMENTS.

Again:

BOSTON, January 5, 1897.
Committee on Ways and Means:

We wish to protest against any proposed advance in tariff on imported granites. The price is now much in excess of our American granites, both red and gray, and a higher duty means a heavy loss to the Government in revenue, and will benefit none. We trust that the present duty, on investigation, may be found, in the opinion of your committee, sufficiently high, and that there will be no change for the present.

E. C. WILLISON.

Again:

BOSTON, January 5, 1897.
Committee on Ways and Means:

We are large owners of quarries and manufactories of granite at Barre, Vt., and Hingham, Mass., and from practical experience we are satisfied that an increase in tariff is unnecessary for protection purposes. On the contrary, it unsettles prices and disturbs the monumental business generally. The American manufacturers have facilities far superior to those in Scotland, and with the natural advantages in the formation and lay of our granites we can quarry granite at a much less cost, notwithstanding the difference in labor.

With the present tariff we can successfully compete with the manufacturers of Scotland in manufacture; besides, the only granite that is imported at the present time is red granite, of which we have very quarries suitable for monumental purposes, and we believe it is for the interest of the monumental business that we should be able to supply a variety of colors, both from an artistic and business standpoint.

We therefore most earnestly protest against any increase in the present tariff.

JONES BROTHERS.

Again:

New York, January 6, 1897.
Committee on Ways and Means:

Your committee will no doubt consider the rate of duty on foreign granite in the near future. The old rate was 20 per cent. This rate was advanced to 40 per cent., and then placed at 30 per cent., the present rate. In considering such matters the intention of your committee is, of course, to do justice to all interests concerned, and my belief that such is the case is my only excuse for trespassing upon your valuable time. An examination of the imports will show that 85 per cent. of the same is red granite, for which we have no equivalent in the United States. The gray granites quarried in this country are superior to anything possible to secure abroad. Red granites, such as Hill O'Fare, red Peterhead, and the red Swede granites, are not to be found on this side, and when our citizens require such material it is necessary to import it.

A reduction of the rate to the old basis of 20 per cent. would advance the interests of everyone concerned, as there is no conflict of interests, as the gray granites quarried here are so much superior to anything it is possible to secure abroad that the market is practically closed to importations of that class.

For red granites, however, it is necessary to go outside, and a rate of duty of over 20 per cent. places a burden upon people who wish to purchase material that, on account of the difference in color, beautifies the different cemeteries by value of contrast. If any industry in this country would be advanced or protected by leaving the duty at its present rate of 30 per cent. I should be the last to enter a protest. At least 70 per cent. of my business is in home material. D. W. FRANCIS.

It is so seldom that any protest against high tariff or any demand for low tariff is made before a Republican committee in the consideration of a tariff bill that it is quite refreshing to find such communications as I have read. It may be that the Senators on the other side will attempt to discredit what is stated in these communications by deriding the testimony as coming from manufacturers. They are not only manufacturers, but some of them are importers; and they are quarrymen who own the quarries.

They state distinctly that at least 90 per cent. of the granite that comes into the United States is red granite; that the character of granite does not at all compete with gray granite, the ordinary monumental granite, as it is termed, and therefore any additional tariff upon the granites is no good whatever to any interests in the United States, nor will it promote the purposes of revenue, because the additional tariff will be prohibitive. I submit these considerations to Senators on the other side, and claim that they ought to be entitled to considerable weight.

The gentlemen who wrote these communications certainly can not be accused of any leaning toward the horrid idea of free trade, for the last communication wound up with a statement that the writer was in accord with the Republican idea of protection, but, looking at the matter from a business standpoint, he could see no reason whatever why the rate should be raised. He further thought that it ought to be reduced; that notwithstanding the labor cost in America was higher per diem than in Scotland or Sweden or any other place from which granite is imported, yet the output of the labor, the result of the labor, is such that the American could more than compete with his brother laborer in other countries. This ought to be, I think, in the interest of the whole country, duly considered, and the rate, if not lowered, ought certainly to be maintained at the Wilson rate.

Mr. GALLINGER. All the gentlemen from whom the Senator from Louisiana has read are importers of granite. Most of them are known to those of us who live in New England. I rise simply to say that the contention that Mr. Bowers makes which the Senator from Louisiana has read, that there is no red granite suitable for monumental purposes in this country, is so clearly refuted by some literature which I hold in my hand that I desire to put it in the RECORD. It shows that we have in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, and Texas large quantities of the very best colored granite the world produces that can be used for monumental purposes.

Mr. WARREN. I desire to state at this point that very large quantities of the granite in question are found in the State of Wyoming. We use it for monumental purposes, and it has proved to be valuable in every way.

Mr. GALLINGER. I meant to add the State of Maine likewise. I ask unanimous consent to have placed in the RECORD without reading the clippings that I send to the desk, which absolutely and completely refute the contention that we have not in this country an abundance of colored granite for monumental purposes. That is all I care to say.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from New Hampshire? If there be no objection, such will be the order of the Senate.

The matter referred to shows that there is considerable American red granite in different States.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

END OF SCHOOLDAYS.

This Is Commencement Week at Several Well Known Seminaries.

The Baccalaureate Sermons at Many Institutions.

June commencements are here and sweet girl graduates and wise young theologians are the first to reach the turning point of life—when school days are ended and the battle of life begins in earnest. Baccalaureate sermons were preached yesterday at Andover, Newton, Lasell, West Point and several other places. We give a synopsis of each.

Lasell Seminary.

Auburndale, Mass., June 7.—The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Lasell seminary was preached in the Congregational church yesterday by Rev. C. M. Couthgate. The pews in the body of the church were filled with the fair students of the seminary, and on the platform were seated the members of the faculty. Tasteful decorations added much to the attractiveness of the church.

He said in part: "Young ladies, in the years of preparation and study, which you have passed through, you have fitted yourselves for the throne of a queenly womanhood. As you go out upon life's journey you feel a subtle power beckoning you forward to a new life, and a life with a new meaning. This period of graduation is an epoch in your life. My words to you are, 'Be thou a blessing.' Aim high and adapt yourselves to the circumstances of your career. You will be beset by a tide of darkness at every turn, but take courage, make a name for yourself, and remember that character, not circumstances, makes success in life.

"Let your whole life be as a priceless gem of the purest ray, and let your every act mean something, something noble and inspiring. Again I say aim high. You have spent years of preparation under the careful guidance of your teachers, and are now to pass to a period of self control. Let the guidance you have had in the past serve you well in the future, and remember each of you that you were created for a career, and let that career be a noble and a profitable one."

Andover Theological Seminary.

Andover, Mass., June 7.—Anniversary week at Andover Theological seminary opened yesterday with the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class by Rev. Dr. William H. Ryder. Professor Ryder took his text from Matt. xiii, 51-52, and the theme of his discourse was: "The Gospel's Appeal to the Intellect."

The speaker said that the gospel is, "first of all, a body of truth, and must be presented as such. The minister must teach that devotion is the expression of the conviction of truth, and such conviction must be developed in men's minds before they can be willing to worship. The right activities of the church consist of the inculcation of the great truths and making them vital in Christian living. Ministers ought to be shy of the present tendency of administering churches as complicated evangelical and social machines.

"They should also guard against a presentation of the gospel, consisting of little except an appeal to the ardent emotions. The Christian minister should be constantly mindful of the fact that his first duty is to demonstrate the truth of the gospel."

There are 26 members in the graduating class, and the principal graduating exercises will occur Wednesday.

Newton Theological Seminary.

Newton, Mass., June 7.—Commencement week at the Newton Theological institute began yesterday, and the opening event was the morning service at the Newton Centre Baptist church, when the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. George E. Horr, D. D., of Boston, in place of the president of the institute, Rev. Alvah Hovey, who is away on an extended visit. The services were of a simple character, and the edifice was crowded to the doors. The front pews were occupied by the theological students.

Dr. Horr took for his text, John 3-2, "Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher, come from God."

Dr. Horr said in part: "This passage is often misconstrued. The man Nicodemus has often and wrongly been taken as a type of the secret Christian. He is mentioned in three instances in the New Testament, notably at a meeting of the Jews, when he rises and asks if any man shall be judged without a hearing. He is a man of caution and sagacity and investigation, but we wonder at his protest in the presence of his peers. He is one of those men who want to know where they are to step before they take the step.

"Like all men he was impressed by the teachings and revelations of Christ. The teachings that came from original observations, and whose sincerity is undoubted. We all remember the closing hours of Socrats' life, but we cannot contrast them with the closing hours of the life of Jesus without reading between the lines the vast measurement between the 'guessings' of man and the revelations of God.

"Another thought suggested by this passage and its explanations is the affinity between love and truth. What love does for the emotions, truth does for the mind. We do not gain our best views of truth from reasoning, but from intuition. The quality of the best preaching is not that which leads men to conclusions upon the basis of reasoning, but that which leads them to trust in itself evident truthfulness, oftentimes from its affinity to God himself."

West Point Academy.

West Point, N. Y., June 7.—The chapel of the West Point Military academy was completely filled yesterday by the corps of cadets, the board of visitors, the officers and ladies and families of the cadets at the customary hour for religious worship to listen to the farwell discourse of Rev. Herbert Shipman to the graduating class. Rev. Shipman took for his text St. Matthew xxviii, 20, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." At the conclusion of the discourse, directing his remarks to the graduating class, who sat in the front pew, the speaker said: "Men of the graduating class. In all that I have said I have been speaking especially to you. You above all are in our thoughts and in our hearts today. I wish that my last words to you might be words of power, indeed, I cannot command, but they shall be words I believe and know to be true. There is one thing which this institution emphasizes, and you yourselves rightfully value and hold high above all other things—it is manliness. If there is one thing which the religion of Jesus Christ demands and inspires above all else, it too, is manliness. True manliness and true godliness are but different aides of one and the self-same thing. Take manliness out of religion and you have a poor thing; take religion out of manliness and there is left a thing just as poor, a thing with no support upon which you can lean, a thing which in time of strange temptation will surely fail. Do not misunderstand me, I am not so narrow as to say that there is no manliness in men who make no open profession of faith. What I do say is that whether they make that profession or not whatever manliness they have comes from God and from him alone. It is not for all of us perhaps to do great things in life, but it is for all of us to be in ourselves, whatever we will to be, to be men in the truest and highest sense, and whoever is that has made a success of life. Stand fast in the faith. Quit you like men, and may he who is our highest and best example of what true manliness is, strengthen you with his own strength, purify you even as he is pure and be with you always, even to the end."

Vassar College.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 7.—The commencement season at Vassar college was inagurated yesterday with President James M. Taylor's sermon to the graduating class. The seniors, numbering 105, all dressed in white, occupied the front seats of the chapel, which was decorated with daises and field flowers. Dr. Taylor's text was from Paul to Timothy vi, 20, "Keep that which is committed to thy trust." He urged the students who are just going forward into the college to be simple and modest, to shun notoriety, sensationalism and the notions about the so-called womanhood. The sermon was an eloquent plea for conservatism. "Our age, radical in its tendencies, calls for restraint. The state, marriage, home and religion have all been attacked during the past 20 years. 'Away with the old' has been the cry, but nothing new has been offered. It is the duty of educated men and women to work continuously for a healthful conservatism." Referring to sensationalism, Dr. Taylor said that the pulpit has so far gone into sensationalism that many preachers are more fitted for the show than for the pulpit. He also criticized very severely the tendency of the press to cater to the taste for sensationalism.

Maine State Normal School.

Farmington, Me., June 77.—The commencement at the state normal school began yesterday with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon in the Old South church by Rev. Dr. Mason of Brunswick. The congregation was a large one, and the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and foliage.

The exercises of the week include examinations by the trustees on Wednesday, a reception and address by General O. O. Howard on Thursday.

Liquor Laws Enforced.

Haverhill, Mass., June 7.—The police last week were called together and special orders were read warning them that each man would be held responsible for all violations of the liquor law on his beat. The result has been a series of raids.

Cuban Rivers Over Banks.

Havana, June 7.—Heavy rains have fallen in the provinces of Santiago De Cuba and Pinar Del Rio, and many of the rivers have overflowed their banks.

Prison Trouble Over.

San Quentin Prison, Cal., June 7.—The trouble with the convicts employed in the jute mill in the prison is about over, and no further disturbance is looked for. Work started up today in that portion of the mill known as the "Old Jute" with 400 men. This leaves about 250 of the most desperate and mutinous of the criminals still confined on a diet of bread and water, and it is expected that of these all but the ringleaders of the attack will soon be at work again. The ringleaders and those who took part in the attempt to break from the dungeon will be brought up before the board of directors and their cases considered for punishment.

Suspension Raised.

Boston, June 7.—Mr. Dorntee, New England member of the national racing board of the L. A. W., states that he has received a letter from Chairman Mott of the national racing board to the effect that the reported suspension of Jimmy Michael has been raised until June 18. This will permit the holding of the great match between Michael and McDuffie at the Charles River park on June 17.

Fell Four Stories.

Haverhill, Mass., June 7.—George Young, 12 years old, living at 112 Merrimac street, while playing on the roof of a 4-story building yesterday afternoon fell head first into the alleyway in the rear. His fall was broken by a wire, but his skull was crushed, and when picked up was beyond medical aid.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. THE SCHOOL tax bill has merit because it equalizes taxation. It hits some of the rich towns and tax dodgers' paradises but that is what is desired. It helps the struggling towns and also children who desire a good free school education. Large holders of corporation stock now live in Boston, Brookline, Newton, Milton and a few other towns and they profit largely by returns of corporation tax collected by state, while the towns in which these corporation really do business and which educate the employes, receive no aid in taxes from the business. The towns which receive the larger part of the corporation tax will share some of their profit under the mill tax. Only 35 of the 354 cities and towns will pay more than they receive. A glance at the list will show that they are rich towns, which may well help their poor sisters. They are towns where high salaries are paid to school teachers causing disatisfaction with salaries in less favored localities. The first seventeen on the list are Boston, Brookline, Newton, Milton, Springfield, New Bedford, Manchester, Nahant, Wellesley, Falmouth, Hull, Watertown, Salem, Swampscott, Cohasset, Weston and Beverly; the other eighteen will contribute less than $1000 annually, three being less than $100. Quincy will gain but not largely. The bill has one more stage in the senate. It has passed the house and has been ordered to a third reading in the upper branch. It now only awaits passage to be engrossed by the latter.

SHOULD IT be the mission of an Historical society to mix up historical matters? There seems to be an attempt on the part of some members of the Quincy Historical society to do this, when they call the birthplace of President John Quincy Adams the John Adams cottage. It is undoubtedly a fact that President John Adams did live in the so-called cottage, but the house has the greatest historical interest from the fact that it was the birthplace of John Quincy Adams, a son of John Adams. Both John Adams and John Quincy Adams lived in other houses but it is not their different residences as much as the birthplaces which have historical interest. It is very difficult even for many life-long residents of Quincy to tell the relations of the various Adamses to each other as there have been several Johns, John Quincys, Charles Francis, etc. The name of the cottage should receive attention at the next meeting of the Historical Society.

THE REGISTRAR of the Associated Charities of Lynn says: "Since license came into effect, May 1, there has been a decided increase in intemperance. Eight of our families are in difficulties solely because of drink, the bread-winners of the three of them being in jail. In several other instances drinking has been a factor, together with lack of employment. The man could not find work and was intemperate. In these cases it is sometimes a very nice question to decide whether drinking causes the idleness, or idleness leads to drinking. Certainly the two conditions react on each other and the open saloon is no help."

And Lynn is as near Boston as Quincy with more trains. A statement from a source like this has more weight than those made without investigation which say Quincy has as much drinking as under license years ago.

THE THOUSANDS of bicycle riders who use our streets are often times greatly inconvenienced by the way in which the minor repairs are made, that is when the street laborers spread on gravel it is done from curb to curb often times making it necessary, for the riders to dismount and walk around the obstruction. If a small pathway, say a foot in width, was left it would obviate this difficulty. Valley street, which is much used by wheelmen, is a good illustration of poor repairing.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMPSON seems to be one of the most active members of the Legislature at this time. Being on a very important committee he has been busy in committee all the session, and frequently speaks on the floor. Unless Mr. Thompson is wanted for Mayor of the city next year he should be returned for a third term. His experience is worth considerable to the city, and it is of such timber that our legislative body should be built.

Around the Bases.

With a score of 12 to 8 in their favor at the beginning of the ninth innings, Adams should have defeated Thayer at Braintree on Friday, but Thayer had a streak of batting and not only won the game but three out of five for the pennant. Score 14 to 12.

The South Quincy Stars defeated the Rovers Saturday morning by a score of 24 to 7.

The Victors of South Quincy beat the Plainers of Quincy 14 to 13 on Saturday.

Triangle Wheelmen Notes.

H. S. Wessell and Joe Jacobs of the racing team visited Worcester Saturday and competed in the Y. M. C. A. ten-mile road race. The team was crippled by the absence of John Sutherland, who was also expected to go, but sickness prevented. The course was in bad condition, and when they had gone two miles, Jacobs struck a bowlder, breaking his pedal crank. He got on another wheel and succeeded in getting second time prize. Wessell made third best time. Their average time was the best of any of the seven teams represented: Jacobs, 29, 55; Wessell, 30, 05.

The next club run will be to the Boston Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening. As the Boston club are first class entertainers our boys will no doubt have a good time. The largest number so far this season is expected to turn out. Start will be made at 7 P. M. sharp. The Opie Brothers on their new tandem will cut the pace.

Among the new members are Harry McCabe, the boy wonder and winner of the Hearn cup, and E. H. McLean the mile runner who has pushed off several pedal cranks already this season.

First Burgess Cup Race

The postponed race of the Wollaston Yacht club was held Saturday afternoon off the new club house at Norfolk Downs. The wind was due east and very steady and held well throughout the race. There was no allowance in either class, and the boats were divided into two classes according to the conditions under which the Commodore Burgess cups were given, as this was the first race for these cups.

There were no first or third class boats. The second class got away at 2.20, Burgess crossing with a lead of seven seconds over the Clara Lou. The latter boat, however, soon overhauled the commodore and kept the lead throughout the race.

In the fourth class there were eight starters six of whom finished. The Thelma took the lead at the start and held it throughout the race finishing with a good first.

The summary:

SECOND CLASS.

Name and Owner.	Actual time. h. m. sec.
Clara Lou, W. J. Coombs,	1-26 47
Burgess, Com. Burgess,	1-32-22

FOURTH CLASS.

Thelma, E. A. Merrill,	1-34-58
West Wind, F. B. Robinson	1-41-34
Esther, H. A. Newman,	1-5 -30
Doris S., W. H. Cleaves,	1-58 17

Gypsy, John Stuart,	2-28-11

Yachting Spray.

The Quincy Yacht Club after many requests has decided to buoy Bass Rocks, one of the greatest dangers which yachts encounter that use Weymouth Fore River. Beginning on the 13th a large barrel buoy painted cream color, will mark this ledge.

The government Steamer Verbena was off the Quincy Yacht Club house this week and set the Spear's Stand buoys. They are nuns, similar to those of last year. Vessels are cautioned not to attempt to pass between them.

The Quincy boats showed up well in the sail-off of the postponed race of the South Boston race on Saturday. The Harbinger, Rex and Rooster won the first prizes, and 100 per cent. in the competition for the Y. R. A. championships. The second boats in their classes were the Beatrice, Privateer and Arab, who get 50 per cent., while the Elfreda, Whisper and Cleopatra take 25 per cent. The Beatrice lost to the Harbinger by nearly two minutes, and the Privateer was only 9 seconds behind the Rex. The Rooster had no dangerous rival, while Faxon's Cleopatra was only 17 seconds behind the Arab.

Paid Under Protest.

The Arbutus, after many vicissitudes, arrived at her moorings off the Quincy Yacht club house on Saturday afternoon. The past week has been an eventful one to her and her owners. As has previously been noted in these columns she was picked up on Thursday forenoon on Bumkin island by Messrs. Frank and Ranier James of Hull. From appearances it was evident that she had been stolen from her moorings as her jib was up when found and the jib cover neatly folded and stowed away in the standing room. Her mainsail had not been raised, neither had the cover been removed from it. The thief had evidently headed her for Nantasket, scudding along at the dead of night under the jib, and, owing to the intense darkness plunked her on Bumkin. He then abandoned her.

James Bros., who are boatmen at Hull, had their attention called to the Arbutus on Thursday morning. They sailed over to the island, found that the boat was all right and run her over to their wharf at Hull village. The next day the owners, Messrs. Amos L. Merritt and Charles W. Hall appeared, proved and claimed their property and at the same time tendering the Messrs. James fifty dollars for their two hours work. The James' very bluntly refused to consider the sum of fifty dollars and stated that their price was $100 and no less. Finding that it was a waste of words to compromise the matter, the owners returned home. On Saturday they secured the advice of counsel but the blind goddess works so slow and in such devious ways that it was finally thought advisable to go down to Hull, put down the money and get the boat, which they did.

The Quincy Yacht club has had the reputation the past few years of looking after the interests of its members who chance to get into trouble. It is understood that this case will not be an exception.

Golf at Wollaston.

The mixed foursomes of the Wollaston golf club on Saturday resulted in favor of of Mr. Freeman and Miss Whicher.

The scores:

R. R. Freeman and Miss Sarah Whicher,	117	Scratch	117
H. M. Fairbanks and Miss Catherine Sibley,	118	Scratch	118
J. F. Muirhead and Miss Stackpole,	131	12	119

Tennis Tournament.

As a result of the tournament of the Merrymount Tennis club of Wollaston, Bates and Emery will play in the finals on Saturday. The scores:

Emery beat Bailey,	11—9	6—1
Bates beat Albee,	6—4	6—3
Emery beat Manning,	6—2	8—6

Feast of Pentecost.

Yesterday was the feast of Pentecost, and solemn high mass celebrated in commemoration at St. John's church, at 10.30, by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti, celebrant; Rev. M. F. Sheahan, C. SS. R, deacon, and Rev. John P. Cuffe, sub deacon. The sermon on the significance of the feast and its great import to Catholics was preached by Rev. Fr. Sheehan, one of the most conspicuously active of the members of the Redemptorist order. His splendid preaching always draws a large congregation. At present he is engaged in leading the mission at West Quincy.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollastor, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Warmer today than a year ago today, but not seasonable for all that.

The death of John, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dinegan, is a sad blow to the family. They have the sympathy of many friends.

Next Sunday will be observed as Children's day at Quincy Point. Special efforts have been put forth and a fine service has been prepared and will be given by the children.

The divorce case of Charles Edgar Tirrell of Quincy vs. Lizzie A. Tirrell of Brockton was heard at Dedham Friday and Mr. Tirrell will be granted a decree nisi and custody of two children.

A live electric light wire fell in Hancock street Saturday evening opposite the Bethany church and for a few minutes there was a lively display of fireworks. Fortunately no one was injured and the line was pulled out of the way and later repaired.

A four-year-old youth not far from the Washington Street Congregational church asked his grandmother the other day, to untie a knot he had in a string. She being busy told him no. He simply turned away and said: "Well I'll get God to do it, he can do most everything."

The annual choir festival service will be held at Christ church on Thurday evening. The choirs taking part being Christ church, Hyde Park, and Christ church, Quincy, and this year's festival music will be sung. The service will be repeated at Hyde Park on Friday, June 18. Admission by ticket.

The new grocery store of Goss & Gould, at 23 Hancock street, was opened to the public Saturday, at which time all making a fifty cent purchase were given a present. The store is neatly arranged, is well stocked with goods, and as Mr. Goss, who is well known, will manage she store, it is a sufficient guarantee that everything will be sold right.

Ernest Knight, the eight year old son of Samuel Knight of Water street, met with a serious accident Friday evening. He, with other companions of his own age, was at play, when a stone thrown by one of the boys struck him in the right eye. Dr. Hallowell was called and sent the boy to the eye and ear infirmary in Boston. There is doubt at present whether the boy will lose his eyesight.

A good attendance at the morning service of the Washington Street Congregational Church, Sunday, listened to a good sermon from the 1031 Psalm by the pastor, Rev. Morris Howland Turk. In the evening a small audience listened to an interesting service and some good singing by the choir. It is desired to make these monthly services interesting and have a large attendance.

A short time ago we called attention to the fact of there being a need of a Waste paper barrel at the corner of Washington and South streets, Quincy Point. It has arrived and is a very neat barrel, being painted red with black hoops. The residents in the vicinity wish to extend through their correspondent, their thanks and appreciation to Commissioner Knowlton for the promptness with which he complied with their request.

ALMOST A MURDER.

Loss of Property Excites a Quincy Man to Revenge.

The estate of James Murdock at Quincy Neck was sold at mortgagee's sale this morning by Auctioneer Crane. It is said that Mr. Murdock has become worked up over the loss of his property, and has repeatedly threatened the life of W. W. Jenness, Esq., who has handled the case for the National Mount Wollaston bank.

This morning anticipating possible trouble Lawyer Jenness and Auctioneer Crane when they went down to sell the property took Inspector McKay along for a body guard, which probably saved Lawyer Jenness' life.

When the party arrived Inspector McKay stood in front of Mr. Jenness and Mr. Murdock was a few feet away with his hand in his hip pocket, but as the officer stood between the two he was prevented from shooting if he wanted to.

Suddenly Mr. Murdock called to the officer and said he wanted to talk with him a moment, this evidently being a ruse to get the officer a little to one side. Inspector McKay was however too quick for him for as he stepped toward Mr. Murdock he made a grab at the arm of the hand he held in his pocket and held it firmly.

Still keeping a firm hold of the arm the officer drew the hand out of his pocket, and was not surprised to find that it held a loaded revolver. The prompt action of Inspector McKay probably prevented a murder.

The property was then sold. Just what action will be taken relative to Mr. Murdock has not been determined as yet.

Hancock Street Paving.

The reference in debate in the City Council last week, to the work done by the Quincy & Boston street railway on Hancock street at Atlantic, has caused considerable talk, and the friends of fair play think that the president when on the floor, made some misleading statements intended to rob the company of credit for the good job done. It is generally admitted that the street is much improved for public travel, and no one appreciates this more than Commissioner Knowlton. He says the Mayor and himself found the company ready and willing to do what they thought right. The order passed probably intended, as President Bryant says, that the company should pave that part of the street vacated, where the new rails were put on the paved part of the street. Yet the Commissioner thinks it might have been difficult to enforce this restriction, had the company been obstinate.

The controversy now hinges on whether the city paving adjoined the track. If there were several feet of gravel between the paving and rail, then a gravel road adjoined the track and gravel only would be required where the old rails were taken up. The facts are that the width between varies; that in some instances it was possibly over three feet, and at other times less than one. However, it is probably a fact that from the city paving to the curb, where the old rails were laid, averaged about eight feet.

The clause in the order read:

"Third.—On the completion of the new construction, to remove the old tracks and put that portion of the street in good condition for travel and to conform to that part of the street adjoining."

How much space does the railway occupy? Some might say five feet the width of the rails, but the cars overhang from 18 inches to two feet, and it is common where paving is to be done that 18 inches outside the rail be included, in which case the railway occupies at least eight feet. The new cars are a foot wider.

The company has not attempted to shirk what the city wanted by any technicality, as the whole easterly side of the street has been paved. In many cases, both east and west of the new rails, the city paving was taken up and relaid at established grade, and Hancock street was never in better condition.

BILLINGS STREET.

Have the Residents any Right?—Are they Protected.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Two questions are now being agitated by the dwellers on Billings street, Atlantic; "Have the residents of Billings street any rights which the City Council are bound to respect?" and "Are the Councilmen from Atlantic true protectors of the rights of the citizens of Atlantic in that body?"

When Councilman Parker stated in the last meeting of the Council that forty-one per cent. of the frontage on Billings street was in favor of the electric cars running on Billings street, he knew that a large part of that percentage represented dwellers on Atlantic street who happened to own land on Billings street and who to a man opposed their passing their own front doors. He also ignored entirely the majority who opposed running on Billings street, but made it a matter of great importance that a minority was in favor. It certainly was a minority report in a double sense.

Councilman Parker urges as a reason for putting the cars on Billings street, that Atlantic street is a better street for driving. What makes it a better street for driving? Probably he would have to say "the larger number of trees and the unobstructed water-view on its northern side." The streets are of the same width and are equally good for driving otherwise. As he and the other residents on Atlantic street, would not wish the trees interfered with, so the Billings street residents would like to retain their trees.

Whilst the Councilman from the other wards might not really know the exact feeling of the Billings street petitioners respecting the opposition to the running of the cars, Mr. Parker could have easily enlightened them and told them that every name on that petition meant a real remonstrant and not that "Mr. Read was the principal remonstrant" leaving it to be inferred that his was about the only opposition to overcome.

Councilman Badger who also knew the feelings of the Billings street people gave as a reason for locating the road on Billings street, that there was an opening into Billings street. If that constitutes a requisite for car running, then Walker street is the proper one for there are two openings, one by way of Clive street opening into Botolph beside the Newhall street connection with Billings street. It is nearer the centre of the place also, has fewer trees upon it and fewer residences and it is not impossible that a larger percentage of its residents desire the cars to run upon it than the forty-one per cent. mentioned by Councilman Parker being so important on Billings street.

Why Billings street has been fastened upon by those heading the car scheme in spite of the opposition early expressed to the Council by petition and published in the daily papers, is a matter open to conjecture. Certain it is, that if the petition to refuse a location on Billings street had been presented to the Boston Common Council and Atlantic had been a part of Boston, the petition would have been granted, as was the case with Minot street, Neponset, when the residents asked a refusal of location on account of the width of the street.

If the cars are actually permitted to run on Billings street it will serve as a precedent and no part of our city need be exempt from an invasion by the electric companies whether the cars are needed or desired or not.

The fact should be thoroughly understood by those people who may desire to come to Quincy to make their homes that they will have no right on their street except to pay taxes and it will be in vain for them to petition the City Council of Quincy in case of any high-handed tyranny, for that body will simply take no notice of their petition. W.

City Council.

Among the matters to come before the meeting of the City Council tonight are public hearings upon the petitions to lay out Brook road and Nightingale avenue. The Committee on Streets have some reports to make and there are a number of petitions for licenses in the hands of clerk Spear. The order granting the street railway a location to Squantum will come up for its second reading.

Representative Newcomb.

A letter from the State House to the Weymouth Gazette says: "Representative Newcomb of Quincy got into a strange gathering the other day. The members of the Lynn delegation invited him to dine with them, and as they had a number of former members along, he went. To his surprise, he found the subject of discussion was the senatorship, and that several of the party were supposed to be candidates. Before he left, he confessed that it was not customary to handle politics in the Lynn way in the first Norfolk district and the inference one drew from his statements was that he perferred the Norfolk way. By the way, Mr. Newcomb has a bill on hand in his liquor law committee Brother Faxon having found a hole in his bill passed this year in relation to the transportation of liquor into no-license towns. It was admitted by the house, but the senate nearly refused it, only the opportune entrance of Senator Barker at close of the vote giving it the necessary four-fifths.

Great Battle Saturday.

Of late that palace under City Hall, which has a sign over the outer door reading "Police Station," has become very lively of late with vermin, otherwise known as bed bugs and lice.

Sometimes the officer on duty at the station would get lonesome but with these occupants it has become impossible, for they had become a source of amusement to him and he would tip back in his easy chair and watch these animals play tag with each other, also hide-and go-seek and other equally as sporty games. This was all right but some of these tenants were getting too familiar, and it was no uncommon thing for the officer on duty to look from his writing and see a large bed bug perched upon the top of his desk making faces at him. This was too much even for the Quincy police and Chief Hayden determined to clean them out, even if only for a short time.

Saturday was the day set by him for the raid and accompanied by Inspector Ford, a descent was made upon the station and copious quantities of sulphur, dalmation powder, wood alcohol and other equally as forcible methods of war fare were used, and the place shut up tight to await results.

The result was very satisfactory and the unwelcome tenants are exterminated for a time, but only for a time, for owing to the location of the station, others will soon come to take the places of those who were killed in the battle of Saturday.

The bill provided for the entertainment of the patrons of Keith's for the week of June 7 includes the following artists, each of whom is a leader in his or her line: The Five Castillians, the first and only distinctive comedy act with more than two people that have been imported from Europe, and which has made a pronounced hit with American audiences. The piece in which they appear is called "A Game of Wits," and is stated to be exceptionally funny. George Fawcett (late of the "Two Orphans' Company," in character recitations; The Potter Trio, in a phenomenal aerial act, E. H. Hall, the banjo king; J. J. Fisher (late of the "Good Mr. Best" Company), one of the most accomplished baritone vocalists in the country. There will be the usual additions to the biograph programme of motion pictures.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD,
Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.

Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.

P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once.

Sold by all druggists.

Some Doubt That Sugar Debate Will Begin as Soon as Expected.

Hawaiian Treaty Will Be Protected by Committee.

Many Sharp Contests Ahead For Supporters of the Bill---House Program.

Washington, June 7.—The tariff program in the senate is a bit uncertain, owing to the illness of Senator Aldrich. It is possible that the sugar schedule will be reached today, and it is impossible to tell whether or not it will be taken up. The other schedules will be considered in regular order and the same desultory debate which characterized last week's proceedings will be indulged in.

Senator Allen probably will enter a motion to strike out the entire paragraph relating to sawed lumber, and the motion may lead to other speeches than his own. Whether the sugar schedule will be taken up in order is still undetermined. There are many differences of opinion on the subject, but the prevailing desire is to get the schedule out of the way as soon as possible. This is the case on both sides of the chamber, but it is especially true of the Republicans, as the responsibility for action rests there. Still there is a desire among Republican senators that there should be absolute agreement among themselves on the rates of this schedule before entering upon its discussion in the senate, and it is realized that this may be difficult of attainment without a further exchange of opinions than has yet been permitted. There is no doubt in any event of a postponement until Senator Aldrich's return to the senate. He is still confined to his room, but is expected to be out early in the week.

That the Hawaiian treaty will be protected by the finance committee is considered settled, but a caucus may be necessary to determine whether other changes should be made. Senator Pettigrew has decided definitely to offer his anti-trust amendment in connection with this schedule, but beyond the fact that it will lead to a number of speeches there is no certainty as to its course or its fate.

The tobacco schedule immediately follows the sugar schedule, but if it should be reached today it would be necessary also to temporarily pass it over, as the committee has promised the tobacco men a hearing tonight. They will ask for $2 on wrapper and 35 cents on filler tobacco. There is also an inclination to return to the language of the Wilson law on this subject. This is understood to be the wish of both the importers and the tobacco growers.

There are many sharp contests ahead on the paragraphs of the agricultural schedule, which is next after tobacco, including those on rice, on which there will be an effort to secure a return to the house rates; on cattle, on which it will be claimed there should be an ad valorem rate, and on fish, fruits, chicory and salt. The innovation of a duty on tea is also proposed on this schedule, but it is practically certain that this provision will be withdrawn by the committee. Thus what would have been one of the severest contests over the bill have been avoided. The cotton and spirit schedules will, it is now thought, excite comparatively little debate.

The house has no work ahead of it this week, and it is the intention of the majority leaders to adjourn from today until Thursday, and from Thursday until Monday. Mr. Simpson and other members of the minority doubtless will essay the usual maneuvers with the purpose of embarrassing the Republicans, but in the present condition of the house their latitude is narrow, and they easily can be overborne by their adversities.

Blindfold Chess.

Brooklyn, June 7.—A remarkable exhibition of simultaneous blindfold chess playing was given Saturday evening at the Brooklyn Chess club by Harry N. Pillsbury, the American chess champion. Eight members of the club studied the games at chess tables in one room while Mr. Pillsbury played from memory in an adjoining room. The games were well conducted on both sides, Mr. Pillsbury frequently startling his opponents by his combinations. He announced a forced mate in four moves in one game and another in two moves. After four hours' playing the score showed that Pillsbury had won six games, lost two, two games being drawn.

Two More Crews at Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 7. — Two more of the college crews that are to take part in the great regatta here June 23 to July 2 took possession of their training quarters today. They are the 'varsity and freshmen eights of the University of Pennsylvania. The Quakers had not intended to come until Wednesday, but as their boathouse was finished Saturday, sooner than was expected, Coach Ward decided to bring his charges at once. They will make their headquarters at Bellevue villa, on the west bank of the river, directly opposite this city, where they have lived ever since the crews commenced racing here.

Fell From Tree.

Woonsocket, R. I., June 7.—While hunting for a crow's nest in East Woonsocket yesterday afternoon, a short distance from his home, Albert Grandgeorge, 17 years old, fell 25 feet from a tree, striking his head upon a stone. His cranium was split across. He was carried to the Woonsocket hospital, but cannot live. His father was with him at the time and witnessed the accident.

Temperance Crusade.

Brockton, Mass., June 7.—Rev. Allen Hudson of the First Congregational church fired the opening gun last night in what promises to be a long temperance campaign by an eloquent address in Messasoit hall. There was a very large attendance at the meeting and Dr. Hudson's words thrilled his hearers.

Call to Pastor.

Chelsea, Mass., June 7.—The First Unitarian church has voted to extend a call to Rev. Charles A. Place of Providence. Mr. Place is now taking a special course in theology at Harvard, and was formerly engaged in mercantile pursuits.

INSANE JEALOUSY.

Benton Falls, Me., June 7.—This little village was thrown into intense excitement yesterday afternoon by a desperate attempt at murder and suicide.

John F. Clapp, an operator in a pulp mill, and his wife, started out on a walk. They had gone about two miles from the house, and had reached what is known as Lunt's woods, when, without any warning, Clapp suddenly struck his wife in the face with his fist, and repeated the blows until he had knocked her down. Then he jumped upon her and pummelled and kicked her about the body. He then whipped out a razor and drew it across her throat from ear to ear. Then, supposing his wife was in a dying condition, Clapp cut his own throat.

Weak from loss of blood, and not knowing but that her husband would renew the murderous attack upon her, Mrs. Clapp, by the most desperate efforts, finally succeeded in dragging herself to the house of William Greene, half a mile or more from the scene of the tragedy. She left a trail of blood behind her, and when she got to the house could scarcely speak above a whisper.

Dr. Rand of Fairfield happened to be in the neighborhood and was hastily brought to the spot. At first it was thought Mrs. Clapp could not live. The doctor took two stitches in a cut in the woman's windpipe and nine in the skin of the throat. The physicians say the woman will recover.

Clapp was found in the woods, near the place where he attempted to murder his wife and kill himself, and was taken to Greene's house. An examination by the physicians disclosed a gash about two inches long in his throat, and that the point of the razor had entered the jugular. He was conveyed to his home in this place. He was attended by physicians, who say he will probably live.

It is said Clapp was very jealous of his wife, and is also at times insane. He was wrought up to commit the deed by stories which he had been told, and which his insane jealousy had magnified and distorted. Mrs. Clapp is spoken of by her neighbors as being a remarkably fine woman, and her character is said to be above reproach.

The couple were married last September, and have never lived happily together. When Clapp has gone to his work it has been his habit to lock his wife in the house.

Refugees From Indians.

Denver, June 7.—A special to the Rocky Mountain News from Miles City, Mon., says the rumor sent abroad that settlers were returning with their families to their homes is not true. About 50 families, refugees from Indians, are still in this city, and there are others coming daily. As many as seven and eight families are huddled together in one cottage, with no thought of returning to their homes while the Indians are off their reservation. A school teacher who had been teaching on Otter Creek, near the reservation, and about 60 miles from here, arrived Saturday evening, having ridden the entire distance on a bicycle in one day. She reports seeing several small bands of Indians prowling around the hills on foot. Over 200 Indians are off the reservation, scattered in small bands, roaming the country and committing depredations and devouring everything in their line of march. There are said to be 1200 Indians on the reservation. The dance houses donated the Indians some time ago by Captain Stouch and others will be torn down and the large drum taken away from them, and all "bad medicine" made hereafter will have to be made in open air. Sheriff Gibb and Stock Inspector Smith leave today for the scene of the trouble.

Davis Will Case Again.

Butte, Mont., June 7.—Another chapter in the history of the Davis will case began here today, in the hearing of the contests of Elizabeth S. Bowdoin of Springfield, Mass.; Harriet Wood of New York and Calvin P. Davis of California, sisters and brother respectively of the dead millionaire. They pray for the revocation of the probate of the will of Andrew J. Davis. In case they are successful, they will be severally entitled to one-eleventh of the deceased estate. Although originally valued at about $10,000, the present vaule of the estate is less than half of that amount. The chief drain has been the expense of litigation. The counsel fees alone have amounted to over $1,000,000. Davis' will was admitted to probate in 1895 by virtue of an agreement between the heirs of John A. Davis, the chief beneficiary, and Henry A. Root and Mrs. Cummings, who were the contesting parties in 1891. But under a Montana law anyone interested may come in after the probate of awill, at any time within one year, and file a contest. In the present trial there will be a contest over some questions of law, but the chief issue is that of forgery of the will.

Castle Square Theatre.

The continued success of the Castle Square Theatre Comedy company is most gratifying evidence of the disposition of the public to give a generous patronage in return for the remarkable attraction now being offered at the theatre. It is difficult to recall such a record as that already credited to this organization in the five weeks history, and the future of the Castle Square theatre's summer season promises much for the enjoyment of the local amusement public and visitors to the city. For the coming week, General Director Cummings announces T. W. Robertson's comedy of "Caste," the most successful of the entire series with which this playwright maintained the popularity of the Prince of Wales theatre in London for six successive years. Following "Caste" a production of "The Lost Paradise" is announced for Monday, June 14.

THE GRANITE DUTY.

Congressional Report of Debate in Senate.

Credit for Increase Due to Senators Lodge and Gallinger

Documents for and Against the Increase of Duty.

CONTINUED.

Mr. VEST. Reference has been made to the granite deposits in the State of Missouri. There are large deposits there of colored granite, and while I do not know, I suppose it is equal to any granite that is brought in from abroad or produced anywhere else. But I am here to say that there is no necessity for increasing this duty, and the comparative statement shows it. In 1893, under the McKinley Act, there was brought into this country $439,147 worth of granite. In 1896 the imports fell to $320,432.99 worth.

Mr. GALLINGER. It was owing to hard times.

Mr. VEST. The Senator from New Hampshire says it was owing to hard times, but look at the difference in the rate of duty. Why should you now put back this duty when hard times are continuing? Why should you increase it to 50 per cent. over and above the McKinley Act, when the depression still rests upon the country of which the Senator speaks?

Mr. President, if we could compromise on this proposed tariff act by putting on tariff duties equivalent to the difference in labor between this country and abroad we would be here a very short time. I undertake to say that I can prove from the reports, not only of the census, from which the Senator from Texas has read, but of the labor commissioners in the New England States, conspicuously in Connecticut, that the duties in the McKinley Act and this proposed act cover the entire cost in a great many instances, and no attention is paid to the difference in labor.

We had a conspicuous example of that in paragraph 111, which was adopted here against our protest. The tax on superficial feet in two classifications was $1.75, and then the bill goes on to provide that when any portion of onyx or granite is smoothed the duty is $3.60 a cubic foot. If it is a place only an inch in size, the infinitesimal smoothing of any portion of it, immediatly, in the name of labor, the duty is increased to $3.60 a cubic foot.

Mr. PLATT of Connecticut. To what paragraph is the Senator from Missouri referring?

Mr. VEST. I am talking about paragraph 111, which we have adopted. If the Senator will turn to it, he will see that what I state is absolutely true.

Mr. ALLISON. That is the duty on marble.

Mr. VEST. Marble and onyx. The duty is $1.75 a superficial foot, and if you smooth a place as big as an inch, or less than inch, or a hundredth part of an inch, immediately the tariff tax of $3 60 to the cubic foot attaches. Labor is a sacred thing. Like liberty, a great many outrages are perpetrated in its name.

Mr. ALDRICH. The Senator is a little off—

Mr. VEST. I beg pardon. What does the Senator say?

Mr. ALDRICH. The Senator has his figures a little high, if he will examine.

Mr. VEST. I think not.

Mr. ALDRICH. On line 14 in that paragraph the rate is 18 cents a superficial foot and the rubbed provision is 3 cents additional, which makes 21 cents a superficial foot instead of $3.60.

Mr. VEST. I have been very careful to go over it with an expert and to make the calculation. I do not think I am mistaken. On the next to the last classification, where any is smoothed, the duty is $3.60 to the cubic foot. The other taxation is upon the superficial foot. But, be that as it may—and I do not think I am mistaken—here is an increase over the McKinley tariff in the name of labor, and by the census reports, which the Senator from Texas read, the increase in out of all proportion to the difference is the labor of foreign countries and in this. I ask for the yeas and nays upon my amendment.

Here Mr. Bates of Tennessee made objection to matter being inserted in the Record which has not been read, and there was a little tilt between him and Mr. Gallinger, in which the latter came out with colors flying.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the amendment of the Senator from Missouri [MR. VEST] to the amendment of the committee, which will be read.

The SECRETARY. In paragraph 115, page 31, line 14, strike out "forty," before the words "per centum," and insert "thirty" in lieu of "fifty," as proposed by the committee; so as to read:

115. Freestone, granite, sandstone, limestone, and other building or monumental stone, except marble and onyx, not especially provided for in this act, hewn, dressed, or polished, 30 per cent. ad valorem.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Upon the amendment to the amendment the Senator from Missouri demands the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

The roll call having been concluded, the result was announced yeas 19, nays 28; 42 not voting.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question recurs on the adoption of the amendment of the Committee on Finance to make the rate 50 per cent. ad valorem.

Shoe Trade Prospects.

Brockton, Mass., June 8.—The outlook in the shoe trade appears to be brightening up considerably. Manufacturers are talking more hopefully, and quite a number of factories where work was suspended a week ago have since started up. A majority of these firms report that the prospects are very encouraging for a good fall run. No one expects any great run, but those in a position to know assert that within a month a bigger volume of business will be done than at any time during the present year.

Off For Electrical Convention.

Boston, June 8.—A large party of electrical men, prominent representatives of the leading power stations and electrical supply houses of New England, left yesterday to attend the 20th annual convention of the National Electric Light association, which is to be held at Niagara Falls, June 8, 9 and 10.

DOCTOR RUIZ' DEATH.

Consul General Lee's Report to Secretary of State Sherman.

Spanish Officials Said to Be Responsible.

Victim Was Falsely Arrested and Not Given a Legal Trial.

New York, June 8.—William J. Calhoun, the special commissioner of President McKinley, who, with Consul General Lee, has been investigating the death of Dr. Ricardo Ruiz in Cuba, arrived in New York yesterday.

Consul General Lee's report came with him. A synopsis of the report follows and, as will be seen, fixes the responsibility of Ruiz's violent death on the Spanish government.

General Lee says in part:

I deduce from my knowledge of the facts the following conclusions:

First—Dr. Ruiz was arrested on a false charge.

Second—He was placed under an improper jurisdiction, and died before the proper tribunal considered his case, thereby giving him no opportunity to prove his innocence.

Third—He was kept "incommunicado" in a solitary cell for 315 hours, in violation of his treaty rights, which limit such confinement to 72 hours.

Fourth—He died from congestion of the brain, produced by a blow on the top of his head.

Fifth—There are two theories connected with the wound on the head. One that in a state of mental excitement he ran across the cell, as described by one of the jailers, and butted his head on the door in a frantic effort to get out. Another that he was struck over the head with one of the clubs carried by the jailers—by the immediate watchman—who had probably ordered him to cease his cries for relief and for his children, and upon his not doing so, struck him with more force than he had intended, or it being possible the blow was delivered to make him confess or give evidence against others.

It is possible he went mad, and many causes combined to produce such a result.

His knowledge of his own innocence—his confinement in a gloomy cell, where he was not allowed to communicate with family or friends—or to send or write. Alone, all alone, the thought doubtless impressed itself upon his mind that he was liable in the reign of terror then existing in and around Guanabacoa to be summarily executed at any moment. He loved his wife and children, and in the darkness and lonliness of his cell he was constantly crying out for them. The thought that they were but a few rods away and yet he might never see them again or hear the sound of their voices or feel the touch of their lips and hands maddened him and proved too much for the mind of the distracted and unhappy man, and I thought it not improbable, as the long hours passed by, it may have given way and left him a madman. His wife says his derby hat was all battered up and his clothes greatly torn when returned to her.

But whether, when bereft of reason, he inflicted the blows which produced brain congestion, or whether he died at the hands of others, the truth will probably only be known when the hearts of all are revealed—the fact remains, his unjust confinement killed him, and had he been released from incommunicado by the hand of man at the end of 72 hours the hand of death might not have released him at the end of 315 hours, and today the widow would have had the support of her husband and the moans of his fatherless children would never have been heard in the land.

I, therefore, conclude, saying, as I have done in all previous reports about this case, that whether Dr. Ruiz killed himself or was killed by some one else, will, under existing conditions, always remain unknown.

Many Desertions From Navy.

Boston, June 8.—It was learned yesterday that upwards of three score men have recently deserted from the warships New York and Massachusetts, together with those who left the Texas while she was here, last week. Twenty-eight men took French leave from the Texas and 30 men are missing from the New York. It is not known how many are missing from the Massachusetts. In every case the deserters are of foreign birth, and their action is explained by an officer, as follows: "We have lots of good foreigners in the navy, consequently no reflection should be cast on them, but it is the "hoboes" who manage to get into the service, and as soon as they gather three or four months' pay they imagine themselves rich, and when granted shore leave are never seen again."

THE REPRESENTATIVE of the DAILY LEDGER blushed at the appreciation shown the "only daily" at the meeting of the City Council last evening. As one Councilman said, it was in the LEDGER that the people look for notices of public hearings. If the members of the Council will investigate they will probably find that the prices of the LEDGER for same space and number of insertions is no larger if as large as some other papers, and the circulation of the LEDGER is twice as large per issue. Some may have obtained the impression from what was said that the LEDGER price was $7 per hearing. The LEDGER rate is usually less than half this amount per hearing, varying according to length. Those for Miller Stile road and Whitwell street for instance were $2.87, and Kemper street but $2.50. The publishers desire to thank the Council for the almost unanimous vote to make its announcements in the LEDGER. The daily is the up-to-date newspaper of the city, and the conservative PATRIOT is the only advertising medium in the city which vies with it. Why not in the LEDGER and PATRIOT? But we will not press the point. We are satisfied, and the other paper may need "helping out" as one of the Councilmen expressed it.

SENSATION AT BRAINTREE.

Body of Man Found Floating in Monatiquot River.

Braintree had a sensation this morning. It was at first thought to be a murder, but turns out, if the theory of the medical examiner is true, to have been the result of an accident.

It was about 7 o'clock this morning, as Safford S. Bridgham was crossing the bridge over the Monatiquot river on Union street, that he saw the body of a man floating in the river.

The authorities were immediately notified and the body brought ashore. It was of a man apparently about 60 years of age dressed in a cheap suit of dark clothing. On his face was a cut which immediately gave rise to the rumor that a man had been waylaid, murdered and then thrown into the river.

The news spread like wildfire and soon there gathered a crowd of people and stories of all kinds were started.

Some had one thory and some another and amateur detectives shook their heads and looked wise.

Upon the arrival of Medical Examiner Frazier of Weymouth an investigation was began. In the man's pocket was a handkerchief upon which was stamped the name Hawley. Besides this there were two newspapers, one a Globe bearing date of June 2, and the other a War Cry bearing date of June 5.

The medical examiner gave it as his opinion that the body had been in the water 60 hours, and the cut on the face he attributes to the head coming into contact with a rock. There were other marks upon the body supposed to have been caused by fish or turtles that had attacked the body.

There are many theories as to how the body came into the water, but the most plausible is that the man was a tramp and that he was on his way to the poor farm near by. That possibly he might have been under the influence of liquor and when he reached the bridge he fell overboard and being unable to help himself, was drowned.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Location Granted Street Railway on Billings Street.

A $2,000 Appropriation Needed for High School Building.

Order Reported for the Extension of Whitwell Street.

The City Council was in session for three hours last evening and there was considerable business before it. There were debates on the street railway extension to Squantum, extension of Whitwell street to Granite, and other matters. The annual tax levy order was introduced, and several hearings ordered. The greatest surprise was a communiction of the Commissioner, printed in full herewith, calling for an immediate appropriation for the new High School building.

Councilman Badger was the only absent member.

Communications.

Quincy, June 7, 1897.

Hon. C. F. Adams, 2d, Mayor,

DEAR SIR:—I wish to call your attention to the condition of our High school. The two trusses supporting the roof and two schoolrooms over the study room have loosened up and sag to a considerable extent, making it imperative to make repairs the coming vacation. This would be quite a considerable expense, approximately $1,500 to $2,000. Such a large amount cannot be spared out of the appropriations for repairs on public buildings. I trust something can be done to provide money to meet the expense of these repairs.

Very respectfully,
C. F. KNOWLTON,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Councilman Field asked if building was safe for graduation.

Commissioner Knowlton replied, he thought it was. Repairs should be made as soon as possible. He would not care to say it was unsafe. Did not think trusses would let roof down but in winter snow might cause it to collapse.

The communication was laid on the table until later in the evening when Councilman Sprague offered an order appropriating $2000 for repairs on the building. Referred to joint committee on Public Buildings and Finance.

Petitions.

Councilman Little presented a petition for the acceptance of the extension of Hall place to the public playground. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Sidelinger presented a petition of James Bisson and James E. Dunn, stating that Messrs. S. Penniman & Co. proposed to deprive them of soliciting passengers at the Quincy depot by entering into a combination with the railroad. They believed this would result seriously to the citizens, and they requested that the council investigate, and unless Messrs. Penniman & Son refused to be a party to said combination that their license be revoked. To Committee on Licenses.

Councilman Nickerson presented a petition that Berlin and Woodbine streets be lighted. To Executive department.

Petitions were received from A. W. Young and wife for State aid, and from Charles N. Hunt for soldier's relief. To Committee on State Aid.

A number of petitions were received for licenses to sell fireworks. To Committee on Licenses.

Reports of Committees.

The Committee on Licenses reported favorably on a number of petitions for licenses which were granted.

The Committee on Finance on petition of W. A. Smith, for refund of tax, recommended leave to withdraw. Accepted.

The Committee on State Aid recommended that W. J. Young be granted $4 a month, and W. P. Martin $10 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets, on petition for the laying out of Faxon road from Squantum street to Billings road, reported an order for a public hearing June 21. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets on petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location on Quincy avenue to the Braintree line reported an order for a public hearing June 21.

Councilman Pinkham did not think this would give the fourteen days' notice as required and moved to make the date June 28.

Councilman Nickerson thought it gave fourteen days' notice.

Councilman Pinkham's amendment was lost and the order passed as reported.

Later however it was reconsidered, when the City Solicitor said it would not be a legal notice, and the order was amended to read June 28 and passed.

This order was drawn so as to require publication in the DAILY LEDGER. Councilman Cain does not want his friend of the Advertiser to get left, however, and moved to include that paper. Councilman Field thought one paper enough and moved to strike out the LEDGER. After some talk the first amendment was adopted on a feeble vote, but there was a large majority opposed to striking out the LEDGER.

The Committee on Sewers and Drains reported an order appropriating $300 for he rebuilding of the tide gate at the poor farm. To Committee on Finance.

Whitwell Street.

NOW THE DAFFODIL.

A Great Surprise for Members of the Floral Yacht Club.

The fourth race of the series of the Floral Yacht Club was sailed Monday around their course. There was a stiff northeast wind and the boats made a good showing.

The signal sounded at eleven minutes past five, and the boats started. The Daffodil was the last boat to cross the line but rounded the stake first and steadily gained until the finish.

This was quite a surprise for the members of the club as well as the spectators, and as there is but one more race of the series the first prize is between the Myrtle and the Daffodil. The last race will take place this afternoon at four o'clock, and a large crowd and plenty of enthusiasm is anticipated.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

CHURCH WEDDING.

The McClintock---Polson Nuptials a Society Event.

A Pretty Reception at Residence of Bride's Parents.

One of the first society weddings of the season in Wollaston was solemnized at the Unitarian church on Monday evening, when Miss Maud Polson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Polson, became the wife of Mr. Chester Lewis McClintock.

The spacious edifice was crowded with a fashionable gathering of people prominent in society circles. The floral decorations were superb.

The bride, who was attended and given away by her father, was gowned in ivory white brocaded satin cut en traine, trimmed with duchess lace, and wore over all a tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Stella Bent of Hyde Park, wore a white organdie over green silk, and the bridemaids, Miss Belle Gannett, Miss Mabel Nash, Miss Gertrude Sherman and Miss Mary Elizabeth Bates, were attired in white organdies over pink silk.

The best man was Mr. J. Bradford Harlow of Roxbury. The ushers were Mr. Howard Gannett, Jr., of Wollaston, Mr. Edward W. Perkins of Wellesley Hills, Mr. Edward M. Manning of Chicago, Ill., Mr. George W. Holden of Quincy, and Mr. A. Franklin Merrill of Roxbury.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents at the corner of Prospect street and Warren avenue.

The receiving rooms were beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, white lilies, pink sweet peas, laurel and asparagus vine. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Polson and Mr. and Mrs. George W. McClintock assisted in receiving. Mrs. Polson wore a lavender brocaded satin with pearl trimmings; and Mrs. McClintock black duchess satin trimmed with passementrie and lace.

One very pleasing feature of the reception was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Belle Gannett, daughter of Mr. Howard Gannett of Wollaston, and Mr. James M. Nowland, the master of the Adams school. Miss Gannett is well known in society circles and teaches at the Adams school.

After Sept. 1, Mr. and Mrs. McClintock will be at home at 38 Magnolia street, Dorchester.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Hospital to Granite street as a public way and appropriating $500 for the same.

Councilman Nickerson offered a minority report that the petitioners have leave to withdraw giving as his reason: That, the street was not up to the standard required by past Councils; that it was unjust to other citizens who have been refused on other streets that were better than this; he objected to building new streets when there were accepted streets that needed repairs; and he did not think $500 would put the street in good condition.

Councilman Pinkham thought the opinion of the Commisssioner should be had.

Commissioner Knowlton said he could not give figures as he had not been over the street with the plans and figured it out. He, however, thought that $500 would put it in a safe condition but would not bring it up to grade. He had had no plan to estimate with.

Councilman Pinkham moved to lay on table until next meeting and that the Commissioner be requested to report upon the probable cost.

Councilman Field said the committee had spent considerable time on this matter. In his judgment $500 would put that street in good condition. He hoped motion would not prevail.

Councilman Pinkham replied that the Commissioner has said he is not prepared to state whether $500 would bring the street to grade. If we are to build a new street we want it brought up to grade.

Councilman Field said statutes did not say we should build street to grade but it was simply to show what grade was supposed to be. It was foolish to build street to grade at present.

Councilman Swithin would ask Commissioner if $500 would be sufficient to put it in safe condition for the next three years, to which Commissioner Knowlton replied that it would.

The motion to lay on the table was lost.

Councilman McGrath hoped minority report would not prevail. The street would be of great benefit in getting patients to the hospital. It was advisable for the city to accept it.

Councilman Anderson was called to the chair and President Bryant took the floor and said that the Council had been misled before in the matter of accepting streets. It would help people get to the hospital but does not get them there any quicker than if it is a private way. He would like to know what the street would cost at some future time. Was no sidewalk there. He objected to order going through with the amount $500. It would only be a year before they will come here for an appropriation. There were no plans on file with City Clerk as the order says, and that is illegal. He moved to reconsider the vote to lay on table.

Councilman Field hoped motion would not prevail. If the Councilman had studied statutes he would see that plans were all right where they were. All the law requires was a description of the street. The street could be put in good condition for $500.

Councilman Bryant said it was wise to lay order on the table to get facts.

The vote on reconsideration was lost by a vote of 14 to 7.

The Council then refused to accept the minority report but accepted the majority report and the order was ordered to a second reading.

Public Hearings.

At eight o'clock a public hearing was given on the laying out of Nightingale avenue at South Quincy. No one appeared pro or con and the order was recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

At 8.15 there was a hearing on the acceptance of Brook road. Alexander Marnock and Representative James Thompson spoke in favor, claiming it was a thoroughfare and a convenience to others than the abutters. That many granite cutting sheds must team over it. When laid out ten years ago it was in good condition but was never accepted.

The order was recommitted to Committee on Streets.

Tax Levy Order.

Councilman Anderson offered an order levying $195,000 on the estates of the city, and $2 for each poll for taxes of 1897 Referred to Committee on Finance.

Street Sprinkling.

A communication from City Solicitor Blackmur said that it would be necessary under the new law for the Council to fix the assessment per frontage for street sprinkling under Order 46. Referred.

New Business.

Councilman Pinkham offered an order that the Commissioner be requested to report on the cost of putting Whitwell street in good order. Adopted.

Councilman Cain offered an order requesting the Quincy & Boston street railway to grant free transfers that trips between any points in the city will cost but five cents.

Speaking on the order he said he was not looking for notoriety. The street railway was not giving the citizens as good service as it should. It was not too much to ask for free transfers, as in Boston it was possible to ride fifteen miles for five cents.

Councilman Anderson thought order was defective.

Lost 9 to 12.

Squantum Extension.

The order graniting the Quincy & Boston street railway a location from Hancock street to Squantum via Sagamore street, Newbury avenue, Billings street and Squantum street took its second reading.

An amendment offered by Councilman Nickerson, that the road be completed within one year was adoped.

It was then referred to a committee but reference was withdrawn, and the question came on suspension of rules, to put it upon its final passage.

He offered an amendment requiring a T rail of 60 on Squantum street.

Other amendments followed so rapidly that it would take columns to report them. Councilman Field, Edwards, Bryant, Swithin, Little, Parker, Poland, Sprague, Phillips, McGrath, Pinkham, Nickerson, Geary, the Commissioner and others took part.

A motion to recommit the order to determine location on Squantum street was defeated.

The order provided for a girder rail and paving to the corner of Billings and Squantum streets. There were amendments to extend it to Atlantic street, to 100 feet beyond, and to McClure's corner, and Atlantic street was adopted.

The weight of rail on Squantum street was also debated, but there was a disposition not to make the road too expensive to build. Fifty-eight pounds was voted.

Councilman Geary made an effort to have at least 18 feet reserved on one side of Squantum street for a roadway, but was voted down.

The order was then passed on roll call by an unanimous vote.

Adjourned at 10 40.

ENSIGN STONE ACQUITTED.

Naval Board Finds His Love Making Was According to Gentlemanly Standards.

New York, June 8.—The Journal and Advertiser says: Secretary Long has received the report of the court of inquiry before which Swits Conde accused Ensign Stone, attached to the United States monitor Puritan, and his friend Ensign Osborne, of the Terror, with obtaining entrance to a homestead under false pretences, knowingly, premeditatingly and with malice aforethought, then and there attempting to coax, cajole, entreat and by various other devices induce one, Marie Conde, daughter of Swits Conde, to leave her home for the purpose of becoming the wife of one George Loring Porter Stone.

The verdict is "not guilty." The court of inquiry sat last week on board the Maine in the Brooklyn navy yard. The finding is that Ensign Stone has not in any way behaved himself, in his "love making," in a manner unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

It is a broad verdict. Bue to make it stronger Admiral Bunce sent an official telegram to Secretary Long repeating the finding of the court and indorsing it.

CANUDOS CAPTURED.

New York, June 8.—A dispatch to The Herald from Rio Janeiro says: Canudos, the stronghold of the fanatics under Antonio Conselheire, has fallen, the federal troops having captured it after a desperate engagement with more than 6000 of the rebels.

The fanatics were strongly entrenched. At the beginning of the battle they gained some advantage, and the first hurried reports to the government presaged defeat. The Brazilian artillery, however, turned the tide, and in the end the fanatics fled precipitately from their cover. They were pursued with great vigor and were almost annihilated.

The victory of the federal troops was not gained without serious loss, more than 300 Brazilians being killed and many wounded. Among those who were killed was Colonel Telles.

Suicide on Wedding Eve.

Pittsburg, June 8.—A special from Ligonier gives the account of the sensational suicide of Lawyer R. S. Kuhn at Franks hotel last night. Kuhn was to have married Miss Minnie Leasure this morning and had made every arrangement for the wedding. He went to his room at 9 o'clock last evening, apparently in the best of spirits, and without giving a hint of his purpose. Later he was found lying on the floor dead with a bullet hole in his temple and his brains spattered on the wall. The news of his death caused great excitement because of the belief that Kuhn had been foully dealt with, and to satisfy the demand for an investigation, an unofficial jury of professional and business men was organized. They determined that it was a case of suicide. In the pocket of the dead man, who was said to have been worth $75,000, was found a will in which he leaves Miss Leasure $5000 and the balance to his brother, John E. Kuhn, said to be a Presbyterian minister in Altoona.

Greater New York Republicans.

New York, June 8.—The Republican conference committee from the four county organizations within the boundaries of greater New York met here last night. Lemuel E. Quigg was elected chairman of the chief officers. A resolution adopted providing that the basis of representation in the city convention, which will nominate candidates for mayor, comptroller and president of the council, should be as follows. One delegate from each assembly district or portion thereof, and one delegate for every 1000 votes, or a majority fraction of 1000 votes cast in each assembly district, or portion thereof. The resolution means that in the next convention New York county will have 191 votes, Kings 132, Queens, 18 and Richmond 7, thus giving New York county a clear majority over all.

EIGHTEEN MONTHS IN JAIL.

Editor Jeremiah O'Sullivan of Lawrence Gets Severe Sentence.

Salem, Mass., June 8.—Eighteen months in the house of correction at hard labor is the sentence which Judge Bishop imposed on Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan of the Lawrence Sunday Sentinal for criminal libel.

O'Sullivan was arraigned for sentence late yesterday afternoon, with Judge Bishop, who has heard the long and complicated case for the last three or four days, on the bench. Arguments of both counsel for the defendant and the commonwealth occupied the court's time until about 6:30 o'clock, and when sentence was finally imposed it was imprisonment in one of the houses of correction in this county of Essex for the term of 18 months at hard labor. O'Sullivan was surprised, there was no denying that fact, although he expected something more than a fine. It was the length of the time given him that caused the surprise, and O'Sullivan was not the only astonished man in the courtroom.

O'Sullivan was convicted of criminal libel on John J. Donovan, license commissioner of Lawrence; William T. Kimball, city clerk, and Frank P. Remick, police inspector. An infinite variety of exceptions have been saved by the counsel, John B. Moran, and these will be presented to the court and heard before the full bench of the supreme court in due time. During the arguments of the lawyers O'Sullivan sat unmoved in the court, nor did he show any signs of emotion when sentence was imposed. He became seated immediately after receiving his sentence, and was at once removed to the Salem jail, where he was assigned a cell.

District Attorney White moved for sentence on Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan. Lawyer Moran, for the defendant, stated that there were two reasons at least why sentence should not be imposed at this time. Exceptions had been taken by the defendant, and the two days allowed for filing the same had not expired, and it was manifestly the right of the defendant to demur against imposition of sentence at this stage of the case. There was also a motion for a new trial on the ground that the defendant did not have a full opportunity at the recent trial, and that the verdict was against the evidence; that the defendant had discovered new evidence since the trial, and that some persons unknown had conveyed to the jury the idea that they were required to agree on a verdict before 10 o'clock Friday evening, and they therefore found him guilty.

Mr. Moran read affidavits to establish the claim of new evidence.

The court overruled the motion for a new trial on the ground that the alleged newly discovered evidence was not of a nature to affect the result. The court thought the defendant had had ample opportunity to introduce evidence in rebuttal to the government's evidence as to malice.

The district attorney, for the government, maintained that the attack on J. J. Donovan was the worst attack he had ever seen in black and white. The attorney said he could have filled the courtroom with witnesses to show that Donovan was a noble, high minded man. He knew Remick personally, and would like to testify to the discretion and disposition to uphold the arm of the law. Of Kimball he had no personal knowledge. He said that the court was not dealing with an honest paper or an honest editor.

Mr. White closed and Judge Bishop imposed the sentence, as stated.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 8.—Both the public dock bills were sent along one stage in the senate yesterday, and the 1 mill tax was passed to be engrossed by a majority of one vote. A bill for the return of Worcester's voting machines was thrown out. The gas commissioners made their formal report on the March 4 explosion, avoiding the question of legal liability, but giving their opinion as to how the explosion might have been avoided. Commissioner Gifford put in a minority report, dealing with the bridge as a possible agent in causing the explosion. The senate postponed consideration of the Boynton bicycle bill on account of Senator Dallinger's absence. The elevated bill was passed to be engrossed. The house reconsidered its rejection on Friday of the bill permitting the city to erect a hospital at East Boston, and placed the measure on the calendar. A bill concerning liquor forfeitures and penalties was engrossed, as was a bill making an appropriation for industries at the state prison, and a resolve for a new building at the Westboro insane hospital. The governor sent in a message desiring the legislature to take action to remove Joseph De Marco of Worcester from the office of notary public. He was indicted for criminal libel, pleaded guilty, and, it is alleged, defaulted when called for sentence. P. T. Carroll and Daniel F. O'Connell recommended him for appointment Oct. 1, 1896. The matter was referred to the joint judiciary committee.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. MILITIA UPHELD.

Governor and Adjutant General of Ohio Say Soldiers Did Their Duty at Urbana.

Cincinnati, June 8.—Governor Bushnell, in a letter to The Commercial-Tribune, says:

The members of the National Guard of Urbana did their duty and are entitled to the support of the state. Lamentable as the results were, their efforts were to maintain the majesty of the law, and they should be upheld by all the people.

Adjutant General Axline says: "A careful examination at Urbana fails to show that the National Guard's conduct was anything but that of courageous and obedient soldiers, and when the public is in full possession of all the facts and complications that surrounded that service the unwarranted criticisms that have gone out to the world will be speedily corrected."

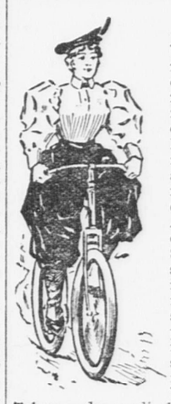

A special from Urbana says: There is great indignation here over the published report that Champagne county, or Urbana, is to be placed under martial law. It is supposed here that the report originated with Colonel Anthony at Springfield, to whose regiment the officers and men are attached who went to protect the jail, and that he is disposed to this course as a means of protection to them. There is but little, if any, disposition here to say anything unkind to the local soldiers.

Sheriff McLain has returned to Urbana.

Captain Leonard of the Urbana Military company is here. Citizens of Urbana have telephoned him to come home, assuring him of safety.

The horse was then put to a full speed, and he escaped.

Perhaps the "New Woman" will be a stronger woman than the old one. Certainly, fresh air and the right exercise will do much for her. Fresh air is a great restorative, exercise a great nerve tonic if a woman be in condition to take it. A healthy woman can avoid disease. She can avoid the seemingly almost inevitable "weakness" of her sex if she pursues the proper hygienic methods. The same methods will not cure her if she be already sick. Taken under medical direction, in connection with the right medicine, they will help effect a cure. No women who suffers at all from so-called "female weakness" should attempt athletics of any sort. She should first put herself into possession of strong and hearty health by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After she is thoroughly well, exercise and diversion will help to keep her well. The cure should come first. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is designed and recommended for only the one thing. It acts directly upon one set of organs. No matter what is the matter with them, it will cure it. It will not cure anything else. It is a wholesome tonic, an invigorating nervine, or nerve-food as well as a healing medicine, and thousands of perfectly well women have found that by taking it regularly during the period of pregnancy, the danger and pain of parturition were much lessened, and in many cases, almost entirely obviated.

In every American household, there should be a copy of Dr. Pierce's great work, "Common Sense Medical Adviser," 1008 pages, illustrated. One copy free to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay for mailing only. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEURALGIA BOUND HIM WITH BANDS OF PAIN

He Is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases are, that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

KEPT FALSE PAYROLL.

Herbert Bumford, Portsmouth Bookkeeper, an Alleged Embezzler.

He Drew Pay For Discharged Employes and Kept Money.

He Was Taken Sick and Defalcation Was Discovered During His Absence.

Manchester, N. H., June 9.—A special to The Union from Portsmouth, N. H., says: Herbert Bumford, who for three years past has been the trusted bookkeeper at the Morley button factory, is said to be a defaulter in what sum it is not at present known, but it is thought to be in the thousands.

Bumford is 23 years of age, and is a native of Rochester. The books of the company are kept at the Boston office, through which all business is transacted. Bumford collected the time slips of all the employes of the factory and forwarded them to Boston and received the pay envelopes. It is claimed that he kept on the payroll names of employes who had been discharged, or had left and pocketed the money.

On Friday last he was taken sick and was forced to remain at home Saturday. The money came down from Boston as usual, and after everybody had received his money three envelopes for girls who were no longer in the employ of the company were left uncalled for. This led to the discovery of Bumford's alleged crookedness.

Technology Graduates.

Boston, June 9.—Commencement at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology culminated yesterday in the graduation of 156 students on the degree of bachelor of sciences, while four took the degree of master of sciences. There were also 15 graduates from the Lowell school of design. The number of graduates in each course was as follows: Mechanical engineering, 40; electrical engineering, 33; civil engineering, 25; chemistry, 17; architecture, 16; chemical engineering, 12; naval architecture, 9; general studies, 7; mining engineering, 7; sanitary engineering, 4; physics, 3; biology, 2 and geology, 1. The graduating class contained one colored man, Mr. Hemmings, who lives in Boston and whose sister has just graduated from Vassar. There was one young lady in the class, Miss Florence A. Wood, of the course of physics.

Augusta's Hundredth Anniversary.

Augusta, Me., June 9.—Augusta is observing the centennial anniversary of its birth today. Chief Justice Melville Weston Fuller will give the oration of the day at this afternoon's exercises, at which Hon. J. W. Bradbury will preside. Music will be given by the National Home orchestra, with singing by the Augusta chorus. The poem will be given by Mrs. Emma Huntington Nason. The invocation will be given by Rev. D. C. Weston of Washington. The exercises will be continued this evening, presided over by Leslie C. Cornish, with a concert and speaking by Governor Powers, Mayor Choate, Hon. J. H. Manley, Hon. O. D. Baker, Rev. C. W. Doherty, Hon. H. M. Heath, Hon. J. M. Haynes, Hon. Lendal Titcomb, C. B. Burleigh, Hon. S. W. Lane, F. W. Plaisted, C. S. Hichborn and Howard Owen.

Combination Park Races.

Medford, Mass., June 9.—The June meeting at Combination park opened yesterday. The track was in fine condition, but the weather was cold and raw and decidedly unfavorable for fast time. The crowd was small. The 2:40 trot was won without much trouble by Architect, in three straight heats. In the second heat Fred R put his foot through Little Lady's wheel, causing a spill, but no one was severely hurt, nor was the result of the race affected thereby. The 2:24 pace was more closely contested, but A. S. L., after dropping the first two heats, rolled off three prize winners in succession securing first place. The guideless wonder, Marion Mills, paced a mile in 2:11¼.

Accused of Forging Tax Receipt.

Concord, N. H., June 9.—Jacob B. Chadwick was arrested at Franklin Falls last evening and brought to this city to await trial on the charge of forging a tax receipt. Chadwick was the owner of a piece of property known as the Union House in this city, which has been twice partially burned under suspicious circumstances. It was recently sold at auction for non-payment of taxes. Chadwick endeavored to recover from the city, alleging that he had paid taxes in 1894 and showing a receipt, signed by Albert I. Foster, the defaulting tax collector, who is now in state prison. The city officials claim that Foster's signature is forged.

Brockton Post Indorsed.

Whitman, Mass., June 9.—At a meeting of David A. Russell post, G. A. R., last night, the resolution adopted by Fletcher Webster post, No. 13, Brockton, last week, against the so-called house of lords, or the past department commanders of the G. A. R. of the state, came up for discussion. The debate was long and lively, most of those who spoke being of the opinion that the "house of lords" should be abolished, and that the action of post 13 should be indorsed. The resolutions were tabled until a week later, when a vote will be taken thereon. The sentiment of the post is almost wholly with post 13.

Of Vital Importance to Wiscasset.

Wiscasset, Me., June 9.—The agitation over the Wiscasset and Quebec railroad situation is of vital interest to the people in this town. Officials of the road here have stated that the proposition made to Mr. J. P. Tucker is one of which the present management of the road knows little and cares less. It is working on entirely different ideas with prospects of early success. They further deny that there is any truth in the stories sent out from various points concerning a deal between the road and certain capitalists in Boston. They say no such deal was contemplated.

A Strong Denial.

Augusta, Me., June 9.—A dispatch from General Manager W. F. P. Fogg of the Wiscasset and Quebec railroad says: The Gardiner dispatch in the Lewiston Journal concerning a deal between the Wiscasset and Quebec road and a Boston party is a tissue of lies. No such deal is sought nor has been. The dispatches from different points the past week all have the same animus and are all part of a scheme to wreck the road. It will not succeed. The road is earning in excess of its operating expenses, has but one bond issue outstanding and will live and prosper in spite of its enemies.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 9.—A communication was given out by the board of lunacy and charity yesterday stating that the hearing in regard to the charges against their employes would be public, not private, but no time has been fixed. The house voted against an appropriation for fighting the brown-tail moth. The senate passed the Maritime Canal company bill to engrossment and sent it to the house; several amendments were proposed to the Boynton bicycle railway bill, and the matter went over that they might be printed.

Students Forced to Leave Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., June 9.—Three students of Harvard tendered their resignations from the university yesterday at the request of a committee of juniors appointed by J. H. Perkins, president of the class of '98, to investigate and detect those guilty of painting the John Harvard statue on Saturday night, May 29, after the baseball victory over Princeton. Their names are withheld because of the stigma which would come upon themselves and families.

The Wool Market.

Boston, June 9.—There is no change in the wool market this week, the business being confined to small lots here and there. Fleece wools are very flat and sales are almost nil. The sale of territory wool continues to be dull, with prices same as last week. Some sales of Australian wools have been recorded, but these transactions are simply in a speculation run, and buyers are well supplied.

Sunday Crusade at Somerville.

Boston, June 9.—The Woman's Christian Temperance union of Somerville has begun a crusade against drug stores, bakeries and grocery stores to prevent the sale of soda and cigars upon the Sabbath; to prevent the bake shops from being open at all on Sunday, and grocers from selling extract of malt. They also insist that when druggists sell malt extract prescriptions shall be presented.

Lynn Fire Victim.

Lynn, Mass., June 9.—Maud E. Rhodes, aged 22, who was burned in the explosion June 2 at the Zoo exhibition at Lynn beach, died yesterday afternoon from her injuries. Her parents have already attached both the Zoo property and the Eden Musee, the side show where the accident occurred, in the sum of $10,000. The others burned at the same time are beyond danger.

Commander Wingate Dead.

Malden, Mass., June 9.—Commander George E. Wingate of the Charlestown navy yard is dead. He was born in Portsmouth, N. H., July 10, 1837, and attended the public schools there. On Oct. 4, 1853, he entered the merchant service and the naval service in 1862 as acting ensign.

O'Sullivan's Friends Disappointed.

Lawrence, Mass., June 9.—A large crowd of Editor O'Sullivan's friends gathered at the depot last night to give him an ovation, but to their disappointment they learned that he would serve his sentence in the Salem jail instead of the Lawrence house of correction.

Cases Against Postmasters Dismissed.

Montpelier, Vt., June 9.—In the United States court here yesterday the cases against ex-Postmasters R. J. Hardy of Castleton and W. L. Howard of Fair Haven were nol prossed by request of the district attorney. Embezzlement was the allegation in each case.

Death of A. L. Dennison.

Base Ball in Quincy.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

After the exhibition of base ball witnessed on Merrymount Park, Saturday, and considering the number of critics that there are in Quincy, we find it necessary to say something about the expenses of bringing teams here, also the receipts. But first we do not want the public to think that the T. R. & S. Co., Base Ball Association, is getting discouraged. Nothing of the kind. But we do think that we ought to receive some support from the outside public after the great amount of labor and expense.

The team has played five games this season, four of which were won and one declared off on account of darkness. At three we did not clear more than half the expenses, which have averaged about $16. The first game was played at Atlantic and the receipts were $5.26. The second game was played on Merrymount Park, receipts $5.10. The third game also played on Merrymount Park, receipts $8.40, making an average for the three games played at home of $6.23 from an average attendance of about 400. Then the people will continually ask, why don't you get some good teams here and a great many of those same men will stand and witness a game of ball and will not contribute the small sum of 10 cents.

Now, gentlemen, just think for one moment and ask yourselves if it is possible to bring teams here that want a guarantee of from $20 to $50. We can arrange a game with the team from the U. S. S. Massachusetts, for June 17, but we cannot afford it. They want a guarantee of $50, yet this small sum ought not to stand in the way of having such a treat as this in Quincy.

Are there any gentlemen in Quincy who love this greatest of all American sports? If so let us hear from them. Give us your support and we will guarantee that Quincy shall see some of the best amateur teams in the State. We certainly have a good strong team here and ought to give it some support.

A gentleman made the remark to me this morning on the train that we want to stand and talk to a man and explain everything to him. Now, gentlemen, you know, just as well as we do, that it takes money to run any team. It also takes money to bring teams here to play, and why is it necessary for us to tell you all this on the field. If a man is out of work we do not want him to help us, for we well know he has enough to do to help himself. But there are a great many who go to see these games time after time and never contribute a cent. Those same men will criticise the game. What would they do if we had enclosed ground? They would not have the chance then to criticise. Would they pay then? If so try and let us know and we will try another year and procure them.

If we do not get better support we will have to play the larger part of the games away from home. I hope that this will try and bring out a few more 10 cent pieces. Give us your support and we will give you good games of ball.

JOHN H. WHITEHEAD.

Wollaston, June 7, 1897.

"Unprecedented Expansion."

From the last report of the Massachusetts Board of Education, we find this relative to Quincy:

"This city has been absorbed during the past three or four years, so far as its High school is concerned, in erecting a new building for it, and in reorganizing and equipping the school. The school has had an astonishing growth, rising in this short time from 100 pupils to nearly 400, and from three teachers to nine, to say nothing of the partial service of three more, and the city has found itself severely taxed to keep up with this development. While the School Commmittee has taken no action yet under the manual training law, the subject will doubtless engage its attention just as soon as the pressure of this unprecedented expansion lets up."

While Secretary Hill's figures are not very exact, the expression "unprecedented expansion" is fully justified by the facts.

DR. HOBBS

Challenges the Citizens of Quincy

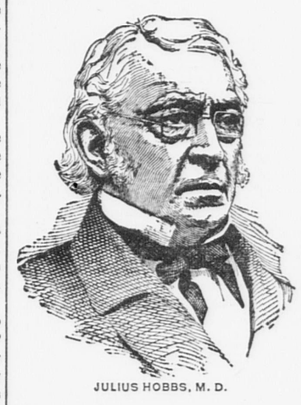

AT HIS OWN EXPENSE

To a Public Test of the Ability of His Sparagus Kidney Pills to Cure Disease.

SATURDAY NEXT

There Will be Given Away a Sample Box of Dr. Hobbs' Pills Free to Every Person Asking for it at

A. G. DURGIN'S DRUG STORE.

JULIUS HOBBS, M. D.

The remarkable challenge by Dr. Hobbs to every interested citizen of Quincy to test the merits of his Sparagus Kidney Pills to cure every conceivable form and phase of disease of the kidneys, rheumatism and bladder troubles, is worthy of more than passing comment.

Dr. Hobbs does not enter these columns with mere assertions of the value of his remedy, and invitations to call at the druggists and pay for his remedy before its merits are known, but, in unmistakable terms, he invites every interested person to call at a leading drug store and get, free of charge, a box of his Sparagus Kidney Pills and test their efficacy to relieve and cure disease.

The claims made for the remedy in question are, speaking in a general sense, that the Hobbs Remedy Company of Chicago and San Francisco are the owners of an ASPARAGUS KIDNEY REMEDY, which they positively assert will cure all kidney diseases, with the exception of those where tumors and ulcers have formed and a surgical operation is necessary.

For the purpose of making this test in an open manner and beyond criticism, a large number of samples of DR. HOBBS' SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS have been sent to

A. C. DURCIN, Druggist,

121 Hancock Street,

under an agreement that SATURDAY, JUNE 12, a sample box will be

THE TAXPAYERS will learn with surprise that the new High school building, which was supposed to be thoroughly built, is in need of a large appropriation immediately to put it in a safe condition. The situation is not alarming, but the large girders which support the floor over the large study hall have begun to sag. In one room the blackboards fell out because of it. It is something which requires prompt attention and the City Council will undoubtedly see that the work is done during the summer vacation. Over the hall are the chemical labaratory and modeling room with corridor and closets between. The span is fifty feet.

The building was erected in 1894 by Commissioner Eaton, who said in his report that it "is one of the finest school houses in the State." The same administration made considerable capital over the condition of the central fire station built shortly before, saying it was dangerous and liable to collapse, and tried to condemn it, but it seems "there are others."

IT IS upon the whole a peculiar policy which the city has relative to accepting streets. In some cases it is the abutters who desire to live on public ways, but it is as often the general public which is convenienced. Whitwell street for instance is desired as a city way by the doctors and others who visit the Hospital and by a large village near the Hospital, which desires a short cut to the business centre of the city. If it is the abutters who are benefitted by the laying out of streets assess them betterments and have the work well done. Whitwell street should be accepted for the same reason as the Walker street extension, the Hall place extension, and the Miller Stile road. Because they save the general public considerable travel. A syndicate which is laying out such broad streets and building up such a good neighborhood as on Cranch hill should also be encouraged when it builds as good a street as Whitwell street.

THAT IS a shrewd move of Messrs. Dunn and Bisson to have the carriage license of S. Penniman & Son revoked if they enter into a combine with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. A sort of a boomerang.

☞ It is summer, and how to avoid the usual amount of cooking and still have proper food is a serious question. FAXON'S WILL.

Contested in Probate Court but Allowed by the Judge.

A hearing was held at the Probate Court at Quincy this morning before Judge Harriman, on the petition of William Faxon, that the will of Thomas Faxon late of Quincy be disallowed. The will which was dated June 9, 1893, left all his property to his sister, Nancy Currier of Cambridge.

William Faxon, Mrs. William Faxon, their daughter Mrs. Littlefield and Daniel Faxon testified that the deceased was abdicted in habits of gross intoxication; that he would drink anything he could get and had drank ammonia, and that for fifteen years they had not seen him sober once.

John Hall, George W. Morton and William A. Hodges in behalf of the defense testified that they had known the deceased for many years and while it was true that he was frequently intoxicated there were many days when he was sober. The court allowed the will and dismissed the petition. An appeal was taken.

UNPATRIOTIC.

Historical Places in Free America Should be Free.

Editors of the Quincy Ledger:

I was much surprised on reading an article in a late number of your valuable paper, in regard to the visit of the John Adams Chapter, D. A. R., to your historic city, to learn the attitude of the Historical Society toward its members.

I was surprised, because it was in such striking contrast to the courtesy and welcome bestowed upon the chapter of which I have the honor to be regent, on its recent "outing" at Dedham.

It chanced to occur upon a day of the week when the rooms of the Dedham Historical Society are not open to the public. Miss Calder, the custodian, upon learning that visitors were to be in town, who would enjoy a visit to the rooms, voluntarily opened them and cheerfully and willingly repeated the history of many of the rare and curious articles found in its collection of historical and revolutionary relics.

The president, Don Gleason Hill, Esq., was also in attendance and gave the party, numbering about seventy-five ladies, a hearty welcome.

It has always seemed to me a narrow and unpatriotic spirit for any society, whose rooms are filled with gifts from the people, to expect to receive dividends, pay salaries, or even running expenses by revenue from the people. Such societies and associations whether they possess merely a flintlock, a cheese press, or a spinning-wheel, or a pile of granite such as Bunker Hill Monument, have no raison d'etre.

It has often been extremely mortifying, while piloting visitors from distant parts of our country to historic spots of Boston, to announce that a fee must be paid a corporation, before permission to mount the winding staircase of Bunker Hill Monument would be given.

Each and all such historic places in free America, should be free as air to any and all nationalities, who would learn object lessons of patriotism.

(Signed,)

LAURA WENTWORTH FOWLER,
Regent "Old South" Chapter,
Boston.

Quincy to the Front.

We read in a Boston paper that over 25 million dollars are now being expended on the new Southern Union station, and the equipment of suburban lines with electric power. The completion of this great work is going to add millions to the value of land on these lines.

Quincy is situated so as to receive the full advantage of these great improvements, the tide has already turned toward the South Shore, and increases in valuation of real estate may be expected all along the line. No more desirable location for fine residences in the suburbs of Boston can be found than the extensive property being developed by local syndicates on Presidents hill, Cranch hill and vicinity. The beautiful sea view from the former is surpassed in grandeur by the grand panoramic scene of land and water from Cranch hill, near Quincy Hospital. It is familiar to only a few, but promises to become the most attractive part of the city. For a few weeks large gangs of men and carts have been busy laying out streets, and it has been the aim of the surveyors to preserve the natural attractions.

The property is approached from Goffe street by a new sweeping avenue which curves around the western base of Presidents hill, and will extend to Whitwell street near Granite street. Dimmock street from Hancock street near Adams academy, which will be extended over President's hill, will cross this new avenue and extend to Cranch hill. Other broad streets are being laid out over the property, and the one directly over the summit from the southwest to northeast has an unsurpassed harbor view, and is so laid out that one house will not obstruct the view of the others.

This desirable property is so near the heart of our city, so handy to railroad, and so attractive withal, that it needs only a good start to become a second Newton or Brookline. It is in the Adams street neighborhood and near the proposed boulevard, and there is more available land on Adams street and Third hill to develop Quincy is already a desirable residential city, and with its twenty miles of sea coast and sightly hills may rank among the best if it is progressive. We believe it is progressive for it has water, electric lights, parks and playgrounds, and has sewer system building, and has enterprising business men, many of whom are to be found in the Cranch Hill syndicate, the Presidents Hill Syndicate, and the Presidents Hill annex.

Held for U. S. Court.

The United States courts have taken up the liquor selling by Arthur P. Gardner on the old Quincy estate, he having been convicted in the Quincy court during the building of the Massachusetts Field school. Gardner was arraigned before United States Commissioner Fiske on Tuesday for violating the internal revenue laws and held in bonds of $200 for the United States court.

"Table Talk" for June presents an unusual array of tempting dishes for the housewife. It opens with the third article in the series of garnishing dishes, fully illustrated. "Sandwiches and Drinks" from the able pen of Miss C. C. Good Blood

Is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health. Impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. It creates a good appetite, gives refreshing sleep and cures that tired feeling. Remember,

The Best Man.

Mayor Adams of this city, who will act as Mr. Anderson's best man at the Anderson-Perkins wedding tomorrow, is receiving more prominence. The Post says he was a classmate of Mr. Anderson at Hopkinson's School. Mr. Adams afterwards entered Harvard and graduated with the class of '88. While at Harvard Mr. Adams had a record for social prominence that has rarely been equalled. It is not often that a man in a class at Harvard can be said to have been head and shoulders above anyone else in popularity, but of Mr. Adams it could certainly be said. He was at the head of nearly every social organization of high standing in the college.

In his first year he was elected president of his class and held that position all through his college course. In his sophomore year he was the first man "taken on" to the Institute of 1770, Harvard's oldest society, and was later elected its president. He was also president of both the Alpha Delta Phi and the A. D., two of Harvard's most ultra swell clubs. In his junior year he was the first man elected to the Hasty Pudding Club, and in his senior year he was elected its president. He also took a prominent part in the Pudding theatricals of his year.

Mr. Adams did not even then rest on his laurels, but at the class day election of the class he was elected first marshal for class day, the highest honor these elections can bestow upon a man.

When it is considered that Mr. Adams was not a big athlete, but owed all these honors solely to his personal popularity, it can be seen what a remarkable record this was. There has certainly been no man since his time with such a social record.

Accident.

Yesterday afternoon as Miss Ida Woods was returning to school—playing in the street—she was knocked down by a passing team, and received, as near as could be learned at time of writing, a bad sprain of her ankle. She was taken into a near by house and afterwards carried home. Miss Woods is a pupil of the Washington school.

—The Hingham Journal speaking of the call of Rev. Charles H. Porter to that town says:

"The call to Mr. Porter was unanimously concurred in by both parishes at meetings held in December last. Mr. Porter at the time of his call was associate pastor with Rev. Samuel A. Eliot at the Church of the Saviour in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had been ordained but a month previous. He is a native of Quincy, Mass., being a son of Ex-Mayor Porter of that city, is of fine intellectual ability, and has a presence altogether simple yet bespeaking confidence and devotion. Mr. Porter is a graduate of Harvard Divinity School. He enters upon his labors here with the kind estimation and good will of all, and especially those who will endeavor to uphold his hands in the several parishes over which he is now minister.

Talk by Mrs. Gurney—Good Work is Being Done.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County Woman's Christian Temperance Union is being held today with the Quincy Union in the chapel of the First church. Although the weather is rather inclement, there was a good attendance at the morning session, the several unions throughout the county being represented by fifty or more delegates.

Mrs. Henry B. Raymond of East Weymouth presided and the session opened at 10 o'clock with scripture reading, prayer, and greeting by Mrs. Charles A. Spear.

This was followed by a response by Mrs. George W. White of Weymouth, reading of the records of the previous convention and report of treasurer.

The treasurer's report showed the financial condition of the Union to be sound.

This was followed by words of cheer from Unions throughout the county. Each town was called upon in turn and responses were made by the secretaries. A larger part of the towns responded and their reports showed that much good work was being done in the several sections.

Following these reports Mrs. M. S. Gurney of Wollaston, County Superintendent of the Department, gave an interesting talk on "Franchise."

A basket lunch was served at noon and the afternoon session met at two o'clock.

This afternoon's programme concludes reports of committees, address, "Health and Heredity," by Dr. Louise Purington, National superintendent; vocal solo; exercise in giving; address on "The work of the W. C. T. U.," by Mrs. S. S. Fessenden, State President; vocal solo; remarks by pastors present, and reports of resolution committee.

LIVED IN "SPITE" HOUSE.

Joseph Richardson, an Eccentric Millionaire, Dies at New York.

New York, June 9.—Joseph Richardson, an eccentric millionaire, died here yesterday. He made his fortune in railroad building, and was closely associated with the Vanderbilts and Goulds. He constructed large sections of the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain and Mexican Central railroads. He came as a poor boy from England, and his first work of any magnitude was the construction of the Bridgeport (Conn.) waterworks, in which he owned a controlling interest at the time of his death, and where his son is now superintendent.

Mr. Richardson lived and died in a house which was only five feet wide. This place has been called the "Spite" house. It was built because the surrounding property owners refused to meet Mr. Richardson's terms for the narrow lot. He afterwards refused fabulous sums for the little piece of ground on which his spite house, amid the tall houses on the best part of Lexington avenue, stood as a memorial to the eccentric tenacity to which he owed his success in life.

He will be buried in a coffin he selected 22 years ago, and which is now stored in his barn at Bridgeport. It is made of one-inch planks, cut from a big tree specially selected by Mr. Richardson. His greatest boast was, "I am a working man. I want no fuss either in life or death. When I die, if my coffin is too large, fill in the empty space with sawdust."

STORMY SCENES.

The New England Christian conference, embracing all the churches of the Christian church in New England, began a three days' session at Lynn, Mass., yesterday afternoon.

Adam Bertram, the 14-year-old boy arrested for the accidential shooting of little Eva Bolls, was discharged in the Dorchester (Mass.) court, the girl's parents refusing to prosecute.

Foster Bruce, the Gloucester (Mass.) oarsman, has accepted a challenge of Peter Doyle of Salem, champion dory oarsman of New England, for a race at Centennial lake on Labor day for $500 a side.

On account of rain, class day exercises at Vassar college had to be held in the chapel instead of on the campus, as usual. The hall was thronged, as there are more friends and guests of the graduates in town than ever before.

Braintree Mystery.

The death of "the unknown" at Braintree is still the talk of the town, and the theory of foul play is again coming to the front. It would seem an easy matter to ascertain whether death resulted from drowning, but Medical Examiner Frazier is the only one who should order an autopsy, and he fails to act. The cuts on the face have every indication of being inflicted by a sharp instrument. If so, blood must have been spilled on his clothes but as the clothes are water soaked none can be detected easily. Clear up the mystery Dr. Frazier.

Terrance Keenan Dead.

Terrance Keenan, one of Quincy's well known citizens, died at his residence off South street this morning after an illness of three weeks' duration. Mr. Keenan was born in the old country but has resided in Quincy for upwards of forty years, during the larger part of which he has followed the occupation of a farmer. He was about 57 years of age and leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

If strength is what you want, you should study what causes your weakness.

It is practically lack of food.

But you eat three meals a day, and all you can eat at a time.

Yes, but do you digest it ?

Food undigested, is not food. It is not nourishment.

It doesn't create strength.

To digest your food take Shaker Digestive Cordial at meals. After a while you will digest your food without it. Then you will get well, and strong and healthy.

Shaker Digestive Cordial cures indigestion and all its symptoms, such as nausea, headache, eructations pain in the stomach, giddiness, loss of appetite, etc. It makes your food nourish you, and makes you strong and fat and hearty.

Quincy Location.

The City Council and Mayor of Quincy may have an opportunity to determine the location of the Boynton Bicycle railroad through Quincy provided the bill passes the Legislature. An amendment to the bill giving cities and towns the right to do this within days of the passage of the act was proposed in the Senate by Senator Farley on Tuesday and will come up for action today. The location must be reasonably direct.

Another proposed amendment is that the company shall purchase locations, and that so far as it operates in the streets it shall be considered a street railway.

A BICYCLE TOUR

Three gentlemen for a European tour purchased new hundred dollar bicycles. One a Columbia—the others of well-known high-grade manufacture. They had an agreeable trip—particularly the Columbia rider. Before returning to America, it being late in the year—and wishing to buy new machines in 1897—they sold their wheels to a London dealer. The Columbia bicycle brought $65.00. The others $40.00 and $35.00 respectively. But one of the many proofs of Columbia superiority. If you look a year ahead there is wise economy in UNITED REPUBLICANS.

Caucus Decisions on Tariff Bill Will Bind Party Senators.

New Sugar Schedule Agreed Upon Yesterday.

A Strong Sentiment In Favor of Continuing the Hawaiian Treaty.

Washington, June 9.—Nearly every Republican senator attended the party caucus yesterday, including Mr. Aldrich. The chief feature of the meeting was an agreement to stand solidly by caucus decisions, which means the early passage of the tariff bill. Almost the entire time of the caucus was consumed in the discussion of the sugar schedule. Some other differences were not reached.

No agreement was reached in regard to the Hawaiian treaty, and the committee is expected to report some amendments or a provision which will not leave the matter in any uncertain condition, or absolutely abrogate the existing reciprocity provisions of the treaty.

An important feature of the caucus was the determination reached to vote together as a party which insures favorable action on all contested schedules and the passage of the bill as approved by the majority. This determination was reached upon a suggestion made by Senator Thurston. This suggestion led to the most interesting incident of the caucus. There had been several references to the meeting as a "conference." Mr. Thurston objected to this designation, saying that conferences never bound anyone, and that he wanted it definitely understood whether this meeting was to be binding or a friendly chat without further results, for if it did not bind all senators on all schedules he would not agree to abide by the decision upon the sugar question.

This speech brought Senator Hanna to his feet with an earnest plea for party harmony and united effort on all the features of the bill. He referred to the apparent divisions at present existing in the senate, and said it was high time that a perfect understanding was reached.

Senator Thurston then put his suggestion in the shape of a motion to the effect that the agreement of the caucus should be binding upon all Republican senators, and it carried by a large majority.

The main propositions on the sugar schedule were those fixing the rate on refined sugar. There were three of these propositions. The one adopted fixing the rate at 1 95-100 cents per pound in place of 1 875-1000 cents, as fixed by the house bill, was suggested by Senator Spooner. Senator Perkins suggested 1 3-16, and Senator Wellington the rate of the house bill.

The two last amendments were voted down viva voce and the Spooner amendment accepted by an almost unanimous vote.

Mr. Aldrich, who is generally credited with the authorship of the finance committee provisions, had been expected to stand out stiffly for the amendments, but he did not do so. He said that his interest in the success of tariff revision as a whole was superior to his interest in any particular schedule that he had no pride in the rates fixed by the committee, and that notwithstanding his conviction that the committee rates were equitable and in the line of Republican policy, he was willing to subordinate his judgment to that of the majority.

The announcement was received with demonstrations of approval. Speeches were made by almost all the senators present. Mr. Hoar made a vigorous plea for unity of action, but said the sugar schedule should be definitely agreed upon at this time and put in such shape as to terminate the unfriendly criticism that had been aroused.

Senator Frye asked the caucus to consider the necessity of protecting the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, and made a speech in that behalf. This occurred early in the proceedings, and the Hawaiian question was apparently lost sight of in the subsequent proceedings over the main features of the schedule.

The caucus was compelled to adjourn at noon, when the senate met, and was unable to take up any other question. Indeed, senators generally were of opinion that with the Hawaiian question undisposed of, the sugar question was not finally settled, but there was no agreement for a future caucus.

The failure of the caucus to take steps looking to the protection of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty has caused considerable comment, but the friends of Hawaii in the senate say that the omission was due to no other reason than the want of sufficient time. They feel confident that if the point had been reached an amendment similar to that proposed by Senator Davis continuing the treaty in force would have been accepted. They base this assertion upon the manner in which Senator Frye's speech was received and the side remarks made upon the subject. They now express the utmost confidence that the finance committee will accept the amendment without caucus action. Senator Frye's speech was a zealous appeal for the maintenance of the treaty. He said that Pearl harbor was ceded to the United States in exchange for the concession to Hawaiian sugar by this country, and declared that its abrogation at this time would be an act of bad faith.

Actors' Fund Officers.

Admiral Lee's Funeral.

Washington, June 9.—The funeral services held yesterday afternoon over the remains of the late Rear Admiral Samuel Phillips Lee were marked with the simplicity characteristic of the old sailor. Rev. Dr. Smede and Rev. Dr. McKim of the Episcopal church officiated. Many distinguished civic officials and officers of the army and navy attended. Interment was at Arlington.

BOSTON RECRUITS.

A Well-Drilled Company Has Succeeded In Getting Away to Cuba.

New York, June 9.—A dispatch to The Press from Boston says: Colonel Shepard Young, a well known local militaryman, in an interview, divulged the details of a secret Cuban expedition, which left Boston on May 23 and picked up several recruits in New York. Yesterday he received a cipher telegram from Jacksonville, Fla., conveying the news that they had just sailed from that city on a fast, light draught steamer, 115 strong, armed with rifles of army pattern. All have seen service in the militia. A movement has been started to organize a sanitary commission here to supply stores.

Colonel Young says: "I conducted the drills in a hall in Boston, put them through infantry tactics, cavalry tactics and artillery tactics. Every man could load and fire a cannon, no matter what the size, swing a sabre or use a bayonet. Not a soldier left Boston until he was sufficiently drilled to take charge of a regiment. The tactics were taught in the city mostly at night. We got word from New York that a spy had been sent to Boston. We did not see him. The troops practiced with the machete also. That is used mostly for a front cut. The machete is heavier than a sabre, and the wielding of one is hard work, but the men soon learned to use it with skill."

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At Boston—

Boston made it three straight with Pittsburg yesterday, the visitors still being somewhat crippled. Lewis pitched good ball and received excellent support especially on the part of Collins, whose marvelous fielding caused the entire body of spectators to jump to their feet twice during the game, and cheer wildly. Hawley's arm was not well enough for him to pitch, but Hastings did creditable work.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Another 'Frisco Sensation.

San Francisco, June 9.—A sensational arraignment of Theodore Figel, bookkeeper for Isaac Hoffman, has been made by Attorney Henry Ach, speaking for the partners of the dead merchant who was found dead in his private office, and who he declares was deliberately murdered. When questioned directly as to whether the books would come out right under expert examination, Figel frankly admitted that they would not, as he had made false entries in the bank account in the firm's ledger at Hoffman's suggestion to cover up drafts made in excess of his allowance. Figel further said that no one but himself could make the books balance, as many entries had to be made of which he alone knew. In his racing affairs, Figel employed Edgar L. Atkinson, C. Burlingam and William Taylor as agents. They managed the stable and bet at his direction. They claim that Figel was a heavy winner, but admit that they have wagered over $1000 on a single race for their principal.

Fishermen to Be Watched.

New York, June 9.—A dispatch to The Herald from Washington says: The United States filibustering patrol is to suffer because of the desire of the administration to prevent violations of the fishery laws off Cape Breton. Instructions were yesterday sent to Rear Admiral Sicard, commander-in-chief of the North Atlantic squadron, directing him to order the Marblehead to proceed to Marblehead, Mass., and thence to the waters off Cape Breton. The instructions which will be given to Commander Elmer of the Marblehead require him to prevent American fishermen from violating the regulations of either the British or American governments.

Ambassador White at Berlin.

Berlin, June 9.—Andrew D. White, the new United States ambassador to Germany, accompanied by his family, arrived here yesterday. The retiring United States ambassador, Edwin F. Uhl, had his farewell audience of Emperor William at noon and presented his letters of recall.

Minister Killed by His Boy.

Barbourville, Ky., June 9.—Rev. Berry Lawson, a Methodist divine of this county, was shot and instantly killed yesterday by his 15-year-old son, Isham. The father whipped the boy Sunday for some slight offense and he left home. The punishment rankled in the little fellow's heart, and he returned home, and finding his father in a corn field slipped up behind him and blew his head from his shoulders with a shotgun. The youthful parricide escaped.

Cannot Accompany Peary.

Boston, June 9.—Professor George H. Barton of the Institute of Technology will be unable to accompany Lieutenant Peary when the latter leaves Boston, about July 5, for the Northern regions, by reason of private business, but he intends to go to Greenland next summer. There will be no Technology party in Peary's expedition, and the only Boston party will be that of Russell W. Porter, which will go to Baffin island.

Was Sister of Stephen A. Douglas.

Clifton Springs, N. Y., June 9.—Mrs. Sarah A. Granger, widow of the late Julian N. Granger, and sister of the late Stephen A. Douglas, died at the old Granger homestead yesterday. She had a stroke of paralysis on Wednesday. She was 86 years old, and had lived on the same farm 65 years. She was postmistress here under President Arthur.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY

DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this August 4th, 1896.

LISBON GIRL GARROTED.

Ida Lathrop, Aged 25, Found In Dying Condition In Coal Bin.

Alvan G. Clark, Famous Lens Maker, Is Dead.

Lisbon, N. H., June 10.—This quiet village was thrown into a state of intense excitement yesterday morning by the discovery of what now appears to have been a premeditated, cold-blooded attempted murder. The victim is Ida Lathrop, a garment operative in the employ of J. Conrad Brummer and Carl Brummer, merchant tailors. She is 25 years old, a blonde, and rather prepossessing in appearance. She is highly spoken of in the community.

It appears that Miss Lathrop left her boarding house Thursday evening to go to the workshop for a pair of buttonhole cutters, with which to finish a garment she was making for a friend. She was due at the time at the Congregational church to attend a rehearsal of the choir. Telling her room-mate, Miss Woodbury, to get the music together, she snatched up the latter's cape and stated that she would join her soon at the church. That was the last seen of her till yesterday morning, when, search being made for her, she was discovered about 9 o'clock by Carl Brummer in the coal bin under the front portion of the store. She was bound hand and foot, and was unconscious.

Examination revealed that the young woman was in a terrible condition, with but little hope of recovery. Her face, ordinarily thin, was so puffed and swollen as to be almost unrecognizable, and as soft as jelly, giving rise to the suspicion that the victim had been choked into unconsciousness and then pounded with a fist while the cloak was over the face. Two small scratches were the only marks visible on the throat. Both eyes were blackened, and there were several contusions on the ears, side of the face and chin. Strange to say, not a drop of blood had been started.

The local police were immediately notified and at once went to work on the case, but the whole affair seems to be shrouded in mystery. Four men have been arrested, the two Brummers, proprietors of the tailor shop; a Spaniard named Joe Calalusco, and Joe Norton. The police, however, are waiting for expert assistance before proceeding any further.

It is supposed that the deed was committed some time after dark Tuesday night. Every effort is being made to restore the young woman to her senses and obtain the names of her assailants, but it is feared that she will die before she can give any information.

All four men who were arrested were arraigned before County Solicitor Adams last night. The theory advanced by the Brummers is that Miss Lathrop attempted to commit suicide, as she was subjected to fits of despondency, and furthermore from the fact that an empty vial was discovered at her side. On the other hand, the physicians have found no symptoms of poisoning, and it is their opinion that if death ensues, as seems now probable, it will be the result of the blows on the head.

Miss Lathrop has been in the employ of the Brummers for four years, and is a woman of quiet disposition, with no known enemies.

WRECK AT EXETER.

Freight Train Goes Down Embankment---Two Men Dead and Two Missing.

Exeter, N. H., June 10.—Two trainmen were killed and two more are missing as a result of a freight wreck on the Boston and Maine near this place early this morning. The accident was occasioned by a washout. The engine was precipitated into the hole and turned completely over, dragging after it nearly the entire train. A search was made in the river for the engineer and a missing brakeman, but not trace of them could be found. The dead and injured are:

D. King, the fireman, was taken to the hospital so badly injured that he died in a short time.

S. G. Chandler, brakeman, is dead in the wreck.

—— Rankin, engineer, missing.

—— Young, brakeman, missing.

The train was in charge of Conductor Thurston. A general alarm of fire was sounded, but when the department arrived its services were not needed.

Patriarch Militant Field Day.

Skowhegan, Me., June 10.—The second annual field day of the Maine Patriarch Militant, I. O. O. F. began here last evening with a business meeting by the militant council. This was the fifth annual meeting of the body, and the attendance was seven cantons. The cantons number 268 visitors and the guest of the day was Brigadier General Frank M. Merrill of Lowell, Mass., commander of the patriarch of that state. At a business meeting considerable business of a routine nature was transacted and included many of the principal reports. All but one of the 21 cantons are reported in good condition. After the reports were read, H. G. Foster was mustered in as brigadier general for this department.

WORLD'S GREATEST LENS MAKER

Alvan Clark, Last of Famous Family, Dies at Cambridgeport.

Boston, June 10.—Alvan Graham Clark died at 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home on Brookline street, Cambridgeport. In his death the world loses its greatest lens maker. With his death the famous Clark family of lens makers becomes but a memory, as he was the sole survivor of it. Mr. Clark's death was most peaceful, and he was surrounded by his intimate friends when the end came. The Yerkes lens just set up at Lake Geneva, Wis., was the last important piece of work done by Mr. Clark, and he often expressed the wish to live long enough to see if its power was what it ought to be.

ALVAN G. CLARK.

Mr. Clark was born in Fall River, July 10, 1832. After a grammar school education he became associated with his father, Alvan Clark, in the firm of Alvan Clark & Sons. Mr. Clark, Sr., was the first American to make large achromatic lenses. In that capacity the son successfully completed many famous lenses, among which are the Chicago refractor, the 26-inch lens in the naval observatory at Washington, and the 30-inch refractor for the imperial observatory at St. Petersburg for which the honorary medal of Russia was awarded—the only one ever conferred on an American. During 1886 the 36-inch refractor, then the largest in the world, was made for the Lick observatory. The lens for the Yerkes telescope, which was his last production, is now the largest in the world.

Mr. Clark accompanied the total eclipse expedition to Spain in 1870, and also the expedition to Wyoming in 1878. As an observer he discovered 14 intricate double stars, including the companion to Sirius, for which the Lelande gold medal was awarded him by the French Academy of Sciences in 1862. His inventions in connection with the manufacture of refracting telescopes have been numerous.

Universalists' Convention.

Rockland, Me., June 10.—At the Universalists' convention yesterday the most important incident was the report of the committee on nominations, which was as follows: For president, Hon. Emery O. Bean of Readfield; vice presidents, Rev. C. F. Pember of Bangor and C. S. Fobes of Portland; recording secretary, Rev. W. W. Hooper of Deering; treasurer, Merritt B. Coolidge of Deering; committee on fellowship, ordination and discipline, Rev. C. F. Alvord of Kingfield, Rev. W. R. Gould of Dexter, Rev. R. D. Town of Lewiston, J. H. Barrows of Bethel, A. H. Brown of Oldtown; trustee, Hon. S. W. Carr of Bowdoinham.

New Hampshire Savings Banks.

Keene, N. H., June 10.—By order of the state bank commissioners the Keene Five Cent Savings bank and the Cheshire Provident institution, which were enjoined some time ago, will go into liquidation and their affairs will be closed up as soon as possible. The Hinsdale Savings bank has been ordered to pay a dividend of 20 per cent to depositors July 1. The Winchester Security Savings bank is now paying a 10 per cent dividend. The Keene Guaranty Savings bank will pay a third dividend July 1, and the Keene Five Cent Savings bank a second dividend Oct. 1.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 10.—The senate yesterday refused to reconsider its adverse action on the bill providing for the publication of the province laws; the bill to assess the state tax of $1,750,000 was passed to be engrossed; the Boston elevate railroad bill was again passed to engrossment, and the Boynton bicycle railroad bill was debated. In the house a bill was offered to require local authorities to take action for the suppression of the brown-tail moth. The house concurred in the senate bill amending the election laws.

Snowstorm In June.

Lynn, Mass., June 10.—There was a small snow flurry here shortly after noon yesterday, but the snow quickly melted after reaching the ground. It was the first ever recorded in this city for the month of June.

DUEL OVER WOMAN'S WORDS

Sensational Affair Growing Out of Alleged Cowardice at Recent Paris Fire.

Paris, June 10.—All Paris is talking of the duel with swords fought yesterday afternoon between two members of the old nobility, Count Robert De Montesquien and Henri De Regnier, at Neuilly Le Vallois, growing out of a remark made by Mlle. Heredia, the sister-in-law of Regnier, a few days ago in the saloon of Baroness Alphonse De Rothschild.

Mlle. Heredia, who was with her sister, Mme. Regnier, turned the conversation on a handsome cane carried by Count De Montesquien, who stood near her, and remarked it was just the sort of cane that might have been used at the charity bazaar fire to beat the ladies.

The count, who overheard the remark, interpreted it as an insinuation of cowardly conduct on his part toward women at the fire. Immediately withdrawing from the salon he sent a challenge to M. De Regnier, who was escorting his wife and sister-in-law, and before midnight seconds were appointed and the preliminiaries of the duel arranged. On reconsideration, however, the seconds of De Regnier submitted to the count's seconds that the remark was one of mere banter, upon which the count ought not to place so serious a construction, and urged that the matter be arbitrated.

Count De Montesquien thereupon twitted De Regnier with being afraid to meet him and branded him in the newspapers as a coward. This resulted in a challenge from De Regnier. Count De Montesquien immediately accepted this challenge, and the duel followed. Count De Montesquien was severely wounded in the back of the right hand. The surgeons then interfered and refused to allow the combat to proceed.

The affair has made a tremendous sensation, as it may prove the first incident in a general boycott socially of a number of men who are persistently accused in certain quarters of having displayed the rankest cowardice at the charity bazaar fire.

M. De Regnier did not take his first lesson in fencing until after he had received the challenge of Count De Montesquien. He is a poet and a leader in the Decadent School of Poetry.

Doctors Elect Officers.

Protest From Colonel Rolfe.

Concord, N. H., June 10.—A needle manufacturing company of Franklin has refused five of its employes, who are members of the New Hampshire National Guard, leave of absence to attend the annual encampment next week. In reference to this, Colonel Robert H. Rolfe of the Third regiment has written a letter to the manager of the company in which he protests against such action.

Graduation at Farmington.

Farmington, Me., June 10.—A large number of the friends and relatives of the graduating class of the state normal school, as well as a member of the governor's counsel who will represent his excellency, are here to attend the graduating exercises. There are 48 members in the regular class, and three in the advanced class, who will graduate.

Ceremony In Rain.

Waltham, Mass., June 10.—The cornerstone of Christ's Episcopal church was laid yesterday afternoon in a pouring rain by Bishop William Lawrence. The exercises included scripture reading by the bishop and responses by the laity. Robert Treat Paine read the lesson from the first epistle of John, fourth chapter, beginning with the seventh verse.

Hartland Scorched.

Hartland, Me., June 10.—The business portion of this town was almost entirely wiped out by fire last night. The blaze started in the town hall and was burning fiercely when discovered. Assistance was sent from Pittsfield, and the flames were checked before the town was entirely destroyed.

Well Known Insurance Man.

Augusta, Me., June 10.—Harry D. Macomber, aged 42, a widely known business man of this city, died last evening of heart trouble. He was a member of the firm of Macomber, Farr & Co., one of the best known insurance agencies in the state.

CITY FINANCES.

Many people have doubtless wondered how Boston can keep up its extravagant expenditures, and at the same time have a low tax rate. During the past year the debt has been increased over six million dollars. The debt statement of the city auditor of Boston explains the mystery, however, for it shows that the debt is placed many years in the future. That while the total debt for all purposes is $71,902,600.57, only $792,000 matures in 1897, while in 1936 there will mature $3,480,000. Less than a million dollars matures this year, while over a million matures in each of 26 of the future years. This year Boston does not pay six-tenths of one per cent. of its municipal debt, while Quincy pays over 21 per cent. The largest instalment of Quincy's municipal debt matures this year, and all within ten years while some of the largest instalments of Boston's debt mature forty years hence.

In view of the fact that Quincy is sure to be annexed to Boston within forty years is it wise for Quincy to burden itself now with heavy payments and in the future help Boston to bear her debt? We would not encourage large debts in Quincy as in Boston, and yet it might be good policy not to be too conservative.

If loans must be made in from one to ten equal payments, why not do as Boston, unite them in one. Ten loans of $1000 each, due in one year, make $10,000 fall due next year, but if a municipal loan of $10,000 is made in ten annual payments, only $1,000 will be mature next year and the tax rate would be over fifty cents smaller.

With such a policy $64,930 of a debt if only $306,335 61 would not mature this year. An amount which alone requires near $4 of the tax rate. Until this unjust apportionment is righted, smaller appropriations should be made in the annual appropriation order, and loans created to meet needs in excess. The sums of $1200 for Miller Stile road, $500 for Whitwell street, $2000 for the High school, etc., are perhaps small in themselves but if borrowed on one-year loans will materially increase the large amount already maturing in 1898—it was $57,580 upon Jan. 1, 1897.

The Auditor's report for December 31, 1895, showed that $51,600 would mature in 1897. While the municipal debt of the city increased $41,430 during 1896 we find by the Auditor's report of December 31, 1896, that the $51,600 had increased to $64,720, or, $13,120 of the $41,430 in one-year loans. It is these short loans which are burdening the Quincy tax payers more than the debt as a whole, and it is entirely unnecessary.

Unless the Finance Committee of the City Council adopt the consolidation idea, we would suggest that some member of the Council, who is interested in the taxes of 1898, move to amend the next one-year loan order, by striking out the loan clause and substituting in substance the following: "The City Treasurer is hereby authorized to make payments under this order in anticipation of a municipal loan for 1897 to be made during the year 1897."

Such municipal loans would have another advantage. They would be made the latter part of the year, and would mature the latter part of future years, and it would be unnecessary to borrow money in anticipation of taxes to pay them.

THE BOYNTON Bicycle Road bill passed the Senate Wednesday. A Boston paper says it was amended to make it useless, but from a brief statement of the amendments they seem very necessary for a railway which will run cars a mile a minute. One to prevent the operation of the road at grade across any railway or highway; another compelling the company to pay for street widenings and bridge building under penalty; another, to provide that the company shall not begin operations until a sum sufficient to pay all damages, immediate or consequential, has in the judgment of the Railroad Commissioners, been deposited with the State Treasurer; another, to compel local authorities to fix locations within 60 days after the filing of an application; and still another relative to damages.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL.

The Weak Points Shown Today on Examination.

Shrinkage of the Fifty Foot Trusses the Trouble.

A Belief That It Is Safe to Hold Graduations.

The Committee on Public Buildings of the City Council are acting promptly in the High school matter and have already visited the building and made a partial inspection, but in order to make their examination thorough it was necessary to get at the trusses which form the partitions between the rooms in the upper story.

This morning Commissioner Knowlton with Peter J. Williams and a gang of men visited the building and work was commenced tearing away the partitions that cover up the trusses. One of these was exposed to view this noon and upon a hasty examination it was found that the main members of the truss were apparently solid. The struts, however, that support the main members were loosened considerable.

These struts are of 4x4 hard pine and are loosened so badly that they can almost be removed.

In the attic it was also found that the iron rods supporting the purlin were also quite loose, so much so that the nuts could be removered by hand.

A few other things were found that were not just as they should be.

The cause of all the trouble is probably due to the shrinkage of the hard pine used in the trusses. When these were put in they were probably dry but it is well known that hard pine will absorb moisture in the brick and mortar, and while everything was tight when the building was completed the drying out of the timbers by the heat used in the building would cause them to shrink and the result would be the condition found.

The remedy is to jack the trusses back into position which would tighten the braces and struts.

Commissioner Knowlton says he has found no evidence that the building has settled and the reason the blackboards were thrown out was because they practically rested against the trusses and when they loosened it naturally threw the blackboards out.

When asked if he considered the building safe for the graduation exercises, Commissioner Knowlton replied that he did not think that there was any danger and it would be safe to hold the exercises in the hall this month.

The School Committee have been hastening matters as much as possible as they desire to know if it would be safe, that they might make arrangements to hold the exercises elsewhere.

The work uncovering the trusses will be completed today and then a thorough examination will be made.

and still the vexed question of the day remains unanswered—"WHAT SHALL we have for dinner?"

Well, Madam, we sympathize with you, for we know that the task of finding 365 correct answers to that conundrum every year is indeed a heavy one.

Nevertheless, there must be SOME answer given, always; and if you feel "cornered," perhaps you'd better let us help you out.

Come into our store and look around for a minute or two.

Very likely your eye will be attracted by something that you wouldn't otherwise have thought of.

Or perhaps we can suggest something—we're obliged to keep run of all the new things in the market, you know.

And what we don't keep isn't worth having.

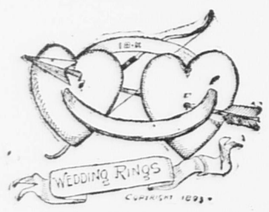

In the matter of canned goods, nothing is more deceiving than the label on the can.

We don't bother about labels. What we consider is quality—and our customers get the benefit.

Speaking of Canned Goods, as you probably know, in some of the hot states of our country, very little fresh meats are used owing to high prices of ice and the difficulty in keeping fresh without, but the fact that good, wholesome meat can be had in cans at a reasonable price, makes the want hardly felt. We have Corned Beef, Roast Beef and Ham, Whole Ox Tongue, Pressed Chicken and Turkey, Deviled Ham, Salmon and Lobster, and many other varieties. Wouldn't it be a good idea to make up a little order to have in the house against a time of need?

TOLD IN RESOLUTIONS.

Measures Which Please and Practices Discouraged by W. C. T. U.

At the afternoon session of the W. C. T. U. meeting in this city yesterday, there were further reports of committees; an address with valuable points on "Health and Heredity" by Dr. Louise Purington; vocal solos by Walker Hersey and Warren Mitchell, both of whom were compelled to respond to encores; address of Mrs. M. G. Stuckenberg and others; and then the following resolutions were adopted:

Inasmuch as the "organized mother love" of Massachusetts has been sometimes called to protest against the Legislative action of our General Court, and whereas since our last Norfolk County Convention, two bills have been introduced and carried through our Legislation, tending, as we believe, to righteousness, therefore.

Resolved,—That the W. C. T. U. of Norfolk County assembled in Quincy, the city of John Hancock and John Adams on this 9th day of June, 1897, do "comfort one another" in the passage of the bill forbidding the transportation of liquors into our no license towns and cities; as also the bill, forbidding the sale of all intoxicants in all the pleasure grounds and parks of our loved commonwealth.

"After men are grown and their habits are formed, they rarely change" said an officer, addressing Ohio's Liquor League; "therefore I urge, gentlemen that nickels expended in treats to the boys now, will return in dollars to your till, after the appetite for liquor has been formed. It is needful that missionary work be done among the boys.

Resolved—That the effect of this outspoken avowal incite, in the breast of every white ribboner, a doubling of our diligence to engird and save our boys.

In this art-loving and this money loving age—Resolved that un-read tendency to human uplifting in the rejection by the Boston Public Library of the $36,000 statue, one has called a woman's leer and a bunch of grapes.

Resolved,—that the convention gratefully acknowledge the large hospitality of the Quincy union entertaining. That we also desire to thank the First church of Quincy for the welcome to its historic house. That we tender appreciation also to the singers who sang and to our dear Mrs. Stuckenberg for her acceptable substitution of State President, and her admirable address.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES.

The Jury System and Capital Punishment Receive Consideration.

President Mackenzie called the Q. H. S. Debating society to order at the regular meeting Wednesday. In the absence of the secretary, Miss Chamberlin, the reading of the minutes was omitted.

The debate of last week on the question of abolishing the jury system was completed. Miss Osborne, '98, made an effective plea for the affirmative. Messrs. Hewitson and Lewis spoke for the negative. Mr. Lewis's speech was particularly good. The board of decision decided unanimously in favor of the negative.

A recitation by Miss Roberts, '98, and a declaration by Mr. Thayer, '98, followed.

The critic, Mr. C. L. Baker, '98, then offered his report which was duly accepted.

The new debate, "Resolved, "That Capital Punishment Ought to be Abolished" was begun.

Misses Pickering, Powers, Ward and Williams spoke for the affirmative. The negative side was defended by Messrs. Marnock, McDonnell and McLean.

Birthday Party.

The evening was spent in song and recitation. The Union Male Quartette composed of Mr. Alva W. Polk, Mr. C. W. Page, Mr. Ernest Tribou and Mr. W. S. Comee, sang a number of their selections, both serious and comic; a number of the Park and Downs Union Society choir were present and sang many of their anthems of which Mrs. Page is very fond; recitations by Miss Ruth Page and Miss Gladys Dickey; tenor solos by Mr. A. W. Polk, and soprano solos by Miss Julie Page, were well rendered and most heartily encored.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. Page is president, were present in large numbers and congratulated her on her youthful appearance at her present age.

Among those present were Mr. B. Frank Page (her eldest son) and wife, Mr. Chas. N. Page and Miss Hattie May Page (grandchildren) of West Somerville; Mrs. Abbie J. Dickey (daughter), Miss Hattie Dickey, Miss Glayds Dickey and Master Harry Dickey of the Hawthorne House, Winthrop beach; Mrs. E. F. Albee, Miss Ethel Albee and Master Reid Albee (cousins), Miss Marie Smith and Miss Gracie Hurlbert of Brookline; Mr. and Mrs. Lester W. Huntley, Masters Wilfred and John Huntly of Brockton; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thompson, Miss Jannie Thompson, Mr. Edwin Thompson, Miss Mary Thompson and Mrs. Clara Huntley of Winter Hill, Somerville.

Mrs. Page received many pretty presents. Mr. E. F. Albee of Brookline, unable to be present, sent a beautiful letter full of affection and praise of Mrs. Page's good qualities and a dollar for each year of her age, and added that he wished her many returns to the number of her present age (62) multiplied by itself.

Ice cream and cake were served during the evening and after many kind words and hand shakes Mrs. Page was bidden goodnight, and all departed leaving her feeling happy with the conviction that she was held close in the hearts of her relatives and friends.

BRAINTREE'S UNKNOWN.

Post Mortem Examination Order by District Attorney Harris.

The Braintree people have been wild at the treatment by Medical Examiner Frazier of the death of the unknown, found in the Monatiquot river, as many believe the man was murdered.

Arrangements were made for the burial of the man today but Editor Crooker of the OBSERVER did not propose that there should be any mystery when the doubt could be removed, and he and another newspaper man searched out District Attorney Harris this morning.

When they reached Brockton Mr. Harris had gone to Boston but they were not baffled, and before eleven o'clock the district attorney telegraphed an order to Dr. Frazier to hold a post mortem examination.

Editor Crooker doubtless voiced the feelings of the citizens of Braintree who to put it mild are indignant with the medical examiner, and also criticise the Selectmen.

The examination will probably be held this afternoon as the body is already badly decayed.

MILLS ON HIS METTLE.

Texas Senator Makes an Appeal For the "Forgotten Man."

Only Half a Page of the Tariff Bill Passed.

Finance Committee Decides to Withdraw Beer and Tea Amendments.

Washington, June 10.—The senate did not make much progress on the tariff bill yesterday, as much of the time was taken up in making speeches. Senator Mills of Texas made a great speech in favor of low taxes and free raw materials and spoke for the "forgotten man," who, Senator Mills says, will have to pay taxes which are provided for in the senate bill. Senator Mills also chided the Southern Democrats, like Bacon of Georgia, who have developed protective tariff tendencies, and reminded the members of his party that there were Democratic principles enunciated and Democratic battles fought before 1896 and the adoption of the Chicago platform. Senator Mills was listened to more attentively than any man who has addressed the senate recently, but the Republican managers of the finance committee declined to be led into any general expression, and pursued their policy of voting down amendments and hastening the passage of the bill.

Later in the day Mr. Cannon of Utah proposed an amendment placing an export bounty on agricultural products. He spoke for two hours on the need of giving the farmer a share of the benefits of the tariff.

Mr. Butler of North Carolina also spoke in favor of giving the farmer equal benefits with other classes under the bill. Only half a page of the bill, covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragraphs (229 to 233), were disposed of during the day.

The senate confirmed the following nominations:

Henry L. Wilson of Washington, to be minister to Chili; John G. A. Leishman of Pennsylvania, to be minister to Switzerland; Lawrence Townsend of Pennsylvania, to be minister to Portugal; Andrew D. Barlow of Missouri, to be consul general at the City of Mexico.

POOR MAN'S BEVERAGES.

Senate Finance Committee Will Withdraw Tax on Beer and Duty on Tea.

Washington, June 10.—The Republican members of the finance committee will withdraw the amendments for an additional tax on beer and for the duty of 10 cents a pound on tea. The pressure for the withdrawal of these amendments has been very great, and many Republican senators have made decided stands against them.

The formal action of the committee on the subject has not been taken, but the determination has been reached. The members of the committee are still in doubt as to what shall be done with increases on tobacco in the internal revenue part of the bill, but there has been great pressure to have these taxes reduced. The question of revenue is giving the committee considerable concern, and if there should be a withdrawal of the increases on tobacco, as well as those on beer and tea, the bill would not meet the needs of the government as a revenue producer. For this reason it has been practically determined to make a bank check stamp tax and the question of additional revenue by means of a system of stamp taxes on beer has been under consideration. The committee is considering these questions and endeavoring to meet them as they proceed.

There are several propositions under consideration by the committee, but there is difficulty in agreeing upon any of them. They include the indorsement of the Davis amendment for continuing the present treaty in force without reservation, a suggestion to the president that a new treaty should be negotiated, modifying the existing agreement so as to render them less partial to Hawaii, and also a proposition looking to the giving of a year's notice to Hawaii of the abrogation of the present treaty. This latter proposition is understood to have originated with Senator Aldrich and is antagonized by the special champions of Hawaii. The opinion is freely expressed by senators that the question of annexation will be taken up by the administration as soon as the tariff bill is passed.

A new paragraph on canned fish is to be recommended, as follows:

"225—Fish, known or labeled as anchovies, sardines, sprats, brislings and sardels or sardellen, packed in oil or otherwise, in bottles, jars, tin boxes or tans, shall be dutiable, as follows:

"Containing 7½ cubic inches or less, 1½ cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 7½ and not more than 21 cubic inches, 2½ cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 21 and not more than 33 cubic inches, 5 cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 33 and not more than 70 cubic inches, 10 cents per bottle, jar, box or can; if in other packages, 40 per centum ad valorem. All other fish, except shell fish, in tin packages, 30 per centum ad valorem; fish in packages containing less than one-half barrel, and not specially provided for in this act, 30 per centum ad valorem."

The rate on pickled or salted herring is increased from ½ to ¾ of a cent per pound, on fresh herring from ¼ to ½ cent.

Fish, fresh, smoked, dried, salted, pickled, frozen, packed on ice or otherwise prepared for preservation, not specially provided for in this act, ¾ cent per pound; fish skinned or bound, 1¼ cents per pound; mackerel, halibut or salmon, pickled or salted, 1 cent per pound.

Many Chinese Fishermen Drowned.

Victoria, B. C., June 10.—Meagre particulars are brought by the Empress of Japan of a disaster which befell the fishermen of Chusan Archipelago, off the coast of China. On May 6, when most of the fishing boats were out on the fishing banks, a terrific gale sprung up. Of the several hundred boats out at the time very few returned, and it is estimated that some 500 men their lives

TWO RUIZ REPORTS.

DeCongosto and Consul Lee Could Not Agree on Cause of Dentist's Death.

Washington, June 10.—The department of state is in possession of two distinct reports bearing upon the Ruiz case. They were brought to Washington by Mr. Fishback, the secretary to Mr. Calhoun, and handed to Assistant Secretary Day. One of these reports was made by Consul General Lee, and has been fully set forth in the newspapers. The other report, really the original, was a joint production, signed by Consul General Lee and by Dr. Congosto, the Spanish consul at Philadelphia, who, with General Lee, constituted a special commission to investigate the conditions surrounding the death of Ruiz.

In this report the two commissioners went as far as they could together, which necessarily confined them to a mere statement of facts that are not subject to controversy. Failing to agree upon a statement of the causes which led to Ruiz's death the commissioners signed the document at this point, and then by mutual agreement made what may be described as supplementary reports to their own governments, in which they set out statements that they could not agree to include in the original report. The published report of General Lee was one of those supplemental reports, and it is probable that the Spanish government has one intended to controvert it, made by Dr. Congosto. With all of this literature on the subject in possession of the two governments the possibilities of prolonged negotiations are promising.

After his conference with Assistant Secretary Day, Mr. Calhoun decided to delay his departure from Washington until today. This afforded time for further discussion between the assistant secretary and the special counsel concerning Cuban affairs.

The publication of the Lee report in advance of its reception at the state department has given much annoyance to the officials, and probably will be made the subject of a quiet inquiry, inasmuch as it is believed that the position of our government in the negotiations that are sure to follow with Spain is weakened by thus putting its case in possession of the other side.

Silver Republicans Confident.

Chicago, June 10.—The executive committee of the National Silver Republican party held a session yesterday afternoon to discuss methods of carrying on the organization. The national committee of the new party did not hold a meeting as intended, but decided to leave the selection of the executive committee to Chairman Towne. Ex-Senator Fred J. Dubois of Idaho will be chairman of this committee. The others have not yet been selected. National headquarters will be in charge of ex-Congressman Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, and for the present will be in Duluth. The committee favored immediate organization for the congressional elections of 1898, and also for the campaing of 1900, and instructed Chairman Towne to push this work as rapidly as possible. Chairman Towne said that the conference was better attended than he expected and that he believed it indicated that the silver Republicans would hold the balance of power in the congressional and presidential elections.

Japan Becoming Reasonable.

San Francisco, June 10.—Advices have just been received from Honolulu per steamship Australia to the effect that Japanese Minister Shimamura has changed his attitude to some extent since last advices from the Hawaiian capital. After the departure of the steamship Peru several conferences were held between Ministers Cooper and Shimamura, with the result that the Japanese representative made proposals of a much more reasonable nature than those which he first offered.

Protect Yourself against sickness and suffering by keeping your blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Weak, thin, impure blood is sure to result in disease.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, biliousness. 25c.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. SOPHIE ZELA DEAD.

Well Known Norwegian Singer and Wife of Boston Lawyer.

Boston, June 10.—Sophie Zela Achorn, wife of Edward O. Achorn, died here yesterday. Previous to her marriage, Mlle. Zela was a well-known singer. She won a scholarship at the Royal Academy, Stockholm. In this way the attention of King Oscar was called to the musical prodigy, and after that her progress was marked with royal favor and patronage.

In Paris, Mlle. Zela studied with Mme. Marchesi, and later with Frau Peschа-Leutner. She made her debut at Christiana. Later, both in opera and concert, Mlle. Zela made a tour of Norway and Sweden, and everywhere met with success.

In 1888 Mlle. Zela spent the summer months in Stromstadt, Sweden, and there met Mr. Achorn, accompanied by her intimate friend, Fraulein Ida Bothe, a teacher of art in Wellesley college. She came to New York in September, 1889. Mlle. Zela was a Norwegian, tall and stately, with large hazel eyes, intelligent features and a very sweet expression. She was married to Mr. Achorn, who is a well-known Boston lawyer, in the fall of 1889. She was about 35 years old at the time of her death. The interment will be at New Castle, Me., today.

To Take Tariff Out of Politics.

Washington, June 10.—The Tariff Commission league has opened headquarters in this city. Samuel B. Archer, secretary and treasurer of the league, will be in charge. The object of the association is to secure the passage of a bill for the appointment of a tariff commission, whose duties will be to suggest to congress changes in rates of duty, and thus take the tariff question out of politics.

No Ill Feeling Exists.

London June 10.—The Daily Graphic publishes an interview this morning with Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner, in which he gives a history of the Dominion and expresses the opinion that union with New Foundland is bound to come. He declared that, despite all the points of difference between the governments, no ill feeling against the United States remains among the Canadian people.

No Evidence Against Dauntless.

Key West, June 10.—The case against James W. Floyd and others of the steamer Dauntless, for feloniously setting on foot a military expedition against the kingdom of Spain, was heard by the United States commissioner yesterday, and for want of sufficient evidence was dismissed.

The smallest grain of aniline will color a ton of wine. A grain of permanganate of potash will redden seven thousand times its weight of water. The most trifling disorder will disarrange every organ of the body and cause eventual disease and death. It is the little ailments neglected that make the big diseases. Most serious diseases have their inception in a disordered digestion and faulty nutrition. This is true of that most deadly of diseases—consumption. It is also true of nervous prostration and exhaustion and also of all forms of wasting disease. Ailments of this description may not only be prevented but cured by a resort to the right remedy.

An unfailing cure for all diseases that have their origin in disorders of the digestion and faulty nutrition is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures digestive disorders, restores the appetite, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, builds healthy flesh and muscle and drives out disease-germs. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Thousands have testified to these facts. Druggists who suggest substitutes are dishonest.

Mrs. Ursula Dunham, of Sistersville, Tyler Co., W. Va., writes: "I should have been dead had it not been for your medicine. I was nearly dead when I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had a pain in my side all the time, had but little appetite, and grew very thin. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' promptly cured the pain, restored my appetite, and increased my weight."

Dr. Pierce's wonderful free book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," will be sent paper-bound, for twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. For handsome, durable cloth covers, beautifully stamped, send ten cents more (thirty-one cents in all), to pay extra cost for this style of binding.

WEAK WOMEN AND WEARY MEN

P. P. P. restores shattered nerves, gives strength and tone to the entire system, revives the worn out, nervous and debilitated. You cannot but be nervous if your blood is impure.

P. P. P. gives the proper nourishment to the blood, and cures nervous prostration, debility and nervous headache.

P. P. P. cures that tired, languid, "all gone" feeling, cures dyspepsia, indigestion, and that awful distress of the stomach.

P. P. P. cures that weak, nervous condition, that dreadful jumping of the heart, followed by dizziness and sinking spells. Make your blood pure by taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and you will be well and happy. Women are benefited, their organization regulated, and their weakness and lassitude cured by P. P. P.

WEAK, TIRED PEOPLE

should take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, without delay. While not actually sick, you feel weak and tired, ready to get sick, and what you need is strength to drive out of your system that which is the cause of Spring Fever. P. P. P. is needed at once.

Mr. Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th street, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for her complete restoration to health.

Sold by all druggists.

DR. HOBBS

Challenges the Citizens of Quincy

AT HIS OWN EXPENSE

To a Public Test of the Ability of His Sparagus Kidney Pills to Cure Disease.

TOMORROW

There Will be Given Away a Sample Box of Dr. Hobbs' Pills Free to Every Person Asking for it at

A. G. DURGIN'S DRUG STORE.

JULIUS HOBBS, M. D.

The remarkable challenge by Dr. Hobbs to every interested citizen of Quincy to test the merits of his Sparagus Kidney Pills to cure every conceivable form and phase of disease of the kidneys, rheumatism and bladder troubles, is worthy of more than passing comment.

Dr. Hobbs does not enter these columns with mere assertions of the value of his remedy, and invitations to call at the druggists and pay for his remedy before its merits are known, but, in unmistakable terms, he invites every interested person to call at a leading drug store and get, free of charge, a box of his Sparagus Kidney Pills and test their efficacy to relieve and cure disease.

The claims made for the remedy in question are, speaking in a general sense, that the Hobbs Remedy Company of Chicago and San Francisco are the owners of an ASPARAGUS KIDNEY REMEDY, which they positively assert will cure all kidney diseases, with the exception of those where tumors and ulcers have formed and a surgical operation is necessary.

For the purpose of making this test in an open manner and beyond criticism, a large number of samples of DR. HOBBS' SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS have been sent to

A. C. DURCIN, Druggist,
121 Hancock Street,

under an agreement that SATURDAY, JUNE 12, a sample box will be desiring to test the value of these pills.

To each applicant for a free sample of these wonderful pills will also be given a little book on kidney diseases, which sets out in a clear, plain manner just such information as would be wanted by anyone with weak kidneys.

DAMAGE BY THE STORM

Reports From Northern New England Indicate Great Losses.

Railroads Washed Out and Log Booms Broken.

Unprecedented Rainfall for June---Vermont Suffered Most Severely.

Boston, June 11.—The northwest rainstorm which set in Wednesday morning, and which was apparently the culmination of a week of dull, easterly weather, appears to have blown itself out, as the wind has backed to the north, and the rain has practically ceased in this city. The precipitation here for the 24 hours previous to 7 p. m. was .97 inch, according to the weather bureau.

The storm was unprecedented for this month, for it has been many years since the rain has been so heavy and continued for such length of time. The storm was apparently confined to Massachusetts and the regions northward, scarcely any rain falling south of the state line. The destruction to life and property by reason of the storm has also been surprising, particularly along the various branches of the Boston and Maine railroad. Washouts have been very frequent, and the freight wreck at Exeter, N. H., early yesterday morning, in which three trainmen were killed, was due directly to the storm. There were over half a dozen other serious washouts that impeded the progress of trains, especially in southern New Hampshire and southwestern Maine. Trains from all directions were delayed and in many instances completely stalled by reason of washouts in front and behind. The loss to the road by storms will be fully $15,000.

Nearly every city or town in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont that is situated on a stream of any size reports more or less damage by the high water, while the lowlands all through this region are flooded.

A log boom at Bellows Falls, Vt., broke and sent 12,000,000 feet of logs down to Turner's Falls, Mass., where another boom held 80,000,000 feet. This second boom parted and the combined drive of logs was carired away.

At Dover, N. H., where, in 1896, four bridges and a business block were carried away by the floods, the Cocheco mills have suspended operations. The Connecticut river has swept away the dam of the Warner Manufacturing company at Greenfield, and the damage to crops is heavy in many sections.

Along the Merrimack river, particularly at Concord, N. H., there was some destruction of property. In that city one of the peculiar results of the overflow at Penacook lake is that the city's water supply has been cut off, as the water has been diverted from the service pipes. In consequence of this householders have been obliged to obtain their water from other sources, notwithstanding the fact that there is water all about there. The storm will probably go down in history of the weather bureau as one of the heaviest ever experienced in June. The precipitation has been exceptionable, 2.06 inches of rain having fallen since Wednesday morning, while the wind at times reached a velocity of 30 miles an hour.

This is also the experience in northern New England, and it is safe to say that there will be little fear of drought the coming summer.

Pipestave Hill, West Newbury, Mass., is badly washed by the storm, where the road had been graded for laying the tracks for the new electric road to Newburyport. The damage is considerable. The damage to the state road now being built is slight.

Reports received from Kensington, Kingston, Hampton, Seabrook, South Hampton Newton, Brentwood and other New Hampshire farming towns is to the effect that seed vegetables in great numbers have rotted in the ground, and that the loss to the farmers is extensive.

At Bellows Falls, Vt.

A special from Bellows Falls, Vt., says:

For the last 48 hours it has rained steadily here until the streams and rivers are fast reaching the high water mark of April, 1895, when three young men lost their lives in the turbulent tide.

On Wells street in this village the water from the side hill has been so great that the catch basins could not take care of it, and the cellars of a dozen or more houses are filled with water. On the corner where stands No. 4 school building, it is impossible to get around, as the water is two feet deep on the street at this point.

The manilla and card mills of the Fall Mountain Paper company are shut down, as the cellars, where the driving pulleys that run the machines are located, are from six to nine feet under water.

The boom which held the large drive of logs owned by the Connecticut Lumber company gave way and the logs are jammed against the piers of the Fitchburg railroad bridge at this place, and the team bridge at Walpole. At the latter place it is said they are piled 20 feet high, and great fears are entertained that the bridge will be lifted from its foundation.

Frank Noyes Killed.

The hotels are filled to overflowing as all traffic on the Rutland railroad is at a standstill, two bridges having been carried away between here and Chester. One of the bridges a young man by the name of Frank Noyes was crossing, little dreaming of the sudden death that was fast approaching, when all of a sudden the bridge was lifted from its abutments, and he was carried with it into the turbulent waters below.

The trains on the Boston and Maine from the North are running, all of them being from one to three hours late, owing to a washout between here and Charlestown.

Advices from the North say that the river is rising rapidly. The meadows north of here on the Vermont side of the river are completely flooded and all travel is cut off between here and Rockingham, owing to a 30-foot washout just this side of the James B. Allee farm.

The highway between here and Charlestown is all washed out, and between here and Bushway farm, which is only two miles away, there are five washouts, some of them being 30 feet deep.

Another special from Mount Tom, Mass., says:

Logs released from the broken boom at Turners Falls commenced passing the Mount Tom boom at 12:30 o'clock. The boom was not complete so the attempt to check the logs was ineffectual. One attempt to put in a temporary boom at Stuffer's island was unsuccessful on account of the high water.

The Connecticut is very high, and rising. Nothing can be done to check the logs this side of Holyoke.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Annual Meeting of State Federation at Great Barrington---Officers Elected.

Great Barrington, Mass., June 11.—The annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs was held in the Congregational church yesterday. A large number of delegates were present from all over the state. Miss Emma W. Sheldon of Great Barrington delivered the address of welcome. A letter was read from Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the president, who was unable to be present.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe; vice presidents, Miss O. M. E. Rowe (New England Woman's club), Mrs. May Alden Ward (Alden club, Franklin, Mrs. Electa N. Walton (Newton Woman's Educational club), Mrs. Maria E. Chamberlain (Chelsea Woman's club); secretary, Miss Florence Everett (New England Woman's club); assistant secretary, Mrs. Mary E. Mason (Thought club, Hyde Park); treasurer, Mrs. Adelaide N. Blodgett (Social Science club, Newton). Directors for three years, Mrs. P. P. Kellogg (Springfield Woman's club), Miss Caroline D. Cogswell (Haverhill Woman's Literary union), Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd (Amherst Woman's club), Mrs. Oliver Crane (Wednesday Morning club), Miss F. Merriam (Abbott Academy club).

Resolutions were adopted protesting against the fashion of using the feathers of wild birds for decoration.

LISBON VICTIM.

Ida Lathrop Is Recovering, but Is Not Yet Able To Tell Her Story.

Lisbon, N. H., June 11.—The situation in the mysterious occurrence which startled this village Wednesday has changed considerably, and the excitement has in a measure abated.

This result has been brought about by the victim's partial recovery of consciousness. The swelling around her eyes has diminished to a great extent.

A pin inserted in the foot caused her to feebly move it, while a slight pull of the hair produced a frown as if the operation was painful.

Dr. G. W. Shattuck, who remained by her side during the night, said: "Ida, do you know me? If you do squeeze my hand." A slight pressure denoted her recognition.

She was asked in a like manner if she knew her father and mother, and again feebly responded with a just perceptible grasp of the hand. In this way she also signified her desire for water.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

WESTERN CYCLONE.

Lyle, Minn., in Tornado's Path--Six Reported Killed and Twenty Injured.

Chicago, June 11.—Last evening a cyclone struck northwest of Lyle, Minn., taking a southeasterly course. Several people are reported killed and injured. The cyclone tore up houses and other buildings, and the territory is now bare. The path of the storm was about half a mile in width. All telegraph lines north are down and boxcars on sidings were smashed into kindling. A cyclone passing over the town of Kandiohi, Wilma county, Minn., entirely demolished the buildings on the farm of John Berquist.

All railway lines running in the vicinity of the track of the storm report telegraph poles blown down and other damage done. A railroad operator at Mason City reported at midnight that 20 houses were demolished. At Lyle one man was killed outright and 20 others injured. It is believed that much damage was done in the country around Lyle, there being all sorts of rumors of heavy loss of life. Owing to the damage to telegraph lines definite information was lacking. A special train with surgeons, linemen and workmen was sent to Lyle from Waterloo within an hour after the storm.

A special from Osage, Ia., confirms the report of the cyclone, and says six persons were killed and a number injured.

Colored Odd Fellows.

Providence, June 11.—The Patriarchal Union of New York and the New England states, comprising the uniformed ranks of colored Odd Fellows, held their sixth annual field day in this city yesterday. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Chairman William B. Lee of Boston, No. 4; vice president, F. M. Wilson of Hartford, No 60; secretary, John W. Carter of New Bedford, Mass., No. 61; treasurer, Perry S. Sawyer of Providence, No. 31; sergeant-at-arms, John W. Overton of New York, No. 2.

Yale Owns Nearly Whole Block.

New Haven, June 11.—Yale university has purchased a piece of property on the corner of Library and York streets, having a frontage of 133 feet on York and 181 feet on Library. The price paid was $60,000. Yale now owns nearly all the property on the square enclosed by York, Elm, Library and High streets. No buildings will be erected on the newly purchased lot this year, but probably a new dormitory will go up there soon.

Postal Delegates at Hub.

Boston, June 11.—The 150 delegates to the universal postal congress, and the ladies accompanying them, arrived from Syracuse by special train yesterday morning. After a breakfast, a call on the governor, a peep at the postoffice, a trip to Deer island, where lunch was served, a banquet and a theatre party, the company left on the same special train at midnight, shouting the praises of the mayor and the postmaster.

Gave Much to Charity.

New York, June 11.—Mrs. Eunice C. Mallory, widow of Charles H. Mallory, who founded the Mallory steamship line of New York, died at Clifton (her palatial home at Port Chester) yesterday. She was born in Mystic, Conn., in 1819. Mrs. Mallory gave large sums for charitable and benevolent purposes. She leaves an estate valued at over $1,000,000, composed partly of real estate in Mystic.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, June 11.—Tonight the great and general court of the commonwealth will be prorogued by the governor. For the last three days both houses have been hustling to clean up pending matters. Both houses got together on the Boston Elevated railroad bill, and it was passed. A deadlock occurred on the Boynton bicycle bill, and this will go over to the next session.

The New York Leaves Boston.

Boston, June 11.—The United States steamship New York, flagship of the Atlantic squadron, left this harbor yesterday under sealed orders. It was rumored that she was bound for Cuba, but a dispatch from Washington says she will go to Hampton Roads for orders.

Elevated Bill Signed.

Boston, June 11.—Governor Wolcott signed the elevated railroad bill yesterday afternoon.

QUINCY.

CITY OF QUINCY.

IN COUNCIL, June 7, 1897.

WHEREAS, in the opinion of the City Council of the City of Quincy, the public necessity and convenience of the inhabitants of said city require that Faxon Road should be laid out a way of the city about forty feet in width, from Squantum Street to Billings Road, and that the grade thereof be established:

It is therefore hereby Ordered, that due notice be given to the owners of land to be taken, and all others interested, that the City Council intends to lay out the way before mentioned, and to take therefor a portion of their land, and to lay out the same as a way, and that MONDAY evening, June 21, 1897, at 8 o'clock, is the time appointed for a public hearing of any objections which may be made to said taking, at the Council Chamber in the City Hall, in said City of Quincy.

Adopted June 7, 1897.

Attest: CHRISTOPHER A. SPEAR,
11-2t Clerk of Council.

QUINCY HAS many historical spots which the State commission for the Old Colony district should mark. The Governor has nominated W. T. Davis of Plymouth, S. H. Emery of Franklin and L. V. Briggs of Hanover as commissioners.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Full moon next Monday evening.

The bicycle runs called for Thursday evening were declared off.

Mrs. O. C. Colton and son go to Bellefontaine, Ohio, today, for the summer.

The degree staff of Manet Encampment will work the Patriarchial Degree on three candidates this evening.

Rev. L. O. Williams of Ashmont will speak at the Sunday evening service at the Universalist church; special music.

The baby show to have been held at the Universalist church on Wednesday afternoon was postponed on account of the weather until Saturday.

Children's day at the Bethany church on Sunday. The morning service at 10.30, will be given up wholly to them, and they will help to entertain.

The granite cutters of the city will hold their third annual picnic at the New Downer Landing on Saturday, July 17. Arrangements will be made for over 3000.

The granite shipments from Quincy for the month of May were as follows: From Quincy Adams, 9,296,750 pounds; West Quincy, 4,188,395 pounds; Quarry railroad, 2,048,280 pounds.

The game of ball between nines of the Quincy & Boston, and Division 5 of the West End street railways to have been played at Merrymount park, Thursday, is being played this afternoon.

It is reported that a man was struck by the cars near the Neponset bridge Wednesday morning. The train stopped after striking the man, and he was placed on board the cars and proceeded to Boston.

Refused to Report.

An autopsy was held by Medical Examiner Frazier and Dr. Tinkham, at Braintree, Thursday afternoon, upon the body of the man found in Monatiquot river, but the physicians refused to give out what their finding was.

Had it been a case of drowning, as at first reported it is thought there would have been no hesitancy, and the public feel that their demands for an autopsy have been justified.

Mass at St. John's Church.

The funeral of Mr. Terrance Keenan was held from St. John's church this morning, High mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. F. A. Cunningham. The services were largely attended and at the conclusion the remains were taken to St. Mary's cemetery at West Quincy for interment, the bearers being as follows: William Thompson, William Harkins, Jeremiah Meaney, Patrick Brenan, Michael Sullivan and Henry T. Brown.

LESS DELEGATES.

Each Ward of Quincy Will Lose One.

To the Republican Conventions to be Held This Year.

Wollaston the Only Loser at the Representative Convention.

Because of the large Republican vote last year the basis of representation to the Republican conventions has been increased for 1897.

The apportionment of delegates to the state, congressional, councillor, county and senatorial conventions in Massachusetts for the year 1897 is:—

One delegate for the first 75 votes cast for the republican candidate for governor in 1896 in each ward of a city and in each town.

One delegate for each succeeding 225 votes cast for the republican candidate for governor in 1896 in each ward of a city and in each town, or for a fractional part as large as 125 votes so cast.

In Quincy one ward will not suffer at the expense of the other to any of the above conventions, as each will have one less: Wards One, Three and Five 3 instead of 4; and Wards Two, Four and Six 2 instead of 3. The vote by ward and delegates being as follows:

	Vote.	Delegates, 1897.	1896.
Ward One,	475	3	4
Ward Two,	325	2	3
Ward Three,	483	3	4
Ward Four,	320	2	3
Ward Five,	437	3	4
Ward Six,	239	2	3
	2279	15	21

When it comes to the Representative convention there is a good illustration of how a different basis on the same vote will work. The basis for these conventions will be:

One delegate for every 60 votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1896 in each ward of a city and in each town, or for a fractional part as large as 40 votes so cast, which is entitled to send delegates to the district convention held to nominate one or more candidates for the state legislature.

The Quincy convention will be of the same size as last year, 43 delegates, but Ward One gains one while Ward Five loses one, as will be seen:

Ward One,	9	8
Ward Two,	6	6
Ward Three,	9	9
Ward Four,	6	6
Ward Five,	8	9
Ward Six,	5	5
	43	43

Twenty-two votes will be necessary at a fall convention to nominate candidates for the Legislature.

HOUGHS NECK.

The season will be reopened Sunday. The cold and rain has delayed the beach season, but as the temperature must be "evened up," the prospects are that July and August will be hot, and September and October delightful autumn weather.

The Hull yacht club will give a special invitation race off the clubhouse at Hull on Friday afternoon, the 18th, at 3 o'clock, for knockabout and third and fourth classes. Knockabout class, $15, $10, $5; third class, $15, $10, $5; fourth class, $15, $10, $5.

Mrs. Ada C. Call, of Roxbury, is at her summer home on Great Hill, Houghs Neck, for the summer. Senator Farley and wife from Farley, Mass., have been visiting her this week.

The work of the storm at Houghs Neck is told in another column.

MILTON.

Peddlers who try to sell their goods in Milton without a license always come to grief, for they are sure to fall into the hands of some of Maurice Pierce's officers.

There is some talk of giving a farewell reception to Hiram W. Tuell at the close of the present term.

The prospects are that there will be considerable building at Milton Hillside this spring and several houses are now underway.

What East Milton people are asking for is "Will we ever get a street railway to Milton Centre?"

Choir Festival.

Last evening was not as stormy as those indoors imagined and a large number ventured out to the annual festival of the Choir guild at Christ church, in which the choirs of the Hyde Park and Quincy churches united, the former wearing purple and white, and the latter purple and gold.

Mr. J. B. Atwood of the Hyde Park church was conductor and Mr. F. Wrigley the organist. It was much after the usual order of services, with processional, selection, magnificat, nunc dimittis, anthems, hymns, te Deum and retrocessional.

The solo parts were well taken by members of the Hyde Park choir. All the music was greatly enjoyed. Brief remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Babcock of the Hyde Park church.

Ice cream and cake were served by the Quincy church at the close.

BULLET PROOF.

Not an Easy Thing to Shoot Ones Self After All.

Nahum A. Thayer, aged 40 years, attempted suicide, by shooting, Thursday afternoon at his home on West street. Thayer is a blacksmith and resided with his family in the upper part of his father's house. He has been out of work for some weeks and his inability to secure work brought on a temporary attack of melancholia.

Thursday afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock his wife went down stairs and while left alone he secured a revolver and placing the muzzle near the centre of his forehead fired. The bullet flattened against the skull and slipped round under the skin to near the left temple.

The shock only dazed him for a few moments, when realizing what he had done he walked to the stairs and called his wife and informed her what he had done. Dr. Ash was summoned and removed the bullet and apparently Thayer is no worse for the shooting.

NOT LIABLE.

Selectmen Clark Not Amenable to Fine for Violating Law.

The continued case against Ansel O. Clark, chairman of the Board of Selectmen of Braintree, who was summoned into court last week upon complaint of Edward B. Putnam of the State police for violation of the labor law, by requiring of Joseph L. Folsom and Sydney A. Tilden at the Braintree Electric Light plant more than nine hours for a day's work, come up by continuance in the District Court this morning.

Judge Humphrey ordered the complaint dismissed on the ground that he could not see that there was any penalty imposed on the town. The law provides that no one shall be employed more than nine hours for a day's work but provides no penalty, but the parties had a right to recover for work over nine hours. He could see no foundation for complaint against Clark, as agent of the town under this section of the statutes.

Not "Courting."

Mayor Adams was summoned to appear yesterday in the municipal court of Boston as a witness in the case of W. J. Hartrey, who, with W. J. Tierney and Owen J. Tierney, is accused of obtaining $2000 from Boston businss men by false pretences, by representing that they were issuing an official publication of the A. O. H. The Mayor disregarded the summons, however, as he was best man at the grand Anderson-Perkins wedding. Fortunately the defence asked for a continuance. When the work of Hartrey reached the ears of the A. O. H. an investigation was begun. The arrests followed. Hartrey is accused of obtaining $15 from Mr. Adams, who is a lawyer, for an advertisement.

Torpedo Boat Porter Makes a Great Run Around Long Island.

About Three Hundred Miles In Thirteen Hours.

Weather Conditions Were Unfavorable and She Was Not Crowded.

New York, June 11.—The United States torpedo boat Porter on Sunday made the marvelous record of a mile in less than two minutes, and 42 miles in one hour and 50 minutes, with scarcely an effort. Yesterday she made the circuit of Long Island in faster time than it has ever been made before, and successfully passed the most severe test that has ever been given a boat of her class.

Ample preparations had been made for the trial, but the weather conditions were by no means of the best.

The vessel was put under all conditions of boiler power, and run at various speeds, but was not let out at any time, the highest speed for any one hour being about 27 knots.

There was quite a breeze blowing as the little flyer passed through the sound, but the water was calm, and fast time was made up to Montauk point. Then a strong easterly swell, with a sharp sea from a fresh northwester then blowing, was encountered, and the run from the point to Sandy Hook was a stiff one. The Porter cut through the whitecaps like a knife, and, despite her high speed, scarcely any water was taken on deck.

The inspecting board was landed 12 hours and 50 minutes from the time they started, having made the circuit of the island, a distance of nearly 300 miles, in time never approximated before. No mishaps occurred, except the breaking of a small feed pipe, necessitating the use of salt water for a time in one boiler.

NEW HAMPSHIRE BAPTISTS.

Annual Conference Brought to Successful Close---The New Officers.

Dover, N. H., June 11.—The New Hampshire yearly meeting of Free Baptists closed in this city yesterday with 100 delegates present. It has been one of the most successful conferences held recently in point of numbers and enthusiasm. The officers for the yearly meeting elected for 1897 and 1898 are as follows: President, Rev. W. H. Getchell of Lakeport; first vice president, Rev. J. E. Merrill, Littleton; second vice presidents, Rev. R. E. Gilkey, Dover; Fred S. Heath of Concord; treasurer, Dr. E. L. Carr of Pittsfield; auditor, Rev. J. W. Scribner of Epsom; additional directors, Hon. H. J. Cole of Lakeport, Miss E. G. Hurd of Manchester, Rev. C. L. Perkins of Alton, C. M. Dorr of Somersworth, Deacon C. O. Page of Franklin Falls, Rev. B. F. Jefferson of Whitefield.

Delegates to other bodies were elected as follows: Vermont yearly meeting, Rev. J. C. Osgood of East Rochester; Maine association, Rev. W. H. Hetchell, Lakeport; Rhode Island association, Rev. C. L. Pinkham of Alton; Baptist state convention, Rev. W. W. Harris, Somersworth; Methodist Episcopal conference, Rev. J. W. Scribner of Epsom; Congregational association, Rev. J. S. Harrington of Farmington.

The Woman's Missionary society has elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. E. H. Hall of Gonic; vice president at large, Mrs. A. E. Merrick, Somersworth; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Julia C. Davis, Newmarket; recording secretary, Miss Ella C. Hurd, Manchester; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Scribner, Epsom. Two of the principal votes taken were those to assist the New Hampton Institute in its present embarrassment, and over $100 has already been raised to amend the constitution in regard to officers.

Sudden Death In Camp.

Farmingham, Mass., June 11.—The camp of the Second brigade, M. V. M., was somewhat startled last night. Clarence O. Bolster, a member of Gardner company F, Second regiment, was found dead in his tent last evening. The cause of the death is not known. Medical Examiner Adams viewed the body and ordered its removal to the brigade hospital. An autopsy will be held. Deceased was 22 years of age, unmarried, and had served nearly three years in the militia. He was an express messenger for the National Express company, living in Greenfield, where his parents reside. Bolster only arrived in camp yesterday morning, and was then apparently in good health.

Bryan at Rutland.

Rutland, Vt., June 11.—William J. Bryan reached this city from Burlington last evening. At the various stations along the line he was greeted by large crowds. At Midhlebury 1000 people were at the station when his train drew in. He made a short speech to them. About an hour after he passed Proctor the floods washed away the tracks and no trains have run since. There were over 1000 people and a brass band to greet Bryan here. He addressed 2000 people at the fair grounds, and gave a public reception last evening in the city hall, which was packed to the doors. Later he was entertained in the club rooms of the Elks and Knights of Pythias.

Of Interest to Cyclers.

Boston, June 11.—The assertion is made by an authority in cycling circles that within a short time the League of American Wheelmen will turn over to the recently organized National Cycle Track association the full control of the cycle racing sport. Should this be done the reasons are said to be that the league has found that it cannot justly govern the sport without capable and salaried officials, appointed or elected especially for that purpose.

Arthur Sewall En Route Home.

Washington, June 11.—Hon. Arthur Sewall, late Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, arrived here yesterday en route to his home in Maine. Mr. Sewall recently has spent some time in investigating the respective claims of the Nicaragua and Panama canals. Yesterday he was in conference with Democratic senators, and expressed his opinion as to which route was the more feasible.

BY DAY LABOR.

Between 300 and 400 Feet of Sewer Pipe Laid.

Bids Open for Carting and Contracts Awarded.

Awards Also Made for Supplying the Cement.

At the meeting of the Sewer Commissioners Thursday night, bids were opened for carting brick and cement from the railroad to the trenches. The several bids received were as follows:

Hugh Gilmartin,—brick, 63 cents per thousand; American Cement, 9 cents per barrel, Portland Cement, 11 cents per barrel.

John Fallon & Sons,—brick, 47 cents per thousand; cement, 9 cents per barrel.

E. J. Sandberg,—brick, 75 cents per thousand; Portland Cement, 8 cents per barrel, American Cement, 6 cents per barrel.

W. F. Loud,—brick, 50 cents per thousand; cement, 5 cents per barrel.

They awarded the contract for carting brick to John Fallon & Son, and for carting cement to W. F. Loud.

The contract for cement was awarded to Waldo Bros., of Boston, whose bids was: American, 89 cents per barrel; Portland, $2 03, $2 14 and $2.27.

It is perhaps not generally known that active work has begun laying the force main and up to the present time between 300 and 400 feet have been laid.

This work was not commenced at the pumping station but at the corner of Hancock and Beach streets, and the route from this point is as follows:—Beach street, Rawson road, Faxon road, Squantum street to Squantum.

It is also perhaps not generally known that this work is being done by day labor by citizens of Quincy. At present some forty men are employed under the foremanship of Michael Shea.

Messrs. Craib the contractors for the first section of the brick sewer expect to commence work next week.

Supper at Norfolk Downs.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather on Wednesday evening, the attendance at the regular monthly supper and entertainment given by the Ladies' Aid Society at the chapel, Norfolk Downs, was large, there being ninety-six present. The ladies served a strawberry supper, followed by an entertainment, in which the following took part: Piano solo by Miss Lena Cleaves; vocal duet by Miss Julia Page and Mr. C. W. Page; reading by Mr. Thomas Mae of Boston; vocal duet by Miss Violet and Master Frank McConnell, accompanied by banjo and piano; reading by Mrs. Mary E. Knowles of Somerville; address by the Rev. Mr. Knight, the pastor. At 9.15 ice cream and cake were served, the tables being liberally patronized.

Keith's Theatre.

It is only necessary to give the names of the leading artists at Keith's for the week of June 14 to insure an enjoyable entertainment for those who attend the "Model Playhouse." The feature par excellence will be the debut in Boston of Prof. Leonidas and his wonderful troupe of performing cats and dogs, said to be the most extraordinary animal actors ever seen in this country. These animals have been drawing crowded houses to a New York theatre for months past. Then there is the Nichols sisters, the two bright girls who black their beautiful faces, and dance and sing like genuine Southern colored girls; Arnim and Wagner, the famous operatic vocalists; W. H. Barber, tramo bicyclist; Charles Colby, clever ventriloquist, and Alberta Way the marvelous "doll" dancer, and many others. The dramatic offering will be "Captain Huntington," in which John Sullivan, (Rose Coughlan's husband) plays the leading part. In the biograph there will be the usual number of changes, including a picture of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston as they paraded by Keith's theatre on Monday last.

THURSDAY'S STORM.

The past week's spell of easterly weather culminated on Thursday in a good stiff north-east gale, with plenty of drizzle and some rain. The tide, which at night happened to be a ten-foot one, was unusually high, owing to the prevailing wind helping to pile the water up. Adams' meadow, back of the poor farm, was completely flooded, making one vast lake of Town river from Point Holes to Sea street. On the Quincy bay side the water was hubbly. Beyond Mosquito bridge the spray dashed over the electric car tracks. The few boats moored off Post island had a hard time riding out the gale. At dusk they were apparently holding their own and with the help of the ebb tide probably rode out the storm in safety.

At Houghs Neck there was very little damage, the wind being too far to the north to do any serious injury to the yachting. The Quincy Yacht Club, which is always the heaviest sufferer by these gales, escaped with but little damage. The bridge which connects the two floats went overboard, but as it was secured by a line it did not go adrift. The drop which runs from the wharf to the small float slipped off the platform upon which it runs. Neither of the floats parted any of the chains which hold them. The new chains which were put in this spring holding them fast to the mooring stones.

The large fleet of yachts moored off the club house were riding out the gale in safety as darkness set in. There was but slight danger that any of them would go adrift.

Next week there will be extra high tides at night. On Thursday night the tide will be an eleven foot, five inch one, and if a strong easterly wind should be blowing it will be much higher than that.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT

General Outlook Not the Best Because of Continued Rains.

Less Rain and More Sunshine Is Needed.

Temperature Has Been Much Too Cool For Successful Growth.

Boston, June 8.—It has been a dull and gloomy week in northern New England, with rain on every day but one or two. This fact, coupled with a continuance of unseasonably cool weather, has caused the farmers to fall still more behind in work, so that the general outlook at this time is none of the best. Heavy thunder showers visited southern New Hampshire and Vermont, and northeastern Massachusetts, on Friday afternoon, doing damage in some instances. The rainfall was very heavy. At Brookline, N. H., 1.06 inches fell in less than 30 minutes.

In southern New England the week was marked by extreme cloudiness, but in southeastern Massachusetts the rainfall was light. In other parts of the south sufficient rain fell on three days for all needs, so that now the demand is for less rain and more sunshine. The temperature continues cool for successful growth.

Maine.

Reports indicate little, if any, improvement in the general situation. Only two days last week suitable for work. In Kennebec county very little planting has been done; in Cumberland county planting is about half done. In Aroostook county the land is in trifle better shape than last week, and considerable seed has been put in. Grass is being injured on wet lands by excessive rain. Some stock not yet turned out to pasture. It is not to be wondered at that farmers are becoming discouraged.

New Hampshire.

The cool and wet weather has not been beneficial to crops, and with only one or two pleasant days during the week, farm work has not progressed to any extent. Corn planting is much delayed. Some farmers will sow Hungarian grass seed instead of planting corn. Corn that is up makes feeble growth, and much has rotted in the hill. Grass is the only favorable crop thus far, although potatoes are looking fairly well. The ground is still wet, work upon it being impossible in many localities.

Vermont.

The same complaint is heard from this state—too cool and rainy for much improvement in crops, except grass, which is doing finely. Acres of fodder corn remain unplanted and a great deal of barley is yet to be sown. Corn is being replanted to some extent. Things look dismal for farming, is the remark of one correspondent. Tent caterpillars are numerous.

Massachusetts.

A week of poor growing weather has just passed. The great need is sunshine, all crops are awaiting this. Potatoes, grass and hardy crops are in healthy condition, but corn makes little headway. A few early strawberries have been picked, although they show signs of injury by late frosts. There will undoubtedly be a heavy grass crop. Fruits are in general looking well. Apples promise a fair yield. Many small vegetable seeds are rotting. Cut worms and squash bugs are troublesome; fireworms very numerous and destructive on the cranberry bogs. There was a narrow escape from frost in low places on the 2nd.

Rhode Island.

All crops growing nicely, and some hoeing of corn and potatoes has been done. Abundant rains during the past week have proved beneficial, rather than otherwise. Crops would, however, make better progress with more sunshine. Corn, especially, requires sun. It is reported that potatoes are looking their finest. In some sections early planted varieties have budded and almost ready to bloom. Early strawberries are going to market.

Connecticut.

With less rain during the past week growing conditions have improved somewhat. Planted and sown crops have made more growth, although yet behind the average, and not of a good healthy color. Farmers are cultivating potatoes and hoeing corn. The latter is coming up slowly. Clover must soon be cut or loss will occur. Prospects for small fruits, grapes and berries are good. Oats look well. Garden truck not up to usual condition, cut worms doing much damage. There is much trouble from lack of tobacco plants, the cold and wet weather has caused them to turn yellow and die, and may result in decreased acreage.

J. W. Smith, Section Director, Boston.

General Cox Declines.

Cincinnati, June 10.—A Commercial Tribune reporter saw General Jacob D. Cox last night and asked him: "Are you going to accept the offer of the appointment as minister from the United States to Spain?" Mr. Cox answered promptly: "I am not." He then stated that he had received no official communication of this offer, but had been semi-officially informed that the offer would be made if he desired the place. Through this intermediary he thanked President McKinley for the compliment and gave his reasons for declining. His principal reasons are that he has for several years been engaged in literary work that will take some years to complete, and he cannot afford to abandon it. Furthermore the position offered imposes great responsibilities and labor at this time. But this is a minor reason.

Angell's Departure Deferred.

Washington, June 10.—Dr. Angell will be obliged to cancel his engagement to sail for Europe tomorrow. Up to this time the Turkish government has not returned an opinion as to whether the explanations offered as to the record of the minister are satisfactory to it, and it is not deemed wise to make an issue by allowing Dr. Angell to proceed to his post at Constantinople until it is known positively that he will be persona grata. The delay of the Turkish government in passing upon Dr. Angell's acceptibility is causing some discomfort at the state department, but the officials have not yet changed their belief that in the end the minister will be received.

BODIES TAKEN HOME.

Three Victims of Exeter Railroad Wreck Al Lived In Portland.

Portland, Me., June 11.—The three trainmen who lost their lives in the Boston and Maine disaster near Exeter, N. H., yesterday morning, had homes in Portland. The bodies arrived in the city last evening on a special train, and were taken charge of by sorrowing relatives.

Charles A. Rankin, the engineer, was one of the best known employes on the road at this station. He had been a freight engineer for many years, and had never before had an accident. He lived on St. John street, and leaves a widow, two sons and four daughters.

Asaph H. Young, brakeman, lived with his mother at 21 Quincy street, being an only son. He was about 40 years of age, and had been a brakeman on the road for several years. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and other fraternal societies, and had a large circle of friends. The poor mother is prostrated with grief.

Elmer H. Chandler lived on Clark street. He was recently married, and aged 33. He had been employed on the Maine Central and Boston and Maine for some 15 years.

Daniel King, the fireman, who was taken to the hospital at Portsmouth badly scalded, will recover.

ON ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Despite Their Millions, Travel Quietly---Honeymoon Plans.

Concord, N. H., June 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, whose wedding in Boston yesterday was attended with the splendor and magnificence of royalty, arrived in this city from Boston last evening.

They were without companions and traveled in an ordinary passenger car attached to the accommodation train, which stops at every crossing between this city and Boston. Their fellow passengers were not aware of their identity.

The happy pair took tea here with Mrs. Anderson's grandmother, widow of the late Judge Hamilton Perkins, and her daughter, Miss Susan Perkins. They were driven 12 miles over the rough and muddy roads to Webster, where, on the shore of the lake, is located the extensive country estate of Commodore Perkins. That gentleman and Mrs. Perkins will join Mr. and Mrs. Anderson there tonight. On Tuesday evening the country folk will be treated to a celebration of the wedding in old English style, with fireworks, illuminations, dancing, refreshments, etc., to which all the country people with whom Mrs. Anderson has always been a great favorite will be invited. The last of next week the young couple will leave for Japan, where many months of their honeymoon will be spent.

WEAK AND WEARY WOMEN AND MEN

P. P. P. restores shattered nerves, gives strength and tone to the entire system, revives the worn out, nervous and debilitated You cannot but be nervous if your blood is impure.

P. P. P. gives the proper nourishment to the blood, and cures nervous prostration, debility and nervous headache.

P. P. P. cures that tired, languid, "all gone" feeling, cures dyspepsia, indigestion, and that awful distress of the stomach.

P. P. P. cures that weak, nervous condition, that dreadful jumping of the heart, followed by dizziness and sinking spells. Make your blood pure by taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and you will be well and happy Women are benefited, their organization regulated, and their weakness and lassitude cured by P. P. P should take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, without delay. While not actually sick, you feel weak and tired, ready to get sick, and what you need is strength to drive out of your system that which is the cause of Spring Fever. P. P. P. is needed at once.

Mr Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th street, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for her complete restoration to health.

THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

Debate In the Senate Begins Somewhat Abruptly.

Jones and Vest Argue For the Opposition.

Agricultural Export Bounty Rejected by a Decisive Vote.

Washington, June 11.—The senate yesterday reached the sugar schedule in the tariff bill, and immediately the Democratic members of the finance committee attacked the measure vigorously, but only a few senators interested themselves in the debate, it being assured that the schedule, as agreed upon in the caucus of Republican senators, will be adopted without change.

Senators and spectators soon lapsed into a state of indifference as the speeches dealt with a labyrinth of technical details of vital interest to the sugar refiner and expert, but not to the general public.

Mr. Jones of Arkansas opened the debate, to some extent answering Mr. Aldrich's statement on the sugar schedule. It was argumentative and lacking in any severe denunciatory features. The senator held that the rates proposed gave the refiners an excessive differential, and pointed out how they had thrived on the one-eighth differential of the present law. Mr. Vest severely criticised the sugar trust, and argued that the rates were a further tribute to its vast resources. Mr. Caffery of Louisiana also opposed the schedule as a whole.

No final action was taken on any feature of the schedule further than the withdrawal of the original senate committee amendments. This leaves the house provisions of the bill with an amendment increasing the house differential from 875-1000 to 95-100 cents per pound. The provisions relating to the Hawaiian islands went over by mutual consent.

Early in the day, Mr. Tillman of South Carolina made a lively speech in favor of the amendment giving an export duty on agricultural products. He took occasion to criticise his Democratic associates who were giving a strict and liberal construction to the Democratic doctrine of a tax for revenue only. The bounty amendment was defeated—10 to 59.

Duty on Tea.

Washington, June 11.—The duty on tea has not yet been abandoned definitely by the senate committee on finance. The subject has been talked over by the Republican senators, and many of them expressed opposition to the duty, because of its conflict with the protective policy of the Republican party. The necessity for revenue may lead to its retention, but the rate may be reduced from 10 cents per pound to 5 or 6 cents. The impression that the duty had been finally abandoned has been permitted by the Republican senators to become general, because of their desire to restrict importations. They have been advised that there is a considerable quantity of tea in China and Japan which is ready to be shipped, if it is certain that the duty is to be imposed. Prices have been advanced to such an extent, in consequence of the demand stimulated by the proposed duty, that there will not be great profit in making large importations unless the duty is to actually go into effect.

Nominated by Governor Wolcott.

Boston, June 11.—At the meeting of the executive council yesterday afternoon, the governor nominated Bradford D. Davol of Fall River, to be a member of the board of police of that city, vice Thomas J. Borden, who declined a reappointment; Dr. Frank G. Wheatley of Abington, to be a trustee of the Massachusetts school for the feeble minded (reappointment); William T. Davis of Plymouth, S Hopkins Emery of Taunton and Floyd Vernon Briggs of Hanover, to be members of the Old Colony commission to mark historical sites; David F. Slade of Fall River, to be a member of the special commission to supervise the building of a jail and house of correction at Fall River, vice J. P. Prentiss of Fall River, who declined appointment.

To Rescue Boston Harbor.

Washington, June 11.—Secretary Long intends to do all in his power as secretary of the navy to rescue the Boston navy yard from the second rate position it has occupied for many years and to put the yard in shape to do at least as much work as its facilities will permit. He has written a letter to L. J. Van Ham, secretary of the Pattern Makers' association of Roxbury, Mass., in answer to an inquiry setting out briefly his views upon this matter, as above indicated.

Ordination of Booth Approved.

New York, June 11.—In the general council of the Reformed Episcopal church the question of approving the action of Bishop Fallows of Chicago in ordaining Ballington Booth to the ministry was taken up. After some discussion the bishop's action was indorsed, with but one dissenting vote. The council adopted a resolution in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

Veteran Actor Dead.

Philadelphia, June 11.—James Hughes Taylor, a veteran tragedian of wide reputation, is dead, aged 73 years. He first made his appearance at Portland, Me., in 1850, as Lucius, in "Virginius." He had played in Edwin Booth's company at different times and for many years was Mme. Janauschek's leading man.

President at Nashville.

Nashville, June 11.—President McKinley and party arrived here this morning. The trip from Washington was one grand ovation to the chief executive. Enthusiastic crowds greeted him at every station, and the president was obliged to modify his resolution not to make any speeches during the journey.

Sullivan Talks Fight.

Buffalo, June 11.—John L. Sullivan and Champion Fitzsimmons had a friendly chat here last night. John L. insisted on a match with the champion, and the latter took the matter under consideration.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

Believed That Turkey Is Prepared to Evacuate Thessaly.

London, June 11.—The News' correspondent at Constantinople, under date of Wednesday, says: The session of the peace conference, called for today, has been again postponed. It is believed that Turkey is prepared to evacuate Thessaly, except the large tract of the river Peneus, which includes Tyrnavos, Milouna Pass and other important points.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Athens says: Extraordinary rumors are current as to the attitude of Germany. It is alleged that the German government seeks to overthrow the Greek dynasty and to establish a rigorous control of Greek finances. In order to attain this double object, Germany wants a continuance of the war, and to have the terms of peace finally dictated in Athens itself.

These statements seem scarcely worthy of credence, but it is probable that Germany will continue to press for financial control.

TUBERCULIN HARMLESS.

Portland, Me., June 11.—The Portland board of health has received this communication from D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture, on the tuberculin test:

In reply to your letter of the 1st inst., addressed to the secretary of agriculture, I would say that the experiments made by Dr. De Schweinitz, of this bureau, as well as by others in this country and abroad, shows that cows are not injured in the slightest degree by the injection of tuberculin, so long as the material has been carefully and properly made. Experiments with reference to the quantity of milk given by animals before and after the injection show that the variation in amount is practically not worthy of consideration, unless the animal gives a reaction for tuberculosis. So far as the effect of tuberculin on healthy animals is concerned there is not the slightest ground for fearing any bad results, if the tuberculin used is reliable.

Colby Professor Resigns.

Waterville, Me., June 11.—William A. Rogers, professor of physics at Colby university, has resigned. The resignation has been accepted. Professor Rogers was formerly assistant professor of astronomy at Harvard college. Since coming to Colby he has acquired wide fame through the invention of several scientific machines, and by his X-ray experiments.

Descendant of Chief Uncas.

Norwich, Conn., June 11.—Moses Fielding, a famous Indian character and a member of the tribe of Mohegan Indians, died yesterday at Mohegan village, between here and New London. He was 84 years of age and a direct descendant of Chief Uncas. In his day he was the greatest hunter in the state. Only three members of this family now survive.

The Wabash Railroad continues to cater to the travelling public in the most up-to-date way with through sleeping cars from Boston to Chicago and St. Louis, vestibuled trains, parlor and dinging cars, and rates as low as any for such service. Its freight service shows the same desire to serve the public. Daily merchandise cars are run from Boston to St. Louis and to Kansas City and Denver, making on the the Wabash rails an average running time, including stops, of 21 miles per hour. Shippers, to obtain this service, should see that their shipping receipts are marked "via Wabash Railroad." 22-tf

Pitching Machine a Success.

Princeton, N. J., June 11.—Professor Hilton's patent baseball pitching gun was a decided success yesterday. Eight strike outs, one base on balls, one wild pitch and four safe hits is the record in three innings in the first fair test of the machine's practicability in an actual game. Nines representing the Ivy club and Tiger Inn, two of Princeton's social clubs, played a match game, using the gun to pitch for both teams, and the contest attracted a large crowd, including Mrs. Cleveland and many Princeton professors. The gun is discharged by the batsman, who, when ready for the ball to be delivered, steps upon an electrical intercepting plate, connected by wires with the trigger of the cannon. The speed with which the ball is thrown is regulated by compressed air, and prong-like projectors from the cannon's mouth impart a rotary motion to the sphere when discharged, producing a curve in any direction, according as the projecting prongs are changed. There is but one serious defect in the operation of the machine that will prevent its use in games, and that is the long time required for reloading.

Insolent Turks.

London, June 11.—One of the Irish newspapers publishes a letter from Mr. Gladstone in which he refers to the "insolence and audacity of the sultan's imperious request to be permitted to send envoys to the jubilee." Mr. Gladstone expresses the hope that prudence and decency will induce the government to stifle the request, adding: "The envoys of the great assassin would meet with a disagreeable reception in England."

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Many Sunday Services to be Devoted to Them.

The Programme Arranged at the First Church.

Sunday School of Bethany Church to Entertain.

Seldom are the churches so united on "Children's Day" as this year, for most of the Quincy churches will hold special services tomorrow, and in others the pastors will preach to the young folk.

At the First Church.

Flower Sunday, or Children's Sunday, will be celebrated at the First church tomorrow. The service will take the place of the regular morning service, beginning at 10.30 o'clock. An interesting programme has been arranged and there are a number of children to be christened.

The complete programme is appended:

Organ voluntary.
Anthem, choir.
Service of Christening.
Baptismal Hymn, "Heavenly Shepherd."
Hymn, "Come forth and bring your garlands" by school.
Responsive Anniversary Service.
Prayer.
Hymn, "Spring and Summer."
Scripture Reading.
Anthen by choir.
Address, Rev. E. C. Butler.
Hymn, "Ask the Children."
Superintendent's reports.
Closing Hymn, selected.
Benediction.

Bethany Church.

Children's Sunday will be observed at 10.30 at the Bethany church, the exercises taking the place of the regular morning service. The infant department will be seated on the platform. The exercises will consist of concert exercises by the Bible school, declamations and special music. There will also be a christening of infants.

Other Churches.

At the Quincy Point church "Hearts of Gold" a children's day exercise will be given by the Sabbath School at 11 A. M. Special efforts have been put forth and a fine service has been prepared.

Sunday evening at the Universalist church there will be special music and Rev. L. O. Williams will speak on "Jesus and the Children."

The second Sunday in June is the day set apart throughout the Presbyterian church for special services by the children. Children's day will be appropriately observed Sunday at 10 30 A. M. in the First Presbyterian church, Water street. All are cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Fred T. Knight, the new pastor at Norfolk Downs, will have a sermon to the children at 10.45.

Children's Flower Sunday will also be observed at the Unitarian church at Wollaston at 10.45. Children will be christened.

Children's Sunday will be observed at the Wollaston Congregational church at Sunday morning's service. Mr. Charles E. Finch, Jr., the master of the Wollaston school will give an interesting illustrated talk on "God's letter to us." Mr. Finch has given these illustrated talks before Connecticut audiences where they have been highly commended by the press of that state.

At the M. E. church at Atlantic there will be a Children's Day concert at 7 P. M.

The East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union met in the Water street Presbyterian church, Monday evening. After a social hour the local society serving refreshments a business meeting was held, at which the principal matter was the receiving of the Bethany society into membership. Rev. W. H. Rogers of the East Milton Baptist church gave a witty and pungent address on "Keeping the Heart." The union did not feel strong enough financially to send a delegate to the San Francisco convention, but appointed Rev. Robert Westly Peach, and voted that the proceeds of a lecture to be given by him on his return, go towards his expenses.

A DEPUTY CULPRIT

By FRANCIS LYNDE.

"Then I didn't have sense enough to tell her the straight of hit, an after that the fence seem' sort of broke down, and—and they's been other things come out thoo that hole—money mostly."

"How much?" asked the inspector.

"'Bout $65, countin hit all, I reckon. You uns'll find hit under the chimley stone in the room up at Ma'am Wilkeson's, whar I been sleepin."

"I see. You were afraid to spend it, I suppose."

Lafe hung his head. "I nev' thort much about bein afraid. I was savin hit ag'inst the time when Willie'd let on like she was ready."

"Oh!" Inspector Jaffray went into a brown study, coming out of it presently to say to Cantrell: "You can go now, Bud, if you want to. I can take care of him all right. I only wanted you to hear what he had to say for himself."

Cantrell went back to the store, where he found little Joe Anderson trying to climb into his brother's saddle. The boy had been crying, and his face was streaked with dirt and tears.

"Mighty tough, ain't it, Joey?" said Cantrell, lifting the boy to the horse's back. "What all was you 'lowin to do with the hawss?"

"I thess gwine take him home," said the small one, gathering up the reins and wriggling his bare feet into the stirrup leathers. But Cantrell noticed that instead of turning off up the lane to Ma'am Wilkeson's the child kept the road toward the Gap, urging the horse into a gallop as soon as he was over the rocky hillside beyond Layne's.

Inspector Jaffray's guard duties during the remainder of the afternoon were of a kind merely nominal. Layne was away, and the inspector and his prisoner had the front porch to themselves. Jaffray said little, but he encouraged Anderson to talk, tilting his chair against the side of the house and shrouding himself in clouds of smoke while Lafe told of his life on Long mountain with his old father; of his courting of Willie Godfrey; of the young girl's loyalty, and of her father's contempt for the son of a mountaineer. "The valley folks don't marry with we uns, n'r we uns with them, though I reckon they ain't no law 'gainst hit," he said in explanation, and Jaffray agreed with him.

When Layne came home, a few words explained the situation, and the farmer's hospitality was broad enough to cover not only his friend's friend, but in this case his friend's prisoner. The inspector unmanacled Lafe when they went in to supper, but he put the handcuffs on again afterward, and when the early bedtime of the family came he led the young mountaineer into the porch bedroom and took additional precaution of snapping another set of irons on his ankles.

"Not very pleasant for you, my boy," he said, "but I can't help it. I mustn't give you a chance to slip through my fingers."

After which the inspector went back to his chair on the porch, where he smoked many cigars and communed with himself for want of a better listener. Once his reflections slipped into speech: "It all goes back to the same thing in the end. We've got no manner of right to take a man who has never been taught the lesson of responsibility and put him in a place where he has to rub up against temptation every day. That's the long and short of it. Just the same I wish I might have given this youngster a shock without catching him. That might have been the making of him, but this is going to ruin him world without end."

At 10 o'clock the inspector had serious thoughts of turning in, but before the inclination gathered force enough to overcome the inertia of the tilted chair there came a clattering of a horse's hoofs on the loose shingle of the Gap road. The rider dismounted at

Lafe hung his head.

Layne's gate, and the inspector lighted a fresh cigar when he saw the figure of a woman coming up the path toward the house.

"This is the girl in the case of course," he muttered. "Now, how the devil did she find out?"

In another moment she stood before him, and though the cigar was burning well enough he made it the excuse to strike another match, in the brief flare of which he got a glimpse of a pair of flashing eyes set in a face whereon grief and resolution fought for the mastery.

"You're Mr. Jaffray, ain't you?" she began.

"Yes, and you are Willie Godfrey. Sit down, Miss Godfrey."

She dropped into a chair as if thankful for the permission. "I reckon you know what I've come for. I heard you all had taken Lafe Anderson for robbin the mail, and"—

"Pardon me, Miss Godfrey," interrupted the inspector. "How did you find that out?"

"Bad news don't wait for an ox team. I heard about it, and I've come 23 miles on that hawss to keep you all from carryin an innocent man to jail. Lafe nev' did take anything that didn't belong to him, Mr. Jaffray."

The inspector smoked in silence for a full minute. "Supposing I were to tell you that he has confessed?"

"It don't make any difference. He ain't the thief."

"Then why should he say he was?"

"Cayn't you see? He just told you a heap of lies to cover up the real one."

"And who is the real one, Miss Godfrey?"

"I am."

It was well for the girl's peace of mind that she could not see the ineffaceable smile that stole over the face of the inspector at this, but there was no hint of levity in his voice when he said, "Tell me all about it, Miss Willie."

She held out her hand and dropped a ring into his palm. "That's John Corny's," she said. "I took it out of the mail myself. And I've taken other things—letters with money in them."

"What did you do with the money?"

"I—I gave it to Lafe to keep for me."

"And what did he do with it?"

"I don't know. I nev' asked him."

"Did he know where you got it?"

The questions followed each other too rapidly, and the girl caught her breath and fought for consistency. Being naturally truthful, she hedged in the wrong place. "He—he sort of suspected it, I reckon."

"Being an honest fellow himself, I wonder he didn't try to stop you."

"You wouldn't say that if you knew. You see, Lafe and me—that is—well, he thinks a mighty sight of me, Mr. Jaffray."

"That's so. I'd lost sight of that for the moment," said the inspector gravely. Then he sprung an innocent little trap that had been gradually taking shape in his mind.

"Now, what clears up some things I couldn't quite understand. I wonder what Lafe did with the money."

The girl was too new to the business of equivocation and she promptly betrayed herself. "He put it under the hearthstone at Ma'am Wilkeson's"—she began, and then she saw the trap.

"Ah, I see!" said the inspector. "Of course this is merely supposition on your part, since he never spoke to you about hiding the money." He smiled under cover of the darkness. It was transparently clear now, all save one particular detail. How did it happen that the girl knew Anderson's confession word for word?

Jaffray was puzzled for a moment, and then there flashed across the field of recollection the rustling in the laurel bush and the picture of a barelegged boy galloping northward on Anderson's horse. Having thus solved the puzzle, he asked quietly, "What is it you want me to do, Miss Godfrey?"

"It seems to me like there ain't but one thing to do. Lafe hain't done anything and—and I have. Cayn't you all just turn him loose and take me instead?"

The inspector fought a good fight for self control and lost it. "By God, young woman, he isn't worth it!" he burst out. But she put her hand on his arm and straightway forgot her part.

"Oh, yes, indeed he is, Mr. Jaffray! You don't know Lafe, and you nev' can know how much I—I love him. Cayn't you take me?"

"No," said the inspector roughly, driven to the last resort of the sorely tempted. "You go back home, and I'll see what can be done toward getting him off easy— No, don't say anything more. You don't know what you ask."

Before he could stretch out his hand to prevent her she went on her knees beside his chair.

"I do know," she said piteously, "and it s such a little, little thing—just to let me go in his place. What do you care as long as you got somebody to own up to everything you ask?"

"Get up, Miss Godfrey," he said sternly. "I repeat, you don't know what you ask. The law is not to be set aside or tampered with simply because its workings happen to hurt some of us."

"Oh, no, it isn't that," she went on, unmindful of his command. "I don't mind the hurt only for Lafe's sake. It'll kill him, Mr. Jaffray. It'll spoil his whole life, and I reckon the law don't mean to be that hard. Oh, please take me and let him go, won't you?"

"No, I tell you, once for all. Now get up and go home before I get angry and say things I'll be sorry for."

She felt herself refused and dismissed, and she rose, trembling. "Cayn't I see Lafe—just for a minute?" she pleaded.

"No; I can't allow even that."

She went down the steps slowly and with evident reluctance, turning on the last one to ask softly, "Where is he now, Mr. Jaffray?"

"He's asleep in that room. Now go, and don't ask any more questions."

She paused a moment and then went swiftly to the gate, and the inspector sat listening until the click of horseshoes on stone stopped suddenly. Then he sprang to his feet and began to talk to his beard.

"That's what I might have expected. She cantered the horse up the hill to make me think she's gone home, and now she is coming back afoot to get a word with the boy. By the Lord Harry, I've a mind to— No; that would never do. And yet"—

He tramped up and down the porch, this sworn officer of the law who was yet but a man, fighting over again the old battle between justice and mercy as many a loyal servant of justice has fought it since the law first set itself over against lawlessness. Then he flung the stump of his cigar far out into the grass and went into the porch bedroom, where he bent over the sleeping man as if to satisfy himself that the fetters were still in place.

Anderson stirred uneasily. "Is that you uns, Mr. Jaffray?" he asked.

"Yes." He took the irons from the boy's ankles. "Now you can stretch your legs a bit. I'm going to take chances on your running away."

Anderson laughed mirthlessly. "I couldn't do much with these here on," he said, holding up his hands.

The inspector felt the handcuffs on the boy's slender wrists. "They're too tight," he said. And he loosened them. "Is that better?"

"A mighty sight better, thank you."

Jaffray threw up the window at the head of the bed and listened. It was a calm night, but there was a sound as of the wind rustling the dry leaves in the little grove at the side of the house. The inspector heard it and turned to take his overcoat from its peg on the wall.

"What the devil did you do it for?" he broke out savagely. "Why on earth couldn't you be content with the girl's love and let other people's property alone?"

The handcuffs rattled, and though Jaffray could see nothing in the thick darkness he knew that the boy was trying to cover his face with his hands.

"'Cause I didn't have no better sense, I reckon." The inspector heard something like a sob, and then the boy went on, "I wish to God you'd thess put me out of my mis'ry, Cap'n Jaffray!"

"How?"

"Any ways; I don't keer how. Thess lemme git outside, and then you can make out like I was a-tryin to git away and turn loose on me with you uns gun."

"And you'd rather die than stand trial?"

"For shore I would—for Willie's sake. Hit wouldn't be nigh as hard on her."

"Lord! Lord!" groaned the inspector behind his teeth. "Did anybody ever hear of two such young fools?" Then to Anderson, "You mean that, do you?"

"'Fore God, I do, Cap'n Jaffray. Thess you try me and see."

"Then as the Lord liveth you shall have your choice," said the inspector solemnly. "Get up."

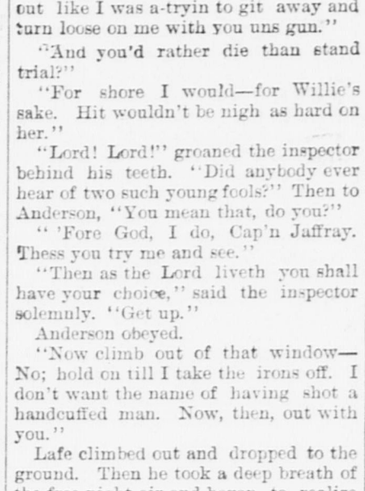

Anderson obeyed.

"Now climb out of that window—No; hold on till I take the irons off. I don't want the name of having shot a handcuffed man. Now, then, out with you."

Lafe climbed out and dropped to the ground. Then he took a deep breath of the free night air and began to realize dimly that it was going to be hard to die in the full flush of youth and health. None the less he turned quickly and faced the inspector, who stood with cocked pistol at the open window. "I'm ready," he said firmly.

Jaffray snorted: "Run, you fool! Do you suppose I'm going to commit a cold blooded murder and shoot you standing?"

Lafe hesitated a moment as if in doubt as to whether he had heard aright. Then he turned and walked slowly away. At the third step the pistol barked thrice, and Layne's dog, chained in the barnyard, set up a sympathetic howl. After that all was still until the farmer came hurrying to the porch bedroom with a light. The inspector was standing at the window, peering out into the darkness, and he put back his hand for silence. Layne heard rapid footfalls as of some one running over the dry leaves in the grove. Then there was a glad little cry and the impatient sniff of a horse, quickly followed by a diminishing clatter of hoofs and silence.

"Run, you fool!"

"Layne, he's gone, and I'd be willing to bet a hen worth $50 that I never so much as winged him," said the inspector coolly.

"How do you reckon he got loose?" asked the farmer excitedly.

Jaffray held up the locked handcuffs. "You can see for yourself. I got here just in time to hurry him a little."

Layne put the lamp down to examine the fetters. "By Jacks, I wouldn't have believed it! But, then, Lafe's hands nev' was no bigger than a woman's. Shall I saddle the hawsses?"

"To chase him tonight? Not much. I'll know where to find him when I want him. Go you back to bed and tell the women there's nobody killed. And say, Layne, when this thing gets itself talked about, just tell the facts as you know them. Good night."

The next morning Layne looked to see the chase organized in due form, but he was disappointed. Inspector Jaffray ate his breakfast leisurely, never once referring to the events of the night, and afterward took the train south. The farmer wondered at this lack of zeal until he went around behind the porch bedroom and saw three bullet scars on the brick walk under the window.

"Well, by Jacks!" was all he said at the time. But later in the day he went down to the Cantrell boys' store and lied to the corps de loisir until Inspector Jaffray's reputation for daring bravery was second only to that of Buck Brannan, the revenue collector.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—The best way to study the Bible.—Ps. xix, 7-14.

The Nineteenth Psalm speaks of the glory of God as revealed in nature (verses 1-6) and also of God's glory as revealed in His written law (verses 7-14). It may have been composed in the early hours of the morning, as the sun was seen "going forth as a bridegroom out of his chamber," declaring the glory of God. Then the psalmist may have turned his thoughts to that better and more precious revelation of God in His word. And what a wonderful description he gives of the power and excellence and preciousness of God's word!

The commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes.

The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever.

The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.

More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold.

Moreover, by them is thy servant warned. In keeping of them there is great reward.

The characteristics of God's word as set forth in these and the succeeding verses, its power, its excellence, its preciousness, its beneficent effects, suggest to us the best ways for studying the Bible.

1. The Bible should be studied daily. It is probable that this psalm was composed in the morning, as the writer looked upon the oriental sun rising in all his splendor. Then he meditates upon God's written law. What better preparation for the duties, the temptations, the trials, of the day before him than the contemplation of God in nature and in His word? What better preparation for the day can we make than to receive an inspiration by reading, study and meditation from the deep, hallowing, soul sustaining word of God?

2. The Bible should be studied in its entirety. The terms "the law," "the testimony," "the statutes," "the judgments," include the entire word of God. In its place and for its purpose all the word should be diligently studied. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

3. The Bible should be studied personally and practically. It restores the soul, it enlightens the eyes, it warms, it pierces the innermost recesses of the soul and lays bare the sinfulness of the human heart and proposes a remedy for it through the grace of God. These are needs of every human being. Each should desire these blessings for himself. They are necessary to the best interests of his soul. The only way to get them out of God's word is by the personal study and personal practical application of God's word.

Bible Readings.—Deut. xvii, 18-20; Joshua i, 8; viii, 30-35; Ps. i, 1, 2; xl, 8; cxix, 97-112; Isa. xxxiv, 16; Mal. iii, 16-18; John v, 39; Acts xvii, 10, 11; I Thess. v, 20-22; II Thess. iii, 1; II Tim. iii, 14-17; Jas. i, 22-25.

A Brave Sermon.

The apostle Peter preached a brave sermon—a very brave sermon—on the day of Pentecost. He did not avoid giving offense. He accused his hearers of participation in a great crime and assured them that there was no hope for them except through repentance and faith in the person they had just sentenced to a shameful death as a great criminal. Ordinarily such a sermon would create a riot, delivered in such circumstances, and the preacher's life would have been in peril. But the Holy Spirit was in Peter and in the truth, and 3,000 souls became members of a despised sect. It was a brave sermon and effectual.—Christian Intelligencer.

The Good Teacher.

A bad driver will spoil a horse in a few weeks, but many persons fail to realize that the destiny of a boy is in the hands of his teacher and that the unskillful schoolmaster is as dangerous in a community as a blundering doctor. The true teacher, therefore, must have an ideal of life. He must be true to it himself, and he must know how to kindle his learners with a pure passion for excellence.—American Friend.

The Giver With the Gift.

Our words are harsher than our deeds, and at this season, when the poor need us so badly, it is well to commingle with the open handedness which will not fall short of previous efforts, the words and looks of kindness that will make the gift yet more acceptable and bring the greater blessing. The Lord loveth a cheerful giver.—Jewish Exponent.

Overpowered and Inactive.

It is only with the pious effect of the will that we can be spiritually attentive to God. As long as the noisy restlessness of the thoughts goes on the gentle and holy desires of the new nature are overpowered and inactive. — J. P. Greeves.

Let Us Gather Up Our Strength.

Instead of being discouraged because what we do is unworthy of God and insignificant compared with what was done by others, let us gather up our strength to reform our errors and reach to higher attainments.—Spurgeon.

They Serve God Best.

They serve God best who do well their simple duties—not some fanciful sacrifice at a distance, but the plain, homely, everyday task that lies before them.—Christian Life.

Too Late.

It is too late to begin the religious tuition of your children after their minds have been preoccupied by worldliness.—American Friend.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that tortur[in]g itching disease of the skin and [blo]od. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

FORMALLY PROROGUED

Great and General Court of Massachusetts Finishes Its Labors.

Governor Sent In Three Vetoes Last Night.

Mill Tax Bill Meets Executive's Disapproval. The Last Day.

Boston, June 12.—The last act of the great and general court of Massachusetts was completed early this morning. But before this had been done Governor Wolcott sent in three vetoes in rapid succession, and when the smoke had cleared away there was found among the dead the mill school tax bill, one of the most important and far-reaching acts of the session. The two other measures were the Green harbor bill and the bill in favor of the Societe St. Jean Batiste of West Boylston.

Some of the last acts signed were the bills to incorporate the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston a corporation sole, the newspaper libel bill, and the bill for the protection of song birds.

The members of the house presented Speaker Bates with a handsome hall clock and the senators presented President Lawrence with a beautiful loving cup. The clerks, chaplains and pages were also remembered.

After the presentation exercises had been concluded the legislature took a recess. The night session was devoted to clearing up the loose ends of legislation, and was protracted until a late hour.

During the evening Governor Wolcott sent in several vetoes. The first was that of the "mill" school tax bill, so-called, and the house, by a vote of 103 to 73, sustained the governor. The governor's chief reason for sustaining the bill was that he deemed it unwise to enact a statute dealing with so important and difficult question of taxation pending the exhaustive consideration which the commission is now giving the matter.

The bill for the removal of the dam and dikes at Green harbor in Marshfield was sent back to the house with a veto because it was unconstitutional in some of its provisions, and because of the expense to the state.

The third veto was that of the bill to reimburse the St. Jean Baptiste society for damages arising from the construction of the Metropolitan water basin in Roxbury.

The two latter vetoes were almost unanimously sustained.

There was little or no business of importance done in the house, a large part of the time being occupied in leave taking by the members. At 12:30 a. m., after the governor had been notified by a committee that the house was in readiness to be prorogued, his excellency returned his congratulations to the general court and stated that the secretary of state had been sent to prorogue it. That official then addressed the house, stating that during the past session the governor had signed 530 acts and 98 resolves, and had sent in six vetoes. There being no further business, the house was then formally prorogued.

The senate at its evening session rejected the bill to pay bounties to military and naval veterans, but did little else in the way of public business. At 12:25, with six senators present, a committee was sent to notify the governor that the senate was ready to be prorogued.

At 12:45 the secretary of state appeared, and, after making the same announcement regarding the business of the session that was made in the house, the senate was formally dissolved, the ceremony being greeted with three cheers.

CRANDEST IN HER HISTORY.

Fall River, Mass., June 12.—Preparations for the reception of the Pan-American visitors to this city next Monday are being rushed to completion, and by tonight all will be in readiness. The committee is trying to make the affair the grandest in the industrial history of Fall River, and every indication is that their efforts will be crowned with success.

The various business houses in all parts of the city are decorating the buildings, and the route over which the visitors will be taken on their tour of the city will be a mass of bunting, prominent among which will be the flags of the South and Central American countries. The French residents of Flint village are erecting a mammoth triumphial arch to express their welcome to the visitors. In the Casino the textile exhibit, while it is expected will best illustrate to the visitors the importance of Fall River as a manufacturing city, is fast nearing completion. The booths which will contain the exhibits are being handsomely decorated, and there will be about 50 exhibitors, representing all kinds of textile manufacturing from plain print cloths to fine ginghams, yarns, fancy curtains and coverlets, etc. The exhibit will also include samples of hats, roping, twines, medicated cotton, machinery, and, in fact, a great variety of products from Fall River factories.

York Heirs In Portland.

Portland, Me., June 12.—Among the York heirs, who are claimants to some of the most valuable real estate in the city of New York, are four in this city, namely: Rollin N. York, Captain A. J. York, C. A. York and Edward H. York. The York heirs are descendants of the Duke of York. When Charles II was king of England he granted to his brother James all the territory where New York city now stands, then occupied by the Dutch, and surrendered to the English, Sept. 3, 1664. Besides the American metropolis there is a valuable estate in England comprised in the claim. If distributed among the claimants, the proportionate parts of the many millions of dollars would range all the way from $150,000 to $200,000.

Death of George L. Speare.

Randolph, Vt., June 12.—George L. Spear, a prominent business man and lumber dealer in this section of the state, died yesterday from heart trouble, aged 55 years. He was a native of Braintree, and in early life was a miner in Oregon. He had been in the lumber business quite extensively since 1869 in this state, Canada and Maine. He represented Braintree in the legislature in 1876, and had been a member of the state Democratic committee, and as such was a delegate to Chicago in 1884, and was a member of the committee notifying Messrs. Cleveland and Hendricks of their nomination. He was collector of internal revenue for Vermont under President Cleveland until the consolidation of that office at Portsmouth, N. H. He was also a Knight Templar. He leaves a widow.

The Wool Market.

Boston, June 12.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says of the wool market: The market is strong, firm and active. A heavy purchase of Australian wool by a Boston firm advanced the price about 1 cent a pound. The imports of wool to May 1 were 55,000,000 pounds ahead of the imports of the same 10 months of last year. The imports of wool goods were correspondingly less in value by $12,600,000. Another bull point is the loss of 4,000,000 pounds of South American wools bound for Boston by shipwreck in the West Indies. This event has jumped the price 2 cents a pound on crossbreds. Domestic wools are very strong in the West, but utterly neglected in the seaboard markets.

Flood Losses.

Boston, June 12.—Reports from the northern, eastern and central sections of New England indicate immense damage from flood. All danger from increased height of water is over, but drowned crops and rivers full of wreckage tell the story of heavy loss. The Maine and New Hampshire rivers are doing the greatest damage, especially to manufacturing industries along their banks. The record will include nearly a dozen lives lost, and damage to railroad and mill property aggregating at least $500,000, distributed over a small territory. Its equal in June has not been known for a great many years.

Drowned In the Connecticut.

Hanover, N. H., June 12.—Harold D. Gilbert of Dartmouth, '98, and whose home is in Newton Highlands, Mass., an exemplary young man and well liked throughout the college, lost his life by drowning in the Connecticut river last night. Gilbert and his chum, Fred V. Pennis, had been canoeing and were returning home. Just as they reached the rapids, the canoe was overturned in an eddy. Gilbert sank, while Bennis struggled for life and finally reached the shore. Gilbert's body has not been recovered. His unfortunate death will be keenly felt in the college as he was active in the college dramatic club.

Sued For Steamboat.

Mt. Hermon, Mass., June 12.—Writs have been served on E. L. Moodie, Wallace Finch and A. E. Yarrow in a civil suit, commenced against them by George A. Lang of Boston, who claims damages on account of a steamboat which he formerly used upon the river. The men claim they took it, thinking it was an abandoned boat, and after taking it down the river a short distance the boat sunk. After learning that the boat belonged to Mr. Lang they wrote to him and offered to settle, but no settlement could be agreed upon, hence the suit.

Notary Arrested.

Providence, June 12.—William Munson, a claim agent and notary public of East Providence, was arrested yesterday by the United States marshal charged with complicity in certain false representations made to H. B. Lovering, pension agent at Boston. Some one, at present unknown, has impersonated T. J. Moody, a deceased pensioner, and Munson, it is alleged, forwarded the claims. Munson was arrested yesterday, pleaded not guilty, and was held in $5000 for trial next Tuesday.

Factory May Remove.

Brockton, Mass., June 12.—The firm of Kimball, Kisdale & Baker, who operate an extensive shoe business in this city, are contemplating removing their plant to Cochituate, where Mr. Kisdale and his brother own a factory nearly three times as large as the one they occupy here. When questioned yesterday, Mr. Baker said he could not say positively whether or not the change would be made, but he said the matter was under serious consideration.

Seventh Day Adventists In Camp.

Worcester, Mass., June 12.—The two weeks' camp meeting of the New England Seventh Day Adventists was opened yesterday on the ball grounds. The annual address of the president, Elder H. W. Cottrell, showed the conference to be in a good condition spiritually, as well as financially. The treasury has a surplus of over $3000. The membership is over 1000. The First church of Lowell was admitted to the conference.

Summer School Dates.

Augusta, Me., June 12.—The following schedule for Maine summer schools has been prepared by Superintendent of Schools Stetson: Newcastle, commencing July 12; at Orono, July 13; at Saco, July 13; at Machias, July 27; at Houlton, Aug. 10. The school at Orono will be in session for three weeks, the others two weeks each.

Another Boom Gone.

Lancaster, N. H., June 12.—The log boom of Sylvanus Holmes at Guild Hall Falls on the Connecticut river, containing 1,500,000 feet of logs, broke yesterday letting the logs down the river. There is no way of stopping them this side of Van Dyke's boom, at McIndoes Falls.

Floods In Maine.

South Berwick, Me., June 12.—The water in the Great Works river is within one foot of the highest point reached by the freshet of last spring. The Nerwichawanick company is using every precaution to protect its mill property. The Salmon Falls river is also on a rampage.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

WONDERS OF EATING.

SNAILS HAVE A NEW SET OF TEETH FOR EVERY MEAL.

"The way things eat has always been an interesting study to me," said the professor. "For instance, take the snail. People don't know much about the snail. Folks eat them in France and like them. Some folks eat them in this country and pretend they like them. But it isn't as a thing to eat that the snail is a curiosity so much as it is as a thing that eats. The snail's mouth is one of the most extraordinary objects in nature. Providence is kind to man in not arraying any beast of prey with a mouth like a snail's, for there is no living creature, even the most terrible, but that would be something to be petted compared with one armed with the formidable devouring apparatus with which the sluggish and almost insensate snail is fitted. You see in your garden this clammy animal, or whatever it may be, fixed on a leaf and feeding, but did you know that in its mouth were 30,000 teeth? Don't start! Such is the fact. The snail would make a dentist rich if it should give him an order for just one set of false teeth, but kind nature is the snail's dentist, and by the time it has worn out the last one of its 30,000 teeth a new set has been provided for it to begin all over again, without money and without price. These teeth are all on the snail's tongue, and that tongue is in itself a wonder. It is coiled up in the back part of the snail's mouth. The teeth stud it like the keen copper projections on the fuller's card. The roof of the mouth is hard like horn.

"The snail places its tongue on the under part of the leaf on which it would feed and presses it up against the hard roof of its mouth. Only a small portion of its tongue is uncoiled. As the blacksmith rasps the horse's hoof after he has set the shoe, so the snail rasps the leaf and grinds its substance away, carrying the moist filings back over its tongue into its stomach. The minute teeth wear away under the process. The snail rolls the denuded portion of its tongue downward as you might wind a ribbon around your finger and uncoils another toothed section, proceeding thus until the entire outfit of teeth is worn away. Then it releases the roll of tongue it has wound up. The ribbon coils once more in the back of the mouth, and, lo, the tongue's 30,000 teeth have been renewed again, and the snail begins its raid on the leaves just the same as before.

"Then see how the baby whale takes its dinner. The whales are animals, you know. They suckle their young as the cow does, but if a cow's calf had to take its sustenance on the wing, so to speak, as the whale's calf does, it would think that its lines had been cast in anything but pleasant places. I refer especially to the Greenland whales, leviathans of the deep whose mouths, capable of taking in a whaleman's boat and its crew with ease, yet seek no greater prey than the minute animalculæ of icy seas. This great marine beast has teeth but once in its life, and that is when it is born. Those teeth are milk teeth, just the same kind of milk teeth that the human baby has, the same that the cow's calf has, the same that all mammalian infants have. These teeth in the Greenland whale cub do not fall out with age, but are absorbed in some mysterious way, and then the baleen appears. Baleen is the whalebone of commerce, by the way. The general impression is that whalebone is the ribs of the whale and that all whales have it. Whalebone isn't bone at all, but an ossified aggregation of hair placed in the upper jaw of the Greenland whale only, 250 of them side by side, like the gills of a mushroom, with which, when it closes its jaws, it strains from the water the little mollusks on which it feeds. The speed of this whale through the water, feeding as it goes, is faster than any ship that sails. The whale baby travels just as fast as its mother does, and its mother never slackens her pace a bit to give her infant its nourishment. Now, it would be a physical impossibility for the young one to suckle and keep up its speed at the same time, and so nature has provided for this emergency, just as she has for every emergency. She has given the mother whale the power to eject, and the baby whale the capacity to receive, an entire meal in an instant. The mother whale speeds through the water, her baby at her side. Hunger overtakes the infant. She seeks the maternal fount, and the maternal fount violently forces from its depths instantaneously the entire quantity of milk the baby requires, and the baby receives it just as instantaneously into its stomach. And the baby whale's stomach holds just four gallons.

"And what do you think of a thing that eats with its whiskers? But excuse me; that is jocularity. I am speaking of the oyster. The oyster eats with its beard. The beard of the oyster is simply its mouth, its jaws, its teeth, its palate. You and I would not care to have such a combination in our beard, but the oyster gets a great deal of enjoyment out of life, all the same. I have a psychological friend who declares that even death is a pleasure to the oyster; that, parting with life between the bon vivant's teeth, it expires in ecstasy. I hope my friend is right. If he is, I will have given mortuary delight to a dozen Blue Points on the deep this evening.

"Consider the woodpecker. Tap, tap, tap, he says, clinging to the stem of the tree. Hist! he says, turning his ear to the bark and listening. Ah, Mr. Grub! He hears you foolishly moving at the sound of his tap. Ratty-te-tap! Ratty-te-tap! R-r-r-r-r rap! R-r-r-r rap! Like a drum beating in the morning. Straight to the mark, true as drill or auger, goes that unerring beak. Quicker than either it taps the spot it is aimed at. But the straight, sharp beak can never follow the frightened grub in its eccentric tunneling. It doesn't have to. The woodpecker has a tongue, long, round, flexible, sensitive, and barbed like a Fijian's spear. A thrust on the larva's trail. A transfixed grub. A morsel for the crimson crowned bird's palate.

"The lobster and the crab, rapacious, but never dainty, no matter what they are eating, always immediately see something else that they want and can't wait until they have masticated the first before attacking the second. But they don't give up the first—not by any manner of means. Nature, humoring this rapacious bent, has fitted up the lobster and the crab with teeth in their stomachs, and they swallow their half masticated food and finish the chewing process with their stomachs, while they seize and chew the other thing that has attracted them. Lobsters and crabs have no teeth in their mouths. They chew with their claws and stomachs only.

"The grasshopper isn't a chicken, although it lays eggs, but it has a gizzard like a chicken, except that the grasshopper's gizzard has teeth—sharp, horny teeth. The butterfly has a most delicate and beautiful little pump inside of it, with which it pumps nectar from the flowers The patient ox crops the grass all day, but never knows he has been eating until the food he has bolted is fired back at him from his fourth stomach in the shape of the familiar cud, which he chews and chews and chews, standing in the shade, pondering and whisking flies

"We are queer creatures, all of us, my boy, but queerest when we eat."

The Reason.

Mr. Conners—Don't be afther askin me sooch a foolish question, Jamesy. Don't yez pfather want to waken himself at foor o'clock in the marnin?—Up to Date.

gentleman asked the captain to stop the vessel and rescue the dog, but he met with a refusal. The captain said, "My orders are to stop only when there is a man overboard." The gentleman at this turned away and, walking to the side of the vessel, deliberately leaped overboard. The captain was forced to lower the boat, and thus both gentleman and dog were saved.

ALTHOUGH THE Legislature adjourned today, the LEDGER was able to present its readers with a three-column review of the session, which includes the important business of last night.

WE HEARTILY agree with the Hyde Park Gazette that "it required a colossal amount of nerve for those Boston citizens, headed by Mayor Quincy, to go up to the State House and try to badger the Governor into vetoing the school tax bill. The whole State has been taxed most to death to give Boston public parks, reservations, and other public improvements, and the city shows a mean spirit in refusing to 'divvy' with the poorer towns, thereby equalizing the school tax."

A LEGISLATIVE letter to an exchange says, the legislature has pass a libel bill which is worth having. It is undoubtedly a better bill than was expected by the newspaper men, and Mr. Pierce is to be credited with doing a great kindness to the newspapers. The Milton man very unexpectedly came to the rescue of the journalistic fraternity, which had reason to expect from his age and natural conservatism, that he would be on the other side of the question. The only change in the bill from the form in which it passed the house, was that the words "in mitigation of damages" were put into the provision that the fact of having published a retraction should be put in evidence. This is fair.

☞ The boats of the Fall River Line are now making trips every night in the week, Sunday night service having been resumed about a month ago. The beauties of the route are now becoming more and more apparent, as the season advances, and the long days, by which several hours of the morning and evening are available for witnessing the superb natural scenery along the New York end of the route, render this service especially attractive for all classes of travelers. It is almost the universal conclusion that no scenic section in the world, subject to the operations of a great transportation system, is superior to this New York and Boston route. For hours, either before arriving in New York in the morning, or after leaving that terminus in the afternoon, the boats of this line pass through the midst of natural and artificial fascinations that are fairly bewildering in the variety and extent of their beauties.

The Hospital Ten, King's Daughters, have raised over one hundred dollars towards buying a steam sterilizer for the Hospital and need about twenty-five dollars more, so they have decided to have a lawn party next Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Sara Whicher on Adams street. They will make a specialty of home made candy, aprons and useful articles. All the King's Daughters and those interested in good work should attend.

—People who are impatient about the supposed delay of Congress in passing the tariff bill should look a little into the history of tariff legislation in the United States. No Congress, even when both of its branches were controlled by a single party, has, within the memory of the present generation, made the progress which this one has with a tariff bill.

LADIES DELIGHTED.

Opening of New Era Cooking School in Faxon Hall.

A large attendance of representative ladies attended the opening of the New Era Cooking school in Faxon hall this afternoon. They heard a vigorous and somewhat startling lecture on "Food and its Relation to Health and Morals," delivered by Creswell MacLaughlin of New York.

The lecturer maintained that the prevailing sickness among the American people was due to the fact that they live upon unnatural food. Food is the building material out of which God intended man to rear himself. Natural food makes natural men and women, unnatural food makes unnatural creatures, sickly, deformed, weak, medicine eaters.

Man was designed to be a success and yet are the majority of beings as constituted nowadays a success? Let us see. Twenty-five per cent. of all children die before they are one year old, and thirty-three per cent. die before they reach the age of five. Ninty-five per cent. of all men who engage in business fail. Almost every one has some malady, men, women and even little children are ailing.

Why is this so? We answer: you are building your children, your men and women out of unnatural material. Go back to nature, learn her lessons, eat only naturally organized food; food that contains the properties necessary to build and sustain the human body.

After the lecture Miss Ethel Packard, of Boston, demonstrated a number of magnificent food combinations, prepared with a basis of shredded whole wheat. The food was served free to the audience and the ladies were delighted and amazed.

Monday afternoon at 2.30 Miss Huxworth, of London, the famous English cook who created such a sensation in Horticultural hall, Boston, will lecture on "Physical Culture and Cookery." Miss Packard will demonstrate on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30.

J. D. Rose, Capt.

Invited guests in carriages.

The following will be the line of March: Franklin street to Lakeside cemetery. Central avenue to Washington street, to Hancock street, to Plain street, to Plain street cemetery. Plain street to Washington street, to Pond street, to South cemetery, where the Hon. Francis A. Hobart will give the oration, and selections will be given by the Braintree band.

The column will again form and pass over Pond street, Washington street, to the Franklin street engine house where the company will disband, and delegates sent to cemeteries in West Quincy, Quincy, Weymouth and Randolph. If the weather s fine there will be a large gathering of firemen.

Braintree's Pride.

The Braintree Veteran firemen have received their prize winning tub, the Butcher Boy from the paint shop. The tub has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired and handsomel y painted by John Campbell of Randolph.

The tub is one of the finest to be found in the state, and in appearance will rank with any in New England. It was built by Hunniman in Boston in 1858 and was in active service in Brighton for over twenty years.

It was purchased from the city of Boston in 1874, and was in active service for ten years. When the water works were put in the tub, was put out of commission. It is now owned by the town but the Braintree Vets have the use of the, machine as long as they want it.

The old tub has won many prizes since coming to town. The first time the engine went to muster was at Hingham, on Sept. 29, 1878. She took first prize of $200. Distance played, 213 feet, 2 inches.

At Milford, Mass., on Sept. 26, 1876, she took third money $80. Distance, 173 and 9½ inches.

At Milford, Mass., on Sept. 25, 1877, she took first prize of $300, distance played 166 feet and 9½ inches.

At Mystic Park, on Aug. 10, 1878, she took second prize of $100. Distance played 173 feet and 7 inches.

On July 24, 1876, at Danvsrs, she took third prize, $200. Distance played 213 feet and 3 inches.

The Association has voted to attend the muster at Lynn, on July 5, and the members are confident that some of the prize money will come Braintree's way.

The body of the tub is painted in light vermillion with ornamentations of gold stripes and scrolls, giving a very rich effect. On either side in letters of gold, shaded down with harmonizing colors, the name, BUTCHER-BOY.

On either side on the structure supporting the beam framed in massive scroll heavily gilded are portraits of veteran firemen. The buckets are painted in vermillion branded with gold and bear the monogram, B. V.

The massive brake beams are painted lake blue with fine striping of gold and color; and the outside beams are lettered in gold and shaded with green the monogram, Braintreee Veterans. The brakes are finished in natural color, while the air chamber and vacum chambers are painted green. The running gear is of vermillion heavily striped with gold and color.

A GOOD GAME.

And Another Victory for the Q. & B. Base Ball Nine.

Division 5 of the West End street railway of South Boston met the Quincy & Boston club at Merry Mount park, and a good game resulted. The local club took the lead in the first innings, but lost it in the second. Again in the fourth, the Q. & B. forged to the front but the fifth tied the score. Three runs in the sixth clinched the victory for the Quincy club, who made a better record at the bat and in the field.

Castle Square Theatre.

The summer season at the Castle Square theatre has resulted in a series of brilliant dramatic successes for the splendid company of artists assembled by Director Tony Cummings and the great audiences that have attended the performances, have been most enthusiastic over the organization and the good work done by its members. The announcement of a production of Mr. H. C. de Mille's strong drama, "The Lost Paradise," the coming week, will surely cause a continuance of the immense patronage bestowed upon all the productions of the season. The principals in the cast are: Andrew Knowlton, owner of the Knowlton Iron Works, Howard Hall; Reuben Warner, superintendent of the works, J. H. Gilmour; Ralph Standish, the last leaf of the family tree, Charles Mackay; Bob Appleton, hale fellow well met and met often, Tony Cummings; Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Knowlton's man of business Horace Lewis; Mrs. Knowlton, a motherly worlding; Andrew Knowlton's wife, Emily Morgan. Margaret Knowlton, (their daughter) a pearl that the toilers of "The Works" have set, Lillian Lawrence; Polly Fletcher, (Mr. Fletcher's niece) a country slip in city soil, Grace Atwell. Following the "Lost Paradise" on Monday, June 21, a production of "Confusion," preceded by the one-act "curtain-raiser," "Sweethearts," is announced.

A Clean Scoop.

When we use the phrase, "a clean scoop," we're not employing slang to indicate how enormous a portion of the Quincy grocery trade comes to us.

We use the expression in a restricted sense to apply to the actual sugar scoops, etc., which are in use in our store, day by day, and more widely to indicate the general cleanliness which characterizes our store.

We like our customers to feel that the food supplies which we send them are handled by clean, careful clerks, using scoops and measures about which hangs no suspicion of dirt.

We do a clean business, in a clean store, on clean principles, with clean people.

If cleanliness means anything to you, it means everything.

Try a sample order of general goods from our large stock and see if we cannot carry out all we promise. Our stock is so large it is impossible for us to tell you what we have, but we are pleased to show goods always.

Adams Chapter at Concord.

A perfect day and a delightful time was the verdict of the ladies who attended the Adams Chapter outing at Concord, Mass., on Friday. An early start was made and the whole day was spent in driving and walking about the historic town.

The Block house, the old cemetery, the library, home of Thoreau, South bridge so famous in history, the Lee farm, powder house, home of Ralph Waldo Emerson, and the home of Louisa M. Alcott of Little Women fame, were viewed, and then a stop was made at "Wayside," once the home of the Alcotts and later of Hawthorne, but now the home of Mrs. D. Lothrop, who is better known as Margaret Sidney, the children's favorite writer.

Here the guests were most cordially and graciously received by Mrs. Lothrop, who threw the quaint, old house open for inspection and acted as guide. The pine bower, in which Hawthorne spent so many hours writing, was a most restful place and has evidences of being also Mrs. Lothrop's favorite room. The house was full of old relics, besides being quaintly built with big chimneys, small window panes and many staircases. When the house was occupied by the Alcotts it was called Hillside, as it clings to the side of a beatiful hill covered with pine trees, over which Mr. Alcott made many widing paths which led into restful looking nooks.

From the "Wayside," Mirriam's Corner where the retreating British were so warmly received, was visited. The old house which still shows the bullet marks was interesting and the Battle Ground where was fought the first battle and where are buried British soldiers, also the beautiful statue "The Minute Man, the old monument, the "Old Manse" and "Sleepy Hollow" caused many to linger long beyond the lunch hour.

A fine luncheon was ready for the party when they arrived at the old Wright Tavern at half-past one. The tavern is a very quaint old place and here an hour or more was spent.

After lunch some strolled to the old Hillside cemetery and to the First Congregational church while others visited the rooms of the Concord Antiquarian society. Here the party was cordially received.

An admission of twenty-five cents is usually asked. The society did not wish any fee from the Adams Chapter but as the Chapter insisted on paying something, believing patriotic societies should be the first to assist in the preservation of antiquities, they were allowed to pay fifteen cents each.

The return was at four o'clock. It was at first thought to have gone to Lexington also, but Concord was too interesting to leave.

DR. HOBBS'

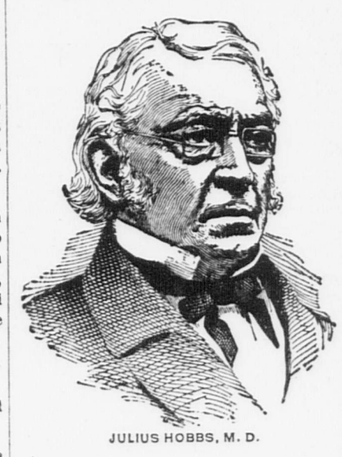

Free Offer of Samples of Sparagus Kidney Pills

TO BE GIVEN AWAY TODAY

At A. G. Durgin's Drug Store

CAUSES A SENSATION

Among Sick People and the Public Generally.

JULIUS HOBBS, M. D.

The announcement made in this paper yesterday, that a free package of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills would be given away to anyone asking for it at A.G. Durgin's Drug Store today, caused an intense interest and great discussion amongst the public generally.

Many people called yesterday to inquire about the free samples of these pills, which are to be given away today.

One gentleman, standing in the store, remarked: "The proprietors of the remedy must know that it possesses great merit, or they would never expend so much money in giving away samples, to say nothing of the cost of the advertisement."

Another caller, a lady, said: "I believe I will call tomorrow and get a sample, for the offer seems so fair and honest that I am inclined to place faith in the medicine, even before I get it."

It is expected that today there will be a great rush of applicants for a free package of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills. But no matter what the demand is, Mr. Durgin is well prepared to meet it.

All those living in Quincy or any town outside, who apply at our store today in person or write for a sample, will be welcome, and not only a of this wonderful medicine will be given or sent to each applicant, but also Dr. Hobbs' little book, which in a concise way treats on kidney and bladder troubles, rheumatism and diseases of the blood.

This great free distribution ends tonight, so that all who wish to avail themselves of Dr. Hobbs' generous offer should call or write immediately, or they will miss the opportunity.

THE FIRST TEST VOTE

Caucus Amendments Passed by the Republican Senators.

Question on Raising House Sugar Rates.

Messrs. Caffery and White Inveigh Against the Big Trust.

Washington, June 12.—A test vote on the sugar schedule came yesterday in the senate. It was the first amendment agreed upon in the caucus of Republican senators on Tuesday, when the "Spooner compromise" was adopted. The vote yesterday was very close—32 to 30—Jones and Stewart of Nevada and McEnery of Louisiana voting with the Republicans in favor of the Spooner schedule, and Kyle and Heitfelt with the Democrats against it.

This vote insures the adoption of the caucus schedule in the senate, although there are many who believe that, with such a narrow margin, the house schedule will eventually be adopted.

The negative vote was made up of 25 Democrats, 3 Populists and 2 silver Republicans. It was the closest vote thus far taken on an issue of importance, and was accepted as showing that any amendment having the sanction of the caucus was assured of adoption.

Mr. Caffery of Louisiana opposed the duty on sugar in a long speech. He claimed it was legislating in favor of the Sugar trust. He went into details on refining sugar, and said that inasmuch as the Sugar trust controlled all the refineries in the United States it is impossible to get accurate statistics on the industry. The trust was constantly besieging congress for favors.

"The Sugar trust," said he, "is the only gigantic trust in the world which rests entirely on legislation for its support. By legislation it controls the cane sugar product of the world, and whenever it thrusts its hand into the legislative hall there was always a taint, a kind of malodor arising from its efforts to get legislation in its own behalf, and if it appears from a reasonable showing that what the trust asks is too much it should be refused."

Continuing, he taunted the Republicans, after their experiment with sugar bounty under the McKinley law, for going back to sugar for a real revenue producing duty. "And then," said he, "they have the audacity to throw in our faces the insidious doctrine of protection."

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Caffery's remarks Mr. White of California took the floor. He arraigned the Republicans for their advocacy of this sugar schedule. From the debate on the Wilson bill he read the remarks of various Republican senators denouncing the sugar schedule in that bill, which, Mr. White said, was not half as advantageous to the trust as the proposed schedule. He quoted Mr. Platt of Connecticut, Mr. Chandler of New Hampshire and Mr. Allison of Iowa. The latter had said in the remarks quoted that if he (Allison) could have his way he would strike from the bill every vestige of protection for the trust. When he quoted from Mr. Gear of Iowa he and the Iowa senator were drawn into a sharp exchange about the way prosperity lagged behind its predictions. Mr. Gear declared that prosperity would come when the tariff bill was passed.

One of Mr. Aldrich's expressions as to the effect of the sugar duty on the poor man's breakfast table was read by Mr. White in mocking tones.

The attitude of Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts, Morrill of Vermont, Platt of Connecticut and other senators on the Republican side, severely criticising the sugar rates of the Wilson bill, were reviewed by Mr. White, with sarcastic side remarks on consistency.

Mr. Gorman of Maryland then spoke against the schedule and the entire bill, pointing out that its effect was to burden the people without opening up to the United States new foreign markets.

Mr. Stewart of Nevada asked Mr. Allison to state before the vote was taken whether this bill gave the refiners greater advantage than the present law?

"I have no doubt," answered Mr. Allison, "that excluding the countervailing duty this bill does not give a greater advantage to the sugar industry than the Wilson bill."

Mr. Allison proceeded to make a general statement. He said that thus far senators had been discussing decimal figures and statistics without considering what lies a tthe basis of this and all schedules.

"We have been taunted with the bounty of 1890," said he, "and we hear senators on the other side say they will support a sugar duty on the theory that it is a tax for revenue only. I wish to disclaim any responsibility for this duty as a revenue duty. If that were its only objects it should not have my vote. I don't believe that if we were establishing a revenue system on imports alone that sugar should bear such a proportion of the burden as is imposed in this bill."

"Do you believe in protection to labor or to capital?" interposed Mr. Tillman of South Carolina.

"There is a generality," replied Mr. Allison, "to which the senator well knows my answer. I believe in protection to American labor, but I believe in protecting American capital also from foreign capital."

Mr. Havemeyer, in his testimony, said Mr. Tillman, said that only 25,000 men were engaged in the sugar refinery industry. Yet you propose to give the refiners a differential which amounts to between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 for the protection of 25,000 men.

It was the policy of this bill, replied Mr. Allison, to do what Europe had done—establish the production of sugar in this country and keep the $100,000,000 annually paid for sugars by our people at home.

Mr. Caffery replied briefly to Mr. Allison, and then the vote was taken.

Mr. Hoar gave notice of a new section to follow paragraph 200 providing for the appointment by the president of a commission of five persons who shall investigate and report at the next session of congress on the most advantageous methods of producing and refining sugar, and what method will give to consumers sugar at the least cost.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. XIV.

On the second day of the newspaper men's sojourn in the Mexican metropolis there was no special programme. Small parties secured carriages and guides, in many cases, and started out at pleasure in various directions. Others made a tour of the markets and business places, where very many novel sights were to be seen. Others inspected the numerous hospitals and schools. There are over 300 public schools in the city, attended by upwards of 20,000 pupils. The schools are mainly conducted in buildings that were formerly convents or church properties. Then there is a conservatory of music, fine colleges of medicine and law, and a school of mines founded more than a century ago. The building in which the latter is quartered is one of the finest in the city and cost nearly two millions of dollars. Immense metallic meteorites are shown here, weighing thousands of pounds each, which were found in different parts of the country.

Others took the street cars for a ride about the ancient city. There are a good many kinds of them, too. The first class, second class and third class car, the freight car, the funeral car, and the car "especial," or private affair which can be hired by an individual who wishes to ride in state, or for a party. It is curious to observe the class distinctions which are rigidly enforced. One of the lower classes would no more think of riding in a first class street car than he would think of flying. Just at present the owners of the railroads of the city of Mexico are planning to supplant the nimble footed and tireless mule, who now furnishes the motive power, with electricity.

If one sees a particularly well decorated car, it will be well to avoid it. The chances are it is a funeral car. They are of different colors and different degrees of ornamentation, according to the necessities of each case. Traveling on the outskirts of the city, particularly in the direction of Tacubaya, you will see many funeral cars journeying towards the cemeteries. The second-class cars are painted a bright green. I was amused as I overheard an American residing in Mexico explaining to a lady editor what car she should take to a certain place. He had mentioned the fact that the second-class cars were painted green. The lady editor, with that pertinacious disposition which sometimes actuates newspaper people, enquired why the second-class cars were painted green. She was told, as a joke, it was because the drivers were Irishmen and the green color was in honor of the old country.

Probably many of our readers have heard of the floating islands in the City of Mexico; and we with others felt a desire to go and see them. The islands we found all right, but they do not float. They are simply pieces of land, two rods wide by four rods or more long, with ditches ten feet wide or more dug around them, which are kept full of water from the Viga canal. Hundreds of these little islands border on the canal, and on them immense quantities of vegetables and flowers are raised.

A trip to the Viga canal well repays one. It is a shallow stream, fed by the snows of Popocatepetl. It has a length of about sixty miles and empties into Lake Texcoco. It is a means of transporting fruit, flowers and various products of the country to the city. In the early hours of the morning, when boatloads of flowers are being brought into the city, it is particularly attractive. The shallow boats used on the canal are propelled by poles. Families live on boats, as is done in China. They make a living by doing a freight business in a small way. Others have boats, which are let to passengers, and for a few cents you can take a ride on the water and see one of the most attractive portions of Mexico.

As the day is pleasant, as all days in Mexico are at this season of the year, suppose we take a cab for an hour or two, and ride out towards Chapultepec, the "white house" of Mexico. We shall go with the party this afternoon in the street cars to visit President Diaz's summer residence; but this morning we will simply ride along the Pasco, to see the handsome residences, fine horses and carriages, and pretty women.

On the Pasco every Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock the bon ton of the city drive, and every description of team, from the gold mounted harness and blooded chargers down to the patient little burro can be seen. It is estimated that 15,000 carriages are out every pleasant Sunday afternoon, and their occupants represent the wealth and beauty of the city.

This is the only city or place, that we have visited in the Republic of Mexico, where there are handsome turn-outs.

There are three classes of carriages, the same as there are cars, and they are designated by little tiny flags of different colors, which are taken down when the vehicle is engaged. The blue flag indicates a rate of $1.50 per hour, the red flag $1 for the same time, while the yellow flag, or third class conveyance, is only fifty cents an hour. For these various prices you have the ownership of the carriage for the time being, and can take in as many of your friends as it will hold.

The Pasco is a beautiful avenue of overarching trees, which poor, ill-fated Carlott planned in the days when her husband Maximilian guided the Mexican state. Besides these monuments of nature, the hand of man has raised magnificent memorials. The great equestrian statue of Charles IV, is wonderful, not only as being the largest single piece of bronze in the world, but for its fine proportions and perfect lines. "Christopher Colon" is remembered in a beautiful statue which represents him as drawing aside the veil that has concealed the western world. This is one of the handsomest monuments ever raised to the discoverer. But noblest of all is the figure of Guatimotzin, Montezuma's nephew, whom Cortez put to cruel torture to force him to reveal the hiding place of the city's treasure. With firm and unmoved countenance the plumed monarch of the Aztecs stands straight and tall, in the act of drawing an arrow from his quiver. One glance at the steadfast face reveals a man whom no threats and no cruelty could move from any course of conduct he had chosen. The Indians are justly fond and proud of this splendid figure.

It is two and a half miles from the Plaza to the Chapultepec, and it is a drive much enjoyed, not only by the Mexicans, but by all visitors to the city. G. W. P

Leavenworth, Kan., June 12.—An attempt was made upon the life of Governor Andrew J. Smith of the national soldiers' home and his wife and daughter yesterday by some person, who is as yet unknown. Dynamite was employed in the outrage, and the explosion badly damaged the governor's residence. Mrs. Smith had a miraculous escape from death, the base of the explosion being directly under her bedchamber. Besides being cut and bruised by broken glass and flying bric-a-brac and furniture, she was completely prostrated by the frightful shock, and is now in a precarious condition. Governor Smith and his daughter, Miss Daisy, occupied rooms on the second floor, and were far enough removed from the explosion to escape the serious consepuences suffered by Mrs. Smith.

Joseph W. Oliver, a dishonorably discharged veteran, has been arrested by the police of this city. He said he was sorry the explosion had not killed the governor.

SCHISM OVER SURPLICES.

General Council of Reformed Episcopal Church Strikes a Rock.

New York, June 12.—The heated debate in the general council of the Reformed Episcopal church of the last two days, over the kind of surplice the clergy shall wear, was concluded yesterday by the adoption of the black gown.

The question was whether a minister should use the black Geneva vestments or the white surplice as he pleased, each minister taking his choice. The vote was 57 to 27, the laity and clergy dividing about equally on each side. Following the vote, Bishop Charles Edward Cheney of the synod of Chicago resigned from all committees and from "any other place that I may hold by the authority of the general council." Several other clergymen resigned from committees, and a number of laymen signified that they would withdraw support from the church. Bishop Fellows, the chairman, with tears in his eyes, said to Secretary Hendricks: "It seems to be the beginning of the end." The disruption of the church is a possibility.

Interesting Missionary Meeting.

Clifton Springs, N. Y., June 12.—The meeting yesterday afternoon of the National Missionary union was in charge of the ladies, Mrs. Dr. J. T. Gracey, formerly of India, presiding. It proved to be one of the most interesting sessions yet held. The following have been elected officers of the union for the ensuing year: President, Rev. Dr. J. T Gracey; vice president, Rev. Dr. S. L Baldwin; secretary, Mrs. Dr. C. C. Thayer; treasurer, Dr. C. C. Thayer; librarian, Mrs. W. H. Belden. A new constitution has been adopted, and hereafter the affairs of the union will be managed by a board of control, consisting of 24 members. A distinguished Chinaman arrived yesterday afternoon direct from Foo-Chow, China, M. U. Ding by name. He was accompanied by Rev. L. P. Peel and wife of China. Mr. Ding was sent from China as a delegate to a meeting of the World's Federation of Christian Students, which is soon to be held in Northfield, Mass., and is said to be the first delegate to be sent from China to a religious meeting in this country.

Expectations Fulfilled.

New York, June 12.—The United States torpedo boat Porter was put through her maneuvering paces yesterday and came up to all expectations. Three torpedoes were fired. Two worked excellently, but the third was not successful, as the locking device refused to work. Then the little flyer's ability to twist and turn was exhibited. Her turning circle was found to be about 1100 feet. In reversing from full speed ahead to full speed astern, and vice versa, she proved a wonder, taking only 25 seconds, and moving less than her own length before she gained momentum in the desired direction. After various other tests on her maneuvering qualities the Porter brought the board of inspection back to the city, and its members expressed great satisfaction over the results of the trip.

Franco-Russian Treaty.

London, une 12.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: I am in a position to affirm that a definite treaty of alliance will be signed during M. Faure's approaching visit to Russia by Emperor Nicholas, President Fauer, Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, and M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister. The treaty, whose terms have already been settled, will be one of the most laboriously constructed instruments of its kind. Since 1889 it has been in process of construction. Two czars and three French presidents, with their respective ministers have been working on it, the negotiations often being suspended, owing to deaths, resignations and similar causes of interruption.

HOPE FOR FALL TRADE

Spring and Summer Business Not Up to Expectations.

Much Better, However, Than Year Ago.

More People Are Employed and the Outlook Is Brighter.

New York, June 12.—Bradstreet's says: Notwithstanding cool, wet weather, which checked the distribution of seasonable goods, disappointment at the restriction of distribution of merchandise in the spring and early summer is giving way to hopefulness for the fall trade. Business is better than a year ago. The volume is larger and there are more people employed than prior to the last presidential election. The movement of merchandise in the past five months has been disappointing, but jobbers are beginning to report fair orders for fall delivery. The encouraging features announced this week are the improvement in May railroad earnings and the advance in the price of Bessemer pig iron, although the latter is less significant than some reports indicate.

Manufacturers of woolens are more hopeful, the outlook for higher prices stimulating speculative demand for both raw and manufactured products.

Crop prospects, except in Oregon and Washington, where rain is needed, continue favorable. Hot and forcing weather, with showers throughout the Gulf states, has had an excellent effect on cotton and corn, which has stimulated demand for merchandise.

Gross railway earnings for May make the best showing for any month since last summer. Gains by American companies proper are at last beginning to assume importance. Total earnings of 127 companies, with 97,000 miles of road, aggregate $36,288,703, a gain over May a year ago of 5.6 per cent.

This week's total bank clearings, $1,008,182,516, show an increase of 12 per cent over last week, of 7 per cent as compared with the like week one year ago, and no material variation from the total in the second week of June, 1895.

Bradstreet's prices index number, June 1, covering quotations for 98 staple articles, merchandise, produce and live stock, is 72.558, compared with 74.193 on May 1, thus continuing the downward tendency of quotations which had begun to show itself by April 1 this year, after an advance from 67.182 on July 1, 1896 (the lowest point during the period of depression), to 75.044 on Jan. 1, 1897. Out of 106 articles quoted only 21 were higher June 1 than on May 1, 51 were lower and 34 unchanged. Among those which were lower are 23 food products, leather, wool, cotton goods, steel, timber, chemicals, coal, coke and rubber. This week's prices movement includes advances for tea, wheat, Indian corn, oats, coffee, sugar and pig iron; steadiness on the part of prints, coal, lumber, steel, billets, petroleum, pork and flour and declines for cotton, lard, turpentine and rosin, pointing to a tendency to reverse last month's weakness in quotations.

There are 256 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 197 last week, 224 in the week a year ago, 232 two years ago, 227 three years ago, and as compared with 203 in the like week of 1893.

More Japanese Demands.

Washington, June 12.—The Hawaiian legation in Washington is advised of three new complaints filed against the Hawaiian government by Japan. One of these charges the Hawaiian customs officials with discriminating against Japanese wine in favor of the California product; another takes exception to an order of the Hawaiian board of immigration to the owners of plantations requiring them in making contracts for Oriental labor to make these contracts for two Chinese to one Japanese in every case, and a third complains of an order displacing a Japanese physician on a plantation. The legation is also informed that there is no abatement of the Japanese demands on account of Hawaii's position with reference to Japanese immigration.

Middies Can't Resign.

Washington, June 12.—For the first time in many years the secretary of the navy has interposed his veto upon the application of a junior officer to leave the naval service. In the present case three of the cadets at Annapolis, George Weber of Arkansas, H. T. Collins of Pennsylvania and P. L. Pratt of Illinois, sought to resign. They had completed four years' service at the academy, the last year being devoted to the engineering branch, and desired to leave to engage in private business. Secretary Long, however, found that the engineer corps was sadly in need of officers and declined to accept the resignations.

Michael Can Ride.

New York, June 12.—A cable dispatch from Louis Stroud, the solicitor of Jimmy Michael in London, states that the suspension of the little Welshman by the National Cyclists Union of England has been removed and he is now eligible to compete on any of the L. A. W. tracks in this country. If this cablegram be true, nothing now stands in the way of the 15-mile match between Michael and McDuffie, which is scheduled to be run off at Boston next Thursday.

Colonel Nevins Dead.

New York, June 12.—Colonel Richard Nevins, formerly prominent in politics in Columbus, O., died here yesterday afternoon. He was 65 years of age. His wife was by his bedside up to the time of his death. His daughter, Mrs. W. T. Bull, formerly Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., was also present.

Montana Indians Quiet.

Washington, June 12.—A telegram received at the war department from headquarters at St. Paul states that all is now quiet among the Indians in southern Montana, and that it is safe to withdraw the troops sent from Custer and Keogh, which will be done.

Petition For Commercial Treaty.

Lima, Peru, June 12—The sugar producers have petitioned the government to conclude a commercial treaty with the United States.

Gardens.

The wide, fair gardens, the rich, lush gardens,
Which no man planted and no man tills!
Their strong seeds drifted, their brave bloom lifted,
Near and far over vales and hills.
Sip the bees from their cups of sweetness,
Poises above them the wild, free wing,
And night and morn from their doors are borne
The dreams of the tunes that blithe hearts sing.

The waving gardens, the fragrant gardens,
That toss in the sun by the broad highway,
Growing together, gorse and heather,
Aster and goldenrod all the day!
Poppies dark with the wine of slumber,
Daisies bright with the look of dawn,
The gentian blue, and the long year through
The flowers that carry the seasons on.

And the dear old gardens, the pleasant gardens,
Where mother used to potter about,
Trying and pulling, and sparingly culling,
And watching each bud as its flower laughed out!
Hollyhocks here, and the prince's feather,
Larkspur and primrose and lilies white!
Sweet were the dear old fashioned gardens
Where we kissed the mother and said "Good night!"

—Margaret E. Sangster.

Historian and Poet.

Historians limn for future readers' eyes
The outer seeming of the men they see,
Their origin, the warfare that they wage
Against each other and the common foes,
Hunger and cold. They tell the tribes
That are to be of them that were.
Their glasses sweep the horizon of time,
Where, at the farthest edge, amid the dusk,
They recreate the mighty groves of eld
Above the lowly huts of primal days
And set therein the parents of the race.

* * * * * * *

The poet's vision seeks the forward way,
Discerns the aspirations of the soul,
The buoyant hopes and oft returning fears,
Proclaims the compensation that awaits
For whatsoever ills attend us here
Beyond the veil that bounds the mortal sight,
Pauses betimes with mirth resounding strains
To charm away the shadowy wraith of care
That sits upon some saddened being's brow,
But chiefly dreams of that eternal growth
Spiritual sense assures him is to be.

—Frank Putnam in Chicago Times-Herald.

Recompense.

They say the rarest flowers
That unfold within the brain
Owe their beauty to conditions
Of ill health, of sorrow, pain.

They say the sweetest song of home
Was his whose fireside
Was his lonely heart, which knew
No other hearth beside.

They say the great achievements,
The successes we call sweet,
Are the swiftly following footsteps
On the heels of sad defeat.

Ill health, defeat and loneliness
Thy greatest boon may be.
Grasp well the nettle; though it stings,
Its pain may strengthen thee.

—Lillian W. Rountree.

Though the structure of a tyrant's throne
Rise on the necks of half the suffering world,
Fear trembles in the cement, prayers and tears,
And secret curses sap its moldering base
And steal the pillars of allegiance from it.
Then let a single arm but dare the sway,
Headlong it turns and drives upon destruction.

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At Boston—

Boston had a walkover in both games with Louisville yesterday afternoon. Clingman's work in both was phenomenal, and it was his playing that saved the visitors from even worse defeat. Louisville was weak at the bat. The features were the fielding of Collins in the first game, the batting of Duffy, Stivetts and Collins in the second game, and the fine work of Clingman in both.

Oil King's Daughter Ill.

New York, June 12.—The Journal and Advertiser says the wife of Dr. D. P. McAlpin, who is the daughter of William Rockefeller, and the niece of John D. Rockefeller, is lying dangerously sick at the Rockefeller mansion at Tarrytown. The physicians who have held several consultations during the past few days state that her condition is very serious, and it is feared she may die. Eighteen months ago Miss Emma Rockefeller was married to Dr. McAlpin.

Enlisted at Nine Years of Age.

Washington, June 12.—Jacob Springsteen of Indianapolis, the youngest enlisted man in the Union army, has been reinstated to a government clerkship. He was a drummer boy in an Indiana regiment, entering the service at the age of 9 years and 6 months, and serving 4½ years.

Thousands of women are cast-up dead on the shores of life because of their own ignorance or neglect. No woman can be free from pain, or safe from the ever-threatening breakers of death, who neglects to take proper care of the organs that constitute her womanhood. A woman who neglects her womanly-self will be sickly, nervous, pain-racked and fretful, and approaching maternity will be a menace of the grave. It is easy for a woman to avoid this suffering and danger.

Wise women know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a marvelous remedy for those troubles that make a woman's life miserable, and fill the period of prospective motherhood with fears. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Over 90,000 women have testified to the almost miraculous action of this wonderful remedy. It works directly on the organs distinctly feminine. It makes them strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for wifehood and motherhood. It insures baby's health and makes its advent easy and nearly painless. Druggists sell it. Nothing else is "just as good."

Mrs. G. A. Connor, of Alleghany Spring, Montgomery Co., Va., writes: "My daughter, aged 15 years, had a goitre coming on her neck and it disfigured her very much. I am happy to say that it has disappeared after the use of one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is in plain English. Contains 1,008 pages and over 300 illustrations. If you want a copy, paper-covered, send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If you prefer cloth cover, send 31 stamps.

94—Johnson vs. Feltis.

More

Curative power is contained in Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other similar preparation. It costs the proprietor and manufacturer more. It costs the jobber more and it is worth more to the consumer. More skill is required in its preparation and it combines more remedial qualities than any other medicine. Consequently it has a record of more cures and its sales are more than those of any other preparation. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to buy because it is an honest medicine and thousands of testimonials prove that it does actually and permanently cure disease.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE.

Nothing of a very sensational character interrupted the routine of the session of the Massachusetts legislature just closed. There were very few incidents of more than passing interest to the people at large. In fact, the session was dull and uninteresting and confined wholly to the consideration and disposition of routine matters. The speakers of the two houses, and the members also, strenuously endeavored to adjourn earlier than usual, but as the end of the session approached, it was found that there were still many matters which required careful consideration, and no attempt was made to bring about an early adjournment. As usual, the committees were unable to conclude hearings before them until the last moment. This is due to the great amount of work which is forced upon the committees by the law which provides that all matters submitted to them must be considered, hearings granted and reports made in the legislature.

The hottest fight of the session was over the school tax bill, which came up in the last week. On one side were the country representatives, and on the other were the representatives of the city of Boston. In the senate, on two occasions, the measure was only passed to enactment by one vote. Boston's objection to the bill was that it unjustly taxed the city for the support of rural schools. The bill was passed, however, by a narrow margin and sent to the governor, who vetoed it.

A bill in which the newspapers were interested, as well as the general public, was the act amending the libel law. As passed, the statute is a copy of the English law on the same subject. It provides that malice must be proved, and that a retraction published two days after the person libelled has made complaint to the manager thereof shall estop proceedings. It is also provided that the plaintiff must give the newspaper notice of his intention to bring suit This bill was passed by both houses and signed by the governor.

Historically the most interesting incident of the session was the delivery of the Bradford manuscript to the state of Massachusetts by ex-Ambassador to England Bayard. This event occurred on the 26th of May, the legislature sitting in joint session. The participants in this ceremony were: Ex-Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard, who was commissioned by the bishop of London to deliver this sacred scroll to the governor of Massachusetts; Governor Wolcott, who, on behalf of the commonwealth, received the history and promised its safe preservation, and United States Senator George Frisbie Hoar, who delivered the oration of the occasion. Subsequent to these proceedings a resolution was passed providing for the printing of the ceremony, the speeches and the portraits of the eminent gentlemen present, in pamphlet form. That the incident might be recorded in the annals of Massachusetts history, the ceremony was made a part of the legislative proceedings.

The legislature met on Jan 7, and organized with the usual ceremony. The governor's message was read, the separate branches then elected their officers, the committees were appointed, and in about 10 days after, the real work of the session began.

Following the organization of the two houses, came the introduction of bills, hundreds of which were put in during the first several weeks and referred to the proper committees. Until reports were made, members were not very much in evidence in the two chambers.

The more important matters considered may be summarized under the general headings of railroads, public highways, militia, amendments to the election laws and amendments to the libel law.

There were several investigations at the state house which, while not strictly speaking legislative, were incidental to the session. Notable among these was the inquiry into the conduct of Police Commissioner Martin of Boston. The state board of gas and electric light commissioners investigated the explosion of gas in the subway at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets, Boston, in which several people were killed, and reported that the blame should be attached to the gas company and the Metropolitan Construction company.

Many resolutions were introduced for an investigation of trusts and combines, after the manner of the Lexow investigations of New York. These efforts were in vain, as the legislature disposed of them by referring them, one and all, to the next session. An investigation, which came as a legacy from the previous session, was that of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association. The committee having this matter in charge was busy with the subject during the entire session, and did not report until the last week.

Probably the most important matter disposed of by the legislature was the bill providing for the construction of an elevated railroad system in Boston. This bill was several times sent back to the committee, amended, reported and again sent back, and for a time its final disposition was a question of much doubt. The week before the session ended, however, all parties evidently were satisfied with the bill, and it was passed and sent to the governor, who immediately signed it.

The only railroad bill of importance to the people outside of Boston was that incorporating the Hudson River and Berkshire Railroad company. This also was pending during the whole session, and was finally favorably acted upon. Its importance to the western part of the state was carefully gone into, and the fact that it would offer increased facilities to a section rich in resources led to its final passage.

For many years E. Moody Boynton, inventor of the Boynton bicycle railroad, has endeavored to secure the passage of a bill granting him the right to construct a rapid transit line from Boston to Fall River. On the last day of the session, a bill granting the Boynton company a charter was passed, but it is a sore disappointment to its sponsors and those interested in it. As passed the bill provides that the corporation before beginning construction shall deposit with the state treasurer a sum sufficient to meet all consequential damages likely to accrue, and still further providing that the line, if built, shall not cross any railroad. It is said that these provisions make the act valueless.

Equal in importance to the railroad bills passed was the appropriation of $800,000 for the construction and maintenance of the public highways of the commonwealth. The leading feature of this resolve was the provision for the construction of a boulevard from Boston to Newburyport, a distance of 100 miles. The bill also provides that none but citizens of the commonwealth shall be employed upon the work provided for in this appropriation.

Following an investigation into matters concerning the Sixth and Eighth regiments, M. V. M., the military committee reported two bills amending the militia law. The first peremptorily retired two brigadier generals on Aug. 1 next, and provided that the tenure of brigadier generals hereafter should not exceed seven years. The second bill provides additional regulations regarding the conduct of officers, the trials of officers by court martial, the manner in which charges shall be preferred and the manner in which the trial shall be conducted.

Early in the session a large number of bills amending the present election laws were introduced and referred to the election committee. Some of them were reported and passed, others were rejected. Later a bill containing some 150 amendments to the election law was introduced. This remained in committee many weeks. Numerous hearings were granted, and these amendments finally reported and passed. No change is made in the organic construction of the law. The amendments made simply provide punishment for violation of the caucus laws and prohibit the printing of official ballots by the municipal printing plant of the city of Boston. A special amendment, made early in the session, provides that when the last day for filing certificates of nomination falls on Saturday, the same may be filed the following Monday.

Expenses authorized by the legislature include the following: Legislative department, $363,950; executive department, $48,400; secretary's, $47,465; treasurer's, $34,125; auditor's, $17,700; attorney general's, $41,000. The largest item in the list is that of military aid amounting to $653,000. The maintenance of industries of the various prisons, $378,000. The estimated revenue, including the cash on hand Jan .1, 1897, of $1,398,370, amounts to $7,507,206, leaving a deficit of $1,714,703. Total expenses authorized by the legislature amount to $9,221,910.

During the session there were over 2000 bills introduced, about 1200 of which originated in the house and the balance in the senate.

Aside from the general appropriation bills which provided funds for the several state institutions, the salaries of the legislators, the attaches thereof and the various state commissions, following are the more important acts and resolves which were passed and proved:

An appropriation of $39,000 for the protection of the purity of inland waters.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

Republican Leaders Hope to Bring It to an End In Two Weeks.

About One Third of Bill Has Been Gone Over.

Discussion of Sugar Schedule Will Continue a Day or Two Longer.

Washington, June 14.—For the next day or two the sugar schedule of the tariff bill is expected to continue to be the subject of consideration in the senate. The Hawaiian treaty and the anti-trust amendments are still to be disposed of, and both will excite considerable debate.

With the sugar question settled the agricultural schedule, which has been partially considered, will be taken up and will be followed by the tobacco schedule, if, in the meantime, the Republicans agree upon its provisions. The Republican managers hope to also dispose of the spirit and cotton schedules during the week, and possibly to make some progress with the hemp and flax provisions.

There will be no great amount of debate on cotton or spirits. There was at one time talk of an attempt to add compensatory duties on cotton goods, because of the duty fixed on raw cotton, but this is understood to have been abandoned, if ever seriously contemplated. The Democrats do not find the present schedule objectionable, except in minor details, and will allow it to go through with but little discussion.

The Republican managers now hope that the debate in the senate will be concluded within the next two weeks, notwithstanding that less than one-third of the bill has been gone over. They have secured an agreement with the Democrats that the sessions shall begin at 11 o'clock each day, instead of 12, after Wednesday.

The house will probably continue its programe of adjourning from Monday over to Thursday, and from Thursday until the following Monday. No business will be done, and the sessions today and Thursday will be merely perfunctory.

Golden Jubilee of Parish.

Framingham, Mass., June 14.—The 50th anniversary or golden jubilee of St. Georges (Catholic) parish, Saxonville, was celebrated yesterday, some 30 priests being present from various parts of New England. Solemn high mass was celebrated at 10:30 a. m., with Rev. J. Dolan, D. D., of the Boston cathedral master of ceremonies, Rev. Francis X. Burke of St. Joseph's church, East Pepperell, celebrant; Rev. John S. Curran of St. Paul's, Watertown, deacon; Rev. Daniel J. Herlihy, Gate of Heaven church, South Boston, sub-deacon. Rev. John J. McCoy, rector of Holy Name church, Chicopee, preached an eloquent sermon. Specially arranged music was sung by a choir of 50 voices, assisted by organ and orchestra. Last evening there were musical vespers and a sermon by Rev. Garrett J. Barry of St. Joseph's church, Roxbury. The celebration continues today.

Attempt to Wreck Train.

New York, June 14.—A train of 11 cars on the Sea Beach railroad, crowded with passengers from Coney Island, chashed into an obstruction on the tracks last night at Fifth avenue and Sixty-fivth street, near the Fifth avenue tunnel, New York. The train was running slowly at the time, and fortunately no serious damage was done. It was found that several heavy steel rails had been placed across the tracks and strongly braced with several other rails, and it appeared to the detectives, who were at once put on the case, and to the train people, to be a deliberate attempt to wreck the train. There was considerable excitement amongst the passengers, who, in the crowded condition of the cars, were considerably shaken up by the collision.

Indians Getting Ugly.

Winnipeg, June 14.—A Regina, N. W. T., special to The Free Press says: The irritation among the Indians up North, in consequence of the killing of Almighty Voice and his companions by the mounted police, is assuming an ugly shape. Fifteen Indians have attacked the farm of Mr. Gordon, between Saskatoon and Duck Lake, and killed all the cattle in the corral. A detachment of the Northwestern mounted police left Regina yesterday to proceed to the spot by train. They will join a second detatchment at Nut Lake. It is believed that the instigator of the outrage is a family connection of Almighty Voice, called Almighty Voice's Brother.

Carrying Sixty Tons of Baggage.

Montreal, June 14.—His excellency Earl Ranfurly, governor general of New Zeland, Lady Ranfurly, their daughters, Lady Constance and Lady Ethel Knox, and the governor's aide, Captain Alexander, arrived in Montreal from Europe yesterday. Lord Ranfurly's party numbered about 30, and they are carrying over 60 tons of baggage. They intend crossing the continent by the Canadian Pacific railroad, stopping off for some sport in the Rocky Mountains. The party will sail direct from Vancouver to Sydney, thence to Wellington.

SCHOONER WRECKED.

Jeannie D. Phillips Struck on Harding's Ledge. Crew Escaped In Seine Boat.

Lynn, Mass., June 14.—The fishing schooner Jeannie D. Phillips, 55 tons, owned by Captain Edward Doane and others of Swampscott, was wrecked yesterday on Harding's ledge. The crew of 16 men took to the seine boat and rowed to Swampscott. She was off Minot's light, with a thick fog hanging over the water and a high sea running. The watch saw Minot's and the Boston lower light, but the fog was so heavy and thick that they became confused as to their bearings, and they sent below for Captain Doane. The latter hastily dressed and rushed on deck, but he had scarcely got there when the Phillips struck the rocks. A large hole was stove in her starboard side, through which the water poured swiftly. It was no use to attempt to patch the vessel.

Hurried preparations were made to abandon the schooner, and as her seine boat was large enough to carry the crew no attempt was made to unlash the vessel's dories. A terrific sea was running, and in their efforts to man the seine boat several of the crew fell overboard, but were soon rescued. A half hour after the schooner struck the ledge nothing but her masts could be seen above water.

During the 10-mile journey to Swampscott the boat shipped large quantities of water, owing to the high sea that was running, and the crew were greatly exhausted when they reached the end of their long pull.

ADMITS HIS GUILT.

Joseph Perry Under Arrest at Providence For Assault on Harvard, Mass., Girl.

Providence, June 14.—The authorities of Harvard, Mass., have been notified of the arrest in this city of Joseph A. Perry, who attempted a felonious assault upon Estella Stratton, a 15-year-old girl of that town. Perry talked unconcernedly with the police captain about his assault. He does not seem to realized the seriousness of his act, and he has not the least comprehension of the rage that was aroused among his townsmen in consequence of his crime. Perry bears the marks of a hardened criminal. He has served time in Concord and Fitchburg jails.

Ambrose T. Sears followed Perry from Harvard. At the height of the excitement at Harvard, Sears advised the selectmen to dispatch teams along the road to Providence. His plan was not thought wise, but he secured a bicycle and rode as far as Woonsocket, where he found he was on the right track, and from there he took a train for Providence.

Perry expressed a willingness to go back to Harvard as soon as the officers called for him, so that there will, in all probability be no delay in transferring him to Harvard. If he objects there will be the usual delay consequent upon the issuing of extradition papers.

Masonic Lodge Centennial.

Concord, Mass., June 14.—In connection with the 100th anniversary of Corinthian lodge, F. A. M., the service of worship was held yesterady afternoon it the First Parish church, in charge of Rev. Loring D. McDonald, a brother Mason and pastor of the church, and comprized the following features, the organ being presided over by Howard M. Dow of Boston: Organ voluntary; unison chant, "Venite Exeltemus;" invocation, followed by the "Jubilat Deo" by the Tremont quartette of Boston; Old Testament lesson from I Kings, viii; hymn, "Our Fathers' God," by the quartette; prayer, by Rev. Mr. McDonald; lodge prayer, by the lodge response, xxiii Psalm, by the quartette; New Testament lesson, from I Corinthians, iii; anthem, "Lord, Thou Hast Been Our Dwelling Place;" sermon, from I Cor. iii, 16-17; Te Deum Laudamus; singing of America by the congregation; benediction.

Dr. Rice Drowned.

Brunswick, Me., June 14.—Dr. Frank Rice of Brunswick, formerly of Portland, was drowned in the Androscoggin river two miles below that place yesterday afternoon. He was canoeing with J. Dawson Sinkinson of Portland, a Bowdoin student, when the canoe capsized Rice, who was a fine swimmer, had nearly reached shore when seized with a cramp, and he sank to the bottom like a stone. Sinkinson started for shore, then swam back to the canoe and was rescued in an exhausted condition. Rice was a dentist, 24 years old, unmarried, and a brother of Henrietta O. Rice, the well-known Portland singer. The body has not yet been recovered.

Ida Lathrop's Condition.

Lisbon, N. H., June 14.—There was little change yesterday in the condition of Ida Lathrop, who was so brutally assaulted her last Tuesday evening. Although her strength has improved, her mind is still a blank in regard to the occurrences of that evening. It is thought, however, that by the middle of next week she will be strong enough to be removed to her home in Littleton, where a change of surroundings may produce the desired result. She was visited yesterday by her sister, Mrs. Frank L Clough, and the latter's husband, whom she readily recognized and conversed with.

Fall River Street Railways.

Fall River, Mass., June 14.—The movement toward a coalition of the street railroad interests of the city, which were temporarily postponed because of the sickness of Director E. N. Gibbs of New York, a representative of the Globe Street Railway company, has been resumed. A conference was held in New York on Thursday, at which a plan was agreed upon. This agreement will be offered to the stockholders of each company, and if it meets their approval the Fall River Street Railway company will be absorbed by the Globe company.

Hailstorm at Manchester.

Manchester, N. H., June 14.—This city was visited by a severe hail and thunder storm yesterday afternoon. The streets were badly washed out. Lightning struck the First Methodist church in East Manchester and practically destroyed the tower. The Sunday school session was in progress at the time, and there was an unusually large attendance. The pastor and assistants barely avoided a panic.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Today is flag day.

The public schools close next week.

The City Council will not meet this week.

The eighty degree temperature did not materialize on Sunday.

New curbing will be laid on Hancock street near Saville street.

The Hull Yacht club will have more races this year than last year.

The Q. & B. base ball club will hold a dance at West Quincy June 29.

The route of the Boynton railway through this city should keep people guessing.

The Wollaston Trap Club will hold a shoot on the afternoon of the 17th at 2 o'clock.

The Atlantic division, A. O. H., have moved into their new hall on Newbury avenue.

The Hingham street railway are running their fifteen seat open cars on the Quincy line.

There was a very sharp flash of lightning early Sunday evening but it must have struck miles away.

Mr. William E. Rowe of Wollaston is building a house on Winthrop avenue for his own occupancy.

Last year it was pretty hot the latter part of the third week in June; 80 and 90 degree temperature.

The special work to connect the Quincy Point and Houghs Neck lines of the street railway has arrived.

The household furniture of the late George L. Baxter will be sold by Auctioneer Crane on Wednesday.

Mr. H. O. Rideout of Wollaston is building a house on Central avenue, which he will occupy, when completed.

The need of larger quarters for the Police department was again felt Sunday for there were seven prisoners confined in the six cells. These were all arrested Saturday night and as none were bailed the place was full all day Sunday, leaving no room for any arrests that might be made Sunday night.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Many Little Ones Christened on Sunday.

Exercises by Children Take Place of Regular Services.

Beautiful Decorations in Many of the Churches.

Children's day services were held in many of the churches Sunday and there were some very interesting programmes. Some are reported below:

At Bethany Church.

The congregation at Bethany church Sunday morning was one of the largest in the history of the society, being estimated at nearly 1,000. Not only was the auditorium filled but the gallery and platform, the latter being occupied by the primary department of the Bible school. White was prominent in the decorations which were by Misses Elliot and Phelps and were beautiful. Over the platform was a large arch of white and green surmounted with a cross, the arch bearing the words "Suffer little children to come unto me." There were wreaths and garlands of flowers on the organ and elsewhere, and three cages with canaries were suspended from the chandeliers.

The primary department in surprisingly large numbers marched into the church singing, and took seats on the platform. The services were almost entirely by the small children, a carol service entitled "The Child in the Church" being given. The singing seats were occupied by a children's choir.

Songs and hymns interspersed the Scripture reading by Supt. Branch, prayer by Rev. E. N. Hardy, reading by Charles Sampson, welcome by Master Carl Prescott, responsive reading, recitations by Corinne Hayward, George Tomkinson and Charles Hogan; exercise by Marion and Sadie Johnson, Helen Gill and Lelia Smith; exercise by Everett Hayden, Wendell Luce, George Munroe, Willie Griffiths and John Griffiths; recital of The Beatitude and Ten Commandments, essays on Christ by Lillian Pratt, Lorenzo Gilson and Helen Kingman; flower exercise by Mildred Gill, Helen Kingman, Mildred Rogers, Catherine Jones, Alice Webb and Jessie Lowe; exercise by Arthur and Russell Tingley; recitations by Lizzie Ross and Eddie Hayden; brief address by pastor; child's prayer by Mabel Wentworth; recitations by Rolena Skinner and Minnie Hardwick.

Infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Merrill, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Irving Beal were christened.

The following were graduated from the primary department and welcomed into the intermediate: Lillian Pratt, Alice Webb, Ruth Gould, Minnie Hardwick, Catherine Jones, Helen Kingman, Jessie Lowe, Grace McTear, Mildred Rogers, Kate Skinner, Dora Clark, Fred Jones, Lorenzo Gilson, Herbert Cobb, James Skinner and Laura Jones.

At the First Church.

Children's Day was observed in an appropriate manner at the First church on Sunday, the services being held in the morning in place of the regular morning services.

The members of the Sunday School occupied the front seats and the exercises were conducted by Superintendent John O. Hall, Jr., and were in accordance with the programme published in Saturday's LEDGER.

The decorations were simple but appropriate. The entire front of the desk being one huge bank of white and green, dotted here and there with a red peony. There were also three memorial wreaths hung upon the altar in memory of three members of the church who had passed away during the year, and these were briefly referred to by Rev. Mr. Butler in the course of his remarks, viz: Mr. Jacob Fliat, Mrs. George H. Field and William Clare.

At the opening of the exercises, four infants were baptized by Rev. Mr. Butler: John Howard Kennedy, John Edward Brown, Tilden Croker, and Livingstone Wight.

Superintendent Hall gave an interesting report of the work of the Sunday School during the past year. At the beginning of the year it was thought the best results in making the Sunday School a success would be accomplished by appealing to them as individuals. Recognizing the fact that the Sunday school was the nursery of the church it was agreed that those of the scholars who for six months maintained a record of 85 per cent. for attendance at Sunday School and church, and for contribution and satisfactory lesson and conduct, should be put on the roll of honor and should receive some suitable reward as a visible mark of their faithfulness. The following children are those who secured over 85 per cent.: Minnie Packard, Ella Packard, Constance Barker, Elsie Martin, Willie Wales, Molly Harris, Helena Hayes, Jennie Harris, Lucretia Duffield, John B. Keyes, each 100 per cent.; Annie Booth and Herbert Arnold, 99 per cent.; Clara Duffield, William Troupe and Florence Carr, 96 per cent.; Ralph Winslow, 95 per cent.; Nellie Troupe, Beatrice Walker and Sydney Carr, 94 per cent.; Helen Durgin, James Walker and Janet Carr, 92 per cent.; Ethel Booth, Charles Troupe and Mildred Willet, 87 per cent.; Molly Rogers, 86 per cent.; Audrey Rhines, 85 per cent.

The rewards, to remind the scholars of their faithful work, will be given to them soon. Mr. H. H. Faxon, becoming interested in the plan, with his usual generosity will look out for all who secured 100 per cent., and has contributed to the Sunday School twenty-five dollars to defray the other expenses.

For the past three months the pupils in the different classes have been contributing—aside from the regular Sunday collections—their pennies to four different objects; the Fresh Air Fund; the Floating Hospital; the Tuskegee Negro School; and the Unitarian Sunday School Society. The collection at the children's service will be devoted to the same ends and in this way over forty dollars will be available for these different funds. Thereby the children learn not merely to receive but to become interested in giving. Two classes have undertaken the support of two Armenian children for a year. With the help of the school they will be able to do this.

The treasurer's report showed the receipts during the year to have been $179 60 and the expenditures $112 84, leaving a balance of $66.76.

First Presbyterian Church.

A happy Children's Day was Sunday in this society. The church was crowded. Over the pulpit platform the stars and stripes were draped and upon it was a profusion of flowers. The order of services was appropriate and beautiful. The singing was unusually good. Over thirty of the children took part in recitations, besides those of the primary department. As usual, these wee tots attracted chief attention. Eight children were baptized by the pastor. The offering for Sabbath School Missions was up to the standard. 'Twas a happy providence that the rain waited for the afternoon.

At Quincy Point.

A large attendance, nearly every seat being occupied, greeted the children in their beautiful service Sunday at the Washington street Congregational church. The service occupied one hour and was participated in by about thirty children, and so well did they take their parts that not a single mistake or hesitancy was noted. At the close nothing but praise was heard from the audience who were delighted with the service. The choir was made up of members of the Sunday school. We will mention one or two special features, although all are entitled to special mention. The solos by Master Ilsley Dole and Miss Leona Hayden were beautifully rendered and listened to with rapt attention. The pulpit platform was transformed into a perfect bower of flowers; never have we seen a better display in the church. A vote of thanks was extended to the flower committee by the Sunday school.

At Wollaston.

"Children's Sunday" attracted a large audience to the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday forenoon. The pulpit was tastefully decorated with flowers. The services were notable for two things,—the brilliancy of the Rev. Mr. Bagley's address and the large number of children christened. Those christened and their parent's were as follows: Frederick Campbell and Lois, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stearns; Stanley Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elward J. Cummings; Edward Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Page; Katherine and Marcia, twin daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Charles S Adams; Abbie Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Emery; Gordon Paine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E Rowe.

The services at the children's Sunday observance at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday morning were very interesting. The service was conducted by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson, the pastor of the society. The principal speaker was Mr. Charles E. Finch, Jr., the master of the Wollaston school. Mr. Finch's address was an illustrated one, his subject being "God's letter to us." Mr. Finch is an exceedingly interesting speaker and held the undivided attention not only of children in the audience but the older portion as well. Two children were christened,—Mary Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Broughton, and Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Kingman.

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

BABY RECEPTION.

Thirty Little Ones at the Universalist Vestry on Saturday.

The baby reception at the Universalist church Saturday afternoon was a pronounced success. The day was all that could have been desired and many proud mothers took advantage of the opportunity to exhibit their offsprings, and tell how smart their particular infant was, how many teeth it had cut, how it slept nights, what wonderful things it said and to recite many of the wondrous things that daily transpired in their particular baby world. There were thirty babes under three years of age present and they were all of course beautiful. Some were boys, some were girls, some fat and some not fat, but all came in for their share of admiration and kisses. That is one disadvantage the baby has, for it has to submit to being kissed and fondled whether it wants to or not.

Henry H. Faxon kindly furnished ice cream for the occasion, and each infant under three years received a souvenir cup and saucer. Those to receive these souvenir cup and saucer with their ages are:

Otto Petterson, 11 months.
Ruth Gullickson, 2 years, 4 months.

How About Quincy?

A State House letter to the Weymouth Gazette says: The Charles river-Neponset sewerage bill was finally passed to be engrossed on Monday with an amendment making it operative every year after this until other provision for the discharge of the sewage, and payment therefor, shall have been made by the legislature. The fine Italian hand of the corporation counsel of the city of Boston is plainly visible in this, and though the bill was not supposed to be very much desired by the city, the fact that this went in convinced the friends of the valley to be suspicious of it. Senator Harwood of Newton therefore made a very earnest effort to get the amendment out, saying that Boston now owned the sewer, and what the valleys were trying to do was to get an interest in it also, so as to avoid having to pay rent on it. The committee's amendment that the Neponset valley be again put into bill after having been taken out by the house was adopted, which seems to indicate that it will be well for Quincy, Dedham and Milton to keep their eye on Boston, for they may some day be in as much trouble on this subject as are the residents of the Charles River valley.

Sport Loving.

In an article on sport-loving presidents in the Globe, we find the following relative to the Quincy presidents:

John Adams, although essentially a bookman, was also a skilled equestrian.

An all-round athlete and lover of field sports was John Quincy Adams, despite the coldness and austerity of his apparent nature He was a famous swimmer, could handle a sailing vessel with the best yachtsmen, loved pedestrianism, and was quite at home in the hunting field. But the sport of his heart was angling, and he was the first of the presidents who became a stanch disciple of Izaak Walton. Angling for deep sea bass off the New England coast was his pet hobby.

Stopped a Runaway.

The prompt action of Henry McDonald at Quincy Point Sunday afternoon prevented an accident that might have resulted seriously for Mrs. Hiram W. Phillips. Mr. McDonald with a party had been bicycling and being overtaken by the rain sought shelter on the piazza of the Washington Street Congregational church. They had been there but a few moments, when a horse dragging a carriage came up the street on the run from the bridge. In the carriage was Mrs. Phillips, who has been an invalid for some time, and who had lost control of the animal. Mr. McDonald taking in the situation, realized that prompt action was necessary, jumped onto his wheel and although the street was muddy and slippery he took his chances and succeeded in passing the runaway horse. Then he jumped from his wheel and as the horse approached he grabbed him by the head and soon succeeded in quieting him, after which he took the horse to the stable. Mr. McDonald is deserving of much praise for his courage.

Neighbors Not Neighborly.

Mrs. Hannah Marshall and Mrs. Ann Sullivan represent two families who occupy one house at Atlantic. Mrs. Marshall's children are not allowed to play in Mrs. Sullivan's back yard and therefore Mrs. Marshall objects to having the Sullivan children in her back yard. Last week Thursday afternoon one of the Sullivan children was crossing Mrs. Marshall's yard when the latter objected. Then according to Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Sullivan, and her daughters Ann and Mary, began to assault her. They not only pounded her but a stick was brought forward, and this was freely used, and as a result Mrs. Marshall's arms were made black and blue, and she had some cuts about the head, and was so thoroughly used up that she had to go to bed. She later swore out a warrant against the three Sullivans for assault and the case was heard in the District court this morning.

Founder's Day.

The Senior Middle class of Thayer Academy observed founder's day on Saturday, with a day made to order. The exercises included an address of welcome by George E. Sampson, class prophecy by Miss Mabel E. Whitcomb, and a debate: "Resolved, that Hawaii should be annexed to the United States." The debaters for the affirmative were Charles H. Wilson, Nina Belle Gage and Julian D. Orcutt, and for negative, Wade C. Belcher, Grace B. Crane and Alva Morrison. The debate was decided in favor of the negative.

The graduating class planted an ivy, and then there was dancing.

Many from Quincy, Randolph, Holbrook and Weymouth enjoyed the exercises of the day.

TODAY'S COURT.

It was a busy session at the District Court this morning, ten drunks being brought before the bar of justice, eight of whom were arrested in Quincy. Just what caused this spontaneous outburst is hard to tell unless it was that one pleasant day last week caused it. The Quincy drunk cases were disposed of as follows:

Cornelius M. Haley was fined $5 for drunkenness at Milton.

Thomas Smith was arraigned for non-support of his minor children at Weymouth. Case continued one month.

Ann Sullivan, Ann G. Sullivan and Mary E. L. Sullivan were arraigned for assault on Hannah Marshall at Quincy. Ann G. was discharged and the others fined $5 each.

The continued case of John Jacobson for drunkenness at Quincy was called and he was defaulted.

Good Templars.

"MORT A FELIX FAURE"

Abortive Attempt to Assassinate President of French Republic.

Bomb Loaded With Shot Exploded Near His Carriage.

Would-Be Assassin Left Pistol and Dagger Behind Him---Suspect Arrested.

Paris, June 14.—An attempt was made yesterday to assassinate M. Felix Faure, the President of the French Republic, while he was en route to Long Champs to witness the grand prix. While M. Faure's carriage was passing a thicket near LaCascade restaurant, in the Bois de Bolougne, a bomb, which subsequently proved to be a piece of tubing about six inches long and two inches in diameter, with a thickness of half an inch, charged with powder and swan shot, exploded. No one was injured by the explosion. A man was arrested, suspected as the prime mover. He gave his name as Gallet, and made only the briefest replies to questions put to him by the police.

Gallet said he had no occupation, but resided at Levallois-Perret. The police are making a thorough search of his lodgings. He is believed to be insane, for he shouted as the carriage passed along so loudly as to attract general attention in the crowd. The police have also made another arrest, in this case a youth, but it is thought probable that the actual culprit escaped.

The news of the attempt spread like wildfire through the city, and when M. Faure returned to the Elysee the streets along the route where it was known he would drive were crowded with people, who cheered him vociferously.

It was at first reported that the would-be assassin was a young man about 25, who stood in the crowd 100 yards or more from the race course and discharged a pistol at M. Faure as he drove up to the entrance, and there was a subsequent report that both pistol and bomb were used. But the police now believe that the supposed pistol shot was merely the noise of the bomb.

The bomb was a clumsily made affair, to which a piece of fuse was attached, and the fuse was probably lighted by a taper fixed in the end of a stick as soon as the head of the procession came into view. The presumption is that the moment the fuse was lighted the culprit fled, and in any case the bomb could not have done much harm.

In the thicket where the police found the remnants of the bomb they found also a pistol, upon which were engraved the words, "Mort a Felix Faure," and the names Alsace-Lorraine and Cologne. Near the pistol was a small dagger bearing a similar threatening inscription, and a few feet away the police found a newspaper with a cartoon grossly insulting to the president. This contained an offensive inscription hinting at the execution of M. Faure.

An official who was riding with M. Faure said:

"When the report was heard a dense cloud of smoke rose from the thicket and there was terrible consternation until it was found that no one had been injured. The police sprang forward, but found the thicket deserted. When the crowd saw one of the policemen holding the bomb they jumped to the conclusion that he was the perpetrator of the outrage and handled him roughly, clubbing him with heavy walking sticks and umbrellas until his comrades rescued him, badly bruised and covered with blood. The president's cortege then proceeded to the race course."

The attempt on the life of M. Faure was made on the very spot where Berezowsky tried to shoot the czar, while driving to the military review at Long Champs, in 1867, and where Francois, a lunatic, last year fired his revolver at M. Faure on July 14.

Having this in mind, the police took extra precautions, and special officers were detailed to watch suspects and for searching houses known to be the resorts of dangerous characters. It is a curious fact that yesterday The Petite Republique Francais published a skit declaring that the police were busy organizing an incident for M. Faure's visit to Russia, suggesting that a nimble clown would be dressed in rags and jump upon the step of the president's carriage, brandishing a homicidal weapon.

On his arrival at the race course, M. Faure was warmly congratulated on his escape by the Grand Duke Sergius, M. Hanotaux and other members of the cabinet.

His sang froid will greatly increase his popularity. It is rumored that the prefect of police has information connecting the Paris anarchists with the outrage, but it is more generally believed that the act was the act of a madman than of a conspirator. The pistol found by the police was loaded, but was of too small calibre to be very dangerous.

M. Faure behaved with perfect self-command, and continued to bow right and left to the crowd after the explosion as if nothing unusual had happened.

The roadway had been cleared for some time. The presidential escort was led by two dragoons, holding their pistols forward in the most threatening manner; then came a large body of dragoons, and after them, in the midst of a cloud of dust, the president's open carriage, without riders. The president was accompanied by his wife, while in another carriage were his two daughters, Mlle. Lucie Faure and Mme. Berge.

The horses attached to M. Faure's carriage reared wildly at the explosion, but were whipped by Montjarret's vigorous arm. Rousteaux, the detective who is always with the president, rushed forward and grappled with a man, but was immediately set upon by half a dozen persons in the crowd, probably accomplices of the would-be assassin. The crowd mistook the detective for an anarchist, and were about to lynch him. He was beaten, kicked, spat upon and not rescued by the police until bleading and unconscious from a terrible beating.

Headed For Washington.

Asheville, N. C., June 14.—The presidential party, bound north, stopped over here today. The journey will be continued tonight.

ILLITERACY IN THE SOUTH.

Forty Per Cent of Population Unable to Read. American Missionary Association's Work.

Boston, June 14.—The New England office of the American Missionary association, Rev. George H. Guttenson, secretary, has issued a special statement to Congregational churches of the association's editorial work. It shows that the A. M. A. maintains 76 schools in 12 Southern states, 57 of them having 10,044 pupils are for the Freedmen. Only 20 of these are "common schools." Wherever the elementary instruction provided by the Southern states for the colored pupils becomes at all adequate, the A. M. A. removes its primary schools to more needy districts.

Mississippi has 744,749 negroes, 60.9 per cent illiterate. South Carolina has 689,141 negroes, 64.1 per cent illiterate. Georgia has 858,996 negroes, 67.3 per cent illiterate. Louisiana has 560,192 negroes, 72.1 per cent illiterate. In our country three-fourths of the nation's illiteracy is in the South. Forty per cent of the whole population of the South cannot read. Of the 2,000,000 illiterate voters in our country, 1,500,000 are in the South. Twenty per cent of the Southern whites and 4 per cent of the Northern are illiterate. Eighty per cent of the wealth of the nation is in the North.

Previous to 1876 there were no public schools in the South for whites or blacks. Even now one-third of the states have a school term averaging only four months per annum for both races. The reason for this is the poverty of the South. The entire school system for the negro is now carried on by negro teachers. The modicum of learning offered the negro by the public schools of the Southern states does not even furnish the foundation for the commonest degree of intelligence.

Among the more than 2,000,000 mountain whites in th South one-half cannot read. Congregationalists have 19 schools among these people in five states. Nine of them are academies, 10 are normal and graded. The pupils number 2405.

There are 50,000 Indians of school age, of these the last census gives only 22,393 as attending school. The association supports 21 schools among the Indians, with 520 pupils. The largest normal and training school is at Santee Agency, Neb. It has 18 instructors, 127 pupils. Its course of study begins with the kindergarten and extends through the high school studies. This school gathers its pupils from the Mississippi river to the Rocky Mountains, and from the Platte river to Canada. Twelve hundred have come under its instruction. It trains teachers and preachers for the great Indian fields. There are also 26 "out stations" among the Indians, situated in five different states and reaching 20 different tribes. An "out station" consists of a home, a church and a schoolhouse. Forty missionaries occupy these out stations. They reach 50,000 Indians every year. The association has been forced to cut its appropriations for the Indian work during the last four years from $57,800 to $35,000.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The cruiser New York has arrived at Newport News.

A cyclone struck Elkins, Va., yesterday, doing considerable damage.

The Lewiston (Me.) police have been notified that the body of Edward Grenier has been stolen from the cemetery.

Albert Benson and Thomas Olsen were wrestling at New York yesterday. Benson threw Olsen and the latter's neck was broken.

In Kenyser county Minnesota a negor ran amuck and killed three women and two children, all negroes. The fiend took to the woods, and is now surrounded by a posse.

Rev. G. E. Lovejoy of the First Congregational church at Stoneham, Mass., preached his farewell sermon yesterday. He enters upon his Pittsfield (N. H.) pastorate July 1.

C. W. McGuiggan, a house painter of Somerville, Mass., was struck by a train at East Cambridge last night and received injuries from which he died. He leaves a widow and four children.

Near Tiller, Ark., Mrs. P. A. Wilson killed her husband, beating his brains out with a hammer. Wilson was a well known lumber man. After committing the deed, Mrs. Wilson surrendered to an officer.

S. N. Foster, a prominent resident of New Brighton, S. I., fell dead last night of heart disease. Two sons survive him, one of whom is in New Haven, another son fell dead in the streets of New York about a year ago of heart disease.

Manager Marston of the Fall Rivers has secured Kuhne, whom Pittsburg released, and Wagner from Flushing, L. I., baseball team. He also signed Miles Standish. Kuhne will play third base, and Kelly will be put back at center field. Wagner is a change catcher and right fielder.

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

RECENT INDIAN SCARE.

Official Report of Trouble Received by the War Department.

Indians Wanted to Fight the Deputy Sheriffs.

Catain Stouch Relates Cause of Irritation and Asks for Troops.

Washington, June 14.—The Indian office has received an official report of the Indian trouble at Tongue river, Mont., which arose over the murder of a settler and the arrest of the Indian murderer.

The report states that soon after Hoover's body was found on May 23, Captain Stouch sent for White Bull and some of the head men, being satisfied that it was his band which committed the murder. The old chief came in response to the summons and expressed his regret at the occurrence. Captain Stouch told him to tell the head men that the band would be held responsible for the murder unless they discovered the real culprit and brought him to the post. This they promised to do, and an old Indian named Badger made the prophetic remark, "I promise the agent that if I find out, and I will try to find out, I will tell him if it is my own son."

It turned out to be the son of the old brave who killed Hoover. This conference took place on May 27, and that same day Sheriff Gibb of Custer county and a band of 25 armed men rode up to the agency and informed Captain Stouch that they wanted the murderers. The agent replied that he was doing everything possible to discover and arrest the guilty Indians, and if not interfered with was confident that he would succeed. The sheriff left four deputies and departed.

That evening Captain Read, with two troops of cavalry, also arrived. Soon after this White Bull came into the agency and told Captain Stouch that Stanley had confessed to the murder, but would not surrender, having sent word that he would fight at 3 o'clock. To this the agent replied that he would not allow a fight, but that the chiefs must compel Stanley to give himself up. A courier was sent to recall the cavalry, which had started for the scene of the killing. By this time the news that Stanley was to fight had spread, and the Indians became very restless. The squaws and children took to the hills away from the agency, while the bucks rode in and stationed themselves on the hilltops. They were all heavily armed and had their horses. They informed the agent that they had come to see Stanley fight. Captain Stouch then says:

A Defiant Indian.

"Captain Read returned to the agency with his command at about 3:30 in the afternoon. At this time Stanley was on a high hill in the rear of the agency and not at a great distance from it. He had his horse and squaw with him, was in his war dress and paint, and was heavily armed. He was all ready for the fight. It was the desire of Captain Read to charge and capture or kill him. At this juncture a greatly excited Indian on horseback appeared with the information that Stanley did not want to fight the soldiers, but did want to fight the citizens, meaning the deputy sheriffs who were here. I told him to go back and tell Stanley I would not allow anyone to fight him and for him to come in and surrender. Deputy Sheriff Smith told me he would attempt the capture if I would guarantee his safety from the other Indians. I told him I could not so guarantee, and moreover there would be no fight, and that Stanley must be captured without any bloodshed. I wanted this done as an example for those amongst the Indians who contemplate wrongdoing, and I knew perfectly well that if he were permitted to fight and was killed he would be a hero and brave in the eyes of the tribe, whose example should be emulated by the young men. Stanley followed in the footsteps of Head Chief and Crazy Mule, of whose heroic deaths stories are told around the fires, making every young man anxious for a similar death.

I did not think it wise and provident to make the attempt with but two troops of cavalry here; while I believe the Indians were not disposed to resist the capture of Stanley, still there was no telling what they would do when one of their people was being fired upon; had they made a resistance there is no telling where it would have ended.

"Knowing of their disposition to resist in 1891, when much weaker than now, I thought two troops of cavalry would not stand much show of overcoming these warriors whose fierceness is noted.

As the presence of the deputy sheriffs interfered with his investigation, Captain Stouch asserted his authority and ordered the deputies off the reservation. By this time Stanley had disappeared. After much trouble he was located at Black Eagle's camp. Captain Stouch immediately started for the camp and found the braves fully armed and disinclined to surrender without a fight. Finally he consented to accompany the agent back to the post, still refusing to give up his arms. He was then persuaded to give up his rifle, and when the agency was reached he was promptly locked up. In the meantime Sheriff Gibb returned and presented Captain Stouch with a warrant for his arrest for violating the state laws in interfering with the sheriff in his attempt to arrest the Indian. Then the sheriff demanded the person of Stanley, but the agent positively refused to deliver him up, feeling that it would defeat the ends of justice, as he hoped to secure from the prisoner evidence which would lead to the apprehension of his accomplices. The sheriff departed, but again left his deputies. Finally, after much parleying, Captain Stouch became convinced that it was useless to hold the murderer longer and turned him over to the sheriff, sending an escort of cavalry with him to the railroad.

The report deals with the difficulties thrown around him by the interference of the state officials at great length, and concludes by recommending that in view of the disturbed condition of the settlers two troops of cavalry be stationed at Tongue river.

BOY INSURGENT.

General Weyler Commutes Death Sentence to Life Imprisonment.

Havana, June 14.—The commutation by Captain General Weyler of the sentence of a young Cuban named Ruano, who had been condemned to death and was to be shot today, to life imprisonment, has caused much favorable criticism by both Cubans and liberal-minded Spaniards here.

Ruano, who is only 14 years old, was captured after having been wounded while fighting under the insurgent chief, Rafael Lerdomo, near Itabo. He was charged with the crimes of rebellion and incendiarism.

Ex-Mayor Pizarro of the town of San Nicolas, Havana province, and Wardman Armenteros, have been placed upon trial by court-martial, charged with being in league with the insurgents who raided San Nicolas during the administration of Senor Fizarro.

Official reports place the losses of the insurgents from May 30 to June 10 at 228 killed and 13 taken prisoners, besides 105 who have surrendered with their arms.

According to the same authority the regular troops during the same period lost five killed and 60 wounded.

The gunboat Reina Cristina has reconnoitered the Saint Ann river. The insurgents maintained a steady fire on the gunboat during her reconnoisance. Two of the gunboat's crew were wounded.

Drowning Accident.

New York, June 14.—Two men were drowned, owing to an accident to a catboat in the Hudson, off Fort Lee, yesterday afternoon. They were accompanied in the yacht by a sister of one of them. She was rescued in an unconscious condition. The party started from Watkins park. It consisted of Miss Emma Guilmette, her brother, H E. Guilmette, who is a clerk in the office of Moore & Schley, and W. Morton Smith, employed on The Mail and Express. They sailed on the river until about 3 o'clock, when the boat was struck by a squall and went over. The launch Lenna Doone, Edward Weston of Newark, N. J., was some distance off Mr. Weston saw the accident, and, putting on all speed, went to the rescue Before he succeeded in reaching the boat, the two men had disappeared Miss Guilmette was still floating and was dragged on board of the launch where she revived.

Clinton Citizen Gone.

Clinton, Mass., June 14.—Charles G Stevens, 75 years old, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of this place, died here yesterday after a lingering illness, of old age. He was a native of New Hampshire, and graduated from Dartmouth college in 1840. After graduating, he went to Lancaster and began a law practice. He was the leader of the movement to make Clinton a town and was a judge in the law courts of Eastern Worcester for a number of years. He was the president of the First National bank here from its inception until two years ago, and has represented the town in both branches of the legislature.

New Two Hundred-Mile Record.

Boston, June 14.—Roudolph Lauriks, captain of the White Cycle club of Chelsea, yesterday lowered the state record for the double century, and could have put up a new record for the 300 miles had not the rain interfered. He started from Copley square shortly after 12 o'clock Sunday morning over the Newburyport course with the intention of breaking the triple century mark. He covered the 200 miles, or double century, in 14h. 28m. The previous record was held by E. C. Graves of Springfield, his time being 17h. 28m. 30s. Lauriks made the first century in 6h. 32m. He stopped at Salem at the completion of 225 miles, which he had covered in 16h. 50m.

"Human Ostrich" Dead.

Kansas City, June 14.—Harry Whallen the "human ostrich," who was operated upon at the German hospital, Saturday last, and from whose stomach the surgeon took two pocket knives, three knife blades, three ounces of fine glass, tacks nails, screws and staples to the number of 70, died at 2 o'clock this morning as the result of the operation.

Maine Middle Roaders.

Lewiston, Me., June 14.—Joseph M. Stockman of Auburn, chairman of the People's party state committee, has called the members of his committee to meet in Auburn next Saturday. It is understood that action will be taken in regard to the national conferece of the "Middle-of-the-Road" Populists to be held in Nashville July 4.

Seeing New England.

Fall River, Mass., June 14.—The Pan-American commercial delegation arrived here this morning. They will spend the day inspecting the industries of this city. They will visit a number of New England cities, and will then start for a tour of the Western cities. Most of them will leave for their homes about the latter part of July, although some of them, who have special commissions from their governments, will remain during the entire summer.

End of Lockout.

Stoneham, Mass., June 14.—The lockout which has existed for the past three months at the shoe factory of T. H. Jones is practically at an end. Mr. Jones has succeeded in his endeavor to run a free shop. More than 50 of the locked out employes have already applied for their old jobs. The labor leaders have not yet declared the lockout off, however.

THE SOUTH AMERICANS

Commercial Delegates Are Guests of the City of Boston.

Their Itinerary Through New England Cities.

Boston, June 15.—The foreign members of the advisory board of the Philadelphia museums arrived in Boston from Fall River at 7:15 last evening. The great Commercial museum of that city is managing the tour, and officials from that institution are in charge of the party. They will remain in Boston today and tomorrow, going thence to Providence, Worcester, Springfield and New Haven. The object of the visit of these foreign tradesmen to New England is to inspect the leading manufactories. Fall River did herself proud yesterday in her entertainment of the delegates. The city was lavishly decorated and the visitors were very appreciative.

Forty-five pretty girls represented the states of the Union, each carrying a shield, pointing to words of greeting in English, Spanish and French. The arch had been erected in honor of the occasion by the French citizens, who form a large proportion of the population.

Another event which lent particular appropriate to the day's festivities was the opening of the textile exhibition at the Casino. As Fall River has within its confines 83 of the largest cotton mills in the country, with an aggregate daily output of 85,000 yards, there was nothing small about the display, and the delegates were quick to see its importance.

In fact, a marked feature of their day's sightseeing was a unanimous surprise at the extent of the industries. At the Globe yarn mills they saw no less than 1642 automatic spinning machines in one room, and at the American print works the operation of looms which turn out 22 miles of cotton cloth an hour and 7500 bed quilts in a week. What to the visitors were no smaller wonders were seen at the Fall River bleachery and the Stevens, Parker & Barnaby mills.

After a drive about the city the Quequechan club was thrown open to the foreigners, and they had the freedom of the house until train time.

During the interval dinner was served and speeches made. Mayor Green welcomed the party in a brief address, reviewing the industrial history of Fall River, which he told them was the greatest cotton manufacturing city on the continent.

Then President Coughlin of the board of trade said a word in behalf of that body. "The government of Washington and Monroe," he said, "has ever watched the emancipation of the South American countries from the yoke of foreign domination, and will always watch your onward march along the path of prosperity and honor."

Simeon B. Chase, president of the Manufacturers' association, told the delegates that in Fall River were operated 3,000,000 spindles, one-sixth of the entire number in the United States; that they were run by 25,000 persons, to whom went a weekly wage aggregating $180,000. The yearly output of cotton goods was 800,000,000 yards. "We don't need all of this," he added, "and we would be glad is some of it went to South America."

Arthur H. Hitchings of Rio Janeiro responded gratefully for the delegates, and on behalf of them left this signed testimonial:

"We, the delegates from Mexico, central and South America, wish to express our thanks for the entertainment and hospitality extended to us by the city of Fall River and the committee of citizens, and also for the attractive displays and decorations made in our honor by individual citizens, and, lastly, for the most pleasing arch erected through the interest of the French citizens of Fall River."

"NOT REVENUE, BUT DISASTER."

Burlington Citizens Say That Is What the New Duty on Pine Will Bring.

Burlington, Vt., June 15.—A large number of citizens assembled in the city hall last evening to protest against the proposed $2 tariff on white pine lumber. Resolutions to this effect were adopted and sent to all members of the Vermont delegation in congress.

The resolutions were in part as follows:

For over 40 years the city of Burlington has received from Canada large quantities of white pine lumber for manipulation and distribution throughout New England. In necessary connection with this business, great plants have been established comprising extensive wharves, planing mills, dry kilns, storage houses, door, sash and blind factories and other wood-working institutions, all of which depend for permanence and prosperity on this lumber supply.

We most earnestly protest against this proposed $2 duty on rough white pine lumber, as it is necessary neither for protection or for revenue, and because its effect would be to strike down and supplant one of the leading industries of New England.

The senators and members to congress from the state of Vermont are, therefore, earnestly requested to take steps against the passage of this duty or $2 per 1000 on rough white pine lumber, and we call the attention of all the senators and representatives in the Eastern states to the serious effects upon the people which would come from this movement, designed to break down long established industries and trade connections. The present bill is intended generally to modify the tariff bill of 1890 and establish rates which will stand.

Should the rate on rough white pine lumber exceed that of the McKinley bill, $1 per 1000, it would bring not revenue, but disaster.

Extra Assessment.

Boston, June 15.—The Globe says that when the next call for the payment of assessments is made on the policy holders of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association, July 1, there will be an extra assessment levied at the same time. This assessment it is expected will clear up all the accumulated losses of the association and leave it untrammeled and free to pursue new business under new methods. This special assessment was decided upon at a directors' meeting held some time ago. It appears that for some time, because of the state of the public mind and the unwillingness of the old management to further stir up the policy holders, the association has found it impossible to increase the assessments as much as was needed, and consequently death claims have gradually accumulated.

Mulrey and Finneran Sentenced.

Boston, June 15.—J. Richard Mulrey, convicted in two trials of obtaining money from the city of Boston by false pretenses, was sentenced in the superior court yesterday to eight years in state prison. P. J. Finneran, convicted with Mulrey at the first trial, received a sentence of 28 months in the house of correction and a fine of $1400. After the sentences had been pronounced the counsel for the men asked for a stay in the execution, pending the decision of the supreme court on the exceptions taken at the trial. A stay was, however, refused, and both men began serving their terms of imprisonment. Mulrey and Finneran were tried and convicted of obtaining a large sum of money from the city by falsifying teaming accounts. Mulrey was a clerk in the street department while Finneran was a young contractor, and it was shown that the two acted in collusion. It was stated that Finneran only obtained $2200 as his share while Mulrey's peculation amounted to many thousand dollars.

Ordination at Tufts.

West Medford, Mass., June 15.—Eight men and three women were ordained ministers in Goddard chapel, Tufts college, yesterday. The services in connection with the ordination were impressive, the address being delivered by Rev. John C. Adams, D. D. The following candidates were presented for ordination by President Capen: Herbert Elmon Benton of Newtonville, Flint Mandrin Birsell of Wellesley, Augusta Gertrude Earle of Somerville, John Eills of Lowell, George Ferdinand Fortier of Somerville, Isabella Stirling Macduff of Claremont, N. H.; Clarence Guy Robbins of Melrose, Mrs. Nancey Wiley Paine Smith of Tufts college, Fred Allan Taylor of West Somerville, George Linnalus Thompson of Stafford, Conn.; Fred Storer Walker of Portland, Me.

Seamen on a Strike.

Boston, June 15.—The sailors who ship from the port of Boston, nearly every man of whom belongs to the Atlantic Seamen's union, struck for an increase in wages yesterday. It is claimed by the union that the falling off in shipping in the coal carrying trade, where larger barges have been recently employed, and because of the railroad companies having given lower freight rates, have influenced shipowners to endeavor to increase profits by a reduction of wages. The sailors are of the opinion that the reduction of their wages will not overcome these two methods of competition. Therefore it was resolved to make an aggressive effort to have wages advanced.

Lawrence Libel Cases Continued.

Salem, Mass., June 15.—At the request of counsel and with the assent of the court the libel cases against John F. Shea and J. E. Donoghue of Lawrence have been continued until the September term of the criminal court in this city. Colonel J. P. Sweeney, in making the requests, pointed out that there was considerable feeling just at present over the recent O'Sullivan case, and he did not think it fair to his clients that their cases should be tried at this time. The district attorney agreed with Colonel Sweeney, and Judge Bishop was also of the same opinion.

Scarcity of Logs.

Calais, Me., June 15.—Nearly every lumber mill in this section is shut down. The first drive of the season is not expected until July 1.

Six Million Signers.

Washington, June 15.—In the area in front of the speaker's rostrum, when the house met yesterday, was a monster petition appealing to congress to recognize the Cuban insurgents as belligerents. It contained over 6,000,000 signatures. It had been in circulation throughout the United States for about six months, and was sent to Congressman Sulzer of New York for presentation by Frank Mayer, a resident of his district.

Jamaicans Seize Cuban Dispatches.

Kingston, Jam., June 15.—Dr. Viete, chief surgeon of the Cuban insurgent army commanded by General Garcia, arrived at Rio Buena, this island, on Saturday, accompanied by 11 Cubans. They had escaped from the province of Santiago de Cuba in an open boat, and brought with them dispatches for the Cuban junta at New York. These dispatches were seized by the Jamaican officials.

In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. The New Hall.

It has been suggested that it would be a paying investment for those interested in the City Hospital to open the new hall that is being erected on Hancock street. There are several societies that desire to have the honor of opening this hall but if those interested in the City Hospital want to open it the societies would probably give way to them, as all wish the institution success.

It might be a good idea to arrange a course of lectures and concerts to run throughout the winter, tickets for which could be sold by subscription, and have the opening number a first class concert, either by the Symphony or Germania orchestra, with a reader.

If not thought advisable to hold a course, the Hospital people might open the new hall with a grand concert as mentioned, tickets for which would readily sell at one dollar each.

Work on the hall is now progressing rapidly.

Steam Yacht Enrolled.

Mr. A. C. Gardner, chief engineer of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., of Boston, brought his 46 foot steam yacht, Winona, around from Boston last Saturday and anchored off the Wollaston yacht club. During the evening and Sunday Mr. Gardner entertained his friends and club members in a royal manner. Frequent short trips about Quincy bay were indulged in.

It was an inspiring sight to see a steam yacht in our bay, and the Wollaston Yacht club may congratulate itself on having one like the Winona enrolled in its club.

Bicycle Party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Badger of Wollaston gave a delightful bicycle party on Saturday afternoon. Guests were present from Cambridge, Brookline, Boston, Wollaston and Braintree. THE ADAMS HOUSES.

Historical Society a Tenant-at Will.

The Proposition of C. F. Adams for Lease Not Accepted.

The Cost to Renovate the House It Occupies Was $1,650.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I find the following in a recent issue:

"We were surprised to learn the other day from a member of the Quincy Historical Society that the birthplace of John Quincy Adams was not owned by the society, they not having a deed of the property. We had always supposed it a gift from Hon. Charles Francis Adams to the society, but perhaps our informant is not posted."

The Quincy Historical Society has not had a deed of the property from me, for the sufficient reason, among others, that the property is not mine to deed. It belongs to the Adams Real Estate Trust.

Some two years ago my attention was drawn to the dilapidated condition of the house, which, if not speedily repaired, was in imminent danger of tumbling down. Some proper disposition of it had long been a matter of concern on my part, as I disliked to see it occupied as a tenement house; and now it was suggested that it would be cared for and be of public interest if in the hands of the Quincy Historical Society.

I hesitated about beginning the work of repairs, as, in the case of ancient buildings, when once the process of renewal begins it is impossible to say how far it will go or where it will end. After reflection, however, I agreed to renovate this house for the use of the Historical society, provided the cost should not exceed a certain sum. The work was then entered upon under the direction of Mr. William G. Spear, and, as usual, before completed it was found to have cost $1650, twice the sum estimated.

The question of occupation by the Historical Society, as is well known, was young, and financially, could not be considered a responsible organization. It might be dissolved at any time, and the property it had taken by possible creditors, or otherwise disposed of. Under these circumstances, after consultation with the members of the Adams family, I was authorized to offer to the Society a lease of the renovated building for a long term of years at a wholly nominal rent, with an agreement that, in case, during the term of the lease, the Society should become firmly established and financially responsible, a deed of the building should be given to it, in trust to preserve it as an interesting historical relic.

I have not heard from the Society in reply to this proposition. The Society, therefore, now holds the building purely as a tenant-at-will, without paying rent. The family have no disposition to disturb it in its occupancy.

All arrangements have been with Mr. W. G. Spear, the Librarian of the Quincy Historical Society, who also supervised the work of renovation.

Hoping these facts will sufficiently explain this matter to all who may feel an interest in it, I remain, etc.,

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

They All Come Back To Hood's

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine keep up and continue the whole year round, steady as a clock.

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the standard—the One True Blood Purifier.

Board of Railroad Commissioners.

BOSTON, June 11, 1897.

ON the petition of the Braintree Street Railway Company for approval of the terms of a proposed purchase and sale of the railway, franchise, property, rights and easements of the Randolph Street Railway Company by and to said Braintree Street Railway Company, and for authority to increase its capital stock by the amount of $35,000, the Board will give a hearing to the parties in interest at their office, No. 20 Beacon Street, Boston, on MONDAY, the twenty-eighth day of June, 1897, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

And the petitioner is required to give notice of said hearing by publication hereof three times prior to said date in the Quincy DAILY LEEGER, a newspaper printed in Quincy, and to serve a copy hereof on the Randolph Street Railway Company.

Per order,
WM. J. MCCULLOUGH,
Assistant Clerk.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

This is one of those rare June days.

The stores of Atlantic will be open all day Wednesday and closed all day Thursday.

Miss Annie Olmsted, of Wellesley, has been spending a few days with her sister in this city.

After July first, there will be but one Sunday evening meeting at the Wollaston Baptist church.

Mrs. Turner, of Hancock street, Atlantic, has returned from a three weeks' visit to friends in Boston.

The stores in City Square will be closed Thursday June 17, but will be open Wednesday evening.

Miss Florence E. Sanderson, a teacher at Brookline, spent Sunday with her friend, Miss Dorcas C. Higgins.

Henry Bates, one of Rogers Bros. clerks who has been sick with the measles, has recovered and returned to work.

The Massachusets Benefit Life Association will levy an extra assessment July 1 to clear up all the accumulated losses.

The contract for catering for Ladies' Day for the Quincy Yacht club has been awarded to Messrs. T. D. Cook & Co. of Boston.

There should be some bargains at the sale of the furniture of the late Mrs. George L. Baxter, one of Quincy's oldest families.

Prof. Blanchard, of the Emerson school of oratory, gave a Shakespeare reading at the Quincy Mansion school on Monday evening.

N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston, real estate, reports the sale of 5000 square feet of land on Farrington street to Bridget Buckley of Dorchester.

The Triangle Wheelmen will run to the Boston Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night. It was intended to make this trip last week but the wet weather prevented.

The building of permanent seats around the ball field at Merry Mount park by the Park Commissioners will be appreciated by all who enjoy watching this sport.

Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., will receive a visitation from Pilgrim lodge of Randolph at its meeting Friday evening. Two candidates will be initiated and there will be an entertainment.

Office hours at the Quincy postoffice on June 17, will be 7 to 10 A. M., 5 to 7 P. M Carriers will make one delivery, and collection only. Late mail for all points will close at 6.30 o'clock P. M.

The Committee on Streets will find the length of streets in a recent City Book and it will not be difficult with a map to calculate the miles or feet of streets which are being watered this year, and then it will be easy to fix the assessment per frontage.

Mount Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., will meet at its hall on Sunday evening at 6.30 to attend memorial services at Bethany Congregational church. The address will be by Rev. E. N. Hardy and the necrology by Bro. John O. Hall.. Odd Fellows and the public generally are invited.

There was an increased attendance yesterday afternoon at the New Era Cooking school, when Miss Huxford, a talented young lady from London, Eng., gave an interesting and valuable talk, followed by demonstration by Miss Packard. The school closes this afternoon.

The Y. M. C. A. track team will practise on their new field, back of the Y. M. C. A. building tonight. Among the new men are Tom Greenough the Braintree flier; Steve Talbot crack half miler; and Geo. Mavers the long distance runner, who made fast time in the cross country.

The drawings and models made by members of the Y. M. C. A. educational classes, now on exhibition in the windows of Hearn's pharmacy, are attracting considerable attention. The exhibit includes free hand drawing, monumental, designing, clay modeling, Sloyd or elementary carpentery and penmanship.

Children's day was observed at the Atlantic M. E. church on Sunday. At the morning service Rev. Ira Price, the pastor, preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion, and in the evening there was a Sunday School concert with speaking and singing by the pupils of the Sunday School. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers for the occasion.

The Adams Chapter of Quincy of the society of the Daughters of the Revolution invites parents who wish to show their children the birthplace of President John Adams, to be present at the house on June 17th. The house will be open, free of charge, from 10 to 12 A M, and from 3 to 5 P M Members of the Chapter will be present to show the house to all who may wish to visit it.

The formal opening of New Downer Landing, formerly known as Lovell's Grove, occurred Saturday when three picnic parties from Boston held their annual outings. Many of them make the trip from Boston on the new steamer Victor. The grove is now controlled by the Boston Excursion steamship company which have thoroughly renovated the grounds so that it is today one of the best places along the south shore for a day's outing.

A Clean Scoop.

When we use the phrase, "a clean scoop," we're not employing slang to indicate how enormous a portion of the Quincy grocery trade comes to us.

We use the expression in a restricted sense to apply to the actual sugar scoops, etc., which are in use in our store, day by day, and more widely to indicate the general cleanliness which characterizes our store.

We like our customers to feel that the food supplies which we send them are handled by clean, careful clerks, using scoops and measures about which hangs no suspicion of dirt.

We do a clean business, in a clean store, on clean principles, with clean people.

If cleanliness means anything to you, it means everything.

Try a sample order of general goods from our large stock and see if we cannot carry out all we promise. Our stock is so large it is impossible for us to tell you what we have, but we are pleased to show goods always.

IMMIGRANT STATION BURNED

Government Buildings on Ellis Island All Consumed---No Lives Lost.

New York, June 15.—The United States government immigrant station on Ellis island was destroyed by fire early this morning, but with no loss of life. The fire was first seen at 12:38 a. m. by the lookout from the harbor police station, who noticed a small flame coming out of the window on the second floor. The fire spread rapidly. At 1:05 a. m. the eaves along the entire roof began to fall, setting fire to the wooden piers and docks on either side.

At 1:12 a. m. the whole thing was a mass of flames, illuminating the entire inner harbor.

As quickly as possible 45 policemen and the police launches were sent to the island. The fireboat New Yorker was soon under headway with firemen, policemen and others. The fireboat Zophar Mills was also sent to the island. Rescuers also went over in launches, tugs and rowboats. The end of the building in which the fire started was used for sleeping, cooking and eating by the immigrants. The detention pen, in which there was always a considerable number of immigrants, old and young, male and female, being held for investigation, was soon consumed.

There was a hospital in the station, and it was seldom without occupants.

It was at first believed by the police that the loss of life would be heavy, but all the immigrants, 200 in number, were finally brought safely from the island to the barge office at the battery. All the valuable records in the buildings were destroyed.

The fire presented a magnificent spectacle, and was witnessed by large crowds on the Battery and on Brooklyn bridge.

Republican Caucus.

Washington, June 15.—The Republican senators were in caucus for more than three hours last night and when adjournment was reached not very much progress had been made. The Hawaiian treaty proposition was passed over to be considered at another caucus, as several senators expressed the opinion that if it was true that a treaty of annexation was to be sent in it would be absurd to enact legislation looking to the abrogation of the treaty of reciprocity. Senators who were aware of the progress of the annexation treaty did not feel at liberty to give the caucus full information. Although there was much reticence observed it was believed the president would be consulted today or tomorrow on the subject of the proposed treaty. Three propositions only were under consideration. These were: The question of what to do with the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty; the advisability of giving a bounty on beet sugar, and the question of an anti-trust amendment. The Hawaiian treaty question was passed over, the beet sugar bounty proposition was withdrawn, and the anti-trust amendment was referred to the Republican members of the judiciary committee.

The A. R. U. Is Dead.

Chicago, June 15.—It was announced last night by the friends of Eugene Debs that it has been decided that the American Railway union is dead. After the public announcement this morning at Handle hall the delegates adjourned to Uhlich's hall where the E. V. Debs social colonization scheme was launched. A constitution was adopted, modelled upon the Bellamy theory, the state of Washington being selected as the scene of the experiment. The names of the roster of the American Railway union are transferred to that of the American Co-operative union or brotherhood, and new members must pay a small admission fee, together with an annual per capita tax. The convention will draw up regulations governing the admission of new members, and all members will be required to pass a sort of civil service examination before their names can be enrolled. Mr. Debs said that he is positive a peaceful army of 100,000 unemployed men could be mobilized in Chicago within 10 days. It is expected that the first division will leave Chicago, bound for Washington, within 30 days.

Augusta, Me., June 15.—Georgie Lashus of Waterville, a 13-year-old French boy, has been committed to the Kennebec jail to await a charge of forgery at the September term of court. Lashus forged the name of his grandfather Levi Lashus, to a pension check for $36, with the names of two witnesses. He received the check at the Waterville postoffice addressed to his grandfather. He got it cashed and was about to leave for Canada. He is a bright appearing boy but from past thefts seems to have a mania for stealing.

Victims of Woman Swindler.

Putnam, Conn., June 15.—It has leaked out that several merchants of this city have been the victims of a female swindler, who succeedd in getting some worthless checks cashed. It was the common game, the woman would purchase a bill of goods and then offer in payment a check considerably in excess of the amount of the bill. The woman gave the name of Mrs. Charles Hayes of Hartford, and claimed that she was getting ready her summer home in this vicinity.

Mayor Quincy's Wisdom.

Boston, June 15.—Mayor Quincy carried out the provisions of the bill passed by the recent legislature, providing for separate public institutions for the city, by appointing a board of trustees for each of the institutions created. While the law only requires the appointment of two women on each board, the mayor deemed it advisable to appoint three women as trustees of the pauper institutions department, and three as trustees for children.

Fall River Officials Indicted.

New Bedford, Mass., June 15.—The grand jury has returned indictments in the Fall River cases alleging violation of the statutes by certain members of the Fall River city government who have been interested in several city contracts within the past two years. The officials declined to give names on the number of indictments found. Bench warrants were ordered to be issued for the arrest of the indicted parties.

Electric Bonds Ordered.

Manchester, N. H., June 15.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Manchester Electric Light company, a vote was unanimously passed authorizing the directors to issue bonds to an extent not exceeding $250,000, at not exceeding 5 per cent, to retire $80,000 of 6 per cent bonds now outstanding, and pay for extensive improvements and additions recently made and in contemplation.

DR. HOBBS.

A STEADY STREAM

Of People Poured Into A. C. Durgin's Drug Store Yesterday to Get Free Samples of

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Hundreds Now Testing the Remedy in Quincy and Vicinity.

NOW FOR RESULTS.

Last night the free distribution of sample boxes of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills closed at A. G. Durgin's Drug Store, and will be long remembered in this city.

The frightful number of people who are suffering in one way or another from kidney troubles in this vicinity can only be estimated by the enormous number of sample packets which were given out yesterday to all interested persons living in this city or neighborhood who applied for a sample of these pills.

"Can it be possible," said a man who called yesterday, "that the advancement in the science of medicine has at last reached a climax for poor sufferers like myself?

"I am going to say one thing at any rate. The owners of this medicine certainly have faith in it, and they are going about in an honest, straightforward manner. Just this thing alone gives me confidence and strong hope that I shall again be a well man."

Another caller yesterday—a lady—said: "I live several miles away from Quincy, but I am going to get a sample of this new kidney medicine for my husband. He has been a sufferer from kidney disease for many years.

"We have spent thousands of dollars with the best doctors we could hear of, North and South, but at the best he has received only temporary relief.

"Dr. Hobbs' announcement that he has made a discovery which will cure and build up the kidneys, and his offer to prove it by the giving away of a free package, is quite a novelty to me, as heretofore it has been 'pay,' whether the medicine did any good or not.

"We are going to give this remedy a good, fair trial, and I hope that others, suffering as my husband is, will hear of it and accept the kind and generous offer which Dr. Hobbs makes.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

The added labor of handing out free samples of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills yesterday was greatly sweetened by the information from druggists in other cities that wherever similar distributions have been held a large sale of the remedy has followed, and many letters of gratitude have been written by those who have regained lost health.

Every person who knows or suspects that his kidneys or urinary passages are affected, every person who has any of the following symptoms, should make a test of these pills without delay, viz: Pains in the Back or Sides, Nervousness, Frequent Thirst, Shortness of Breath, Puffiness of the Eyelids, Swelling of the feet and Ankles, Dark Colored or Scanty Urine, with albuminous or other deposits in the urine, or too frequent urination.

For the benefit of interested persons living out of town who, for any reason, failed to get a sample at our store, Dr. Hobbs authorizes us to say, if you will cut out the coupon below and mail it to the Hobbs Remedy Co., Chicago, Ill., with your name and address, a sample box of these pills will be sent you by mail, postpaid, and free of expense.

Two Diseases That Cause Their Victims to Be Shunned by Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD,
Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.

Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.

P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once.

P. P. P. cures blood poisoning in all its various stages, old ulcers, sores and kidney complaints.

BARNATO A SUICIDE.

South African Diamond King Jumped Overboard From Vessel.

He Was Reputed to Be Worth £100,000,000.

Deceased Was King of the London Money Market---His Career.

London, June 15.—A special dispatch from Funchal, island of Madeira, off the west coast of Morocco, says that on the arrival there of the British steamship Scot, which left Table Bay (Cape Town) on June 2 for Southampton, it was announced that Barney Barnato, the South African diamond king, who was among the passengers, had committed suicide by leaping overboard. His body was recovered.

The late Barney Barnato was in many respects the most remarkable speculator of the century. Of all the Englishmen who have taken part in the development of South Africa, two only have secured a world-wide reputation. These have been Cecil Rhodes and Barnet Isaacs, more often and less respectfully styled Barney. Barnato was an assumed name, a sort of stage name, for he began his life in South Africa by exhibiting a trick donkey about 25 years ago. He was then about 20 years of age.

Barnato was an English Jew, and illustrated in an extraordinary way the financial genius of his race. Up to the point when his fortunes began to decline he made money by leaps and bounds, and in 1895, when his good fortune was at its zenith, it was estimated that he controlled interests worth in the neighborhood of £100,000,000. It was the fashion to call him the richest man in the world; at that time he was virtually the king of the London money market.

In the autumn of 1895, when the boom in "Kaffirs," the shares of the comparatively new gold mines of the Transvaal, South Africa, was at its height, every man, woman and child in London with money to invest invested it in "Kaffirs." The center of this tremendous financial outburst was Barney Barnato.

Barnato was born in London. But little is known as to his early life, except that he received his instruction from a private tutor instead of attending the public schools. He was a younger son, and at the age of 20 went to South Africa, then a much more savage territory than it is now and but scantly populated Englishmen or persons of English descent, to seek his fortune. The Kimberly diamond mines were just beginning to be productive. With his few pounds of capital he began dealing in diamonds in a small way. He was clever and pushing. Everything he touched he made successful.

Rival of Cecil Rhodes.

In 1886 Barney Barnato was a definite money power in South Africa, and began to be spoken of as the rival of Cecil Rhodes. Unlike in temperament, and even more unlike in personal ambition, the two men started in to be hot opponents. But in 1888 they reached the conclusion that their respective interests could be better promoted by combining forces, and the De Beers consolidated mines were the result, one of the most valuable pieces of property of the kind in the world.

While in Africa he married and had three children. He always professed to have boundless faith in the future of the Transvaal, and his personal popularity among all classes of Afrikanders was very great. In London, where he spent most of his time for several years past, he was constantly besieged by flatterers, beggars and projectors of all sorts of enterprises. He finally became quite inaccessible to all except intimate friends. His only reception hour was the hour of breakfast, which he always took with his wife and a thoroughbred bull pup. He affected a rather loud style of costume, and invariably wore white silk socks. He had a keen sense of humor, and could tell a good story with genuine comedy effect. He was a generous patron of the drama.

His private generosity was frequently expressed, and in the autumn of 1895 he sent $75,000 to the lord mayor of London for distribution among the London poor.

Barnato took a prominent part in the complications immediately following the Jameson raid, and at the height of the crisis had an important interview with President Krugar in regard to the grievances of the Uitlanders, which was believed at the time to have mollified the harsh feeling of the Transvaal executive toward the raiders. He subsequently subscribed $20,000 to the fund, which paid off the fines.

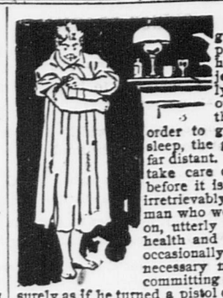

About a month ago is was rumored that his health was suffering from the severe tension of speculation, and in the latter part of May it was reported from Cape Town that he was suffering from nervous prostration and had been placed under restraint. This was subsequently denied by his London representative, who said that Barnato was suffering from a slight attack of Cape fever, not likely to prove serious.

Victoria's Descendants Rule Europe.

London, June 15.—The Times publishes a table showing that in the ordinary course of nature the future rulers of Germany, Russia, Greece and Roumania will be the immediate descendants of Queen Victoria. Commenting editorially on this fact The Times observes: The British monarchy today has more definite recognition among the courts of Europe than even a century ago, when the king of Great Britain was also the soverign of Hanover. Such dynastic considerations are perhaps of no greater importance now than they were formerly, but they tend to develop friendly intercourse.

Higgins' Stable Burned.

Missoula, Mont., June 15.—A fire last night destroyed the breeding stables of Higgins Bros., the well known horsemen of this city. Five horses were burned, including Brino Tricks, 2:13¾, one of the best known pacing horses in the West. Fred Strouster, a jockey, was burned to death in attempting to save the stock. The fire was incendiary and was the tenth that has occurred in this city within a few weeks.

When a man gets to the point where he has to inject the deadly extracts of opium under the skin in order to get rest and sleep, the grave is not far distant. The time to take care of health is before it is utterly and irretrievably gone. The man who works on and on, utterly heedless of health and too busy to occasionally take a little necessary medicine, is committing suicide as surely as if he turned a pistol on his heart. Such a man dies by little degrees. First a little indigestion and a little neglect. Then loss of appetite. The bowels get clogged and the blood receives poisons instead of healthy nutriment. Old, inert tissues in flesh, muscle, nerve and brain are not replaced by new. The whole body gets stale. The very sleeping-room of a man in this condition is filled in the morning with unwholesome odors as if it had been occupied by a decomposing corpse. It has been occupied by a man half-dead. The poisoned brain refuses to sleep and hates to work. Then comes the resort to the hypodermic injection of morphine and—speedy death.

All this may be prevented by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, makes assimilation perfect, fills the blood with the vital elements that make new tissue, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles, strong nerves and active brain cells. It drives out impurities and disease. Thousands of men in all walks of life have testified to its wonderful merits.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to attempt to palm off upon you a substitute for this world-famed medicine. You know what you want. It's his business to meet that want. When he urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare. Shun all such dishonest dealers.

The man or woman who is regular as clockwork is seldom troubled with disease or mental or bodily lassitude. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe, sure, speedy and permanent cure for constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. You will have reason to regret it if you let a dishonest druggists induce you to take a substitute.

NOTABLE FUNCTION.

Ten Thousand Masons In Gorgeous Regalia Commemorate Victorian Jubilee.

London, June 15.—The Masonic meeting at the Royal Albert hall yesterday afternoon in commemoration of the queen's diamond jubilee was a noteable function. The hall was packed by over 10,000 Masons in gorgeous regalia. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught arrived at 4 o'clock, preceded by trumpeters sounding fanfares. When they entered the hall the organ played a grand processional march, and all present rose to their feet. The grand officers lined the aisle to the dais. The Prince of Wales, as grand master of England, followed by an imposing staff, composed of grand officers, moved to the sound of the majestic music, to his throne, where, surrounded by a brilliant phalanx of officers, he was received and greeted in the united form of salutation reserved for his high station. The prince then addressed the audience and announced that the admission fees for the ceremony amounted to £7000 ($35,000), half of which would go to the Prince of Wales' hospital fund and the other half to the different Masonic charities.

The Duke of Connaught moved an address to the queen in behalf of the Masons and it was carried with loud applause, after which the whole assemblage joined in singing the national anthem to the accompaniment of the organ.

At Boston—

Two good hits on the part of the home team and loose fielding on the part of Ritchey in the fourth gave the Bostons another game yesterday. The Cincinnati's made a brave effort to tie the score in the ninth, but Klobedanz was too strong for them.

IN OLD MANOR FASHION

Grand Out-Door Celebration of the Anderson-Perkins Wedding.

Thousands of Country Folks Entertained and Feasted.

Everybody Cordially and Frankly Received by the "Uncrowned Princess."

Webster, N. H., June 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson gave a wedding reception last night to the people of this and surrounding towns.

Mrs. Anderson regards the months spent in the country estate here of her father, Commodore George H. Perkins, as the mott delightful in her life, of whose 20 years they would, in the aggregate, form fully half. In her riding and driving far and wide she has met nearly all the inhabitants of the countryside, and she has charmed them one and all by the instructive courtesy of her manner, her quick interest and helpful sympathy.

"Queen Isabelle" they used to call her, though in no respect has she conducted herself as an aristocrat, but rather as she really is, an ideal American girl. Anxious to do her honor, the people of Webster and its surrounding towns, Warner, Hopkinton, Salisbury, Boscawen and even the nearby cities, Concord and Franklin, turned out last night by the thousands. It is estimated that 3500 men, women and children drove in over the muddy country roads to take part in the festivities. It was a gathering without a parallel in the history of New Hampshire, at least.

The bridal couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. George H. Perkins, Mrs. Anderson's mother. Commodore Perkins himself, although taking no formal part in the proceedings, had a hearty welcome for all. Among the guests of the occasion from Boston were Mrs. A. S. Freeman, William A. Gaston and Dr. George W. Gay. Mrs. Woodman of Concord, a cousin of Mrs. Anderson, was also present.

A magnificent display of fireworks was given from a float in the lake, comprising 100 pieces, and consuming several hours in its execution.

Refreshments were served to 1000 of those present, and a band rendered musical selections during the entire evening. The details of the celebration were in charge of Roger Foster, Miss Anderson's cousin, who is the representative of the town of Webster in the legislature, and manager of Commodore Perkins' large estate here.

The affair was a great success in every particular, and was characterized by the entire absence of ostentation or display. All the guests were made to feel perfectly at home, and the welcome extended to them by the heiress to $17,000,000 was frank and cordial.

WAGES IN BROCKTON.

Shoe Factory Employes Said to Receive More Pay Than In Other Places.

Brockton, Mass., June 16.—At the meeting of the board of trade last night the committee on statistics appointed to ascertain the conditions under which shoes are manufactured in other cities submitted its report.

The committee find that in almost all departments of shoe manufacture the wages paid in Brockton are much higher than anywhere else. In the manufacture of a medium grade McKay shoe, the price in Maine cities of New England averages 89 cents, while $1.45 is paid in this city. In a medium Goodyear welt shoe, $1.89 is paid in Maine, while $2.64 is paid here.

The committee also find that Brockton shoe factories are not kept as busy as those in other cities, and for that reason many workers have gone where they could obtain more steady work, even though the wages might be lower.

A readjustment of wages is argued by the committee to meet the conditions in other cities. The committee find that the shoe manufacturers of Brockton, while not opposed to labor organizations, are nevertheless unwilling to deal with unions.

In conclusion, the committee say that the shoe workers of the city should seriously consider the question of lower wages in order to adapt themselves to present condition of trade.

New Portland Line Steamer.

Portland, Me., June 16.—The new and magnificent steel steamer John Englis of the Maine steamship line arrived at her wharf yesterday afternoon on her first regular trip and had on board a notable party. She left New York Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock and would have reached here yesterday noon had not a dense fog, which set in at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, forced her to anchor off Nantucket shoals. The Englis is of 3500 tons burden, was built by the Delaware River Shipbuilding company for a 16-knot boat, but she made 17 knots after leaving Hell Gate, until she was forced by the thick weather to slow down. She is 312 feet in length, 46 feet beam, and has 132 staterooms and 72 berths. These will accomodate 350 passengers. The boat is provided with all the latest improvements in marine architecture.

Red Men's Council.

Springfield, Mass., June 16.—The 10th great sun council of the degree of Pocahontas, imperial order of Red Men of Massachusetts, assembled at the city hall in this city yesterday. About 250 representatives of the different councils were present. The president, Mrs. George Walker, appointed a nominating committee of five past Pocahontasses to report a list of officers for the ensuing year and select a place for the holding of the next great council. The report was as follows: President, Mrs. Greta A. Robbins, Springfield; vice president, Mrs. Smith, Gloucester; secretary or keeper of the records, Mrs. Estella Merchant, Gloucester. Gloucester was chosen as the meeting place of the next great council.

Maine Crop Prospects.

Farmington, Me., June 16.—The constant rains of the last seven weeks in this section of the state are seriously interfering with planting, especially of sweet corn, vast quantities of which are raised in this section. The many canning factories depend entirely on the corn crop, and its heavy failure would mean a heavy financial loss, both to the farmers and the people who seek employment putting up the succulent grain. The potato crop as well, another important agricultural item in central and northern Maine, is equally dubious. On the other hand the hay crop will be the heaviest for many years, while the apple crop, although not as large as last year, will be better than the average.

Cape Cod Canal Complications.

Sandwich, Mass., June 16.—The Cape Cod Canal company lost some of its land yesterday because certain lots were sold by the sheriff. The buyer was George H. Titcomb of Boston, formerly connected with the canal project as the company's engineer. Mr. Titcomb has a claim against the company of $16,000, and it is stated that the sale was made through his endeavor to protect his interests. The sale is liable to complicate matters, it is thought, in the event of the company undertaking to give a clear title to the land to a future canal promoter. The actual value of the property sold is not announced.

English Sprinter Coming.

Boston, June 16.—Thomas P. Conneff, the American champion, who has just returned from Ireland, where he went last fall to meet Bacon, the champion runner of Great Britain, and who has just reached Boston, states that Bacon promised him three return races in America this year. Conneff states that the trouble he experienced on account of climatic changes and a severe attack of malaria, to which he attributes his defeat in the races with Bacon, has now entirely disappeared, and he is ready to meet Bacon, and asserts that he shall hold the British champion to his promise.

Jack Tars' Demands.

Boston, June 16.—The sailors of the port of Boston who are on strike for higher wages now number about 300 men. Their demands are that a minimum scale of wages be fixed at $22 per month for long Southern trips and $25 per month for short coasting trips, such as to Philadelphia, New York, etc. Pickets from the Seamen's union are marching up and down Commercial street, watching for any of their fellow Jacks who might be tempted to ship for less than the scale of wages quoted.

The Wool Market.

Boston, June 16.—The wool market here shows more tone this week, although the sales of domestic wools continue to rule slow. Fleece wools are in a slow position, with prices nominal. Territory wools are moving only when prices quoted are not too high. New wools are coming in moderately, but they are costing too high to sell on the present market. Australian wools are selling well and prices are firm, with an upward tendency.

Society of Colonial Wars.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 16.—The Society of Colonial Wars yesterday elected the following officers: Henry O. Kent, governor, Lancaster; Dr. John C. Thorne, vice governor, Concord; Colonel James C. Fornay, lieutenant governor, Portsmouth; Charles L. Parsons, secretary, Durham; G. P. Conn, treasurer, Concord; Hon. Ezra S. Stearns, registrar, Concord; Rev. Charles L. SUGAR DEBATE ENDED.

Senate Makes Great Stride Forward on Tariff Bill.

Provision Relating to Hawaii Went Over.

Pettigrew, Chilton and Pasco Introduce Anti-Trust Amendments.

Washington, June 16.—The sugar schedule of the new tariff bill was completed yesterday, with the exception of the provisions applying to Hawaii. This schedule has been fruitful of hot debates and consequent delay. With sugar out of the way progress on the bill will now be greatly accelefated.

The first paragraph of the sugar schedule has served to bring out all the speeches and the test votes, and when this was passed the other paragraphs of the schedule were agreed to without further opposition. As agreed to the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16 Dutch standard 1 cent per pound, and .03 of a cent for every degree above 75, and on sugars above No. 16 Dutch standard 1.95 cent per pound, but on sugars testing below 87 degrees by the polariscope .1 cent per pound shall be deducated. The other provisions of the schedule relate to maple sugar, maple syrup, candy, etc.

Only one yea and nay vote was taken during the day, on the amendment of Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky to make the rate 1.8 cent per pound on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard. The amendment was defeated—32 to 35.

Mr. Pettigrew desired to have his amendment relative to trusts voted on as a part of the sugar schedule. After a lively debate it was laid on the table.

Immediately after Senator Pettigrew's anti-trust amendment to the tariff bill was laid on the table he gave notice of another amendment of the same character in the shape of a proviso, as follows:

"That none of the increased rates of duty provided for in this act shall apply to any articles or commodities, the sale or manufacture of which is controlled by trusts in this country."

Senator Chilton of Texas also offered an anti-trust amendment, as follows:

"If any manufacturer, dealer, carrier or other person knowing that any article or articles of like character to those upon which duties are levied under this act are manufactured, or their sale controlled or their price affected by a trust or combination, shall send or transmit any such articles from one state to another, such manufacturer, dealer or carrier shall upon conviction before any circuit court of the United States be punished by imprisonment not more than three years."

Senator Pasco gave notice of an amendment which differs from Senator Pettigrew's original amendment only in detail, principally as to the means of proceeding in court to determine the existence of a trust. One of the provisions requires the court to determine whether a trust proved to exist affects the raw material or imported article. In case the court finds an article to be the subject of a trust the secretary of the interior is to make an order directing the customs officers to permit its admission free of duty.

South Americans Oppose New Tariff.

Boston, June 16.—In an interview Arthur S. H. Hitchings of Rio de Janeiro, a member of the South American delegation at present in this city and representing the Commercial association of Rio de Janeiro, said: "Your congress is putting through the new tariff bill too hurriedly. The American congress should think of what they are doing. Both Brazil and the United States must bring down their tariffs, or England will scoop the market. If America will only reduce her tariff, I promise you she will get our trade. Our people are bound financially to European nations, and are paying the foreign debt four times over in gold, but we have no debt with America and that is partly why the people want to trade with her. If England by importing free raw material from us can make the goods we need cheaper than the American manufacturers, we shall be compelled to take her product. If you can give us the goods as cheap as England does you will get our trade."

Davitt's Scheme Denounced.

Dublin, June 16.—An enthusiastic meeting of the Irish Independent league was held here yesterday. John P. Redmond, M. P., in the course of an impassioned speech, denounced Michael Davitt's "foolish and vindictive policy" of opposing Mr. Balfour's Irish home government scheme. Dealing with the abstention from the jubilee festivities, which the recent Irish manifesto had enjoined upon Irish members of parliament and Irishmen generally.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. THE SEELYE CASE.

Wollaston Officer Seeks Satisfaction for Injuries.

Had His Leg Broken in Tussle with M. J. Cunniff.

Separated by Officer Connolly But No Arrest at Time.

A case that has caused much interest in police circles was heard in the District court this morning, when Malcolm J. Cunniff was arraigned for assault at Wollaston, on Officer William C. Seelye and for drunkenness.

Officer Seelye testified that on the night of April 4, he stood on the corner of Grand View and Newport avenues about 12.15 A. M., when Cunniff came out of his store and passed him. As he did so witness noticed that Cunniff was drunk. Cunniff went to the hotel piazza and then came back and walking up to Officer Seelye said, "You have been reporting that I have been selling liquor." Upon receiving a reply from the officer that he had not reported any stories, Cunniff called the officer a —— —— liar.

Officer Seelye says he then told Cunniff if he did not go home he would lock him up. Cunniff made a pass at the officer who struck back. In stepping off the sidewalk the officer's ankle turned and in falling his ankle was dislocated and two bones in his leg broken and a piece of bone in the elbow. While the two were struggling on the ground Officer Connolly came along and separated them. Seelye then asked Connolly to arrest Cunniff for drunk and then with the aid of a man named Buckley he went to a doctor.

Officer Connolly testified that he heard a noise and went down and found Seelye on top punching Cunniff. Cunniff asked me to take Seelye off which I did. Seelye then told me to arrest Cunniff for drunk, but as Cunniff appeared more excited and nerved up than drunk I did not arrest him. He did not think Cunniff was drunk, but he thought that Seelye was under the influence of liquors for the reason that when they were down, Seelye was punching the ground.

Connolly denied that he had ever taken a drink with Cunniff. Had not talked with Cunniff about the case. Thought I would report the matter to the Chief and let him make an investigation if he wanted to.

Dr. Wellington Record testified that he attended Seelye and found his leg and elbow broken. He did not consider that Seelye was under the influence of liquor.

Cunniff in his own behalf testified that at exactly 12.40 o'clock he came out of his store and saw a man standing near Fay's window. After I passed he spoke and said "have you seen Connolly?" I replied, no, and then asked him why he had been reporting that I was selling liquor. He then called me a liar and made a pass at me and when he got me down he pounded me. He was "perfectly full." After being separated and talking with Connolly I went home.

Upon cross-examination Cunniff testified that he went to Boston on the night in question on the train which arrived at 10.30. He went to a bar room and had a glass of beer, then stopped in a fish store and had some conversation, then went to Washington street and purchased some collars, etc; then went to a restaurant and had supper and arrived back to the depot just in time to see the 11 o'clock train leave.

A. W. Fay testified that he was aroused by a noise under his window and recognized the voices. He heard the conversation in which Cunniff accused Seelye of reporting stories about his selling liquor. Looked out and saw Seelye strike at Cunniff and saw them move back into the street and fall, with Seelye on top. Witness was not near enough to smell their breath but thought they were both under the influence of liquor and this had caused the argument.

Fred C. Merrill testified he heard screaming and went to the window. He saw the two men, and recognized Cunniff's voice, and heard him say, "you old rat you did not hit me." After they were pulled apart they separated and he heard no more.

Charles Sparrow testified that Seelye had two drinks in his stable that night. He was all right when he left the stable that night and perfectly sober as far as he knew.

Lawrence W. Buckley heard noise and went out and when he got there Connolly had separated them. Saw Seelye strike at Cunniff after he got up. Helped Seelye to sidewalk. I should say that Seelye had been drinking. Could smell his breath and he talked that way.

John Dunn was employed by Cunniff. Did not see the affray. Went home that night at 7.30. As far as he knew Cunniff had not been drinking.

Mr. Seelye recalled testified that Cunniff had a bottle in his pocket. After the scuffle Buckley picked up a bottle that was broken; that his clothing was saturated with liquor.

At the conclusion of the arguments of the counsel the court continued the case until next Monday for judgment.

Struck at Brockton.

The family of Charles Hunter at Brockton had a never-to-be-forgotten experience with lightning yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hunter was struck, and his wife and child cut by flying glass.

Expressage of Liquors.

In the closing days of the Legislature the act relative to transportation of liquors into No-license cities was amended as Mr. Henry H. Faxon desired. In explanation the gentleman says:

"At the May meeting of the judges of the district and police courts of this State, the new "express" law was discussed and, after lengthy consideration, was pronounced defective in two sections, viz., those relating to the penalty, and to the disposition of the forfeited liquors. At the suggestion of one of the judges, a bill was immediately prepared to remedy the defects in the former Act, and, by persistent and painstaking efforts its passage was secured. I sincerely hope that the friends of law enforcement will reward our labors by speedily putting the amended statute into operation, as it promises to be a most potent agent in dealing with this feature of the illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors."

Street Railways.

The next Legislature will probably grapple in an intelligent manner with the duties of street railways to cities, and cities to street railways, for an act approved June 11 provides that:

"The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall, within thirty days after the passage of this act, appoint a committee of three suitable persons, one of whom he shall designate as chairman, to investigate the subject of the relations between cities and towns and street railway corporations, the taxation of street railways and their franchises in this Commonwealth and in other states and countries, and the need, if any, of Legislation in this Commonwealth to establish a more fixed tenure of franchises of street railways, and an equitable method of taxing the same."

Handsome Summer Publications.

The summer publications issued by the Boston and Maine railroad, this season, are works of art, printed as they are on fine coated paper and liberally illustrated with excellent half tone cuts. The list, descriptive of New England scenery and summer resorts, includes Fishing and Hunting, All Along Shore, Among the Mountains, Lakes and Streams, Northern Vermont, the Connecticut Valley, Southeast New Hampshire, Southwest New Hampshire, Central Massachusetts, Merrimack Valley, Lake Sunapee.

Any of the above publications will be sent on receipt of two cents in stamps, by addressing Passenger Department, Boston and Maine Railroad, Boston. The Excursion and Summer Hotel book is sent free.

Sub-Clerks Recognized.

Washington, June 16.—A mooted question in postoffices throughout the country has been settled by a decision of Acting Postmaster General Heath, giving official recognition of the department to sub-postoffice clerks. In this ruling the department permits postmasters at first-class offices to select from their civil service eligible list a sufficient number of clerks to perform the work of the regular clerks temporarily absent from duty, such substitutes to be appointed to first regular vacancy in the clerical force occurring thereafter. All sums paid to a substitute clerk must be receipted for by the regular clerk, and to prevent fraud, postmasters are instructed to give personal attention to the payments. Postmasters will be required to recommend to the department for approval the names and relative standing of substitutes on the civil service list. The department, however, assumes no responsibility further than to see that the substitutes receive the regular salary of the one for whom they have performed service.

Uncle Sam's Money Counted.

New York, June 16.—The experts who came from Washington some three weeks ago to count the money in the vaults of the sub-treasury completed their labors yesterday. The experts counted exactly $195,383,000, divided as follows: Notes, $64,465,000; gold, $77,940,000; silver coin, $52,729,000; minor coin, $229,000. The weight of the gold handled was 155 tons and the silver weighed about 10 times as much more. The accounts were "straight," save for a discrepancy of something like a dollar in the petty cash.

Claims to Be Barnato's Daughter.

Cleveland, June 16.—Mrs. Blackman of this city, who claims to be the legitimate daughter of Barney Barnato, will at once take steps to acquire a share of his fortune. Mrs. Blackman claims to be a daughter of Barnato by his first wife, whose maiden name was Anna Esther. She says the couple lived together in London for 15 years and finally went to Yagestroff, Poland. Later a separation occurred, and mother and daughter came to this country.

Merit

Made and Merit Maintains the confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla. If a medicine cures you when sick; if it makes wonderful cures everywhere, then beyond all question that medicine possesses merit.

Made

That is just the truth about Hood's Sarsaparilla. We know it possesses merit because it cures, not once or twice or a hundred times, but in thousands and thousands of cases. We know it cures, absolutely, permanently, when all others fail to do any good whatever. We repeat

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion, biliousness. 25 cents.

Music at Our High School.

The following musical programme was given Tuesday morning at the Quincy High School.

"The New Hail Columbia," by the school, assisted by Misses Ross and Raftery, violins; Messrs. Fitzgerald, Marnock and Black, violins; Mr. McConarty, cornet; and Mr. B. Fitzgerald, piano.

"High School Bells," by the school.

"Sanctus," by the school, assisted by Messrs. Eltzgerald and Marnock.

"Our Fields of Clover," by Glee club: Misses Burke, Lull, Phelan, Osborne, Bates, Sprague, Scharnagel and White; Messrs. Foley, Biganess, Ripley, Burke, Thayer and Briggs.

"High School March," by the school.

"The Cuckoo Calls," by sextette: Misses Burke, Lull, Phelan, Bates, Scharnagel, White.

"Damascus," by the school.

Visitors expressed themselves as delighted with this exhibition, which was highly creditable not only to the High school but to Quincy. Indeed, it would be difficult to find another High school able to surpass or even equal this exhibition. Great credit is due Mrs. Smith for her successful efforts.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The rooms will be open all day the 17th.

Quincy Association expects to be represented at the New England Carnival of sports at Springfield June 19. Maher, Talbot and Greenough will enter a number of the contests.

The Association is coming to the front in athletics, the Cycle club making the best time at Worcester, and but for the fact that they were one man short would have won the shield.

Permission has been secured to use the Adams Academy grounds for training and the men can be found training there every evening this week.

Many persons have been attracted by a beautiful bas relief cast, representing St. Cecelia in the window of Hearn's pharmacy. The model was made by Mr. H. A. Thompson of Wollaston. Mr. Thompson took up modeling last fall in the Y. M. C. A. class taught by Mr. H. A Beattie. The model is the more remarkable because it was modeled from a small picture, which is much more difficult than working from another model. "Granite" of Boston recently published a cut of this piece, and several other publications have asked for the same privilege.

THE SQUAW FOOLED THEM.

How the Readers of a Yellow Journal Missed a Startling Story.

It was in the office of the Sunday edition of the yellowest of the yellow journals. The bicycle editor was busy with an aerial bicycle story by the new woman. There were a dozen other editors around. Things were mighty quiet. Suddenly the boss editor of the shop leaped up and shricked:

"Eureka, O'Reilly! I have an idea."

Instantly there was commotion in the room. The various subeditors gathered around him with loud cries of "What is it?"

"It's an idea," shricked the boss editor again. "Come here, you bicycle editor. Send out the best men you've got and hire one of Buffalo Bill's squaws for an afternoon. Take the whole art department with you. Take the squaw up to Central park and have not less than seven cameras and picture her falls. If she breaks her neck, so much the better."

The entire editorial staff set up a great cheering. The boss editor, satisfied with himself, called up the art department and notified it that it was under the control of the bicycle editor until further orders. This was on Monday.

The next scene is laid in Central park. Two days have passed. The squaw has been hired. A new bicycle has been purchased. A great crowd is gathered at the Fifty-ninth street entrance to the park. Along the road for half a mile are stationed photographers with snap shot cameras. There are not less than a dozen of them. At the entrance, beside the squaw and the bicycle editor and the crowd and the bicycle, there are reporters with huge notebooks. The bicycle editor is giving his final instructions. The squaw grunts, once, twice, three times.

"It is well," says the bicycle editor, and then he shouts to the half a mile of photographers, "Are you ready?"

"Ready," bawl back the photographers. The reporters approach the squaw and the bicycle. They lift the squaw up in the air and set her firmly upon the seat.

"Steady now," yelled the bicycle editor. Thrice again did the squaw grunt.

"Now," said the bicycle editor. The reporters let go. The squaw sailed away with the bicycle, and it was three hours and a half before she got back.

It wasn't until a week later that the yellow journal learned that the squaw had been riding a bicycle in South Brooklyn for more than six months.—New York Sun.

WOMEN AND WHEELS.

An East Greenville (Pa.) woman is selling baking powder as a means of raising funds to purchase a bicycle.

An amiable English woman is expending her energies on the formation of a society for the encouragement of cycling among domestic servants.

Governesses and maids nowadays are frequently asked before being engaged if they can ride a wheel. This accomplishment greatly enhances their value in a family where there are young girls and children.

The bicycle has opened a new field for women. They have become instructors in bicycle schools, and already have proved successful. Many ladies objected to receiving lessons from men; hence the innovation.

Is a Fast Rider.

One of the most wonderful products of cycling is Gaston Rivierre, the aged French rider, who has just won the greatest annual road race held in Europe, the race from Paris to Bordeaux. This race has made many a man famous and will be remembered because of the part it played in causing the death of one of the greatest racing men the world has ever seen, the late Arthur Linton. Rivierre is probably the oldest active racing man in the world, and his ability increases with his age. His age is generally conceded to be anywhere between 40 and 55 years, and the winning of this great race last week shows what will result from careful training, with proper attention to living. While the reports of the race were rather meager, the fact that it was won by Rivierre warrants the belief that motors were used to pace him, as he is a great believer in motor pacing, and if he won because of this fact there will be some immediate trials against speed with this style of pacemakers.—New York Press.

They Gave the Alarm.

Three bicyclists who were riding beside the double side track of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in Westfield recently saw smoke and fire coming from a freight car. Both sidings were filled with cars. The train of which the burning car was a part included two oil tanks full of petroleum. The bicyclists sent in an alarm and, aided by other bicyclists, uncoupled the cars at each end of the burning car and pushed them away out of reach of the flames.

While they were doing this the flames extended to a car opposite the one in which the fire started, and both cars, which were loaded with furniture, were destroyed. The cars were the property of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The fire is thought to have been set by tramps. The bicycle salvage corps sustained considerable damage to clothing by oil and grease.—New York Sun.

Fond of Ribbons.

A young woman rides on upper Fifth avenue who holds all records for ribbon decoration on her bicycle. She seldom has less than three feet of the brightest crimson ribbon floating in the wind on either side of her wheel, and she is never happier than when the flying ends get mixed up with some other cyclist. As she wears one of the present popular red waists, a red hat and a skirt that is trimmed with red braid, she has been christened "Mrs. Mephistopheles" by the regulars who ride on that thoroughfare.—New York Jounral.

TO BUILD ELEVATED ROAD.

Boston Company Takes Preliminary Steps Toward Estimating Cost of Construction.

Boston, June 16.—The directors of the Boston Elevated Railroad company held a meeting yesterday morning in the office of President William A. Gaston to take preliminary steps toward the construction of an elevated railway in Boston under the terms of the new bill.

President Gaston presided and the executive committee was authorized to get estimetes for the complete construction of the elevated railway structure, rolling stock to equip the road, electrical equipment for the motive power, also to secure estimates of the value of the land to be taken for terminal stations, etc., estimates of the sum of damages to be done property by the fact of the erection of the elevated railway structure in the streets.

The committee was also given authority to prepare a complete schedule of the value of the property to be affected with a view to estimating accurately the entire cost of the system.

Havemeyer Will Foreclose.

New York, June 16.—At the meeting of the West Chester Presbytery yesterday at Irvington, Rev. George William Snow of Rye was elected moderator; Ralph E. Prime of Yonkers, stated clerk, and James H. Robinson, Pelham Manor, temporary clerk. The case of the First Presbyterian church at Greenwich, Conn., upon which Henry O. Havemeyer holds an overdue mortgage of $20,000, and which he threatened to foreclose on May 1, was called up. The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. J. T. Wills, has gotten out of the muddle, his resignation as pastor having been accepted. Elder Knapp of the church stated that although the church had violated its contract with Mr. Havemeyer, the congregation was still in possession, and Mr. Havemeyer is still trying to obtain control. Dr. Knox of the church said there are two factions of the church, but that the element previously in control were now willing to surrender the church to Mr. Havemeyer. The church property is worth $40,000, and it is said that when Mr. Havemeyer gets possession of it he will deed it back to the Presbyterians.

Frohman Will Remain Abroad.

London, June 16.—Charles Frohman promises to be one of the most important factors in London theatricals of the future. If his present plans are carried out he will remain indefinitely in England producing plays and will transfer all his American interests to the care of his brother, Daniel Frohman, and Al Hayman. Mr. Frohman expects to obtain the sole control of two London theatres and to have an interest in others. He has received an offer of 40 weeks for the Gillette "Secret Service" company, and, if the present negotiations are concluded, they also will remain in London. Mr. Frohman is now in Paris canferring with Mr. Hayman.

Tillman's Duty on Immigrants.

Washington, June 16.—Senator Tillman yesterday gave notice of an amendment he will offer to the tariff bill providing for a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States. The amendment also makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment, for any person to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in trade or manual labor without intending to become a citizen. These provisions are modified by a proviso to the effect that they "shall only remain in effect until silver shall be admitted to our mints for coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, on the same conditions with gold.

Commencement exercises at Johns Hopkins university yesterday were rendered doubly interesting by reason of the fact that for the first time the degree of M. D. was bestowed upon its graduates and also because one of the recipients is a young woman. She is Mary Secord Packard, a resident of Bayonne, N. J., a graduate of Vassar.

Married a Title.

Detroit, June 16.—Bishop John S. Foley of the Roman Catholic see of eastern Michigan today united in marriage Count Von Matuschka, Baron De Toppelezen and Spatten, and Miss Ella Walker at the residence of the bride's father, Franklin H. Walker. Miss Walker is a granddaughter of Hiram Walker, the founder of the great distillery at Walkerville, Ont. The wealth of the family is estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Chicago Sweltering.

Chicago, June 16.—One death and 23 prostrations, one of them serious, was the result of the high temperature yesterday. The death was that of Charles Allsen, a carpenter, who, while delirious from the effects of the heat, attempted to cool himself with a drink of carbolic acid.

Because They Were Hazed.

The Nelson memoir realized $1000, and a collection of Robert Burns' manuscripts brought £365.

Earthquakes In Mexico.

Mexico City, June 16.—Earthquakes at and near the town of Tehuantepec, in the southern part of the country, continue and many people have left the place, including the correspondent of Imparcial, a newspaper of this city, who wired that he could no longer safely remain. Several shocks have been felt in the city of Oaxaca.

If a small bottle of Shaker Digestive Cordial does you no good, don't buy a large one.

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." It's not good for everybody, only for the thin, pale, sick, weak and weary. For those who are starving for want of digested food. For those who cannot get fat or strong, because their stomachs do not work as they ought to.

These are the people, millions of them, whom Shaker Digestive Cordial will cure.

Food makes strength, muscle, brain, blood, energy—after it is digested. If not digested, it will do you no good at all.

Shaker Digestive Cordial helps your stomach to digest your food and cures indigestion permanently. When you've tried a small bottle, you can tell.

Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cents.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. G. Durgin.

THERE IS A CLASS OF PEOPLE who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

NEURALGIA

He Is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

TREATY NOT SIGNED.

But President Will Soon Send the Hawaiian Matter to Senate.

The Subject Was Discussed at Cabinet Meeting.

It Is Possible That It Will Not Be Disposed of During This Session.

Washington, June 16.—President McKinley announced at the cabinet meeting yesterday and to senators who talked with him before and afterward that he expected to send a Hawaiian annexation treaty to the senate within a few days. The treaty has been drafted in the rough, but it has not yet been signed, nor has the message of transmittal been prepared, and hence can hardly go to the senate today, as some senators were predicting that it would. But it will probably go in shortly.

It is not believed that there will be any attempt to secure immediate action on the treaty and possibly it might not be considered at this special session. Some question has arisen as to whether the senate alone will be competent to act upon a treaty which acquires territory and if the house would not be called upon to concur, but the precedents are that the treaty-making power—the president and the senate—can act, and that the only matter in which the house would be considered would be in case an appropriation were necessary to carry the treaty into effect.

It was the expectation that the treaty would receive the formal signatures yesterday of the negotiators, Secretary Sherman for the United States government and either Minister Hatch or Mr. Lorin Thurston as a special commissioner for the Hawaiian government. The document itself had been prepared and it was taken to the White House for the president's final inspection and review. Secretary Sherman remained at the department later than is his custom in order to receive the Hawaiians, but finally at 4 o'clock the attempt to secure the signatures to the treaty was abandoned. This may prevent the submission of the treaty to the senate today, as was the intention of the cabinet, but the delay in any case will not be material.

At the cabinet meeting in the course of the discussion of the treaty it was decided that its pendency in the senate would not necessarily cause any considerable obstruction to the progress of the tariff bill, and while there is every disposition on the part of the president to avoid any interference with the rights of the senate in the matter, it can be stated that the treaty will not go in with any idea that it is not the wish of the executive that it should be acted on promptly. While the treaty is in the senate, either in the hands of the committee on foreign affairs or on the calendar of executive business, it is the expectation that the people of the United States will have an opportunity, through the press and other mediums, to declare their sentiments upon the matter, and if, as is expected, there is an overwhelming declaration for annexation, it is believed that the senate will be quick to respond to the demand. In this case the treaty, it is believed, can be taken up and ratified in the course of one or two executive sessions, while the regular tariff debates are in progress daily.

England on Hawaii.

London, June 16.—The morning papers continue to discuss the question of the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. The Daily Graphic says: Had England been in the position of the United States she would probably have annexed Hawaii years ago. The Daily Chronicle, whose Washington correspondent gives a forecast of the contents of the annexation treaty, says: The United States have entered upon the thorny path of colonial expansion. We wish the new experiment, though with sime misgivings, all success.

Boxers Up Against It.

New York, June 16.—That the police officials of New York are determined to stop boxing is plainly shown in their actions at every show given in this city during the past month, in which they have stopped the bouts, and in a number of instances arrested the principals and seconds. Notwithstanding the fact that several magistrates before whom the trials were held have invariably decided that the Horton law had not been violated, the police continue to exercise their prerogative, and where the contest has ended in a knockout the principals have been placed under arrest. The public are becoming disgusted by the attitude of the police, and that the audiences at the boxing shows will diminish in size is but a natural sequence to the interference of the police.

Ruin Will Follow Barnato's Death.

London, June 16.—Barney Barnato's suicide must cause widespread ruin among small investors. They had pinned their faith on him. The big speculators, having inside knowledge of his serious condition, have either cleared out or been manipulating his stock with considerable profit. Barnato's tragic end has convinced the public here of the utter rottenness of the South African boom, which now takes rank as the biggest stock inflation scheme—not to say swindle—of latter years.

Rhodes' Narrow Escape.

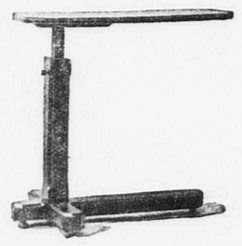

London, June 16.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Cape Town says that Cecil Rhodes had a narrow escape from death before he left Kimberley for Rhodesia. A fire broke out in his bedroom, but he slept on unaware of it until aroused by the policemen who broke into the premises. Mr. Rhodes arose, and with the utmost coolness, after dressing himself deliberately, assisted to put out the fire.

Miles and Miller In London.

London, June 16.—General Nelson A. Miles, who will represent the United States army at the queen's jubilee, and Rear Admiral J. N. Miller, who will represent the United States navy upon the same occasion, have arrived in this city. General Miles, Admiral Miller, their staffs and Mrs. Miles were the guests at dinner last evening of Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States at the jubilee.

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At Boston—
The Bostons clearly outplayed the Cincinnatis at every point of the game yesterday. Ehret, the visitors' star pitcher, was batted for eight singles and a double, when Brown was substituted, proving more effective. The features of the game were a superb running catch by Duffy off Miller in the first inning; Collins' stop of a ball from Peitz's bat in the second, and Corcoran's phenomenal stop in the fifth.

End of Postal Congress.

Washington, June 16.—The universal postal congress, the fifth convention of the kind in the world, closed yesterday. The final session was devoted to the formal signing of the general treaty and of the detailed articles of arrangements. Every delegate signed these two sets of papers, subject to the formal ratification of his government, and owing to the amount of labor involved signatures to other sets of documents were waived under a general authority for their execution. The originals of all these documents will be placed in the archives of the state department for preservation, and certified copies will be forwarded to all the governments comprising the universal postal union.

Minister Terrell En Route Home.

Constantinople, June 16.—Mr. Terrill, the retiring American minister, started for Athens yesterday, en route for the United States. Representatives of all the foreign legations and consulates, as well as of the American colony, paid Mr. Terrill complimentary visits at the embassy, and much regret was expressed at his withdrawal. The retiring minister had been accorded a personal audience with the sultan.

THINK OF THE DIFFERENCE
between the nature of the cotton-plant and the habits of a hog, and you have the difference between Cottolene and lard. Cottolene is all that's pure and wholesome; lard has few redeeming features.
COTTOLENE

makes your food light, crisp, digestible. Rightly used, it greatly improves the food and the health of those who eat it.
The genuine Cottolene is sold everywhere in one to ten pound tins, with our trade marks—"Cottolene," and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. Not guaranteed if sold in any other way. Made only by

A BICYCLE TOUR
Three gentlemen for a European tour purchased new hundred dollar bicycles. One a Columbia—the others of well-known high-grade manufacture. They had an agreeable trip—particularly the Columbia rider. Before returning to America, it being late in the year—and wishing to buy new machines in 1897—they sold their wheels to a London dealer. The Columbia bicycle brought $65.00. The others $40.00 and $35.00 respectively. But one of the many proofs of Columbia superiority. If you look a year ahead there is wise economy in

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THE ADAMS HOUSES.

Birthplaces of the Presidents Open to Public.

Daughters of Revolution and Historical Society Receive.

Both Organizations Proud of Their Historical Houses.

For years it has been the wish of many Quincy people to see the old Adams houses saved from destruction and it now looks as though their wishes were fulfilled and the houses will now be pointed out with pride by our townspeople. The older house, the birthplace of President John Adams in the hands of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, and the birthplace of President John Quincy Adams in the hands of the Quincy Historical society should insure the preservation forever of the two famous old houses.

The John Adams Birthplace.

Never, we think, did the birthplace of John Adams look more festive than on June Seventeenth.

Flag poles were erected at each end of the house; from one floated the stars and stripes, and from the other a twelve foot pennant of blue on which in buff letters was inscribed "Adams Chapter." From the roof was draped red, white and blue bunting and below that buff and blue the colors of the National Society of the Daughters of the Revolution. Over the entrance large flags were draped and on each end of the house were placards informing the passers by that the house was the birthplace of President John Adams.

The inside of the house was also decorated, especially the room in which John Adams was born. Only a few relics were exhibited as the work of restoring the old house to its former style is to begun next week and the summer spent in the work, so that when the Chapter meets in the fall they hope the house will be as ancient as in old times.

Last Seventeenth of June the Adams Chapter erected an enduring monument on Penn's hill to the memory of Abigai Adams and her son, President John Quincy Adams. This year the Seventeenth was passed quietly, the only observance being the decoration of the John Adams house and opening it to the public, some of the Daughters being present to receive the guests.

There was a steady stream of visitors all day, and we were pleased to see so many school children among the number, and to see the interest shown in the room in which John Adams was born.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The birthplace of John Quincy Adams, which has been restored to its former condition under the direction of W. G. Spear, curator of the Quincy Historical society, was opened for the first time to the inspection of the members of the society on Wednesday, during which time the cottage was visited by a large number of the members who inspected and admired the many articles of an historic nature which had been tastefully arranged.

Thursday the cottage was thrown open for public inspection from 9 o'clock A. M., to 5 o'clock P. M. and although the general public was charged an admission there were a large number of callers, many of whom came from out of town. There was a constant stream of visitors throughout the day and Curator Spear and an assistant were kept busy reciting the history of the numerous articles. The cottage will be opened hereafter for inspection every week day from 1 to 5 P. M.

The curator has arranged for the sale of bricks from the old house, upon which are painted in oil the old cottage. Relative to this the Globe says:

For I remember by the way,
To watch a potter thumping his wet clay,
And with its all-obliterated tongue
It murmured,'Gently, Brother, gently, pray!'
—Omar.

"Man is but clay. Yet as a commodity there is nothing quite so cheap, and so when a price of $5 is asked for a brick made of burnt clay it seems extravagant.

"Yet such a price is asked in Quincy. They are very ordinary bricks, and many of them are only half done and contain much foreign matter; but 'tis their association that fixes the price asked, for they did do service as shelter to three of America's most foremost citizens, John, Abigail and John Quincy Adams.

"It was in the year 1716 that workmen placed these bricks, together with unburnt clay, twixt the inner and outer covering of the humble farm house which many years after was sold to John Adams, the father of the nation's John Adams, and it was there that the latter brought his bride Abigail, the daughter of Parson Smith of adjoining town of Weymouth.

"And again, in later years, their son, John Quincy Adams, came to this humble, but to him, sacred dwelling, with his southern bride, while a more pretentious habitation was being planned for erection at the Mt. Wollaston farm.

"But before its erection the new country called for the younger Adams, as it had before for the elder, to protect our interest in Europe. Before departing he gave the material, which was then ready for the ancient house raising, to our then lately called parson Whitney, and it was shaped into a house on what is now Chestnut street. When it was remodeled a few years ago, "Aunty" Trask came into possession of the front door, which still retained its ancient knocker of brass. At her home in the west district it did service till her attention was called to its history and that it was originally intended for the domicile of President John Quincy Adams, which was not built. She willingly gave it for the restored 'cottage,' and there, after nearly 100 years of service to various owners, it finds itself in fitting company, for if the more ancient building which encompasses it can point with pride to its riper and hardy older age and the good shelter it has given to some of the nation's simplest and best humans, the yet serviceable door can answer:

"I have been the every day associate of good old parson Whitney for 50 years and have far outlived my race's allotted time, for old houses are plenty, while outside doors of my age are few. We are made for service and get it. Has not my position been an honored one? Are not the high and low obliged to extend to me their hand? Every one that comes and goes within thy shelter must to me put close their face and their pause till I stand aside for them. Is not the good housewife always interested in my well being? Are my joints allowed to sag or creak like your ribs in summer's heat or winter's cold? And am I not always bedecked with my polished ornaments of use? And am I not returned to the service of the memory of he who first had me wrought? To tell the truth, I rather like to guard where pilgrims enter, and, as darkness drops down upon us, I seem to see the forms pass me through, attired as of old, and hear the whisper of long-ago voices."

"But to return to the bricks. The original cottage had its walls filled from sill to plate (as was the old English custom) with brick and clay, 'twas said to keep out the heat in summer and the cold in winter, but Judge Sewall, writing in January, 1716, says Bread was frozen at the Lord's table. At 6 o'clock my ink freezes so that I can hardly write by a good fire in my wife's chamber.

And John Adams, toward the end of his life, used to wish that he could go to sleep in the autumn, like a dormouse, and not waken until spring.

And yet, when the addition of the lean-to was made to the cottage, no brick filling was used, and it could not have been on account of the expense, for much molding and paneling was then added to the old part, and the ceilings, which knew no plaster, were covered in.

This was, no doubt, when John Adams brought home his bride.

"Other improvements, such as reducing the size of the fireplaces by about one half and cutting off their square basic corners by angling walls, cranes being also put in, taking the place of chain or trammel suspended from up the chimney, so that John Adams' home must have been abreast of the times when he wedded, and the good wife Abigail was paid a fitting compliment by the farmer's son.

"What she made that home was illustrated by her son, John Quincy, who from his early years had mingled among the upper classes of Europe, and knew what their sumptuous homes were, and saw the effects of money in abundance, and took to himself a wife among it all. Yet upon his return, he came direct to the cottage to abide, for to him it was his home.

"Anticipating his arrival, a modern house had been erected, some distance to the north of his old home, by a builder of a speculative turn of mind, thinking to sell or lease it to Mr. Adams. It was square, two stories high, with a wide hallway from front to rear and quite an improvement over the lean-to, but it did not compare with it as a home to the man who afterward wrote the following to Miss Susan Quincy to be inscribed with other verses under her drawing of the Humble Dwelling of My Own Nativity.

"What charms to thee my bosom bind,
Dear native village, bleak and dreary?
What image brings thee to my mind,
O'er earth and ocean wandering weary?
That lowly cottage, on thy face,
Where first my lips discerned a mother,
What is its beauty, what its grace,
To me surpassing far all other."

"But to take up the thread of our brick story. "A huge stack of brick chimneys was the central idea, as well as fact, in it, and about this the house was built" (Three Episodes,) and 'tis true about the cottage, and it might be added that the "huge stack is laid up in common clay, and so soft that it can be picked out with the finger nail.

"Yet it stood raising about two feet, for the "cottage" was carried up that far in the restoration.

"In the chamber used by John Quincy Adams as his study a date brick was discovered in the old fireplace, or rather in the wall of the old fireplace. No doubt it was unknown to Mr. Adams, as it was covered in before his birth.

"The inscription 'June 6, 1716,' was probably the time when the house was raised. There are few among the old houses that furnish so good proof of their age."

HOLIDAY SPORTS.

The T. R. & S. Nine Win Two Ball Games.

Race of the Wollaston Club for Baker Cups.

Golf, Tennis, Trap Shooting and Other Athletic Events.

The T. R. & S. Co. ball nine did not disappoint their friends on the Seventeenth, although defeat seemed certain at the end of the sixth innings in the morning game at the park. Victory however was pulled out in the seventh when the home club scored 13 runs. The final score was 18 to 13. The batting of both teams was heavy and the fielding poor. In the second innings Mahoney broke his ankle while running bases which was a big loss to the T. R. & S. team, as Mahoney is one of the best all round players.

The Dorchester Game.

The Dorchesters got defeated for the first time this season by the T. R. & S. Co. with crippled team in the afternoon; the catcher being on crutches and Cunniff having a sprained leg. This, however, was one of the best games ever played in Dorchester. The features were the fine batting of the T. R. & S. and the fielding of Dunn.

Wollaston Yacht Race.

The first race for the Burgess cups was sailed off the club house the 17th. The second class started at 1.05 P. M.

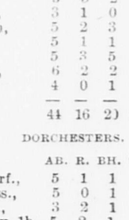

The Magnolia crossed the line first, closely followed by the Burgess, Thelma and Clara Lou, in the order named. It was a pretty race between the Burgess and Clara Lou. The Burgess crossed the line first coming home, being 1 minute and 32 seconds ahead of the Clara Lou, but the latter's time allowance makes the race a tie between these two boats. The Thelma withdrew.

In the fourth class the West Wind had it all to herself, the other boats having bad luck in different ways. The Sea Gull parted her jib halyards about fifty yards from the line on the start. The Beatrice and Remona withdrew.

Not the least interesting event of the day was the race for the A. L. Baker cups, for boats 13 feet and under. Six boats started over a two and one-half mile course. The Marion, 11 foot, owned by Fred Green, won by 3 minutes and 4 seconds; the Gypsy, J. Stuart, second; the others following closely.

The wind was southwest and fresh at the start and increasing to a wholesail breeze.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., New York.

The Nahant Race.

The Massachusetts Yacht club held a very successful open race off Nahant on the Seventeenth, in which many of the Quincy flyers were entered.

The Beatrice was disabled soon after starting, her bobstay being carried away, and the order at the finish in the first class was: Ida J., Addie, Emma C., Harbinger, Heroine and Mistress.

The Hoodlum had a walkover in the second open as the Princeps withdrew.

The Privateer, of the Quincy club, won in the second class cabin boats, defeating in this order the Muriel, Rex, Whisper, Yankee, Alert and Alma.

The little game Rooster won in the third class on time allowance, the Al-Anka crossing the line 34 seconds ahead. The order of the other boats was: Allison, Arab, Wrinkle, Kahoo, Jag, Spook, Mephisto and Omeme. The last named is W. P. Barker's new boat which was hardly in trim for the race and which will need watching in coming races.

In the fourth class the order was Birce, Vitesse, Alpine and Fantasy. The Gnome and others withdrew.

The Cock Robin won handily in the Knockabout class with such rivals as the Gosling, Cockatoo, Hazard, Sally III, Fly, Mongoose and others.

Holiday Golf.

H. M. Fairbanks made another great score on the Seventeenth in the Wollaston golf match, but F. G. Patterson with a handicap of 20 had the best net score. Prizes were awarded for best gross and net scores.

Tennis at Wollaston.

The Merry Mount Tennis club of Wollaston played a tournament before a large number of spectators on Thursday. Owing to the darkness the playing of the finals was postponed. The result:

In the preliminary round, Bailey beat Merrifield, 6-1, 1-6, 7 5. Emery beat Leavitt, 6-1, 6-3. Battison beat Albee, 6 3, 6 3. Manning beat Godfrey, 6 2, 6 4.

In the semi finals, Merrifield beat Leavitt, 6 1, 9 7. Albee beat Manning, 2 6, 6-1, 6 3.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas P. Hayes was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy. He was also arraigned for assault on Julia E. Hayes his wife. This was placed on file.

The continued case of James Dimmock for drunkness at Quincy was called and he paid a fine of $5.

Henry Beard was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued two weeks.

John Gill was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Valentine Dreiling was fined $3 for violating the rules of the Metropolitan Park reservation.

James Holbrook was arraigned for the larceny March 15, of a case of surgical instruments, valued at $25 from Dr. T. H. Dearing at Braintree. Dr. Dearing testified that the case was stolen from his buggy at the Town House, and it appeared that Holbrook had a case of instruments answering the description of those stolen from the physician.

Holbrook testified that he found a case of tools which were badly rusted; that he showed them to a physician who said they were old and of no value; later he lost them from his pocket.

The court discharged Holbrook.

WHERE WARREN FELL.

Celebration of the Anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

New Orleans Mardi Gras Features In Parade.

Presentation of Figurehead of "Victory" to Battleship Massachusetts.

Boston, June 17.—The anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill was today celebrated in Charlestown in a manner that eclipses all preceding celebrations. In the city proper and in the harbor there were events which may properly enough be considered parts of the celebration. There are sports galore on land and water for those who delight in them. At midnight last night there was begun in Charlestown a series of patriotic observances, which will continue throughout the day and evening. In fact, the celebration, so far as noise and decorations are concerned, began 72 hours ago.

Last night was given over to banquets and oratory at the rooms and club houses of nearly every organization in the district. The more important of these was the banquet of the Catholic Literary union, which took place at 10 p. m. at the rooms of the organization on Monument square, and entertainments at the houses of the 999th Artillery association on Main street, and the Charlestown club on High street.

The pagent presented this morning was beautiful and was the most expensive ever undertaken by the Seventeenth of June association. All of the floats used in the New Orleans Mardi Gras were brought here, and the spectators were given a treat. In addition to these there was a big historical float which had been built here and which, perhaps, was more appropriate to the occasion than those imported. Besides the 20 odd floats, there were mounted and foot features usual in all such celebrations.

At 9:30 the carnival parade started. It is impossible to describe the beauties of the floats. Suffice it that a more brilliant spectacle has never been witnessed in New England.

The peers of the realm of Giasticutus acted as escort to the float of his majesty King Andrew I. The body of men were dressed in red coats, blue pants, white belts and gloves, and brass helmets. Each carried a baton decorated with red and purple—Giasticutus colors.

Following are the floats:

Float No. 1—"King Andrew I and Attendants."

Float No. 2—"The Title Float." An immense sea serpent, with great green fins and tail, is the central figure of the title or banner float. It is supposed to be in the midst of the ocean.

Float No. 3—"Poseidon's Craft." This float represents a maritime vessel in the shape of an immense shell drawn by two horses.

Float No. 4—"Lohengrin's Swan Team."

Float No. 5—"Warship of Carthage."

Float No. 6—"In the Polar Seas."

Float No. 7—"Charon's Ferry on the Styx."

Float No. 8—"Venice, Mistress of the Seas."

Float No. 9—"On the River of Content."

Float No. 10—"On the Nile."

Float No. 11—"On the Waves of Chance."

Float No. 12—"Chinese Fairy Boat."

Float No. 13—"The Fairies Craft."

Float No. 14—"Pleasure Boat of a Roman Emperor."

Float No. 15—"On the River Lethe."

Float No. 16.—"On the Sea of Adventure."

Float No. 18—"Queen of the Mist."

Other features of the parade were costumes representing colonial soldiers, "the Twentieth Century Girl," represented by the Brereton club of East Boston; "Li Hung Chang in America," by the Working Mens' Debating club, and many individual novelties. Detachment of United States marines and the M. V. M. also participated.

In the afternoon there was a grand military and civic parade

Fireworks and band concerts in the evening con luded the demonstration.

An incident of the day was the presentation of a bronze figurehead to the battleship Massachusetts. The bronze is of heroic size, and represents "Victory." Secretary of the Navy Long, who came from Washington to attend the celebration, will accept the emblem on behalf of the navy. The bronze is a gift from the people of Massachusetts.

Flags and bunting are floating in the breeze from nearly every home in the district. The small boy is in his element and a spirit of fun and patriotism is ubiquitous.

Company C, Ninth regiment, of New York, under command of Captain W. Wilcox, took part in the celebration. The visit is made upon the invitation of company H, Fifth Massachusetts regiment, of Charlestown. The men will return Saturday.

FARMER TURNS BURGLAR.

Business Man at Enosburg Falls, Vt., Probably Fatally Shot.

Enosburg Falls, Vt., June 17.—M. P. Perley, 50 years old, and a prominent business man, was seriously, if not fatally, shot in an encounter with a burglar yesterday morning. The robber was arrested. He is Henry L. Chamberlain, a farmer in West Enosburg, and up to this time had borne a good reputation. Since his arrest, Chamberlain has confessed to several minor robberies in this vicinity.

At this time in the month, Mr. Perley has been in the habit of having a large sum of money in his house for the purpose of cashing creamery checks. It is thought that Chamberlain knew of this and determined to secure it. Mr. Perley was awakened by a noise, and upon going out of his room to the head of the stairs met Chamberlain coming up. The men grappled at the landing, and Chamberlain managed to discharge his revolver, the bullet piercing Mr. Perley's breast just above the heart. When examined afterward, it was found that rib had also been fractured, and that a piece of it had entered the left lung.

In spite of his wound, Perley clung to his assailant until two of his clerks, who also slept in the house, came to his assistance and overpowered the burglar. Other occupants of the house then assisted Mr. Perley to his room, while Chamberlain, who by this time had been recognized, was bound securely and taken to jail at St. Albans. He will not have a hearing, however, until the result of Mr. Perley's wound is determined. Chamberlain is 43 years old, and has a wife and child.

LAKE WABAN ILLUMINED.

Wellesley's Celebration of "Float Night" Surpassed Previous Spectacles.

Wellesley, Mass., June 17.—The broad and placid surface of Lake Waban presented a spectacle of rare brilliancy last night on the occasion of the annual observance of "Float Night" at Wellesley college. Long before darkness had set in the crowds began to gather along the wooded shores of the lake, until several thousand people lined the banks.

The decorations were unusually brilliant this year. Along the shores myriads of Japanse lanterns of fantastic shapes and colored incandescent lamps were tastefully hung among the trees and drooped in long, graceful festoons, making a beautiful effect. On the lake, as far as the eye could reach, were scattered innumerable canoes and floats of every description, each vieing with its neighbor in attractiveness. The various college classes were represented, their floats being decorated with the class colors, and the fair students appropriately gowned.

The members of the graduating class occupied a large float, elaborately decorated, and attracted much attention. Music added to the pleasure of the evening, and until a late hour the air was filled with the sound of merry laughter, mingled with college songs and class yells.

Miss Louise Hucheson of '97 was in charge of the affair, and to her is due in a large measure the success of the exercises. The '98 crew had Miss Cora Rogers for its captain, and Misses Metcalf Millet and Rockwood were the captains of the "pleasure" crews.

Some skilful exhibitions of rowing was seen, the college crew comprising the best eight oarswomen, winning much applause.

That "House of Lords" Matter.

Brockton, Mass., June 17.—At a meeting of the Fletcher Webster post, 13, G. A. R., last night, an order was received from Department Commander Deane declaring the action of the post last December in refusing to elect delegates to the state encampment null and void and ordering another election, to be held July 3. In compliance with the order, Commander Brown gave notice that the election would be held on June 23. There was considerable talk among the members at the meeting over the new order received from the department commander, and the general sentiment seemed to be that the post would adhere to its former action and refuse to elect either delegates or alternates.

A number of communications have been received from other posts in the state urging the local post to stand out against the so-called "house of lords," and tendering their support to carry on the fight. The Brockton post, however, has refused any assistance from other posts.

A Missing Evangelist.

Bangor, Me., June 17.—The unceremonious departure of Rev. W. S. Woodworth of this city has caused much comment, and recent developments in the case throw an interesting light on the case. Rev. Mr. Woodworth had been working in Bangor for a year or more as an evangelist and through his personality and talents had attracted large congregations and aroused much religious interest. He had made no especial statements regarding his domestic relations, and among those who knew him, he passed as a single man. Therefore, when his wife and children arrived from Syracuse a few days ago, considerable interest was manifested by his congregation, and particular interest attached to the fact that the elder left town just before his family arrived in this city. Mrs. Woodworth had expected to meet her husband here, and his sudden disappearance greatly disquieted and grieved her. She waited in Bangor for several days while search was prosecuted for the missing clergyman, and then left for Syracuse. She was practically destitute.

Councillor Allen Cited For Debt.

Boston, June 17.—Isaac B. Allen of the governor's council has been cited to appear in the poor debtor's court. The notice requested him to appear next Wednesday and show cause why he should not take the poor debtor's oath or pay a bill of $42 against him. The debt is one of old standing. On May 20, 1891, Allen borrowed $23.50 on his joint note with Florence R. Allen on household furniture at 26 Westminster street. The money was loaned to him at an interest of $2 a month by Louiis Meyer, a money lender, who claims that Allen still owes $15 on the note, in addition to interest.

Crisis Impending.

Boston, June 17.—The Herald says: While no official announcement is yet made, and while the management prefers to keep its own council, it is an open secret that there is a crisis impending in the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association. The impending crisis is rather the natural outgrowth and culmination of facts which have existed for a long time, and which have been before the public.

Tufts Graduation.

West Medford, Mass., June 17.—His excellency Governor Wolcott, with several members of his staff, was present at the graduation exercises at Tufts college, which were held yesterday. Sixty-four men and 13 women of '97, representing every department of the college marched into Goddard chapel for the conference of the degrees.

Maine Champion Dead.

Bangor, Me. June 17.—Jerry. F. Murphy of Bangor, who during many years held the title of champion heavyweight pugilist of Maine, died at his home here yesterday afternoon of consumption, at the age of 31 years. He leaves a widow and two children.

South Americans Depart.

Boston, June 17.—The Pan-American delegates concluded their visit in this vicinity last night and left for Providence.

$3,000 COLONIAL COTTAGE.

Contains Ten Rooms and Bath and Is In Every Way Desirable.

[Copyright, 1897, by George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.]

That the cheapest is not always the best is often exemplified in the operations of the building of a home. Many experiences have been very dearly bought by those who have gone in on a cheap scale, where they were led to believe they would get about a dollar's worth for 75 cents. You can always depend on it that these methods rarely work out satisfactorily and that he who puts cinders in his pay will as surely get them back in his iron in one form or other.

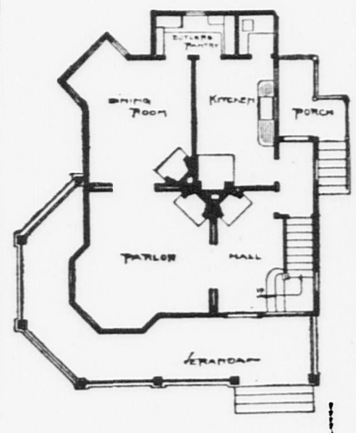

You may be like unto a certain "wise" man who, when he wanted to build his house, first looked around for cheap plans. He consulted several architects, and after getting prices for such plans as he thought he needed he engaged the cheapest to furnish them. Then he got his estimates, and in a small house of less than $4,000 value he found there was about $1,200 difference between the best and highest figures and the lowest; so, of course, after shaking hands with himself on his good fortune, he made his contract, and the work went ahead. Before long, however, but not before he had paid out half his money, the contractor stopped work, and claims for money due for materials were filed, and another contractor had to be found to complete the work. Again the owner availed himself of the lowest bidder, and again the contractor failed on his hands, and more claims were filed, and more trouble was laid in store.

Then the owner went to a first class builder and hired him to do the work and charge him only for material and days' wages. This builder, after getting matters in hand, discovered that most of the work had been badly done. Plans were not followed or details carried out, although the architect had certified to payments due and work accomplished. It was then found that the architect was simply a novice at the profession. So it was necessary to get rid of him, and the builder who finished the job honestly made everything good and carried out the plans in a workmanlike way at the real cost, and the bills were paid. But when through with it the owner had a house that was only third class, patched up, doctored and barely made to pass. My advice to every man who is determined to have something cheap is to do it himself, and if he has business ability he can save money and get what he honestly pays for.

In this cottage the owner so built, and he got it cheaper by several hundred dollars than he could have done by contract. Being a business man, he did this merely by his knowledge of business principles. This is the cheapest, the best and the most satisfactory way for any one to build, provided he has tact and ability.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This building is 28 by 35 feet, colonial in style, and has ten rooms and a bath, laundry in cellar, open plumbing, fireplaces and a furnace, and is well built and finished, every cent of the cost in the building. Every man received his wages, all the material was paid for, and all hands connected with the transaction are satisfied.

These two experiences are real ones, and the reader can contrast them. The cost of this cottage was less than $3,000, and it is a larger and better home than the other one, which cost over $4,000.

To Save Expense.

It would be a very handy thing if at least one dimension of each room was an even number of carpet widths. Carpet comes either 27 inches or 36 inches wide, and rooms can generally be multiples of at least one of these dimensions. A room that is four or five inches over an even number of carpet widths is an expensive affair.—Selected.

Plant Flowers.

The love of flowers is at once an agency in spreading and an indication of the advance of civilization among people and of cultivation and refinement among individuals. No flowers about the home implies and marks the absence of culture and refinement, be the home ever so costly, ever so resplendent in boughten finery.—American Home.

BAD DRIVES OUT GOOD.

Senator Jones Admits That There Can Be but One Standard of Value.

No government can maintain at one time more than one standard of value, any more than it can maintain more than one standard of weight, or more than one standard of measure, or more than one standard of length. If there be two or more standards of different value, the standard of lower value will in practice become the only standard.

If one goes into the market, the law being that a yard shall be either two feet or three feet in length, and buys carpets by the yard at a fixed price, there will be delivered to him carpets measured in yards of two feet in length. If he buy coal by the ton, the law being that a ton shall be either 2,000 or 2,240 pounds, he will receive tons of 2,000 pounds each. If he buy potatoes by the bushel, the law being that a bushel shall contain either two pecks or four pecks, there will be delivered to him bushels of two pecks each.

On the same principle, if the law be that a dollar is either a gold coin, with a bullion value equal to its face value, or a silver coin, with a bullion value of only half its face value, and not convertible at par into gold coin, the sellers of the carpets, the coal and the potatoes will be paid in dollars of the lesser value.

There never has been and there never can be in any country at any time a bimetallic standard, and the attempt to create a double standard has never produced anything better than an alternating standard, with the inevitable consequences of injustice with reference to past contracts and uncertainty with reference to future contracts.

Indeed, Senator Jones admits in the report of the silver commission of 1876 that "whenever under the double standard there is a variance between the legal and market relations of the metals the standard would be practically based on one metal, and it the cheaper and more available one." The financial history of the United States and of France furnish conclusive evidence of the accuracy of the senator's view on this point. —C. Stuart Patterson.

More Money In Circulation.

If there was any actual relation between the quantity of money in circulation and national prosperity, we would now be on a flood tide. For more than a twelvemonth now the amount of money in circulation in the United States has been steadily on the increase. July 1, 1896, about the time the Chicago platform was in the process of incubation and the mouth of the popocrat was full of demands for more of the circulating medium, the total money in circulation in the United States was $1,509,725,200, making $21.15 per capita on an estimated population of 71,390,000.

Nov. 1, 1896, on the eve of the election, when the people of the United States were to give their verdict against a debased and depreciated currency, the money in circulation was $1,627,055,614, making $22.63 per capita on an estimated population of 71,902,000.

March 1, 1897, on the eve of McKinley's inauguration, the total money in circulation in the United States had risen to the unprecedented sum of $1,675,694,953, making $23.14 per capita on an estimated population of 72,418,000.

To fully appreciate this increase of the money in circulation in the United States it is only necessary to say that in the last ten months it amounted to $165,969,753, or more than $2 per capita of the entire population.

While the absolute circulation has passed all previous high water marks the per capita circulation is still $1.30 below that of 1892, just before the panic. But the per capita is now higher than it was in 1890 or any year in the history of the republic prior to that. Then why are the times not as good as they were along in the late eighties? Simply because good times depend on public confidence and industrial activity, and not on the amount of money in circulation. This is simply the teaching of the old proverb that a nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling.—Chicago Times-Herald.

One Way to Get Rid of the Silver Question.

Let the silverites have their own way and the end will not be far off.

Confidence Makes Gold Plentiful.

The gold standard does not restrict us to the use of gold. Our country, like every other gold standard country, uses vast amounts of silver concurrently with gold.

There is no shortage of gold. Its production is steadily increasing. When confidence prevails, there is no lack of gold for currency or any other purposes.

The Wage Earner's Interest.

Appreciation of the dollar in which wages are paid and consequent lower prices are constantly and certainly to the advantage of the wage earner. Depreciation of the dollar and consequent higher prices are always and certainly to his damage.

LILIUOKALANI'S PLEA.

Ex-Queen of Hawaii Asks Senate Not to Ratify Annexation Treaty.

Says That Cession of Lands Is an Act of Wrong.

Secretary Sherman Receives the Protest and Says Nothing.

Washington, June 18.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani has filed a protest against the annexation of Hawaii by the United States. Secretary Sherman received the protest, but will say nothing about it.

Following is the text of the ex-queen's plea:

"I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, by the will of God named heir apparent on the 10th day of April, A. D., 1877, and by the grace of God, queen of the Hawaiian islands on the 17th day of January, A. D., 1893, do hereby protest against the ratification of a certain treaty, which, so I am informed, has been signed at Washington by Messrs. Hatch, Thurston and Kinney, purporting to cede the said islands to the territory and dominion of the United States. I declare such treaty to be an act of wrong toward the natives and part native people of Hawaii, an invasion of the rights of the ruling chiefs, in violation of international rights, both toward my people and toward friendly nations with whom they have made treaties, the perpetuation of the fraud whereby the constitutional government was overthrown and finally an act of gross injustice to me.

Because the official protests made by me on the 17th day of January, 1893, to the so-called provisional government was signed by me and received by said government with the assurance that the case was referred to the United States of America for arbitration.

Because that protest and my communications to the United States government immediately thereafter expressly declared that I yielded my authority to the forces of the United States in order to avoid bloodshed and because I recognized the futility of a conflict with so formidable a power.

Because the President of the United States, the secretary of state and an envoy commissioned by them reported in official documents that my government was unlawfully coerced by the forces, diplomatic and naval, of the United States, and that it was at the date of their investigations the constitutional ruler of my people.

Because such decision of the recognized magistrates of the United States was officially communicated to me and to Sanford B. Dole, and Dole's resignation, requested by Albert S. Willis, the recognized agent and minister of the government of the United States.

Because neither the above named commission nor the government which sent it, never received such authority from the registered voters of Hawaii, but derives its assumed powers from the so-called committee of public safety, organized on or about the 7th day of January, 1893, said committee being composed largely of persons claiming American citizenship, and not one single Hawaiian was a member thereof or in any way participated in the demonstration leading to its existence.

Because my people, about 40,000 in number, have in no way been consulted by those, 3000 in number, who claim the right to destroy the independence of Hawaii. My people constitute four-fifths of the legally qualified voters of Hawaii, and excluding those imported for the demands of labor, about the same proportion of the inhabitants.

Because said treaty ignores not only the civic rights of my people, but further the hereditary property of their chiefs. Of the 4,000,000 acres composing the territory, said treaty offers to annex 1,000,000 or 915,000 acres has in no way been heretofore recognized as other than the private property of the constitutional monarch, subject to a control in no way differing from other items of private estate.

Because it is proposed by said treaty to confiscate said property, technically called the crown lands, those legally entitled thereto, either now or in succession, receiving no consideration whatever for estates, their title to which has been always undisputed and which is legitimately in my name at this date.

Because said treaty ignors not only all professions of perpetual amity and good faith made by the United States in former treaties with the soverigns representing the Hawaiian people, but all treaties made by those soverigns with other and friendly powers, and it is thereby a violation of international law.

Because by treating with the parties claiming at this time the right to cede said territory of Hawaii, the government of the United States receives such territory from the hands of those whom its own magistrates (legally elected by the people of the United States and in office in 1893) pronounced fraudulently in power and unconstitutionally ruling Hawaii.

Therefore, I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, do hereby call upon the president of that nation, to whom I yielded my property, and my authority to withdraw said treaty, ceding said lands from further consideration. I ask the honorable senate of the United States to decline to ratify said treaty.

I implore the people of this great and learned the Christian religion, to sustain their representatives in such acts of justice and equity as may be in accordance with the principles of their fathers and to the Almighty Ruler of the universe, to him who judgeth righteously, I commit my cause.

Done at Washington, District of Columbia, United States of America, this 17th day of June, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-seven.

LEAGUE GAMES.

At Boston—

The home team won another game from Chicago yesterday, the visitors being entirely unable to keep up with the fast pace which is being set by the Bostons. Briggs was pounded hard, while Klobedanz held the visitors down to a few scattered hits for seven innings. In the eighth, Sullivan went in and Chicago made a few runs. Collins' playing was again a feature.

PRINCETON HONORS CLEVELAND

Ex-President Expresses Great Appreciation of Degree of LL. D.

Princeton, N. J., June 17.—Grover Cleveland had the degree of LL.D. conferred upon him by Princeton university yesterday. This ceremony was the principal feature of the commencement exercises. There was considerable applause when Mr. Cleveland arose to be presented to President Patton as a candidate for the honorary degree.

Deafening applause greeted Mr. Cleveland when he arose to be presented to President Patton as candidate for the honorary degree of LL. D. Dr. Patton conferred the degree upon Mr. Cleveland, who spoke a few words in reference to the honor conferred.

Mr. Cleveland said: "I cannot forbear the expression of my profound appreciation of the honor conferred upon me and a confession of my gratitude for the warm welcome which greets my initiation into the brotherhood of Princeton university.

"When I recall the high place that Princeton occupies among the universities of the land, her proud history, her bright trophies won on the field of higher education, her vital relation to the patriotic achievements which have helped to make the nation, I am proud of the honor which I have received at her hands. As I recall the sincerity and cordiality which accompanies this honor, I think that another tie has been formed which binds me with closer affections and deeper feelings to the home where I expect to spend the remainder of my days."

SPAIN'S OFFER.

Forty Thousand Dollars Will Be Paid Ruiz' Widow, if No Claim Is Pressed.

New York, June 18.—The World's Madrid special says: Premier Canovas is willing to pay the widow of Dr. Ruiz $40,000 if the United States government will not press an official claim.

The announcement of this fact has aroused vehement public opposition, which the Madrid press is inflaming. The newspapers blame the government for allowing Dr. Ruiz to be killed, but censure it most for acknowledging it. They say Spain is "under the iron heels of the Yankees."

Unless the press attacks on America moderate soon the embassy is likely to be stoned again. The Spanish government, always careful to guard against such a demonstration, is more watchful than ever.

Minister Taylor is in no present danger, as the civil guard detailed at the legation has been trebled. Mr. Taylor looks for trouble over the case.

The Liberal paper El Globe criticizes Weyler's tactics vigorously. Almost everybody in Madrid admits that Spain is unable to conquer the Cubans.

Life Imprisonment For Assault.

Boston, June 18.—Frank Howard, who on April 27, with David Cummings, murderously assaulted Dr. Patrick Morris, the venerable Washington street druggist, was yesterday sentenced to state prison for life by Judge Fessenden. Cummings was given not more than 25 and not less than 15 years. The doctor, who is 76 years old, made a pitiable appearance on the stand. It was difficult to understand what he said, so weak was his voice. Howard went into his drug store at noon, and under the plea of a wounded leg got Dr. Morris to stoop over. Cummings came in and grasped the doctor, the two men unmercifully beat him and stole a gold watch and $37 from the till. The assault was seen by many people, but the men got away in the crowd. A description of them resulted in their arrest. After trial the jury almost immediately found them guilty. Howard expressed great sorrow for his part of the transaction, and pleaded for mercy on the ground of poor health. Cummings had nothing to say. The judge then imposed the sentences. They are the most severe administered for an assault case in Suffolk county in recent years.

Girl Carried Off Honors.

Boston, June 17.—Miss Jackson carried off the highest honors at the annual exercises of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in this city, yesterday, but because she was not 21 years of age the degree of doctor of medicine was withheld. She won three prizes, the first for the highest rank in the course, the second for excellence in obstetrics, and third for excellence in the special course in medical chemistry.

Died From Effects of Alcohol.

Framingham, Mass., June 17.—Medical Examiner Adams has reported on the death of Private Bolster at the Second brigade camp last week, finding death due to narcotic poisoning by alcohol.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. MINISTER TO MADRID.

General Stewart Woodford of New York to Succeed Taylor.

Nomination Sent to the Senate by President.

For Years the New Diplomat Has Been Leader In Republican Party.

Washington, June 17.—The president has nominated Stewart L. Woodford of New York to be minister to Spain.

General Stewart L. Woodford has been conspicuous in the Republican councils of Brooklyn and the state for a generation. He has been a representative in congress, United States district attorney, Republican presidential elector and lieutenant governor.

In 1870 he was the unsuccessful candidate for governor against John T. Hoffman, and in 1876 he was a candidate in the Republican national convention for vice president, receiving 60 votes.

General Woodford was born in New York city, Sept. 3, 1835. He is descended from early settlers of Connecticut. His grandfather fought in the Revolution and in the war of 1812. General Woodford entered Columbia college at 15, but spent the sophomore year at Yale, completing his education at Columbia and graduating in 1854. He delivered the centennial oration of the college.

He was admitted to the bar in 1857, and entered politics in the first Lincoln campaign, 1860. Later he became assistant United States district attorney. He resigned to enter the army as a volunteer in company H, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh New York volunteers.

He was made captain and served till 1864 in Virginia, South Carolina and the District of Columbia. He was judge advocate general of the department of the South, prevost marshal general and chief of staff of General Gilmore.

He rapidly rose, and was breveted brigadier general for gallantry in action. After the war he was military governor of the city of Charleston, and later of Savannah, putting the affairs of those cities in splendid shape.

He resigned his commission Aug. 22, 1865, and resumed his law practice. In 1866 he was elected lieutenant governor. He presided over the Grant electoral college of the state in 1872, and defeated W. Goodrich for congress the same year. He nominated Arthur for vice president in 1880. Under Grant he was United states district attorney.

General Woodford is president of the Phi Beta Kappa alumni of New York, a member of the New England society and of the G. A. R., has been vice president of the Society of the Army of the Potomac.

He is an officer of the city Savings bank, Sprague National bank and Farragut Fire Insurance company, and stands high in financial circles. Yale, Columbia and Trinity have bestowed the degree of M. A. upon him, and the latter gave him the degree of LL. D.

THIRTEEN PAGES PASSED.

The Senate Made Rapid Progress on the Tariff Bill Yesterday.

Washington, June 17.—The senate made rapid work on the tariff bill yesterday. There was no long speeches, and the debate was of a snappy character, which at times enlivened, but did not delay the serious work on the bill. Thirteen pages were disposed of, carrying the senate through the agricultural schedule and up to schedule H, relating to spirits, wines, etc.

During the day the paragraphs on dairy products, farm products, fish, fruit and nuts, meat products and miscellaneous agricultural products were acted on. The finance committee proposed many changes in the main advancing rates somewhat over those heretofore reported.

The committee was sustained on every vote, although a contest was made on almost every paragraph. Mr. Vest's motion to restore salt to the free list was rejected—yeas, 24; nays, 31.

The important paragraph proposing a tax on tea went over at the suggestion of Mr. Allison, who expressed hope that this duty on tea might be dispensed with.

Claims to Be Barnato's Brother.

Montreal, June 17.—Roland Israel Gideon Barnett of this city claims to be a brother of Barney Barnato, the South African diamond king. Barnett stated that Barnato's real name was Barney Isaac Aley Barnett; that he was one of four children, three boys and a girl, of whom Roland I. G. Barnett was the oldest. The father was a musician, connoisseur of paintings, well-known picture restorer, and for years had charge of the estate of the old Earl of Dudley. He gave his children a first rate education. Barney was educated at Heidelberg, and the reason he wore glasses was because he spoiled his eyes studying the strange German characters. Barney, Roland asserts, was never a circus performer. The brothers parted in anger in England, Barney going to Kimberley and Roland coming to America. Roland will immediately open correspondence with the executors.

Portland's Busy Firebug.

Portland, Me., June 17.—Fire was discovered last night by two women in the closet of the Friend's church during the session of the New England conference. It was extinguished before it had spread far. This is the fifth attempt to start a fire in public buildings in this city within a week.

To Remain In Office.

Boston, June 17.—Governor Wolcott will renominate Charles H. Walcott chairman of the state board of conciliation and arbitration. Mr. Walcott has been at the head of the board since its creation.

William M. Evarts Worse.

New York, June 17.—William M. Evarts, who has been ill with grip at his home here for some time past, is reported to be worse. His physician was in attendance during the night.

NEW TIMETABLE.

Quincy to Lose a Few of Its Best Trains.

A new timetable goes into effect on the Old Colony system on Sunday.

The Sunday service, instead of being increased as was rumored, will be revolutionized and reduced. All the afternoon trains to Boston will be dropped, there being none for four hours, between 1.12 and 5.12. The Sunday inward trains will be at 7.12, 8.12, 9.12, 1.12, 5.12, 7.12, 8.08 and 10.08. Eight trains instead of twelve.

There will be a corresponding reduction in outward trains on Sunday, the new service giving trains at 6.30, 8.30, 12.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 8.30 and 10.30.

In week day service there will be very few changes. The 7.34 A. M. inward will leave at 7.31, the 7.41 P. M. inward at 7.39, and the omission of 1.26 express ahd the 10.34 P. M. inward.

In outward service on week days there will be two less trains. The favorite 12 M. train is again dropped, and also the 11 P. M. The only other change is in the first train, which will leave at 5.55 A. M., two minutes later.

Wollaston will lose her 7.33 and 8.33 A. M. week day expresses to Boston, and the 10.38 P. M. The outward 11 P. M. train is also dropped.

Norfolk Downs loses the 10.40 P. M. inward, and 11 P. M. outward.

Atlantic loses the 10.42 P. M. inward and 11 P. M. outward.

Quincy Adams loses the 10.32 P. M. inward and 11 P. M. outward.

Quincy Adams, Wollaston and Norfolk Downs will receive about the same Sunday service as Quincy.

Atlantic will lose on week days the 10.42 P. M. inward and 11 P. M. outward. On Sundays Atlantic will have 14 inward and 13 outward in place of 9 each way.

The West Quincy week day service will remain the same, but on Sundays there will be six trains each way instead of two; the inward at 7.16, 8.16, 9.16, 1.16, 5.16 and 7.16; the outward at 6.18, 8,18, 12.18, 4.18, 5.18 and 6.18.

Suicide at West Quincy.

Wednesday morning Thomas J. Sullivan of 36 West street took a dose of Paris green with suicidal intent. None of the family knew of the fact that he had taken poison until he was taken sick, when a physician was summoned. Sullivan refused to take an emetic and died during the afternoon. The only cause that can be given for his rash act is strong drink, for it is said he had been drinking quite hard of late. Sullivan was about 50 years of age and a farmer and was worth some property. He leaves a wife and several children.

Burglars Frightened.

An attempt was undoubtedly made about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, by burglars, to enter the store of E. H. Doble & Co., at West Quincy. It was just about that hour when a party of young men returning home observed a buggy drive down Crescent street and stop. A man alighted and crawled through the fence near the store and tried the window. About this time the young men, in moving about to get a closer view, made a noise, which aroused the party in the buggy, who whistled sharply, at which the man near the store beat a hasty retreat and getting into the buggy drove rapidly down Cross street.

COMMENCEMENT

Six Young Ladies Graduated from Quincy Mansion School.

A Scene from "The Merchant of Venice" One of Features.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore an Honorary Member of Class.

The commencement exercises of the Quincy Mansion school which were held Thursday afternoon were of unusual interest from the fact that they were the first of the school.

They were largely attended and were held in the spacious parlors of the Mansion, which are connected with the hall, dining room and broad verandas in such a way as to make it possible for a large number to witness the exercises. The parlor was very prettily decorated with plants and cut flowers while the several essayists stood on a platform beneath an arch of flowers and the class motto, "Superanda omnis fortuna berendo est," worked in violet, the class color.

The music was delightful, especially the trio, the pianoforte part by Miss Weeks being exquisite. The Latin salutatory and the valedictory addresses contained pleasant allusions to the Quincy Mansion school and to Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Quincy who have been very kind to the school in many ways. All of the essays indicated much thought and care and as a whole there was no occasion for criticism.

The young ladies of the school who were beautifully gowned, entered the parlor from the upper rooms chanting a hymn, the six graduates being in the rear.

The exercises were opened by music by Miss Anne Winslow Harris, daughter of Hon. R. O. Harris of Bridgewater, and Miss Helen Springer daughter of Hon. Frank Springer of Las Vegas, New Mexico.

Valedictory address,
Helen Louise Williams.
Presentation of Diplomas.
Hymn—"America."

The graduates were:

Alice Julia Farnham of Salem.
Agnes Ketcham of Indianapolis, Ind.
Marion Estella Lang, of Melrose.
Mary Evelyn Robinson, of Lynn.
Alice Maysie Simpson, of Arlington Hts.
Helen Louise Williams, of Glastonbury, Conn.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, of Melrose; the latter being an honorary member of the class.

Thursday evening the graduates gave a reception to their friends from 8 to 10 o'clock, which included music, dancing and lunch. The music was by Prof. Fred Mason Blanchard and Prof. John Carver Alden.

Wednesday the graduates held their class day exercises upon the lawn about the Mansion, which closed with the planting of a Norwegian maple.

The school has recently received many presents, among which are a bust of Col. Robert G. Shaw, a fine old set of Waverley novels and some antique articles.

Fell from Electric.

William Russell of Harrison avenue, Boston, had his nose and jaw broken on Neponset bridge Thursday noon. He was riding on the running board of an electric car and was walking forward to the forward end of the car. In attempting to pass by one of the passengers he lost his hold and fell into the street. He was removed to his home.

Town River Improvement.

The wharf owners and others along the line of the Town river are happy, for two large dredgers arrived today, and it is expected that the work of dredging by the government will commence at once under the direction of Lieut. Col. Mansfield.

Hewson—White.

St. Andrew's church, Hanover, was the scene of a pretty wedding on June 16, at 12 30 P. M. The contracting parties were Mr. Leonard C. Hewson of Quincy, and Miss Alberta White of Pembroke. They were united in marriage by the rector of the church, Rev. Frank S. Harraden.

The bridemaid was Miss Grace Ethel Batson, the best man Mr. Walter Burnie, both of Quincy. The bride was given away by her father.

The bride was attired in white silk lansdown made with train and veil, trimmed with brocaded satin and pearl passementarie and carried bride roses.

The bridesmaid wore figured French organdie over Nile green silk and carried pink roses.

The church was beautifully decorated with daisies, ferns and many potted plants and palms. The same kind of decorations gave a charming effect to the parlor of the bride's parents home, where a reception was held immediately following the marriage ceremony.

The couple were the recipients of many valuable and handsome presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewson will reside at No. 33 Elm street, Quincy, where they will be at home to their friends June 30, from 8 to 10 P. M.

The Electric Service.

Thursday was practically the first pleasant holiday or Sunday this season and as a result the Quincy & Boston did a rushing business. Heavy riding commenced early in the morning and long before noon every available car was brought into use and every car went loaded. Extra cars were run on all lines and the big fifteen seat cars which run between Nantasket and Neponset proved none too large over 125 fares being collected in one car. The new track to Neponset, with its numerous turnouts, enabled cars on this line to run on time and in the early evening passengers were landed by the hundreds at Neponset. On the Houghs Neck, Braintree, East Milton and Weymouth lines large numbers were carried on every trip from early morning until late at night.

The Quincy & Boston street railway are now in a position to handle large crowds rapidly and safely, having recently rebuilt their most important lines, and have added to this equipment a number of handsome new open cars. Good time was made on all lines considering the large number of passengers handled and what little delay there was will be remedied before another Sunday or holiday.

High School Debate.

The last meeting of the year of the Q. H. S. Debating Society was held Wednesday at 1.25 o'clock in the hall. President MacKenzie took the chair, and called for the report of the secretary. Miss Anne B. Chamberlin responded with an excellent account of the last two meetings. The debate on the subject of abolishing capital punishment was concluded by the following speakers:

Affirmative,—Miss Sweeney, Miss Sullivan, Miss Roberts and Miss Reynolds.

Negative,—Mr. Moorhead, Mr. Pendis and Mr. Thayer.

An entertainment of unusual excellence followed:

Vocal solo, Miss Sprague, 1900, accompanied by Miss Sibley, '99.

Piano solo, Miss Osborne, '98.

Vocal solo, Miss Lull, 1900, accompanied by Miss Sibley, '99.

Violin solo, Mr. Henry Fitzgerald, accompanied by Mr. B. Fitzgerald.

All the numbers were greatly enjoyed by the society.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are today its warmest friends. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

PICNIC AT NAHANT. The annual picnic of the Maine Clubs will be held at Bass Point, Nahant, Monday, June 28, under the auspices of the Dirigo Federation. The steamer will leave Boston at 9 30 A. M and will be met down the harbor by a steamer leaving Lynn at 9 20 A. M., landing at Bass Point about 10.30, after which the day will be passed in the usual picnic manner, boating, fishing, etc. Tickets may be procured of the executive committee of the several clubs or of John A. Hasty, secretary of Dirigo Federation, 63 Devonshire street, Boston. All former residents of Maine are invited to attend.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best, in fact—the One True Blood Purifier. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Tea and Coffee

are two great staples with us. Year by year the taste of our patrons has been educated—in a great degree through our efforts—until now the highest possible grades are demanded by our regular trade.

A good cup of Tea or Coffee is no accident.

It isn't a happen-to-be—it's a MADE-to-be.

Our Tea and Coffee are planted right, cultivated right, picked in the right way at the right time, cured right, handled right, bought right and sold right.

There's a watch kept every step of the way, in order to secure the best results.

The richest man in America can hardly provide himself with better Tea or Coffee than is within YOUR reach—if you buy of us.

And as to grades, a favorite Tea is our 50c. Formosa or English Breakfast.

Good enough for the most exacting, cheap enough for the most economical.

We have Teas as low as 25c. lb., and fancy grades from 60c. upwards, but no one need pay fancy prices in order to get good results, as we put the same care into our selections of all kinds. We know it will pay you to try ours. An experience of Twenty Years in buying and selling Teas will tell.

J. F. MERRILL,

Do You Know How Low The Price of Butter Is?

Better Butter is made in May and June than at any other time of year.

We can buy lower now than we have been able to for a long time, and WE always give consumers the advantage of a low market.

Nothing better is made than—

FRANKLIN COUNTY CREAMERY at 25c. lb.

5 lb. boxes, $1.20. 10 lb. tubs, $2.30.

5 lb. boxes, 95c. 10 lb. tubs, $1.85.

We would like to have you compare these goods and prices with what you are paying elsewhere, and should be pleased to receive orders before the price advances.

Graduations next week.

Summer has probably arrived.

The weather was O. K. on the Seventeenth.

The City Council will meet next Monday evening.

The new house for Andrew Lindberg on Arthur street is being built by Julius Nelson.

Postmaster Burke has placed new time cards on the postal collection boxes. The boxes have also been repainted.

An eight-page LEDGER tomorrow with all the Saturday features: Social realm, copyrighted story, children's department, etc., etc.

Mr. W. P. Barker's new Hanley boat, the Orneme, arrived from around the Cape on Tuesday and was entered in Thursday's race off Nahant.

Special cars took the Sunday School of St. Chrysostom church at Wollaston to Highland Park, Brockton, Thursday for their annual outing.

Charles J. McGrath, for some time baggage master at the Atlantic depot, has accepted a position as operator at the Nantasket junction station.

Quite a number of young people connected with the Wollaston Congregational Sunday School had an outing at White Head, Cohasset, on Thursday.

Rev. E. W. Preble will read an original poem at the memorial services of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows at the Bethany church, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Thomas W. Lincoln, Jr., and Mrs. Charles F. Pettengill took the prizes at the whist contest, at the rooms of the Granite City club, on Wednesday evening.

A large party of school children with their teacher Miss Carrie Parker of Quincy avenue, are to come to Quincy on Saturday and visit the birthplace of President John Adams.

Tonight, the regular prayer meeting of Calvary Baptist church led by Rev. Mr. Dornan of the U. P. church. Every one is made welcome to this service. Choir rehearsal at the close.

The contract for supplying the public schools with coal and wood has been awarded to J. F. Sheppard & Sons. Something like 1,000 tons of coal and 36 cords of wood will be required.

The T. R. & S. Co. nine has cancelled its game for Saturday with the Franklins, and will play the S. P. T. & S. of Brockton at the park. The Brockton team is a strong one, losing but one game last year.

The C grammars of the Coddington school turned the tables Wednesday by the defeating the D grammars of the same school in an exciting game at the score of 30 to 18 on the Academy grounds.

Our Swedish societies enter into the full enjoyment of the holidays in their own way. On the Seventeenth the Swedish Temperance society, the Lutherans and the Baptists held picnics at Merry Mount park.

Mr. Warren B. Haskell, of this city, who learned the photograph business of his uncle, Mr. Bussell, has opened a studio at Beachmont, where he would be pleased to receive any of his acquaintances from Quincy.

Company K participated in the Bunker Hill celebration the Seventeenth. The boys were royally treated by the Charlestown people. In the evening the Military companies were banqueted in the Quincy house by Company H of Charlestown.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, Water street, will be held this evening, to prepare for the social and sale next Monday evening. To the social everybody is invited. Admission free.

The annual picnic of the Swedish Lutheran society was held Thursday at Merry Mount park and was very largely attended. Various sports were indulged in and refreshments were served. One of the most interesting events was the running race for women which was won by Ida Person.

The Flower Mission so successfully carried on by Miss Carrie Gurney, giving so much pleasure to the aged, sick and little children in Boston, is again to be resumed; all are solicited to contribute; fruit and flowers may be sent to the Unitarian chapel, lower door, this afternoon from 4 until 5 30, or Saturday morning from 8 to 8 30 and continued each week.

Mrs. Warren Parker had charge of decorating the John Adams birthplace on the Seventeenth. She was kindly assisted by Mr. William Parker, of Quincy avenue. The house never looked more attractive. Mrs. Titus, regent of Adams Chapter, had flag poles made, also a beautiful blue pennant on which were the words, Adams Chapter, in large buff letters, made by Sheppard & Norwell, of Boston, also 120 feet each of red, white and blue bunting besides flags and quantities of buff and blue.

A largely attended ice cream sale in aid of the benevolent society of the Wollaston Baptist church was held at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Onley on Grand View avenue, on Thursday evening. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with cores of Japanese lanterns. There was some excellent music by Miss Florence Gertrude Olney, pianist; Miss Edith Olney, violinist; and Mr. George H. Critchley, cornetist.

THE BICYCLE LEG.

A New Ailment That Is Said to Afflict the Cyclist.

It has now been discovered by the student of such matters that bicycle riding gives women the bicycle leg. It is said by the experts that this evil attacks women more readily than it does men, probably because their muscles are more flexible and adaptable than those of the wheelmen. This is no mere romancing, for only the other day I went straight to a young girl whom I had known for a long time, and she told her experience. "I never rode much until last summer and did not notice that my legs had been affected by it until the dancing season opened last winter. The muscles of my legs seemed to remain stiff all evening at the Merritt ball, and I was awfully uneasy, for I thought I had contracted rheumatism. I could not manipulate my feet or make them go at all.

"You may imagine how my partners glared at me. Not one of them came back for a second turn, so I pleaded headache and mamma and I went home. I was puzzled, but did not say anything to anybody, for I had always had the reputation for being a good dancer. I had the same experience at the next dance and the next after that. Finally my doctor told me I had the bicycle leg. He told me that we have two sets of muscles in our legs. One sort we use for all kinds of graceful exercises. We might call these the Delsartean muscles. The others are the working muscles. Pushing the pedals develops the latter until the others are overcome, and when you attempt the graceful act you are about as successful as a cow would be."—Chicago Times-Herald.

SOME BICYCLE PROVERBS.

A reckless coaster makes a fat churchyard.

Admirers of different makes seldom agree.

You can't ride your wheel and lend it too.

A yell is as good as a nod to a deaf driver.

As you gear your wheel so you must ride it.

Hard words break no bones, but hard falls do.

Lock up your stable before your cycle is stolen.

A poor rider always finds fault with his wheel.

No wheel is so poor as not to have its defender.—London Mail.

Hints on Training.

Stop smoking.

Take plenty of sleep.

Stop drinking alcoholic and malt liquors.

Walk with the chest out, abdomen in, and swing the arms briskly.

Take a sponge bath and a rub down every time you finish exercising.

Avoid all pastries, sweets, food with rich sauces, and fresh made bread, lard crusts and hot biscuits.

Devote 15 minutes to arm exercises after rising, in order to clear out and help strengthen the lungs. The better the lungs, the better the endurance.

Don't begin with a 30 mile ride the first day, if you are training for bicycle work, or a ten mile walk, if you are getting into condition to run. Just a little exercise for the first week will be enough.

Roast beef, plenty of soft boiled eggs, plain soups, graham bread, fresh garden vegetables, oatmeal, fish of any kind not fried; not too many potatoes, neither coffee nor tea, and a glass of ale now and then after dinner will be found beneficial. Chops in the morning and at luncheon are easily digested. Let veal alone.

Follow these simple suggestions whether or not you want to train, and you will feel better for doing so.—New York Journal.

Bicycles In Montreal.

The bicycle meets with little sympathy from those who make bylaws in the city of Montreal. The city council has already decreed that each wheel ridden within its limits must pay an annual tax of $2 and must be provided with a lighted lamp at night and a bell at all times. The wheelmen must pass all street corners at no faster speed than that at which a horse can walk. Now the park and ferries committee has declared that wheels are debarred from St. Helen's island, one of the most frequented parks and summer resorts of the city, because they would be a nuisance to the large number of women and children who frequent it on the hot days of summer. The Turnpike trust also has given notice of application to the provincial legislature for power to levy a toll on all bicyclists using any of the country roads leading out from the city.—Providence Journal.

Mayor Harrison on Cycling.

This is how Mayor Harrison of Chicago describes the difference between equestrianism and bicycle riding: "When I go horseback riding, the horse gets the exercise. He doesn't exactly get it all, but he gets the best of it. On the other hand, when I go bicycle riding all the exercise is mine. I do all the work and have all the fun. A man can feel that he is doing something for himself when he is riding a wheel, and there is a great deal of satisfaction in that."—New York Advertiser.

Cycles For Missionaries.

Cyclists are so welcome in every part of the world that nowadays missionaries are asking that old wheels may be sent to them with barrels of old clothing and general supplies. So already in this way many bicycles have found their way to India, Syria, Japan, China, Java and other countries of the orient.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HOUGHS NECK.

Great Rejoicing Because of a Pleasant Holiday.

The few days of pleasant weather and a perfect holiday has dispelled the blues which discouraged the cottagers and business men of Houghs Neck. It has been a cold damp backward season, but the schools have not closed yet and should the next week be hot and pleasant there will be a great influx before the first of July, and a succesful season.

With all the drawbacks there has been more building than ever this season, and fully as many inquiries for rents. Several cottages were let on the Seventeenth.

It was opening day at several of the cottages and many entertained friends. There were also parties at the hotels, so it was quite a lively day with all.

Three chowders is usually a record breaker in the hottest days, but that was what the Great Hill house was required to furnish on the Seventeenth.

There was a bicycle party at Harvey's.

Mr. Waterman entertained at the Taylor cottage on Great hill a large party from Holbrook, which came by cars and bicycles.

A party of thirty from Stoughton made their headquarters at one of Pierce's cottages.

Mr. A. Comey and family of Newton are at Houghs Neck for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Chute and daughter of Dorchester are at Pierce's hotel.

M. M. Packer and family of Grove Hall arrived on Wednesday at the Cedar Bluff cottage.

The course of high tides at night the past week brought the water over the causeway betweeen Mosquito bridge and the Willows on Sea street.

A horse swam across the West Gut from Houghs Neck to Peddock's island one day this week.

The Quincy Yacht club has had to give in to the bicycle craze and build a bicycle stand in the lower hall of the club house. It is a common occurrence to have 25 wheels in the building at a time.

Rev. and Mrs. Isaac Clark are at the Whittemore cottage on the hill, and their daughter and family are expected when Congress adjourns.

A Boston Sunday school was at the Johnson cottage the Seventeenth.

There was a merry party at Call's cottage on Great hill.

Mr. Petts and family have moved into Mr. Moeb's cottage on the bayside.

Dr. Brown is at the Bodge cottage on the hill.

F. F. Prescott and family were at their cottage on Bell street the Seventeenth.

—Three places, at least, are known where green snow is found. One of these places is near Mt. Hecla, Iceland; another fourteen miles east of the mouth of the Obi, and the third near Quito, South America.

MICHAEL VS. M'DUFFEE

Fifteen-Mile World's Record Established by Welch Wonder.

Thousand of Enthusiasts at Charles River Park.

Greatest Race Ever Seen In America---Pacemakers Galore.

Boston, June 18.—No grander race spectacle or harder fought battle was ever witnessed on an American cycle path than the 15-mile match race between Jimmie Michael and Eddie McDuffee, decided at Charles River park yesterday afternoon.

Fourteen thousand persons yelled themselves hoarse as they witnessed the struggle. When McDuffee, at the end of the 13th mile, was forced to surrender the lead to the doughty Welshman, there went up such a shout as has seldom been heard on a race track.

All previous records, from the mile up to the 15 miles, were lowered, and the average time of each mile was 1m. 56 2-5s.

The sight of so many pacing machines, from triplets up to sextuplets, was one to marvel at. The race taught Dave Schaefer, Michael's manager, never to again rely upon triplets to bring his men to the front. He said after the race that had McDuffee been handled right he would have won.

McDuffee lead all through the race up to the last of the 13th mile, when his pacers became worn out and the little Welshman behind a fast triplet forged ahead and won by 100 yards. The weather conditions were well nigh perfect, there being only a slight breeze, and 15,000 people enjoyed the sport immensely.

The conditions of the Michael-McDuffee race were exceedingly novel. Each man was allowed as many pacers as he pleased and the pacers were allowed to ride all sorts of machines. The result of this was that there were three sextuplets, two "quints," three or four "quads," and a number of triplets, all on the track at nearly the same time, while as fast as the men on one machine became tired another lot took up the unwearied racer and carried him along. McDuffee's pacers were nearly all on sextuplets and "quints," while a couple of triplets did great work for Michael.

The race started at 5:20, after a good afternoon's sport, in which an American record for a new race, the two-mile tandem competition standing start, was made in 4:051-5, by the Butler brothers,

Michael and McDuffee waited till their pacers had developed speed, and as the sextuplet and the triplet rushed past the starting point the two fliers jumped in after them. McDuffee, behind the big sextuplet, almost immediately forged ahead and was 50 yards in the lead when the first mile was finished. For two miles there was no change, but in the third a hot triplet picked up Michael and noticeably cut down McDuffee's lead.

McDuffee soon made up his loss, and at the beginning of the fifth mile was about 200 yards ahead. The constant change of pacemakers kept the crowd at fever heat. Three big sextets did great work for McDuffee, especially that manned by the Butler brothers and four other fast men.

At the eighth mile McDuffee was over 1-6 of a mile in the lead and his pacemakers were making it warm for him. In the ninth Michael began to gain, the hard work telling on the sextets, and soon there were but 100 yards between the flyers. Not once did either man dorp behind the pacemakers.

In the 10th Michael caugh the Melrose man, and for half a lap they raced side by side. McDuffee, however, pulled out and soon had 50 yards lead in the 11th. In the 12th, one of McDuffee's sextets picked him up very badly with the result that Michael caught up, and after a mile more the two were again on even terms. By this time there was a continual roar of applause as the men came flying around after the pacemakers, and this was redoubled when Michael rushed ahead at the beginning of the last mile.

In spite of the fact that the two sextets and a "quad" successively picked up McDuffee, and apparently set the hottest kind of pace, nothing could catch the little Welshman and he rushed across the finish 100 yards ahead in the fastest 15-mile race ever run in this country, if not in the world. The race was for $500 a side.

Military Display at Concord.

Concord, N. H., June 18.—The principal event in the encampment of the New Hampshire National Guard is "Governor Day," and yesterday the occasion was attended by perfect weather and a great crowd of visitors, estimated at 10,000 persons. Adjutants call for brigade formation was sounded at 4 p. m., and a little later came the grand review. Governor George A. Ramsdell and his soldierly appearing staff took position and saw three regiments of infantry, an artillery company and a battalion of high school cadets, 1200 men in all, march by in magnificent style, with almost perfect formations, a strong swing and excellent alignment. The salutes at the reviewing stand were promptly given and well executed, and the scene was considered one of the finest attending any militia encampment in the state. When the review was over Brigadier General G. M. L. Lane and his officers were heartily congratulated by Governor Ramsdell and by Captain W. S. Edgerly, U. S. A., the detailed inspecting officer.

Memorial Service In Court.

Salem, Mass., June 18.—Before the supreme civil court in this city yesterday, Judge Sheldon presiding, memorial services were held to the late Stephen H. Phillips, formerly attorney general of Massachusetts and formerly attorney general of the Sandwich Islands, who died in this city about two months ago. Mr. Phillips was a member of the Essex bar. A memorial, prepared by James A. Gillis, was read by Hon. William D. Northend, one of the oldest members of the Essex bar. It was biographical and eulogistic. Judge Sheldon ordered the memorial spread upon the records of the court and, out of respect to Mr. Phillips, the court was adjourned.

OLDTOWN FEUD.

Preble-Page Families Are Evidently Trying to Make 'Kentucky History."

Bangor, Me., June 18.—The Preble-Page feud, which has claimed the principal attention of Oldtown during the past few days, reached its climax yesterday.

Late Wednesday night the carriage house and stable at the Preble homestead, on the Pushaw road, was discovered to be in flames. The whole village was threatened, and the people were stirred to a high pitch of excitement.

When the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that nothing could be done toward saving the Preble property, so all the fire fighters in the village bent their efforts toward saving the property of the community, and the fire was confined to the Preble premises.

Those who were first to arrive at the fire had observed unmistakable evidences that the blaze was incendiary, and responsible parties at once came forward with further evidence.

Not long ago the municipal court in Oldtown was called upon to adjudicate upon the troubles in the Page-Preble families. The first of the trouble in court was when Preble and Page had a heated debate in Milford about Preble's alleged intimacy with Page's wife, and Page drew a revolver on Preble. At that time Page was arrested and placed under $100 bonds to keep the peace for one year.

As They Do In Texas.

Paris, Tex., June 18.—Edward Kilgore a contractor and builder, met his death at the hands of Miss Fanny Jackson and her three brothers yesterday. Kilgore was sitting in the waiting room at Ladonia station when Miss Jackson, accompanied by a sister and three brothers entered. The girl drew a revolver and fired at Kilgore. The bullet went wild and struck her brother, Brode Jackson in the forehead, killing him instantly Kilgore dashed down the railroad track behind some freight cars. Bud Jackson, another brother, intercepted him and shot him in the back. After Bud Jackson had emptied his revolver, Miss Jackson walked up and fired three more shots into Kilgore, exclaming: "You coward, you have slandered me long enough." Examination showed that nine shots had taken effect, any one of which would have proved fatal.

Bodies Found.

Albany, June 18.—While clearing away the ruins of the Delevan house yesterday, which burned on Dec. 31, 1894, workmen found the remains of three bodies that perished in the fire. They were identified as the remains of Mary Carsey, Bridget Fitzgibbons and Thomas Cannon. The three whose bodies were found yesterday were servants, and occupied rooms under the roof. Of the 14 persons who lost their lives in the fire all are now accounted for, except one servant.

Woodford Is Not Expected Immediately.

London, June 18.—The Madrid correspondent of The Standard says: Hitherto no ambassador has ever presented his credentials while the court was sojourning at San Sebastian. Therefore it is not expected that General Stewart L. Woodford will arrive before the autumn. In the meantime Hannis Taylor accompanies the queen regent and court to San Sebastian. I understand that the attitude of the United States will be based chiefly upon the reports presented by W. J. Calhoun and the American consuls as to Cuban conditions.

Can't Have Cable Landing.

Washington, June 18.—The president has refused permission to the Compagnie Francais Cables Telegraphique to land the new cable of that company at Cape Cod, or indeed anywhere upon the United States coast. The question raised through the French ambassador as to the power of the federal government to deny admission to the cable will be referred to the attorney general for an opinion, but meantime the executive branch of the government holds to the doctrine that such landing can be only by express authorization of congress.

Mrs. Luetgert's Rings.

Chicago, June 18.—Quite a sensation marked yesterday's hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Adolph Luetgert, the rich sausage maker, charged with murdering his wife, Annie Greser, who was employed by the Luetgerts in 1888, positively identified the rings found in the vat as having belonged to Mrs. Luetgert.

TERRITORY OF HAWAII.

Treaty and Message Sent to the Senate by the President.

Several Senators Are Opposed to Scheme.

McKinley Argues That Islands Are a Part of United States.

Washington, June 17.—President McKinley sent a treaty for the annexation of Hawaii to the senate late yesterday afternoon. Accompanying the treaty was a message giving the reasons of the administration in the premises.

The treaty was signed yesterday morning by Secretary Sherman and the Hawaiian representatives. Senators Gray of Delaware and Mills of Texas are the only members of the foreign relations committee openly opposed to it, but the opposition in the senate will be strong enough, apparently, to prevent its ratification at this session, although it will probably be ratified in the end.

Already the forces of the two sides of the question are preparing for the contest over ratification, which it is well understood, will be stubbornly waged from the beginning. The friends of the treaty now say that there will be a decided effort to secure ratification during the present session of the senate, and some of them go so far as to say that it will not even wait upon the tariff bill, but that the ratification will be urged instead of action upon the existing reciprocity treaty. They realize, however, that the opposition will be so strong as to render this program doubtful of execution.

The message of the president was not a very long document. It dealt with historical facts concerning the islands, and showed that the United States and Hawaii yearly drew more closely bound to each other. This was not really annexation, he said, but a continuation of existing relations with closer bonds between the people closely related by blood and kindred ties.

Since 1820, said the president, the predominence of the United States had been known. The sending of the first envoy there brought the islands in closer relations with the United States, and those relations had grown more firm by succeeding events. At the same time the tripartile agreement was made for the government of Samoa, he said, Great Britain and Germany wanted to include Hawaii in the group over which a protectorate was established, but the suggestion was rejected by the United States because this government held that there already existed relations between Hawaii and the United States which placed the islands under the especial care of this country, and that this government could not allow any other country to interfere in the affairs of Hawaii. The annexation of the islands, said the president, and making them a part of the United States was in accordance with the established policy of this country.

The president called attention to the fact that a legitimate and existing government of Hawaii offered to annex the islands to the United States in 1851, but on account of what was deemed best policy, the annexation was not adopted by this country. He stated that the United States virtually exercised a protectorate over the islands since the first American mission and guaranteed the autonomy of the governments of the group. The islands had been largely settled by our own people, and our people were now interested in them. American interests predominated, and we had grown to consider them under our protection. The present treaty was in the light of a consumation of what had practically been in existence for years.

Referring to the treaty negotiated under the Harrison administration, President McKinley said that the failure to accept the proffer of annexation in 1893, while not a subject of congratulation, was not wholly without its value, as it had demonstrated the existing government could maintain itself, and no question, it is believed, was raised of the authority of the present government to negotiate the present treaty or of its right to yield the sovereignty of the islands.

The Treaty.

The treaty proved to be a simple document of six articles, based in its essential details upon the treaty negotiated by Hon. John W. Foster during the administration of President Harrison. The islands are ceded practically without conditions, leaving the United States to pursue its own course with reference to their management. The first article reads as follows:

"The government of the Hawaiian islands hereby cedes, from the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this treaty, absolutely and without reserve to the United States forever all rights and sovereignty of whatsoever kind in and over the Hawaiian islands and their dependencies, renouncing in favor of the United States every sovereign right of which as an independent nation it is now possessed, and henceforth said Hawaiian islands shall become and be an integral part of the territory of the United States."

The Hawaiian government cedes to the United States the absolute ownership of all the public lands, public buildings, ports, harbors, fortifications, military and naval equipments, and all other government property. It is specifically provided, however, that the existing land laws of the United States shall not apply to the public lands of Hawaii, but that special laws shall be made from time to time for their disposition, the proceeds of any sales of these lands to be applied to educational purposes in the islands. The islands are for the present to constitute a territory of the United States, their local laws remaining in force until new ones are to be enacted. A local legislature is provided for, but the veto power is vested entirely in the President of the United States. A commission of five persons, consisting of three Americans and two Hawaiians, to be nominated by the president and confirmed by the senate is provided for the purpose of formulating the mode of government for the islands.

The treaties of the United States with other countries are substituted for the treaties of Hawaii with the same countries in controlling the international relations of the island. Immigration of Chinese laborers to the islands is prohibited, and the laws restricting Chinese immigration to the United States are made to apply to the prevention of Chinese removing from Hawaii to this country. This government agrees to assume the debt of the island republic to the extent of $4 000,000.

The five commissioners provided for in the treaty are expected to make recommendations to congress as to new laws and also as regards the form of government. The present form of local government is to continue in the islands for the present, except that the President of the United States is to have immediate veto power over the acts of the Hawaiian legislative assembly.

At the Japanese legation the document filed by the Japanese minister is not regarded as a protest against the Hawaiian treaty, but is considered as a request for official information.

There apears, however, to be no doubt that as soon as Japan is notified officially of the signing of the convention that the government of the United States will be informed that Japan expects and demands the recognition and all the right and privileges which she now enjoys under her existing treaties with Hawaii. While peaceful annexation of the Hawaiian islands would abrogate the existing treaties of that country with foreign powers, Japan probably will contend that the United States must assume and respect Hawaii's obligations to foreign powers.

It is also a Japanese contention that under the new treaty to go into affect in 1899 special legislation cannot be enacted to exclude their citizens, as has been done to Chinese under the Chinese exclusion act.

English Opinion.

London, June 17.—Most of the morning papers contain editorials on the proposed annexation of Hawaii.

The Times says: The United States government has made a new departure from its historical policy. The action of Japan is hardly likely to retard the senate's speedy acceptance of the treaty, for the senate at the present time will not pay much deference to feeling of the country.

Such an acquisition of foreign dependencies will bring of necessity a new and serious foreign policy, which cannot in all cases be determined by an unlimited application of Monroeism.

Will America pursue the coloniizng course upon which she has now entered? President McKinley tries hard to represent the case as wholly exceptional, but the forces tending in an opposite direction are very strong.

The Standard says: The event will be a severe check to the Japanese notion that the Pacific islands are their ultimate heritage, and it would be a gracious act on the part of the United States to allow Japan's treaty rights to continue. Anyway, it is scarcely likely that Japan's protest can be made effective. Even the United States would have thought twice before fighting had Japan seized Hawaii. The natives will be better off under the administration government than before. Without doubt the Americans will soon build a fleet to protect their colony.

The Daily Telegraph says: No political complications are likely to ensue, but it is for the Americans to square annexation with the Monroe doctrine. England's interest in the event is only sentimental.

The Morning Post, on the contrary, says: President McKinley should be satisfied to shelve the matter now he has brought it before the public. Japan is not likely to consent without a struggle: England will escape the notice of the Australians.

The Daily News admits that the United States has a superior claim, and expects that the Japanese protest will be merely diplomatic.

A French View.

Paris, June 17.—The Journal Des Debats, commenting on the Hawaiian annexation treaty, says: Only Great Britain and Japan have enough interest in Hawaii to oppose its annexation, especially Great Britain. In these times of imperial unity there will probably be lively regret at seeing the American republic installed in an important position in the Pacific, between Canada and Australia. Japan is not in a position to oppose American ambitions.

S. of V. Statistics.

Waterville, Me., June 17.—At yesterday's session of the Maine Sons of Veterans, the reports of the different officers were received. Division Commander Cooper made several valuable recommendations regarding the mustering in of new camps. The quartermaster's report showed total receipts of $1273, and disbursements of $1049.21. The adjutant reported that there were at present 51 camps in good standing, a net loss of five since June 10, 1896. The number of members in good standing at present is 1460, a net loss of 81. The adjutant recommended that the charters of camps at Island Falls and Caribou be revoked.

Porte Accepts Powers' Advice.

London, June 18.—The Daily Telegraph's correspodent at Athens says: It was reported here last night that the peace conference and the porte have accepted a settlement giving Turkey either the town of Ligaria, southeast of Milouna, or Nezeros, north of Larissa. The Athens correspondent of The Daily Chrnicle says the porte has abandoned the policy of delay, and has decided to accept the advice of the powers.

Confessed to Murder.

Pointsville, Ky., June 18.—Washington Craft, the primitive Baptist minister on trial in the Floyd circuit court for the murder of Londell Higgins, 14 years ago, was placed on the witness stand yesterday. He denied killing Higgins, but on cross-examination broke down and admitted killing his uncle, Wiley Craft, and William Cook, 15 years ago.

CATARRH
HIS WORST ENEMY
PPP
DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:

WOOL DEBATE IS NEAR

Senate Passes Twenty Pages of Tariff Bill and Stops Work.

House Held Short Session and Adjourned to Monday.

Congressman Sulzer Overestimates the Number of Names on Cuban Petition.

Washington, June 18.—The senate made greater progress yesterday on the tariff bill than on any day since the debate opened. Two entire schedules, covering 20 pages, were completed, namely, schedules H, on spirits, wines and beverages, and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. This brings the senate to the flax schedule, with the important wool schedule standing next.

The portion of the bill passed yesterday is substantially the same as that reported, all committee changes being unimportant, while the opposition amendments of Mr. Jones of Arkansas and Mr. Vest were systematically rejected by majorities varying from 5 to 10. Mr. Allison secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list.

The senate in executive session made public the Hawaiian annexation treaty and accompanying papers.

IN THE HOUSE.

Sulzer and Bailey Appeal From Speaker's Ruling. With Usual Result.

Washington, June 18.—After the reading of the journal in the house, Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.) moved its approval. Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.) asked for a vote upon it, and Mr. Sulzer (Dem., N. Y.) desired to correct it in regard to the Cuban petition presented by him.

Mr. Sulzer and Mr. Bailey (Dem., Tex.) contended that the correction was first in order, while the speaker ruled that the vote on its approval should take procedure. An appeal was taken by Mr. Bailey.

The point Mr. Sulzer raised was that the journal stated that the petition presented by him had been referred to the "committee on foreign affairs," while the phraseology, according to his views, should be "to be referred to the committee on foreign affairs when appointed."

The ruling was sustained—96 to 80.

A roll-call on the approval of the journal was then ordered. The journal was approved—95 to 75. Mr. Lacy obtained the floor, but yielded to Mr. Sulzer (Dem., N. Y.), who occupied the time in a speech on his Cuban petition. He desired to know, he said, what had become of that "monster petition."

That petition, he declared, contained hundreds of thousands of names. He proceeded to denounce the condition of the house and its inability to act upon important questions. He characterized General Weyler as a "thief, murderer, and the greatest enemy to humanity the world has ever known." He had reason to believe, he said, that if the belligerency resolution were placed on its passage it would go through by an overwhelming majority.

When the gavel fell at the end of five minutes, W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.) secured a minute. No one had more sympathy for Cuba than himself, he was saying, when Speaker Reed goodnaturedly called him to order and asked him to confine his remarks to the bill under consideration. Mr. Stone begged the indulgence of the chair to be allowed to correct a statement made by Mr. Sulzer to the effect that the "monster petition" contained "hundreds of thousands" of names.

"The clerks counted the signatures," said he, "and there were exactly 14,562."

The house adjourned to Monday.

SHERMAN MAY QUIT.

Secretary of State Opposed to Hawaiian Annexation and Cabinet Change May Follow.

Washington, June 18.—Secretary Sherman's retirement from the state department, and the promotion of Assistant Secretary Day to succeed him, may be hastened by the opposition to the Hawaiian annexation treaty which the secretary is reported to be expressing privately, in spite of the conscientious part he took officially in the consummation of the negotiations.

It is well understood that, while he signed the treaty, and also the report upon the negotiations to the president, he prefered neither the one nor the other, but, that, like the negotiations themselves, they were formulated under the direction of Judge Day, who is recognized as the real secretary of state.

Secretary Sherman is quoted by those who have talked with him about the matter as expressing himself emphatically in condemnation of the annexation policy, even to the extent of saying that he hoped the treaty will not be ratified by the senate.

According to these persons, Secretary Sherman occupies the same position in opposition to the annexation of outlying territory which he set forth in the oft-quoted paragraph of his memoirs.

Treaty Has Served Its Purpose.

Washington, June 18.—The Hawaiian annexation treaty will not be ratified at this session, but it will be ratified at the next session of congress. This was made plain to everybody at the senate yesterday. The administration's purpose has been served by the presentation and publication of the treaty, and it will be satisfied if the treaty is favorably reported at this session by the committee on foreign relations, as it will be, and will not try to keep senators here after the tariff bill becomes a law, in a fruitless effort to secure ratification at this session.

Trotting Purse of $25,000.

New York, June 18.—Prominent horsemen in various parts of the country have practically decided to stimulate interest in trotting races by offering a purse of $25,000, open to all trotters, at an entry fee of $500, the race to be decided in New York or Chicago early in October, or a race in each city for half the entire purse, the entries to be eligible for both races.

S. of V. Encampment Ended.

Waterville, Me., June 18.—The Sons of Veterans encampment concluded yesterday by the election of officers, as follows: Division commander, Arthur M. Stule of Portland; senior vice commander, Rev. George E. Leighton of Skowhegan; junior vice commander, E. E. Kirk of Bangor; delegates to the commandry-in-chief, W. S. Looney of Portland, G. W. Gragg of Bath, R. A. Cone of Augusta, J. C. Colby of Waterville; division council, L. L. Cooper of Augusta, F. E. Hooper of Bath, Charles E. Merrill of Auburn.

Carroll Quit.

Boston, June 18.—The international foot race, one mile, purse $250, between George B. Tingler of England and Patrick Carroll of Waltham, at Apollo garden yesterday afternoon, was an easy victory for the Englishman. Carroll made the pace for the first three-fourths of a lap, when Tinkler passed him and was never headed thereafter. Carroll seemed to loose heart and on the eighth lap of the 10-lap track dropped out of the race, Tingler winning in 4:52.

New Hampshire Homeopathics.

The Weirs, N. H., June 18.—The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Homeopathic Medical society closed yesterday. The following officers were chosen: President, Dr. A. J. Todd of Manchester; vice president, Dr. R. W. Wiley, Laconia; secretary, Dr. J. A. Wrisley, Laconia; treasurer, Dr. C. E. Dodge, Manchester; censors, Dr. R. B. Sweet of Rochester, Dr. Channing Bishop of Bristol, and Dr. H. H. Jewell.

Employes Called Out.

Hudson, Mass., June 18.—The labor troubles at the Apsley Rubber company, which seemed fully adjusted last week by the new schedule of prices, have broken out again. Union Agent Murray of Marlboro calling out all the union men. Murray would not explain why the men were ordered out. With the union men out of the shop only 25 employes remain at work.

Reunion at Worcester.

Worcester, Mass., June 18.—The 31st annual reunion of the Fifty Seventh Massachusetts Regimental association was held in this city yesterday and 50 comrades, with their wives and families, were present. General Thomas L. Munford of Virginia, and ex-rebel, was the guest of the occasion, and he was received with great enthusiasm.

Saco Collectorship.

Portland, Me., June 18.—A Washington special to The Press says that Freeland H. Oaks has been recommended for collector of customs at Saco, in place of H. A. McNeally. Mr. Oaks was collector under President Harrison. He had no opposition.

THURSDAY BREVITIES.

The new battleship Iowa was put in commission yesterday.

Miss Maud Banks of Philadelphia is the tennis champion of the country.

Jimmy Rogers, captain of the Louisville baseball team, has been released.

Tom Sharkey, the pugilist, sailed for Ireland yesterday to visit his parents.

Six members of the New York Stock Exchange have died within a fortnight.

The 65th anniversary of the Barnstable Baptist association began at Pocasset, Mass., yesterday.

The passengers on the steamer Advance, which arrived at New York from Colon last Thursday with cases of yellow fever on board, have been released from observation at Hoffman island.

All of the office force of the Union Car company at Depew, N. Y., with the exception of General Manager Hewitt and Superintendent Coleman, have been laid off indefinitely. Stagnation in business is given as a cause.

H. Parker of Roxbury, Mass., started from Fall River last night on a ride to Portsmouth, N. H., and return, in an attempt to lower the record of 21 hours and 56 minutes, recently made by John H. Witts of the latter city for the 251 miles represented by the ride. He will be paced the entire distance as Witts was.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Chafing Dish In Congress—Where Influence Is an Injury—Queer Names In a Tariff Bill.

[Special Correspondence.]

Not only are chafing dish suppers the most popular thing in Washington society just now, being a pleasant medium for the display of the culinary skill of diplomats and social leaders generally, but at the capitol the popularity of the dish among statesmen is rapidly growing. Speaker Reed is a devotee of chafing dish cooking, and so is Representative Hitt, the chairman of the foreign affairs committee, while Congressman Richmond Pearson, club man, raconteur and good fellow generally, is expert in the preparation of toothsome dishes. One of Senator Gorman's favorite lunches is a chafing dish of oysters, while the array of silver pans upon the familiar tripod in the senate restaurant tells the story of delicious tidbits for senatorial enjoyment better than a column of words.

A Senate Convert's Views.

"I used to scoff at the chafing dish myself," said an epicurean senator to a Post man the other day, "but now I am a convert. The man who says it is a fraud and will not have anything to do with it through a mistaken prejudice has lost one-half of the enjoyment of life. Some remarkable improvements are being made in the dishes, so that the manipulation of the lamp is certain and safe, and handy toasters are now supplied, so that the toast for a Welsh rabbit can be made at the table. I think the chafing dish is one of the best things in a house. It has tremendous possibilities, and I am told that there are 100,000 of them in use. If anybody will organize a chafing dish club, I want to go in as a charter member."

Too Much Influence.

Every cabinet officer in town and every head of a bureau having power to make changes in the force under him has been deluged with letters asking that this one and that one be not disturbed in their places, and much of the time of these officials has been taken up in listening to personal requests of senators and representatives in the interest of people who fear dismissal.

As a rule such letters and requests strengthen the employee in his or her place, but a case lately occurred in one of the departments of the government in which the clerk, enjoying a comfortable position in which she was perfectly secure, lost her place merely because of the large amount of influence she was bringing to bear and was reduced to a minor position with a salary of but half that she had been receiving.

Better to Saw Wood.

Letters from senators and representatives were pouring in on the official who was her superior officer, but finally certain senators called upon him and complained that the lady in question was making their lives a burden by constant requests that they intercede in her behalf and asked that a stop be put to that sort of proceedings. They were so indignant that the lady was promptly removed from her place, although it is said she would not have been disturbed had she quietly done her work. The moral of this sad experience is being advertised quietly among clerks in the following motto:

"Don't worry your chief with an overdose of influence, but quietly saw wood."

Queer Names In a Tariff Bill.

The lady who was subjected to this unpleasant experience is now making strenuous efforts to regain her old place, but, although she has strong influence, she is apparently making no headway.

There is any number of queer times in a tariff bill. Who can tell at first thought, or after a day of careful study for that matter, anything about pulu or divi-divi or styrax or calamine or indium or osmium.

All of which is preliminary to a story which a veteran member of congress told the other day. It seems that for a number of years there was in the tariff laws a duty of 60 per cent ad valorem imposed upon "alkakange." There it stood, in all its glory, duly assessed, resisting all efforts to place it either on the free list or to reduce the duty. When Judge Kelley of Pennsylvania was the chairman of the committee on ways and means, some tariff items had to be revised, and the suggestion was again made that perhaps a duty of 30 per cent upon "alkakange" would be sufficient. But all the members of the committee stood up in earnest protest.

"What is 'alkakange' anyhow?" asked a Democratic member.

"The idea of any one asking that question!" exclaimed Judge Kelley, and all his colleagues raised their hands in holy horror at such ignorance.

Couldn't Find It Anywhere.

The Democratic free trader sent for an unabridged dictionary, and, looking it all through, found no such word as alkakange. He got no more instruction from an encyclopedia. He asked in vain of Ure's Dictionary of Science and Arts. The members of the committee began to grow worried. Finally they summoned a prominent chemist, for of course, said they, alkakange was a drug. But the chemist said that to his knowledge there was no such thing as alkakange in all the pharmacopœia.

At this point some one suggested that they send over to the government printing office and ask the proofreader who had revised the law.

"Well," said the employee, "the truth is that 19 years ago, when we had a page of the tariff law on a 'form,' a part of the type dropped out, and it was fixed up by one of the printers. The only thing he could make out of the combination of letters was the word 'alkakange,' and I suppose it has remained in the law ever since."

Perhaps pulu and divi-divi and a few other of the unpronounceable and wonderful things in the present tariff bill got in through the same way. Who knows? CARL SCHOFIELD

The name of cotton is modified from the Arabic goton, while silk is derived from the Latin sericus (softness.) Chintz is a Persian word meaning spotted, and taffeta is the Persian verb taftoen, to spin. Linen is an Anglo-Saxon rendering of linum (flax), and satin is derived from the Italian seta, a species of silk notable for its gloss and close texture.

At one period of French history large feet were counted a great distinction among the nobility. If nature did not provide this fashionable requisite, the deficiency was supplied by artificial means, and the length of the shoe indicated the rank of the wearer. A prince's shoes were 2 feet in length, those of a baron 6 inches less, and those of a knight were 16 inches from heel to toe.

A woman's work is hard in many ways. Unless the woman is strong and healthy her work will cause her much distress and pain, and she will suffer from headaches, and backaches and side-aches, and each evening will find her utterly worn-out, sick and disgusted with life. In this condition of mind and body she cannot be a loving and amiable companion for her husband when he returns from his work weary too in body and mind.

If a woman wants to live a happy, contented, loving, helpful married life she cannot take too much care of the health and vigor of the organs distinctly feminine, for her general health and strength is largely dependent upon her special health in a womanly way. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription enables a woman to be always well and strong where a woman most needs health and strength. It acts directly on the important and delicate organs involved in her wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. Taken during the period preceding motherhood it banishes the usual discomforts and makes baby's coming easy and comparatively painless. It insures the new-comer's health and provides an ample supply of natural nourishment. It cures all weakness and disease, and headaches, backaches, and side-aches no longer torture her in her work. Over 90,000 women have testified to the wonderful virtues of the "Favorite Prescription" over their signatures. An honest druggist will not try to force on you a substitute for the sake of a few pennies added profit.

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page "Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent free, paper-covered, for 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Two engagements of Quincy young people will be announced in the "social realm" of the Saturday LEDGER.

The Hospital Ten, King's Daugters have a lawn party tomorrow afternoon at the home of Miss Sara Whicher, Adams street.

St. Mary's hall was crowded with members of the Knights of Columbus on Wednesday evening, delegations being present from Brockton, Boston, Stoughton, Rockland, Randolph and Milton. District Deputy McNary and Warden Duggan conducted the exposition of degree work. At the completion of the work a banquet was served by Nash in the lower hall. Special cars conveyed the party home in the small hours of the morning.

Jeremiah Mahoney, catcher for the T. R. & S. Co. ball nine had a small bone in his ankle broken Thursday morning during the game at Merry Mount park with the Institutes of Roxbury. Mahoney was running from second to third base when he slipped and fell. He was taken to a physician and had the bone set, after which he returned to the park and saw the finish of the game. Birse of Weymouth has been engaged to take Mahoney's place.

Keith's Theatre.

As usual, there is a great offering at Keith's for the week of June 21. Leonidas' wonderful troupe of cats and dogs, which have been attracting so much attention the past week, will enter upon the last six days of their engagement Monday, and it behooves every person interested in domestic animals to go and see what marvelous tricks they can be taught to perform. The best feature of this exhibition is that it is plainly apparent that the animals have been taught their tricks through no fear of punishment but with infinite patience and love, a fact that appeals to every one who sees them. Another noted actor is to make his first appearance in vaudeville in Boston. This time it is no less a person than McKee Rankin, whose name will be sufficient to draw crowds to the theatre. He will present a charming sketch entitled, "The Counsel for the Defence."

MARRIED.

SAMUELSON — THORBJORNSON— In Quincy, June 9, by Rev. J. W. Eckman, Mr. Hining Jacobson to Miss Hilda Augusta Thorbjornson, both of Quincy.

CAMERON—LAWRY—In Quincy, June 16, by Rev. Robert Westly Peach, Mr. Daniel E. Cameron to Miss Edith A. Lawry, all of Quincy.

CROWLEY—O'HARE—In Boston, June 14, by Rev. Michael J. Owen, Mr. Bartholomew J. Crowley of Quincy to Miss Mary E. O'Hare of Charlestown.

DIED.

DUNCAN—In Quincy, June 16, Bella A., daughter of Mr. Laurence D. and Mrs. Jane Duncan, aged 13 years, 5 months and 23 days.

THE DEPOT DRIVERS.

Cases Against Them Dismissed for Informality.

An Interesting Opinion from Judge Humphrey.

Defence Very Successful in Raising Technicalities.

Another chapter in the depot carriage case was enacted at the District court Thursday morning when the complaint against James H. and A. W. Bisson and James E. Dunn for loitering about the Quincy depot came up on continuance.

When the case was called last week Mr. McAnarney, counsel for Messrs. Bissons and Dunn, objected to the introduction of the paper filed with the city clerk of Quincy, certified to by the clerk of the Mansfield selectmen, on the ground that that person was not a legal officer and therefore this was not a legal record of the doings of the selectmen.

Thursday morning when the case was called Judge Humphrey dismissed the complaints, his decision, which is an important one, being as follows:

"A certified copy of the record of the appointment of Railroad Police is required to be filed with the clerk of each city and town in which they register: First, this requires a legal record of the appointment of such police; second, it also requires the existance of an officer authorized by law to certify such records.

"Waving the first, that the Supreme Judicial court has repeatedly ruled that Selectmen are not required to keep records and therefore the minutes kept by them or by one of their number acting as clerk, do not have the force of records, a copy of such minutes, or records, cannot be certified by a number of the board of Selectmen, chosen by the board as its clerk, because such officer is unknown to the law, and has no certifying power.

The clerk of a town can only certify the records made by a town clerk, either those made by himself or by a predecessor.

"Com. vs. McGany, 135 Mass., 553.—The court held that 'The law does not require Selectmen of towns to keep records of their proceedings and does not provide for appointment of a clerk, who shall be sworn as a clerk' He does not keep a record required by law and does not act under the sanction of an oath of office as clerk.

"Phillips vs. Marblehead 148 Mass., 326—Selectmen have no clerk and their doings can only be certified by their own signatures."

In conclusion Judge Humphrey said that the Legislature had passed a law covering this matter, giving the Selectmen power to appoint a clerk and that the same would go into effect this month.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. XV.

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 26, our party took a long string of cars that were waiting for us at the plaza, near the great cathedral, for a ride to Chapultepec, which we were to visit. We passed for some distance along the old Aztec aqueduct, its massive workmanship showing lines of strength and beauty. We were sorry to find that it was being torn down to make room for "improvements," but understood that a section of twenty-five arches would be left intact to show the original design and workmanship. Chapultepec has for centuries been a prominent spot in Mexico. It was the favorite park of Montezuma. Afterward was built the palace which became the summer home of Maximilian and Carlotta, and is now used in the same way by President Diaz.

On a high apparently almost inaccessible cliff stands the palace. By a winding road, nearly half a mile long one can ride to the top; or by a walk on the other side, through the park, up a flight of steps, reach the summit. Standing at the base and looking upwards one finds it almost impossible to realize that in the Mexican war American soldiers scaled that height and then forced their way into the castle, which overhangs the edge. Then, as now, a portion of the building was occupied by the military school, and from the green sod beneath the arching trees rises a memorial tablet to the boys who gave their lives in the defence.

On one side a cave may be seen, which opens to an underground passage that leads to a shaft sunk from the garden on top of the hill. This is said to have been once used as a secret passageway.

Our party were kindly allowed to go through the magnificently furnished apartments of the castle, a privilege seldom granted to the natives, we were told, and never accept upon a permit issued by the government authorities.

The interior decorations of the palace are what one reads about but never expects to see. They are unique and beautiful with Pompeiian color and decoration in the tiled galleries. A smoking-room had hangings of embossed leather. In another room we saw a desk and dresser of inlaid pearl and onyx.

In a fine stairway the ceiling was decorated with coats of arms, showing all the changes of four hundred years back. One of the drawing-rooms was hung with delicately tinted satin, and contained the richest of ebony furniture. In another room were some elegant tapestries. Sleeping rooms were furnished with regal elegance. In an ante-room were two chairs said to have belonged to Cortez. There was much on every hand to interest the tourist. Upon the door leading to apartments which remain as when occupied by Maximilian, were the letters M. R.,—Maximilian Rex, or King. The letters were in monogram.

A roof garden is surrounded by balconies which give a wonderful view over the valley, sloping green and sunny toward the distant hills, where the snow-capped mountain peaks of Popocatapetl and Ixtaccihuatl still refuse to unveil themselves to our wistful gaze. It would take hours for one to grow tired of simply looking at the wonders of nature and art, and when one stops to consider the changes which have taken place on this spot the thought is over-whelming.

This place possesses a special interest to our countrymen, as it was the scene of one of the important battles of the war with America, on Sept. 13, 1847. After having visited the place, one finds a new pleasure in reading Gen. Grant's "Personal Memoirs" and his story of the battles in this vicinity.

The neighboring battlefields of Churubusco and Molino del Rey, the latter easily reached by a branch horsecar line, are in view from the broad porches of Chapultepec castle.

From the paved court yard in front one looks across the southern part of the Valley of Mexico. This valley is a basin about seventy miles in length and about forty-five in width, covering an area somewhat greater than the entire state of Rhode Island. In the southern half are large lakes, many villages, and the City of Mexico. Below lies the city, just beyond the plain dotted with the lakes and villages, and enclosing all were the mountains, two of their peaks white with perpetual snows. Of this view Humboldt says: "There can be no richer, no more varied spectacle, than that which the valley of Mexico presents on a beautiful morning, when the heavens are clear, and of that turquoise blue which is so peculiar to the dry and thin atmosphere of high mountains."

From the gate of the park we enter the cars once more for a ride to Tacubaya, the Monte Carlo of Mexico. We enter first the gardens where the higher classes play. By daylight the gay colored decorations of cloth, paper and glass seem tawdry and out of place among the trees and flowers, but one can imagine that in the evening they may present a brilliant scene. We enter one of the gambling houses, and see the money stacked up in thousands upon the green table. Here they use silver; in the building yonder they gamble only with gold. That there is an enormous profit for the owner of a gambling house is evident, for the proprietor of these gardens, in spite of the fact that he has to pay a tax of $22,000 a month and his expenses are $60,000 for the same time, owns five other places and is worth $8,000,000.

There was no gambling while we were there, except a few plays made by visitors to show the party "how the thing is done." As we left the place we saw smaller gambling games for the poor people in progress by the roadside, the "bankers" sheltering themselves under umbrellas, and in some cases women and children taking part, the little fellows being so small that they had to tip-toe it to place their "centavos" upon the tables. Gambling is indulged in to such excess by the natives of all classes and conditions that it may be properly designated as a conspicuous national vice. Lotteries are, of course, very popular, and those enterprises are regulated and conducted by the national government. Everywhere one is confronted by peddlers of lottery tickets—men, women and children—and regular drawings are held every Sunday.

On our way back to the city we met several funeral cars, the decoration or plainness indicating the comparative wealth or poverty of the deceased. The cars are open and contain no seats. The casket is laid upon a platform running lengthwise the car. If mourners accompany to the burial place, they follow in a closed car. One of the cars had drawn shutters. It happened to stop near and some of the party had the curiosity to peep in. It contained a dozen or more uncoffined bodies of doubtless poor people.

The Thieves' market was one of the most curious places we visited this day, and the reader may ask in wonder: "What is a Thieves' market?" It is the place in the city of Mexico, where almost everything is offered for sale, from an old knife, lock or candlestick to a dress pattern; and every article is presumed or supposed to have been stolen. It is here that one will be directed to find anything he has lost.

The market is near the big cathedral, but not on the street. It is in a big yard or square, surrounded by buildings, and the articles are sold from rough board counters, little tents or shanties, or may be spread on the ground.

If you happen to find something that has been stolen from you, even the day before, you have the blessed privilege of buying it, if the price asked is satisfactory. You may expostulate, and declare it is yours, but it does no good, as the policemen and the courts uphold the seller. He declares he secured it legitimately and is selling it in the same manner; and you must either buy it or go away and leave it. Queer, isn't it? We think this accounts for the unusually large number of thieves there are in Mexico. There are enough in Boston and all other large cities, but Mexico is the most famous place on the continent, as one or two of our party found out.

Brother Waterman of Athol bought a few trinkets here, including a stone idol which he was assured was one of the original Aztec gods, but as we saw several of the same mould hawked about the streets, later, we concluded that for "ways that are dark" the Heathen Chinee alone is not peculiar.

Another attractive place is the Monte de Piedad, a national pawn shop; and institution that is said to be really a charity. It was opened in 1776 and is now on the Plaza Mayor, opposite the cathedral. Its object is primarily to prevent the extortion of pawnbrokers, and it might be of benefit if adopted in other countries, though the pawn shop is not often resorted to in this country, where it is looked upon with disfavor. When an article of value is brought to the national pawn shop something like its true value is loaned upon it. After a certain length of time, if the pledges are not redeemed, they are exposed for sale at a price, of course, higher than the amount of the loan. In a month the price is marked down, and in another month still lower. The borrower is privileged to redeem the pledge at any time before its sale, and if sold for more than the amount of the loan, the excess less the interest is paid to the borrower. It is one of the most interesting places in the city to visit by tourists, and is reckoned as the cheapest and most reliable place in the city to buy, if you are fortunate enough to find what you want. The business of the institution is said to amount to over $1,000,000 annually, distributed among 60,000 borrowers.

DR. HOBBS

Hears Good News.

Favorable Reports From the Crowds of People who Obtained Free Samples of

DR. HOBBS' SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS

At A. G. Durgin's Drug Store Less than a Week Ago.

SUFFERERS ENCOURAGED.

Hundreds Now Testing the Remedy in This City and Vicinity.

SALES INCREASING.

It will be remembered that a few days since a free distribution of samples of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Pills was made at A. G. Durgin's Drug Store, 124 Hancock street. Everyone that asked was given a box, free of charge, and none went away empty handed. This remarkable distribution was made as a challenge to those afflicted by Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Blood, Backache and Rheumatism, to test the healing power of these wonderful pills.

The test has proven of great interest to druggists and the public at large, because of the magnitude of the offer as well as the evident confidence the proprietors have in the merits of their remedy. Nothing short of absolute faith, founded on known results, would have justified Dr. Hobbs' challenge.

The favorable reports received indicate that the majority of those who obtained samples of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills used them as directed, justifying Dr. Hobbs' faith in the people and that a large number of our citizens, suffering from one kind of kidney and bladder trouble or another, are receiving unexpected benefit. They all appear to be on the road to recovery, and are flocking into Durgin's Drug Store to purchase further instalments of this grand remedy.

In this short time Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills have firmly established a reputation and gained the confidence of the people of this community. They have today more warm friends in Quincy and vicinity than all of the kidney remedies that were ever heard of here before put together.

Nothing of greater importance has presented itself to the people of this city in recent years. Bright's disease, rheumatism (which is traceable ninety-nine times out of a hundred to kidney sluggishness and inactivity), impure blood, malarial germs, and, in fact, all the thousand and one diseases that come from a deranged condition of the filters, cleansers and purifiers of the body—the kidneys—are all now stripped of their horrors, since it is a well established fact that a safe and harmless specific for their cure has been discovered in Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

There are, undoubtedly, hundreds of thousands of people who are suffering to a greater or less degree from kidney troubles who do not know it.

Some are in a drowsy, dull condition—feel languid; generally speaking they say they feel pretty well when accosted by some friends, yet they have not that bright, sharp, vigorous tone to their system as of yore. Unbeknown to them, poison from their kidneys (which are a little out of order) is gradually collecting in their system, and, totally unconcious of the fact, they are slowly but surely being poisoned to death.

It may be a process of years, but the result of the kidneys working imperfectly means almost certain destruction at last. No man can feel vigorous and bright, and no woman has that healthful rosy tint to her cheeks that poets have paid homage to since the creation of the world, where the kidneys are not performing their functions properly and regularly, day and night.

A plant, commonly known as a vegetable, but which in reality is one of the most valuable and active kidney medicines—asparagus—has, by the skill of medical science, been called upon to perform its duty as nature intended it should.

Asparagus has been known for years to the medical fraternity to possess a certain amount of virtue for kidney ailments. Dr. Hobbs took up this subject many years ago, after long and patient experimenting, is enabled to combine the medicinal properties of the asparagus plant with other valuable diuretic and kidney healing remedies known to the medical fraternity of the world, in such a form as it is today, under his formula, regarded as a positive specific for all forms of kidney, bladder and urinary diseases of both sexes.

Summer hammock and sofa cushions are covered almost entirely with washable slips and the many pretty and artistic linen and cotton fabrics are preferred to silk. Agra linen, Russian crash, duck, cretonne, holland, and the heavier dress linens are the favorite materials for summer covers, and can be beautifully worked in the various colored cotton and linen flosses, to say nothing of the silk. If china, pongee and other washable silks are used they should be plainly finished off with full frills of the same. Turkey red is a favorite color for decorating and embroidering the linen covers.

BOSTON, MASS., June 4, 1897.

DEAR SIR:—You are doubtless aware of the proposed increase in the tariff on granite. The present rate is thirty per cent. ad valorem. The House or Dingley Bill, places it at forty per cent. (which was the McKinley rate), while the Senate proposes to raise it to fifty per cent.

It has been clearly and conclusively demonstrated by large manufacturers of American granite that the present thirty per cent. rate is ample for protective purposes, as at the present time both Quincy and Barre granites, the leading granites in America for monumental purposes, can be sold at a lower price than can the foreign granites.

The Boston Wholesale Granite Dealers' Association, many of whose members are among the largest quarry owners and manufacturers at Quincy and Barre, has entered its protest against an increase greater than the McKinley tariff of forty per cent., on the following grounds:

First—That the higher tariff will exclude the red Scotch and Swede granites from our markets, thus robbing the trade of materials that have aided largely to build up the monumental business to its present proportions.

Second—Because, as a matter of protection to the American producer it is not required, as is demonstrated by the fact that even under the present thirty per cent. tariff the majority of American granites can be produced for less money than foreign granites can be sold for F. O. B. in the United States.

Third—Because from an artistic standpoint, we need the red granites to beautify our cemeteries, inasmuch as all American granites used for monumental purposes, practically, are gray or blue.

Fourth,—Because it will be a serious injury to the trade in general as well as the consumer.

In view of the above facts, we ask the retail trade to aid in preventing this exorbitant and uncalled for burden which is proposed to be placed upon the granite business. We herein enclose a form of a letter, giving the facts in the case briefly, and if it meets with your views and approval please write a similar letter on these lines at once, addressing same to each of the two Senators from your State, and also to the member of Congress from your district.

Should be glad if you can make it convenient to acknowledge receipt of this letter, and advise if you will comply with our request. We think the matter of great importance to you and your future trade.

Very truly yours,

JOHN P. COOK, Sec'y.

Hon.———Washington D. C.

DEAR SIR:—We desire, through you, to enter our protest against the proposed increase in duty on granite from thirty to fifty per cent. ad valorem. Under the present tariff of thirty per cent. we can buy finished granite monuments from Quincy Mass., Concord, N. H., or Barre, Vt., for less money than we can purchase monuments made from foreign granites, delivered in the United States. Therefore, as a matter of protection, this increase of duty is unnecessary.

Practically, the only foreign granites that are imported are of a red color, differing from any granites that we have in this country, and we feel that a variety of colors is absolutely necessary to the success of the business, and is what has aided largely to develop the granite trade in this country to its present proportions. We appeal to you as our representative, to oppose this proposed increase in the conference committee of the House and Senate, for the following reasons:

First,—Because it will exclude the red Scotch and Swede granites from our markets, thus depriving the trade of materials that are actually necessary for the successful prosecution of the business.

Second,—Because, as a matter of protection to the American producers it is entirely unnecessary, as is demonstrated by the fact that even under the present thirty per cent. tariff, the majority of American granites can be produced for less money than can the foreign granites be sold for F. O. B. in the United States.

Third,—Because, from an artistic standpoint, we need the red granites to beautify our cemeteries, inasmuch as all our American granites, practically, are gray or blue, and under the fifty per cent. tariff, we believe the imported granites would be excluded from our markets.

Trusting that you will see that our interests in this matter are protected, we are, Very truly yours,

The reply briefly to this letter the Quincy Granite Manufacturers, as well as all other granite manufacturers, say to the first question.

That the proposed increase in the tariff will not rob the granite manufactures, but that it will rob the middle men or jobbers of 70 per cent. of their business.

Second—That the increase is required by the difference in the rate of wages paid abroad and in America, for under a 30 per cent. or even 50 per cent. duty the fact is that foreign granite can be landed F. O. B. in the United States for less than American granite can be produced.

Third. We have in America as good a red granite as can be produced in foreign countries, if the tariff was only high enough to give the manufacturers encouragement to produce the same.

Fourth. That the trade in general will not suffer by the increase in the tariff, but that the Middle men and jobbers will suffer and that they are even now crying baby.

A copy of these letters has been forwarded to Hon. John Shaw who is now in Washington and the Quincy granite manufacturers will doubtless meet the new move promptly.

Festival at Hyde Park.

The choir of the Episcopal church, Quincy, went to Hyde Park last evening, to take part in the anual musical festival. There were three choirs that took part: Christ church, Hyde Park; Grace church, Dedham; and Christ church, Quincy. The singing was very fine, the solo parts being taken by Mr. George Bates, tenor; Mr. Walter Hersey, bass; Master Warren Mitchell, soprano; and the duet was sung by two Hyde Park boys. Ice cream and cake were served after the services and it was after ten before the three barges were on the homeward way.

The pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, expects to leave June 28, for San Francisco, as a delegate to the Christian Endeavor convention, and thence for Port Townsend, Washington, on a visit to his parents, to return about the middle of August. He will preach June 20th on "How to be Happy though Tempted and Tried," in the morning; and "A New Law from God," in the evening. June 27th the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in the morning.

The pulpit will be supplied during his absence as follows:—July 4 and 18, by the Rev. Luther H. Angier of Boston, a clergy man in his eighty-eight year, but vigorous yet; July 11 and 25, by the Rev. F. N. Merriam, lately of California; August 1, by the Rev. Mr. Keeler of Newton Centre, and August 8, by the Rev. Prof. James Frame, of Union Theological Seminary.

CHAPTER I.

Firelight casts a weird enchantment over an old fashioned room in the gloaming betwixt the light and the dark.

"It is, I do believe, the dreariest room in Bloomsbury, and surely one cannot go farther," said the young woman at ease on the white bearskin before the fire, "and yet, I believe, my room at Kensington will not show more lovely, nor your black oak at the rectory."

"If you had got your will, Frances," answered a sister some six years older, from the couch, "every stick of this furniture would have been sold long ago, and the very walls draped in pale green. You are full of sentiment tonight."

"It's our double wedding and the departure from the ancestral mansion casting shadows over my sensitive heart," and Frances concealed her emotion with a fan. "Your already matronly staidness is removed from such moods. It is a mercy one daughter, at least, reproduces mother."

"Are you also deceived by mother's composure?" and Gertrude's quiet tone emphasized the contrast between her refined face and Frances' Spanish beauty. "Strangers count her cold as marble, but she has always seemed to me the very type of tenderness and faithfulness."

"She is the dearest mater ever was, and most patient with her youngest daughter, but she is, well—not carried away by emotion."

"Frances, I'll tell you something I once saw and can never forget. When I slept in mother's room, I woke one night and found she had risen. She opened a drawer that was always kept locked and took out a likeness of father. After kissing it again and again—can you believe that?—she laid it on a chair, and, kneeling down, prayed to God for us all, and that they might meet again, and then she kissed him once more and put the picture in its place."

"Pray God, Frances, that you and I may love as she has done, once forever. Do you know I've often thought that Grace is the only one of us that has mother's power of affection, yet we are to be married and she is to be left?"

"Yes, Grace is like mother, and yet I don't think mother understands her one bit. What a wife she would make to some man, only it would be bad for him! She would serve him like a slave, and he would be insufferable.

"But there is no fear of that calamity," Frances went on, "for Grace will never marry. She is beginning to have the airs of an old maid already."

"It passes me," said Gertrude, "how no man has seen her excellence and tried to win her. Do you know I've sometimes thought that Mr. Lennox admired her? They would certainly make a perfect pair."

"You are the dearest old stupid Gertrude. Of course George Lennox adores Grace, as he would a saint in a painted window, and Grace appreciates him because he teaches astronomy or conchology or something to workingmen in the east end. Neither of them knows how to make love. Their conversation is a religious exercise." And Frances' eyes danced with the delight of a mistress in her art. "Why, I did my best with him just to keep my hand in, and, Gertrude, you might as well have flirted with that wretched god. I would rather have the god, for he winked to me just now quite distinctly."

"Perhaps you're right, and Grace does not wish to marry. But it will be lonely in this big, empty house for mother and her when we are gone."

CHAPTER II.

"My work at court was finished a little earlier today, and I have done myself the pleasure of calling to inquire for Mrs. Leconte and you after the marriage." The manner was grave and a trifle formal, but the man was one in whom any woman might safely put her trust—tall and well built, with a strong face and kindly eyes—a modest and courteous gentleman.

"It is good of you to remember us, but, indeed, you have always been most kind," said Miss Leconte, with the faintest flush on her cheek. "Mother is out and will be sorry to have missed you. Will you not sit down, and I'll order tea?"

The London sun, which labors hard, with many ingenuities, to do his part by every home, found the right angle at that moment and played round Grace's face with soft afternoon light.

She was not beautiful like her sisters, but one man out of a thousand would learn to love her for the loyalty that could be read in the gray eyes and the smile, a very revelation of tenderness, as if her soul had looked at you.

"Yes, mother and I have settled down to our quiet round after the festivities. Mother needs a rest, for you know how little she thinks of herself. Her unselfishness puts one to shame every day."

Mr. Lennox looked as if he knew another unselfish person, and Grace continued hurriedly:

"Every one thought the marriage went off so well, and the day was certainly perfect. Didn't Gertrude and Frances make lovely brides, each in her own way?"

"So the people said, and I know how they would look, but it happened that I stood where I could only see the bridesmaids."

"Will you excuse me putting the roses in water? They are the finest I've seen this summer, and I want to keep them fresh." And she escaped for the moment.

They talked of many things, but both were thinking of one only, and then it was she, in her kindness, that provoked the catastrophe.

"You will come again and see mother. She misses Gerty and Frances, and it is very pleasant to have a talk with old friends."

"And you, Grace—Miss Leconte, I mean—may I not come to visit you?"

"You know that I am glad when you come, and always will be. You are my friend also." And she looked at him with frank, kind eyes.

"Never more than friend after all these years—seven now since we first met. Do you not guess what I was thinking as your sisters stood beside their bridegrooms in church?"

But she did not answer.

"Can you give me no hope, Grace? If you told me to come back in five years, I would count them days for the joy of hearing you call me by my name at the end, as a woman speaks to the man she loves."

"Perhaps I ought to have spoken years ago, but the bar is an uncertain profession, and my position was not made. It seemed to me cowardly to ask a woman's love before one could offer her marriage, so I kept silent till last spring, when I saw your sisters' lovers, and could not help telling you that one man hoped to win your heart. Now I ask for your answer."

Grace Leconte was the calmer of the two when she spoke, but her face was set like a martyr's in his agony.

"I had hoped, Mr. Lennox, that you would not have followed up what you said in March, but yet so selfish is a woman I am not sorry to be told that I am loved by such a man.

"Believe me, it is I that am unworthy. You have made too much of a very ordinary woman, but I am proud of your love, and in after years, when I find the strain too heavy, will often say: 'God has been good to me. George Lennox loved me.'"

He was waiting anxiously, not knowing how this would end.

"You have spoken frankly to me and have laid bare your heart," she went on. "I do not see why I should be hindered by custom from telling you the truth also." And then she hesitated, but only for a little. "For years—I do not know how long—I have loved you and have followed your career as only a woman who loves could, gathering every story of your success and rejoicing in it all as if you had been mine. Wait, for I have not yet done.

"If I could say 'Yes,' I would, George—may I call you this only today?—without any delay, but I must say 'No' instead, although it may break my heart. I can never be your wife."

"What do you mean?"

"Bear with me, and I will tell you all. You know now it is not because I do not want to marry you. I do. I will not pretend indifference. But it is not possible for me to leave my mother."

"Is that all?" cried Lennox as one who has cast off a great dread. "I would never ask you to part from Mrs. Leconte—the last of her daughters. She will come with you, and we shall strive to make her life peaceful and glad."

"Please do not go on, for this can never be. No power could induce mother to change her way or live with us. She will live and die alone, or I must stay with her. My duty is clear, and, George, you must accept this decision as final."

"You will let me speak to her and put our case?"

"No, a thousand times, no. She must never know our secret. It would still be the same between you and me, but mother would fret every year because I had made this sacrifice. Promise me you will say nothing. That is one favor I have to ask, and there is another—that you do not call again, for I could not bear to see you for a little—for some years. You will do so much for me, will you not?"

He had sat down, his head on his breast, a figure of utter dejection, when she laid her hand on his arm.

"Things cannot end after this fashion." And Lennox sprang to his feet. "Does not the book say a man will forsake father and mother for love's sake, and should it not be so with a woman also? What right have you to deny your love and blight two lives?"

"Do not try me further, George. God knows how hard it is to obey my conscience. My duty is to mother, and if I made it second even to love I should be inwardly ashamed, and you—you could not respect me.

"Say you understand"—and her lips trembled—"say that you forgive me for the sorrow I have brought upon you, and let us say farewell."

He made as though he would have clasped her in his arms and compelled her to surrender, and then he also conquered.

"God keep and bless you, Grace. If I cannot have you in my home, none can keep me from carrying you in my heart." And he was gone.

CHAPTER III.

"This frame seems to have been made for our purpose, Grace." And Mrs. Leconte arranged in order Gertrude with her two girls and Frances with her two boys. "It seems only a few months instead of six years since the wedding day.

"They have good husbands and happy homes. I only wish their father"—This was so unusual that Grace looked at her mother, and Mrs. Leconte checked herself. "You are going down to the rectory, I hope, next week. Gertrude is always anxious to have you, and August in London is very trying."

"Certainly, but on one condition, mother—that you go too. It would be such a joy to Gerty, and you must have some change."

"Perhaps I will a little later, but I never leave London in August. I have always been very strong, and I like a—quiet time then."

"Mother," and Mrs. Leconte turned at the passion in her daughter's voice, "why will you not allow any of us to share your remembrance and your grief? We know why you shut yourself up alone in August, and now, when there are just you and I, it hurts me that I may not be with you, if it were only to pray—or weep. Would it not be some help?" And Grace took her mother's hand, a very rare caress.

"You are often in my thoughts, Grace," after a long silence, "and I am concerned about you, for you have aged beyond your years. Are you well?"

"What a question, mater! You know that I have the health of a donkey—save a headache now and then that gives me an interesting pallor. You forget that I'm getting to be an old maid—nearly 30."

"Is it really that—I mean, do you not feel lonely? It is a contract, and a woman's heart was made to love, but if it be so do not—I can't explain myself—there are many in this world to love, and at any rate you will never know the sense of loss."

"That is the postman's ring." And Grace made for the door. "Perhaps Frances will have written from Loch Awe. We need some highland air."

There was only one letter, but it was not lightly brought up stairs, and after Grace had given it to her mother she went over to her favorite seat at the window, where she could see the patch of green that now had lost its freshness in the city heat.

"I know that hand. It's—of course from Mrs. Palgrave, George Lennox's aunt. What can she— Dear me, this is very sad."

"Are you there, Grace? Did you know George Lennox was so ill?"

"Frances told me that he had overworked himself." And Grace's voice was so quiet that any one except Mrs. Leconte would have suspected something.

"Overworked, poor fellow! It is far worse than that. His aunt writes:

"'George used to go a great deal to your house in the old days, and I am sure you will be sorry to receive the bad news of this morning. I heard he was lying ill in his rooms and insisted on his coming to Haslemore to be nursed. For years past he has been looking pinched and sad. In spite of all my husband said to him he would take no pleasure and seemed to have no rest except in work. We were horrified at his appearance. He was worn to a shadow and his hair turned quite gray. We did our best to cheer him, but it would have made you weep to see him smile. Our doctor said it was an entire breakdown, and that he feared the worst. His nervous system was in such a state that when he saw your photograph or Grace's—I forget which—he burst into tears. That night he announced his intention of going back to his chambers, and no persuasion could keep him. He left us on Thursday, and on Sunday morning he was found dead in his chair. But the expression was one of sleep. It is a lamentable tragedy, for if George had only married and had some one to care for him he might have been alive and well today.' Her kind regards, and so on. What a fine fellow," said Mrs. Leconte. "He was in every way so handsome, well bred and able! Did it ever occur to you, Grace, that George Lennox had a fancy for Frances?"

"No, mother; never," said Grace, hardly knowing the sound of her voice.

"Very likely I am wrong, for I have not been quick to notice those things as some mothers are, but I remember that he never came again to the house after the marriage except once to make a formal call, and I missed him.

"No, mother; never."

"Dying all alone, with no woman to hold his hand or say a word of love, for whose sake any woman might well have left all. But you may be right, he did not want to marry."

Grace made no sign and shed no tear, but she pressed to her lips a handful of rose leaves, dry and withered, and the shadow lengthened on the street along which she had seen him go for the last time.

THE END.

Two Views.

Charles A. Cooper says that when he was on the staff of The Scotsman he one day went to the room of his chief, Alexander Russel. As he opened the door the light must have struck strongly upon his hair, fast turning gray. Mr. Russel, who was bald, put up his glasses and exclaimed:

"Man, Cooper, how white you're getting!"

Cooper passed his fingers through his hair and replied:

"At any rate, there's plenty of it."

"Oh," came the retort, "mine preferred death to dishonor."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 20. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Our brothers' keepers (a temperance topic).—Gen. iv, 9-16.

The family is one of the most blessed institutions that has survived the fall of man. No names are dearer than father, mother, husband, wife. And no ties in life are stronger than the ties of home. But family ties are not limited to one fireside, nor do the duties of life end at the thresholds of our own homes. The whole human race is one family—the family of God. God is the father of all, Jesus Christ is the brother of all, and all men are brothers. The fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man are equally taught in the word of God.

The world recognizes the duties that we owe to those who are members of our immediate families, but often it does not go beyond this. It sees no reason why a Christian in America should be interested in an inhabitant of Africa or of China and feel impelled to do all that can be done for his moral and spiritual betterment. It sees no reason why he should be interested in the poor unfortunate who has fallen by the wayside as a result of intemperance and should try to give him a helpful hand to a better life. The world ordinarily answers Cain's question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" in the negative. It says that every man ought to keep himself; that if he cannot take care of himself he deserves to perish; that every man's brother has as much as he can do to keep himself. But even the selfish world, under the influence of Christianity, is coming more clearly to recognize the claims of common, universal brotherhood.

Christianity teaches clearly that man is his brother's keeper; that he does owe duties to every other man in the universe who needs his help and whom he can properly help. The common brotherhood of man makes this the only true answer to Cain's question. All men are brethren in Jesus Christ. This fact should make every man interested in every other man and willing and anxious to help him in every time of need. The common interdependence of man should also enforce this truth. No man lives to himself in this world. Every one depends more or less upon some one else in life. Nor does he know, though he may be in what we call self supporting circumstances, how soon the tide may turn and it may be he who will need his brother's help. Could he ask it, could he expect it if he had not assisted his brother in his hour of need? God teaches this fact. His word makes it incumbent upon the strong to help the weak, the rich to help the poor, the successful to help the unsuccessful, the fortunate to help the unfortunate. In short, in every sphere of life God teaches that every man is his brother's keeper, and, moreover, that He will hold him responsible for this relation to his brother.

Bible Readings.—Deut. xxvii, 18; Prov. xxiii, 29-32; Math. x, 42; Luke x, 25-37; xvi, 19-31; Rom. xiv, 1-23; xv, 1-3; I Cor. viii, 1-13; Col. ii, 21; II Cor. xi, 28, 29; Gal. v, 13-15; vi, 1, 2, 9, 10; II Pet. i, 5-9.

Serving Others.

The old conception of personal Christianity was that it meant hardly more than securing one's own salvation. This was its principal aim. Being of spiritual use to others was involved, but was secondary in importance. But now the purpose of service to others has assumed the greater prominence, and it is held that the surest way to secure one's own salvation is to spend oneself in loyal effort to win others to Jesus Christ. The personal aim is not lost to sight, but it is pursued from a new point of view, and its relation to other motives is altered. This result has come about as the result of study and imitation of Jesus, who came "not to be ministered unto, but to minister"—that is, to serve.—Congregationalist.

The Truth of Christmas.

Considering the interpretation of the ordinary and the extraordinary in the truth of Christmas what a sense of reverential estimation for God's tremendous mercies overwhelms the religious soul! What new fire is enkindled in the old conviction that the one thing which makes life worth living is His relation to us and ours to Him—a relationship so astoundingly actualized in the word made flesh!—Rev. Joseph Tracey.

Our Church.

We should accustom ourselves to say "our church." The services are our services. It is our duty to be present and welcome the stranger. It is our duty to encourage the pastor by our presence and response and prayer. It is our duty to attend and sustain the social and devotional meetings.—Rev. George R. Leavitt.

Opens a Path For All.

They should own who can administer, not they who hoard and conceal; not they who, the greater proprietors they are, are only the greater beggars, but they whose work carves out work for more, opens a path for all.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Faith.

I cannot tell how the lilies
From their beds creep up so far.
I can only pluck them gently
And think how fair they are.
I do not know how the planets
Swing out into space so free,
But I know that One controls them,
And that is enough for me.

I know not whence comes music
From the songbird's swelling throat,
But I feel the heavenly sweetness
That dwells in every note.
I cannot read His purpose
Nor solve each mystery,
But all that He sends is righteous,
And that is solace to me.

I know that the flowers must wither
And the stars be dimmed some day.
The song will sink into silence
And all things pass away.
But I also know of a Saviour,
Whose face I shall some time see.
He rules with a love eternal,
And that is enough for me.

My Sunday At Home

By RUDYARD KIPLING

This is one of a series of original and copyrighted stories which will soon be published in this paper.

You know Kipling.

You know his reputation.

You know what kind of stories he writes.

What more need be said?

High class original fiction is expensive. But we regard it none too good for our readers.

POLITICAL DISCUSSION.

Progress of Tariff Bill Again Checked by Democratic Orators.

"Soiled Linen" Brought Out of Family Closet.

Morgan Mentions Fact That Income Tax Law Is Unrepealed.

Washington, June 19.—The tariff bill came to a halt in the senate yesterday, less than one page of the flax schedule being disposed of. The debate drifted into political channels, Senators Bacon, Vest, Jones (Ark.) and Tillman taking part in an exposition of Democratic doctrine on the tariff. It led to several lively exchanges, during which the cleansing of political "dirty linen" was frequently referred to.

Mr. Tillman's remarks were made with his characteristic vehemence, and at one point he frankly stated concerning the tariff that if there was to be stealing he wanted his share for South Carolina.

Late in the day, Mr. Morgan proposed a sweeping amendment to place a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on all articles now on the free list, with a few stated exceptions. In supporting the amendment, Mr. Morgan called attention to the singular fact of the income tax feature of the Wilson bill not being repealed and can be enforced by a change in the personnel of the supreme court of the United States.

Mr. Allison (Ia.), in charge of the bill, withdrew the senate amendment on flax not hackled or dressed, leaving the house rate of 1 cent per pound stand. He also withdrew the committee amendment on dressed flax, leaving the house rate of 3 cents.

Mr. Bacon criticized the position of some of his associates in not favoring a duty on raw materials.

Mr. Vest sprang to his feet and with great vehemence exclaimed: "This is very delectable to Republican senators. Their hearts are cheered and I can see their eyes gleam." He had refrained thus far, he said, from exposing Democratic discord, but since the senator from Georgia had gone into "this lavatory for washing Democratic dirty linen," he (Vest) would ask his associates a few questions. Mr. Vest was about to put a series of sharp interrogatories, but Mr. Bacon demurred. He did not like the idea, he said, of being put on the witness stand by his Democratic associates and being put through a course of categorical questions.

Mr. Tillman (S. C.) here came in to call the attention of his "Democratic brethren" to the rates they had given in the Wilson bill to certain raw materials. If this was a fraud, then the present contest over taxing raw materials was merely as to the amount of the fraud. Then Mr. Tillman added: "And I say plainly, if we are to have this stealing, I want my share for South Carolina." There was a momentary sensation over the vehemence of Mr. Tillman's remark.

Mr. Tillman spoke of the position of the Democratic party on silver, and said President Cleveland had bought the repeal of the Sherman law through both houses by the use of patronage, leaving the party betrayed and almost disbanded. It was time, the senator declared, that the party threw off some of the fossils who clung to it. Concerning the pending bill, Mr. Tillman said it was necessary to fight the Republicans as you fight the devil, with fire. Attempts were made to satisfy the farmers with humbuggery and falsehood, giving him supposed advantages on corn and wheat, and denying him a bounty on agricultural products. The Republicans and Democrats were alike in their lip declarations for the agricultural classes. "I am as good a Democrat as wears shoe leather," Mr. Tillman concluded, "and as I understand it that means equality of burdens and equality of opportunities."

"This washing of dirty Democratic linen is nothing new to me," he declared. "I've been doing it for years, and have been trying to get the senate to do some of it." The senator reviewed the Democratic policy on the tariff. In speaking of the tariff contest in Democratic conventions, Mr. Tillman referred to the "spurious bastard of tariff doctrine brought there by Mr. Cleveland's tools." Turning to his associates he exclaimed that they had set the example by giving to the country in 1894 a disreputable protective tariff bill.

Mr. Chandler remarked that Mr. Morgan had now joined Mr. Bacon, going even to the point of taking not only cotton, but all articles from the free list.

Without completing the paragraph, 227, the bill was laid aside, and the senate adjourned.

Mrs. Blackman Missing.

Cleveland, June 19.—Mrs. Blackman of this city, who claims to be the wife of Barnato, and who left for London about eight weeks ago, has mysteriously disappeared. A letter which was mailed in London about six weeks ago was received by her daughter, who resides in this city. In her letter, Mrs. Blackman said that she would in a few days set sail for Johannesburg to attempt to establish her identity as Barnato's wife. Since that time nothing has been heard from her.

Founder of Christian Endeavor.

New York, June 19.—The Christian Endeavorers of the New York City union welcomed Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Clark, the founders of the society, from their tour of the world in the interest of Christian endeavor, with a rousing mass meeting last night that filled Carnegie hall. The big hall was gay with banners. The districts and churches of the city were represented by delegations, and a large number of clergymen of the city were on the platform.

Was Temporarily Insane.

Southampton, June 19.—On the arrival of the British steamship Scot yesterday with the body of the late Barney Barnato, the coroner's officers went aboard to ascertain as to the necessity of holding an inquest. The inquest was held and the jury returned a verdict of death from drowning while temporarily insane.

MORE ENCOURAGING.

Bradstreet's Review Sees Many Good Indications In Business Outlook.

New York, June 19.—Bradstreet's says: There are encouraging features in the general trade situation this week, the most conspicuous of which is increased orders for staple goods for fall delivery in a few lines, notably clothing, which, at Chicago, Baltimore and a few other centers, promise to exceed the movement of a year ago. The repeatedly announced improvement in iron and steel this week rests, in addition to this, upon large transactions in Southern forge iron at Birmingham and increased strength in the iron ore market, furnaces and mills in Pennsylvania and Ohio being fairly busy on old orders, but failing to report many new ones.

Encouragement is also derived from the advance in raw cotton and of 1-16 cent on print cloths, which marks reaction from the lowest price ever reached.

Southern crop reports continue favorable, notably in Louisiana and Texas, where the demand for staples has improved. Advices as to wheat and corn in the central Mississippi and Missouri river valleys continue favorable, as does the crop reports from the Pacific coast states. Demand for dry goods is slow in all departments and for cottons depressed.

Some Massachusetts mills are working only four days each week, and as the current quotation for the Rhode Island mill product will not move it, further restrictions of production is threatened.

Prices this week did not carry out last week's promise of a general advance. There are lower quotations for tea and coffee, flour, wheat and oats, for Bessemer pig and for steel billets. Unchanged prices are reported for naval stores, lumber, petroleum, pork and sugar, and in addition to a nominal advance in anthracite coal the only noteworthy gains for the week are for cotton, print cloths, Northern pig iron at Chicago and Southern pig iron at Birmingham.

The week's banks clearings aggregate $1,054,000,000, nearly 5 per cent more than in the week before; 1.1 per cent more than in the corresponding week in 1896, but 2 per cent less than in the like period in 1895, when there was a moderate trade expansion.

There are 226 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, 30 less than last week, 39 fewer than in the week one year ago, five less than in the like week of 1895, 31 more than in the corresponding week of 1894, and 134 less than in the like week of 1893.

SCORE KILLED.

French Villages Swept by Cyclone--Houses Demolished and Much General Damage.

Paris, June 19.—The villages of Bezons and Colombes, near this city, were swept by a cyclone yesterday afternoon. Houses collapsed, trees were torn up, telegraph wires broken, several people were injured and much general damage was done.

At Asnieres a fair was in progress, and everything was literally demolished. The roof of Coignet's fireworks factory was blown off; a tall chimney was blown down and the boiler exploded, killing several and injuring 15.

It is reported that five people were killed in a cafe.

It is estimated that throughout the district over which the cyclone moved at least 20 persons were killed and 90 injured.

Our Cuban Trade Ruined.

Washington, June 19.—A significent report on our trade with Cuba from 1887 to 1897, prepared by Chief Hitchcock of the foreign markets section of the agricultural department, has been promulgated by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The statistics show very clearly the effect of present hostilities in Cuba upon the commercial intercourse of the United States with that island. During the last fiscal year, 1896, the total value of our Cuban trade amounted to only $47,548,610, as compared with $102,864,204 in 1893, the year preceding the breaking out of the war. This was a falling off of more than 50 per cent in three years. Returns already available for the current fiscal year indicate a still further decline, the records for the nine months ending March 31, 1897, placing the total value of the trade for that period as low as $14,926,857. At this rate the figures for the fiscal year, 1897, will hardly reach $20,000,000, or less than one-fifth the value recorded for 1893.

Verdi Reported Ill.

Rome, June 19.—The Messenger says that Giuseppe Verdi, the composer, now in his 83rd year, is seriously ill.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

A highwayman, evidently an amateur in this line of work, held up an electric car at Reading, Mass., last night, and robbed the motorman.

Four more bodies of supposed suicides have been found in the Thames at London, making 21 bodies found in the river during the last three weeks.

Robert B. Soley of Philadelphia, aged 32, shot and instantly killed his 2-year-old son, Herbert, yesterday and then committed suicide. Soley and his wife had separated.

"Jack" Horner, who has pitched for the Pawtucket team for two years, will join the Taunton team today. Pawtucket releases him by reason of an excess of pitching talent.

Henry Willis of Brockton, Mass., charged with the murder of William Randall of the same place, had a preliminary hearing yesterday and was held for the grand jury.

Two men were killed last night on the Ridgewood branch of the Brooklyn-Union elevated railroad. The victims were Edward Bruein, 40 years of age, and John Rosengrave, 27 years of age, both employed as trackmen by the Elevated Railroad company.

Emperor Francis Joseph yesterday received in audience Bartlett Tripp, the retiring United States minister to Austria-Hungary, who presented his letter of recall. Later, his majesty received in audience Charlemagne Tower, the United States minister at Vienna, who presented his credentials.

A cylinder head blew out of the engine of the Providence line steamer Rhode Island, which left New York yesterday afternoon on her regular trip for Providence with 100 passengers on board, most of them bound for Boston. Instantly there was excitement and confusion. Women screamed in fear and men ran about the decks getting life preservers in their excitement. After three hours' work Engineer Cole succeeded in repairing the break.

REVENGE DOES NOT PAY.

It Is Neither Good Policy Nor the Right Principle.

Revenge doesn't pay. It injures the one who inflicts it more than him who receives it. No greater mistake was ever made than by the person who "nurses his wrong" for months, perhaps years, until the chance arrives for him to "get even" with his enemy. The momentary sense of triumph, the brief feeling of exultation, can never wipe out the scars our moral nature has received during the period we have hugged and coddled the revengeful feelings toward a fellow being. They have inevitably inflicted a deep and lasting injury, which will be felt for a long, long time, if not to the end of life. The bursting buds of charity, love and forgiveness have been blighted, and in their place have sprung up the fungi of resentment, revenge, uncharitableness and hate.

One of the most delightful of men, who had reached the age of fourscore, whose face beamed with genial good nature and whose cheeriness diffused sunshine wherever he went, when asked the secret of his perennial happiness replied: "I have never tried to revenge myself upon those who I fancied had done me a wrong. All of us have suffered injustice or injury from others, but when I could not repay it with kindness I have made it a rule to forget all about it. It was hard at first, but I strengthened my position by the reflection that those who wronged me had more disappointments and sorrows than I, and the only safe course was to leave in the hands of God the task of punishing them. He was certain to do it more effectually than I. Then, too, the man who knows I care nothing for his assaults is humiliated by his failure to disturb me, and if, when he expects harsh words or actions, he receives kind treatment, it is truly coals of fire heaped upon his head. My nature is purified and his is made better, and so two human beings, if not more, are benefited. Depend upon it, my young friends, revenge doesn't pay."

Suburban Joys.

Domestic From Next Door—Please, missus sends her compliments, and there's a burglar in our back parlor, and will you come and catch him?—Pick Me Up.

Long Lived Birds.

Some birds are exceedingly long lived. The swan, it is ascertained by means of unquestionable record, has been known to exist over 300 years. A sea eagle captured in 1715, then already several years of age, died 104 years afterward, in 1819, and a white headed vulture captured in 1708 died in 1826 in one of the aviaries of the Schoenbrun castle, near Vienna, having passed 118 years in captivity.

A Boy's Idea of His Father.

At 10 years of age a boy thinks his father knows a great deal; at 15 he knows as much as his father; at 20 he knows twice as much; at 30 he is willing to take his advice; at 40 he begins to think his father knows something, after all; at 50 he begins to seek his advice, and at 60—after his father is dead—he thinks he was the smartest man that ever lived.

That Tyrant Man.

Thomas the Drummer—Well, Emmar, you needn't take on so. I loves you straight enough, but 'angin round the barrick gates askin for me is the sort of thing I will not 'ave!—Punch.

A True Bunny Story.

Did you ever see a bunny? Well, I am going to tell you about one—a real, live bunny, not a speckled, grandpappy squirrel, but a sleek gray one. I don't like to tell you how my brother Will caught it, for fear you might think he is cruel, but he isn't. He is one of the kindest brothers that ever lived. He has a stock of the most delightful stories, with which he is always willing to entertain us, and then he is never too busy to take us sledding or to have a good romp. But I wasn't going to tell you about my brother, but about bunny. They both begin with "b," and maybe that is why I made the mistake.

Bunny was very playful and always ready to have a frolic, but he never liked any one so well as that brother I was telling you about. He seemed to know when he was coming home from school, for every day, about the same time, he would go down to the gate and wait till he saw Will, then he would start off up the lane. When he got near enough, he would spring at his foot, run up the leg of his pantaloons and get into his pocket.

What do you think he was so anxious to get into Will's pocket for? I will tell you. Brother was a kind master and never came home without bringing some nuts for bunny, and he, of course, was very anxious to find his treasures.

When they got home he would sit on his hind legs and eat the nuts while Will got his dinner. After this important business was over they would both go up stairs, Will to lie on his bed while he studied and bunny to have a game of hide and seek. This is the way they played: Will would take a nut, bunny would come and get it, then off he would scamper to hide it under a fold of the bed quilt, thinking it would be quite safe there until he felt hungry enough to eat it. While he was running back to get another Will would quietly slip the same one out from its hiding place and give it back to him. Off he would run again to conceal his prize. In this way they would often play the whole afternoon.

One day bunny had been out, and he came home very sick. He had been badly hurt, but no one could tell how. We nursed him very tenderly, but he got worse and worse. At last he died, and poor Will was nearly heart broken over the death of his favorite. He made a wooden box for a coffin, and we buried the poor little fellow in the garden under a cedar tree. His tombstone was a wooden board, with these words printed on it:

"Here Lies Bunny Reed, who died Oct. 10, 18—."

"Twenty-five Off."

A want of familiarity with business practices sometimes leads to amusing and sometimes to embarrassing results and occasionally to both. A woman who kept a small seaside hotel thought it would be profitable to bring the fact to the attention of the public. Accordingly she drafted a suitable advertisement and carried it to the counting room of a newspaper, where she inquired the expense of several insertions.

It was the custom of this paper, where advertisements were inserted more than four times, to deduct 25 per cent from the usual rates. The clerk read over what she had written, estimated the space it would require and said, "It will come to $26, but as it is going in over four times it will be 25 off."

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "Why, that's very reasonable." And putting down a dollar she started for the door.

It was difficult to tell which was the more embarrassed, the landlady or the clerk, when he called her back and explained that "25 off" meant 25 per cent, and not $25.

Gymnastics.

An eminent physician declares that every professional athlete by the time he reaches the age of 40 years is old before his time, with his bones out of shape, muscles injured and joints stiffened, and with such life prospects that no insurance company would take a risk on his life for five years.

There is little doubt that in gymnastics, as in everything else, moderation is the wise course. That which expands the lungs, keeps the muscles supple with a fair development of strength, is far more beneficial than the violent system which produces phenomenally strong and active men.

IN COMMON with many others, we are glad of the prominence given of late to the two historical Adams houses in the south part of the city. Regarding the age of the houses there is much talk just now, people being unwilling to give up the idea that the birthplace of John Adams is the older, as has always been handed down in history, and from generation to generation.

They are right to stick to this idea as there is nothing to prove them wrong in their belief. The deed of the purchase of the house and farm by the Adams family is recorded in 1720 at the State house. The deed of the John Quincy Adams house cannot be found, therefore such good authorities as Edwin W. Marsh, Franklin Curtis and I. Hull Adams believe there is no foundation for the assertion that the John Quincy Adams birthplace is the older of the two houses. Mr. Curtis, one of Quincy's most accurate historians, says the finding of the brick with the date 1716 in the chimney of the John Quincy Adams house proves nothing, as the brick might have been inscribed before it was put into the house. He said also the house might have been a shop or carriage house belonging to the estate when purchased by the father of John Adams, and afterwards made into a house, as the deed of the John Adams house speaks of such a building.

Further, Mr. Curtis says, the Adams Chapter can claim their house, the John Adams birthplace, to be the older and that there is no one that can prove it to be otherwise.

This we think is pretty good authority, especially as it is backed up by tradition, history and records.

The Granite Tariff.

Among the timely topics in "Stone" for June is this relative to the tariff and the wholesaler:

"We fear those wholesalers in the granite monument trade who are protesting against a raise of the tariff rate on manufactured granite do not lend much strength to their contention that they are indispensable to the business of furnishing monuments to the people of this country. As we have often said, if there is one thing on the lengthy list of imports, that should be absolutely prohibited from access to the American markets, it is granite, raw or "cooked." This would for a time slightly raise the price of American granite, but that would not seriously affect the future use of it in the arts and building, because its production would be enlarged under the incentive that the home market was entirely free of the foreign material. Increased production would bring prices quickly back to the present level, and probably lower; there would be enormously more tons of it used, and thousands more engaged in the industry—that would be another leveling process; the wages of cutters would be less per day, but they would find plenty to do during twelve months of the year instead of little to do during six to eight as now—and that is yet another leveling process, and all for the general good. The wholesale importers of granite monuments, for in that form most of the foreign granite now comes, may poohpooh this sort of argument for a prohibitive duty on the material, but it is sensible notwithstanding. We need to develop the granite deposits of this country, of which there are immense tracts yet untouched by the hand of man; we should begin to build our cities of nature's most durable material, and our memorials of the native product. And while we should put a tariff on foreign granite large enough to keep it out of this country entirely, we should put up the bars at the same time against the wage-lowering granite cutters. Supply, demand, and the wage question would adjust themselves, were the foreign elements—material and men—not involved in the industry."

PRIZE FOR OMEME.

Finished First in Her Class at Hull, Second on Allowance.

W. P. Barker's new yacht the Omeme, showed up in good form yesterday in the Hull race, and on actual time was the leading boat of her class. The first prize however went to H. M. Faxon's Cleopatra, her corrected time being 25 seconds better than the Omeme.

The course was a triangular one with Strawberry hill, Peddocks island and the club house as turning points, and in the easterly breeze was a windward and leeward race. Of the third class the Herald says:

On the beat to Strawberry hill the Arab had a fine lead with the one-rater Al-Anka in second place. On the run to Peddock's, the Arab and the Al-Anka went a long way out of their true line, and the Cleopatra and the Omeme almost caught the rater on this account. Beating back to Strawberry hill the Omeme gained by keeping under Hull, and the Al-Anka dropped far astern, seeming to have no life in the light chance. On the second run to Peddock's, and the lay back, the Omeme and the Cleopatra just got by the Arab, and walked in, the Omeme getting the gun and the Cleopatra the money.

The summary will be of interest:

Timetable Notes.

The 7.29 and 8 29 A. M. trains from Quincy to Boston which have stopped at Wollaston will now be run express from Quincy at 7 31 and 8.31 and will be the quickest trains of the day, each being scheduled to make the run in 14 minutes. With the exception of these two trains the inward service of Quincy Adams, Wollaston and Norfolk Downs is identical with Quincy.

The 7 39 P. M. inward train will be the only one to make all the stops, and the 8.08 and 10 08 P. M. the only ones to make more than two stops.

The 1.46 P. M. express will be missed by the ladies who desire to shop in Boston after they send their children to school.

Wollaston will lose her outward expresses at 5 15 and 6.15, these trains being run express to Quincy in 16 minutes.

The 12 M. express from Boston to Quincy so long a fixture seems to be dropped now with every semi-annual change; if it is reinstated as usual all will be well. It has long been a popular train.

All the Quincy Sunday trains in both directions will now make stops at Quincy Adams, Wollaston, Norfolk Downs and Atlantic, and the last two will also stop at Neponset, Pope's Hill and Harrison Square.

The LEDGER'S popular timetable with stops and time of arrival of each train will appear on Monday, the one from the PATRIOT being printed today.

The continued case of Michael Sheridan of Randolph for assault was called and he was defaulted.

Mary S. Trainor was arraigned for the larceny of $200 from Noah Madigon, administratrix of the estate of Ellen M. Leahy of Quincy. Case continued until next Friday.

Birds Set a Fire.

The alarm from Box 152 at 8.18 this morning was for a slight fire in an unoccupied house on the corner of Faxon road and Brook street, owned by Dr. Soule of Providence, R. I. The fire originated on the outside of the building back of a second story blind and was evidently caused by birds; the theory being that birds carried a match to their nest and in picking it set the nest afire. The fire burned through the window casing but the loss will not exceed $10. The all-out signal was given within ten minutes.

Monday's Parade.

Lieut. Henry L. Kincaide of Co. K., will be chief of staff of Chief Marshal Francis, at the parade in honor of Queen Victoria in Boston on Monday. The staff of the chief marshal will report to Lieut. Kincaide at the corner of State street and Atlantic avenue, not mounted, at 3 30 o'clock, P.M., sharp. Military gentlemen will wear the uniforms of their respective organizations, civilians will wear dark clothes, Prince Albert coat and dark Derby hat (if convenient) with white gloves.

The society of the British navy and Army veterans will form on Bulfinch street, right resting on Court street, and will be prepared to move at 4.15 P.M., sharp.

The chief marshal and staff will receive the blue jackets and marines from H. M. S. Pallas at the government landing, Atlantic avenue at 4 o'clock, P M., sharp. They will proceed immediately to corner of Commercial and State streets, where they will be taken under escort by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, from which point they will march to the corner of Bulfinch and Court streets, where they will be joined by the society of the British Navy and Army Veterans. From this point the march will be resumed to Mechanic's building. Reception will take place immediately on arrival of procession. The banquet will be served at 7 P M. sharp.

BRAINTREE.

The daughter of Mrs. John Kelley of Crescent avenue captured the prize of a china cup and saucer.

Children's Sunday will be observed by the Universalist society the last Sunday in June.

The graduation exercises at the Jonas Perkins school will take place on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Loring will present the diplomas.

Mr. John French is very ill at his home on Washington street. He has been unable to speak for several days.

The school committee felt obliged to place the order for coal this year with A. J. Richards & Son, their price being $38.60 lower than the next lowest bid.

The class that is preparing for examination in St. Francis' church will be instructed tonight by Father Johnstone. Confirmation takes place next Thursday.

The High School closing exercises will be held in the Town Hall, Thursday night. They will be informal, consisting of an address and singing by the school. The reception will take place June 29.

The Sloyd system is to be tried in the Jonas Perkins school with the understanding that the school expenses will not be increased. The teacher that is to be employed to fill the vacancy will be one that can teach the system and all extra salary and expense will be paid by Mr. T. A. Watson.

The Braintree Brass Band will give a grand promonade concert and lawn party on French's common, Wednesday evening, July 14th. The band will give a concert from 7 to 8.30 and dancing from 8.30 to 11 to the music of Cuff's full orchestra. The committee of arrangements are Charles G. Whitcomb, chairman, Albert F. Hollis, secretary, and William E. Wilde.

The Monatiquot school graduation will occur Thursday, June 24th, at 1.30 P. M., in the school hall. Recitations will be given by Miss Edith Littlefield and Frank Allen. There will be several choruses by the graduates and also instrumental and vocal solos by pupils. A short talk will be given by Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern. To these exercises the public is most cordially invited.

Tea and Coffee

are two great staples with us. Year by year the taste of our patrons has been educated—in a great degree through our efforts—until now the highest possible grades are demanded by our regular trade.

A good cup of Tea or Coffee is no accident. It isn't a happen-to-be—it's a MADE-to-be.

Our Tea and Coffee are planted right, cultivated right, picked in the right way at the right time, cured right, handled right, bought right and sold right.

There's a watch kept every step of the way, in order to secure the best results.

The richest man in America can hardly provide himself with better Tea or Coffee than is within YOUR reach—if you buy of us.

And as to grades, a favorite Tea is our 50c. Formosa or English Breakfast.

Good enough for the most exacting, cheap enough for the most economical.

We have Teas as low as 25c. lb., and fancy grades from 60c. upwards, but no one need pay fancy prices in order to get good results, as we put the same care into our selections of all kinds. We know it will pay you to try ours. An experience of Twenty Years in buying and selling Teas will tell.

The Gallagher property at the corner of Hancock street and Cottage avenue is certainly not attractive, but for all that it will soon be a valuable business suite. It will be offered at auction Jude 28.

Capt. Edward Spear's condition is about the same this morning and he is unable to talk or recognize his friends. The shock was a severe one but hopes are entertained that he will rally and be about again before long.

Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., received a visit from Pilgrim lodge of Randolph last evening, and one candidate was initiated. After the business meeting an entertainment of vocal and instrumental music was given, followed by cream and cake.

We understand the birth-place of John Quincy Adams besides being fitted up for exhibition is to be used by the Quincy Historical society as salesrooms for the sale of antique furniture, etc., and the old wood and bricks removed in repairing the home.

There is a big kick at Wollaston because the 7.33 A. M. inward train is to be taken off. This train is very convenient to the large number of business men who wish to reach their stores at about 8 o'clock, the 7.16 A. M. train being too early for that class of patrons.

Just the the day for a lawn party and the one to be held this afternoon and evening by the Hospital Ten, King's Daughters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Whicher on Adams street will surely be a great success. Only a small sum is now needed by the Ton to make up the amount necessary to purchase a steam sterilizer for the Hospital. All go and help the Hospital.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held Thursday, June 24th, at 3 P. M., in the room of the Granite Manufacturers' Association in Durgin & Merrill's block, Hancock street. This will be the last meeting before the summer vacation and a large attendance is desired.

A well known Quincy gentleman having a number of papers of historical value presented them to the Quincy Historical society several months ago. The other day he expressed a desire to go over the John Quincy Adams birthplace, but was told by the librarian he must pay twenty-five cents. He said he did not give the papers with the idea of personal gain, still he did think the donors of relics should be invited to inspect the house free of charge. It must be a pleasure to contribute to a society under such narrow-minded control. We should think relics would pour in instead of having to be hunted up.

SHORT NEWS STORIES.

Only a Woman Could Have Done It—Diet That Was In Demand—He Was Hungry—Not Any For Deboe.

What a wonderful thing the heart of a woman is! In a Chicago police court the other day a laborer was arraigned to answer to the charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife, a frail looking creature, whom he had beaten into insensibility and left for dead. Both of her eyes were swollen and blackened, her face, which had been pounded to a jelly, was discolored and covered with patches of court plaster and she carried a broken arm in a sling.

Her husband, a great hulking brute, chewed tobacco assiduously and glared about the courtroom. When the case was called, the woman began crying softly and asked to have the prosecution dismissed.

"Why," said the court in astonishment, "this fellow was responsible for your injuries, was he not?"

The wife remained silent.

"He pounded you nearly to death, didn't he?" continued the judge.

"Yes, sir, please, but"—

"He broke your arm, didn't he? He knocked out several of your teeth and kicked you into insensibility?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then, why do you want him discharged?"

"He's my husband."

"That may be, but he is also a brute, and the law is made for the protection of mankind and womankind from such as he. If I discharge him, he may treat you the same way again. Does he abuse you frequently?"

"Oh, no, sir!"

"But this is not the first time, is it? He has abused you before?"

The wife was silent.

"Has he abused you before?" the court asked again.

Through her tears she replied, "When he drinks, he sometimes forgets himself and becomes a little too rough and—and—playful."

Only a woman who loved could have done that.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Diet That Was In Demand.

Here is one of the last stories from Monte Carlo: While the solemn function of displaying, mixing and shuffling the cards which precedes the beginning of the play was being gone through a gentleman walked up to the tables, deliberately counted out a lot of bank notes, in value $2,500, and placed them on the black. This somewhat unusual occurrence of staking a maximum before the play for the day began naturally attracted attention, and a bystander remarked:

"Rather bold play, sir."

"Well," said the player, "I dreamed last night that I saw the table exactly as it is now, and on the first coup black won."

The cards being duly cut, the tailleur proceeded, watched by the onlookers with unusual interest, to deal out the cards for the first coup, and black won. A suppressed "Oh!" from the bystanders greeted the announcement, and then from across the table came in tones of agonized entreaty a lady's voice:

"Oh, won't you please tell me what you ate for supper last night?"—New York Tribune.

He Was Hungry.

A determined looking man walked into one of the all night restaurants at Detroit one night recently, settled himself at the counter with an air of precision and looked carefully over the bill of fare. He ordered a nice porterhouse steak and was particular about having it well done, took all the usual side dishes and buckwheat cakes, coffee and pie. The waiter hustled around getting things ready. It was a very good order, and he wanted to please the customer. The man ate with evident relish and took his time. When he had finished, he walked to the cash counter and, looking at the waiter with a solemn air, said: "Young man, I haven't any money. I've been trying to get something to eat by asking for it for the last two days, and this was the only way I could keep from starving. Now you can do what you want about it. If you want to call the police, I don't care."

The waiter is a good hearted youth, and instead of calling the police bade the stranger luck on his journey, but told him to be sure not to come again.—Detroit News.

Senator Chandler's Philosophy.

On the wall of Senator Chandler's committee room hangs a little sheet of paper with some epigrammatic sentences in the senator's own handwriting. They dispense good enough advice to warrant their transfer from the comparatively unfrequented committee room to the columns of the public press. Here they are:

"Fulfill existing promises before making new promises.

"Pay your own debts before borrowing money to lend to others to enable them to pay their debts.

"Bear your own burdens first. After that try to help carry those of other people."

Senator Chandler says that in these three sentences is bound up pretty nearly all the philosophy a man needs in life.

Not Any For Senator Deboe.

One day recently Senator Deboe, the new senator from Kentucky, visited the stationery room of the senate and made a selection of paper, pens, pencils, paper cutters, blotting pads, a penknife and other appropriate articles.

"I think that is all I want," he said, as he turned to go.

"Haven't you forgotten a corkscrew?" asked the clerk.

"No," said the senator, "that is one thing I do not want, even if I do come from Kentucky. I do not drink and I do not smoke."—Washington Post.

CHURCH ON FIRE.

Union Church of Braintree a Total Wreck.

The Alarm Was Given Shortly Before One O'Clock.

Old Edifice was Formerly Hollis St Church of Boston.

(Special to the Daily Ledger.)

BRAINTREE, 1.30 P. M.—Fire was discovered shortly before one o'clock this afetrnoon in the Union church, near the Braintree and Weymouth line on Quincy avenue, and alarms were given in both towns.

It is evident at this writing that the edifice cannot be saved, and that it will probably be a total loss.

The fire caught from a passing train.

2 P M.—The roof fell in at 1.40, and the edifice is nearly burned to the ground.

A barn adjoining has been destroyed, and two others are on fire. The property of W. T. Sanborn, J. B. Rhines & Co. and A. J. Richards & Sons are also in danger, but streams are upon them.

All the Weymouth and Braintree fire apparatus are on the scene, and help has been asked from Quincy.

The church was insured for $20,000.

Historical Sketch.

The Union church of Weymouth and Braintree was organized in 1811, and the Rev. Daniel Clark was called to its pastorate, who was installed Dec. 31st, of the same year, and after remaining there about two years, was dismissed Oct. 1st, 1813. During the interregnum the church was without a settled pastor, and the pulpit was supplied by various clergymen.

On the 14th of June, 1815, the Rev. Jonas Perkins was ordained as its minister Mr. Perkins's pastorate was a long and peaceful one, he having administered to its spiritual wants nearly half a century, or forty-five years. He was released from his parochial duties, Oct. 15th, 1860, and after a few months was succeeded by the Rev. Lysander Dickerman, who was installed Jan. 17th, 1861, and received his resignation in July, 1867.

Mr. Dickerman was followed by the Rev. A. A. Ellsworth, who commenced his labors as acting pastor, April 1st, 1868, and remained as such until he was relieved of his christian duties in the fall of 1871, when the Rev. Lucien H. Frary received an invitation to become its pastor. He was installed April 13th, 1875, and there have been several ministers since.

The meeting-house in which this society worship was the old Hollis Street church, of Boston, which was taken down in 1810, and floated on a raft from Boston to Braintree, and there rebuilt on its present site for this society, and not, as Mr. Drake says in his Old Landmarks of Boston, for Dr. Storr's church, in North Braintree. A few years since, it was extensively remodeled at a cost of several thousand dollars. It was a fine and commodious edifice.

At Quincy.

Chief Engineer Williams heard of the fire early and was at the central station awaiting a call. He made arrangements to cover all the outskirts of the city, and the horses were hitched ready to start, but no call came.

WEAK WEARY WOMEN AND MEN

Are peculiarly benefited by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful Tonic and Blood Cleanser in the world.

P. P. P. restores shattered nerves, gives strength and tone to the entire system, revives the worn out, nervous and debilitated You cannot but be nervous if your blood is impure.

P. P. P. gives the proper nourishment to the blood, and cures nervous prostration, debility and nervous headache.

P. P. P. cures that tired, languid, "all gone" feeling, cures dyspepsia, indigestion, and that awful distress of the stomach.

P. P. P. cures that weak, nervous condition, that dreadful jumping of the heart, followed by dizziness and sinking spells. Make your blood pure by taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and you will be well and happy Women are benefited, their organization regulated, and their weakness and lassitude cured by P. P. P should take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, without delay. While not actually sick, you feel weak and tired, ready to get sick, and what you need is strength to drive out of your system that which is the cause of Spring Fever. P. P. P. is needed at once.

Mr Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th street, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for her complete restoration to health.

BRUMMER ARRESTED.

Lisbon Tailor Accused of Murderous Assault on Ida Lathrop.

Rumors of Undue Intimacy Between Them.

Note Found In Girl's Room Which Is Full of Vague Charges.

Lisbon, N. H., June 19.—Miss Ida Lathrop, who on Wednesday of last week as found unconscious in the cellar under the tailor shop of George Brummer's Sons, where she was employed, has been lying in a comatose condition, but she has made a statement concerning the assault to County Solicitor Adams, on which he deemed it his duty to order the arrest of Karl Brummer, on the charge of assault with attempt to commit murder. Mr. Adams would give no information as to the statement made by Miss Lathrop.

The most that can be obtained is the copy of a note found in Miss Lathrop's bureau the morning after the assault, reading as follows:

"If I am ever missing, search until I am found, for there is something going to happen. I know not what, how, where or when. I have threatened to reveal the wickedness that I have had to stand up under, and have had my life threatened if I did so, in return, but I am going to make the move and let come what may."

While nothing definite can be learned, it is rumored that young Brummer had been unduly intimate with Miss Lathrop, and had recently tried to cast her aside in favor of a young lady at Woodsville, and that Miss Lathrop threatened to inform the latter of everything. It is certain that she wrote letters to Woodsville, and intended to go there.

Brummer took his arrest in a cool manner, and immediately summoned A. S. Batchellor of Littleton, his counsel, who arrived at 7 o'clock last evening. Brummer was arraigned before Police Justice Erle Oakes, who bound him over for a preliminary hearing at Lisbon, July 7, and bonds for $5000 were immediately furnished by George Brummer and Lyman C. Payne.

The hearing is awaited with great interest, and much sympathy is expressed for both the Lathrop and Brummer families.

Underwriters Gain Their Point.

Gloucester, Mass., June 19.—At the regular meeting of the board of aldermen last evening a hearing was given to representatives of the New England board of fire underwriters on their demand that sufficient fire horses must be left in the engine houses during the day to cover all apparatus on first alarms or insurance rates all over the city would be advanced from 10 to 15 per cent. Speeches were made by George Steele, Jr., Cyrus Story and John Cunningham, members of the board of underwriters, Sylvester Cunningham, president of the local board of trade, and a large taxpayer, also spoke. He scored various insurance companies, claiming that they were the most grasping financial octopus now doing business in New England. He said they had raised the rates continuously the last 10 years, notwithstanding the installation of a waterworks system, but as the insurance companies have the power to enforce their threat, the wisest course was for the city fathers to grant the request, as asked, as the increase in cost to the city, about $1000, would be preferable.

Bogus Butter Dealer Escapes.

Framingham, Mass., June 19.—John W. Marshall, who was arrested last Wednesday at Northboro for alleged violation of the oleomargarine laws, and who was confined in the lockup here awaiting trial today, escaped last evening. When the keeper opened the cell door to give him his supper, Marshall dashed out of the building and jumped into a wagon which a confederate had waiting near by. He was followed through Holliston to Millis by many bicyclists, but all trace was lost in the latter town. Marshall was arrested last February for a similar offense and paid $100 fine. Another case against him, which came up in April, was placed on file with the understanding that he was to give up the business, and last Wednesday he was again arrested by a state agent. Marshall's plan, it is said, was to erase the government's oleomargarine stamp upon packages and substitute "Vermont creamery butter" labels. It is stated that he has done a very extensive business in this section.

Worcester's Guests.

Worcester, Mass., June 19.—The pan-Americans arrived in this city from Providence last night. There was an informal reception by the members of the board of trade. Mayor A. B. R. Sprague extended the welcome of the city to the visitors. Today the visitors will separate into five different groups and will visit the different manufacturing establishments of the city. The party will leave for Springfield at 5:06 p. m.

New England Championships.

Boston, June 19.—The outdoor athletic championships of the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic union was considered at length last night at a meeting of the board of managers. They will be held July 5, probably at Wood Island park, East Boston, the sum of $500 having been appropriated by the city, and entries close June 29 with Joseph B. McCabe, care of John W. Bowler, Charlesbank gymnasium, Boston.

Admits Taking Money.

Holyoke, Mass., June 19.—Frank Bannister, assistant teller of the Home National bank, has confessed to the misappropriation of the bank's funds. Just how much he has taken is not known, but it will probably approach $5000. The bank is protected against loss by a New York guarantee company, and the company will be reimbursed by Bannister's friends, so that there will probably be no prosecution.

Shoe Factory For Augusta.

Augusta, Me., June 19.—At a meeting of the Augusta board of trade last evening the organization of a company for the manufacture of boots and shoes was practically assured. The Boyd Corey company, which has been operating in Marlboro, Mass., recently made the proposition to move its manufactory to Augusta, to furnish its machinery and a majority of the stock. At the meeting all propositions were accepted. Hon. P. O. Vickery pledged Augusta's share, which will probably net over $50,000. Augusta capitalists have generally showed favor for the organization, and an important addition to Augusta's industry is assured. The factory proposed will employ about 300 hands.

Knocked Down by Bicyclist.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 19.—Treasurer Justin V. Hanscom of the Frank Jones Brewing company was knocked down by a bicycle when about to enter his home on Islington street, last evening. Mr. Hanscom was cut and bruised on the head and arms and it is thought hurt internally. George L. Taylor, who rode the bicycle, was placed under arrest to await the outcome of Mr. Hanscom's injuries.

Grangers In Council.

Lancaster, N. H., June 19.—The annual session of the New Hampshire Pomona grange was held here yesterday. The morning session was given up to routine work. In the afternoon an address of welcome was delivered by F. S. Holton and a poem by Miss Rose Brooks read. In the evening a public reception and supper were given, to which nearly 500 were present.

A Father's Misery.

Saco, Me., June 19.—Elsie, the 3-year-old daughter of J. Herbert Clark of Clark's Mills was run over and almost instantly killed by a heavy wood team yesterday. Another child of Mr. Clark's was struck by a runaway and so badly injured that death is expected. These sad accidents were witnessed by Mr. Clark, but he could not save the children.

Law School For Bangor.

Bangor, Me., June 19.—The management of the University of Maine has under consideration the establishment of a law school in this city, to begin work next fall. Judge Emery of the supreme court, General Charles Hamlin of Bangor and other prominent lawyers have agreed to deliver courses of lectures.

New Industry For Montello.

Brockton, Mass., June 19.—It was announced that a New York bicycle manufacturing company, which has been contemplating locating here, had decided to take land in Montello, upon which a factory from 300 to 350 feet in length and 35 feet wide will be built, and about 300 hands will be employed.

TO LIMIT PERSONAL EFFECTS.

Large Amount of Clothing Brought by European Travelers Subject of Legislation.

Washington, June 19.—At the request of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Board of Trade, the treasury department has made an investigation at New York as to the value of personal effects which returning passengers brought into the country when returning from abroad.

The inquiry was started with a view of restoring the house proposition in the tariff bill, limiting to $100 the amount of personal effects and clothing which a returning passenger might bring in free of duty. The report of the special agent will be presented to the finance committee. The officers of the board say that they are confident that the house provision will be restored. The report of the special agent shows that information was obtained by interviews with returning passengers from which estimates were made. Twenty-five passengers were interviewed on six different days from six different steamers, showing that the additions to the personal effects while abroad for the whole number was $24,490, with an average of $489.80 to each passenger. All this baggage, the report says, had free entry.

The estimates of the surveyors department was that on the personal effects purchased abroad would average $400 for each passenger, which is brought in free under the existing law. The estimate is made that 100,000 passengers arrive annually and the value of the goods they bring in free is placed at $40,000,000. It is stated that Parisian shopkeepers encourage people to buy large amounts of goods, and explained to one lady that in bringing three dozen pairs of gloves she would have to break the third dozen in order to comply with the United States customs regulations.

It is shown that the amount collected from passengers was the greatest in 9854 passengers paid $204,987, and the lowest in 1896, under the Wilson law, when 5810 passengers paid $96,912. The special agent says that the exemption of $100,000 requires a critical examination of the trunks of passengers returning from abroad to pay duties on articles purchased by them as if they had been ordered and imported.

Reid Calls on Salisbury.

London, June 19.—Hon. Whitlaw Reid, General Nelson Miles and Ogden Mills were the guests of Colonel Henry Harlan Parr, special equirry to Mr. Reid during his stay here as special ambassador, at luncheon yesterday at the Naval and Military club. Among the company were Major General Methuen and General Sir Redvers Buller. The Marquis of Salisbury received Mr. Reid as the United States special envoy at the foreign office yesterday afternoon and conversed with him for some time with great cordiality. A copy of the letter of President McKinley to the queen was formally filed in the foreign office archives in accordance with custom, and Mr. Reid will present the original to the queen on Monday next.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

CURRENT MISCELLANY.

In the deep forests along the Amazon river in South America there dwells one of the oddest and laziest creatures in the world. It walks upside down. It rarely, if ever, drinks and it is said to feel no pain. The animal is known as the ai, from its peculiar piping cry, or the three toed sloth. The last name is very appropriate, for a lazier animal never lived. Often it takes less than 50 steps a day, and it will be a month or more in going a mile. It is not necessary for it to go any faster, because it lives in the trees, and its food of leaves and soft twigs is always within easy reach. Sloths have three toes on each foot, and each toe bears a strong hooked claw. When the sloth moves, he simply hooks the claws over a limb and crawls about from tree to tree. In this position he can sleep hours at a time. When a little sloth is born, it uses its mother for a hammock until it is big enough to climb for itself.

The sloth grows to be about two feet long. Its hair is wiry and coarse and it has no tail to speak of. The natives say that it cannot feel pain, and they prove what they say by showing how the sloth will roll itself up and deliberately fall out of a tall tree in order to save climbing down.—Chicago Record.

The Solar Parallax.

It is not infrequently a matter of wonder with those not versed in all the phenomena of astronomy that the solar parallax can be got from Mars and Venus, but not from Mercury or the sun itself. Astronomers explain this on very simple grounds—namely, that the nearest approach of these bodies to the earth is for Mars 33,874,000 miles, for Venus 23,654,000 miles, for Mercury 47,935,000 miles, and for the sun 91,239,000 miles. Consequently for us Mars and Venus have very much larger parallaxes than Mercury or the sun, and, of course, the larger the parallax the easier it is to measure. But, further, even the largest of these parallaxes must be determined within far less than one-tenth of a second of the truth, and while that degree of accuracy is possible in measuring short arcs it is quite unattainable in long ones. Hence one of the most essential conditions for the successful measurement of parallaxes is the ability to compare the place of the near body with that of a more distant one situated in the same region of the sky.—New York Sun.

Do We Need a New White House?

"Much has been said and written about the inconveniences and inadequacy of the executive mansion, and many plans have been proposed to remedy its real or imaginary defects," writes ex-President Harrison in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Some have proposed to abandon the house as a place of residence, to give it wholly over to official uses and to build a new home for the president. Others suggest to make the house strictly and solely a place of residence by removing the offices to a suitable new building. It would be a great shame, I think, to divert this stately and historic house to another and a meaner use than that to which it was set apart when Washington laid its cornerstone. With the offices out of it, some better provision for the accommodation of the domestics and another large room, with a suitable exit, to relieve the overcrowded receptions, the house would be adequate and altogether creditable."

Mrs. Wilcox's Resignation.

There is an old saying that few government employees die and none resigns. Secretary Gage is able to disprove this assertion by a transaction which occurred in his office the other day. A granddaughter of "Old Hickory" Jackson, Mrs. Wilcox, who is a $1,600 clerk in the sixth auditor's office, called upon the secretary of the treasury and told him she had enough of government service and proposed to resign, to take effect Aug. 1. Incidentally she informed Secretary Gage that she was born in the White House, and a lock of her hair is now in the cornerstone of the treasury department building. She was a little girl at the time the cornerstone was laid and a lock of her hair was solicited and cheerfully given for this purpose. Mrs. Wilcox is now beyond the four-score milepost in age and retires from government service, where she has served uninterruptedly since 1882.—Chicago Tribune.

Flowers Growing Wild.

A few years ago a new idea was introduced into horticulture, known as wild gardens. This simply means that certain flowers were to be permitted to grow wild, so as to imitate similar collections of beauty found in a state of nature. These wild gardens were of some extent and would not be practicable in limited areas, but much could be done by allowing one or two species of plants to become in a measure wild. For instance, one may have a group of some half dozen trees, or perhaps less, and plant snowdrops, crocuses, daffodils, lilies of the valley or any similar plant that can take care of itself in partial shade and leave them there to their own devices from year to year. Little permanent groups of this kind suffered to take on a natural character add very much to the pleasures of gardening.—Meehan's Monthly.

Selling a Wife.

An extraordinary case of wife selling occurred at Irthlingborough, a shoe manufacturing village of Northamptonshire. A party of shoemakers having spent all their money at a public house and having nothing handy to dispose of to get more, one of them offered to sell his wife for 2 shillings. A customer in the bar accepted the offer, and to make the bargain complete one of the men was induced to go through the streets publicly announcing on behalf of the husband that he had "sold and bequeathed" his wife to the purchaser and giving the names of two companions as witnesses to the transaction.—London Tit-Bits.

BRUTE'S LITTLE VICTIM

Seven-Year-Old Girl Dies From Effects of Fiendish Assault.

Crime Committed on Road at Athol, Mass.

Villain Jumped From His Wagon and Seized Child---Is Now In Jail.

Athol, Mass., June 19.—Gilman Peters of Winchendon is locked up in the county jail at Fitchburg, in default of $6000 bonds, under which Judge Field of the district court of Worcester west county held him, after hearing the charge of attempted felonious assault upon Belle Rollins of South Royalston.

The bonds would not have been so heavy, probably, had not word reached the court during the session that the child had died. The hearing was hurriedly concluded and the case continued till next Friday when Peters will be brought into court to plead to another charge, possibly murder.

The story of the affair as it was told in court was to the effect that as Peters was driving along the road in South Royalston, the little Rollins girl, accompanied by a companion named Nora Finn, approached and Peters, jumping from the wagon, seized his victim and threw her down beside the road. The Finn girl ran away screaming, and was heard by persons living in a house not far away. They rushed to the scene, and it was thought, prevented Peters from accomplishing his purpose. The child, however, was overcome by fright and nervousness, and the people in the vicinity, who by this time had become thoroughly aroused, followed Peters who was driving away. He was arrested soon afterwards and brought here.

The Rollins child was an orphan, living with relatives here. She semed to be recovering from her experience, when she suddenly became prostrated and died soon afterward.

Peters was taken to the Fitchburg jail.

Medical examiner James Oliver and Dr. H. H. Burns investigated the assault on the little girl, and find that the assault was worse than at first reported.

FOR INCREASED RATES.

Senators Prepare a Wool Schedule For Presentation to Finance Committee.

Washington, June 19.—The advocates in the senate of an increase in the duty on wool held a meeting yesterday and decided upon the following as the rates which they will ask the committee to fix on wool.

First class, in grease, unskirted, 10 cents per pound; in grease, skirted, 12 cents per pound; if washed, double these rates; if scoured, treble.

Second class, in grease, unskirted, 11 cents per pound; in grease, skirted, 13 cents; if washed, double; if scoured, treble.

Third class, worth not exceeding 6 cents per pound, 3 cents duty; worth over 6 cents but not exceeding 10 cents, 5 cents per pound; worth over 10 cents per pound, 8 cents duty; if scoured, treble.

These rates are much higher than those originally fixed by the senate committee, and the wool men regard them as more advantageous than those of the house bill, or those of the McKinley law.

There were present at the meeting a dozen or 15 senators, representing all the states in which wool is an industry of special importance.

The near approach of the wool schedule in the senate's consideration of the tariff bill has caused the subject of the wool duties to receive unusual attention.

There was at one time a prospect of a Republican caucus last night on the subject, but it was decided instead, to present the claims of the wool men to the finance committee, with the hope that they would concede the increase asked.

Kidd's Lost Treasure.

Halifax, June 19.—F. J. Robinson, who returned yesterday from Chester, says all work has been stopped in the search for Captain Kidd's treasure at Oak island, through the breaking of the pumps as the gear has fallen into the pit and the water has come in. There was no box found as reported. He says the point where the tunnel was discovered is 385 feet from the sea and the pit is 110 feet deep. The tunnel is square, and while many think it is of natural formation, there are others who have no doubt the stones near where the pit has been dug were placed there by hand.

Massachusetts Capital In Pennsylvania.

Easton, Pa., June 19.—The Easton, Palmer and Bethlehem Street Railway company, with a capital stock of $150,000, has been granted a charter for a road between Easton and Bethlehem. W. B. Ferguson of Boston is the president and Charles E. Barnes of Plymouth, Mass., treasurer. Among the directors is C. A. Richardson of Boston. The incorporators include Frank E. Lowe, Greenfield, Mass.; Michael P. McGrath, George A. Murch and Wesley A. Kendall, Worcester, Mass., and Sumner Murrick of Boston.

Correspondent Acquittod.

Washington, June 19.—The jury, under orders from Judge Bradley, yesterday afternoon brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of E. J. Edwards, the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, on trial for contempt of the senate sugar trust investigating committee. The ground was that Edwards had never been legally summoned. District Attorney Davis gave notice that he would call up the cases of Brokers Macartney and Seymour, the last of the recusant witnesses, on Monday next.

Failed to Agree.

Detroit, June 19.—The National Association of Burial Case Manufacturers went out of existence yesterday afternoon after a life of 20 years. Just on what point the members disagreed is known only to those on the inside, and they will not tell. It is believed that the members were unable to agree upon questions of fixing and sticking to prices in competition with outside manufacturers.

GEMS IN VERSE.

The Ottoman Empire.

Let fall the ruin propped by Europe's hands.
Its tottering walls are but a nest of crime.
Slayers and ravishers in licensed bands
Swarm darkly forth to shame the face of time.

False, imbecile and cruel, kept in place
Not by its natural force, but by the fears
Of foes, with hand on hilt, even by the grace
Of rivals, not blood guiltless all these years

Aye, let the ruin fall, and from its stones
Rebuild a civic temple pure and fair,
Where freedom is not alien, where the groans
Of dying and ravished burden not the air.
—Richard Watson Gilder in Century.

Scandal.

A woman to the holy father went.
Confession of sin was her intent.
And so her misdemeanors, great and small,
She faithfully rehearsed them all,
And, chiefest in her catalogue of sin,
She owned that she a talebearer had been
And borne a bit of scandal up and down
To all the long tongued gossips in the town.
The holy father for her other sin
Granted the absolution asked of him;
But, while for all the rest he pardon gave,
He told her this offense was very grave,
And that to do fit penance she must go
Out by the wayside where the thistles grow
And gather the largest, ripest one,
Scatter the seeds, and that when this was done
She must come back again another day
To tell him his commands she did obey.
The woman, thinking this a penance light,
Hastened to do his will that very night,
Feeling right glad she had escaped so well.
Next day but one she went the priest to tell.
The priest sat still and heard her story through
And said: "There's something still for you to do.
Those little thistle seeds which you have sown
I bid you to regather, every one."
The woman said: "But, father, 'twould be in vain
To try to gather up those seeds again.
The winds have scattered them both far and wide
Over the meadowed vale and mountain side.'
The father answered: "Now, I hope from this
The lesson I have taught you will not miss.
You cannot gather back the scattered seeds,
Which far and wide will grow to noxious weeds,
Nor can the mischief once by scandal sown
By any penance be again undone."

The Little Girl That Grew Up.

She was sitting up straight in a straight backed chair.
There wasn't a snarl in her shining hair,
There wasn't a speck on her dainty dress,
And her rosy face was full of distress.

When I drew near to this maiden fair,
She suddenly rumpled her shining hair,
And, dropping down "in a heap" on the floor,
Uplifted her voice in a wail most sore.

"Now, what is the matter, my pretty maid?'
"I'm all grown up!" she dolefully said.
"And I'm lonesome, as lonesome as lonesome can be,
For Humpty Dumpty and Riddle-Me-Ree.

"There's Little Boy Blue, who used to creep
Under our haystack and fall asleep.
He isn't my friend since mother dear
Did up' my hair in this twist so queer.

"And the Dog and the Fiddle, they left me, too,
When the baby into a woman grew.
The Dish has hidden away with the Spoon,
And the Cow has staid at the back of the Moon!

"The Little-Old-Woman-Who-Swept-the-Sky
Is caught in her cobwebs high and dry,
And Jack and his Beanstalk I cannot find
Since I began to improve my mind.

"I wouldn't be scared, not a single mite,
If the Bugaboo I should meet tonight.
The Bogy Man I'd be glad to see,
But they'll never—no, never—come back to me!

"I watched in the garden last night at dark
A fairy favor to find; but, hark!
My mother is calling—don't you hear?—
'Young ladies don't sit on the floor, my dear.'"

Israel—I took it so ez ter keep from buyin a gold brick every spring.—New York Herald.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. SPALDING SURPRISED.

Ex-President of Globe Savings Bank Acquitted of Embezzlement.

Chicago, June 19.—Charles W. Spalding, ex-president of the defunct Globe Savings bank and ex-treasurer of the state university, was yesterday acquitted of the charge of embezzlement. The verdict was a general surprise, as the instructions to the jury left scarcely any chance for acquittal. The first words uttered by Spalding after the verdict had been read in court were:

CHARLES W. SPALDING.

"Well, this is a surprise."

The specific charge against him was the converting of $7000 worth of the bonds of the Pittsfield school district, in Pike county. These bonds were hypothecated with the Metropolitan National bank of this city to secure a loan of $6750. Spalding owes his acquittal to a single word in the statute. That word is "intent." The jurors could not become reconciled to the proposition that the ex-treasurer of the University of Illinois intentionally embezzled the bonds of that institution. Six ballots were taken. After being taken back to jail, Spalding said:

"I must admit that it did surprise me some at first. After all the jury took the view of it urged by my counsel, and as the prosecution showed no criminal intent, the jury was bound to acquit me."

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At New Bedford—

The Bostons were defeated yesterday because they could not bat "Doc" Sechrist at the proper time. They played listlessly in the field and in running bases. Stivetts was no great puzzle for the home team, and their fielding work was gilt edged. New Bedford is jubilant over defeating a Boston league team, the first time since 1878.

The man who neglects his health for the sake of the excitement of work and money-getting, is dancing with Death. It is a dance in which Death always comes out victor. If a man will only spare enough time to take care of health, to eat, and rest and sleep properly, and when he feels slightly indisposed will resort to the right remedy, he may work as hard as he pleases, and pile up money steeple high, without fear of untimely death.

The worst enemy with which hard-working men have to contend is a disordered digestion. It is the starting point for most sickness and disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents sickness and disease. Its use insures a hearty appetite, and healthful, restful sleep. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and purifies the blood. It tones the nerves. It makes pure, rich blood, builds firm healthy flesh, and strong, elastic muscle. The man who resorts to it whenever he feels out of sorts, may, within reason, work as hard as he pleases. Druggists sell it.

"Enclosed please find 21 one-cent stamps," writes James Trent, of Clarendon, Donley Co., Texas, "for which please send me a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers. I have been taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood and think it is the best blood-purifier in existence."

One of the best-known of American medical men said: "If you want to reform a man, begin with his grandfather." That would be wise if it could be done. Since it cannot be done, try something else. Reform the future grandfathers and grandmothers. Do this through education. The greatest thing for a man or woman to know is himself or herself. To know one-half the capabilities and disabilities of the human body is a liberal education. A good start for this education is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Any one can have this finely illustrated 1000-page book for the small price of twenty-one one-cent stamps. This is simply to pay for mailing. If you would like the book in fine cloth binding instead of paper, send thirty-one stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOUGHS NECK.

Great Rejoicing Because of a Pleasant Holiday.

We are now having some grand weather at the beach, and the summer colony is taking on new life.

Many of the yachts of the Quincy Yacht club left this morning for the open regatta in Dorchester bay this afternoon. About $200 are offered in prizes and the Quincy flyers will doubtless capture some of it.

Postmaster Dunham will soon put on the noon mail both ways, and also a Sunday afternoon mail to Quincy and Boston.

The DAILY LEDGER desires a bright young man as correspondent at the beach; one who will keep the paper posted on the daily happenings at the shore: the arrival of cottagers, guests, yachting, incidents, accidents, parties, etc. A compensation will be paid. Address, City Editor, LEDGER office, Quincy.

Some twenty-nine Unioners gathered at Eben Prescott's cottage, Manet beach, Thursday, the seventeenth. One of the best outings that they ever held was the sentiment of all.

The Weedon club, of Brockton, go to Houghs Neck by barge this afternoon, returning home Sunday night.

Charged With Larceny.

A peculiar case came to light in the District court this morning, when Mary S. Trainor was arraigned for the larceny of $200 from Norah Madigan, administratrix of the estate of Ellen M. Leahy, who died in Quincy last September.

It is alleged that early last year the Leahy women was taken sick with a cancer, and as no one would take care of her, Mrs. Trainor took her in and nursed her some nine months, or until she died. Before the Leahy woman died Mrs. Trainor claims that the woman gave her the money to pay for her nursing.

After her death the Madigan woman was appointed administratrix and now she seeks to recover the $200 through a criminal process.

The newest shirt waist is a thing of many tucks or pleats. The tucks, which are usually an inch wide, or even narrower, run horizontally over the entire waist. The newest sleeves are the shape of a man's coat sleeve, and are formed by a succession of the same width tucks that appear on the waist. Another equally smart shirt waist is crossed and counter-crossed by clusters of three tiny tucks, forming the effect of a large plaid.

The idea of having memorial wreaths on the altar on Children's Sunday to the memory of those who have passed away during the year, is a pretty courtesy to the dead and to their families. The two white wreaths and the pink one at First church Sunday brought back to the living, sweet memories of those who had last year been among them.

Perhaps It Is True.

London, June 19.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Chronicle declares that President McKinley has instructed General Stewart L. Woodford, the minister-elect to Spain, to demand reparation and indemnity for the death of the late Dr. Ruiz and to intimate to Spain that if she refuses to grant freedom to Cuba she must be prepared to yield it by force, which would mean terrible sacrifice of men and money. The Daily Chronicle, alluding editorially to the receipt of this dispatch, says: We wait for confirmation before commenting upon this startling communication.

Cyclone In Illinois.

Chicago, June 19.—A cyclone passed over southern Illinois, eastern Indiana and western Kentucky, doing great damage at Lincoln, Ills. The home for feeble minded children was demolished and 25 inmates were buried in the debris. Four of the children were taken out dead and others will die. Several fatalities are reported from Kentucky and Indiana.

Castle Square Theatre.

The continued success of the company of players at the Castle Square theatre is one of the best possible evidences of the good judgment of the management in establishing the organization there as the summer season attraction. The members of the organization have become prime favorites with the amusement public of Boston, and the audiences continue to be limited only by the capacity of the big auditorium. Director Tony Cummings has made a capital selection for the attraction of the coming week, a double bill being announced consisting of Gilbert's delightful comedy in two acts, "Sweethearts," followed by Joseph Deirick's laughable three-act comedy of "Confusion." Mr. J. H. Gilmour and Miss Elizabeth Halloway are to be seen as the Mr. Henry Spreadbrow and Miss Jenny Northcott in Gilbert's "Sweethearts" and the cast for "Confusion" is made up of many favorites. Some very attractive stage settings have been prepared for these productions by Messrs. Ansel Cook and Ben Craig. This bill holds the stage only a single week and will be followed on Monday, June 28th, by Joseph Crismer's "The New South."

basques or no basque at all, and the sleeves are also of moderate size. A new and favored style of bodice is a short coat cut similar to a figaro, but longer and in one piece, with seams only on the shoulder. A smart blouse or vest of bright satin and corselet belt—now so much to the fore—with rolled collar of velvet or kid give the proper finish to such a costume. A great deal of attention is also bestowed on the revers collars and waistcoats worn with tailor coats and skirts to make them as becoming as possible.

A costume in black and white check has a bolero bodice with revers in white cloth braided with black. There is a full front collar and waistband of rose colored foulard. A popular tailor gown is one made in gray cloth, with double breasted coat, very narrow, to allow of its being worn either open or closed. There are under revers of white or dove colored cloth. In other gowns there are over revers of white. One style is as fashionable as the other.

While zouave or eton jackets are the dominant idea, there seems to be a reaction in favor of coats made rather long and perfectly plain in the basque, without fullness, the back being finished by two buttons at the waist. Tailor made suits are also made with the loose fronted coat, which admits of the wearing of all sorts of lace and silk undervests.

The most attractive of all walking dresses are, perhaps, the tailor made ones that employ linen crash. Sometimes cloth and crash are combined in one suit.

Warm Weather Bedspreads.

The most elegant and dressy bedspreads for the warm season are of embroidered muslin. These come with initials elaborately worked in the center and a border all round, edged with lace. The spread is long enough to cover the bolster roll as well, though a piece for this may be had separate. The best and most expensive of these spreads come woven in the requisite bed sizes, but they may be very acceptably secured from two lengths of embroidered skirt muslin, the edges joined through the center. When the muslin is bought for this purpose, a pattern with a scalloped edge is best, as the points may be effectively overlapped, concealing the joining. Valances are still a matter of taste, though for brass and iron bedsteads they seem a necessity. The sheer dress organdies, with their beautiful all over patterns of flowers and vines, make very attractive summer bedspreads, put on over a cambric spread of solid color or white.

Headquarters For Women.

No little interest has been aroused by a woman's project for a 20 story building to be erected in New York as a sort of headquarters for the women of the metropolis and of America. The idea, explains The Puritan, is to have a building where women can find offices, shops and all the conveniences they require, such as Turkish baths, hairdressers, dressmakers, milliners, manicures, doctors and lawyers. One of the features will be a clearing house or registration bureau for all women's clubs, local, national or international. There will also be a theater, a restaurant, large and small clubrooms and halls for dances and receptions. It is said that plans for the building have been drawn by a woman, and the architects chosen to superintend its erection are two graduates of the School of Applied Design For Women.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR.

The drummer who sees his trade in the northern neck of Virginia by going down the Potomac on a steamboat and doing the rest of it via a buckboard was talking the other night on the steamer bound for the field of his labors.

"Four weeks ago," he said, "on one of those warm days I was driving in toward Kinsdale, and when about three miles from town I ran upon a combination which was as surprising as it was unaccountable. About 50 yards ahead of me I saw a tramp sitting in the shade on the bank of a brook that babbled softly through a fence and slipped quietly across the road. He was gazing at something as if spellbound, which, upon coming nearer, I saw was his traveling companion washing his dirty face in the stream and spluttering like a porpoise. It was evident the spluttering had awakened the tramp on the bank, and the sight that met his gaze had fascinated him as a basilisk might charm. The road was so sandy that I was within speaking and hearing distance of them and they had not heard me.

"'Hully chee, Muggins,' ejaculated the one on the bank when he had recovered sufficiently from his astonishment to speak; 'but what on de eart' er youse doin dere?'

"'It's like dis,' spluttered the other as he rose, dripping like Venus from the sea and blew the water out of his mouth, 'I hears somebody a-sayin in de noospapers dat dere wasn't nuttin worse'n work, an I'm jis' seein if it's de trut'.'"—Washington Star.

His Mistake.

"I am laying up my treasures in heaven," he asserted.

"If you anticipate drawing upon them after death," she said, "I would not waste time laying them up there."

It was her tone and not her words, however, that told him that she intended to marry some one who had a few laid up on earth.—Chicago Post.

Their Way.

A Matrimonial Note.

A Georgia paper says: "A girl in this place says her mother has promised to give her $1,000 if she will get married and keep quiet about the whole affair until it is over. The lady applicant at the heavenly gates having satisfactorily answered the questions put to her, St. Peter then remarked:

"You may put on these wings, madam."

"Wings?" she repeated—"'96 or '97 model?"—New York Journal.

The Test.

"Are you sure these corsets are unbreakable?" asked the doubting customer.

VICTORIAN JUBILEE BEGINS WITH PRAYER

Thanksgiving Services Held Throughout United Kingdom.

IMPRESSIVE SCENE AT WINDSOR.

Queen and Royal Family Attend St. George Chapel.

SPECIAL PSALMS AND PRAYER

Notable Gathering of Royalty and Foreign Ambassadors at St. Paul's Cathedral—Her Majesty Arrives In London.

London, June 21.—It was consistent with the entire life of Queen Victoria to have begun her jubilee before the altar of her faith. And of all the altars within her empire that in front of which she kneels in ever closer and closer touch with the past is the altar at Windsor. There at 11 o'clock yesterday the queen offered solemn thanksgiving to the Almighty.

The scene was most impressive.

The announcement that the services at St. George's chapel would be private and for the members of the royal family prevented the gathering of a large crowd.

The scene was most impressive and the services very simple. Her majesty sat in the chair of state, immediately in front of the communion rail and just beside the brass plate whose inscription designated the spot which was the temporary place of interment of the prince consort.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

The ladies and gentlemen who are the grand officers of the queen's household entered first, followed by the military Knights of Windsor in full costume of cocked hats and scarlet coats. The Duke of Devonshire and Lord Rosebery occupied their stalls as Knights of the Garter. The rest of the choir was empty, the seats of the royal family being near the queen's.

The Dean of Windsor, wearing the insignia of chaplain of the order of the Garter, officiated, assisted by the lord bishop of Barry and several cannons.

Punctually at 11 o'clock, amid the soft strains of an organ voluntary, the queen arrived from the cloisters at the entrance. Assisted by her Indian attendant, she walked slowly to the chair of state, the congregation standing. She was dressed all in black, except for the white tuft in her bonnet. The Empress Frederick of Germany, attired in deep black, took the seat at the right of the queen, while the Duke of Connaught, wearing his Windsor uniform, seated himself at her left. The others seated themselves closely behind, and looked very like a simple family of worshipers. Among them were the Duchess of Connaught, Prince Henry of Prussia and Princess Henry. Prince Christian and Princess Christian, with their children, Princess Henry of Battenberg, Grand Duke Sergius and Grand Duchess.

After the first collect a special collect was read, and instead of the usual prayer for the queen and royal family two special prayers were substituted, containing the following:

Almighty God, who ruleth over all the kingdoms of the world and disposeth of them according to Thy good pleasure, we yield Thee unfeigned thanks for that Thou wast pleased to place Thy servant, our sovereign lady, Queen Victoria, upon the throne of this realm. Let Thy wisdom be her guide and let Thine arm strengthen her, let justice, truth and holiness, let peace and love flourish in her days. Direct her counsels and endeavors to Thy glory and the welfare of her people, and give us grace to obey her sheerfully for conscience. Let her always possess the hearts of her people, let her reign be long and prosperous, and crown her with immortality in the life to come.

There was no sermon, but a special hymn, written by Rt. Rev. William Walsham, lord bishop of Wakefield, with music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, was sung at her majesty's request. The third verse was as follows:

O, royal heart, with wide embrace,
For all her children yearning!
Oh happy realm, such mother-grace,
With loyal love returning!
Where England's flag flies wide unfurled,
All tyrant wrongs repelling,
God make the world a better world,
For man's brief earthly dwelling.

Before the benediction this special thanksgiving was offered.

O Lord, our Heavenly Father, we give Thee hearty thanks for the many blessings which Thou have bestowed upon us during the 60 years of the happy reign of our gracious Queen Victoria. We thank Thee for the progress made in knowledge of Thy marvelous works, for increase of comfort given to human life, for kindlier feeling between rich and poor, for wonderful preaching of the gospel to many nations, and we pray Thee that these and all Thy other gifts may be long continued to us and to our queen, to the glory of Thy holy name, through Jesus Christ, our Lord, amen.

At the end there was a pause, the queen, with bowed head, continued in silent prayer. Then followed a touching scene which will ever linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. Summoning the Empress Frederick, who bowed low at her side, the queen kissed her on both cheeks. The Duke of Connaught and the others of the royal family followed, receiving a similar token of affection. In many cases the recipient was kissed many times.

The queen was profoundly moved and the tears rolled down her cheeks. At last, and evidently with great reluctance, she beckoned her Indian attendant, and, leaning on his arm, passed slowly out of the chapel, the entire congregation standing, the soft light falling through the multi-colored windows, and the exquisite strains of the organ rising and swelling beneath the gothic bannered roof.

It was a scene never to be forgotten and thrilled all present with a strong emotion.

Two Services at St. Paul's.

There were two services at St. Paul's cathedral, at 11 a. m. and at 3 p. m.

Immense crowds filled all the approaches to the cathedral at the morning service, anxious to catch a glimpse of the royalties and distinguished personages who were announced to be present, including all the Protestant envoys. The first to arrive and to be recognized with the greatest interest were the archbishop of Finland, in purple and black vestments, accompanied by two deacons, and General Kirreef, in full uniform. Then followed Chang Ying Huan, the Chinese envoy, in gorgeous Celestial garments. He was escorted to the choir, where were seated the envoys of the United States, Russia, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Brazil and Hawaii. Whitelaw Reid, with Ambassador Hay and Mrs. Hay, General Miles, Ogden Mills, Creighton Webb, Captain Maus and Captain Macauley, came in royal carriages.

The members of the royal family arrived punctually and were received, as they drove through the streets to the cathedral, with the profoundest respect. Among them were the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Cambridge, the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Prince Charles of Denmark and the Princess Charles, Prince Albert of Prussia, the Grand Duke and Duchess of Hesse, the Grand Duke Cyril of Russia, Prince Waldemar of Denmark, Prince Eugene of Sweden, the Grand Duke of Luxemburg and the Prince and Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse.

The queen is now in London. An immense crowd that gathered near Paddington station in the early hours of this morning waited with stolid patience.

The early hours were enlivened by the pealing of bells, and in the morning breeze everywhere floated the royal standard. At 11 o'clock the queen left Windsor Castle. "The Queen's Train"—used for the first time today—was drawn up close to the entrance door. The magnificent engine, "Queen Empress," beautifully painted and picked out with gold leaf, carried the royal arms, emblazoned in gold and colors in front adn royal heraldic devices over the splashboards of the driving wheels. The train was composed of six carriages, built on the American corridor system.

Almost the entire distance the train passed between scattered groups of loyal people. Every station of the Great Western between Windsor and Paddington had been decorated. The railway employes everywhere stood at the salute, while the platforms were crowded with cheering people.

Paddington was reached at 11:55. Here the immense terminus had been transformed on the "up side" into a hall of resplendent crimson, garlanded with fringe gold, fragrant with the odors of countless blossoms, walled on either side by parterres of people. The state carriages from Buckingham palace were at the end of the covered way. As soon as the queen had taken her seat the life guards drew up in front and rear, and a roar of cheers proclaimed to waiting thousands beyond that she had arrived.

From the station to Buckingham the route was tenanted by an immense assemblage. Every window had its occupants, every roof its sightseers, every available space in the street and square, sidewalk and gardens, the paths and chairs, and even the trees and railings of the parks, were black with loyal humanity. The queen drove slowly to gratify her people. Her face everywhere loosened the voice of the multitude. In unrestrained strength the rich and tumultuous expression of loyalty and affection broke forth. Volleys of cheers rose clearly above the constant roar of acclamation. Hats were thrown in the air, handkerchiefs waved in welcome, everyone vied with his neighbor in active demonstration of loyalty and delight.

Nearing Piccadilly the queen saw for the first time the conspicuous evidence of what had been prepared for the morrow. The grim grey walls of Apsley House were gone in a profusion of decoration, the grandstand at the side and front of it garlanded with flowers, flags and mottoes, stood crowded with some of the queen's nobility, no less exuberant in their welcome than that from the packed windows and roof of St. George's hospital and the stands in front, full of the queen's commoners.

Through Burton's gate the queen passed on to the garden entrance of Buckingham palace, always between the living lane of her subjects, always the object of endless homage and salvoes of cheers, which continued until the gates had shut the queen from view.

Boston Celebrates

Boston, June 21.—Patriotic Americans joined with loyal Englishmen yesterday in observing the 60th anniversary of the sovereignty of Queen Victoria. From scores of pulpits reference was made to the honored ruler of the British empire and to the longest reign in English history. The glorious career of this highly respected and venerable woman furnished a fruitful theme for a Sunday discourse, and in the devotional part of the services prayers were offered for continued years of health and usefulness for her gracious majesty.

OFFICER NEARLY KILLED.

An Italian Street Brawl at South Framingham. Local Militia Called Out.

South Framingham, Mass., June 12.—A street brawl by drunken Italian laborers, the attempted arrest of one of them by officers, one of whom was nearly killed, led to the calling out of the local militia company yesterday morning. The Italians came into town here on the train from Natick just after midnight, and four of them had a savage fight on Waverly street. Officers Robert Trace and David Bastien made an attempt to stop the fight by warning the men to go home peaceably. But this they would not do, so the officers attempted to arrest one of the ringleaders. The scrimmage was a short and fierce one, for all the Italians set upon the officers in the attempt to rescue the arrested men, and Officer Bastien was badly wounded with a bottle of beer. The officer's skull was fractured. Officer Trace could not hold his prisoner, who was dragged away and out of sight, all the Italians taking to their heels. Officer Trace fired three shots in the direction of the fleeing men, but none took effect.

Shortly before 3 o'clock the police sounded the militia alarm on the bells and steam whistles, but as rain was pouring in torrents few of the soldiers turned out. The object was to scour the town for the assailants of Officer Bastien, and this meant the surrounding of the Italian colony here. The militiamen who responded accompanied the police force and a number of citizens to "Dog's Nest," as the colony is known, where a house to house canvass was made. Three men were arrested, two of whom Officer Trace identified as the men in the fight. They were taken to the police station and will be held to await the result of Officer Bastien's injuries. The hospital physicians report Mr. Bastien's condition as hopeless.

Children's Day.

Children's day was observed at the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday. At the morning service the pastor preached especially to the children from Malachi, 4:6, making particular note of children sharing their pleasures and disappointment with their parents, instead of young companions. At four o'clock occured the concert, under the direction of Mrs. M. M. Manning. The singing by five young boys were especially good and the infant class selections greatly appreciated. The church quartette, assisted the school and also gave several numbers. The decorations were decidedly novel, the choir being hidden behind a wall of green, while on the platform was a brook running through a little dell under trees and among flowers. The effect was very picturesque and the falling of water, over stones made a pleasant sound.

Y. M. C. A. Team at Springfield.

Tom Greenough and George Maver competed at the Y. M. C. A. games at Springfield Saturday. Greenough finished third in both the 100 yard and 440 yard runs, being within a foot of the winner of the 100 yard, whose time was 10 2-5 seconds. Maver was running well in the mile run when he sprained his ankle; he got fourth place in the shot put, losing third by 2 feet, his put being 38 feet 9 inches. This is the first time Quincy has been represented at any of the Y. M. C. A. meets and the men made a better showing than was expected, as they have been unable to practice with the wet weather. The team will continue to practice at the Academy grounds Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Duck's Nest.

The well-known Duck's Nest alleys at Wollaston have been greatly enlarged and improved this spring. The main room has been increased to almost double its former size, the billiard and pool tables having been moved towards the end of the alleys. This gives quite a large space for the office and also increases the capacity of the spectators' seats along the sides of the alleys. Mr. Williams has also fitted up a large, finely furnished room for the use of the Sportsmen's club, which is composed of well-known gunners, fishermen and yachtsmen. The large reading table in this room is supplied with the best current literature.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Odd Fellows Pay Tribute to Deceased Members.

Attend Services in a Body at Bethany Church.

Address on "Fraternity," a Poem and Necrology.

It is the annual custom of Odd Fellows lodges to observe a memorial day for deceased brothers. Often these services are in the lodge room, but of late Mount Wollaston lodge has held exercises of a more public character in one of the churches, This year they invited Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, the pastor of Bethany Congregational church, to address them, and it was arranged to unite the memorial service with the regular evening service of the church.

The lodge invited the members of John Hancock lodge of Wollaston, and Crescent of Weymouth, Manet encampment and all lodge encampment and canton members to accompany them, and the organizations assembled early at Odd Fellows hall. Marching from the hall about 7.15, the procession formed on Temple street, and numbered about 125. Headed by a drum corps they marched round the Stone church, and at Bethany church found a large number assembled, including many Rebekah degree members, and it was necessary to open the gallery to accommodate the congregation.

The organ voluntary was by Mr. C. C. Bradford, and the church choir sang "Arise, shine for thy light has come" by Lloyd. The pastor led in the responsive reading from the 19th Psalm. Another anthem by the choir, "Softly now the light of day" by Schilling, was followed by scripture reading by Rev. Edgar W. Preble of the Universalist church.

A feature of the service was the necrology by Bro. John O. Hall. During the year two members of the lodge have passed away: James P. Jones, Dec. 8, and Geo. L. Miller, Feb. 14. Bro. Hall spoke tenderly of their virtues and the attachments which endeared them to the members. Mr. Jones was born in England in 1838; he came to this country when 17 to 18 years old, and learned the trade of stone cutting at Quincy; he married in 1869 or 1870, and became an Odd Fellow in 1874. Mr. Miller was born in Quincy, and also became a stone cutter and later entered business for himself; he became an Odd Fellow in 1884, and upon his death left a widow and family. Both were quiet, faithful and accomplished workmen of sturdy principles. Bro. Jones was a sufferer for years from asthma, but patient through it all. Bro. Miller met with reverses in his last days from business depression, but with a brave determination to overcome. But flesh is weak and final victory of character over life must be sought in another world. A beautiful thought in verse closed the address.

After prayer by Rev. Mr. Preble, Mr. Lewis Griffiths rendered as a solo, "The Vacant Chair," and then came a poem by Mr. Preble which is reproduced in full:

The Three Gold Links.

They're only three, three tiny golden links
Threaded together in a mystic chain,
To tell how men by friendship, love and truth,
May keep alive fraternal springs of youth,
And brother help from brother may obtain.

They're only three, three emblematic rings
Forged from the purest gold friendship supplies,
Strong with the strength of truth and bright with love
They shine upon us like the stars above,
And show us where the path of duty lies.

They're only three, three humble clasps of gold,
But they are more, than best the monarch wears,
For worn by Knights of human brotherhood,
In wars for charity and human good,
It is the badge that Christian manhood bears.

They're only three, three slender golden bonds,
But never one shall break or dwell apart,
For they are symbols of the stronger bands,
That clasp our lives with firm and unseen hands,
And hold each brother to a brother's heart.

They're only three, three interwoven ties,
But they unite us with the loved and gone,
And memory's fingers through the mystic chain,
Touch hands and hearts, the vanished ones again,
And so their lives with ours run on and on.

They're only three, three tiny golden links,
And yet they stretch from ocean shore to shore,
Binding in one and holding ever fast,
The dear old friends, the present and the past,
And making death but life forevermore.

After a hymn came the address of the evening by Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, the pastor of the church. He said at the outset he did not consider it necessary to extend a welcome, for the doors of this church were always open. His subject was "Fraternity." He said that the most dreaded punishment was solitary confinement, as man was a social being. When one seeks a solitary life he become a Rip Van Winkle. The human heart responds best where there is the warm clasp of the hand. He who loses fraternity loses manhood. The best definition of fraternity is not found in Webster, but in the word of God is the fullest and most complete definition. It is found in the Golden Rule; in the royal law also—"Thou shall love thy neighbor as thyself;" and our great teacher has another: "Love one another as I have loved you."

Our ideal is Christ. He is the recognized leader. There can be no fraternity in the commercial idea. Fraternity can not be selfish. Selfishness is the worst thing that can come upon us. In fraternity there seems to be a paradox, something against self preservation. It is natural all should strive to make the most of oneself. But we soon discover that a brother is striving for the same goal. Shall we help the brother when we are striving to excel him? Fraternity and self culture meet here. We are willing to do most anything for liberty, but with it we enter the bondage of fraternity.

There is no fraternal love unless a person is regenerated. Society is made out of that kind of material. The progress is along two lines: development of individual and of organization. There is no fraternity unless based on a true man. We have reached the era of combination. All feel the need of fraternity.

Mr. Hardy made an appeal for Christian fraternity. The work of Odd Fellowship is in accord with the work of the church. Odd Fellowship however is among a select few; the church among all conditions. If you have the fraternal spirit the church ought to count on your cooperation. Some of your members are connected with the churches, but why not all? With fraternity you should be foremost workers in the church. Cooperation was often asked in vain, but this meeting tonight was along the right line. Let us recognize the source from which fraternity comes. Work together and reorganize society.

After the benediction the organizations marched to Odd Fellows' hall and were dismissed.

The lodge has been organized thirteen years and the list of dead numbers 20, as follows:

Queen's Jubilee.

At Christ's church Sunday morning the Rector, Rev. Walter Russell Breed, preached a special sermon on the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, and among the music was the hymn "God Save the Queen." The address was an interesting one. At the evening service Mr. Breed spoke on "Our Indebtedness to England." He also read one of the prayers from the prayer book used in revolutionary times, from which the prayer to the Sovereign had been cut out, but had since been inserted again.

At the City Council meeting tonight there will be hearings on Quincy avenue location of the street railway, and the acceptance of Faxon road. Reports on the High school repair order, tax levy order, and several other matters.

Although Sunday was anything but pleasant the street railway carried a large crowd. The through cars on Sundays and holidays from Neponset to Nantasket beach are proving very popular and are patronized by many, simply for the beautiful ride.

That was a great "scoop" which the DAILY LEDGER had on all other papers on Saturday in reporting the Union church fire at East Braintree. The LEDGER was on sale at the fire before the apparatus left for home to the surprise of the people of Braintree and Weymouth.

The Hingham Journal in speaking of the reception to Rev. Charles H. Porter, Jr., at Hingham last week says, "An interesting feature of the occasion was the presence of the parents and sister of the minister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Porter of Quincy and Mrs. Illsley of Wollaston, who assisted the son and brother in receiving." That Mr. and Mrs. Porter have a daughter is astonishing news to Quincy people. Pretty good joke on Mrs. Illsley.

ANOTHER VICTORY.

The T. R. & S. Nine Win Again on the Final Spurt.

The T. R. & S. Co. nine defeated the S. P. T. A. S. of Brockton on Saturday in one of the most hotly contested games ever played at Merry Mount park. With the score 11 to 7 against them in the eight inning, the T. R. & S. by fine batting made 4 runs in the ninth innings making the score even, and four more in the tenth won the game by the score of 15 to 11. The features of the game were the fine batting of the home team, H. Faircloth leading, and the fine fielding of the T. R. & S. outfield. Barry of the visitors put up a fine game in the field and Smith batted well.

The score :—

Riversides, 19; North Weymouths, 14.

The Riversides went to North Weymouth on Saturday and played an interesting game with the local club. The Quincy club took the lead in the second innings, but soon lost it and were behind until the seventh when they forged ahead and then clinched it, 19 to 14. The features of the game were the hitting of Gallagher, Sullivan and Mullane for the Riversides, Mac Isaac and Patch for the North Weymouths. Morrison pitched excellently for his first game this season, striking out not less than ten men, while Alden was hit frequently by the visitors.

The score by innings:

Riversides,	0	3	1	1	0	1	8	2	3	—19
North Weymouths,	0	2	3	1	0	2	4	1	1	—14

The Riversides are now ready to play on Saturday afternoons any uniform team whose ages average 16 to 17. Address James Sullivan, 3 Cottage avenue, Quincy.

Lawn Party.

The King's Daughters Hospital Ten held a most successful lawn party and sale on Saturday afternoon and evening at the beautiful grounds of Mr. T. A. Whicher on Adams street. The booths, at which home-made candy, aprons and lemonade were for sale, looked attractive in their decorations and the attendants in light gowns.

In the evening many Japanese lanterns added their beauty to the scene, sending their flickering light among the grand old elms.

Sixty or more dollars were received, and as this is over double what the young ladies set out to make they should be pleased with their success.

Woodward Graduation.

The graduation exercises of Woodward Institute for Girls will be after the programme of last year; an address, music and the presentation of diplomas. They will be held at the school building. The address will be by Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, D. D., of Providence, R. I., secretary of corporation of Brown University. Six young ladies will be graduated, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Helen Mitten, Miss Mabel McKenzie, Miss Eugenia Hatch, Miss Mabel Drew and Miss Annie Walsh. A class reception will be held on Wednesday evening, June 30.

THE CREWS COMPARED

Poughkeepsie Aquatic Colony Completed by the Arrival of Yale.

Relative Merits of Men Shown by Statistics.

Victor of 'Varsity Race Will Have a Hard Pull For It.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—Yale is here and the aquatic colony on the Hudson is complete at last. From now on there will be no occasion to guess or go by "inside reports" for the three crews most prominent in this year's battle afloat will now be seen breasting the same tide, topping the same seas and rowing under similar conditions. The arrival of Yale makes everything complete on the river, and now that she is here the big strip of water takes on additional interest and will be watched with keener interest than at any time since the first of the colony got here and put its boat for the first time into the water.

Outside of trainers' assistants and bull-dog mascots everybody deserted the training places. None of the crews rowed yesterday.

For the benefit and information of those desiring to know the points of the three crews to row in the big 'varsity race of Friday, June 25, these statistics are given:

Weight—There is a difference of 14½ pounds in the average weights of the crews. Yale is the heaviest and Cornell the lightest, with Harvard as a happy medium. If weight counts for endurance, then Yale has the advantage, but, on the contrary, Cornell, with the lightest crew on the river, won last year's race easily. Cornell is lighter than ever this year, the lately added youngsters who succeeded some heavy men being very light. For idealty Harvard's is the best. The average weights of the crew, exclusive of coxswains, are as follows:

Cornell, 159 pounds; Harvard, 169; Yale, 173½.

Endurance—Harvard suffered last year from lack of endurance, while the light Cornell crew finished in splendid shape, although judged by the college "experts" as being too light to possibly withstand the strain of four miles. It is generally conceded that Yale crews always finish strong, and that endurance is their best point. Harvard has trained this year to overcome last year's defeat, and it is not only possible, but probable, that the hard racing will be done in the last mile.

Starts—Both Harvard and Cornell have studied much on the starts, and both incline to a quick start, but an equally quick slow-down to a normal stroke. Yale catches water quickly, but swings down to an easy gait at once. If Harvard and Cornell get fighting in the first mile or two and keep up a fast stroke, Yale, with her easy swing, will win the race. Or, if Harvard and Yale put up a terrific contest in the first mile, Cornell will repeat her performance of last year.

Length of stroke—Harvard pulls the longest stroke and has the quickest recovery. Yale comes next and uses more body on the oar, but ships it more quickly for recovery. Cornell is about the same as last year, not quite so long as the present Harvard stroke, but snappier.

Boats and rigging—Cornell will use a new Watters' paper boat, but both Harvard and Yale will use cedar boats built in this country. The Cornell and Yale crews use the American swivel oarlock, but the Harvard crews use the English thole pin, and claim that they get much more power.

The program for the entire series of races is briefly as follows:

Wednesday, June 23—Two-mile race for freshmen of Yale, Harvard and Cornell, to be rowed up stream, between 4 and 5 o'clock p. m.

Friday, June 25—Four-mile race for 'varsity crews of Yale, Harvard and Cornell, to be rowed down stream, at 3:30 p. m. sharp.

Wednesday, June 30—Two-mile race, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, to be rowed down stream between 4 and 5 p. m.

Friday, July 2—Four-mile 'varsity race, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, to be rowed down stream between 4 and 5 p. m.

Expelled For Gambling.

New York, June 21.—Herman Warszawick, the Christianized Hebrew, who has been seeking admission into the Presbyterian church as a minister, and who for a long time had the support of Rev. Dr. John Hall of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, was yesterday publicly denounced before the congregation of that church as an immoral person and guilty of gambling. He was also suspended from the communion of the church. When the judgment was read to the fashionable congregation, Mrs. Warszawick, who was present, arose and declared in a loud voice that her husband was innocent. She was put out of the church, while the pastor announced a hymn to quiet the congregation.

Engine Derailed by Cows.

Lexington, Mass., June 21.—Engine 346 of the Boston and Maine railroad attached to a freight train running from Lowell to Bedford ran into and killed four cows that were upon the track near Bedford Springs, about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The engine broke from the train and was thrown into the ditch upon its side. Engineer Bushee was caught underneath it and badly though not fatally scalded. None of the cars left the rails. A wrecking train was sent from Boston and after several hours of hard work the engine, which was badly wrecked, was put back upon the iron and taken to Boston.

No Truth In Rumor.

Providence, June 21.—There is no truth in the rumor that Dr. Andrews has resigned or intends to resign the presidency of Brown university. Members of the corporation decline to discuss the matter further and there is no change in the situation since the brief allusion to the president's views at the recent meeting.

Kennel Club Show.

The open air show of the New England Kennel club at Braintree on Saturday was of more than passing interest, and many who would have been pleased to attend were not aware of the exhibition. However, all the dog fanciers knew it and 212 animals were on exhibition, making a very successful show. Terriers predominated, but there were St. Bernards, collies, poodles, pointers, setters, bull dogs and other breeds. Prizes were awarded to each variety, also the following specials.

Best non-sporting dog or bitch in show—Bulkeley Wells' bulldog Lord Yarmouth.

Best dog owned in Braintree, Randolph, or Brockton—Mrs. A. L. Evans' St. Bernard Daniel Webster.

Best bitch owned in Braintree, Randolph or Brockton—William N. Prest's Irish terrier Icy.

Best French bulldog in show—G. N. Phelps' M. Babot.

Best Welch terrier in show—Bulkeley Wells' Beaumariss Magdalen.

Best terrier in show over 1 year—Duchess kennels' Tot.

Best terrier puppy in show—Duchess kennels' Butte.

Best Boston terrier owned by members of the New England Kennel Club—Duchess kennels' Butte.

Best bulldog in show—Bulkeley Wells' Lord Yarmouth.

Best pointer in show—R. C. McQuillen's Betty M.

Best Boston terrier kennel—Duchess kennels.

Raids at Randolph.

Randolph officers put on their war paint Sunday and raided several places where it was supposed liquor was being sold. Liquor was seized as follows: John Sullivan, 8 gallons of beer, one gill of whiskey and a quantity of empty bottles etc.; James F. Pierce, 13½ gallons of beer, two gallons of whiskey and a quantity of empty bottles; Sarah Bean, 20½ gallons of beer, two quarts of whiskey and a quantity of empty bottles; John F. Burns, one quart of whiskey; Mary P. Gaynor, one gill of whiskey. The raiding officers were Knights, Payne, Holbrook and Stetson of Randolph, and Appleton, Pease, Goodwin, Boelard, Walker and Grey of Brockton.

—The Senate of the United States is composed, when all its seats are filled, of 90 members, representing 45 States. All seats, except the one for which Mr. Corbett of Oregon is a claimant, are now filled. It thus requires 45 votes to furnish a majority in the Senate. The recent statement by the Washington "Post" analyzing the membership politically shows that the Republicans have but 43, the Democrats 34, the Populists 7, and Silver Republicans 5. This shows that the Republicans have not a majority in the Senate, and cannot hope to have one during the present Congress.

—Two Ohio farmers, who live a couple of miles apart, have utilized a wire fence as a telephone wire. They purchased the instruments for $15, and now they talk to each other whenever they wish.

—The present ought to be a good opportunity to sell the stock of the proposed company to undertake the damming of Bell Isle Straits, a scheme that a bright Boston young man thinks would turn away from our coast the cold Arctic currents that are said to pass through the straits, delivering New England from east winds, and making it a veritable "Vineland." Who would not contribute a dime or a button for such a Utopian scheme?—Jamaica Plain News.

AN IDEAL HOME.

Well Built, Ornate, Convenient—Just the Thing For a Small Family.

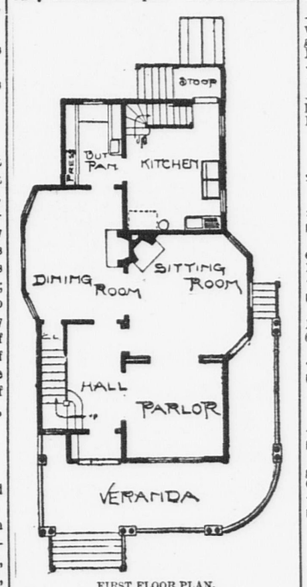

[Copyright, 1897, by George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.]

With the advent of spring we can safely renew the wish and desire for a home in the country. When the robins come back to familiar haunts and begin, amid merry carols, to build their nests, and the buds on the trees push forth, we are inspired and want more than piles of brick and mortar to look at. Nature will assert herself, and the springtime fills every breast with hope, which in turn leads the mind to yearn for something better. From such small beginnings the home nest may spring forth into reality. Many a happy home has had its beginning in a trip to the country in the genial springtime, and many a pleasant recollection has resulted from such a trip, even when the home nest has neither developed nor grown. Every one has his own dreams of a home, and many express themselves as to how these dreams are to be fulfilled. But how often the carrying out of dreams proves a failure!

PERSPECTIVE VIEW.

The building of a home is a matter of great importance, one that should be carefully deliberated upon. The cost should be kept in view, the plans properly thought out and every detail gone over with the utmost attention. This done, the goal is easily won, while the reverse ends invariably in wrecked hopes and disappointed aspirations. Many a journey toward the home nest I have seen end disastrously by overloading and a love of show that there were no means to foster. "Keep within your purse" is the only safe rule.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

This cottage was a springtime creation and was built on the lines of reason and on the safe side of a bank account. It stands today an ideal home, soundly constructed and the pride of its owner.

It is 27 feet wide and 42 feet deep, exclusive of the veranda, has a stone cellar under the entire house, front and back stairs, two finished attic rooms, open plumbing, furnace, range, tubs and open fireplaces in the sitting and dining rooms and is piped for gas. It is replete with good points and full of comfort for its occupants. It is a true country home, and hundreds like it could be put up to good advantage and as many hundred families live in them and enjoy a life of happiness and contentment.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Placing Shade Trees.

The location of the shade trees will be determined by the frontage of the lot, whether to the north, south, east or west, and the character of the trees chosen. Trees that grow large are not suitable for small lots and should never be planted so close that at maturity their branches will come in contact with the house. As our greatest need for protection is from the south and west, shade trees should be placed to the south and west of the house. When the lot points north, as half the lots on east and west streets must, the shadow of the house for the greater part of the day will cover a great part of the front. This fact should be borne in mind in selecting plants for such lots.—Exchange.

A Handy Compartment.

A secret compartment in a closet floor for the concealment of small articles of value can easily be made by boxing in a small space between two joists and cutting the floor boards so as to form a trap.—Exchange.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Scrofula, which is hereditary and deep-seated in the blood can be cured by P. P. P. It is the one and only positive cure for this dread disease.

Sufferers from kidney troubles find immediate relief when they take P. P. P. as it cures all irregularities and restores to nature her proper functions.

LEADERS PERTURBED.

Republican Senators Differ on Wool and Tobacco Schedules.

Believed That Debate Will Soon Be Ended.

Democrats Say They Have Ceased Obstructing Progress of Bill.

Washington, June 21.—From present indications the tariff debate in the senate will end somewhat sooner than was expected. The Republican leaders will be able to tell the latter part of the week when the bill will go on to its final passage. There are still many rocky places to get over, however, and delays may be encountered which are now unexpected.

As a matter of fact the difficulty of adjusting differences of the Republican party is causing the managers more perplexity at present than is the open opposition to the bill in the senate. It has been found almost impossible to harmonize the contending forces among Republicans on the tobacco and wool schedule. The differences on tobacco have been compromised, though not to the satisfaction of all concerned, and if there should be another caucus before the tobacco schedule is taken up in the senate the question is liable to be reopened there.

It is Senator Allison's purpose to press the wood schedule forward to a close. Hence it will be impossible to postpone for a very much longer time the settlement of the differences on this question. It is expected that if the committee should not be able to announce a determination today the matter will be referred to an early caucus, or a caucus may be called if the committee fixes a rate that is not satisfactory to the wool men. There is little doubt that an advance will be conceded by the committee, but the question of interest is whether the increase will be all that the wool men demand.

The wool schedule will, of course, give rise to an animated debate, but the Democratic senators say there is no disposition on their part to needlessly prolong it. There are also numerous articles on the free list and in the "sundry" schedule to which will arouse differences of opinion, and if the Republicans don't withdraw the internal revenue features of the bill there will be a sharp clash over this. They are practically decided, however, to retreat from these provisions. It is also practically determined that the house provision in regard to Hawaiian sugar will be continued pending the disposition of the Hawaiian annexation treaty.

For the rest the question of reciprocity and the problem presented by the trusts in connection with the tariff are still undetermined by the Republicans themselves, but there is no doubt that there will be more or less general debate upon any proposition agreed to when presented in the senate.

The program in the house will be the same as during past weeks. There will be two sessions, one today and another on Thursday.

Many Thousands In Chorus.

Philadelphia, June 21.—The 18th annual national sangerfest of the Northeastern Saangerbund opens in this city today and there is every indication that it will be the most mammouth musical event of the kind ever held in this country. The societies which will participate in the festival come from all the larger cities in the Eastern portion of the United States and the mass choruses which will form a distinguishing feature of the fest are made up from selected singers in each society. The various numbers in these choruses will be rendered by 6000 male voices in addition to which there will be a school children's chorus of 2000 voices, and choruses of mixed voices.

Statement Reiterated.

London, June 21.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Chronicle reiterates his previous statement as to the alleged instructions given by President McKinley to General Stewart L. Woodford, the minister of the United States to Spain, and adds: Spain will be permitted to exercise merely a titular sovereignty over Cuba. She will be compelled to withdraw her troops and to permit the Cubans to make their own laws, to raise their own revenue and to control their own expenditure. President McKinley believes that Cuba must ultimately be annexed to the United States. The withdrawal of the Spanish troops will lead to a repetition of the Hawaiian incident.

Boston and Maine Shakeup.

Portland, Me., June 21.—President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine is quoted as having told a prominent Maine man that a vigorous policy of readjustment was to be adopted with regard to the Maine Central system. Every position which can be abolished will be cut off and in every position in which some other man can do the work better than the man who holds it a change will be made.

Held Under Suspicion.

Nantasket, Mass., June 21.—Three men were held in the Hull lockup last evening, under the suspicion of having knowledge of the murder of Private Joseph White of battery C, Second artillery, U. S. A. They are: Thomas McKone, engineer of rockbreaker No. 2; William Stahlen, engineer of the towboat John S. Smith, and James Frolan, fireman of the towboat.

Titus Will Race Michael.

Albany, June 21.—Jimmy Michael, the wonderful little Welshman, who defeated McDuffee at Boston last Thursday in the world's record time for 15 miles, will take on Fred Titus, who held the American championship for several years, for a 10-mile race at Buffalo, under the same conditions practically as the McDuffee match. The contest will occur July 5.

Augusta, Me., June 21.—The special election to choose a successor to the late Congressman Seth L. Milliken is being farmers in the district are very busy with their work, so long delayed by the continued wet weather, a full vote will not be polled.

SERMONS TO GRADUATES.

Andover, Mass., June 21.—The graduating class at Phillips-Andover academy listened to the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Kirsley Twining, D. D., of Morristown, N. J., yesterday afternoon, in the academy chapel, the congregation also including the entire academic staff of professors and all the students. The service was presided over by Professor John Wesley Churchill of the Andover Theological seminary.

Rev. Dr. Twining took his text from Acts xiii, 22, but his address to the class of '97 was upon the choice of King David, whom, he said, was so scarred that it seemed impossible for him to be God's choice to reign over Israel. "But," said the preacher, "it is neither the scar nor the blemish that settles what life's work shall be; rather the fundamental characteristic of merit which it contains. It is important that we should have a solid moral character. To obtain this we must recognize our faults, correct them and repent. We must also have faith in order to secure salvation; we must believe that the moment a sinner turns to God his misdoings immediately fade away. You must also remember this is God's world, and as you go out into it you will find that it is a world in which a good man can find a home, can live and can obtain his reward. You must remember that God is in the world and that where sin abounds there grace abounds also."

Harvard University.

Cambridge, Mass., June 21.—Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, pastor of the Old South church, preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at Harvard university yesterday afternoon in Appleton chapel. The exercises were simple. The graduates were in cap and gown, and formed quite a congregation in themselves. Besides there were seats reserved for the faculty and trustees, and the rest of the chapel was crowded with friends.

The chancel was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers, including a goodly sprinkling of crimson in the coloring. The regular college choir sang.

The class hymn began:

On life's bright threshold, now we stand,
Uncertainty, Lord, of all;
Teach us to know Thy guiding hand
Whatever may befall.

Dr. Gordon's subject was "The Primacy of Righteousness." His text was Matthew vi, 33, "But seek ye first His kingdom and his righteousness."

He said in part: "The supreme function of Christianity is the increase of righteousness in life. It is the duty of each man to see to it that his own life shall rise to its greatest spiritual height. Life is made up of many parts, each one with its diverging interests, and these many separate parts we must develop into a rounded whole.

"The fundamental evil of society today is the alienation of these parts; the supreme good is overlooked in the zeal for material success.

"The university sends you forth into the world as missionaries, to organize our social interests in the Christian order. It is the crowning glory of American colleges that they exist for the nation; that as she receives recruits from all parts of the country, in the same way she sends them forth to be good citizens for the benefit of the republic. Harvard was founded in the service of a Christian state, and you may thank God that she considers herself second to the nation.

Phillips-Exeter Academy.

Exeter, N. H., June 21.—Rev. William J. Tucker, president of Dartmouth college, preached the baccalaureate sermon to the students of Phillips-Exeter academy last night. His subject was "The representative force of the educated man in society." Among the strong thoughts of his discourse were these:

"The educated man ought to have the power of an interpreter. Information is not the end of scholarship, but insight. The interpreter is apt to come out of the ranks of genius.

"Cowardice has seldom been the vice of the intelligent classes. No man wants a stone in place of bread if he does not ask for it, but if any leader of the public takes him at his word and gives him a stone he will sooner or later pay the price of his concession.

"The educated man should represent to the people what they need and not what they clamor for. The most transient thing in the universe is the aimless, frivolous, wasteful life in the human being. The educated man sees this and his impulse leads him to put his work into things which abide. Our schools cannot bear the taunts, if it be true, of simply augmenting the value of the indifferent and self-seeking throng. The great qualities which education ought to contribute to the moral power of society are insight, courage and faith. In the proportion in which any school or college can guarantee these qualities it justifies its position in society."

Bowdoin College.

Brunswick, Me., June 21.—The baccalaureate sermon to the Bowdoin college class of '97 was delivered by President Hyde of the college in Bowdoin church yesterday afternoon. The seniors, in cap and gown, formed in line and followed by the under graduates and a large number of town people, marched to the church, which edifice was crowded. The sermon was finely delivered and held the attention of all until the close. President Hyde's text was, "The truth shall make you free."—John viii, 32.

Smith College.

Northampton, Mass., June 21.—The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at Smith college was preached by President Ciark seelye yesterday afternoon. The service was held at the First church. Music was furnished by the College Glee club. President Seelye's sermon was an able effort, and was listened to with marked attention by the large congregation.

Mount Holyoke College.

South Hadley, Mass., June 21.—The commencement exercises at Mount Holyoke college opened yesterday with the baccalaureate sermon. The services were held in the church, which was elaborately decorated and well filled with students and friends of the graduates. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Arthur Little of Dorchester.

Williams College.

Williamstown, Mass., June 21.—President Franklin Carter preached the baccalauerate sermon to the Williams graduates in the Congregational church yesterday. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with ferns, palms and cut flowers, and the pulpit was almost hidden from view. More than 1000 people heard the sermon.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Senator Hanna is at his home in Cleveland.

Austin Smith, 19 years, the son of James Smith of Sandy Hill, N. Y., was killed yesterday afternoon while playing baseball. He was hit on the head by a pitched ball.

William E. Wood, traveling passenger agent for the Maine Central railroad for the past 13 years, has tendered his resignation to take effect July 1, to engage in other business.

The Sandy River railroad roundhouse at Phillips, Me., was partially destroyed by fire and two locomotives were badly damaged. The fire was caused by a spark from an engine fire box. Loss, $5000; insured.

George B. Tincler, the champion 1-mile runner of Ireland, and Tommy Connell, the ex-amateur champion of the world, have been matched to run two miles at the games of division 20, A. O. H., in Somerville, Mass., July 5.

Fire Saturday night partly destroyed the home of Joseph Melenski in East Buffalo. Five children who were sleeping in the house were severely burned. Sophia, aged 10, died; Mary, aged 12; Bronislowa, 5 years old; Veronica, 3 years old, and Cecilia, aged 8, are fatally burned.

Wyman & Cobbs store and the postoffice at Redstone, N. H., were broken open Saturday night and cash and checks to the amount of about $1000 stolen. Mr. Wyman is postmaster, and keeps the office in his store. All the postoffice funds were taken. There is no clue to the thieves.

Clarence F. Jewett, who was arrested Saturday afternoon at Boston as a fugitive from justice was released on bail. George Jewett of Bridgewater, a brother, furnished bail. Jewett is wanted in Portland, Ore., for his connection with the Eugene Orchard Holmes company, a land scheme in which about $25,000 was sunk. The specific charge against Jewett is said to be obtaining money under false pretences, by an overissue of stock.

Concerning Sheep Disease.

Washington, June 21.—In accordance with the law for the suppression of contagious diseases among domestic animals, Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department has issued to managers and agents of railroads and transportation companies, stockman and others a circular notifying them that the contagious disease known as sheep scab or scabies of sheep exists among sheep in the United States and that it is a violation of the law to receive for transportation or to transport any stock affected with that disease from one state or territory to another.

Escaped Through Windows.

Whitman, Mass., June 21.—Fire yesterday morning completely burned the house owned by Mrs. John Sproul, and occupied by Judge Cormale and William Weldon, on Dover street. There were eight persons in the house, all of whom were obliged to escape through windows, saving only the night clothes they were. The fire caught from an overheated chimney. Loss about $1100; insurance, $800.

Eight Million Souls In London Do Honor to Her Majesty.

STREETS CROWDED ALL NIGHT.

Diamond Day Ushered In by Pealing of Bells.

DECORATIONS ARE UNIVERSAL.

Little Strips of Bunting In Lowly Homes Show How the Ruler Is Enshrined In All Hearts—President McKinley's Letter of Congratulation. A Celebration at Boston.

London, June 22.—This is the queen's day, and it is estimated that there are 8,000,000 souls in London. All night long the inpouring continued, and thousands upon thousands had no place to sleep. At midnight every church bell in the city began to ring and the multitudes began cheering and singing "God Save the Queen."

Long before midnight crowds sought points of vantage to witness the parade, and some remained in their position for nearly 18 hours, others 12 and 14 hours. Some brought along camp stools and refreshments, while others went hungry and stood on the hard pavements uncomplainingly. The utmost good nature prevailed on all sides.

The earliest active indication of the great event—apart from the people waiting it—was shortly before 6, the arrival of vestry carts to freshly gravel the roadways, after the fashion which prevailed in the good old days of Sam Pepys. Then a little later the inevitable precursor of any procession, the police, began to arrive in great numbers—5000 being distributed along the line of route.

The streets on the north side of the Thames were closed to ordinary vehicular traffic at 7:30, on the south side at 8 a. m. London bridge had been closed to all traffic at midnight and Westminster bridge and other bridges between at 5 this morning, at which hour all persons were removed from Westminster and London bridges.

CORONATION OF QUEEN VICTORIA, JUNE 28, 1838.

The first great difficulty of the police was assisting owners of seats on stands and houses to get to them, they being permitted to drive to them up to 10 o'clock, for there was a vast interval between a title to a seat and actual possession. The crowds on the sidewalks were quite willing to give passage to the favored mortals who owned seats, but to do so was difficult. And the difficulty was further increased by the arrival of the troops after 8:30, taking up their appointed places. The wise, however, had reached their seats in stands or obtained access to houses where they had bought windows by 7 o'clock to 7:30. It was only the inevitable late comers who had to push and struggle, in the case of ladies, much to the damage of their toilettes. At length order was evolved out of chaos—many of the extreme late comers were peremptorily shut out and everybody settled down to wait. The picture was complete. The last touches of decorator, upholsterers and florist had been given, the fine effect of the decorations could be viewed, the places were in their places.

Decoration for her majesty's jubilee has been universal and without stint. Could the queen have passed this morning through some of the wretched streets of her great London, some of those narrow, ill-favored alleys where pale-faced children come to believe the sky is only a yard wide, where there is want and hunger and disease the year round—she could have found no more striking evidence of her abiding place in the hearts of her people. The resplendent West End, with its crimson glory, great banners, triumphal arches, purterres of costly blossoms meant no more, if half so much as the tiny paper flag, the yard or so of narrow red, white and blue stretched along a window sill and round a common flower pot with its single rose, modest decorations, which formed today shrines for the children of the shadows in the Whitechapel, Spitalfields, Hoxton or Shoreditch alleyways.

It is, however, to the 6¾ miles of the processional route that one must turn for what are considered the jubilee decorations. In describing them it may be said at the outset the art of street decoration is not understood in London. While here and there much that is beautiful meets the eye, it is not possible to escape the fact that the ensemble has been ruined by lack of concerted effort. The means employed have been as varied as the ends achieved. While there is plenty of red, white and blue, the greatest reliance has been placed on royal crimson trimmed with gold. Mottoes are beautified with strolls, banners, flags, the royal arms, the imperial monogram, portraits of the queen in every possible form of reproduction, and unlimited allusions to "1837-1897."

In the richer streets are countless, costly blossoms, but paper flowers have not been disdained, especially in such decorations as are in the street proper, and the green of evergreen and fir and laurel garment the triumphal arches.

In streets off the line of route the decorations were as lavish as was commensurate with the prosperity of the inhabitants. Flags, banners and imperial devices of every description were displayed, many windows had hangings of some sort, generally scarlet and gold, or red, white and blue, and many others added flowers. In short, by decorations as by everything else, London was transformed into a vast court at which an empire rendered fealty to its soverign.

Dinner to Distinguished Guests.

The queen at 3:45 last evening entertained at dinner 90 of her most distinguished guests in the state supper room at Buckingham palace. Among those present were the Prince and Princess of Wales, with all the members of the royal family, the royal guests, the envoys of states with the rank of ambassadors, and the great officers of the household, who were in full court dress.

During the progress of the banquet, music was discoursed by the band of the Royal Engineers. The suites of the envoys and the ladies and gentlemen in attendance dined in the garden vestibule, the yeomen of the guard on duty in the grand hall and vestibule.

After the dinner the queen proceeded from the grand salon to the ball room to receive her guests, the envoys and their suites, the Indian princes, the officers of the imperial forces and of the native Indian escorts and the officers of the queen's German regiment.

The colonial premiers with their wives were presented to her majesty by Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, and the suites of royal and other guests were presented severally by their chiefs. The great officers of state attended in full court dress.

Mesdames Whitelaw Reid, Nelson Miles and Ogden Mills were presented by the queen's special command.

President's Friendly Letter.

The following is the text of President McKinley's personal letter to Queen Victoria, which was delivered to her majesty by Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States:

To Her Majesty, Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India:

Great and Good Friend—In the name and on behalf of the people of the United States I present their sincere felicitations upon the 60th anniversary of your majesty's accession to the crown of Great Britain.

I express the sentiments of my fellow citizens in wishing for your people the prolongation of a reign illustrious and marked by advance in science, arts, and popular well-being. On behalf of my countrymen I wish, particularly, to recognize your friendship for the United States and your love of peace exemplified upon important occasions.

It is pleasing to acknowledge the debt of gratitude and respect due to your personal virtues. May your life be prolonged and peace, honor and prosperity bless the people over whom you have been called to rule. May liberty flourish throughout your empire under just and equal laws and your government continue strong in the affections of all who live under it.

And I pray God to have your majesty in His holy keeping.

Done at Washington this 28th day of May, A. D. 1897, by the president.

Your good friend,
William McKinley.
John Sherman, Secretary.

BOSTON'S TRIBUTE.

Parade and Monster Banquet In Honor of Queen Victoria.

Boston, June 22.—Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee was celebrated here yesterday by salutes by the H. M. S. Pallas, anchored in the upper harbor, at sunrise, noon and sunset, a parade by the Ancient and Honorable Aatillery company, escorting a detachment of sailors and marines from the Pallas and the society of British army and navy veterans. The day concluded with a monster banquet at the Mechanics hall.

The procession started from the wharf at the foot of State street shortly after 4 o'clock and the British troops marched through the streets of Boston for the first time in many years. The route of the procession was a short one, but the visitors were accorded a most hearty welcome. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company with its brilliant though variegated uniform headed the line, followed by the red jacketed marines and sailors of the British warship. The marines escorted a delegation of retired officers of the British service, veterans, pensioners, etc., carriages with disabled veterans and the Caledonian society of Boston brought up the rear.

The parade finished at Mechanics hall where had already assembled a large number of the English residents of this city and many of the citizens of English birth.

The banquet was attended by over 2500 persons, including Collector Warren, Governor Wolcott and many of the state officials, Mayor Quincy, Sir Dominic E. Colnaghi, British consul in Boston; Captain Humphage of H. M. S. Pallas and the presidents of the Scots, Irish and British Charitable societies. George B. Perry of the British consulate presided and General Curtis Guild, Jr., acted as toastmaster.

General Guild, after a short opening speech, introduced Collector Winslow Warren, who responded to the toast of the "President of the United States."

The next toast was that to "The Queen," and Sir Dominic E. Colnaghi arose to respond amid cheers.

Governor Wolcott, in behalf of the commonwealth, alluded to the fact that the Englishmen in the city today came to the town that headed the rebellion of a century ago. This, perhaps, was one of the causes of the warmth of the reception.

Mayor Quincy extended the congratulations and the hearty welcome of the city to the visitors. Colonel Kingscate, R. A., and Captain Graves of the Berkshire regiment responded to the toast, "Brothers in Arms," while Captain Humphage spoke for the navy. "For the Empire and the Colonies," Hon. Nicholas Flood Davin had a few words, and Rev. George C. Lorimer responded to the toast, "Our Old Home and the New." The institutions of learning were also in evidence, Professor R. S. Thayer speaking for Harvard and Dr. William Everett of Quincy for Cambridge university, Eng.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT

Farm Work Resumed—Corn Is Backward and Potatoes In Bad Condition.

Boston, June 22.—The weather has continued cool in the North, but there has been less rain and some sunshine and the crop outlook is improving. On low lands crops look poor, but on higher, lighter soil grass and grain are heavy, and field crops, except corn are doing fairly well. In southern districts normal temperatures prevailed. There has been considerable sunshine and little rainfall, and all crops are improving fast. Haying has begun and a large crop generally is indicated.

Maine.

In southern Maine the week has been the most favorable of the season for farm work and field crops. Over the rest of the state showers have been frequent and although the conditions are improving the ground is still too wet and cold, especially on the low lands. Hail did some damage in central counties on the 18th. There is some complaint of potato seed rotting in Aroostook county, and of sweet corn failing to come in Oxford county. Grass and early grain look well.

New Hampshire.

Most crops have been helped by the favorable weather during the week, but corn is still making a poor showing. Potatoes on low land have rotted, but on uplands are growing fast. Grass is beyond damage from possible drought and is an excellent crop, except on low meadows where the soil is too wet. Some varities of strawberries are rusting, but generally a fair crop is promised.

Vermont.

The weather has been cool but generally pleasant and the ground is fast getting into workable condition. Grass is rather light on low meadows, but elsewhere an excellent crop is indicated; some has been cut. Corn grows very slowly and is of poor color, but most other crops are pushing along very well now. Cherries and plums promise a light crop.

Massachusetts.

Several days of warm, bright sunshine have benefited field crops very much and most of them are improving very fast. The nights are still too cool for tomatoes, corn, etc., and these crops look rather uneven and poor in color. Strawberries are ripening and are very good on light land; on low land they are late. Grapes are blossoming very full. Haying has begun to some extent with a good crop in prospect. Cranberries are promising.

Rhode Island.

The temperature has been near the normal and there has been considerable sunshine during the week, which favored crops. Potatoes are showing very good. Peas are ripening very unevenly. Strawberries are being marketed. Haying has begun.

Connecticut.

With higher temperature, more sunshine and less rain all crops have taken a new start during the week. Corn is still of poor color but is improving. Potatoes are very good. Much tobacco has been set. Grain of all kinds is standing more erect. Turnip and cabbage seed has been damaged by wet weather. Cabbage seed breaks down and the turnip seed has rotted. Some hay has been cut; a large crop is indicated.

THE CITY COUNCIL can do nothing this year to affect the taxes of 1897, as the appropriation order has passed, but this Council can keep down the tax rate of 1898 by the proper placing of new loans. It is pleasing to note that the Committee on Finance of the Council has given some thought to the suggestion of the LEDGER, to consolidate small loans and then spread the payment over ten years rather than make all mature in one year. The Council of 1896 is responsible for the large tax rate of this year, because it increased so largely the debt maturing this year. This City Council need not increase materially the burdens of 1898 if it adopts the new policy now contemplated. Other cities, notably Boston, consolidate several items into one loan bill, and it can be done in Quincy. Such a course would not be necessary had the loans been properly placed when authorized, but under the circumstances the new policy is necessary to relieve the burden which now oppresses the city. Our municipal debt is not large and should not be burdensome, but to pay off over 21 per cent. in one year requires $3.50 of the tax rate.

IT WAS surprising to note in the City Council last evening that a Councilman from Atlantic should oppose better railroad service for Quincy. There is altogether too much district work by the Council, and not enough for the city as a whole. The Quincy station accommodates many more people than those living in Ward One. People from all parts of the city take the train at Quincy, because many of them have business at Quincy first. Quincy is a street railway centre for seven routes, and is entitled to better service on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. It now has only about sixty per cent. of the trains it had a few years ago and it is not surprising that there is a remonstrance when some of the popular trains are removed.

Another surprise was that Ward One Councilmen should have permitted a Councilman from West Quincy to take the initiative. But this, upon investigation shows another reason why the 12 M. train should be restored. It was a mail train, and Councilman Cain offered the motion at the suggestion of Postmaster Burke, who has an eye to giving Quincy the best mail service.

Piping Hot Soon.

There is hope yet for the summer resorts and summer business. As the Herald says, it is not often that the summer solstice arrives before the season is in full blast at the seashore and inland resorts, but such seems to be the case this year. The protracted rains have postponed the opening of many of the popular summer hotels, and those that have thrown open their doors are not receiving the patronage ordinarily expected at this season of the year. No doubt the heated term will burst upon us shortly and inaugurate the customary rush to the summer resorts, and perhaps it would be just as well for the proprietors to be prepared for the emergency. On the accepted doctrine of heat averages in summer, we ought to get some piping hot weather before long.

Railroad Visitors.

Assistant General Freight George L. Winlock and Chief Clerk Arnold of the Old Colony system of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, passed the day in Quincy on Monday, as the guests of Supt. Anderson of the Quincy Quarry Company. The purpose of their visit was to gain a closer knowledge of the needs of Quincy, particularly in the granite industry.

The party inspected the facilities at Quincy, Quincy Adams and West Quincy, and visited many of the leading quarries of our city, as well as points of historical interest.

An Estimate on Rebuilding of Whitwell Street.

Councilman Sprague was the only absent member at Monday night's meeting of the City Council.

Communications.

The Council received an invitation to attend the Adams gold medal exercises June 23.

The Mayor forwarded a communication stating that he had received an application for the purchase of the school lot at Germantown and asking instructions from the Council on selling unoccupied land of the city, valued as follows:

Engine house, School street, $2000; land, 21,345 feet, $3000.

School lot, Germantown, $300.

Old High School, $4,000; land, 31,460 feet, $5000.

School lot, Quincy Neck, $300.

Land High street, 5000 feet, $1000.

Tax titles, lot 52, Appleton street, 9,572 feet, $400.

Lot 60, Appleton street, 10,384 feet, $400.

Lot 64, Appleton street, 10,790 feet, $400.

Lot 49, Houghs Neck, 2,625 feet, $100.

Lot 55, Houghs Neck, 3,500 feet, $150.

The Commissioner of Public works forwarded a communication in which he stated it lay with the City Council to order the Electric Light Co., upon the telephone poles on Dimmock and Goffe streets, as the telephone Company had refused to allow the use. To Committee on Streets.

Commissioner Knowlton forwarded a communication giving approximate estimates for building Whitwell street according to grade, which were: Gravel, $1000; underdrains, $800; paving gutters, $3000; curbing, $1,560. Placed on file.

Petitions.

Several petitions for licenses were received. Those for common victualler and job wagon were referred to Committee on Licenses and those for license to sell fireworks were laid on the table and later in the evening were granted.

Report of Committee.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order authorizing the raising by taxation $195,000 on estates and $2 on each pole.

Order passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

The Committee on Finance reported an order instructing the Tax Collector to send out notices with the tax bills, in a sealed letter, that itemized bills could be had upon application. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the order appropriating $1,200 for laying out Miller Stile road, striking out all that part relating to borrowing the money.

Councilman Field moved to lay on the table for a legal opinion, claiming amount must be provided for. Lost.

The rules were then suspended.

Councilman Phillips asked if the charter did not require it to be stated how payments should be made?

Councilman Field said it was agreed in the Committee on Finance to get an opinion from the City Solicitor. If this was a current expense it must be paid in a year but if a permanent improvement why not borrow the money when the street was laid out.

Councilman Anderson replied as the order now is it makes no difference. If it is a current expense it can be made by a note, and if it is a permanent improvement it can be raised in a loan order and designated what it is for.

Councilman Pinkham. We have the limit fixed. If we borrow on ten years time we have got to make ten annual payments. If we lump several of these loans we can divide the whole into equal payments and negotiate the loan better. He did not think it a current expense any more than the rebuilding of Neponset bridge.

The order was then passed to be ordained, Councilman Field voting no, and all others yes.

Later in the evening the vote was reconsidered and the order laid on the table.

The Committee on State Aid reported an order granting Charles N. Hunt $6 per month, and Viola F. Copp $4 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. permission to erect one pole on Highland avenue. Ordered to second reading.

A public hearing was given on laying out Faxon road as a public way from Squantum street to Billings road. No one appeared for or against the petition. The hearing was closed and the order recommitted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order laying out Kemper street as a public way. Ordered to second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order laying out Nightingale avenue as a public way. Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order laying out Brook road as a public way, and appropriating $400 for the same. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Streets reported an amendment to the order laying out Whitwell street, in relation to payments. Laid on the table.

The Committee on Streets reported leave to withdraw on the petition for raising the grade of Farrington street. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass on order for repairing the High school building. Laid on the table.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass on order for building a tide gate at the poor farm. Laid on the table.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order granting a number of licenses which was adopted.

Motions, Orders, Etc.

Councilman Parker offered an order that the Commissioner of Public Works report an estimate at the next meeting as to the cost of building Brook road to the established grade and building a culvert. Adopted.

Railroad Service.

Councilman Cain spoke of the blow to Quincy by the dropping of the 12 M. express from Boston, which had been a fixture for many years and was a convenience for the business men. He moved that a committee of three of whom the President should be one, be appointed to see the management of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and use their influence to have the train restored.

Councilman Anderson said no train left Boston now at 12 M, but there was a Cape train at 11.45.

Councilman Field inquired if their was any Cape train which now stopped at Quincy, as he frequently had to go to the Cape.

Councilman Packard said a train was not wanted at 11.45 as there was one at 11.30, but the 12 o'clock train should be restored.

Councilman Nickerson also spoke of the service.

Councilman Badger offered an amendment that Wollaston and Atlantic be included.

The amendment was lost, and the order was adopted by a large vote.

The chair appointed as the committee: President Bryant and Messrs. Anderson and Cain.

The Council adjourned at 8.30 for one week.

The Friday Club.

The Friday club has had many pleasant and instructive afternoons but none more appreciated than the one on Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Walter T. Babcock entertained the club and a few friends at her home on Presidents' hill.

Miss Anna B. Thompson, a valued instructor at Thayer Academy, had been invited to meet the ladies and to talk to them on "The decay of the American people." Following the talk the ladies were invited to ask questions and to discuss the subject thoroughly.

The discussion was most interesting and deep, wandering somewhat for a time from the subject. Miss Thompson thought the American people were not a nation of thinkers; that we should think more. We believe many of the ladies present Saturday afternoon have done considerable thinking since, and will have something to think over for many days to come, the discussion opening up many avenues for future thought.

The idea of true friendship as defined by Miss Thompson met with thorough appreciation. She thought we were not honest, were too superficial. The basis of true friendship is honesty and loyalty.

Miss Thompson believed God was infinite, therefore was both good and evil on the same principal: that to be good one must know evil; to be well one must know what illness is. This idea brought out an animated talk, many disagreeing with Miss Thompson.

To come back to the subject, "The Decay of the American people," the ladies agreed with Miss Thompson that the Americans are not equal to their Puritan ancestors, they were not so honest in their convictions; were not such deep thinkers; and were as a rule, rather superficial, all on the surface without great depth of mind.

It is almost impossible in a brief sketch of the meeting to convey Miss Thompson's meaning to those who were not present. All who listened to her are surely the better for meeting her, and it is the earnest desire that she may be induced to come to Quincy again soon.

A Runaway.

There was a narrow escape from an accident in City Square Monday afternoon, caused by a runaway horse of Henry H Faxon.

The animal, attached to a new buggy, was hitched to a post in front of Mr. Faxon's house, when a flying piece of paper frightened him and breaking his hitch rope he started on the run. The animal went around the fountain into Hancock street and thence into Temple street into Coddington and into his stable, where he brought up against the side of the stable with force enough to throw him down. The only damage was a broken bridle and a pane of glass.

When the animal turned from Hancock into Temple street Franklin Jacobs' carriage stood in front of the Adams building, about three feet from the sidewalk. In the carriage were Mrs. Jacobs and a little girl. The turn was too sharp for the animal to keep in the street and he went onto the sidewalk, passing between Mr. Jacobs' carriage and the building. Mr. Faxon's horse and carriage passed through this narrow place just clearing the carriage and building. That some one was not injured was a wonder.

Tea and Coffee

are two great staples with us. Year by year the taste of our patrons has been educated—in a great degree through our efforts—until now the highest possible grades are demanded by our regular trade.

A good cup of Tea or Coffee is no accident. It isn't a happen-to-be—it's a MADE-to-be.

Our Tea and Coffee are planted right, cultivated right, picked in the right way at the right time, cured right, handled right, bought right and sold right.

There's a watch kept every step of the way, in order to secure the best results.

The richest man in America can hardly provide himself with better Tea or Coffee than is within YOUR reach—if you buy of us.

And as to grades, a favorite Tea is our 50c. Formosa or English Breakfast.

Good enough for the most exacting, cheap enough for the most economical.

We have Teas as low as 25c. lb., and fancy grades from 60c. upwards, but no one need pay fancy prices in order to get good results, as we put the same care into our selections of all kinds. We know it will pay you to try ours. An experience of Twenty Years in buying and selling Teas will tell.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Mrs. Alonzo Davis of Crescent street has gone to Canada for the summer.

The West Quincy Methodist Sunday School are talking of their annual picnic which will be held some time in July.

This is the last week of school and the children are looking forward to the long vacation.

There is still a call from Weymouth for the Saturday LEDGER with the story of the church fire.

Iron treads are being placed in the steps at City Hall at the entrance to the city clerk's office.

The ladies' fortnight whist party at the Granite City club rooms, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the usual hour.

Miss Abbie C. Nutting, bookkeeper for E. H. Doble & Co., has resumed her position, after a ten weeks' illness.

C. Eaton Pierce unintentionally took a salt water bath in Town river Saturday afternoon. He was at work furling his sail when the boom swung around and knocked him overboard.

The social and sale held by the Ladies' Aid society and King's Daughters circle of the First Presbyterian church last evening was well attended, and was socially very enjoyable and financially satisfactory. 'Twas not exactly an evening for cold refreshments—hot coffee would have been more appropriate—but the sherbet and lemonade flavored with fresh strawberries were much in favor. There were a number of visitors to Quincy friends present.

Friday, June 18, being the 50th anniversary of Thomas W. Smith, his employes assembled in the evening at his residence at South Quincy, and Daniel M. McLeod in behalf of employes presented him with an elegant reclining chair and gold mounted meerschaum pipe. He was so taken by surprise that it was some time before he was able to respond. The evening was spent in song and socially till a late hour when all took their departure, wishing their employer prosperity and a long life.

Took a Shock.

A curious accident happened at Wollaston on Sunday evening which nearly resulted in a serious injury to a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hennigan. Mrs. Hennigan was out for a walk on Sunday evening. When near the northerly end of Safford street the little girl spied the wire of a derrick, and, running to it grasped it with both hands with the intention of swinging. She had no more than touched it when she gave a shriek calling to her mother to release her. Mrs. Hennigan rushed to the child's assistance, but not until the little one's hands were severely wrenched could her grip on the ropes be released. It was found upon a hasty examination that an incandescent light wire, which runs into Merrill's shop, was laying across the wire guy, and the insulating fabric having chafed off had charged the rope with electricity. The little girl received a severe but not a dangerous shock.

The King Case.

The United States grand jury is expected to report today on the cases before it. One of these is that of Albert M. King of Wollaston, the late messenger of the Boylston bank of Boston, who ran away to Maine with the bank's money.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

THE ORIGINAL DEMONETIZATION OF SILVER WAS EFFECTED BY JEFFERSON'S ORDER.

He Was at All Times Opposed to Cheap Money and Repudiation of Debts—Believed That Coinage Ratio Should Stick Close to the Market Ratio—Favored Use of Both Metals, but Showed a Moderate Preference For Gold—Could Not Have Stood on the Chicago Platform.

Thomas Jefferson was a patriot and a statesman of the highest order. It is proper for all true Democrats to celebrate his birthday, April 13, and to commemorate his many excellent qualities, but why should those who voted in 1896 to repudiate debts and to cheapen our dollar by attempting to fix an artificial ratio between gold and silver widely different from the market ratio meet to honor, or dishonor, Jefferson's name? Is there anything in his writings or his conduct to indicate that he would have been a cheap money and repudiation Democrat?

In 1783 Mr. Jefferson wrote:

The proportion between the value of gold and silver is a mercantile problem altogether. * * * Just principles will lead us to disregard legal proportions altogether, to inquire into the market price of gold in the several countries with which we shall principally be connected in commerce and to take an average from them.

Does this sound like the silver plank of the Chicago platform?

In a letter to Mr. Hamilton in February, 1792, Mr. Jefferson expressed his opposition to cheapening the dollar or reducing the monetary unit. He said of the dollar:

I very much doubt a right now to change the value, and especially to lessen it. It would lead to so easy a mode of paying off their debts * * * Should it be thought, however, that congress may reduce the value of the dollar, I should be for adopting for our unit, instead of the dollar, either one ounce of pure silver or one ounce of standard silver, so as to keep the unit of money a part of the system of measures, weights and coins.

The original "demonetization of silver" was effected by the following order from Thomas Jefferson:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, May 2, 1806.

SIR—In consequence of a representation from the directors of the Bank of the United States that considerable purchases have been made of dollars coined at the mint for the purpose of exporting them, and as it is probable further purchases and exportations will be made, the president (Thomas Jefferson) directs that all silver to be coined at the mint shall be of small denominations, so that the value of the largest piece shall not exceed half a dollar.

JAMES MADISON.

ROBERT PATTERSON, Esq.,
Director of the Mint.

Except 1,000 pieces, no more silver dollars were coined till after Andrew Jackson retired from the presidency.

It is clear from Jefferson's writings that he favored the use of both metals, but only at their natural ratio in the world's markets. He seems to have had an instinctive fear that people who wished an "easy mode of paying off their debts" would attempt to fix our coinage system independent of the world's markets. His policy at all times was to stick close to the natural ratio.

His desire to ascertain the market ratio between gold and silver and adopt that as the legal ratio is shown again in his supplemental notes, Works, edition of 1853, volume 1, page 170, written in 1783 or 1784, when he suggests that the committee of the states be instructed:

To appoint also proper persons to inquire what are the proportions between the values of fine gold and fine silver at the markets of the several countries with which we are or may probably be connected in commerce, and what would be a proper proportion here, having regard to the average of their values at those markets and to other circumstances, and to report the same to the committee, by them to be laid before congress.

Jefferson framed and had passed by the Virginia assembly a law by which the value of the paper money of America was settled "in sterling money or the lawful money of England."

If Jefferson had been compelled to choose between the two metals, he would undoubtedly have taken gold. In his "Notes" he observed that the high price which Spain paid for gold had a tendency to draw away gold and to leave us only silver. He thought, therefore, that "we might with safety lean to a proportion somewhat above par for gold."

Free silver Democrats are not Jefferson Democrats. They should either abandon their false doctrines or worship at another shrine.

Good Money Is Good Anywhere.

While a government can within its territory define that which shall constitute a legal tender in satisfaction of contracts past and future it cannot by legislation fix the purchasing value of its money, for money is a commodity, and its value is determined in the markets of the world under the laws of trade, and the laws of trade, like the laws of nature, are stronger and more farreaching than any constitutions or statutes. The best money is the money of greatest purchasing power, and that money has the maximum of purchasing power which is exchangeable at par, not only in the country from whose mint it is issued, but also in the markets of the world.

At Brooklyn—

What the Bostons did to Payne's curves in the first and second innings of yesterday's contest at Eastern park is best told by the score. Fisher relieved him, after which hits and runs for the Beaneaters were few and far between. Klobedanz not only pitched effectively for his side, but also led with the stick. [Boston now leads the National league. Baltimore's two defeats yesterday puts the champions in second place.]

Maine's New Congressman.

Augusta, Me., June 22.—The voting in the special congressional election in the Third district yesterday to elect a successor to the late Congressman Milliken was generally light in this section. Returns from 58 cities and towns received here late last night give Burleigh (Rep.), 6656; Plaisted (Dem.), 2055. The same relative vote in the remaining towns of the district would give Burleigh a total of 11,086, and Plaisted a total of 3281.

PLAN FOR PRIVATE STABLE.

The Style Is Dutch Colonial and Presents a Charming and Aristocratic Effect.

[Copyright, 1897, by George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.]

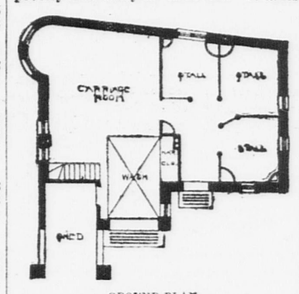

It is simply astonishing how many people have made failures by building private stables for themselves, and, having gone into this part of it first, have brought up in the possession of a stable only and have had nothing left with which to build a house. I myself can call to mind some half a dozen such cases where the parties had even so far overreached themselves as to be glad to fix up the stable as a house. In a matter of this kind it is best and safest to provide for yourself first. In any event a stable worthy of the name is a luxury for the rich only. Hence when you build let it be first for your own wants. A stable may follow if it is needed and the pocketbook fat enough.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW.

In putting up a stable it is necessary to observe a fitness of style to the home, and there should always be a characteristic feeling of kinship between the two that will distinguish them as belonging to the same class. It is generally the case that the two buildings are seen at the same time, and the blending perspective effects of two opposing styles will detract from each other.

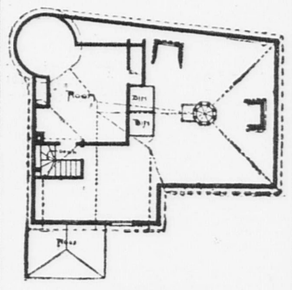

I have seen stables near handsome residences which to me simply proclaimed the ignorance of the owner and verified the conclusion that vanity dwelt in one, while poverty held sway in the other. It takes as careful thought to plan a stable to mate with a stylish house as it does for the house itself, and the same hands should do the two if possible.

GROUND PLAN.

A stable need not be expensive to be artistic. The rough, rugged walls, of field stone or bowlders, can be done as here shown and will produce a charming effect when covered with running vines. The form of the structure may be made to speak for itself by simple touches of artistic inspirations without added cost or labor.

In this stable the stonework of the first story was adopted because there was a bank in the rear corner some eight feet deep, and, it being desirable to build close to the two lines, the stone was best for the purpose. For the same reason the first floor is made entirely of cement, well underdrained, which, finished in portland, makes a practical stone floor. This is ratproof and decidedly better than the wood floor, which in a similar position would rot out quickly and be a nuisance generally. A man's room is provided on the second floor, and also good storage for hay, oats and feed. From the bins to the floor below a shoot is provided, with measures. The three box stalls are roomy, and for the comfort of the animals are much the best, although it is not always such can be had. One at least is advisable. The inside stonework is pointed and whitewashed, the woodwork of North Carolina pine oiled, the stall posts are of chestnut, the guards of wire and the stall racks and mangers of cast iron.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Uncle Sam a Fire Sufferer.

New York, June 22.—For the second time within a week the United States government finds itself loser for a sum over $300,000. Tonight the ordinance building in the navy yard at Brooklyn was destroyed by fire. The ordinance building which is known as No. 13 is a 2-story structure, 250 feet long and about 50 feet wide. The building itself is valued at $60,000, and, by a custom of Uncle Sam, is uninsured. The great loss which the destruction of this building entails is accounted for by the fact that within it was stored some of the best ordinance in the possession of the American navy. On the ground floor were stored a large number of field pieces and rapid firing guns, together with many Whitehead torpetoes, the total value of the goods on this floor alone being about $150,000.

Chicago, June 22.—With the sunlight shining on his impassioned countenance and a convention of socalists roaring at his feet Mr. Debs yesterday outlined his co-operative commonwealth scheme. He declared that the present American system of government would be overthrown by peaceful means, if possible, but otherwise if necessary, and gave notice that he and his followers were prepared to resist United States troops at the right time. The supreme executive board, selected by the convention to manage the vast and complicated program for the formation of a new commonwealth, consists of Eugene V. Debs, William E. Burns, Roy M. Goodwin, Sylvesta Kellher and James Hogan, the five men who were sent to the Woodstock jail for contempt of court at the time of the Chicago strike.

COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; any thing from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

MADE A NEW RECORD.

Fifty-Six Pages of the Tariff Bill Passed by the Senate.

Free List Taken Up and Soon Completed.

Now Comes the Wool, Silk and Tobacco Schedules---House Session.

Washington, June 22.—The senate made a record in the tariff debate yesterday. Fifty-six pages of the bill were passed, including the free list. Excepting the paragraphs on hides, coal, gloves and some lesser articles the last two schedules of the dutiable list were completed.

Early in the day the wool and silk schedules went over with an agreement that wool would be taken up today. After that the tobacco schedule, the reciprocity provisions and the internal revenues portions of the bill, as well as the many isolated paragraphs, passed over, remain to be considered. The progress was so marked, however, that for the first time there was a feeling that the end was not far off.

There was little debate, the main topics of discussion being matches and fuses. On the latter item an amendment by Mr. Pettigrew reducing the rate to 10 per cent came within one vote of passing against the protest of the finance committee, the vote being a tie—24 to 24. While the free list was under consideration Mr. Bacon of Georgia gave notice of an amendment placing cotton ties on the free list, and Mr. McLaurin of South Carolina gave notice of another amendment taking raw cotton from the free list, thus completing the action heretofore taken of placing a duty of 20 per cent on cotton.

In the House.

Washington, June 22.—After the approval of the journal in the house yesterday a special order was adopted providing for the consideration of a bill appropriating $100,000 for the repair of dry dock No. 3 at the New York navy yard.

The appropriation was ordered—114 to 12.

Mr. Latimer (Dem., S. C.) asked unanimous consent to have considered a bill declaring a state capable of entirely controlling the liquor traffic.

This W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.) said was an outgrowth of a local fight in South Carolina, in which the courts had made a decision and was not a proper matter for consideration by the house. He objected to its consideration.

Mr. Dingley (Rep., Me.), from the committee on ways and means, presented a favorable report on a joint resolution providing that foreign exhibitors at the Omaha exposition in 1898 may bring to this country laborers to prepare and have charge of exhibits.

The house then adjourned until Thursday.

Jubilee Row In Dublin.

Dublin, June 22.—At a meeting held near College green yesterday in connection with the jubilee a black banner was displayed, bearing the statement: "During Victoria's reign 1,500,000 of people have starved in this island, 3,000,000 have been evicted and 4,000,000 have been compelled to emigrate." A body of undergraduates who marched out from the grounds of Trinity college, carrying the Union Jack, came into collision with the crowd, and there was considerable fighting. Phillip Callan was severely wounded in the head and several others were more or less injured. Only with difficulty did the police restore order. The cause of the trouble was rivalry in singing national airs. After the rumpus the crowd paraded the streets and destroyed the decorations.

Amherst Professor Resigns.

Amherst, Mass., June 22.—Professor Anson D. Morse resigned yesterday from the Winkley professorship of history in Amherst college. He is one of the most respected and influential members of the faculty, and has been connected with the teaching force since the autumn of 1875. The news of the resignation comes as a great surprise to the other members of the faculty, and was totally unexpected among the alumni of the college. The professor resigns on account of the position he has been placed in by the present management of the college.

Sullivan Going Into Training.

Boston, June 22.—John L. Sullivan will leave today for White Plains, N. Y., where he is to go into training for the summer under the direction of William Muldoon, the wrestler and trainer, who prepared him for his fight with Kilrain. Sullivan is in good condition, and is confident that as soon as he has indulged in light work for a while he can take on heavier and more active training. The prospect of a meeting between him and Fitzsimmons is getting more favorable every day, and Sullivan proposes to use his spare time this summer in getting into shape.

African Colony a Failure.

New York, June 22.—Thirteen colored persons who formed part of the 200 sent to Liberia by the International Emigration society in March, 1896, arrived in this port yesterday on the steamship Liberia. They say that the scheme has been a total failure; that many of their number died of starvation and fever; that the society did not fulfill the contract, and many members of the expedition are stranded in England, unable to get back to their homes.

Boundary Monument Completed.

Keene, N. H., June 22.—The monument that is to mark the junction of the boundary lines of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont has been completed and will be placed in position next week. The monument is a block of Windsor (Vt.) green granite, 10 feet 6 inches long and 2 feet square. The shaft is suitably inscribed with the names of the commissioners of each of the three states.

To Gray Gables For Summer.

Princeton, N. J., June 22.—Ex-President Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland left Princeton yesterday in a private car over the Pennsylvania railroad for their summer home at Gray Gables. They took with them their three children and will remain away until late in September.

COW WAS NOT TUBERCULOUS.

The Bridges Children Died of Croup Pneumonia---Attempt to Terrorize Farmers.

Augusta, Me., June 22.—Secretary McKeen of the state board of agriculture has made an official report relative to the noted case of the Bridges family in Blue Hill. The report of Dr. Charles D. Smith of Portland, who made an examination of the lungs of the children who died and of the cow, is submitted with the report giving the following conclusions: That the children who died, died of croup pneumonia and not of tuberculosis. That the present illness of Luther Bridges and his son is pneumonia and not tuberculosis, and that no tuberculosis was present in the cow. The secretary in his report says, in part:

Thus it will be seen that another attempt to terrorize the farmers of the state into subjecting al their cows, no matter what their condition may be, to the tuberculin test at an expense to them for the test alone of not less than $150 has fallen flat and that the efforts of the alarmists are brought to naught in the clear light of carefully prepared facts.

Bank Don't Want Reward.

Farmington, Me., June 22.—The officials of the First National bank of this city have issued a denial to the statement published to the effect that the bank here would like $250 said to have been offered for the capture of Albert M. King, the messenger of the Boylston National bank of Boston. The general impression here seems to be that the money should go to Deputy Sheriff Dyer and J. P. Whorff, the actual captors of King. The Boston bank at the time of the capture wired the deputy sheriff to retain $500 for expenses, and that amount was deducted from the funds found on King.

Attorney Ely Dead.

Providence, June 22.—After an illness of 10 days, Joseph C. Ely, undoubtedly the most prominent attorney in the state, died at his home in this city yesterday morning from an affection of the heart. His death was the result of overwork. He was counsel for many large corporations, was one of the commissioners on the revision of the laws of the state, and had been prominently connected with a number of public institutions.

Ida Lathrop's Condition.

Lisbon, N. H., June 22.—Miss Ida F. Lathrop, the victim of a most brutal assault in the cellar of the shop of her employer, has been removed to her home at Littleton. While her condition is much improved she is still unable to sit up and had to be carried to her home in a cot. County Solicitor Adams has cautioned her family against allowing her to talk about the assault.

A New York dentist employs a woman assistant at a salary of $50 a week and a commission, who goes from house to house and cleans teeth. The charge is 50 cents a mouth, and she does a big business.

When we read of a mother who leaves her newborn babe shivering on a doorstep, unguarded from the elements, and to suffer at the mercy of strangers, we wonder at her cold heart and lack of mother-love. There are other ways, than desertion, of exposing a child to a life of suffering. The mother who, through ignorance or neglect of the health and vigor of the organs that make motherhood possible, brings into the world a sick and puny child is at fault for the life of suffering to which it is condemned. If a woman would have healthy, robust, happy children, with bright futures, she must take proper care of her womanly self.

The best of all medicines for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It makes them strong and healthy. It prepares for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the expectant period it banishes the usual discomforts and makes baby's coming easy and almost painless. It insures a robust, healthy newcomer and ample, natural nourishment. Over 90,000 women have testified to its merits over their signatures. All good druggists sell it.

Mrs. Ursula Dunham, of Sistersville, Tyler Co., W. Va., writes: "My baby now is nearly a year old. She was born last March. After she was born I had local weakness. I could not stand up long enough to wash the dishes. In September I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took three bottles and it has cured me. I can now do all my work."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets. If constipation was painful like a toothache, sickness would to a very great extent be a thing of the past. If it was painful, the proper remedy would be promptly resorted to, and the long train of disorders for which it is responsible would cease to exist. But unfortunately constipation is the easiest to neglect of all sickness-breeding conditions. A resort to the right remedy is put off from day to day. It shows itself in a headache, and some injurious headache powder that gives but temporary relief is used. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets go to the first cause of the trouble and cure it. They are a prompt and permanent cure for constipation. They cause no pain and never gripe. Druggists sell them, and sell nothing else that is "just as good."

College Coaches Observing Work of the 'Varsity Crews.

Cornell Seems to Be a Good Favorite.

It Was Harvard's Day to Be Criticised by the Experts.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—All the college crews were out yesterday, and the several famous trainers deserted their own crews to watch the work of their rivals. As a result each trainer is more confident that his is the winning team.

Coach Courtney of the Cornell crew decided that he would like to see the other crews row—a thing that in the work of preparing his own crew he had been unable to accomplish. He was particularly anxious to see Harvard's 'varsity row. He saw all of the crews with the exception of Yale.

Mr. Courtney declined to say anything about the chances of his own crew, but looked thoroughly well pleased with his first observation of Harvard's rowing, and said:

"I do not believe the Harvard crews are rowing any faster than they rowed last year. They start at the same quick 38 stroke, and settle it down to a stroke of 34, trying to set a killing pace. I think Yale can beat Harvard."

Coach Ward of the Pennsylvanians said: "The so-called longer stroke of Harvard is not visible. They make more effort with their backs, but less with their blades. I think Cornell's 'varsity crew can defeat Harvard's 'varsity crew as easily as it was done last year. It seems to me that the fight for first place will be between Yale and Cornell, with the chances in favor of Cornell."

Coach Cook of Yale rowed about the finish of the Harvard trial, looked on rather critically, declining positively to make a public criticism, but he did say to a Yale graduate later on:

"Harvard is not rowing as fast as she should. Cornell's morning practice was fast."

The adage that time and tide wait for no man is causing much vexatious worry among the crews and trainers of each, and there is a good deal of speculation as to what the outcome will be if the water conditions for the big race on Friday are not just what they are announced to be.

For the past three days there has not been any portion of the day when the tides were accurate in accordance with the government's prediction, and even the old river men have been at fault.

The agreement for the race for Friday has been signed and provides that the 'varsity race shall take place between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 p. m., to be rowed down the river. Any failure to begin the rowing before 5:30 acts as a postponement till some future day. If the wind and surface water conditions at 3:30 were such as to compel a postponement of the race for an hour there would be great danger of the men being caught between the flood and the ebb, and one of the three boats, probably the one in position No. 1, or nearest the shore, would be handicapped to an extent, making it impossible to win if that crew were the most capable rowing eight of the three. Of course, any one of the three crews, at the drawings which take place tonight, is liable to get that position so that, as one of the trainers said, "the toss of a cent may mean the loss of the race to the best crew."

A Thief's Confession.

Boston, June 22.—George C. Blair, with many aliases, who was arrested Saturday afternoon by Inspector Gaddis on a charge of stealing a bag containing $500 worth of diamonds and other valuables, the property of G. Butler Smith of the Hotel Vendome, and who claimed to have come from Virginia, told Inspector Watts that he is a native of the District of Columbia and that his father is a commander in the United States navy, now under suspension because he made some remark derogatory to Armiral Porter, and was tried by a court martial at Richmond, about seven years ago. "My first stealing," he said, "was done in order to get money to maintain a respectable appearance at college. I robbed my college mates right and left. I would relieve them of their valuables when we had our little suppers, and I had placed them under the table, so to speak. That was how I began. I have kept it up ever since. I have never served but one term, however, and that was in the state of Connecticut, on a charge of forgery."

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. FRESHMEN RACE TODAY

First of the Intercollegiate Contests at Poughkeepsie.

Yale's Good Luck Is Still With Her.

All the Men Are In Good Condition and Sure of Victory.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—The freshman boat race between Harvard, Yale and Cornell will be rowed up stream on the Hudson at 5:36 this afternoon. Cornell has drawn the course on the west side of the river, Harvard the middle course and Yale the east course, nearest the middle of the river. The time originally set for the race was 4:30, but at a conference of the representatives of the different colleges last night, the later hour was fixed, as it was thought that at that time the tide would be more favorable and fair to all.

The contest will be interesting as probably in a measure forecasting the outcome of the big 'varsity race of Friday.

The town has already taken on gala appearance and the afternoon trains yesterday brought in large additions to the colony of rooters who will fill the boats and the observation train. A festive bookmaker is in town and the fakirs are arriving also. The local police have been reinforced by a number of Pinkerton men, and the city is very lively, an indication of much more liveliness on Friday. The crews that row this afternoon vary in weight from an average of 171 pounds in the Yale boat to 157 pounds in the Cornell boat, and there is a difference in average of 14 pounds to a man between the Yale crew and the Cornell. Harvard coming in between.

Captain Stoddard, who will have charge of policing the course for all the races, anticipates little trouble from the private vessels and will devote most of his attention to the excursion boats. As fast as each of these boats arrives the cutter will run alongside and Captain Stoddard will personally hand to the captain of each vessel a copy of the rules of the course, as approved by the secretary of treasury according to an act of congress, and any captain who violates the same will be liable to a penalty of $500 fine.

The representatives of Yale, Harvard and Cornell held a protracted meeting yesterday afternoon to decide upon rules and other preliminaries as well as to choose courses for today's race. In this ceremony the proverbial "Yale luck" asserted itself. Two sets of slips, one set bearing the names of the colleges and the other set numbered from 1 to 3 were placed in two hats. First a college was drawn and then a number. In this was Cornell got No. 1, which is the course nearest the west shore; Harvard got the next one, No. 2; while Yale got the outer course, No. 3. It has always been claimed for the Poughkeepsie course that there is very little variation in the tide, whether close in shore or in midstream, but if there is any advantage to be had it will belong to Yale, as her course is almost in the middle of the river.

The 'varsity race on Friday has been set for 3:30 p. m., down stream. If it cannot be rowed at that hour it is to be rowed up stream not earlier than 6:45. If it cannot be rowed then, it goes over until Saturday at 3:30 p. m.

The colleges have selected the following men to look after their respective interests in the races:

Harvard—Judge, R. C. Lehmann; timekeeper, E. C. Storrow; representative, George S. Mumford; judge at the finish, C. H. McDuffie.

Cornell—Judge, Benjamin Ide Wheeler; timekeeper, Charles S. Francis; representative, Walter C. White; judge at the finish, F. G. Scofield.

Yale—Judge, R. J. Cook; timekeeper, Walter Camp; judge at the finish, J. J. McCormack; representative, not yet selected.

Robbed Church and Employer.

Melrose, Mass., June 23.—Two warrants have been issued against Charles S. Newhall of Melrose Highlands, one by the Boston police, alleging embezzlement of a sum, the exact amount of which is unknown, from the Agricultural Insurance company of Boston, of which he was bookkeeper, and the other by the Melrose authorities; charging embezzlement from the Melrose Congregational church. Newhall was treasurer of the church and also of the Melrose Co-operative bank. He has been missing for about a week. Newhall, who is about 31 years of age, left Boston a week ago and went to Framingham. He was brought back, and after promising to make restitution for any shortage was allowed to depart. He has not been seen since. Newhall was very prominent in social, club and athletic circles, having been the crack bowler of the Melrose Highlands team, and was one of the most popular young men in Melrose.

Yvette Guilbert Married.

Paris, June 23.—Yesterday afternoon the ceremony of civil marriage between Mlle. Yvette Guilbert, the celebrated cafe chantant artiste, and Dr. Max Schiller of New York, was performed at the office of the mayor. There was no religious ceremony.

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At Brooklyn—

After scoring 17 straight victories, Boston fell down before the Brooklyns at Eastern park yesterday afternoon. It was by no means a model contest and the Beaneaters had several chances of winning, but let them slip by. In the ninth inning Kennedy and Tenney almost came to blows. Tenney in touching out Kennedy used a little more force than was necessary. Kennedy, however, is mostly to blame for the scene.

Holidays Abolished.

Denver, June 23.—For the ensuing two years Colorado will be distinguished as the only state in the Union where the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years, Washington's birthday and Memorial day are not legal holidays. The discovery has just been made that an act of the late legislature in regard to the negotiable instruments repealed the statute establishing the above-named holidays. The only legal holidays left in Colorado are Arbor day, Labor day and the Saturday half holiday.

Republican Senators at Variance on Troublesome Wool Schedule.

Foraker and Allison Lose Their Tempers.

Vest Improves the Opportunity to Say Something Sarcastic.

Washington, June 23.—Suave Senator Allison lost his temper on the floor of the senate yesterday afternoon, and this shows how exciting the debate became in the liveliest session since the tariff bill was taken up. It was over the troublesome wool schedule, which, for a time, threatened to wreck the bill, for the Republican senators especially representing the wool growers openly rebelled against what they regarded as a breach of faith on the part of the managers of the bill, and intimated that the bill would never get any further unless the agreement, made first at the conference at Senator McMillan's house, and ratified as recently as Monday, was carried out.

Senator Quay was responsible for the cause of the excitement, for, on his return, he persuaded the finance committee Republicans to depart from their agreement, in the interest of the manufacturers whom he specially represented, and, in the attempt to carry out this change of policy, Senator Allison roused the wrath of the Western Republicans, and especially the representatives of the wool growers.

Mr. Foraker asserted that an agreement concerning rates on certain wools was being violated and that, under such circumstances, every senator would be free to act for himself.

Mr. Allison, with great vehemence, declared that he could not be driven by threats.

Mr. Carter, who had aroused the storm, endeavored to have the paragraphs relating to carpet wools go over with a view to securing some united action, but Mr. Vest, in an ironical speech, objected to delaying the era of prosperity and postponing the public business while Republican senators held a caucus.

Mr. Teller of Colorado also spoke against delay, and took occasion to say he would not vote for the bill unless objectionable features were eliminated.

Aside from this stormy interruption fair progress was made on the wool schedule. The duty on first-class wool was agreed to at 10 cents per pound, and on second-class wool, 11 cents, which is between the house and senate rates in each case. The rates on third-class wools went over. Most of the other amendments related to the classification of wools. On one of the amendments, Mr. Jones of Arkansas spoke against the entire schedule as severely oppressive on the consumers of woolen goods.

Not the Highwayman.

Reading, Mass., June 23.—After a short but exciting chase last night, Chief of Police Merrill apprehended and locked up a colored man, who gave his name as William Henry Monroe, on suspicion of being concerned in the holding up of the electric car last Friday night. Monroe was near the depot when Chief Merrill jumped out after him, but the man was too quick for the officer and started to run down the railroad track. The sight of a colored man running like mad along the track with the chief of police after him aroused the greatest excitement in the town and a great crowd joined in the pursuit. The chase was, however, a short one as the man stumbled and fell, and was almost immediately secured. On the way to the jail the officer and the captive were surrounded by a throng of citizens every one of whom had not the slightest doubt that the much-wanted colored highwayman had at last been captured. At the jail the man gave his name and told such a probable story that it is now believed that he knows nothing of the holdup.

Vermont G. A. R.

Bennington, Vt., June 23.—At the annual election of the Vermont G. A. R., held yesterday, Colonel E. W. Jewett of Swanton was elected department commander, C. T. S. Pierce of Vergennes, senior vice commander, and M. J. Sargent of South Royalton, junion vice commander. The other officers chosen were: Medical director, Dr. J. D. Hanrahan of Rutland; chaplain, D. E. Owens of Ludlow. Among the staff appointments are those of Rev. E. J. Ranslon, assistant adjutant general; E. D. Barnes of Swanton, assistant quartermaster general, and Joel C. Baker of Rutland, judge advocate general. The relief corps elected Mrs. Florence H. Gates of Morrisville, president; Mrs. Alice Willoughby of Island Pond, senior vice president, and Mrs. Gould of Ludlow, junior vice president.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. THERE WAS quite a little talk in the City Council Monday evening, that only debts for permanent improvements could be borrowed on a loan extending over one year, but the loan bill for Boston approved by Mayor Quincy contains $25,000 for street improvements in each ward of the city, and some $200,000 extra for special streets; $2000 for a deficit in one department; $34,500 for laying out streets; and many similar items. The loan as it now stands contains 72 items and amounts to $1,173,300. It is drawn for 20 years but Mayor Quincy would pay it in 10 years.

We do not know whether "permanent" and "current" cut any figure in loans, but it is evident that Boston includes the laying out of streets in long term loans. A good definition of "permanent" might be an improvement that is not required every year. The city will not be required to accept Miller Stile road every year, or Whitwell street, or to build a tide gate near the almshouse, etc. Nothing in the City Charter of Quincy prohibits borrowing on a term of years even for current expenses. The term does not appear as far as we know in any act relative to debt or loans.

These three sections from Chapter 29 of the Public Statutes relative to municipal indebtedness seem to cover the point:

SECT. 6. Cities and towns may by ordinary vote incur debts for temporary loans in anticipation of the taxes of the year in which such debts are incurred, and of the year next ensuing, and expressly made payable therefrom by vote of the city or town.

SECT. 7. Other debts than those mentioned in the preceding section shall be incurred only by a vote of two-thirds of the voters present and voting at a town-meeting, or of two-thirds of all the members of each branch of the City Council, taken by yeas and nays, and approved by the mayor; or, if he disapproves such vote, by another like vote taken after notice of such disapproval, which notice shall be given within ten days from the time in which the vote of the City Council is laid before the mayor; and if the mayor fails to give such notice to the branch of the City Council in which such vote was first taken, he shall be deemed to have approved such vote.

SECT. 8. All debts mentioned in the preceding section shall be payable within the following periods: namely, debts incurred in supplying the inhabitants with water, within not exceeding thirty years; debts incurred in constructing sewers, within not exceeding twenty years; and all other debts within not exceeding ten years.

The proposed loans seems to come under the last clause of the section, "and all other debts within not exceeding ten years." That appropriations may be grouped is plain from Section 3 of Chapter 312 of the Acts of 1885, viz:

SECT. 3. When an ordinance, order, resolution or vote of a city council, or of either branch thereof, involving the appropriation or expenditure of money, or the raising of a tax, and including several items or sums, is presented to the mayor of a city for his approval, he may approve some of the items or sums, and disapprove others; and in case of such disapproval the portion of the ordinance, order, resolution or vote so approved shall be in force, in like manner as if the items or sums disapproved had never been a part thereof; and the mayor shall return a statement of the items or sums disapproved, with his objections in writing, to that branch of the city council in which the ordinance, order, resolution or vote originated. The items or sums so disapproved shall not be in force unless passed by the city council, or by that branch thereof by which the ordinance, order, resolution or vote was passed, if passed by one branch only, in the manner provided in section six, chapter twenty-eight of the Public Statutes.

It has been claimed that debts to be paid within ten years must be in equal annual payments, but we fail to find such a requirement in the Statutes. It is the aim of the LEDGER to prevent an increase in the debt maturing in the year 1898, and the City Council will be blessed by the taxpayers if it lightens the burdens of taxation the next few years. Our municipal debt is not large and should not continue oppressive, but it will if one-year loans are made.

THE CITY should hesitate before it offers for sale at a sacrifice the old High school and the old engine house on School street. The former is likely to be needed for school purposes soon, possibly for a kindergarten.

The Boston and Western States mail which arrived at 12.30 now arrives at 1 o'clock.

Commencing today a new mail will be received from New York direct at 2 o'clock. By this mail letters mailed in New York before 6.30 A. M., will be delivered in Quincy by carriers at 3 o'clock.

The Boston, Eastern, New York and Southern states mail which arrived at 3 o'clock now arrives at 3 30.

OUTWARD.

The mail that closed for Boston, Eastern and Southern states at 9 15 A. M., now closes at 10 o'clock.

The mail for Boston, Eastern, New York, South and West, that closed at 10 30 A. M., now closes at 10.45.

The mail for Boston and Cape Cod R. P. O. that closed at 3 30 P. M. now closes at 3 00.

On Sundays the outward Western mail that closed at 5 30 P. M. will close at 4.45 P. M. There will also be an outward mail closing at 5.30 P. M. as now.

Attempt at Suicide.

George W. Rockwell of Quincy avenue attempted suicide Tuesday afternoon by slashing his left arm with a razor. It is said that he has been drinking hard for a week or more and this was probably what caused him to attempt his life. He slashed his arm in a horrible manner cutting the arteries through to the bone causing his arm to bleed profusely. Dr. Welch was summoned and ordered his removal to the City Hospital. On the way to the Hospital Rockwell became violent and it required two men to hold him. It was thought at first that he had lost so much blood that he would die, but it is now thought that he will recover although the physicians say that he will never recover the use of his arm, and that it will have to be amputated. Rockwell was a blacksmith and at one time had a shop on Quincy avenue.

Copeland Street Loan.

City Treasurer Gray opened bids Tuesday for the four per cent. $17,000 loan for Copeland street paving. The premium was not as large as on the sewer loan, but the amount was small compared with that. The bids were:

Club Book.

The club book of the Quincy Yacht club for 1897 has been issued and is as usual a complete manual for the yachtsmen, arranged by the efficient secretary, Mr. James S. Whiting. The frontispiece is a fine view of the clubhouse. It contains a list of the officers and past officers, the list of members with year of election and address; list of yachts with length, builder, etc; by-laws and rules of the club; also regatta fixtures, courses, club flags, uniforms, etc. It is bound in cloth as in the past.

The Women's Guild of the Episcopal church held a strawberry festival in the chapel on Tuesday evening. The grounds around the chapel were illuminated with many Japanese lanterns and presented a very pretty appearance. The only form of entertainment provided was an art exhibition that was very good and afforded considerable amusement. Ice cream, cake, strawberries and home made candies were for sale and it is hoped that quite a large sum was netted. The proceeds are to help pay for the new vestments of the choir.

Food undigested, is poison. Digested, it is life and strength. Millions of us suffer from indigestion, but we often don't know it. We think it is something else. Even doctors often mistake the symptoms.

Pale, thin people, who are overworked, who need strength, who seem in want of proper food, should take Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is astonishing what food will do, when properly digested.

It will make you strong, revive you, refresh you, sustain you, make you fat, restore your color, make muscle, brain fibre, courage, endurance, energy; increase your power to throw off disease and keep you healthy and happy.

Indigestion does just the opposite, but indigestion can be cured and prevented with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cents.

John A. Galvin has a copy of the Washington Federalist printed May 24, 1802, which among other things contains a notice of the death of Martha Washington.

Mr. Isaac G. Wilbur of Wollaston, who has been confined to his house the past six weeks by injuries received in a runaway accident, was able to go out for the first time on Monday.

There was evidence of the churches of the city coming together, but with one pastor about to go to California and another to Europe it looks as though the Presbyterians and Congregationalists were to be estranged.

West Quincy people will be glad when Copeland street is paved but as the money will not be borrowed until after July first it will be some time after that before work is commenced. How about putting in the sewer pipe first?

The Triangle Wheelmen will run to Franklin Park tonight. Start will be made at 7 o'clock. The Opie Brothers on their tandem will set the pace, and Prof. Johnson, the club's new bugler, will be out with his new tooter.

There is great rejoicing at the car house of the Quincy & Boston railway today, the reason being that after weeks of patient urging one of the conductors accepted a contribution of 25 cents from his fellow employes and had his hair trimmed.

George F. Field, Daisy C. Bemis, Mary J. Leary, Mary F. Sampson and Barbara E. Vogler were graduated from the Bridgewater Normal school on Tuesday; Mr. Field took the three years' course and the others the two years' course.

There was a report at the Centre this morning that a well known West Quincy man was dead. We are pleased to say however that the report is not true. He has been quite ill with pneumonia, but is now reported as a little better.

Edward J. Fegan of this city who took the second affirmative in the debate of the Bapst Debating society of Boston college on Monday evening, was awarded the medal donated by Dr. Michael F. Gavin of South Boston. The question was: "Has Massachusetts gained more glory from her statesmen than from her authors?"

Mr. Michael J. Carey of South street is the only Quincy boy to graduate from Boston college this year. Mr. Carey was graduated at the Washington school. His course in college has been marked by hard and assiduous study and his friends and associates are much pleased at his successful completion of his collegiate career.

Quincy is by no means the bicyclers' paradise as there is hardly a road of any length that can be called first class. The road to Milton is good; the road to Neponset—well the less said the better for one's temper; on the road to Quincy Point the stones prick through making riding uncomfortable; the road to Braintree is rutty, gravelly and narrow; the Houghs Neck road is fair, and so it goes.

Three ladies from Pawtucket, Rhode Island, were in town yesterday visiting historical places. They dined at The Greenleaf and were much pleased with the hotel it was so comfortable and homelike. One of the ladies said it was not many years ago that her husband in driving through Quincy wished to stop for dinner but could not find a hotel or restaurant, while now there were several good places where one could be accommodated.

A stranger in our city walking down Adams street called attention to the unsightly burdock and weeds growing along the sidewalk and gutters asking how such things were allowed on a pretty street like Adams. Beyond the bridge things looked more shipshape, as the residents mow the grass edge and keep the street and gutters cleared and in good condition. The city should keep our main street in an attractive condition, as visitors notice these shortcomings.

"NO LONGER A POWER."

Professor Thomas Addresses Wellesley Graduates on the Need of Good Poetry.

Wellesley, Mass., June 23.—Commencement was observed yesterday afternoon at Wellesley college, a class of 149 young ladies receiving degrees of A. B., while four members of the alumni were given the degree of A. M.

Professor Calvin Thomas of Columbia university delivered the commencement address. He said in part: "In these days it would seem that poetry is no longer a power in the lives of men, but has become merely the delight of connoisseurs. Longfellow, Tennyson and Browning have no equals at the present time. The poetry of today is mostly of a lower order of merit, though much of it is excellent. Good poetry lives forever, and while it has been said that the frivolous poetry produced in our time is injurious, to my mind it seems that productions of this nature are soon forgotten, and not being taken seriously, prove to be one of the most harmless of vices. Again it is said that poetry is not needed. It is needed. It satisfies a fundamental and imperishable need in our lives. It is necessary for our pleasure, for consolation and for our joy.

"Some very great works of fiction will in a degree take the place of poetry, but it is a long descent. Without poetry we would cease to be emotional beings and become mere thinking machines."

Bryan's Reply to Bateman.

Cincinnati, June 23.—The Enquirer prints the following statement by Hon. W. J. Bryan in answer to Professor Bateman's attack on Mr. Bryan: When asked by an Enquirer reporter concerning the charges made by Professor Bateman, the People's party candidate for governor of Maine last year, Mr. Bryan said: "No conditions were attached to the money turned over to Senator Allen, except that it should be used according to Mr. Allen's judgment for the cause of bimetallism. All donations were made for that purpose. The money was divided between Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans in proportion to the vote cast. To have ignored the Populists in the distribution would have been an inexcusable slight. The subject of fusion was not discussed directly or indirectly. Mr. Bateman, I presume, has reference to the letter as reproduced in my book. I took it from the newspapers. If Professor Bateman proves to me that it was a mistake I shall make the change in subsequent editions."

McKinley Talks on Cuba.

London, June 23.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Graphic reports an interview with President McKinley, in the course of which the president said he saw no great difference pending with Great Britain as to the seal question. "It is unsettled," said the president, "but I am in hopes that the British government will be in better humor after the jubilee." With reference to Cuba the correspondent of The Graphic represents President McKinley as saying: "I anticipate no departure from the policy of my predecessor. We have no reason to interfere in a quarrel between Spain and her colonies. Our interests are not sufficiently jeopardized to warrant other than diplomatic interference. Moreover, Spain has given respectful attention to every grievance we have submitted thus far. I admit that circumstances may arise to change the present policy of the government, but large bodies move slowly."

German Cabinet Changes.

Berlin, June 23.—The Gazette publishes the appointment of Rear Admiral Tirpitz as the substitute for Prince Hohenlohe, the chancellor, so far as naval matters are concerned. This announcement seems to imply that he will be invested with full powers. The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the official organ, says that Baron von Bulow, the German ambassador to Italy, has been summoned to meet Emperor William at Hellgoland, and hints that he will be appointed to succeed Freiherr von Marschall as secretary of foreign affairs.

Telephone Convention.

Detroit, June 23.—The campaign of the Independent telephones of the United States against the American Bell Telephone company was opened yesterday afternoon at Harmonica hall by the organization of a national association of independent companies. Delegates to the convention were not as numerous as was expected, about 300 taking part in the first meeting.

A Brave Schoolteacher.

Lowell, Mass., June 23.—Miss Gertrude Edmund, principal of the Lowell training school, was attacked by a highwayman while on her way home Monday evening. The man pointed a revolver at her and demanded her money, but Miss Edmund struck him in the face with a handbag she was carrying and he fled without further ceremony.

The Wollaston Service.

Editors of the Ledger:

The efforts of a few Brockton people in attempting to thwart by every means in their power quick transportation for Quincy and Wollaston, deserves the severest condemnation. It was through their efforts that Wollaston owes the loss of several of its most important trains, notably the outward 5.15 P. M. and 6.15 P. M. and the inward 7.33 A. M. These trains were run for the general public and not for a few Brocktonians who each desired a whole seat to himself. They were largely patronized by Wollaston people. They were seldom overcrowded. They were patronized by people who travel over the road as a matter of business, going and returning from their daily work. They furnished transportation for a place whose existence depends upon good train service, nine-tenths of whose male population work in Boston. The New Haven management in giving in to this Brockton clamor showed surprising weakness. It is a fact that Brockton boasts that the New Haven managements dare not refuse any request for trains which comes from that city. From appearances it looks very much as if this boast was well founded, as Brockton gets 23 outward trains and Quincy 24, daily. Dedham, which has one-third of Quincy's population, and is approximately the same distance from Boston as Quincy, has 34 outward trains, daily! It is little wonder that the Quincy & Boston street railway is making large inroads on the New Haven's Boston and Quincy traffic.

Camp Durrell, for the boys will open at West Gloucester July 6. It will last two weeks. Circulars giving full particulars can be secured at the rooms. At least one of the boys will go to the Maratime boys' camp on Cailiffs island. This camp is under the supervision of Mr. Robinson, who was present at the boys' conference and made so many friends among the Quincy boys.

The Rockland Association Bicycle club, ten members in all, visited the rooms last evening and spent a pleasant hour inspecting the educational exhibit and talking "wheels."

A reception to new members will be given at the rooms Saturday evening of this week. Old members who have secured at least one new member since May first will be allowed to participate in the festivities. The rest can only look on and let their mouths water.

Flag Raising.

There was a gathering of congenial spirits at the cottage of Peter Turner at Rock Island on Tuesday afternoon which ended in a flag raising. After the mast had been made ready, the party gathered about, and as the stars and stripes were hoisted to the mast head, Peter got out his gun and fired a salute, and the party cheered. An adjournment was then made to the veranda, where Selectman J. Walter Bradlee of Milton made a few remarks of a congratulatory nature, after which refreshments were served.

Liquid Vegetables.

Gilmore Spring was arrested by Officers Fitzgerald and Butler at Weymouth, Tuesday night, for the illegal transportation of liquor. Spring had a load of vegetables which he was apparently selling but when the officers looked through his team they found under the vegetables 119 pint bottles of whiskey. As there was some question as to whether this could be classed as vegetables the officers took charge of the load and will let Judge Humphrey settle the question.

Sad Day at Coddington.

There was a pathetic scene at the teachers' meeting at the Coddington school yesterday, as four of the teachers severed their connection with the school. In the past the changes have been few at this building, Miss Dearborn, the principal, having filled her position for 21 years, and Miss Underwood, another teacher, is in her 43d year.

Miss Frances Forsaith, a teacher since 1891, goes to Newton, Miss Mary H. Day has accepted a position at Springfield, Miss. Lina Bates will become principal of a school at Somerville, and Miss Mabel E. Oxford will teach no more. Misses Forsaith, Day and Bates were all valuable teachers.

Phi Beta Kappa.

Frederic Allison Tupper, the headmaster of the Quincy High school, who was graduated from Harvard in 1880 and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, has written a lengthy letter to the Transcript, relative to enlarging the number eligible for admission to the fraternity. He fears that as the graduating classes increase the ratio will gradually become so small as to be an element of little importance in influencing men to work for the distinction of membership.

SOCIETY'S BOLD FOE.

MYRIAD WOES WROUGHT BY THE DEMON OF DIVORCE.

The Catholic Church Alone Has Taken a Firm Stand Against the Evil—Divorce For Any Cause Means Divorce For Every Cause.

Society depends upon the family. The individual is the family unit. The family is the social unit. Where the family is pure and strong society is pure and strong; where the family is corrupt and weak society is corrupt and weak, until the nation dies in the throes of moral corruption.

The family depends upon marriage, and marriage depends upon the unity, the sanctity and the indissolubility of the marriage tie. Destroy this, and you destroy the marriage, the family and therefore society. Divorce a vinculo logically involves divorce ad libitum—i. e., divorce for any cause logically involves divorce for every cause, and both the ancient and modern words have so developed it.

In the beginning ancient Rome was comparatively pure, and her eagles were everywhere carried to victory. Man then claimed the right of repudiation, which was denied to the woman, but it was finally granted the woman, and corruption became general. The day arrived when all Rome—senators and consuls and generals and Cato, the moralist—could assemble to witness the public degradation of woman, and then the barbarian knocked at Rome's gate, and there was none to carry her eagles to victory.

The gospel came. The gospel gave back to woman her dignity, and to the marriage tie its sanctity and indissolubility. Whatever was the nature of the Mosaic concessions, our Lord distinctly revoked them and restored marriage to its original constitution. St. Luke, and St. Mark, and St. Paul in two places tell us distinctly that only death can free one from the marriage tie. And yet people with the Bible always in their hands and the name of our Lord on their lips dare to sanction that source of corruption for society and that means of degrading woman.

Every sect that has risen within the Catholic church and thrown off its authority has likewise departed from the original constitution of the family. The Greek schism allowed it, and, however some may attempt to pervert history and disown its origin, it was the beginning of the Anglican schism. Every other religion has been weak here. Only the Catholic church has saved the family. In vain do men attempt to put limits or plan conditions. Divorce, once admitted, involves the total destruction of the family. Hence the literature, the poetry and the philosophy of the rationalist school, which carry the principle of divorce to the extreme, deny that marriage involves any obligation, deny that man can take on himself any indissoluble obligation or contract and finally teach that the sole reason of marriage is the mutual inclination; that when that dies marriage dies of itself.

This is taught in more than one novel, more than one poem, more than one drama. It is the logical sequence of the admission of divorce for any cause whatsoever, this, the metaphysics of corruption.

Against all these doctrines the Catholic church takes her stand. She has maintained the unity, the sanctity and the indissolubility of the marriage contract against all contradicters, and many of the conflicts between the popes and the emperors of the middle ages arose from the fact that the church obliged the king, as well as the subject, to obey the moral law.

Now it is evident that the family depends upon this doctrine, that society depends upon the family, and, as this doctrine is taught and maintained by the Catholic church alone, therefore the progress of the world depends upon her. All others have been weak here; all others have given way. The Catholic church alone has had the divine strength to resist, and amid all her titles to glory this is one of the greatest, and where all is divine this is her masterpiece.—Rev. Father D. J. Stafford.

The Church and the Workingman.

His holiness the pope in trying to solve the social problem bases his solution on the gospel of Christ in its teaching of justice and charity in all relations between employers and employees. The pope insists on the rights of the workingman being recognized. The workingman has the right to live, and he must have the right to all the means of existence, the right to remuneration for his labor. The supreme pontiff holds that nature has provided enough for all, and if every employer paid a fair rate of wages the workingman would have a respectable means of living. If employers, instead of banding together to reduce wages, would heed the words of the pope, then there would be no poverty, no beggary, no degradation. The church has always worked for the masses, for the workingmen; her congregations have always been made up mostly of poor people, and she shall always continue to fight for their rights.—Rev. Father Philip O'Ryan.

A Bishop's Wit.

Bishop Harkins of Providence, in replying to the address made to him recently on the occasion of the presentation to him of a bronze bust of himself, wittily said that in after years when time had left its marks upon him more plainly, he would doubtless be duly grateful to the donors for having given him that "counterfeit presentment" of himself. For, however ill favored he might then be, the bust would remind him that he had once passed for a healthy and robust man. He did not claim that the bust looked like him now, but the time would come when he would be glad to claim that he once looked like the bust.—Boston Herald.

A Caution.

Chief Engineer Williams calls attention to the dangerous practice of many bicycle riders, who when a fire alarm sounds seems to forget that the fire apparatus has the right of way and instead of keeping out of the way of the rapidly approaching apparatus they are continually getting in the way, often obliging the drivers to haul up their teams to prevent running them down. This is no uncommon thing but it happens at every alarm. The firemen do not wish to run anyone down but unless bicycle riders in the future use more care someone will certainly get hurt. At the recent fire at Norfolk Downs one young man came near being run over. He was riding in front of the engineers wagon and instead of turning out one side to let him pass he continued to hold the street forcing the engineer to turn out. As it was he came near being run down. A bicycle rider may be able to keep ahead of the apparatus but if anything should happen to his wheel he would certainly be run over.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. ERYSIPELAS

Two Diseases That Cause Their Victims to Be Shunned by Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD, Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly, W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.

Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.

P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once.

P. P. P. cures blood poisoning in all its various stages, old ulcers, sores and kidney complaints.

Sold by all druggists.

DR. HOBBS

HEARS MORE REPORTS.

Notwithstanding So Many People Have Already Reported, the Number Increases Daily.

All Say They Have Received Great Benefit and Feel that a Speedy and Permanent Cure Will Follow.

The Test is Regarded on All Sides, So Far, as a Forerunner of Great Success.

It is but a short time ago since the great free distribution of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills was made at A. G. Durgin's Drug Store, in this city, but numerous highly favorable reports of the benefits derived from using the samples are coming in every day. The demand for the remedy at our drug store is exceeding our expectations. Those who obtained samples are coming back after full boxes—all with a pleased confidence in their speedy recovery from disease.

This condition prevails also in the surrounding country, from which many applications were received for samples.

Tests so far have gone to show that Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills produce favorable results with a degree of quickness heretofore unknown in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases and all ailments arising therefrom. At the same time no reasonable person would expect that within a few days from the time the first sample of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills was given out good effect would be generally manifest, as the very nature of kidney diseases is such that a reasonable amount of time and patience will be found necessary to test their real virtues.

People who have dosed themselves with all kinds of so-called kidney medicines, until not only their kidneys, but their entire system is in a state of prostration, should not expect to be cured in a day or two by Dr. Hobbs' grand remedy, however great his claims may be. The man who would advertise to cure Bright's disease—that fearful, insidious and dangerous ailment—in a few hours, should be drummed out of town as an impostor and a man trifling with human life. The modesty of Dr. Hobbs' claims is one thing that especially commends him and his remedy to the public.

They soothe, heal and cure any inflammation of the kidneys and bladders.

They cure Backache.

They cause the kidneys to filter out of the blood all poisons and impurities, whether made in the system or taken in from the outside.

They render sluggish kidneys active.

They cause the kidneys to cast out the poison of rheumatism (uric acid), the disease germs of malaria and the grippe.

They cause the kidneys to keep the blood pure and clean, and thus prevent neuralgia, headache, dizziness, nervous dyspepsia, skin diseases, eruptions, scales, tetters and rashes.

They cause the kidneys to work steadily and regularly.

They dissolve and cast out brickdust and and phosphate deposits and dissolve gravel and calculi in both the kidneys and bladder.

They cure Bright's disease.

They cause the kidneys to rapidly rid the system of the poisons of alcohol and tobacco.

They yield a clear mind, sweet sleep, steady nerves, active bodies, brimful of the zest and happiness of living, bright eyes and rosy cheeks, because they keep the blood free from poisons and impurities that would otherwise clog and irritate it.

Healthy kidneys make pure blood.

Pure blood makes perfect health.

Perfect health makes life worth living.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills do this, and do it at all times.

DIAMOND JUBILEE, BY DR. DEPEW.

Resistless Torrent of Irrepressible Joy and Pride Followed Queen.

WILLING SUBJECTS CHEER RULER.

Loyalty Concentrates From All Quarters of Earth.

POLYGLOT SOLDIERY IN PARADE.

Lessons of Self-Government Taught by the United States—Our Neighbors In Canada Lead the Colonials—No Words Adequate to Describe the Spectacle—Queen's Influence Is For Peace.

London, June 23.—The great day of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee has come and gone. As a whole the celebration was one of the most notable events of her reign. Millions viewed the mighty pageant that passed through London streets to do her honor. Those same millions cheered themselves hoarse when the familiar face of the aged monarch appeared.

The city was magnificiently decorated and at night the glare of innumerable lights transformed the murky town into a fairyland.

The touch of a button flashed the prayerful good wishes of the queen for her subjects' welfare around the world. Beacon fires lit up all the hilltops of Britain. The colonies of the empire all over the globe joined in the demonstrations of loyalty. Only here and there were the mutterings of discontent audible.

Earl Howe, the gold stick, while riding behind the queen in the procession was thrown from his horse and received a nasty cut on the head. He was taken home in an ambulance and late last night was reported as progressing favorably. Lord Howe is in his 76th year.

Chauncey M. Depew has written the following impressions of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.

"The diamond jubilee procession has passed and has left a lasting impression. Its preparation required 60 years, and it was over in 60 minutes. Pride, power and adoration were its characteristics. Pride in the imperial position of Great Britain in the world, and exhibition of power which inspires this national exaltation and fervid loyalty in action, expression and thought for the queen.

"As to the pageant it was dramatic and historic. The lord mayor, in his robes of office, meeting the sovereign at the city gates, recalled the early suggestions of liberty, in the privileges won from kings by free cities, and the sheriff, in Mediaeval costume, escorting the monarch within his bailiwick, gave a glimpse of the origin and recognition of civil rights by the throne.

"The monarch escorted by princes and guarded by the military forces of the realms, both regulars and volunteers, national and colonial, evidenced the strength and permanency of the monarchial system with this people.

"We Americans glory in our country and in its marvelous developments in 100 years, and duly assert ourselves on the Fourth of July.

"The celebration by the Germans of the 25th anniversary of the battle of Sedan and the founding of the German empire, which I saw, was a wonderful exhibition of race and national feeling.

But the concentrated and irrepressible joy and pride which preceded, accompanied and followed the queen like a resistless torrent, surpassed anything ever witnessed before. Though many races and many tongues participated, the dominent and absorbing expression was English and the glory was England's. Peers and commoners, masters and workmen, millionaires and the multitude, were welded by a tremendous force. This concentration of loyalty from the remotest corners of the earth into the wild, frantic mass of patriotic enthusiasm, had an effect upon observers which can be likened to nothing so much as to the North and South electrified by the first gun fired at Fort Sumter or by the Seventh regiment marching down Broadway to the defense of the capital.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

"The enthusiasm and shouting were far different from those evoked by the triumphal procession of a Roman conqueror. Men and women eagerly expressed to each other and emphasized to foreigners as the colonials marched by that they were not captives chained to the chariot of their conqueror, but willing subjects, free citizens of one world-wide empire following their sovereign.

"White, yellow and black soldiers trooped by, each accelerating and increasing the tidal wave of enthusiasm and presenting a panorama of power unequalled in history. The seeds of this power were in the American revolution, and it expanded into this wonderful spectacle by the principles of self-government so triumphantly vindicated by the founders of the United States. The sovereign and the British statesmen who believed the colonies should be governed from London and taxed for the benefit of the mother country lost for England the American colonies and the sovereign and statesmen, taught by our success, who have left to each settlement absolute independence and home rule, have builded upon these foundations, and hastily strengthened by this reunion the British federation of empire.

"Among the American spectators there was no jealousy nor stint of praise and applause. We could both glory in the vitality and virility of the mother country and rejoice mightily. We were not marching in the procession, but we were present as the proud equals in all that constitutes a free people and a great nation.

"It was pleasing to note our neighbors of Canada. They easily took the lead among the colonials, and the fact that the province of Quebec was in rebellion when Victoria came to the throne, and that her premier, now here, is a Frenchman and a Catholic, appealed to English imagination. That the descendants of Montcalm and his countrymen should vie with the children of Wolfe and his soldiers in their loyalty, and that Canada has made a beginning by favoring Great Britain as against other nations in her tariff, have touched both the British heart and pocket.

Words Too Tame.

"I can conjure no tribute like the popular ovation to the queen ever being given to any human being, except the reception to Washington by the people on his way from Mount Vernon to New York to assume the position of first president of the United States. Respect, reverence, love or gratitude are words too tame, and there is no intermediate expression between them and adoration. This practical age does not worship. But leaving out the idea of divinity, the greeting to the queen and empress is its equivalent. That she was deeply moved was evident, but she seemed more absorbed by the insignificance of the event than conscious of her past. Therein she impressed me as proud and happy with this grand tribute of her people, but at the same time shared with them the universal joy in the thought of both oppressed and elevated that there has not been such a 60 years in recorded time that all nations have enjoyed its benefits and blessings, and none more than our own.

"But, for this day and place, the crowd only saw what Great Britain had gained during her reign and accorded praise therefor to her. Her reign has been a period of emancipation in English history. The prerogatives of the throne have diminished, and by her rule and conduct its power has so increased that this welcome came with such acclaim and unanimity from the free people, governing themselves, who gave it its might and majesty.

"Making due allowance for the exaltation of the hour, Victoria will occupy a great place in the history of the 19th century. Her influence for peace has been of momentous consequence to Great Britain, Europe and civilization.

"She has always been cordial in her friendships and anxious for the loftiest relationship with the United States.

"Her messages, sweet, tender and womanly, to the widow of Lincoln and the wife of dying Garfield gave her a warm welcome and a permanent memory in our American homes. In estimating her influence we must picture what might have occurred with a warlike or corrupt sovereign, and recognize her power of accumulating a force of 60 years of wisdom as a ruler and as the best example as woman, wife and mother."

General Nelson A. Miles is quoted as saying that the military parade was the greatest ever seen in the world.

Night Illuminations.

With the coming of night the crowds which had filtered out of the processional streets after the great show wedged back again to view London alight. The sight was worth the trouble and risk, both considerable. The illuminations were achieved more artistically than the decorations by day. The symbols of loyalty and affection, of imperial grandeur, and the growth of the empire that had met the eye in painted and gilded mottoes, devices of paper and bunting and spangled cloth were reflected for miles in lines of flaring gas, glow-worm oil lamps, opal globes, paper lanterns and transparencies, incandescent lamps, celluloid flowers and hundreds of devices in thousands of colored crystals. Everywhere was brilliancy, sparkle, color, at many points a dazzling radiancy under the mild summer sky.

In Ireland.

The jubilee was celebrated in almost all parts of Ireland with enthusiasm by public official fetes, decorations, illuminations and bonfires.

The Parnellites, however, were very busy with counter demonstrations. In Dublin a procession went through the streets carring a black flag and a coffin labelled, "The British Empire," and smashing the windows of illuminated houses. The city has not been so thoroughly excited since the death of Parnell.

Last evening a large meeting was held in the Dublin town hall in memory of the rebellion of '98, and speeches were made glorifying the men who were the heroes of that movement.

At Cork the national societies hung out black flags and attempted to hoist one on the municipal flagstaff, though the police interfered. Last night the hilltops were all ablaze with bonfires.

At Limerick the police removed black flags from the town hall and from a number of public monuments. During the evening John Daly addressed a small hostile demonstration. As against this the Royal Irish regiment held a military tattoo, and there were several torchlight processions, in all of which large numbers of citizens participated.

Throughout the United Kingdom and the colonies and in the principal European cities there were enthusiastic celebration of the event, and no untoward incident is reported from any quarter.

The Times, referring editorially to the presence of United States troops at the jubilee review in Ottawa, says:

The news of this incident will be hailed with satisfaction throughout the length and breadth of the empire. They, too, are of our blood, speak our tongue and understand, as we understand, the blessing of civil and religious liberty under strong, intelligent government. They have attained it by means different from ours, but that does not prevent them from joining us, at the bottom of their hearts, in the prayer, "God Save the Queen."

HANNA INDORSED.

Ohio Republican Convention Stands by the Senator Against Bushnell.

Toledo, June 23.—The Ohio Republican state convention assembled here yesterday. There is no opposition to the indorsement of Senator M. A. Hanna for both the long and the term as senator, and there is no opposition to the renomination of Governor Bushnell and other state officers who have only had one term.

The contest has been on the state campaign committee chairmanship. Senator Hanna wanted Major Charles F. W. Dick, secretary of the national committee, for the place. Governor Bushnell and other state officers wanted Chairman Charles F. Kurtz, who has managed the past two campaigns, retained.

When Mr. Hanna arrived he held a number of conferences with both factions, but at none of them could the contestants reach an amicable understanding.

The contesting factions carried their claims into the meetings of the delegates by congressional districts and Mr. Hanna won more than two to one. He controlled the district meetings and the convention more firmly than the St. Louis convention last year. Major Dick claims the committeemen from 15 of the 21 congressional districts, with two districts contested and four districts conceded to Kurtz. The Kurtz men concede their defeat.

Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell held a conference again last night. While the governor regrets the defeat of Chairman Kurtz, he will not decline renomination.

Providing For "Reconcentrados."

Havana, June 23.—Captain General Weyler's decree authorizing certain public works, with a view of giving employment to the "reconcentrados," was issued yesterday. It provides for the immediate construction of several new high roads and for strategic railway lines in the provinces of Pinar Del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara. It is estimated that the various undertakings will involve the employment of 3350 men. The decree also directs that the proceeds of the sale of confiscated cattle shall be appropriated toward meeting the outlay, and instructs all municipal authorities for the future to provide funds necessary to maintain the local military hospitals.

Car Hit Circus Wagon.

Portland, Me., June 23.—While leaving their circus grounds in Dearing last night a team connected with the Washburn show was struck by an electric car. The driver, Augustus B. Bryant of Suncook, N. H., was taken to the hospital with a broken leg. One of the horses was so badly hurt that it had to be killed.

Increased Demand For Raw Wool.

Boston, June 23.—There has been an increase in the demand for raw material in the wool market here this week. The tone of the market is better and buyers are fairly disposed to operate. There has been some fair sized lots of territory wools sold at market prices. Fleece wools continue dull, with prices nominal. The sales of Australian wools continue to be good, with a hardening of prices in some grades.

Pugilistic Fiasco.

Portland, Me., June 23.—The pugilistic exhibition billed for last night proved to be a fiasco. None of the advertised bouts came off. A couple of local boxers did a turn. A young man juggled the clubs and a colored individual made a bluff at singing. The crowd of some 300 wanted their money back, but did not get it. There were threats of handling the projectors of the affair without gloves, but they were not put into execution.

Yale Freshmen Victorious, but Harvard Made Them Pull For It.

A Hot Two-Mile Race From Start to Finish.

All Previous Freshman Records Beaten by the Three Crews.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—Yale freshmen won a hotly fought rowing contest yesterday in fine style. All freshmen's records were broken by the three contestants. Harvard was second and Cornell third. Yale's time was 9m. 19½s.; Harvard's, 9:26½, and Cornell's, 9:29½. Columbia held the record until yesterday. Her time was 9:41, made at New London in 1891. The Hudson was perfect yesterday, and this record will probably stand for a long time.

The victory is looked upon by the crowds here as being in some measure indicative of the result of tomorrow's big 'varsity race. It is not contended that the order of finish will be the same, for Mr. Lehmann of Harvard has all along said that his freshmen had been badly neglected and could not be looked upon as a representative freshmen crew. On the contrary, the Yale crew of youngsters has been said to be more sure of winning than their 'varsity, while Mr. Courtney's Cornell crews have had equal attention paid to them. The chances, therefore, as picked out, are that the order of Friday's finish is liable to be Harvard, Yale, Cornell.

When the crews were given the word and the pistol shot Harvard got the best clip upon the water, and in a few strokes drew to the front, closely followed by the Cornell crew, with Yale almost a quarter length to the rear.

Harvard and Cornell started at 35 strokes to the minute, and Yale at a sweeping stroke of 38. At the eighth mile Yale finding that she was trailing behind, increased her stroke to 36, and began to draw up, while Harvard and Cornell dropped down to 34 each. At the quarter Yale was still behind, but seemed to be rowing easily, while Cornell and Harvard were working hard, Cornell drawing up upon the Harvard lead. Yale was easing up her stroke, and within the next half mile brought it down to 33 and 34, but even then she seemed to gain, and there was a perceptible dash to the boat that seemed lacking in the others. There was little or no hang, while the Harvard boat seemed to go hard and the Cornell boys did not seem to be able to keep up to the mark, acting as though they had been too finely trained. At the three-quarter mark Yale was coming up rapidly upon Harvard and Cornell, rowing 35 to the minute, while Harvard and Cornell, evidently feeling the effect of the pace in the first mile, had dropped to 34 each. It was here that it became apparent that the heavier weight in the Yale boat was going to prove troublesome to the lighter youngsters in the Harvard boat and the still lighter ones in the Cornell shell. Just crossing the mile line, Yale had pulled her boat up even with that of Harvard, and was shoving its nose forward a few inches with each stroke. Cornell was laboring a length behind Harvard, rowing a rapid 36-stroke to Harvard's 35 and Yale's steady 33.

Yale Opens a Breach.

From that point on to the finish Yale rowed steadily at 33 and 34, quickening to 36 several lengths from the finish in an endeavor to make the breach between her old enemy, Harvard, and herself a trifle wider. And although Harvard picked her stroke up to 36 after passing the mile and held it there until the finish, it lacked power, and the boat dropped gradually behind, crossing the line a trifle over two lengths behind the Yale boat.

When Yale passed both the Harvard and Cornell crews, just beyond the mile mark, Cornell, who had pulled their boat on to even terms, and perhaps, as seen from the observation train, slightly in advance of Harvard, made a desperate effort to keep Yale from gaining, but it was of less avail even than Harvard's effort, and at the mile and a half there was clear water between Cornell and Harvard. From there on to the finish Cornell whooped it up to 36 per minute and closed up the gap slightly, finishing just about an even length in Harvard's rear.

Mr. Courtney of the Cornell crews says that his freshmen were beaten by the heaviness of the Yale crew, which was too much for them in a two mile race. He said they were fairly beaten by greater strength, and that there was nothing to be added. Fred White, who has assisted considerably with the training of the Cornell eights, said in a disgusted tone that the youngsters showed a noticeable lack of sense in running their stroke up and down and not keeping at a steady hard pull from the beginning.

Captain Goodrich of the Harvard 'varsity crew says: "Harvard is very much pleased with the result of the race. Neither Mr. Lehmann nor myself had any idea that our freshmen crew would do anything. They had practically trained themselves. Mr. Lehmann devoted nearly all his attention to the 'varsity crew. They gave the Yale men a pretty good fight and beat our old victors of last year, and altogether we are very proud of them."

National League.

At Brooklyn—

Lewis allowed the Brooklyns but three hits yesterday while the Bostons knocked Daub all over the lot. This best tells the tale of the home team's downfall and at the same time explains why the Beaneaters once more lead for the pennant. The home team played like a lot of school boys in the field while the work of the Soden-Selee-Duffy aggregation was almost perfect. Lowe broke the small finger on his left hand in the first inning and will undoubtedly be laid up for some time.

Harvard Beats Yale at Baseball.

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Yale lost the game with Harvard yesterday by a score of 7 to 5, before the largest crowd which has assembled on Holmes field in years. Harvard was the favorite at the start, but the Elis were expected to make a stiff battle; neither team came up to the expectation. It was a beautiful day for baseball and over 7000 people saw the contest. The stands with their huge class day crowds were a mass of waiving colors and brilliancy, and the enthusiasm throughout the entire contest was unbounded. A small coterie of Yale men was present and cheered their nine heartily.

BRYAN AND TARIFF.

Senator Hoar Says He Is an Exponent of Free Trade.

Silver Senators Defend Their Champion.

Wool Debate Has Now Reached the Duties on Manufactured Goods.

Washington, June 24.—The wool debate flew off on a tangent yesterday, and for a time the discussion was as to whether Bryan would veto the present tariff bill if he had been elected president. There were ifs and ands without number.

Senator Hoar was the cause of the diversion. The silver senators from the West took up their cudgels for Mr. Bryan.

The senate completed the schedule relating to raw wool.

Mr. Quay moved to disagree to the committee amendments to paragraph 357. The house rate was 32 per cent ad valorem on third class wool, valued at 13 cents or less. The committee rate was 4 cents per pound on third class wools, valued at 10 cents or less. The effect of Mr. Quay's motion would be to go back to the house rate of 32 per cent ad valorem.

At this point Mr. Morgan of Alabama secured recognition for the introduction of a bill to regulate the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. Without comment the bill was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Returning to the wool debate Mr. Hoar pointed out that there was not a majority in the senate favorable to the doctrine of protection supported by the Republican party. It became necessary, therefore, to secure the co-operation of those who had supported a man for the presidency, who, if elected, was pledged to veto a tariff bill.

Mr. Mantle replied that he had never known that the silver candidate for the presidency was pledged to veto a tariff bill.

Mr. Hoar said Mr. Bryan's record in the house of representatives would throw some light on the subject.

"He was supported by nearly all the free traders in the country," added Mr. Hoar, "and if the party did not pledge him, he pledged the party.."

Mr. Mantle further stated that notwithstanding his interest in the wool schedule, he had never desired to lay any obstacle in the way of the tariff bill as a whole.

Mr. Allen said the statement of Mr Hoar as to the silver candidate for the presidency should not go unchallenged. There was nothing in what Mr. Bryan had said justifying an assertion that he would have vetoed a tariff bill. If it had been a bill of confiscation, doubtless he would have vetoed it.

Mr. Hoar brough forward copies of The Record showing Mr. Bryan's course on the tariff. He had voted in the house to put wool on the free list; he had carried out in triumph Mr. Wilson, who had denounced protection as robbery; he had himself denounced protection as a robbery.

"I have a good deal of respect for Mr. Bryan," continued Mr. Hoar. "His character has impressed me very favorably and I have never joined in criticisms upon him, but if he would not veto a tariff bill after such utterances I would not have much respect for him."

Mr. Stewart (Nev.) thought these criticisms of Mr. Bryan were most unfair. For, said the senator, an examination of Mr. McKinley's record would show him to have voted for the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Quay's motion to table the committee amendments to paragraph 357, and it was rejected—19 to 41.

Mr. Teller reverted to the statements concerning Mr. Bryan. The latter's vote for free wool would not justify the assertion of the Massachusetts senator that Mr. Bryan would veto a tariff bill, as he might approve it as a revenue measure.

Mr. Hoar interjected the remark that he had not intended to stir up senators, but had merely pointed out that at present the friends of the tariff bill were compelled to secure the co-operation of senators who voted for a free trade candidate and would probably vote for that candidate again.

Mr. Teller declared that the Massachusetts senator had dragged in a political question for the evident purpose of challenging the position of certain senators. As for himself he wanted this bill passed. He did not believe it would bring the relief expected. He was here to see that a decent bill was enacted. He was not here to delay, for if there was any relief it should come quickly. But if the Massachusetts senator desired to bring in political questions, Mr. Teller gave notice that there would be full reply.

Mr. Quay made a strong effort to have the house ad valorem rates on third class wool adopted, but he was defeated —19 to 41. The committee rates were then agreed to, viz:

Four cents per pound on third class wools, valued at 10 cents or less per pound, and 7 cents per pound on third class wools valued above 10 cents per pound.

The schedule was completed up to paragraph 364, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

THE CLASS OF 1897.

Sent Forth from the Quincy High School.

Interesting Exercises at the High School Hall.

An Address on Practical Patriotism by Col. Curtis Guild, Jr.

One of the largest classes in the history of the Quincy High school was graduated last evening—35 in the regular course, and 33 in the business course, a total of 68 The large study hall of the school building was crowded with parents of the pupils and friends of the school. Nile green and white were the class colors and the motto "Honor Virtutis Praemium" was displayed in them above the platform. The platform also had a background of green and white, and there were other floral decorations.

Chairs for the school were reserved near the platform, and the pupils marched in to Sousa's "El Capitan march," played by the High School orchestra, composed of Miss Ross, and Messrs. Fitzgerald, Black and Marnock as first violins; Miss Raferty as second violin, and Mr. McConarty as cornet. This and the other orchestra selection at the close were a surprise, being of a high grade.

Two musical selections were also given by the school which were very creditable to pupils and Mrs. L. C. Smith, the director of music in the Quincy schools.

Only three members of the class took individual parts. The salutatory oration by Miss Alice Maud Briggs was not a mere welcome but an entertaining essay on "The Leadership of Greece." Speaking of the Armenian massacre, she said we must admire the courage of Greece. It is to Greece we go for our ideals in art, in sculpture, in architecture and in law. Miss Briggs spoke of the fine tastes of the Grecian race, and said they aspired to completeness; of the national festival and the honors to the victors; of fine art and literature; success in architecture and sculpture.

The Class History, by Miss Annabella Laing Troup, told the story of the work of pupils of the Quincy High school year by year, the change of teachers, the removal to the new building etc. It was made particularly interesting to classmates and schoolmates by incidents along the way. The class of '97 numbered 124 upon its entrance, 35 completing the four years' course.

Miss Rachael E. Johnson was the valedictorian, and her oration was upon the class motto, "Honor Virtutis Praemium." In all countries and in all ages, she said, honor has ever been the reward of virtue. She spoke of the honor of holding public office. While it was one which was most sought after it may be one which the truly virtuous are the least likely to obtain, but many men of virtue and integrity are holding positions of public trust. Then honor is received by persons who have in words expressed the greatest thoughts in the human language, and by great inventors and philosophers. She queried however, if the honor given by our immediate friends was not sweeter than that accorded by the outside world, and so, in some respects, to be considered more important than any other? Reference was made to the simplicity and virtue of Abigail Adams, which kept her name alive among succeeding generations. Great artists will not be forgotten. Last, but not least we come to the honor from the approval of our own consciences. Although we may not be able to attain military glory, have the intellect of a Virgil, or the genius of a Raphael, still we may all be virtuous, and although not publicly acknowledged have the approval of our own consciences, without which all honor is worthless.

"As honor may be obtained by all who are truly noble, why should not all strive to win it? As we assemble here tonight, let me say that you ought to make serious efforts to deserve honor. Some of you are going to other schools, and if you do your duty there, you can not miss the honor bestowed by teachers and classmates alike. Those of you also, who are to start out into the world on your own account to battle with the fierce storms of life, keep virtue as a safeguard. Remember that you are trusted representatives of our school, and, that whatever you do, our good old Quincy High must be either proud of you or ashamed of you. Wherever you go, whomsoever you meet, first of all be virtuous, and honor will come of its own accord.

The address of the evening was by Col. Curtis Guild, Jr., who was introduced by Chairman Porter of the School Committee. His subject was "Practical Patriotism," and he considered the American school room a very proper place to talk on it. We are familiar with the patriotism of Warren at Bunker Hill and Robert Gould Shaw in the South. But there is a different patriotism, the duty to our country in the time of peace: at the caucuses and at the polls. The people of the United States have no master. The President is great because he is the chosen servant of 70 millions of people. We speak of the United States navy and our militia, but in England it is her majesty's navy, etc. Here we are citizens; in England the queen's subjects. Our militia, our jury and our legislators are from the people, and it is our fault if we get poor service in any department. There should be no distinction between people and politicians. All men should be active politicians for the good of the country. Little reward was found in polite literature for some achievements, but that did not matter. Human liberty was not obtained in this country until a great party arose and liberated the slaves. Our country is growing better and better. There never was a time when our responsibility was greater. The spoils system in government is being put down, and merit will be appreciated.

Interspersed with the addresses was an excellent violin solo by Henry F. FitzGerald, accompanied by Benedict F. FitzGerald, and a vocal number by seven young men of the school, Messrs. Appleton, Burke, Keyes, Prout, Ripley, Thayer and Biganess, the last mentioned taking the solo part. When we recollect that a few years ago the boys did not sing, we can endorse the comment of Chairman Porter, that it did my heart good, and we are proud of them.

After the class ode by the graduates, Chairman Porter spoke briefly. He hoped the class would remember its days at the High and go forth better boys and girls. A worthy tribute was paid to Mr. Frederic Allison Tupper, the headmaster. Mr. Porter saying the graduates could have no better example. He was scholarly, refined, intellectual. His influence pervades the school. Carry it into life.

Diplomas were then presented individually to the graduates of the full course and the business course, and there was applause for each one.

The exercises closed with a vocal number by the school, and a selection by the orchestra, during which the school marched out.

Several of the graduates were presented with bouquets during the evening.

Tomorrow evening the class will hold a reception at the High school hall.

A list of the graduates appeared in Tuesday's LEDGER.

CONFIRMATION.

A Class of 255 Receive Sacrament at St. John's Church.

At St. John's church this morning, at 10 o'clock, the Rt. Rev. John J. Brady, auxiliary bishop of Boston, confirmed over two hundred and fifty boys and girls and a number of adults. The candidates for confirmation assembled at the 7 o'clock mass and received holy communion in a body. The high altar and sanctuary, recently beautified by the frescoer, was almost hidden by the masses of plants and palms.

The sacrament of confirmation must be conferredby a bishop, and this morning his grace was assisted by the pastor and clergy of St. John's, and by the Redemptorist Fathers, who are at present conducting a mission here. After the ceremonies were over the bishop delivered a sermon on the significance of the sacrament of confirmation and of the duties and responsibilities imposed on the recipients.

The number confirmed was the largest in the history of St. John's church.

The ceremonies had added interest from the fact that this is the feast of St. John the Baptist, the patron saint of the Quincy church.

Almost Suffocated.

The family of Mr. W. E. Howe of 18 Bigelow street had a narrow escape from suffocation last night. All were sleeping soundly when they were aroused shortly before eleven o'clock by neighbors and found their house filled with smoke. The fire was in the cellar and the family escaped scantily clad while Mr. Howe gave the alarm at the central fire station. The apparatus responded and three blows on the fire alarm brought Chief Williams promptly to the scene. The smoke was so dense that the blaze was located with difficulty, but two streams soon extinguished it, the fire being confined to the cellar and little damage resulting.

Mr. Howe's house is being painted and the paints, oils, rags, falls, etc., were in the cellar. It was among these that the fire originated, probably from spontaneous combustion. One neighbor noticed the light in the cellar about nine o'clock, but to Mrs. Effie Rhines belongs the credit of giving the alarm.

Grammar Graduates.

The DAILY LEDGER tomorrow will contain the names of the grammar school graduates. The list includes 244 boys and and girls, twelve less than last year but otherwise larger than in preceding years. In ten years the number has increased from 98. The following summary shows the number of graduates by schools for different years. The new Gridley Bryant school sends forth its first class, while the Massachusetts Fields school will not have a graduating class until next year.

CHURCH BURNED.

Randolph the Scene this Time of a Large Fire.

The Baptist church at Randolph was totally destroyed by an incendiary fire Wednesday night. The fire was discovered by a watchman in a neighboring building at 11.30, who promptly gave the alarm. When it was seen what the fire was, word was sent to Holbrook for aid and that department responded. Unfortunately, the stand pipe of the water supply was empty. Under ordinary circumstances the pressure would have been sufficient, but on this occasion it was not, owing to the number of streams in use. The fire was then in the upper part of the edifice and burning briskly, and out of the reach of the water. Later the steamer was brought into use and although it did good service, it was too late to save the church, which will be a total loss.

The only thing saved was the piano, a few settees and a desk.

The cause of the fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin for schoolmaster Joseph Belcher, who lives near by, saw two men leave the church shortly before the fire was discovered. As near as can be learned the parties entered the building through a back door and went up stairs and set the fire behind the organ.

Powers & French shoe manufactory and several other buildings in the vicinity took fire from the sparks but were quickly extinguished.

The church was built some 25 years ago and cost $27,000 and was insured for $17,000. Add to the cost of the church the clock and furnishings and the loss will not be far from $30,000.

There is no settled pastor over the church at present, the last pastor, Rev. A F. Bowerman, having resigned some six months ago to accept a call to Seattle, Washington.

A Sporting Dog.

Councilman Bryant's new Chesapeake Bay dog arrived in Wollaston on Wednesday and was placed in charge of A. Williams, the veteran gunner, who will break him in. The dog is but nine weeks old. He was bred at Jay F. Turner's Locust Grove Ducking shore on Chesapeake Bay, Md. His pedigree is remarkable, his dam and sire both being prize winners. These dogs are supposed to be a cross between the Irish water spaniel and the Newfoundland. The Bryant dog is of a peculiar sedge color. His hair bears a strong resemblance to that of an otter. These dogs have been bred especially to retrieve wild fowl from water during extreme cold weather.

Tea and Coffee

are two great staples with us. Year by year the taste of our patrons has been educated—in a great degree through our efforts—until now the highest possible grades are demanded by our regular trade.

A good cup of Tea or Coffee is no accident. It isn't a happen-to-be—it's a MADE-to-be.

Our Tea and Coffee are planted right, cultivated right, picked in the right way at the right time, cured right, handled right, bought right and sold right.

There's a watch kept every step of the way, in order to secure the best results.

The richest man in America can hardly provide himself with better Tea or Coffee than is within YOUR reach—if you buy of us.

And as to grades, a favorite Tea is our 50c. Formosa or English Breakfast.

Good enough for the most exacting, cheap enough for the most economical.

We have Teas as low as 25c. lb., and fancy grades from 60c. upwards, but no one need pay fancy prices in order to get good results, as we put the same care into our selections of all kinds. We know it will pay you to try ours. An experience of Twenty Years in buying and selling Teas will tell.

DIVORCED.

Importers of Granite Desert the Manufacturers.

The Latter Relieved on an Incubus and Will Flourish.

Phœnix Like, Manufacturers Will Arise and Be Stronger.

Quincy granite manufacturers have received notice that the Manufacturers and Wholesale Granite Dealers Association of New England will go out of business July 1. This association has been practically composed of Quincy and Barre manufacturers and the Boston Wholesalers' Association and was formed to protect its members against the dead beats in the business and confidential lists were frequently sent out of parties who did not pay up promptly.

It is quite generally known that the best of feeling has not prevailed for some time between the manufacturers and wholesalers and on April 10 the wholesalers notified the New England Association that they should withdraw their financial support.

This placed the Quincy and Barre branches in a peculiar position, for according to the constitution of the association no business could be transacted unless delegates from the Quincy, Barre and the Boston branches were present, and as the latter had withdrawn no meeting could be held, although several unsuccessful attempts were made to do so.

On June 10 however the Quincy and Barre directors got together, and Mr. Jones a member of the Boston Association was sent for and a meeting held. Resolutions were then passed which practically dissolves New England Association July 1.

Although the New England Association will cease to be, the manufacturers do not propose to give the dead beats full sway. With the death of one association will come the birth of another, which will be much stronger than the old and will take a larger field. It is proposed to include all the manufacturers in the United States, although it is very doubtful if any of the wholesale dealers are included in the new association, for the two differ on a vital point, namely the tariff. Whereas the manufacturers desire a high tariff on granite, the wholesale men are said to favor a low tariff. While this difference is not given out as the cause of the withdrawal of the wholesale men there is not much doubt but this question was the cause.

CONDUCTOR HELD UP

Was Walking to Home at Norfolk Downs About Midnight.

Conductor F. J. Sanderson of the Quincy & Boston street railway made a trip on the electrics from the High school to Weymouth last night after the graduation exercises and about midnight while walking to his home at Norfolk Downs had a narrow escape from highwaymen.

When near Merry Mount park two fellows sprang up unawares from under a tree by the roadside, and one grabbed him by the throat. He had taken the precaution however to arm himself with a club and he succeeded in dealing an effective blow on his assailant's head which caused him to release his hold, and Sanderson escaped. The fellows followed in pursuit for awhile, but gave it up and took to the park.

Sanderson thinks that the fellows were Italians and that they may be employed on the sewer work in this vicinity. He has looked over the gang today but did not recognize his man. Sanderson says the next fellow who molests him will receive some cold lead. But he congratulates himself that he escaped as fortunately as he did.

Children's Night.

Tuesday evening was observed by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor No. 1 as "Children's Night." The evening was pleasantly passed by listening to songs and recitations by the little ones, every number on the programme being excellently rendered. At the conclusion of the concert ice cream and cake were served to all by the amusement committee.

The programme included: Recitations by George A. Barry, Evelyn Barry, Willie Pratt, Christina Booth, Annie Rose, Mary B. Stronach, John McGregor, John Findlay, Emma Edwards, Nellie Craig, Maggie Michael and Nellie Kirkland.

Duets by Mary and Andrew Lillie, Olive and Bertie Smith, George and John Esson; songs by Miss Phillips, Nellie Troup, Mamie Kennedy, Rachel Norrie, James Park, Annie Smith, Ellen J. Park, Victor Malcolm, George Craig, Ray Findlay; and chorus in which all united.

TODAY'S COURT.

Andrew Silver was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Joseph McGlone was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

George Copland was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William Murphy was arraigned for behaving in a disorderly manner at Quincy, and was fined $15.

Mary P. Gaynor was arraigned for keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to to sell at Randolph. Case continued until Saturday.

Universalist Entertainment.

There was a pleasing entertainment at the vestry of the Universalist church, Wednesday evening. It consisted of the following numbers: Piano duet by Misses Chisholm and Severance; piano and violin duets by Miss Chisholm and Mr. Powers; readings by Miss Harris; and a farce entitled, "Having her photo taken." Ice cream and cake were served and a good time enjoyed. The talent was entirely from the lodge of Good Templars.

Was Prepared.

Hon. John F. Merrill lost his new straw hat this morning. Mr. Merrill was at the Quincy station waiting for the 9.12 train, an express came rushing around the curve whisked off the new hat, rolled it across the platform and then scooped it up under one of the trucks, carrying it off to Boston, leaving its dignified owner standing on the platform in speechless astonishment. Mr. Merrill was prepared for such a catastrophy, for coolly pulling a silk travelling cap out of his pocket he placed it on his head and took the 9.12 to Boston.

All Invited.

The public declamation for the Adams gold medal will be held in the Stone church on Monday next at 10 45 A. M Lest there should be any misapprehension in the minds of the public as to admission, Mr. Tyler, the master of Adams Academy, desires it stated that no tickets of admission whatever will be required. Anyone interested in the school or in the exercises of declamation is cordially invited to come.

PROFESSOR BATEMAN TALKS.

Senator Allen's Tirade, He Says, Does Not Change the Facts In the Case.

Lewiston, Me., June 24.—The speech of Senator Allen in the United States senate yesterday denying Professor Bateman's charges against Bryan, and Bryan's explanation as to why he printed Bateman's name to Allen's letter of notification in the last campaign, have attracted wide attention in these cities where Bateman is well known.

A reporter waited upon Mr. Bateman last evening to inquire if he desired to make any statement about the circus which he had stirred up in the senate and the country. Mr. Bateman said:

"Mr. Bryan says that he took my name from the newspapers and added it to Allan's letter of notification. This is decidedly rich and a unique method of writing history. It would have cost him only a 2-cent stamp to have found out that I did not sign the letter, and that I had promptly repudiated the sentiments which it contained. I shall not strain myself to furnish Mr. Bryan any further proof. The forgery of my name to the letter lies between Bryan and Allen, and they can settle the matter to suit themselves.

"Senator Allen's tirade in the senate is renewed proof that only the wounded bird flutters. The lawyer who has a bad case usually abuses the opposing counsel. I shall not retort in similar language. I have not seen the full text of the senator's 'arraignment' of myself, and therefore do not know the extent of his denials. Quite likely he denies everything in sight. It is just as easy work as to deny in fragments. The senator is an old hand at that business, and it strains neither his conscience nor his constitution. I trust that they may have another field day in the senate over the matter."

Peary's Plans.

Boston, June 24.—Lieutenant Peary, the Arctic explorer, is here. The explorer intends to sail on July 10 for the north. He says: "This trip is simply preliminary to next year's Arctic exploration, which may continue three, four or five years, with the intention of reaching the pole I suppose. I am going now to get together an Esquimaux village. It is my intention to establish a colony of ten young Esquimaux, with their wives, at the furtherest possible northern point. They will be told to have their dogs and sledges ready when I call for them next year. This will give me a start without any waiting." In the party for this short trip this year will be Albert Operti, the Arctic artist; Professor Hitchcock of Dartmouth collegs, and Russell Porter of Boston, with their classes. Lieutenant Peary says he will be away but three months this summer and will pick up the scientific parties on his return.

Williams Gives Wolcott a Degree.

Williamstown, Mass., June 24.—The commencement exercises at Williams college were brought to a close yesterday. The following honorary degrees were conferred: Upon Michael Edward Driscoll of Syracuse, N. Y., and Lieutenant Governor Winthrop Murray Crane was conferred the degree of Master of Arts. The degree of LL. D. was conferred on John Bascom of Williamstown, Governor Roger Wolcott and Hon. Sanford Ballard Dole, president of the republic of Hawaii. H. B. Leonard of Chicago was granted the degree of M. A. for post graduate study. After the graduating exercises the alumni dinner was held in the gymnasium, President Carter acting as toastmaster, and addresses were made by Governor Wolcott, Lieutenant Governor Crane, Martin I. Townsend, '33, of Troy, N. Y., and others.

Murphy and Finley on Trial.

Plymouth, Mass., June 24.—The trial of Thomas J. Murphy and Edward Finley, who are charged with setting fire to their shoe factory with intent to defraud insurance companies, was begun in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday. Several witnesses for the government testified to finding shoe boxes in the building filled with excelsior which had been saturated with kerosene, while the spaces between the flooring had also been filled with the same oily material; that there was $3000 insurance on the property; that Murphy had applied for more insurance, and that Murphy and Finley, or one of them, was the last person seen in the factory before the fire broke out.

Reception to Dr. Clarke.

Boston, June 24.—A reception was tendered Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clarke, "Father Endeavorer Clarke," in Tremont Temple last evening. Hon. Samuel B. Capen presided, and there was an immense crowd, including representatives of the 70 Christian Endeavor societies of Boston. A large chorus, led by George K. Somerby, furnished music. Addresses were made by Chairman Capen, Rev. Dr. Gumbart, Dr. and Mrs. Clarke and Speaker Bates of the house of representatives, the latter speaking for Governor Wolcott, who was unavoidably absent. Dr. Clarke gave an interesting account of his trip abroad.

New Tandem Record.

Boston, June 24.—Another record was broken at the races on the Charles River park last evening. It was in the final of the mile tandem handicap event. The scratch men, V. Eckberg and J. F. Casey of Worcester, covered the mile in 2:00 2-5. This is 2-5ths of a second lower than the previous record held by the Urquhart brothers, who established the American mile amateur tandem competition record on the Charles River park last fall.

Gets Longfellow Travelling Scholarship.

Boston, June 24.—The Longfellow traveling scholarship has been awarded to William Homer Haskell of Merrimac. Mr. Haskell is 22 years of age, and has been, with the exception of two terms, for six years a pupil of the school of drawing and painting at the Museum of Fine Arts in this city. Twelve pupils entered for the competition.

Vermont Firemen's Convention.

Vergennes, Vt., June 24.—The eighth annual convention of the Vermont State Firemen's association was opened here yesterday afternoon. The session was called to order by the president, S. D. Miner, and the delegates were welcomed by Mayor F. W. Tuttle. Delegates representing 25 organizations were present.

Maine Historical Society.

Brunswick, Me., June 24.—The annual meeting of the Maine Historical society was held yesterday in the Searles science building at Bowdoin college, and a number of papers in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of North America by John Cabot were read.

NEURALGIA

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For it.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

HANNA IS AN ORATOR.

Feature of Ohio Republican Convention Was the Senator's Speech.

Eloquence and Delivery Surprised Old Associates.

Harmony Established and Factions United For Coming State Campaign.

Toledo, June 24.—The Republican state convention completed its work yesterday in a session of less than four hours. While there had been a hard fight for two days for the control of the state central committee there was every appearance of harmony and enthusiasm at the close. The two contested districts were decided in favor of the Dick candidates and this showed that the state committee stood 17 for Dick and 4 for Kurtz.

The feature of the convention was the speech of Senator Hanna. Governor Bushnell, Lieutenant Governor Jones, General Grosvenor and others who spoke had been frequently heard, but Senator Hanna was not known before in his own state as an orator, although he had for years been recognized as a leader in the management and organization. His delivery was eloquent and forcible and he captured the convention by his commanding oratory. He was enthusiastically cheered and congratulated on his effort.

In thanking the delegates for indorsing him for United States senator, Mr. Hanna said:

"I am indeed grateful for the great honor which you have conferred upon me by this act. Indeed it is a great honor to receive at the hands of the Republican party of Ohio such an indorsement through the medium of such a representative body. I assure you gentlemen of the convention that I appreciate this, not only as a compliment, but as an evidence of your confidence and respect.

"We are warned that there is danger ahead for the Republican party next fall. We accept that warning and will be as ever ready to meet it. It has been my experience in campaigns in Ohio to witness the fact that when the Republican party sees anything to do they don't wait long in getting ready to do it. By your act today you have demonstrated to the state and to the nation that the Republican party is solid and united and determined.

"We are further told that the opposition proposes to revive the lately threshed straw, they are going to talk about free silver again, but you won't hear any man talk about free wool. The Republican party in congress, appreciating the fact that the responsibility of lifting this country out of the very depths of despondency in its business arrangements which rests upon it, have carefully prepared and are now in the act of making a law which will be the most scientific, the best balanced and the most just tariff law that this country has ever known, and in this presence I desire to publicly thank your honorable chairman for the part he has taken in the work. To him more than any other member of the ways and means committee is due this ample protection on wool. I am trying to keep up with him in the senate, but I have not yet got there.

"A word about the administration. I would not feel that I had accomplished what is to me the greatest pleasure, unless I accept this opportunity of speaking of our distinguished chieftan, President McKinley.

"I want to assure the Republicans of Ohio that he has not only filled their greatest expectations, but he has more than filled the expectations of the whole country and the nations of the earth. Great now as the leader of men he has grown with every opportunity. Grown by meeting every conflict which comes to a nation's leader; possessed of a great heart which beats for the American people and which will always beat for those who look to him for wisdom. Gentlemen of the convention, it is my pleasure to say that the President of the United States has won golden opinions from every party, every class of citizens and is better, purer and better able to justify, not only the predictions of his friends, but the hope of everybody.

"In the opening of this campaign I want simply to say one word: That the secret of all success is unity of purpose, devotion to party, and last, but not least, organization. I don't need to give the Republicans of Ohio any advice on that statement, but I am prepared to join hands with our distinguished governor and with him take my place in the front ranks and from start to finish I am with the boys."

Senator Hanna returned to Cleveland and will soon be back in Washington.

Governor Bushnell remained here until today. The two leaders had a friendly meeting before separating, and it is understood that they have reached an agreement on the organization of the state executive committee.

Senator Hanna was not only congratulated on the result, but all the delegates were seeking admittance to his apartments for conferences. Governor Bushnell not only accepted the situation complacently before the convention assembled by having friendly consultations with Senator Hanna, but he also made a strong speech of acceptance in the convention. When Governor Bushnell declared: "In spite of the statements of the Democratic press, I accept," there was a loud demonstration. In the organization of the state central committee in the afternoon Governor Bushnell named the vice chairman while Senator Hanna selected the chairman and the secretary.

Will Teach at Newton.

Newton, Mass., June 24.—At the regular meeting of the Newton school board, held last evening, Enoch L. Adams of New Britain, Conn., was nominated head master of the Newton high school, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of George H. Goodwin, who goes to take charge of a mixed high school in New York city. Mr. Adams is about 45 years old and a graduate of Bates college of the class of 1876.

GALA NIGHT AT COVENT.

British Royalty Listened to Magnificent Music Last Night.

London, June 24.—Last night was a gala night at Covent Garden Opera House, where the whole program and performance reflected the greatest credit of Maurice Grau.

The event fairly rivalled the procession as an attraction to Londoners. For miles around Covent Garden the streets wer crowded, and the crush of carriages was so dense that many men, wearing gorgeous uniforms and covered with jewels, had to walk for long distances amid the varying comments of the crowd.

Many others, like the Duke of Marlborough and the Duke of Devonshire, drove to the Opera House in state carriages, with coachmen and footmen resplendent in state liveries.

At length the royalties began to arrive, the Princess of Wales coming first. Her cistume was white, embroidered with silver. Upon her head she wore a beautiful diamond tiara, pearls around her neck and a long bow of orders across her bodice. As she entered the royal box the audience rose and the band played the national anthem.

The rest of the party filed in the box, each preceded by the Earl of Latham walking backwards. Among them were all the visiting princess and all the members of the English royal family, except the queen, the Empress Frederick of Germany and the Princess Beatrice.

As soon as they were seated the curtain rose, disclosing the entire cast of the opera, among them Mme. Melba and Mme. De Reszkes, grouped upon the stage. Then followed such a rendering of the national anthem as it never had before, after which was carried out Mr. Grau's carefully arranged program, including the second act of "Tannhauser," the third act of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" and the fourth of the "Huguenots."

The effect of the singers and the orchestra were received with the greatest enthusiasm, and the performance surpassed in every way the famous gala performance given at Covent Garden for the Emperor of Germany.

Dedham's Sewer Muddle.

Dedham, Mass., June 24.—The action of the town yesterday in electing three sewer commissioners, and at the same time rejecting the act of the legislature authorizing the construction of a sewer system, and the establishment of the commission to take charge of the system, has led to a singular complicated state of affairs. The act came up for acceptance at a special town meeting yesterday, and on the same ballot were the names of five candidates for three places on the board. The vote was 319 for and 404 against the acceptance of the act, while Charles J. Clark, Charles J. Hurley and Winslow Warren, now collector of the port of Boston, were elected commissioners. The question is now whether or not the commissioners have been legally elected and can hold office. The fight on the question of a sewerage system for the town was a hot one, and the vote was a heavy one for a special meeting. The matter will probably be decided by the supreme court.

Ladies Playing Chess.

London, June 24.—The international chess congress of women players, which commenced yesterday in the Masonic hall of the Hotel Cecil, is the first of its kind in the history of chess. Twenty ladies, representing nine different countries, and selected from a long list of applicants for places, are contesting for international honors and money prizes aggregating $1100.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Merkens Jansen, a Dane, 38 years old, was arrested at Worcester, Mass., for counterfeiting tickets on the Millbury division of the Worcester and Suburban Electric Railway company. Jansen says he got rid of 12,000 of his counterfeit tickets last year, and implies that some of the conductors on the road are interested.

Luke Patrick Hayden, Parnellite, member of the house of commons for South Roscommon, is dead. He was in his 47th year and had represented South Roscommon since 1893. He sat in the 1886 parliament for South Leitrim and was the proprietor of the Roscommon Messenger. For several years he was chairman of the Roscommon town commissioners. Mr. Hayden was the son of a blacksmith.

Can't Find the Man.

Boston, June 24.—United States Marshal Swift has returned to the postoffice inspectors the warrant they secured for the arrest of Daniel Sinclair, whom they alleged used the mails in a swindling operation, under the firm name of J T. Trumbull & Co. Trumbull, it is alleged, sent out circulars to small Southern and Western merchants, claiming that owing to the hard times, he was in a position to offer them lines of goods away below cost. His terms were one-third cash on shipment of goods and the balance on 30 and 60 days. In some instances, it is alleged, he sent a sample of the goods offered. In many instances the merchant bit, sent one-third cash, but the goods, it is claimed, were never shipped. In this way it is thought Trumbull got about $2500. Sinclair is under indictment for connection with an alleged transaction whereby the employes of George A. Drysdale swindled him out of $10,000 worth of brass and iron bedsteads. Sinclair was bookkeeper for Drysdale.

Employes Attach Plant.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 24.—The equipment of the Hartford Paving and Construction company, which it building the fortifications at New Castle, was attached yesterday in an action for $12,000, the addamnum set forth by John O'Neil of this city, and Michael Dacobles of Boston, in a suit for damages alleged to have occurred while in the company's employ. These men were employes of the company and were injured in a blast last month.

Wellesley's Alumni.

Wellesley, Mass., June 24.—Yesterday was alumni day at Wellesley college and an unusually large number of past graduates attended the exercises. The members of the faculty and the graduating class of '97 were the special guests of the association. The alumni dinner was served in the college hall, and at the close remarks were made by the members of the faculty and the newly elected officers.

Hot Springs, Va., June 24.—There are no grounds for the report that Edward T. Stokes is in a serious condition. Mr. Stokes takes daily exercise on horseback, and after a short stay here expects to go abroad.

Death of Collector Kilbreth.

New York, June 24.—James T. Kilbreth, collector of the port of New York, died last night at Southampton, L. I. He has been sick for some time past with pneumonia. His family was at his side when death occurred.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. —In the seventeenth century the average duration of life was only thirteen years; in the eighteenth, twenty; in this century it is thirty-six. Look out for the twentieth!

The weakest place in a house or fort, or any place of defense, usually turns out to be that which was thought strongest. The weakest place in a man's body is that in which he esteems himself strongest. Achilles never thought he would turn his heel to an enemy, but it was in that unarmored place the fatal arrow was planted. It is usually the organ in his body that a man thinks strongest, that disease assaults and batters down. Caution a man about neglecting his health and mention consumption, and he will pound his chest and laugh you to scorn. He does not realize that consumption beats down this defense imperceptibly, inch by inch. The lungs once attacked the only weapon of defense is the right remedy.

98 per cent. of all cases of consumption are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects disordered digestion, invigorates the liver, makes the appetite hearty and assimilation perfect, fills the blood with the elements that build healthy flesh and muscle, and drives all impurities and disease-germs from the blood. All druggists sell it.

"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' in my family," writes Mrs. G. A. Conner, of Alleghany Springs, Montgomery Co., Va., "and have found it to be the best medicine that I ever used. I have also used his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed,' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' They will do just what they are recommended to do."

The newly-wedded wife, above all other women, needs a good medical book. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser fills this want. It contains over 1000 pages and 300 illustrations. HARVARD FIRST CHOICE

Wearers of the Crimson Expected to Win Big 'Varsity Race.

Bob Cook Has Great Confidence In Yale's Giants.

Courtney's Lightweights From Cornell Are Also Dangerous.

Poughkeepsie, June 25.—Unless all signs visible fail Harvard's eighth will face the starter the favorite today, thought it is conceded by even the most partisan of the Cambridge adherents that the race will be a "slasher" from the pop of the pistol. If betting could decide a race Harvard would lead Cornell and Yale in the order named across the line.

The victory of Yale's freshmen has not had the inspiring effect on Yale stock that one would be justified in expecting. Yale men are not so confident that the 'varsity will be victorious as they were of the prospects of the freshmen.

It is the general opinion here that the Yale 'varsity crew will make no better showing than did the youngsters yesterday. Before the crews came here from the Thames the freshies were always able to catch the other boat when Bob Cook pitted one against the other. It is not recorded that the varsity crew were ever able to catch the freshmen or even gain on them.

On that account the enthusiasm of the Yale men is not so great as might be supposed. They have a glorious victory to their credit, but they want the 'varsity race, and will not do much crowing until they get it.

The chances between the three senior crews are more even than were those of the three eights in yesterday's race. If there is any advantage at all the Harvard crew, in the opinion of experts who have been following the matter closely, has it. That assumption is based on the work of the Harvard freshmen yesterday. Though they came in second the Harvard men scored a victory and furnished a surprise.

BOB COOK.

The latter feature was in the start. Harvard got away with the crack of the pistol and did it so quickly and got such a good lead on the others as to surprise all beholders. No crew ever started so quickly on this side of the water before.

The plan now is to call the race at 8:30 this afternoon and have it rowed down stream over the four-mile course. If the weather is bad or the water in poor condition the race, because of the change of the tide, will have to be rowed after 6:45 p. m., up stream, necessitating an entire change of stake and judges boats and the anchorage of the fleet of yachts. It is called to mind that this is the first time since 1875 that Yale has met Cornell, and the first time in two years that she has crossed blades with Harvard.

The most important feature of yesterday's work at the boathouses occurred at the Harvard boathouse about 6 o'clock. All day long those desirous of picking a winner in the race and leaning toward Harvard kept wishing that they could see the Harvard freshmen row with the 'varsity so as to get a knowledge of what speed the latter could command. It was generally expected that this could not occur, because it was supposed that the freshmen had gone out of practice. The two crews were given half-mile spurts and starts from a pistol shot.

Mr. Lehman took care that the river was deserted of press boats and trainers' launches before he went to work, and then he ordered out the freshmen crew, which he had kept in training for this very purpose. When the freshmen were clear of the dock the 'varsity crew was ordered out, and the two started up the river. They went up for about two miles with the tide and then turned down and were given a start by the trainer. The freshmen were given way first and then the 'varsity started after them. Rowing but 32 and 31 strokes to the minute, to the freshmen's 34 and 36, they came down against the tide and wind in a rough, choppy sea at such a gait that in an eighth of a mile they passed and got a length of clear water from the freshmen.

The most important work of the 'varsity, showing their power in the boat was done from lined-up starts. Mr. Lehman using the pistol. The 'varsity started at a 34-stroke, and after pulling about five lengths dropped down to an easy 32, sometimes almost to 31. The freshmen started at 38 and dropped to 34 and 35. The 'varsity boat, even in the rough water and against the head wind, kept a steady, even keel and fairly glided through the water, actually sliding past the freshmen boat as if the latter had been anchored.

Lehman stopped them and lined them up again, and this time, after starting them, let them row for three-quarters of a mile. The 'varsity, at the end of the stretch, had distanced the freshmen so badly that the latter stopped rowing. The recovery in the 'varsity boat was one of the features, there being little or no stop to the boat.

Mr. Cook of Yale has said that the Harvard freshmen crew was a very fast crew, and if this is so then it is safe to assume that the 'varsity is an exceedingly fast one. The facts of this practice are given as a sort of indication of what may be expected of the crew that seems to be the favorite at this time.

Coach Cook took the blue 'varsity eight out last night and gave them a final polishing up. The crew were in perfect trim and as they put up the river the rough corners on the individual work of the members of the crew were knocked off. The presence here of the crimson eight at Red Top with their English coach compels Cook to harbor a lurking fear that the finish of the big struggle will find the sons of Eli a trifle behind the winner and that it would be Cornell in third place, still he wears the look of confidence and solid satisfaction that counts much toward putting faith in an eight. The Yale men's condition is all that could be desired. The consistent 32 stroke that won the fight for the freshmen will mark the work of the olders today.

It was 6:30 when the water had become smooth enough in the neighborhood of the Cornell boathouse for the crew to go out. Courtney ordered the 'varsity and substitutes into their respective shells and sent them on an exercise row of a mile and a half down the river. Returning to the boathouse the "short cake" crew gave the 'varsity eight a brush, but was badly beaten. The most noticeable feature of the 'varsity's rowing was the absence of any great check in the momentum of the boat after each stroke. Mr. Courtney was in good spirits, but refused to express any opinion about his crew.

Representatives of Yale, Harvard and Cornell met with Referee Meikelhein, last night to draw positions for today's race. Robert J. Cook represented Yale, Harvard was represented by R. C. Lehman and George Mumford, and Cornell by Commodore Murdock and Manager White.

Yale drew course No. 1, which is nearest the west bank, Harvard No. 2 and Cornell No. 3, on the outer course. It will be seen that by this drawing the positions of Yale and Cornell are exactly reversed from what they were in the freshmen race Wednesday, and the slight advantage in the way of tide which Yale was supposed to have in that race now belongs to Harvard.

Betting on the Race.

New York, June 25.—Wall street brokers took a great interest in the Yale-Harvard-Cornell 'varsity race at the Stock Exchange yesterday and bets aggregating $5000 were made on Harvard and Yale alone. There have been no established orders for betting, no "books" or anything of that kind, the members simply selecting their favorites and backing them at odds that seemed reasonable. The rates have generally been even money between Yale and Harvard, 100 to 75 on Harvard against Cornell, and 100 to 75 on Yale against Cornell. One bet was reported of $100 to $300 that Harvard would be the last boat in the race.

Cuban Insurgents Defeated.

Havana, June 25.—Colonel Aguileras, with a column of troops and acting in conjunction with the local guarilla force and garrison of Madruga, has been engaged with an insurgent force under the leadership of Aranguron, which was entrenched in the Sierra De Grillo, near Madrugo, in this province. The Spanish troops, the official report says, successively dislodged the insurgents from all the positions they occupied, until the enemy reached Abro Del Cafe, where the insurgents made a determined stand. Eventually the insurgents were dislodged from that place and the Spanish troops destroyed the enemy's camp. The fighting lasted from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 7 o'clock at night. The insurgents in retreating left 10 men killed on the field and the government force lost one lieutenant and 15 soldiers killed and had one major, one captain and 133 soldiers wounded.

Life Imprisonment.

Cambridge, Mass., June 25.—In the superior court yesterday Judge Bond sentenced Cornelius P. Hardigan, the well-known pugilist, and William P. O'Dwyer, a compositor, both of Waltham, to life imprisonment in the state prison, they having pleaded guilty to assaulting and robbing Charles H. Teele, a wealthy Waltham farmer, about two months ago.

HIDES WILL BE TAXED.

Republican Senators Finally Decide the Matter In Caucus.

Finance Committee Rate on Tobacco Sustained.

Senators Lodge and Hoar Opposed the Action In Regard to Hides.

Washington, June 25.—Hides will be taxed under the new tariff bill when it becomes a law. This was agreed upon at a caucus of Republican senators last night. Whether the duty will be specific or ad valorem yet remains to be decided. The finance committee's action in making hides dutiable was sustained by a vote of 22 to 11.

The committee was also sustained in the rate fixed upon imported wrapper tobacco. The only other disputed questions considered were watches and watch jewels, and upon these the finance committee was reversed, the house rates being accepted on watches and watch jewels being made free.

The caucus was held in the marble room of the senate and was well attended. While the discussion was spirited at times the meeting was without especial incident. The greater part of the time was given to the proposition to fix a duty on hides. Senator Lodge led the contest against the action of the finance committee in taking hides from the free list and was seconded by Senators Hoar, Platt, Spooner and others, while Senators Nelson, Allison, Warren and Gear spoke for the duty.

Mr. Lodge contended that the duty if imposed would not be of any consequence as a revenue item and that it would add nothing to the farmers' return on his cattle, while it would have the effect of greatly injuring the industry of leather manufacturers, which had grown to immense proportions under the system of free hides. He said that the exports of leather goods amounted to $20,000,000 per annum, and asserted that if a stiff duty should be imposed the industry would be greatly checked.

In reply the Western senators claimed a direct benefit to the farmer from the duty and asserted that he was as much entitled to the protection it would give as were the manufacturers to the assistance they would receive from other duties.

The vote was on the general proposition to impose a duty, without regard to rates. The fixing of these, it was understood should be left to the finance committee, but the expressions were so general in favor of the ad valorem rather than the specific system that the committee will probably feel itself instructed to substitute this system for the 1½ cents a pound rate originally agreed upon. There was also a general expression against any increase upon India tanned goat and sheep skins, which the manufacturers regard as a substantial victory.

The debate on the tobacco schedule was confined to brief speeches by Senators Hawley and Fairbanks. The finance committee had originally fixed the rate on unstemmed wrapper tobacco at $1.50 per pound, in opposition to the house rate of $2 per pound. The representatives of the leaf growers immediately began a contention for the restoration of the house rate, which was resisted by the smaller manufacturers, particularly of the Western states. The finance committee yielded to the growers to the extent of advancing the rate to $1.75. Senator Hawley represented the growers in their effort to secure a $2 rate, and Senator Fairbanks the manufacturers in their attempt to hold the original finance committee figures. The caucus decided without division to stand by the compromise rate of $1.75.

There was only one vote raised in opposition to the proposition to return to the house schedule on watches and in addition to admit watch jewels free of duty. The finance committee fixed a uniform rate of 40 per cent on watches, while the house provided a compound duty. It is to this compound system that the senate returns.

The questions of reciprocity, trusts, Hawaii, sugar, beer, tea and internal revenue were not discussed.

Confederate Veterans' Parade.

Nashville, June 25.—The parade of the united Confederate veterans yesterday, in which more than 10,000 veterans took part, was the largest in the history of the organization and one of the greatest pageants ever seen in this city. The streets were densely crowded. General W. H. Jackson was the chief marshal. The Stars and Stripes and the Confederate flag were conspicuous in the long line that reached from the public square to the Tennessee centennial exposition gates.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Is it too hot?

Showery today.

An eight-page LEDGER tomorrow with Fourth of July literature.

Mrs. McPhail and Miss May McPhail of Hancock street are at Houghs Neck.

It is rumored that William Reed, the principal of the Lincoln school, has resigned.

Mr. Fred F. Green and family are spending a few weeks at Mrs. Elizabeth Green's cottage, Houghs Neck.

Hon. John F. Merrill appeared out in a brand new straw hat this morning. He should keep his eyes on his hat next time he sees an express train coming his way.

For the benefit of those who are thinking of attending the Quincy Yacht club hop at Houghs Neck this evening, we state that the cars leave the Centre at 7.15 and 7.45, returning at 10.45.

Fruit and flowers for the Boston Mission to be left with Mrs. M. A. Perkins at the Unitarian chapel, lower door, this Friday afternoon from 4 until 5 30, and Saturday morning from 8 until 8.30.

About two hundred of the children of St. Mary's church were confirmed Thursday by Bishop Brady. The candidates assembled at the early mass and received holy communion, preparatory to the great ceremony of the day.

Rev. William T. Deasy and William L. Sullivan, seminarians at St. John's, Brighton, are home for the summer vacation. Mr. Deasy will be ordained to the Catholic priesthood at Christmas time. Mr. Sullivan has spent two years in the seminary, but leaves the institution now to enter later the seminary of the Paulist fathers, this society being one of the foremost among the missionary bodies of the church in this country.

Prisoner Escaped.

A Boston paper reports that while John F. McIntyre, 18 years old, living on Hanover street, was being booked at Station 8 in that city at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, charged with burglary at Quincy, he leaped the rail, shot across the room to the window and jumped ten feet into Commercial street. McIntyre, who is fleet of foot, darted up North Street, and dodging into one of the numerous alleys about there, was quickly hidden from view.

Sermon to High School Graduates.

The pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, will make his last sermon before his vacation, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, a special address to the graduates of the High school, of whom there were two in the full course and four in the business course members of his church. Subject: "What is your life?" Young ladies are requested to wear their graduation gowns. The families and young friends, also grammar school graduates are especially invited.

Pulpit Supplies at Bethany Church.

Bethany church has secured unusually strong and popular preachers to supply the pulpit during the pastor's vacation. Rev. William Gallagher, Ph. D. of Thayer Academy, preaches the first three Sabbaths in July; Rev. Judson Van Clancy of Medford, Rev. Charles Brooks of Hyde Park and Rev. Walcott Fay of Bridgewater, July 25, Aug. 1 and 8. The regular services of the church will continue through the summer.

Civil Trial List.

57—Fish et. al. vs. Williams & Williams.
81—Deane et. al. vs. Townsend et. al.
87—West Adm. vs. Kimball.
115—New England Adamant Co. vs. Orcutt.

244 GRADUATES.

Our Grammar Schools Send Forth That Number Today.

Diplomas to be Presented at High School Building.

An Address by William Clinton Bates of Fall River.

Today is a happy one for at least 244 boys and girls, for this number will be graduated from the Quincy grammar schools. It should be the aim of every boy and girl in these days to complete the grammar school course, and if possible the High school course, yet only about one-half our citizens can say that they are grammar school graduates. It is therefore a matter of importance that these young people have acceptably completed the grammar studies.

The diplomas will be presented this afternoon at the High school building, and it is hoped that this introduction of the graduates to the beautiful High school building will create in all a desire to be enrolled in that school next fall.

The programme will be:

March, High School Orchestra.
Chorus,—"Morning Hymn, Bortinansky, arr.
Introduction, Herbert Warren Lull, Superintendent of Schools.
Chorus,—"America, My Noble Home," Carl Wilhelm.
Greeting, His Honor Charles Francis Adams 2d, Mayor of Quincy.
Chorus,—"Gather Spring Flowers," arr. from German.
Address, William Clinton Bates, Superintendent of Schools, Fall River.
Chorus,—"Brightly Glows the Morning Star," Mercadante, arr.
Presentation of diplomas by the School Committee.
Introductory remarks, Hon. Charles H. Porter, Chairman of the Board.
Chorus,—"Our Public Schools," J. P. Skelley. Words by Frederic Allison Tupper.
March, Drummer Albion R. McKay.
Director of Music, Mrs. L. C. F. Smith.
Pianists, Helen E. Bemis, Q. H. S., '97, and Helen Sibley, Q. H. S., '99.

Private receptions to graduates by the principals will immediately follow the exercises.

A list of the graduates follows:

A MARINE PARK.

Attempt to Take Away Shore Front Should Not Succeed.

The request of the Adams family for the city to define the line of Sea street at the causeway at Houghs Neck looks like an attempt to take from the public the shore drive from Quincy's woods to the willows. According to stakes driven there will be an attempt to locate the street inland some rods, upon marsh land where it will be difficult to construct a good roadway. When this is accomplished the owners will probably divide up into lots the tract between the street and the water and a lot of cheap cottages and outhouses will be constructed to cut off the view.

This bit of shore drive should be retained. If the Adams family will not present it to the city it should be purchased for a marine park. This is really one of the most beautiful spots on the drive to Houghs Neck, although it has received little or no attention, but the time is near at hand when this breathing spot will be fully appreciated, and the cost should be trifling. An attempt some years ago when the late John Quincy Adams was road commissioner, to move the street inland was not successful, and it should not be at this time. There should be no abuse of executive power by Mayor Adams, who is attorney for his mother, the owner.

Another Big Time.

The town of Norwood seems bound to keep up her reputation for celebrating the inauguration of the enterprises which are making her famous and prosperous. Two years ago she had one of the grandest celebrations this county has ever seen in the dedication of the "Norwood Press," and now she proposes, through the auspices of the Business Association, to have another big time on Friday evening next, July 21, when the townspeople celebrate the completion of the new three-story brick bindery, which virtually completes the "Norwood Press," making one of the finest plants of its kind in the country, if not in the world.

Committees have been assiduously at work completing arrangments on a scale that will attract crowds from all the sister towns as well as Boston. A monster parade of all the organizations and societies of the town will take place at 7 P. M., with Commodore J. S. Cushing as chief marshal. An elaborate display of fireworks will be made along the line of march. From 7 30 to 9 there will be a promenade concert in the new bindery, given by the famous Norwood Band, and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing and a large orchestra will officiate.

KING INDICTED.

He Will be Arraigned for Trial Tomorrow.

The United States grand jury reported Thursday on the cases before it.

An indictment was found against Albert M. King of Wollaston, the 19-year old messenger of the Boylston bank of Boston, who is charged with embezzlement of $30,196.35 from the bank. Young King was not present to plead and the indictment was not made public. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Another case of local interest was that against Arthur P. Gardner of Norfolk Downs, for alleged violation of the internal revenue laws, in which no-bill was returned.

MILTON.

The graduation exercises of the Milton Academy were held Thursday afternoon in the large class room of the building and were very largely attended. The several parts were as follows: Introductory by class president, Charles H. Whitney; class history by Francis C. Ware; theme by Frederick A. Eustis; class prophecy by Augustus H. Eustis; valedictory by Henry W. Palmer, Jr.

The graduates were: Burrill D. Drake of Salem, William S. Burgess of Brookline, Augustus H. Eustis of Readville, Frederick A. Eustis of Readville, Francis Lee of Milton, Henry W. Palmer, Jr., of Wilkesbarre, Pa., Ralph W. Tucker of New Bedford, Francis C. Ware of East Milton, Charles H. Whitney of Milton.

An interesting event during the exercises was the reading of a letter of greeting from Mr. Harrison O. Apthorpe, principal of the school, who is now travelling in Europe.

Selectman J. Walter Bradlee is at his summer cottage at Rock Island for the season.

Several new houses are in the process of erection on Milton Hillside.

The extension of the street railway line from East Milton to Mattapan has not been given up as yet, for parties interested are still at work upon the matter.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Bates was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until July 9.

The continued case of Edward N. Davis, for neglecting to send his child to the Braintree schools, was called and again continued for two weeks.

The continued case of Ada L. Watson, for neglecting to send her child to the Braintree schools, was called, and she was discharged.

The case of Mary S. Trainor for larceny was called and again continued until July third.

The continued case of William Dempsey for using profane language at Weymouth was called and he was fined $5.

The first case under the new liquor transportation law in the Quincy court was heard this morning when Gilmore Spring was arraigned for the illegal transportation of liquor at Weymouth. He was fined $50. Appealed.

Young Men's Christian Association.

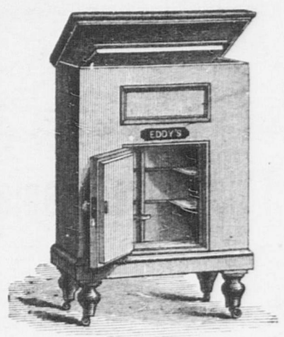

Sunday afternoon at 3 30, Secretary Colton will conduct a Bible study. The lesson will be the first chapter of Hebrews.

It is hoped that every new member of the Association, as well as those who helped to secure them, will be present at the reception Saturday evening. The orchestra will play and the ladies will serve refreshments.

—Dr. John Fryer of the department of oriental languages at Berkeley, in California, has come into possession of a volume of the famous encyclopedia published in China in 1726, and containing at that time 5000 volumes, which were indexed in 20 volumes. The book is known as the "Tu-shuchi Ch'eng," and is one of the largest literary works ever produced in the world. The subjects treated comprise the entire sum of knowledge possessed in China, classified undes the six heads of astronomy and mathematics, physical and political geography, human relationship, science and inanimate nature, metaphysics and doctrinal philosphy and political economy.

My Sweetheart's Changed.

I loved a little maiden in days not long gone by,
Her voice was soft and gentle as the zyphers evening sigh:
Her eyes were bright and merry and of an azure blue,
Her lips were sweet and rosy, and her heart was kind and true.

Now this little maiden fair took a thought one summer day;
As swaying in a hammock in a listless mood she lay,
"If other girls go a cycling why cannot I go too?"
And away to buy a bicycle this wilful maiden flew.

Of "spills" she got a goodly share, yet nobly persevered:
(Though with arnica, and vaseline, her skin was sadly smeered)
And now she sits her wheel with a captivating grace,
And glides along so swifty one can scarcely see her face.

Alas! the bike has changed my Nellie, and I cannot tell you why,
But her heart has turned to marble, and she's lost her merry eye;
Now I miss her loving smile and her voice so soft and sweet,
And I hardly dare address her when at any time we meet.

In the evenings when I call on her, she has no time she says—
To talk of silly trifles as we did in other days:
For now she studies metaphysics, likewise how the moon was made,
She has joined a Browning club, and a woman's rights brigade.

See talks of woman's suffrage, and reform in woman's dress,
She has doned a pair of bloomers, and if I rightly guess,
She would like to take to lecturing like Mary Lizzie Lease,
Mrs. Gouger, Mary Walker, and such other chattering geese.

My heart is well nigh broken and I know not what to do,
Yet still I have a hope that she her present course will rue;
I can't forget my Nellie, let me try it as I like,
Though she has sadly changed since she began to ride a bike.

Get up early some pleasant morning and you can have fifty miles of delightful riding for about seventy cents; and get home in season for an early supper.

A German court made an odd ruling recently in a remarkable case of larceny. A man was accused of stealing several thousand amperes of electricity by tapping a light company's wires and using it to run a dynamo. The court, on appeal, ruled that only a movable material object could be stolen, which electricity was not, and therefore the man was acquitted.

SEWER WORK.

Commissioners Vote to Put Sewer in Copeland Street Before Paving.

The only business of importance transacted at the meeting of the Sewer Commissioners Thursday night, was a vote to build the sewer on Copeland street between Brewer's corner and the junction of Crescent street before the street is paved. Detail plans for this section are now being made and bids will be advertised for immediately.

Another interesting matter in relation to the sewer was the laying of the first brick, which took place Thursday afternoon. At that time there was present Engineer Branch and his assistants, the contractor and others, who stood and looked silently on as the mason placed the brick in place. As he did so Hamilton Flood of the Engineers' office, placed a copper cent beneath it, and some one remarked that the man who bet a turkey supper that there would not be a brick of the sewer laid this year had lost his supper.

Water Department Notes.

At the meeting of the Water Commissioners held Thursday night the following bids were opened for furnishing 180 tons of cast iron pipe of 6, 8 and 10 inches, the prices given being for tons of 2240 pounds, and delivered in Quincy.

M. J. Drummond, New York, $20 30.
Lester E. Wood, $20.33.
Warren Foundry Machine Co., New York, $20 50.
Jackson & Woodin Manufacturing Co., Penn., $20 60.
Reading Foundry Co., Penn., $20.83
National Foundry and Pipe Works, Penn., $21.70.

The several bids were taken under advisement and the award will be made later.

The department has just completed laying 2500 feet of pipe in the Adams shore property.

Up to the present time something like 150 new services have been put in this year, increasing the number to 3020.

The collections of water rates for the past six months were better than ever before.

The water in the reservoir is on a level with the overflow.

A Contrast.

How differently things are managed in different schools. At the Woodward institute the management bears the expense of graduation and the students have the distribution of the invitations while at Thayer academy the students have always had to pay the expenses and, until this year have issued the invitations. This year they pay the bills, as usual, but the managment extends invitations to the general public. This seems a little unfair to the student, as those they are particularly interested in cannot be sure of good seats. At the Woodward they also have reserved seats.

CAPT. SPEAR DEAD.

Was One of the Minute Men Who Responded in 1861.

Capt. Edward A. Spear, a well known citizen of the city, died this forenoon at his residence, after a short illness.

Mr. Spear enlisted at the age of 44 in Co. H, which was the official letter given to the Hancock Light Guards, being the first lieutenant. This company was a part of the 4th regiment, which was under command of Col. Abner B. Packard of this city, and was among the first to respond to the call of the government in 1861, proceeding to Boston the day the orders were received, and thence to Fortress Munroe, where it was under command of Col. Dimmock and Gen. B. F. Butler. The regiment took part in the battle of Big Bethel, Aug. 14, 1862 Mr. Spear was commissioned a captain.

Since the war until a few years ago, Capt. Spear has been prominent in city affairs, as a constable and superintendent of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, being one of the managers of public burial places for several years.

Capt. Spear was in his 81st year, older than many supposed. He leaves a widow. Funeral Monday at 3 P. M from 172 Washington street.

Q. & B. INVINCIBLE.

The Ball Team Win Again from a West End Nine.

At Merry Mount park Thursday the Quincy & Boston street railway nine won from Div. 9 of the West End by a score of 21 to 6.

The features of the game were the battery work of Hayes and Dunn, and the fine fielding of J. Faircloth and Kiley. At the eighth inning, Putman the invincible pitcher was substituted in the place of Dunn, which called forth a round of applause. The visitors could do nothing with his curves.

HAILSTONES WEIGHING A POUND.

Record Breaking Storm Sweeps Over Topeka. Many People Injured.

Topeka, June 25.—The worst hail storm known in the history of Kansas struck this city shortly after 6 o'clock last night. Hailstones weighing 12 to 16 ounces stripped the trees of their foliage, smashed window panes, including the finest plate glass store fronts, cut down telegraph and telephone wires, riddled awnings and inflicted unprecedented damage throughout the city. Dogs were struck in the streets and instantly killed and horses were knocked to their knees. When the fury of the storm had passed dead birds were found everywhere. Frequent and terrific lightning accompanied the storm.

Topeka looks like a city that has withstood an artillery siege. There are not a dozen buildings in the town that are not almost windowless, and many roofs were caved in.

The roofs of street cars also were pierced. The damage wrought can better be imagined when it is known that the hailstones ranged in size from that of a hen's egg to that of an ostrich egg, and that 30 minutes after the storm one hailstone was picked up which measured 14 inches in circumference. Surgeons are busy dressing the wounds of persons injured in the storm, and reports of injuries continue to be received. Many were hurt in runaways.

The damage cannot be estimated, but it will amount to thousands. Window glass is already at a premium here, and three carloads were ordered from Kansas City. Street car traffic is stopped.

JAPAN'S DESIRE.

Hawaiians Insist That Mikado Wants to Acquire the Islands.

Washington, June 25.—Hawaiians in Washington insist that the reason for the protest of Japan against annexation is that Japan really desires to acquire the islands herself. The main point of contention between Japan and Hawaii over the treaty between them, it is learned is as to the wording of the treaty which Hawaii seeks to abrogate. This treaty has a provision that it may be terminated at any time by mutual consent.

This is construed by the Japanese government to mean that the treaty cannot be terminated without the consent of both governments, and as long as Japan insists upon keeping it in force it cannot be abrogated. The Hawaiian contention is that the words have no such meaning, and that any contract or agreement can be dissolved by mutual consent as a matter of course; that if the claim of Japan was valid the treaty would be in effect permanently.

It is understood that Japan insists that her present claims must be acknowledged and accepted by the United States in case of annexation, although protesting against annexation.

Reading Man Missing.

Reading, Mass., June 25.—The family of Thomas R. Todd of Reading are anxious to learn of his whereabouts, he having been missing since June 4, on which day he left home on the noon train, accompanied by his brother, to witness the ball game in Boston as a slight recreation. Later in the day the brothers separated, and since that time his family have had no knowledge of his whereabouts, except as they have heard of his being seen near the Castle Square hotel and on the streets in Boston by various Reading people. Mr. Todd has had the entire charge of the Samuel Pierce organ pipe business since the latter's death. Owing to the general business depression and his untiring devotion to his employer's interests and intense anxiety for the success of the business, it is feared his mind has become unbalanced.

Concerning Pensions.

Washington, June 25.—A policy which will affect many pension claims has been adopted by the interior department in a ruling just made by Assistant Secretary Webster Davis, holding that the showing of the inclusion of a man's name on the pension rolls is equivalent to the production of an honorable discharge. The issue was made in the case of Judith S. Luckingbeal, widow of a veteran who served in the Eleventh Ohio infantry, and the ruling reverses the action of the pension bureau. Mr. Davis holds that a declaration for widows' pensions under the act of June 27, 1890, alleging all the essential elements of title except the date of her husband's discharge or duration of his service, and that his discharge was honorable, but stating that he was a pensioner and giving the number of his pension certificate, is a good and sufficient application under that act.

Beer Openly Sold at Lewiston.

Lewiston, Me., June 25.—At the Maine state fair grounds yesterday afternoon, where the French people held part of the exercises in connection with the celebration of St. John's day, lager beer was openly sold in direct violation of the prohibitory law. It is claimed that 200 barrels of beer were bottled and sold at the rate of 20 cents a bottle. One of the police officers was asked if he knew that beer was being openly sold on the fair grounds. He replied that he did, but that he had had no orders to stop it. Mayor Judkins was on the grounds, and, it is claimed, knew that beer was being sold.

Governor Powers' Nominations.

Augusta, Me., June 25.—Governor Powers has made several nominations to be confirmed at the meeting of the executive council June 28. Among them are: Judge of Gardiner municipal court, J. M. Larrabee; commissioners to examine into the desirability of establishing new normal schools, F. S. Wells, Vinal Haven; John L. Harper, Lewiston; Albert R. Hawkes, Windham; state assayer, William H. Ohler, Portland.

A Tip For Japan.

London, June 25.—The Daily Graphic says editorially: Japan is likely to defeat her own ends by addressing a bellicose remonstrance to the United States on the subject of Hawaii. The policy of annexation is not very popular in America, but any attempt at dictation will only be resented and will strengthen the case for the annexationists by the suggestion of an eventual Japanese annexation.

Heavyweights to Fight to Finish.

New York, June 25.—Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey were matched yesterday to fight to a finish. The terms of the agreement are that the men shall fight to a finish before the club or individual offering the biggest inducement and for a side bet of $5000. Both representatives of the fighters deposited $2500 each to bind the match.

TALK ABOUT EUROPE.

Highly Interesting Notes Upon Various Topics Social, Political and Military.

At the request of the nizam or king of Haidarabad the British government at Calcutta has officially denied the widely circulated story with regard to the alleged disappearance from the Haidarabad treasury of the famous Mountain of Light diamond. The gem in question, which is of the purest water, weighs 180 carats and was a few years ago the subject of a celebrated lawsuit between Mr. Jacobs, the original of Marion Crawford's "Mr. Isaacs," and the nizam and is still safe in the keeping of the latter, which it has never left since the conclusion of the trial.

The plan of the grand manuvers of the French army, which are to take place in September next, was recently officially announced. The field of operations will be confined to the north, Arras and Douai forming the base on one side, while on the other Soissons and Villers-Cotteret mark the farthest limit. Thus the ground covered is that by way of which Paris has more than once been approached by a real invader, and the movements will reproduce in some degree those of Generals Faidherbe and Farre in 1871.

It is comforting for Americans to learn from the returns lately published by the Journal Officiel at Paris that not a single citizen of the United States has abandoned his country in order to secure naturalization as a Frenchman during the last 12 months. France acquired no less than 8,037 new citizens by means of naturalization last year. Belgians, Germans, Spaniards, Poles, Russians, Moors, Chinamen and Britons figure among the number, but not a single son of Uncle Sam.

A new use has been found by the military authorities in Germany for the dogs of war, and Great Danes are now being trained in the various garrisons to attack military cyclists. Wheelmen clad in various uniforms and so protected by padding that they are safe against bites, ride past the dogs, who instantly rush at the men, if costumed as French or Russians, and throw them to the ground. If by any chance the dog should attack a representative of the triple alliance, he is severely whipped, while a reward is given to him when he assails the man who personates an enemy.

Speculation is rife in Europe as to the cause of the astounding percentage of suicides among the medical profession in Russia. In the Muscovite empire the rate of suicide for ordinary mortals is 30 in 1,000,000. But the rate for doctors is no less than 631 in 1,000,000, according to recent official returns. This is all the more a matter for concern, as Russia suffers more than any other nation in Europe from a scarcity of medical men.

The library of the Vatican has just received as a gift from the University of Oxford the 49 volumes of the "Sacred Books of the East," which are the English translations by Professor Max Muller of the liturgical works used by the followers of Buddha and Confucius.

One of the most eminent naval experts in France describes in the Paris Temps the French fleet as a "museum of specimens," owing to the fact that no two vessels are alike. Those now in process of construction represent no less than 21 different types, and it is needless to point out the tactical disadvantages that must inevitably result from dissimilarity in the fighting units of a squadron. The expert likewise points out that if France had received the same value for the money which she has spent on her ships during the last 20 years as England the tonnage of her fleet today would be greater than it is by over 200,000 tons. This conveys a faint idea of the extravagance and mismanagement of the French department of the navy.

China is decidedly getting on and in a vein of progress and of enlightenment, for, according to news received in London from Peking, an imperial edict has recently been issued making the teaching of English compulsory in all the higher schools of the leading provinces. This is a reform which has not even been attempted as yet by the Japanese government, although frequently recommended. Japan, indeed, is sadly backward in educational matters. While she is spending colossal sums of money on her army and navy, official returns show that there are close upon 2,000,000 children of school age who are without schools or any educational facilities whatsoever.

The present activity of Vesuvius has been much exaggerated, the volcano being merely in what is known to scientists as a condition of "mild eruption." The lava issuing from the various mouths of the Atrio del Cavallo forms a torrent flowing down the steep side of the new cone formed in that portion of the mountain by recent eruptions and has interrupted the funicular railroad. The main crater, however, shows no signs of activity, and the openings from which the lava issues are relatively small and situated at its base.

Much comment is excited in London by the extraordinarily slow progress made in the construction of the Uganda railroad, which, connecting the great equatorial plateau of Africa and the lake districts with the eastern seacoast, is destined to open up to civilization and to the commerce of the world the whole of the interior of the dark continent. Owing to the red tape and lack of energy of the British foreign office, which has the matter in hand, barely 50 miles of track have been laid, whereas during the same period General Kitchener's men on the upper Nile have managed to lay some 300 miles of track across the desert in the direction of Abu-Hamed.—New York Tribune.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully, A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true. A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this August 4th, 1897. J. M. LAMBERT, N. P., Comanche County, Texas.

CATARRH CURED BY P. P. P.

Woman's weakness, whether nervous or otherwise, can be cured and the system built up by P. P. P. A healthy woman is a beautiful woman.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or cooffee. Have you tried the new food drink called Grain-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about one-fourth as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

The Debate on Manufactured Woolen Rates Checks Tariff Bill's Progress.

Hale Would Stop Ex-Senators Lobbying on the Floor.

Both Houses Adjourn as a Mark of Respect to the Late Representative Cooke.

Washington, June 25.—The senate did not make any marked progress with the tariff bill yesterday, only wading through the woolen schedule. Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is expected to be on the floor today and to take an active part in the management of the bill. Senator Allison, upon whom nearly the full responsibility has fallen during the absence of Senator Aldrich, has become very much fatigued by the strain of hard work, the importunities of representatives of special interests and the necessity of informing himself about details which he did not expect to have in his charge.

Senator Allison stated in reply to an inquiry that there was neither probability nor possibility that a final vote could be obtained on the tariff bill by Saturday night, as some of the Republican senators have been hoping might be the case. It seems doubtful now whether the bill will be passed even at the close of next week, in view of the many contested paragraphs to be disposed of.

Senator Hale of Maine astonished his associates by moving an amendment to the rules restricting the privileges of the floor to such former senators as are "not interested in any claim, or the prosecution of the same, or directly in any bill pending before congress." Added to the formal motion was an explanation that it was intended to prevent former senators from enjoying the privileges of the floor to urge or oppose claims or bills for which they were employed as attorneys.

During the day Mr. Caffery of Louisiana spoke at length against the protective system and severely arraigned those Democratic senators who had voted for duties on wool and other materials.

Mr. Caffery spoke for two hours, summing up as follows:

"I believe in a tariff on luxuries, I believe in excise taxes, I believe in an income tax. I believe in a tariff on imports, placed so as to put money in the coffers of the government and not in the pockets of the individuals. I do not believe in protection, save for the purpose of protecting each citizen in the enjoyment of legal, constitutional and natural rights."

The debate then proceeded on paragraph 364, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc., Mr. Jones of Arkansas having offered an amendment limiting the provisions to goods "of which wool is the chief component material." The amendment was rejected—23 to 32.

Mr. Platt of Connecticut said that the amount of wool imported in anticipation of the passage of the tariff bill was in the main held by speculators and not the manufacturers, that the latter should not be punished by the action of the speculators.

When Mr. Rawlins of Utah asked Mr. Platt if the Republican doctrine was that the foreigner paid the tax the Connecticut senator courteously asked to be excused from replying, because, said he, senators who were amply able to uphold the Republican doctrine of a protective tariff were compelled to sit silent in order to secure the passage of the tariff bill within a reasonable time.

Mr. Allen took occasion to criticise senators for debating like school boys on technicalities of the bill.

Mr. Jones' amendment to postpone the operation of the duty 12 months was rejected—18 to 27. Mr. Jones moved to make the compensatory duty on certain cloths, etc., "twice" the amount of the duty on unwashed wool instead of "three times" the duty. Rejected, 19 to 26.

Paragraph 364, relating to woolen cloth, was then agreed to, as reported, omitting "skirted" in designating unwashed wools.

Mr. Vest moved to strike out the specific duty; rejected, 20 to 28.

The bill was then laid aside, paragraph 370 having been completed.

The president sent to the senate the nominations of George B. Billings of Massachusetts to be commissioner of immigration at Boston.

A message was received from the house of representatives announcing the death of Representative Cook of Illinois. Resolutions of regret were passed and a committee of five senators—Mason, Spooner, Carter, Pasco and Turner—appointed as an escort. As a further mark of respect the senate at 5 o'clock adjourned.

In the House.

Washington, June 25.—An air of gloom pervaded the house yesterday owing to the death of Mr. Cooke of Illinois, who died suddenly at his hotel yesterday morning. He was very popular with his colleagues, and his untimely death was a severe shock to them. The desk which he occupied on the extreme right of the hall was draped in mourning and covered with white roses and magnolia blossoms. The chaplain, in his invocation, referred feelingly to Mr. Cooke's death.

After reading of the journal the speaker announced the reception of an invitation from the president of the Belgian chamber of deputies to the members of the house to attend the international parliamentary conference in favor of arbitration, which commences Aug. 6.

Mr. Foss of Illinois, on behalf of the delegation, then announced the sad news of the death of his colleague, Mr. Cooke. He gave notice that at some future time he would ask the house to pay tribute to the character and public services of Mr. Cooke.

The customary resolutions were adopted and a committee to attend the funeral was appointed, consisting of the following members: Messrs. Foss, Prince, Belknap of Illinois, Moody of Massachusetts, Updegraff of Iowa, Royce of Indiana, Bailey of Texas, Hunter of Illinois and Dinsmore of Arkansas. Then, as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the house adjourned until Monday.

JUBILEE FETES ENDED.

London Is Assuming Normal Appearance. Princess of Wales' Day.

London, June 25.—Yesterday was emphatically the Princess of Wales day and her idea of giving a treat to the poor was crowned with the greatest success. She was everywhere received with much enthusiasm. The day was very hot and the princess wore the simplest kind of a white muslin dress with figured pansies.

Windsor castle was brilliantly illuminated last night with the changing colors of Bengal lights. The magnificent spectacle was visible for a distance of 10 miles.

So far as the London public is concerned the fetes are virtually ended. Some illuminations will be continued until the end of the week, but many, together with decorations, are already being dismantled.

The very oppressive heat of the day was followed last evening by a sudden wind and heavy thunder storm which have done much damage in various parts of the country. The heavy rain has thoroughly soaked the remaining decorations here, while there have been floods along the Thames valley, and roofs and steeples damaged and trees destroyed. At Norwich two men were killed by lightning.

The Daily Chronicle understands that the queen has devoted a large sum of money for the relief of the Thessalian refugees.

The lords of the admiralty and all the admirals of the foreign ships who are to take part in the naval review off Spithead on Saturday next, including Rear Admiral Miller, U. S. N., were received by Queen Victoria at Windsor Castle yesterday. Each of the admirals was accompanied by two aides de camp, those of the American admiral being Commander W. H. Emery, chief of Admiral Miller's staff; Lieutenant J. C. Colwell, naval attache of the United States embassy in London, and by Lieutenants Rogers and Andrews. The admirals were met at the railroad station by royal carriages and were taken to the castle through a shower of rain. At the depot and at the castle, for this occasion, detachments of blue jackets formed the guards of honor. The British first lord of the admiralty, the Right Hon. George J. Goschen, was in full uniform, and the admirals were ablaze with decorations and resplendent in full dress. At the castle they were entertained at luncheon.

At Boston—

Boston won a decided victory over Baltimore yesterday, but the crowd of spectators was so dense that the outfielders were greatly hampered and the ground rules that were put in force detracted greatly from the interest in the game. Bergen split his finger in the seventh inning and was replaced by Ganzel. Long and Jennings did some phenomenal fielding, while Duffy led in the batting with five hits out of five times at the bat. In the seventh Boston piled up five runs on five hits, a home run and an error by Doyle. The attendance was 12,000.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

William E. McClintock has been nominated by Governor Wolcott to succeed himself as highway commissioner.

Eddie Bald yesterday won the mile open professional race at Albany in 2:08 1-5, the fastest time that such a race has been run on the New York circuit this year.

The establishment of a free delivery postal service has been suspended from July 1 to July 15 at Marblehead and North Attleboro, Mass.; Olneyville, R. I., and Wallingford, Conn.

The American Homeopathic Ophthalmalogical and Laryngological society at Buffalo elected the following officers: President, William R. King, Washington; vice president, Thomas L. Sheever, Baltimore; secretary and treasurer, Charles H. Helfrich, New York.

A dispatch from Heligoland, in the North sea, says that Gordon Hodgkinson's cutter, Wave Queen, arrived there at 6:45 p. m. yesterday, thus winning Mr. Hodgkinson's North sea cup in the subsidiary match over the same course, from Dover to Heligoland, as the yachts that are competing for the German emperor's jubilee cup.

Mildred Brewster Getting Better.

Montpelier, Vt., June 24.—Mildred Brewster, who shot and killed Anna Wheeler, while in a fit of jealousy, on May 29, and who was thought to be dying, may recover as her condition is more favorable than at any time since the tragedy. The bullet in her brain brought on partial paralysis, but this seems to be gradually passing away. Miss Brewster wants to die and is continually expressing her fear of getting better. Wesley C. Brewster, her father, has engaged Hon. William A. Lord, speaker of the legislature, to take charge of the defense of his daughter if she is brought to trial for causing the death of Miss Wheeler. The defense will be insanity.

Stove Keeper Removed.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 25.—The authorities at Washington have ordered the removal of the keeper placed over the equipment of the Hartford Construction and Paving company, on the ground that the state authorities were obstructing government work. On Wednesday an attachment was levied on this company to secure two former employes who brought suit for damages in the sum of $42,000, and the levy was upon the work at the new fort in Newcastle. It appears that the local authorities will undertake to test the law by refusing to remove the keeper.

Giving All a Chance.

Washington, June 25.—Assistant Attorney General Tyner of the postoffice department has adopted a new policy in the issuance of fraud orders, so that as a general rule parties against whom complaint has been made may be given a hearing or opportunity to answer charges before orders are issued against them. The action is the result of allegations that many cases of injustice have developed as a result of the representation of one aggrieved person as only one side of the case. An immense number of these orders were made by the last administration.

Sisters Married Half a Century.

Orange, Mass., June 25.—An unusual event occurred here yesterday, when Mr. and Mrs. George W. Johnson and Captain and Mrs. David Ball celebrated their golden weddings. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ball are sisters and were married at the same time 50 years ago yesterday.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Fair Harvard's Class Day. Ivied walls
Give nature's grace to stately halls,
And sun and shadow play between
The ancient trees upon the green.

Her roll tenacious memory calls,
And summons to these trysting halls
Her noble sons, whose names are told
On history's page in stars of gold.

* * * * *

I know it all! The glorious star
Of Harvard shines from near and far;
And yet today in all the town
I only see one cap and gown.

My son,—for you I do not ask
The hero's sword, the statesman's task
Or poet's wreath, or voice of seer,
That men may love and men may fear.

I only ask that Harvard's best
Of truth and honor be your quest;
That following Harvard's highest plan,
Your life be given to God and man.

The world may never read your name
Upon the future's roll of fame;
Enough, my son, if heavenly crown
Be added to your cap and crown.

Among the private spreads at Harvard on Class Day none was more enjoyable than the one given in the afternoon at Holyoke house by Mr. Chauncy Bumpus. Four rooms, each decorated in bunting of the class colors, for each year of the college course, presented a most attractive appearance blending with the potted plants, flowers and handsome gowns. A most enjoyable affair occurred Thursday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. H. F. Bennett on Wollaston avenue, the occasion being a piano recital by her pupils assisted by professional talent from Boston, Mr. Robert Hall tenor. The programme was one of excellent merit doing much credit to both teacher and pupils. Some one hundred of Wollaston's best were there including quite a number of musical people. One of the very many pleasant surprises of the evening was the rendering of some three or four selections on the piano by Mr. John Orth, one of Boston's first piano instructors and players and Mrs. Bennett's teacher. The pupils to take part were Mabel Reid, Charles Choate, Charlotta Williamson, Marcus Hutchinson, Nettie Gram, Roy Baker, Edward Mitchell, Ernest Arnold, Jessie McKean, Frederic Mitchell and Bertha Cherrington. After the feast of music a collation was served.

LOYALTY THE THEME.

At Presentation of Diplomas to Grammar Graduates.

William Clinton Bates of Fall River the Principal Speaker.

Greeting from Mayor Adams and Other Remarks.

The annual exercises of the Grammar schools and presentation of diplomas to 244 graduates occurred yesterday afternoon at High school hall, accordiug to the programme in the LEDGER. The hall was none too large to accommodate all.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the classes of the several schools, preceded by their principals marched into the main hall, to the music of the High school orchestra. The young misses were all in white, while the masters were in black, each class wearing its school color as follows: Adams, canary; Coddington, blue; Gridley Bryant, purple; John Hancock, lilac; Lincoln, cream white; Quincy, pink; Washington, crimson; Willard, nile green; Wollaston, old rose.

The exercises opened with a chorus, "Morning Hymn," and although the graduates had had but one rehearsal as a body, the music was exceedingly well rendered, and as Superintendent Lull said in his opening remarks it needed no apology.

The introductory remarks were by Superintendent Lull, who spoke briefly on the need of education and of work. Happy was the man whose work after a year does not become routine work. You see now a machine and man and in a few years it becomes a machine man which provokes stagnation. Relief for this stagnation is found in the word vocation, and a vocation which calls us away from that trial and gives relief. If the graduates of Wednesday has not discovered some line to work upon, then we have failed to do our duty. Have we learned that we must live outside ourself? A father who spends his money for education gives his children something no man can take away.

Mayor Adams

Brought the greetings of the city. Years ago when the system of education was introduced in New England boys and girls looked upon teachers as hard task masters. Now I want to ask you to look on them in a different light. To regard our city as a kind parent who gives you opportunities to learn things for yourselves, to make men and women of yourselves.

The city wants you to be good citizens, to make us great among the cities of the Commonwealth. It is for you to take advantage of the opportunities or to neglect them. It is for your benefit to take these things. We offer them and that is all we can do. I want you to enjoy your vacation and come back here strong and ready to take up work again. I ask you to remember that with the ending of your school days your duty is not ended, you have duties toward other boys and girls and toward your parents. Try and make this vacation pleasant for them as well as yourself, and you will come back here with the knowledge that others have had a good time as well as yourself.

Mr. William C. Bates,

Superintendent of schools at Fall River, gave an address upon "Loyalty." He spoke in a pleasant manner and was very entertaining. He said it was a good thing to be born or reared in Quincy. He had always looked to Quincy as a big town and thought it must have a big educational privilege. When he became a teacher he found this was true and he was sorry he had never taught here.

You young people have already done some rough work in life. You have climbed this hill. There is a mountain before you. You have learned what it is to buckle down to your studies until you have mastered them. Only they into whose lives the angel of work has come have seen the glory of life. A revelation in school life has come now; it seems to us a little later than it should have come.

Should we not learn then that this ascent is not hard but full of pleasure all the way. Let us so conduct ourselves that we shall never quench that spirit. May we have power to keep ourselves from that spirit which says "I can't." May his evils never be fastened about us to drag us down. Have faith in the power God has given us, that makes us walk and not faint.

What is more pleasant than the thought that the work we are doing is the best that we can do. He hated a man who was forever looking for a soft snap. Our full power is none too full for the work we have to do. A boy or girl who works in this spirit has all the qualities summed up in the one word, "loyalty." Write this word loyalty in your hearts.

It makes you confident, that there are no better scholars than in Quincy; no better schools, and no better principals. I want you to keep this great loyalty as long as you live and in September I want you to take a fair sample of that loyalty to the High school and present it to the faculty. I want you to commend that loyalty and be ever ready to defend your home, and glory in it. I want you to say that there is no better place in the world to fight the world's battles than here. We ought to know more about our own local history that we may honor it more. Heed how thou livest. Do no deed by day that night shall drive thy sleep away. Unto you God sends his glory and may it be with you all your lives.

Hon. Charles H. Porter,

Chairman of the School Committee, said it was a pleasure to give the benefit of the best of schools. He would not have the graduates think that their education was completed. He hoped all that could would take some course in the High School. He hoped the parents would make all the sacrifices in their power that their children may receive one of the higher courses, and he wished them all Godspeed. Never forget to keep your eyes and ears wide open to receive the education you will receive as you go on. To those who return he wished all the happiest life. To obtain this you must be ambitious. If done in the highest ambitions your life will be a success. I wish you to be loyal to your home, loyal to your city, loyal to your state, and loyal to the great fatherland,—the United States.

At the conclusion of Chairman Porter's remarks the diplomas were presented to the graduates by the sub-committee from the several schools. As the graduates of the Gridley Bryant school received their diplomas Chairman Porter took occasion to call attention to the fact that this was the first class to graduate from that school.

The exercises closed with the audience uniting in singing "Our public schools," written by Frederic Allison Tupper. The graduates then marched out and were given a reception by the principals.

The name of James McDonald appeared twice in the list of Adams school graduates on the programme and in the newspapers. One of these should have been James Dunn who was one of the graduates.

Watch Stolen.

Timothy Fitzgerald, night flagman at the West Quincy depot, had his gold watch stolen at 8.10 o'clock Friday night by a sneak thief. The watch was in his vest which hung in the shanty, and while he was out flaging a train someone entered the shanty and stole the watch.

CHAPTER I.

The blacksmith's shop at Hiawassee gap was a literal cave, half way up the side of a huge cliff. Across the roaring river a still higher line of cliffs extend for a mile or so, rising perpendicularly to a dizzy height, until their corrugated brows recede into the gently swelling outlines that usually round out the more southerly summits of the Chilhomes. A narrow road twisted sinuously up the sides of the gorge to a kind of basin hollowed out of the overhanging rocks, where, beneath a beetling crag, yawned the smithy, its sides, roof and floor of nature's own carving, while its front was partially boarded with slabs from the little sawmill at the mouth of Greasy creek, three miles above.

A small cabin of split logs, clay daubed, and with a "stick chimney," also nestled near by amid a truck patch of half an acre, that occupied all the available space within this veritable "crow nest" peering over the precipice, 300 feet above the little ferry and government stillhouse below. A faroff glimpse of the broad ridges and meadows of the Tennessee valley could be seen below the gap, while above the distant mountains, seemingly tumbled one above another, bounded the view toward the east.

A spring bubbled from a cleft in the mountain side, which here burst upward into the vast precipice that lowered over the blacksmith's home. Under the hollies and oaks thereby was the smith's wife, "batting" clothes upon a block, with a portion of the week's wash sprinkling the bushes around her.

Jim Cheek, her husband, a huge, slow motioned, blue eyed giant, swung himself slowly up the trail leading from the ferry. He paused to admire his wife's plump figure and brisk, supple movements. Wonder had also mingled with his admiration ever since—two years ago—he had taken her from the great hotel at White Cliff Springs, where, though only a waitress, her airs and graces had impressed themselves upon his primitive imaginings as those of a queen in disguise—a wonder that, with her fresh, dark beauty and vivacious manners, she could have seen anything in him to love and cling to.

He knew but little of her past, nor had their wedded intimacy added much to his previous knowledge, except that she was from Nashville, that her parents were both dead, and that she—alone in the world—had drifted from one employment to another down to Chattanooga, thence to the town of Athens, and from there to her summer's berth at White Cliff. The blessed sense of relief that comes to a world tossed feminine waif, in the hope of realizing a home of her own, had rendered Jim's awkward movements, bovine wit and simple ways not only endurable, but attractive to her. Thus it came about that in transfixing him with wonder at his own success she had come to share his humble lot with the same grace and vivacity that had fascinated him at the great hotel, whither the mountain folk were wont to resort in ramshackle vehicles to dispose of their poultry, butter and eggs.

How quickly she had adapted herself to the narrow, toilsome, isolated existence of the mountains! "She reely talks jest like we uns," thought Jim. "She makes like us in all her belongin's, and yet somehow she ain't nary a bit like us, atter all. I wonder if hit's only a make believe, jest ter please me and that thar young un?"

"That thar young un," the visible result of their union, was a blue eyed, brown haired baby, scarce 13 months old, that now lay asleep upon its blankets under a holly bush, while its mother sang to the resounding accompaniment of her paddle in a manner confirmative of Jim's reflections:

"Some folks say the niggers won't steal,
But I ketched seven in my cornfiel!
Run, nigger, run!
Patterol ketch you!
Run, nigger, run!
Hit' almos' day!"

"Durn me, how she can sing," said he to himself as he leaned across the top rail of the fence watching her. Glancing up from her work, she saw him there, and in her impulsive way dropped her paddle and was at his side in a moment.

"Now ye're at hit ag'in," said she, "ye great big mountain of laziness. Ye've jest got ter be punished right here."

The nature of the punishment belied the severity of her words and consisted in seizing his ears, pulling his big head down to a level with her own and planting a sounding smack upon Jim's elephantine lips.

"Who wouldn't be a-loaferin in sech company?" remarked the proud husband, smacking his lips like a boy over his candy. "But I'm jest pestered about ye, Darthuly. Ye never take no time ter rest onct ye git started ter work. 'Pears like ye wuz afeerd ter spell yerself."

"Listen at this yer man," she replied playfully, yet with a serious droop of her large black eyes. "Ain't ye allays a-hammerin and a-blowin in that thar shop, and shouldn't I do my part as well? Reely, Jim, I'm a master sight better off ter be busy, and—there's a man and horse right now at the shop door a-waitin fer ye, and here ye air a-courtin me as ushel."

"Hit's the new gauger as comed last night ter the stillhouse. He wants a new shoe on his critter's off fore foot. Don't ye hurt yourself a workin, honey, jest bekase ye can."

With this chronic injunction on his lips Jim hastened to the shop. Darthuly looked after him a moment, then suffered her gaze to wander down to the brawling river below and upward along the opposite cliffs, until her eyes rested absently upon the swelling summits of the mountains. The sun shimmered upon the distant pines sharply outlined against the sky above her, while the wind, whistling down the gap from those aerial heights, toyed with her tumbled curls as its monotonous sough mingled with the roar of the waters below.

The white steam from the stillhouse whirled upward into invisibility against the green background of spruce and fir clinging to the cliffs. The tinkle of a cowbell floated down from unseen heights above; a large hawk hung lazily in midair over the wildest crags. Surely beneath the wind and the river's roar there was a Lethean glamour in the air, harmonizing the savagery of nature with the peaceful influences of the hour.

Was its charm working upon her mind as she leaned upon the fence, oblivious of her task, or had she really given heed to Jim's admonition "to be keerful" and rest? The sprightly decision of her face had given way to an expression of gentle and regretful sadness. Once or twice she sighed; then her thoughts seemed to find a disconnected utterance.

"So good, so true, so watchful of my comfort. Why cannot I love him as he does me?"

The mountain dialect had disappeared from her lips. Its absence seemed to render her conscious of the incongruity, for in her next murmur it was resumed.

"He's just as honest and as open as daylight, while I—I have erbleeged ter be jest the other way." Then, as her feelings again grew more intense, she once more became natural. "God knows I don't want to be false, yet what will not a poor woman do for a home and shelter—and love? He has given me all these, but—what have I given him in return?"

There was a soft crushing of gravel behind her. She turned suddenly. A medium sized, slender young man, having crisp, brown hair, a tawny mustache and keen gray eyes, stood before her. As they saw each other his carelessly polite salutation was merged in a glare of surprise and an after smile of exultant pleasure. With a quick exclamation she covered her face with one hand and extended the other as though to ward off his approach.

"Well, Meg," he said in a low, calculative tone, "you're about the last person I expected to meet here."

As he eyed her the relentless composure of his smile seemed cruel in its contrast to the agitation she exhibited as she finally gasped:

"You—you here?"

"Well, yes, I'm here, and devilish surprised to run up with you, Meg. But what's your game now? Trying the virtuous dodge, eh? Making this susceptible elephant of a blacksmith your victim, I suppose."

She raised her face and confronted him with blazing eyes at this innuendo.

"No thanks to you, Dick Bufford. Think how you have served me—me! Think what I have endured because I was once weak enough to trust you!"

As this confession slipped from her lips they trembled under its influence, despite the revulsive anger with which his presence inspired her. His eye never left her face, as, playing with his watch chain, he replied:

"How many had shared your love before I came along? There, there. Don't get excited. You couldn't help getting jealous, and when I left you in Atlanta I never thought we'd turn up together again on this footstool. You wouldn't let me so much as wink without a quarrel, and I finally soured on it."

"Why are you here?"

She demanded this in a quick, peremptory tone, flashing a glance toward the smithy, then fixing her eyes on his handsome, imperturbable face.

"I'm gauging for the government. Am to be here for a week. May stay longer, now I've seen you. Blame me, Meg, but mountain life agrees with you. You're prettier than ever."

In an easy yet imperative way, which she seemed powerless to oppose, he took her dimpled chin between thumb and finger and looked at her with a kindling light in his eyes, then released her, saying:

"I was a fool to run away from you, Meg, my girl. I'll have better sense this time."

The cry of an infant came to their ears from the holly bush by the spring. The wretched mother, roused from the spell which his manner and words had thrown over her, in spite of the reproaches she cast upon him, darted back a step, with averted face, crying wildly:

She turned suddenly.

"Go away from here, Dick Bufford! I am a wife and a mother. My husband works in yonder shop. You have my reputation in your power, but I say beware how you handle it. I'm a desperate woman, Dick. This is my home and shelter. You left me none when you forsook me three years ago. Oh, Dick, for God's sake spare me for—for the sake of my husband and child, if not for your own sake or mine!"

The passionate anger with which she began melted into piteous appeal as she started toward the child. He seized her hand, whereat she stopped as though an electric shock had pervaded her system, while he said:

"D— it, Meg! I glory in your spunk. Carry it out to suit yourself and don't fear me. I'll never peach. I was a fool ever to leave you, and I'm your friend now. Blame me, but you're the pluckiest woman in the state, and Dick Bufford is your slave."

Having thus delivered himself, he let her go and strolled back toward the shop, smiling and soliloquizing:

"Meg in the respectable line! She carries it well, considering it's her first attempt. D— me, but she's a thoroughbred. She must have been hard pushed, though, to saddle herself with this thick pated son of Vulcan for a—a—husband, didn't she say? Fancy Meg with a husband! And now there's a squalling brat to complicate matters. Poor thing! She's been in the work so long she's got used to this state of affairs and thinks I'll interfere. Maybe I will. Meg, my girl, I begin to see that you're the woman for me, after all. But you won't fear me when I do interfere. Oh, no, I know you too well."

He entered the shop, chatted easily with honest, unsuspecting Jim until his horse was ready, then, mounting, rode down the mountain side, humming the threadbare air of "Sweet Violets."

Darthuly Cheek grasped her crying baby, with a fierce nervousness of manner, and set soothing it mechanically. Through her mind forbidden thoughts and impulses, long dormant, were rising tumultuously over the contented apathy of feeling that since her marriage had superficially reigned within a heart by nature fervid, jealous, impulsive and now, alas, rebellious against the renunciative faith wherein the purity of womanhood so often finds refuge against passion and desire. Her only audible exclamation was:

"God help me! I cannot help myself!"

BISHOP FITZGERALD.

He Will Succeed to the Position Occupied by Bishop Bowman, Retired.

Bishop James N. Fitzgerald, who is to succeed Bishop Bowman, the Methodist patriarch who has retired from active work, stands very high in the estimation of his fellow ecclesiastics. He will take up his residence in St Louis and continue there the work which Bishop Bowman has had charge of for more than a quarter of a century. At present he is residing with his family in the City of Mexico, his duties having called him at various times to different parts of the globe and recently to that city.

BISHOP FITZGERALD.

Bishop Fitzgerald was born in Newark, N. J., about 60 years ago. His first ambition was to become a lawyer, and he was admitted to the bar in 1856. He was eminently successful in his profession for three years, but while attending a revival in a Newark Methodist church he became satisfied that his talents were being misdirected, and he gave up his practice to become a preacher. He was assigned to missionary work on the Pacific coast, and for several years worked among the mining camps. He organized the first permanent Methodist Church South in San Francisco. It is now known as Old Centenary.

As a minister he developed great power. He not only became a good pulpit orator, but a forcible and convincing writer on religious subjects, and he has edited several Methodist publications, including The Pacific Methodist. He was steadily advanced from one charge to another and occupied numerous important pulpits. He also gave evidence of possessing rare executive power, and in 1888 he was elected a bishop at the St. Louis general conference.

For several years he acted as recording secretary of the missionary board and society, and the duties of this position compelled him to travel much in this and other countries. He was also assistant secretary at three general conferences. Some years ago Bishop Fitzgerald was elected president of the Epworth League, an organization in which he has taken a great deal of interest. He has found time during his active career to write some ten books. The most popular of these is entitled "California Sketches," which has had a large sale.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How to get patience and why.—Jas. v, 7-20.

Among many other duties to which James exhorts us in this eminently practical epistle is the Christian grace of patience.

The reason for patience lies mainly in the fact that patience is absolutely necessary to the Christian life. We are in a world of tribulations, of persecutions, of doubts, perplexities and of uncertainties. Under many conditions in life the only thing possible for us to do is to patiently wait the will of God.

This grace of patience is very much needed in this day. Its importance is underrated. Too many methods of life tend to produce physical conditions that result in impatience and irritability of disposition and character. It is a serious defect in the Christian's character. If any one should be expected to be patient and submissive under the trials of life it should be the Christian, and if he is not, no matter if his impatience is produced by physical ailment, it is detrimental to his religion.

Patience should be constantly and carefully cultivated. Some ways of cultivating patience are mentioned by the apostle.

1. Patience may be cultivated by remembering the second coming of Christ. The certainty of Christ's second coming should assist us in being patient, in enduring the greatest hardships and difficulties without murmur and complaint. Why? Because the assurance of this fact proves that these things which tend to produce impatience and complaint will some time have an end. We can endure a great deal when we know that it will not last forever.

2. The example of the husbandman should teach us patience. He sows his seed and then has to wait for months until the sunshine and the rain bring forth his crops. If he can wait so patiently for the results of physical toil and labor, cannot we endure for spiritual blessings?

3. The example of others should stimulate us to be patient. The prophets of God suffered much for His cause. They were wrecked and scourged and stoned and sawn asunder and were slain with the sword, yet they patiently endured. Job is particularly referred to as one who exercised unusual patience, yet he was not without his reward. Christ himself by example teaches us to be patient. He endured every trial and hardship and at last was led forth to death, and yet "as a lamb before the shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth."

4. God punishes impatience. It implies mistrust in Him. If we murmur, we will be condemned. "Behold the Judge standeth at the door." Impatience is a grievous sin, as it implies mistrust of God Himself.

Bible Readings.—Math. xviii, 23-35; Luke viii, 15; xxi, 19; Rom. v, 1-5; viii, 24, 25; xv, 4, 5; Col. i, 9-11; I Thess. i, 1-4; II Thess. i, 3, 4; I Tim. vi, 10, 11; Titus ii, 2; Heb. x, 35-39; xii, 1, 2; Jas. i, 3, 4; v, 7-11; II Pet. i, 5-9.

Endureth Forever.

Yesterday a friend took an opal and pressed it in his palm and held it there for a few moments, and then took it out and showed it to me, and it was all flashing with light and with color from the heart of it. So God takes you and me, poor stones with no light or life in us, and He holds us in His palm, and He presses us to His heart and then takes us, as it were, away from Him for the moment, and out from us there flash patience and courage and hope and love, which His heart and His warmth have put into us. They will die and be forgotten, but the great hand that holds and the great heart that presses and the great soul that inspires will not die and will not be forgotten. The grass withereth and the flower fadeth, but the word of our God endureth forever.—Lyman Abbott, D. D.

Read the Bible.

The mind of God is to be learned from the word of God. If we would have a stalwart, robust, active faith, we must get it from an open Bible. The worthy life, the eternal life, is obtained only by knowing God, who is revealed in the Holy Scriptures. Therefore the Christian Endeavor pledge makes one of its requirements a promise to read the Bible daily.—William T. Ellis.

The Reading of a Good Book.

A pump may be connected with a very deep well of very good water, and yet need a pitcher of water to be brought from another source to be poured in at the top before it can work. So with the mind sometimes. The reading of a good book helps it into running order.—Episcopal Recorder.

Trusting God.

To learn to leave things with God and to do one's work as if God could be trusted is to gain the repose and full heartedness which permit one to pour out his whole strength without anxiety, worry or distraction.—Outlook.

The Will to Labor.

What men want is not talent; it is purpose—in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor.—Churchman.

South American Endeavor.

The flourishing Presbyterian missions in Brazil are to be divided into a northern and a southern mission.

Ecuador has been called "the loveliest of all the republics of South America." It is at the same time the most needy from a Christian standpoint.

The young lady who is president of the Christian Endeavor society in the Union church of Santiago, Chile, raised last year, almost alone, $1,000, in Chile money, for the cause of Christ.

In the little mining town in Chile named Chanarcillo the Spanish converts have organized a Christian Endeavor society.

FOURTH OF VANDALS

BY ALICE E. IVES.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]

"Where are your fireworks?"

"Sh! Father has one of his nervous spells. I've spent the day chasing off small boys with crackers and toy pistols. It would be as much as my life is worth to say 'fireworks.'"

Margaret Becker, a very pretty girl with a very injured air, leaned back in the piazza rocker and gave vent to a sigh.

Her companion, Irene Varrick, also a very pretty girl with a picturesque pout, echoed the sigh. "So I've been lured here on false pretenses," she said. "I might at least have seen a pinwheel or two if I'd staid at home."

"Well, I'll give you my fireworks, and you can take them home and set them off yourself."

"I!" exclaimed Irene. "I wouldn't dare touch them. Mother would have a fit if I did. Brother Jack is off on a yachting excursion, and there isn't a man around the institution. Besides, the woman in the next cottage is ill, and she might have more fits than mother. It's a cheerful Fourth of July, isn't it?"

"Well, rather. Isn't it too bad when I went to town on purpose to buy those things, and had such a time getting them out here—had to pay express charges, just think of it! But I always would celebrate the Fourth of July since I was big enough to fire a cracker and had to save my pennies weeks beforehand. There will always be to me something splendid in the thought of this little slip of a country rising up and shaking its small fist in the face of Great Britain and declaring it meant to be free. Free, free, it said with every drop of its young blood and every throb of its brave, strong heart."

"That's so," said Irene. "It was fine!"

"The very word 'free' is such a great, glorious word. It means so much. And it belongs to us because of those plucky ancestors of ours who fought for it. It seems to me that if we can't remember once a year what they did we don't deserve to have what they gave us."

Suddenly Irene almost bounced from her chair. "I've got an idea!" she exclaimed. "Let's go over to Uncle Herbert's place and set off the fireworks."

"I go to Colonel Mayne's," cried Margaret indignantly. "Didn't you know he had commanded Bruce to break off our engagement? Bruce declared he wouldn't, and his father is awfully angry, and I've written Bruce I'd never enter any family where I wasn't wanted, and"—

A burst of tears finished the sentence.

Irene, in the midst of comforting little hugs and caresses, muttered: "The mean old crank! What in the world is the matter with him? Why, he's never even seen you, has he?"

"No," sobbed Margaret, "but you see father and he had a lawsuit over some property ever so long ago, and he has never forgotten it."

"Well, I never!" snorted Irene. "The unreasonable old sinner! No wonder you feel blue, dear. Come, we'll celebrate if it takes a finger nail or two."

"But not to Colonel Mayne's."

"Now, see here. He's not there, hasn't been all summer. The house is shut up. Bruce is"—

"In Washington."

"Exactly. And the colonel is in Paris. There's a nice, big lawn and a piazza to put the things on, and it will give the neighbors such a scare."

It did not take much more coaxing to win over the adventurous and patriotic Margaret. She slid quietly into the house and soon emerged from a back door with a large bundle, which the two girls, with many giggles and exclamations, proceeded to carry down a side road to Colonel Mayne's deserted house.

Arrived there, they managed to set off Roman candles and small pieces with great success. Irene couldn't be induced to hold a stick, but she did make an attempt to tack up a wheel, with fear and trembling.

"Now, I'm going to try this big rocket," said Margaret.

"Oh, Margy, I'm afraid the stick might fall on you!"

"Not unless I try hard to get under it. I just wish it would break a window in his mean old house!"

The next instant the rocket obeyed instructions by promptly going through a pane into the parlor.

It made a terrible whir and crash, and the two girls looked at each other in consternation.

Suddenly there was a sound from within.

"Burglars!" whispered Irene.

"We'll be killed," said Margaret, and the two made a dash for the gate.

At that instant a man bolted from the front door, coming down the steps at a bound. He ran into the two girls.

"Uncle Herbert!" gasped Irene.

"The devil! Oh, Irene!" (Seeing Margaret) "Beg pardon. I'm on the chase for some vandals who've been firing rockets through my windows. Irene, didn't you see any one?"

"I haven't seen a man or boy on the premises."

"Strange! The young fiends have actually had the gall to take possession of my grounds for their fool business. I'll set the police on their track. Yes, I'll find them or know the reason why."

"Let me introduce my friend, Miss Hecker," said Irene sweetly, drawing forward the terrified Margaret.

"Delighted," said Colonel Mayne gallantly, though his looks belied him. "Come in and sit on the piazza. It is probably safer to stay here and guard my property than leave it for five minutes."

"But, Uncle Herbert, how came you here? I supposed you were in Paris. Oh, you startled me so! I nearly fainted away."

"Yes, I noticed you seemed startled," observed the colonel, "and no wonder. I wasn't in a very amiable frame of mind. You see, I was called back sooner than I expected on some business, and I landed in New York this morning. Well, I'd just about as lief spend a day in hades as Fourth of July in New York. So I ran down here to escape the racket. I had been in the orchard and was just letting myself in at the back door when that infernal rocket went through the window. Confound the young rascals! There's no protection for life or limb these days. And this Fourth of July fool business seems to give them extra license for the destruction of other people's property. If I had a boy, I'd barrel him up on the Fourth of July."

"You have a boy," observed Irene sweetly.

"Yes," snorted the colonel, "and I've begun to think I ought to have barreled him up some time ago."

"Dear me! What has poor Bruce been doing?"

"Been making a fool of himself."

"Oh, I've just thought of such a charming revenge!" cried Irene.

"What! On Bruce?"

"No, indeed. On your vandals. Let us set off the fireworks they've left us."

"I detest fireworks."

"Oh, but just imagine the vandals being hidden somewhere near by and seeing us having fun with their rockets and things!"

"That's so! There would be something in that."

The more the colonel thought of it the more positively gleeful he became in his delight at wreaking revenge. He rushed about nailing up wheels, and ran like a boy into the house for matches.

"Now," said Irene to Margaret in a stage aside—"now is your time to make him like you. You know how to do it, and you've got the chance."

Margaret fell into the spirit of the thing at once.

Here the colonel appeared with a box of matches and an air of business.

Margaret proved a valuable assistant to the old gentleman. She wasn't afraid to light wheels or hold sticks while things exploded.

"Jove! You'd do to go to war! I'll bet now you wouldn't mind firing a field-piece!" exclaimed that military martinet approvingly.

They actually became chummy, and when Colonel Mayne burned his finger with a red light and Margaret found some soda in the disused pantry, and, tearing her handkerchief in strips, bound up the painful member with great skill and tenderness, the conquest of the stern veteran was complete.

"Now if Bruce had only gone and taken a fancy to you I shouldn't have minded so much," he said, with a sly twinkle.

"Would you really have me for a daughter-in-law, supposing the gentleman was willing?" asked Margaret, with amazing ingenue meekness and innocence.

"Haven't I said so?" cried the colonel, falling headlong into the trap.

"Then you won't have to trouble about the pasture, or the rope, or the barrel," added Irene in a matter of fact tone.

"But Bruce"—

"Oh, he'll be just tickled to death. He's been terribly unhappy over your opposition."

Colonel Mayne looked in a dazed way at his niece, and poor Margaret, full of dismay and remonstrance at Irene's speech, also looked at the thrower of the bomb.

"I thought," said the old gentleman stiffly, "you introduced this young lady as Miss Hecker."

"Oh, did you?" answered his niece unconcernedly. "You must have misunderstood. The name is Becker. B-e-c-k-e-r. Difference of a letter, that's all."

"And I'm not to blame for that, am I?" asked Margaret, with a smile.

"By Jove! No, you can't help having a father. You're not responsible for John Becker."

"Certainly not—any more than Bruce is for Colonel Mayne."

The colonel looked at her rather grimly.

"That's a level headed argument," he said. "It has logic on its side. And when I've said a thing I stick to it."

A CRUSHING EMBRACE.

"But you know," and Margaret drew herself up proudly, "the young woman in question wouldn't think of taking advantage of such a position. She wouldn't like to come into the family under—under protest."

"She isn't coming that way. She's coming because the old man wants her."

And the stately old warrior opened his arms and administered a crushing embrace.

"Now there's just one more rocket. Let us send it up by way of celebration," he laughed. "Jove! Won't those vandals writhe!"

NEARING PASSAGE.

Tariff Bill Has Been Gone Over Once by Senate---Wool Schedule Completed.

Washingon, June 26.—The senate yesterday completed the wool schedule, the silk and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill, and with this accomplished the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that all the schedules of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now remains only to go through the bill a second time, passing on the items passed over.

These are very numerous and important, including hides, gloves, coal, tea and beer. After that the internal revenue features will be all that remain.

Progress was rapid yesterday, although every paragraph relating to carpets was stubbornly contested. The consideration of the silk schedule led to a strong contest against the proposed duties on silk fabrics, Senators Teller and Mantle joining with the Democrats in opposition. The paragraph was passed by the slender majority of 2. The tobacco schedule went through with little friction after the committee had advanced the duty slightly on wrapper and leaf tobacco.

National League.

At Boston—

Hoffer pitched great ball for Baltimore yesterday up to the ninth inning, when the score stood 9 to 7 in favor of the visitors In the ninth, with two men out and none on bases, Collins made a hit and then Hoffer went completely to pieces, making a wretched exhibition, giving three men bases on balls in succession and forcing in one run. Then Tenney, after two strikes had been called on him, made a hit to right field, driving in the tieing and winning runs. The immense crowd went wild, and Tenney was carried off the field amid the greatest enthusiasm ever exhibited at a ball game in this city. Klobedanz was taken out of the box in the eighth inning, being replaced by Lewis. Keeler hurt himself in the first inning and O'Brien was substituted. The batting of Stenzel and Stivetts, and the fielding of Long and Jennings were the features of the game.

Employes Unpaid.

Lowell, Mass., June 26.—William P. Edwards, proprietor of the Union iron foundry of this city, is missing and the wages of his employes are five weeks in arrears. Before leaving town Edwards collected several hundred dollars on bills owed him and the employes have attached all the unpaid bills due him. In a letter to his wife this week he stated his intention of going to South America.

Brilliant Class Reception.

Seldom if ever has there been a larger or prettier party at High School hall than that of last evening at the reception tendered to their friends by the class of '97, Quincy High School. The reception was from 8 to 12 o'clock and between these hours the party enjoyed dancing to the inspiring music of Monk's orchestra. The ladies were beautifully gowned in light evening costumes, and the kaleidoscope picture presented as they whirled about the hall in the mazy waltz and popular two-step was perfectly captivating, and was almost as thoroughly enjoyed by those who did not take active part in the festivities as those who did.

The only thing in the refreshment order was frappe, which was served during the entire evening in one of the side rooms.

The officers of the class, under whose supervision the reception was held, were: Mr. Herbert Wilkins, president; Miss Emma Thompson, vice president; Miss Emma Curtin, secretary; Mr. Donald Mackenzie, treasurer.

The matrons were: Mrs. Frederic Allison Tupper, Mrs. Frederick R. Ilsley and Miss Madeleine Fish; patron, Mr. Frederic Allison Tupper.

Mr. Warren Edwards was floor director, and was ably assisted by Mr. Frank Coe, Mr. William Osborne, Mr. James Edwards and Mr. William Thomas.

The Barrel Gang.

The Braintree OBSERVER tells of a good joke this week:

A South Braintree joker desiring to have some fun with the boys told them on the quiet that his neighbor was just married; at the same time telling them to keep quiet about it.

They agreed to this, and a little later the joker appeared again upon the scene and informed the boys that the young man had learned of their discovery and had put a half barrel of beer in the shed, to be used in case he should be serenaded.

"Now," says the joker, "you fellers" want to get around about eight o'clock. In the mean time I will get his key while he is watching the Salvation Army, and you will find the shed unlocked. I must be away but will meet you later."

The boys were ready for it and at the appointed time they appeared with pockets full of peppermints to sweeten the breath, and salted peanuts to make themselves dry.

Slowly and cautiously they entered the dark shed and grasped the half barrel, but—

"What is the matter," they all said in whisper? and when they found that there had been no wedding, no beer, and that the barrel was only a pickle cask nailed to the floor by the "joker," they were Wild(e) with disappointment, and are only waiting for a chance to get even with the man who not only worked up the scheme but sold them the salted peanuts and peppermints.

Bad Bookkeeping.

The commission on examination of the Massachusetts Benefit association, says that it has been greatly hampered in its personal examination of the books and accounts of the association by careless and unsatisfactory bookkeeping, and its failure to enter, in a sufficiently satisfactory and detailed manner, items, so that the disposition of the same could be ultimately determined.

This condition of things is largely attributable to the lack of system on the part of the association in keeping its books and accounts, and partly to the looseness of the statute allowing the payment of certain expenses from the mortuary collections, without providing for a clear and distinct accounting of the funds thus taken from the mortuary account.

"In this way the draft upon the mortuary fund," says the commission, "has been solely subject to the discretion of the officers of the association, who, while still paying themselves profits out of the expense fund, were at the same time drawing moneys from the mortuary fund to meet such class of expenses, as under the loosely-drawn statute, they decided they might impose upon that fund.

THE SOCIAL REALM.

DEMAND IS LESS.

Bradstreet's Says Business Conditions Are Persistently Misrepresented.

New York, June 26.—Bradstreet's says: The persistent misrepresentation of the actual state of trade throughout the country during the past month, in an apparent endeavor to make the prospective improvement in business appear to be its present condition, demands an examination as to the facts, and Bradstreet's presents condensed results of interviews with representative manufacturers and merchants at more than 50 important commercial and industrial centers east of the Rocky Mountains. The demand, except in a few lines, is less pronounced than it was two months ago.

There is no material increase in the volume of goods distributed compared with a year ago and prices for many staples are lower. But there has been an improvement as compared with the situation prior to the presidential election of 1896, and as contrasted with last January. Many of the larger merchants and manufacturers characterize the business record for the first half of 1897 as a disappointment in contrast with expectations in December, 1896. On the other hand confidence is widespread in a revival of demand this fall. Of the three great manufacturing industries, iron and steel, cottons and woolens, the first shows relatively the most improvement and woolens next, although tariff delays have taken the edge off demand in that line and permitted importers to stock up with nearly two years' supplies.

Bank clearings throughout the United States this week amount to $979,000,000, a decrease of 1 per cent from last week but a gain of 8 per cent compared with the third week of June 1896.

The movement of prices of staples gives no evidence of increased firmness this week. Indian corn is lower, as are pork, coffee and petroleum. Manufacturers' prices of men's shoes are weaker and quotations for iron ore have been cut, which weakens the nominally unchanged price for Bessemer pig iron. Quotations for wheat, flour, sugar, cotton, print cloths, steel billets, hides, coal and lumber are unchanged, while those for wool, wheat, oats and lard are higher.

There are 215 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 226 last week, 218 in the week a year ago, 215 two years ago and as contrasted with 189 in the third week of June 1894.

Fitzsimmons and Sullivan Will Box.

New York, June 26.—Martin Julian, manager of Bob Fitzsimmons, made a proposition last night to Frank V. Dunn of Boston, manager of John L. Sullivan, which was accepted. The proposition is that John L. Sullivan and Fitzsimmons meet at Ambrose park, Brooklyn, on the afternoon of July 5, rain or shine, for four or six rounds. If Sullivan's sparring shall be deemed by the public and sporting writers creditable and indicative of his ability to enter the ring for a finish contest, the terms and conditions for such a match may be arranged immediately thereafter. Sullivan will get a share of the gate receipts.

Acquitted of Serious Charge.

Providence, June 26.—The case against Representative Randall of Scituate, who was charged with assaulting a little girl named Weed in Scituate last April, was called for hearing in the Eighth district court yesterday. The complainant, the father of the girl, did not want to proceed and was willing that the case should be discontinued, but Randall demanded a trial, and as the charges were not substantiated he was adjudged not guilty, and the case was dismissed.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The cruiser Marblehead is now at anchor in Marblehead, Mass., harbor.

Joseph O'Donohue, aged 63, ex-city chamberlain of New York, died yesterday.

My Sunday At Home

By RUDYARD KIPLING

This is one of a series of original and copyrighted stories which will soon be published in this paper.

You know Kipling.

You know his reputation.

You know what kind of stories he writes.

What more need be said?

High class original fiction is expensive. But we regard it none too good for our readers.

Christ church picnic July 1.

Sunday will probably be fair and a delightful day.

George Edward Spear, the only son of the late Edward A. Spear is in town.

How about the Squantum extension of the street railway? Will it be built after all the fuss.

The 7 P. M. service at Christ church Sunday will be the last evening service until September.

It looks now as though the glorious Fourth would be spent in a very quiet manner in Quincy.

The copyrighted story today is by Wm. Perry Brown, and there is also an illustrated Fourth of July story.

The first annual dance of the Quincy & Boston base ball nine will be held at St. Mary's hall next Tuesday evening.

The City Council will meet again on Monday evening. A hearing will be given the street railway on its petition for a location on Quincy avenue to Weymouth.

Grace E. Batson, a graduate of the business class of '95, Quincy High school, has accepted a position in the office of the Quincy & Boston street railway company.

Just as Mr. Porter had finished addressing the class from the Gridley Bryant school at the graduation exercises Friday, a hurdy gurdy which had been hauled to the open door of the building commenced to play a popular air which caused some merriment.

Commodore Sanborn of the Quincy Yacht Club has chartered the fine schooner yacht Bonita of Marblehead to be used as the flag ship on the club cruise. The Bonita is 60 feet long, has an elegant saloon, state rooms, steward's pantry and galley and a commodious forecastle for the crew.

At the opening of the exercises at High school hall Friday afternoon Supt. Lull called attention to the line on the programme which requested ladies to remove their hats and many of them did so although there were a few who would not take the hint and thus discommoded those in the back seats.

The annual lawn party and festival in aid of the Free Home for Consumptives takes place this afternoon and evening on the grounds of the home on Quincy street, Dorchester. The Quincy branch of the Young Ladies' Charitable society will have charge of one of the tables. This event always draws a goodly number from Quincy and this year, with a most pleasant afternoon and evening, it is expected that an unusual number will attend.

RECEPTION AT MILTON.

Mr. Tuell's Nineteen Classes Will Hold a Reunion.

The nineteenth annual reception by Mr. Hiram W. Tuell, to the graduates of the Milton High school, was held at the Town Hall, Milton, last evening, and was very largely attended, although the graduates were somewhat disappointed at the absence of Mr. Tuell.

The reception took tee form of an entertainment which was furnished by the Temple quartette and Miss Kate Ridgeway, reader.

During the evening Mr. Henry S. Huntington of the school board presented resolutions in behalf of the parents of the graduates thanking Mr. Tuell for his faithful services during the past nineteen years which were unanimously adopted.

At the conclusion of the reception the graduates were briefly addressed by Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth, who stated that it was desired to hold a reunion of the graduates.

A committee of nineteen, consisting of one from each class, was appointed to make arrangements.

This committee organized with Dexter E. Wadsworth as chairman and Mrs. Grace Varney as secretary, and it was decided to hold the reunion at the Town hall, Friday evening, July 2.

MAY BE RECONSECRATED.

A Woman's Suicide In a Church May Necessitate Its Purification.

The suicide recently of an unidentified woman in Calvary Episcopal church, New York, has raised a point in ecclesiastical law novel to this country. The question which Episcopal clergymen are discussing now is whether the shedding of blood in the church calls for a reconsecration of the edifice.

There is nothing in the law of the Protestant Episcopal church in this country which calls for such reconsecration, but in the English church the necessity for wiping out the stain caused by the shedding of blood in a sacred edifice is recognized. There, however, the occasion has arisen so seldom that when in St. Paul's cathedral, in London, in 1890, Edward Easton, a surveyor's clerk, shot himself, the cathedral authorities were at a loss for a time how to act. To ascertain if any special service would be necessary the dean and chapter of the cathedral finally wrote to the bishop of London. The bishop, in response to this address, conducted a "service of reconciliation, or act of reparation to Almighty God, for the dishonor done to his sanctuary."

It is contended by some clergymen that the suicide of the woman in Calvary church does not place that edifice under the ban of pollution, as the deed was committed in the vestibule and not in the auditorium. The matter is so uncertain that it will be left for Bishop Potter to decide on his return in the autumn.—Exchange.

EMIGRANTS FOR AFRICA.

Philafrican League Will Establish Villages of Freed Slaves There.

The Philafrican league, which was organized in New York city last year to acquire fertile lands in Africa and establish on them model villages of freed slaves and free natives to be educated in farming, handicrafts and unsectarian Christianity, is about to begin active work in Africa. The league is now fitting out a party which will leave for Africa next month. It will be under the leadership of Mr. Heli Chatelain, the secretary and manager of the league, who has devoted many years to missionary and scientific work in Africa and is regarded as one of the leading Africanists of the day.

Mr. Chatelain will take with him as the advance party Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Lea from Bethany college, Virginia; J. F. Rodman, a graduate of the New York Trade school, and William C. Bell, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, Cornell university. Their objective point is on the high and comparatively healthful plateau east of Portuguese Angola, among the Ma-Kioko people, a nation of famous hunters, metal workers and slave raiders. It is possible that other workers may be added to the party before it sails.

He Secures an English Contract.

Frank J. Sprague, president of the Sprague Electric Elevator company, whose plant is at Watsessing, N. J., has secured the contract for the construction of elevators for the London underground railroad. Mr. Sprague has been in London for some time looking after the work.

The contract involves about $500,000 and will keep a large force of men at work for over a year. The elevators will be large ones and will be equal to the combined power of two of the company's largest type elevators. The elevator cars will be about 20 feet in diameter and the lift will be 60 feet.

Beautiful Specimen of Art Work.

What is considered the most important figure panel in glass mosaic ever attempted in this country was recently completed by the Tiffany Glass and Decorating company of New York city and soon will find a place in the First Unitarian church of Baltimore. The panel represents "The Last Supper." It is a gift to the church from certain members of the congregation.

The mosaic is 18 feet long and 9 feet high. It shows that a vast range of color can be found in American glass and American methods in this field of decorative art. Louis C. Tiffany designed the coloring.

Interesting Wealth Statistics.

In a table recently prepared by Mr. Thomas G. Shearman, the statistician and political economist lawyer of New York, he says that there are in this country 200 persons worth $20,000,000 each, 400 persons worth $10,000,000 each, 1,000 persons worth $5,000,000 each, 2,000 persons worth $2,500,000 each and 6,000 persons worth $1,000,000 each. The totals of these are $24,000,000,000 owned by 9,600 persons. He further estimates that of the 70,000,000 people in this country less than 25,000 of them possess more than half its wealth.

Bicycle Dress Evolved.

When Esmeralda got her wheel
And first began to ride,
She wore a long and graceful skirt
That was her joy and pride,
But soon her equanimity
Received a dreadful check—
Rude Boreas took that graceful skirt
And wrapped it round her neck!

She gathered all her mental force
To solve this monstrous riddle.
She lengthwise cut her riding skirt
Exactly in the middle.
She shortened it and then did sew
A seam on either side,
And in her new divided skirt
She proudly forth did ride.

But when she'd worn it just a week
She heard a dreadful rumor—
Divided skirts had lately been Succeeded by the bloomer.
She put a wide elastic band
In the hem below the knee,
Which made as neat a bloomer
As one would wish to see.

But to her most æsthetic eye
It really seemed distasteful,
The way those bloomers flopped about
Was shocking and disgraceful.
So she took them to a tailor
Who fitted, sewed and pressed,
And now she rides in knickerbockers
As beauteous as the rest.

COMPLETE VICTORY

For the Plucky Discoverer of the Great Remedy.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Result of a Few Weeks' Test by the People of Quincy.

They Cure and Relieve Backache, Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Blood, and Rheumatism.

Many Persons Cured and Many More Receiving Benefit.

SALES ARE ENORMOUS.

About two weeks ago this paper gave public notice that Dr. Hobbs, the well known specialist in diseases of the kidneys, had made a discovery which, if his claims could be substantiated, would revolutionize the treatment of all kidney diseases. In order that the public might be given the benefit of this discovery without cost, they were not only asked, but urged to call at A. G. Durgin's Drug Store, of this city, and get a trial package of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

And that the claims of Dr. Hobbs might be severely tested, physicians were specially invited to procure samples and use them among their patients.

Dr. Hobbs' faith in the value of his discovery to suffering humanity was so great that he staked the future of his remedy in Quincy upon the verdict of her citizens, regardless of their wealth, poverty, position or profession. The whole city was invited to participate in the test and render the verdict, which meant much to him and much more to the thousands suffering from that most insidious and devastating disease of the era—kidney trouble. Everyone was enabled to form his own judgment as to the value of this medicine without prejudice. Does any sane man or woman believe for one moment that any physician would dare to so openly challenge public opinion, were he not absolutely certain of his ground? Reflect a moment and consider this point carefully.

The avidity with which people from all grades of society availed themselves of Dr. Hobbs' offer revealed the startling fact that there are great numbers afflicted with kidney diseases in this section.

THINK OF IT! HUNDREDS OF SAMPLE PACKAGES

of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills were given out at A. G. Durgin's Drug Store to applicants in one day, every one of whom was willing to give Dr. Hobbs' Pills a fair test.

The free test called for no restrictions. Physicians were not barred—in fact they were welcome—and, as still further proof of this, while the free distribution of samples ended in Quincy a few weeks ago, the Hobbs' Remedy Co. of Chicago, Ill., upon application, will even now be glad to furnish free to all physicians who have not applied for a sufficient quantity of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, to make such tests as in their judgment may seem necessary—in fact the fullest and most searching investigation is most cordially extended to physicians as well as to the public.

What have been the results? The test has fully justified the faith of Dr. Hobbs in the ability of his remedy to cure diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism and allied troubles. People who have been doctoring for years testify they have obtained more and better results after taking Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills for less than two weeks than they ever did from anything they ever used.

A well known physician said yesterday: "One of my patients has been taking Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills for about a week and declared that he felt better than he had for ten years, and he certainly looked better than I ever remember seeing him. I am pretty thoroughly convinced that Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills will be universally prescribed by the medical profession."

Testimony as to the efficacy of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills is coming in from every hand, and from people in every walk in life, proving conclusively that every claim made by Dr. Hobbs is absolutely justified by facts.

Could the public but read all of the letters which are daily received by the owners of this grand remedy from cured patients, letters full to overflowing from joyful hearts once more restored to health after years of suffering and misery—the good this grand medicine has accomplished and is accomplishing today would be more than ever realized and appreciated by the public. No sufferer should hesitate to try the merits of this wonderful medicine to cure his case.

CORNELL WON BY SUPERIOR SKILL.

Yale Second, Harvard Third, and Both Crews Utterly Exhausted.

ITHACANS RUB IT IN AT FINISH.

Result a Great Victory For American Rowing Methods.

COURTNEY IS HERO OF THE HOUR.

Conditions Favored No Crew and Race Was Won on Its Merits—Harvard Crew Went to Pieces at Third Mile—Question of Weight Is Settled—Victors Finished In Fresh Condition.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—Cornell won, 3½ lengths ahead of Yale. The Harvard crew was five lengths behind Yale. They collapsed just before they reached the line.

The winning crew covered the four-mile course in 20m. 34s. The Yale crew were 10 seconds later.

At the first mile mark there was half a length of blue water between Cornell's rudder and Harvard's prow Harvard then held a slight lead over Yale. Half a mile further on there were three boat lengths of blue water between Cornell's boat and Harvard's and three-quarters of a boat's length between Harvard and Yale. Then the Yale men began to gain, and from that moment Harvard was beaten, if, indeed, she was not beaten after the first one-quarter mile.

Over the second half of the course the race was between two crews, not three, between the boys from Ithaca and the boys from New Haven.

It was a hard fought contest, splendidly rowed, superbly won.

CHARLES E. COURTNEY.

The observation train, which ran opposite to the crews during the race, presented one of the most unique spectacles ever seen in this country. As the train of 53 cars, forming a moving grandstand over half a mile in length, crept along the bank with its thousands of pretty costumes and prettier faces, it presented a sight never to be forgotten. The partisanship of the train load of enthusiasts was not confined to any particular section, and the enthusiasm was pretty evenly divided over its entire length.

It required two locomotives to move this load of living freight. A fine feature of the train was the facilities that it afforded the newspaper men to report the race. The press car, which was in the very middle of the train, was kept opposite to the leading crew through out the race. The original price of seats in the observation train was $2, but so great was the demand that tickets getting into the hands of speculators sold from $10 to $20.

It was a singular coincidence that the English-trained crew, Harvard, pursued exactly the same method as to the number of strokes per minute as did the winning crew, and although they weighed an average of 10 pounds heavier than Cornell's men, that extra weight told for nothing, and either from too much "fineness" in training or lack of ability to pull the stroke set for them, they were practically "dead" after the second mile.

It is also curious to note that Cornell pulled exactly the same kind of a stroke and the same number of strokes to the minute that she pulled last year, when she won in record-breaking time, and that Harvard, while advertising that she had entirely new methods, was defeated in exactly the same manner that defeat met her last year.

Briefly, the result of the race is that Cornell asserts her superiority in rowing method of training, and capability over the two larger universities, and she still holds the record for intercollegiate eights of 19m. 29s., which she made last year.

The race was one of the most brilliant in the history of aquatics in this country. The crews started with a stroke of 32 for Cornell and 36 for Harvard and Yale. Harvard gained a slight advantage over the others at the start, and the usual note of jubilation went up from the Harvard adherents. It was apparent within the first quarter mile that the Cornell crew was using the same method that took them on to victory last year, that of a slow and telling stroke that would wear out their opponents. The boats traveled swiftly, although it was easily noticeable that the tide was at a slack, and that the conditions did not favor record breaking.

Yale, with a quick stroke, hung in the rear until after the first quarter of a mile, while Harvard and Cornell fought it out. Cornell forged to the front before the end of the first mile was reached and then began a struggle for place between Yale and Harvard, old enemies. Harvard struggled valiantly, but before the end of the mile and a half was in the rear of Yale.

Cornell never varying the stroke, went on with that easy, swing stroke, little Colson in the coxswain box cautioning the men not to run away with it. Harvard, acting under the instructions of their training master, used at many points the same stroke as to numbers, but it seemed to have little effect, the boat of Cornell running away from the Harvard boat.

At the two-mile point the Yale crew were going away from Harvard, and the latter seemed unable to prevent it, although rowing away at the long 32 stroke that had been predicted as a winning one. After Yale got away from Harvard she turned her attention to Cornell and, just beyond the second mile, made a desperate spurt to catch the slim youngsters.

Never for a moment did the young white-shirted lads from Cornell get rattled. Backward and forward went the sweeps with an arithmetical movement and powerful swing that was surprising to watch. The weighty youngsters from Yale used every pound of leverage on the end of the oars, but they could not bring their boat alongside of the swiftly moving boat of the Cornell boys.

The Harvard men were rowing in very weak fashion during the next mile, and it was evident that they were thoroughly used up. At the bridge the coxswain of the Harvard crew had to give the Harvard stroke a little water in his face, and for a moment, under the reviving influence, the boat swung along at a goodly pace. But only for a moment, and just as they passed under the big bridge the stroke began to give way. Cornell was rowing at 32 and Yale was working away at 33 and 34, and evidently tired.

The Last Mile.

The last mile of the race was probably one of the most sensational in the history of college aquatics. Sensational not so much from the fact that it recorded the defeat of the crews of the two leading colleges of the United States, but because it demonstrated to the satisfaction of the majority of those who have watched the work of the crews and the different methods pursued in their training, that the Lehman or the Cook stroke must bow to the superiority of the Courtney modification of the two, and that while weight and brawn are factors they must be combined with skill, and the skill is that which Courtney teaches.

Before they reached the third mile post Yale had begun to spurt, and the eight powerful representatives of old Eli's muscle and stamina bent to their work with a wonderful exhibition of sheer will power, for their strength was gone. For perhaps three minutes the dying struggle of the giants lasted, and they gained a little on the flying leaders, and Harvard, with nearly every man exhausted, clung with the tenacity of a bulldog in the wake of her old-time rivals.

The Finish.

But it was a hopeless struggle and surely and steadily the flying representatives of the red and white, never changing their steady stroke of 32 to the minute, drew away as if they were enjoying an afternoon's spin, instead of participating in a contest that will go down in history as the greatest race ever witnessed in American waters. As they approached the finish line it was seen that the Harvard eight were nearly to a man in difficulties, while several of the Yale men were flying signals of distress. Then the Cornell crew, as if in mockery at the discomfiture of their rivals, increased their stroke to 34 and shot past the judges' boat every man as fresh apparently as when he started and as if not satisfied with their wonderful exhibition, rowed a quarter of a mile down the river, first giving three rousing cheers to the man who had coached them to victory, Charles E. Courtney.

Ten seconds after Cornell, Yale crossed the line and immediately stopped rowing with No. 2, Whitney, and No. 3, Campbell, in a state of collapse.

Then came Harvard, 16 seconds behind, her entire crew used up and three of the men utterly helpless. Hardly had the nose of her shell reached the finish when Boardman, stroke, fell back off his seat. Wrightington at No. 3, and J. E. Perkins at No. 5, also lost their oars and their companions commenced to splash water over them. In the meantime Goodrich, captain, was trying to raise Boardman, but was too weak and the coxwain was throwing water over the two. After a long wait for their launch, which could not get through the crowd of various crafts that seemed to come from everywhere at once, the men were reached and carefully taken to their quarters.

Lehman's Statement.

Coach Lehman of Harvard gave out this statement:

I had a peculiarly constructed crew and last week I found that they had gone stale. I began to work to bring them around, and supposed this week that I had gotten them around again in good shape, but the work yesterday showed differently. In addition to that, the crew did not row my stroke after the first mile, but ran away with things.

Rudolph Lehman.

Anson Beard, an old Yale athlete, said: "I saw Mr. Cook before the Yale men left. He said to me, 'We were fairly beaten by Cornell. They rowed in better form and with a better stroke than Yale did. That is all I care to say.'"

D. M. Goodrich, '98, was unanimously re-elected captain by the Harvard crew. Mr. Lehman made a short speech, which was heartily received. The men returned to Cambridge today.

Graduating Class Struck.

Dedham, Mass., June 26.—The graduating class at the Dedham high school went on a small strike on what they claimed a question of right yesterday and won a victory just in time to be graduated. The members of the '97 class wanted their class president to preside at the evening exercises. The teachers in the school objected on what they termed "proper ground." The class voted not to take part in the rehearsal, and it didn't. An ultimatum was sent to the teachers that unless the latter yielded the class would not take part in the exercises. The teachers gave in.

General Bridges Resigns.

Boston, June 26.—Brigadier General B. F. Bridges, commanding the First brigade, M. V. M., handed his resignation to Adjutant General Samuel Dalton yesterday. In thus severing his connection with the militia, General Bridges anticipates the action of the recent law passed by the legislature, which gave both brigade commanders until August, when they were to be retired.

THIRTY MILES OF WARSHIPS.

A Magnificent Display of Britain's Naval Strength Off Spithead.

MANY NATIONS REPRESENTED.

The Progress In Shipbuilding During Victoria's Reign.

THE FLEET REVIEWED BY WALES.

Aggregate Strength of the English Navy. Wonderful Difference In Construction and Armament of Battleships—Many Types Are Represented—Mighty Salute to the Heir Apparent.

Portsmouth, Eng., June 26.—The most magnificent display of naval strength ever witnessed occurred off Spithead today, the occasion being the grand naval review held in honor of the completion of the 60th year of the reign of Queen Victoria. The Prince of Wales, representing her majesty, reviewed a fine fleet of foreign warships, representing all the maritime nations of the world, proudest, strongest and swiftest of these craft being the United States armored cruiser Brooklyn, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Miller. The heir apparent also inspected about 30 miles of British warships, in which were 165 fighting ships of different classes, carrying about 900 heavy guns, manned by over 38,000 men and of about 350,000 tons in all.

Each maritime nation sent an admiral in his flagship to witness the review. They formed a line abreast of the British battleships, where they were favorably placed to compare their own naval architecture with that of other nations. Each nation sent its best available ship and a magnificent display resulted.

At Spithead this morning was assembled the latest triumphs of the industrial revolution under Victoria; triumphs of workers in iron and steel and metals, triumphs of inventors, triumphs of chemists and the giants of the laboratory, triumphs of the shipbuilder, the engineer and the artizan, triumphs of the genius of a great nation.

This day may be designated better by figures. In 1837 the total number of ships in commission was 196. Omitting steam paddle tugs, not then considered vessels of war, and other small crafts such as cutters, receiving ships, yachts and packet brigs, the navy list comprised 129 ships, whereof the largest had a displacement of 4000 tons. The navy list this year—including ships in and out of commission, but on the list—comprises 439 vessels, mounting 2959 guns with a tonnage of 1,463,219 and a horsepower of 1,887,595.

The fleet was drawn up in seven lines on the south of the Solent, the head of the lines being off Brading, thence stretching westward almost to Cowes. The outer line of all on either side of the Sturbridbe shoal, and known as "E" in line, was composed of 14 merchant vessels whereof the American liner "New York" was one. Next in "A" line were the foreign men-of-war.

"B," "C," "D," "F," "G" lines consisted entirely of British men-of-war from the Majestic and Renown, the latest type of battleships, down to the smallest torpedo boat. "B," "C" lines were made up of battleships and cruisers of the first and second class, "D" of third class cruisers, gunvessels and torpedo gunboats, "F" of destroyers, gunboats and sailing training brigs, while "G" line was of torpedo boats. All the lines except "G" were approximately five miles in length.

Half of England's Naval Strength.

Two things are to be noted after a tour of this tremendous aggregation of sea-fighting power. The first is that fact that, if need be, their number and fighting value can be duplicated, as this fleet was only the channel squadron and coast defence fleet, slightly augmented by new and larger ships. The most noteworthy fact was the remarkable testimony to the growth and improvement of the fleet. Of the 21 battleships reviewed by the Prince of Wales this afternoon only four took part in the jubilee parade of 10 years ago, while of the 43 cruisers at anchor in the Solent not one existed in 1887. Needless to say that the 30 torpedo boat destroyers are of a class which has only been introduced during the past five years. Further, the battleships which were built before 1887 were armed with muzzle loading guns, which, though extremely powerful and marvelous in their day, have been outclassed by breech loading and wire guns. Then too, the later built vessels are armored by Harveyized steel, which can scarcely be penetrated in actual warfare, whereas the guns of any of the ships of the Majestic class could easily send projectiles through the armor belts of any of the 1887 squadron.

Among the battleships nine types were represented, the first of these being the Majestic type, the latest and most powerful model of British battleships, carrying four 12-inch, 50 ton guns. Some of the others present had heavier armament, notably the Benbow and Sans Pareil, each possessing a 111 ton gun. There were four of the Royal Soverign tipe. The Renown was the only one of her type, the distinctive feature of which is a huge centre battery. The Admiral class of vessel was represented by the Collingwood, the unfortunate Howe and the Benbow. The Alexandra class, close upon 20 years old, the Devastation type, with their revolving turrets, were also in evidence, as were the classes of which the Inflexible, Thunrerer and Sans Pariel are specimens.

Two types were shown in the cruiser class, of which the Powerful and Terrible, the two fastest British cruisers afloat, were the most interesting, and there were 35 of the old torpedo boats. All of the ships had their full compliments.

The naval craft present flew about 200 pennants—a number which but for the size and importance of the vessels would have seemed lost in the crush of attending steamers and yachts—craft of every possible description, in every possible condition, from the great Atlantic and Australian liners, cross channel packets, Norway excursion steamers, Mediterranean cruisers, old paddle boats, dirty tugs and smart yachts, dainty electric launches and fishermen's dingys, venturesome canoes and many a rowboat filled with wharfrats.

The decorations of this shipping hotchpotch were as variegated as the crafts they adorned. The stately liners were trimmed with a near approach to what is possible in ships, and the long string of flags from stem to taffrail showed up very effectively against the morning sky. The smart yachts were daintily beflagged, but not much could be said for the rest.

Wales Represents the Queen.

Ryde, Isle of Wight, 5 p. m., June 26.—The honorable admiral of the fleet, his royal highness, the Prince of Wales, has just concluded on behalf of the sovereign of the realm the review of the ships gathered in her honor. The review itself did not add very much to the picture framed for the spectator this morning, saving always the battlelike roar of great guns, which was enough to waken the dead beneath the sea—when the salute of 21 was fired.

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Admiral, H. R. H., the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and Captain, H. R. H., the Duke of York, the Princess of Wales and other royalties, with their suites, arrived at Portsmouth at 1 o'clock. The party immediately proceeded on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, in which 41 years ago her majesty inspected the fleet, whereupon her royal highness's standard was hoisted. After lunching on board at 2:30 the Victoria and Albert, with the principal royalties, left the harbor for Spithead. She was followed by the Osborne, the Alberta and Elfin, the two last being occupied by members of the royal house, invited princes and potentates. Immediately after the royal yachts came the Wildfire, special service vessel, occupied by the Right Honorable G. J. Goschen, first lord of the admiralty, his family and friends. The lords of the admiralty and heads of the admiralty departments followed in the Enchantress, an admiralty yacht.

As the Albert and Victoria was seen approaching the fleet, led by the Renown and echoed by the foreign vessels present, fired a deafening royal salute of 21 guns. Simultaneously the blue jackets and marines "manned ship," standing on the ironclads in solid lines round their outer edges and filling their tops, while on vessels of the older type the yards were quickly dotted. It was very theatrical and interesting. The Victoria and Albert, followed by the other yachts, then steamed through the lines, the sailors heartily cheering, the bands playing "God Save the Queen." The Victoria and Albert afterwards anchored between the Renown and the foreign war vessels. Immediately the steam launches of the foreign commanders left the sides of their big ships and made for the Victoria and Albert, on the quarterdeck of which the commanding officers were received by the Prince of Wales.

This ended the review. The royal yachts then returned to Portsmouth.

After dinner his royal highness and guests will come out again to the fleet to witness the illuminations.

Massachusetts Benefit Report.

Boston, June 26.—The special commission appointed by Governor Wolcott to examine the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association has made their final report to the governor and the executive council. In their report the commissioners sharply criticize the legislature for attempting, after the commissoin had been appointed, to suppress the investigation by instituting proceedings against the officers of its own volition and without any request from the policy holders. The commissioners review the results of their investigations, and from the facts deduced say that, "In view of these facts it is clear that the wrong has been inflicted upon the new members for the benefit of the older ones. Whether this wrong has been increased by the dishonesty of the old managers we cannot say, because our injuiry in that direction is suppressed by the recent statute of 1897, but if there were such dishonesty it would not transpose the burden of the wrong, but enhance the loss of the members proportionately.

Water Supply In Danger.

Plymouth, Mass., June 26.—The fish in the ponds which are the source of water supply for this town are dying by the thousands from a disease which is as yet undetermined. The water supply comes from Great South, Little South and Boot ponds, and in the two first named 6500 dead white perch and 600 suckers have been gathered up the past few days. Then in Long and Half-way ponds 24 barrels of dead white perch were taken from the surface of the water. A Harvard scientist has come here to look up the trouble. The disease is apparently of a fungus growth, and attacks the eyes and gills of the fish. It may be that drainage from cranbery bogs has leaked into the ponds, as more dead fish are found in the vicinity of the bogs than elsewhere. The fears entertained are as to whether the town's water supply will be contaminated.

The Wool Market.

Boston, June 26.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says of the wool market: The market continues active. Foreign wool is still being bought largely for speculation, but the sales include a larger proportion of domestic wools. The rates of last year are fully maintained. New fine medium territory is selling on a basis of 36 to 37 cents clean. In the West it is being held at 40 to 41 cents clean, delivered in Boston. Receipts of foreign wool continue heavy, and storage for it is being sought as far as Lowell.

VALUE OF OLD COINS.

A BRIGHT CENT THAT IS WORTH A HUNDRED DOLLARS.

But Age Does Not Necessarily Make Value In Coins—The Silver Dollar of 1804 Is Worth $100 — Value of Pine Tree Shillings—Points For Numismatists.

"Some pennies are worth a good deal of money," said a dealer in coins. "If you come across an old collection of copper cents in an out of the way corner, you will do well to examine their dates carefully. From the point of view of the numismatist their value depends largely upon their condition. For example, for a cent of 1799, in a fair state of preservation, we pay $5, but for a specimen of the same issue in first rate condition we would pay from $10 to $25, and for a perfect cent of 1799—that is, as bright and sharp as the day it was coined—we will pay $100.

"Do not attempt to clean coins that are in fine condition. They should be held only by the edges in handling them and ought to be kept wrapped carefully in chamois in or soft tissue paper or laid on velvet. Gold and silver coins may be rinsed, not washed, in hot water and soap. Copper coins should be placed in sweet oil only to remove grease and dirt. Acids and scouring will ruin any coin of worth. Age does not necessarily make value in coins. The old Spanish silver pieces current in this country from 1700 to 1800 are worth no more than their face, and the same is the case with cents of 1798, 1802 and 1803, as well as with half dollars of dates between 1805 and 1835.

"Coins are classed, according to their state of preservation, as 'proof,' 'uncirculated,' 'fine,' 'good,' 'fair' and 'poor.' Proof coins are those which have been made for collectors by the mint regularly during the last 40 years. They are rendered brilliant by burnishing. Uncirculated coins are those which have been laid away carefully since the time when they were minted, so that they have the original mint luster and are as sharp as when coined. Fine coins have the hair, eyes and letters bold and sharp and not worn off or corroded. Good coins are those in which the hair and eyes show up well, the date and all the letters perfectly plain. What would be considered 'fine' for a cent, however, would only be 'good' in a gold coin. Fair coins have the date distinct, but hair and letters somewhat worn. Poor coins are those which have the date indistinct, or the hair and letters badly worn, or the surface badly corroded, or which have been pierced or battered.

"In America it is the fashion to make up sets of the different coins comprising all the years of their issue in as fine condition as it is possible to obtain them, and the demand for specimens which are difficult to get makes their value very high indeed. I will quote you some prices, which you must understand to apply to 'good' coins. Better or worse preservation would make a great difference in every case. On that basis a United States copper cent of 1793, with the clover leaf, is worth $25, or five times as much as the valuable cent of 1799. From that the premiums on cents run all the way down to 5 cents. The valuable dates, in order of worth, are 1793, 1799, 1804, 1795, 1796, 1809, 1811, 1808, 1797, 1813, 1800, 1801, 1805, 1806, 1798, 1807, 1825, 1857, 1810 and 1812.

"The bronze cents, such as are in circulation now, were first coined in 1864. None of them bears a premium except the issue of 1877, which is valued at 3 cents. Some of the old fashioned half cents are high priced. On a basis of 'good' condition the half cent of 1796 is worth $15. The issues of 1831, 1836, 1840, 1848, 1849 and 1852 fetch $3 each, while those of 1793, 1795 and 1802 we will pay $1 apiece for. None of the nickel cents is worth a premium except that of 1856, with a flying eagle, which you can sell for $2. A 5 cent nickel of 1877 is worth $1, and a nickel 5 cent piece of 1878 has a market value of 15 cents. There is no premium on those of any other year. Nickel 3 cent pieces of 1877 we pay 75 cents each for, while those of 1878, 1882, 1885 and 1886 are worth 5 cents each. None of the others bears a premium. If you are so lucky as to get hold of a bronze 2 cent piece for 1873, you will have no difficulty in disposing of it for $1, but no other issues have any extra value.

"The rarest and most desirable coin of the regular series is the silver dollar of 1804, which is worth $600. It is necessary, however, that the authenticity of the specimen shall be fully proved, as there are many altered dates in the market, as well as 'restrikes' made at a later period. The silver dollars of 1794, 1838, 1839, 1851 and 1852 are worth $25 each, while that of 1858 is valued at $15. Silver half dollars of 1796 and 1797 are worth $25 each. The issue of 1853, without arrowheads or rays, we will pay $15 for, and for that of 1838, with a small 'o' under the bust, we offer $10. A silver quarter dollar of 1827 is valued at $40, while the issue of 1823 is worth $20. Twenty cent pieces of 1877 and 1878 are marketable at $1 each.

"A silver dime of 1804 is worth $4; of 1797, 1800 and 1802, $3, and of 1798 $2.50. Silver half dimes of 1802 will fetch $30 each, and a value of from $1 to $3 attaches to these coins of the issues of 1794, 1796, 1797, 1801, 1805 and 1846. Silver 3 cent pieces of dates from 1863 to 1869 inclusive we offer $40 each for, while one of 1873 is worth $50. A gold double eagle of 1849 is worth $100. A half eagle of 1815 is worth the same price; likewise the half eagle of 1822. Half eagles of 1795, 1797, 1798 and 1828 can be sold for from $15 to $25 each. Quarter eagles of gold issued in 1796, 1797 and 1826 are valued at $10 each. The $50 gold piece of California commands a premium of from $10 to $15, but the $2.50, $5, $10, $20 and $25 gold pieces made from 1849 to 1861 by private firms and assay offices in California, Colorado and Oregon, because they do not come up to the mint standard of purity, are mostly below par.

"For the same reason the Mormon gold coins of Utah issued under the direction of the late Brigham Young and largely circulated from 1849 to 1860 will fetch very little more than their face value. Some of the old colonial coins have high values. The 'pine tree' shilling of 1650 is worth $25. A Maryland shilling of 1659 is valued at $10 and a Louisiana crown, coined in France, at $25. The copper threepence of Connecticut, issued in 1727, is appraised at $30. One variety has the inscription, 'I am a good copper,' and another has the device of an ax, with the words, 'I cut my way through.' A Florida silver half dollar of 1760 is worth $10, while the Virginia silver half dollar of 1773 is valued at $2. The pewter continental dollar of 1776 we will pay $3 for. A gold Vermont doubloon is worth $200, and a Vermont silver half dollar will fetch $100. The Massachusetts cent of 1788 is valued at $10. Washington silver pieces of 1792, bearing the bust and name of G. Washington, will fetch $50 each. All of the Washington coins, both of silver and copper, were minted in England as patterns, but the designs were not accepted, because it was considered contrary to the principles of our government to stamp the head of the president upon our coins."

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Its Peculiar Significance—Suggestions as to Its Observance.

No national holiday kept anywhere among the peoples of the world has quite the significance which we attach to the Fourth of July. England has no such fete day. Her development has been slow, continuous, unmarred by any really radical convulsions which essentially upturned her political status. France, it is true, celebrates the taking of the Bastille, which inaugurated the French revolution, but it is in a perfunctory fashion, which in no way reflects a great national sentiment. Germany makes an imperial holiday of the date of the self crowning of Emperor William I at Versailles, but this is rather a glorification of the Hohenzollern race, specially dear to the Prussian heart, and only acquiesced in by the rest of the Germanic empire, which has had many kaisers of other reigning families before.

The Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, with us had a peculiar significance, far greater than Lexington, or Bunker Hill, or the storming of Ticonderoga, or the first organization of the continental congress, all of which occurred in 1775. The act of political birth was fully consummated before that solemn appeal to the world and to history, which we call Independence day. But all that year of struggle before the adoption of Jefferson's great masterpiece of national self assertion simply marked us in the eyes of foreign nations as rebels fighting against their rightful sovereign. When the declaration pealed out its resounding trumpet tones to humanity, the power and logic of the plea in justification of the taking up of arms at once gave us a new status. It was the legal seal which consecrated and made official the actual fact. Thenceforward the United States began to be known not as a rebellious mob, but as a gallant people, struggling against tyrannical oppressors. Probably no political act ever had more immediate and radical effect than this great document, far more indeed than its author and signers ever anticipated. They considered they owed it to themselves and to the cause they represented to set forth the reasons for revolt to the world. It was at once glorified as the magna charta of a newborn commonwealth. Thenceforward it was but natural that our history as a people should date from this time, as it was the cornerstone, even the whole foundation, of our nation building.

It has sometimes been said that the celebration of the independence anniversary has fallen off in the physical joyousness and enthusiasm which used to make it the great day of the year, particularly children's day. Perhaps this is so in large cities, where life has become more artificial and blase. It may be that the keen sense of the peril of fires from the explosion of Chinese crackers and other fireworks has grown stronger, too, in communities where there is an enormous concentration of wealth in buildings. But it is pleasant to know that in the rural regions and small towns there are the same old fashioned hullabaloo and innocent, simple minded jubilee of old and young. What if the orator, too, makes the American eagle spread his pinions wide and emit his most piercing shrieks! This is as it should be. Probably a modicum of bombast and rhetorical fustian really goes quite as far in whetting the patriotic appetite as would the most rational and painstaking exposition.

The traditional Fourth of July celebration, with its picnic junketings and social assemblages and its fireworks, whether composed of gunpowder or of eloquence, is a wholesome institution, good to encourage. May it wave as long as Old Glory streams above it! One thing may be suggested in this connection, however, in view of the fact that it is so much a children's day. The celebration might be made to stimulate young people to a closer and keener study of American history. Why should it not be made the occasion of giving prizes and other public honors to those pupils of the public schools who shall have passed the best examination in the history of their country? Such a function as this might be so managed as to invest the day with tenfold more interest to the old as well as the young. G. T. F.

A Patriotic Determination.

George Bancroft, the historian, once wrote these patriotic words:

"The United States of America are composed of a God fearing, liberty loving, honest, peaceful population, but withal endowed with the determination of leaving to their children and their children's children their birthright of liberty under the law, as handed down to us from our ancestors."

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Thousands of women go down to death every year through their own ignorance and neglect. Every woman should know something of the physiology of her womanly self. Every woman should appreciate the importance of the health and strength of the delicate organs that constitute her womanhood. The woman who neglects her health in this respect is sure to be a continual sufferer and is in constant danger of an early grave. To such a woman wifehood is a torture and motherhood a menace.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly and only on the organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It invigorates them and makes them healthy. It prepares a woman for an almost painless maternity. It does away with the dangers of motherhood. It insures the health of the newcomer in the family. Over 90,000 women have testified to its wonderful virtures. All good druggists sell it. There is nothing "just as good."

"If it had not been for your medicine and your advice," writes Mrs. I. F. Thomas, of Antoine, Pike Co., Arks., "I would no doubt be in my grave or in an insane asylum. Fourteen years ago, when my second child was born, I came very near losing my mind. My head would hurt so bad I could hardly live. I could not lie down and raise up without great pain. My life was a misery to me. God alone knows what I suffered. I had lost all hope of being cured, but I took your 'Favorite Prescription' according to directions. I used one bottle of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and six of 'Favorite Prescription.' In a little over one year after I began your medicine I gave birth to twins. Since then I have a boy baby ten months old. He weighed eleven pounds at his birth. I have been better in health since the birth of these children than I had been for years before. Before using your medicine my weight was about one hundred and thirty-five pounds, and now I weigh one hundred and sixty-five."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe, sure, swift and permanent cure for constipation. They never gripe. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them.

BRAINTREE.

The graduation exercises of the Monatiquot school took place in Monatiquot hall, Thursday afternoon at 1.30. The platform was decorated with wild flowers and potted plants, almost surrounding the large class of graduates. Principal Ewart was at his best and very happy in his remarks, and the kindly feeling existing between him and his pupils was shown in many ways. The hall was nearly filled with guests of mostly ladies, who took a deep interest in the exercises.

Mrs. Julia A. Bartlett Worsley observed her 81st birthday on Thursday by entertaining her children and grand-children at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Crooker, on Ash street.

The many friends of Miss Lena Shay gave her a surprise party in Grand Army hall, Wednesday evening. There was dancing to the piano music of W. C. Cuff. At intermission ice cream and cake was served in the banquet hall.

The graduating exercises of the Jonas Perkins school took place Wednesday afternoon. The time was devoted to exhibitions of work in the various rooms, after which Mrs. Loring presented the diplomas in her usual happy manner.

Miss Simmons, who takes Miss Wilson's place in the Jonas Perkins school, is a graduate of Larson's Manual training school; and will teach the Sloyd system in addition to her other duties; the extra expense is to be paid by Mr. T. A. Watson.

The High school graduates' reception will take place in the Town Hall, next Tuesday night; the class parts will be given at that time. There will be ice cream, cake and dancing. The matrons are to be Mrs. A. A. Ellsworth, Mrs. T. H. Dearing and Mrs. I. W. Horne.

Sunday, June 27, will be observed by the Universalist society as Children's day. The service will be held in the afternoon at 2 30 o'clock in place of the regular service.

Last Tuesday was public day at the Pond school and the interest shown by parents and friends, far exceeded that in any other part of the town. Not less than 150 people visited the school on that day. The writing in Miss Brook's room is said to have excelled while the form and color work was beautiful in all the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Whittier were presented with a nine pound boy this week.

Measles are still raging in Mayflower Park.

Today is Senior class day at the Academy. The exercises will commence at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. F. O. Wellington took the teachers of the Jonas Perkins school down the harbor in her yacht yesterday.

Owing to the change in the High school course from three years to four years it was not expected to have any graduation exercises this year, but as four pupils succeeded in taking up two years' work in one, it was decided to allow them to graduate this year.

The exercises took place in the Town hall, Thursday night, and instead of the usual class parts, an address was given by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. XVI.

The markets are always places of interest, either at home or abroad, and we found them no less so in the city of Mexico; on account of the large variety of articles offered for sale, including meats, vegetables, fruits, dry goods, laces, shoes, poultry, heathen gods, toys, jewelry, birds, dogs and numerous other things, which were exhibited inside the buildings and out on the sidewalks,—and even far into the street; the goods shown outside being spread on the ground. Meats were not kept on ice, as in this country, but remained sweet from six to eight days hung in the market while the thermometer ran from eighty to ninety, owing, we were told, to the dry atmosphere. Taxes are collected from the occupants of the market stalls every day.

Many articles are very cheap, but those shipped from the United States, such as sugar, butter, eggs, etc., are very high. Good butter, the storekeeper asks 75 cents; sugar 32 cents per pound. They have a dark lump sugar, manufactured in Mexico, which is sold much cheaper.

At the market numerous purchases were made of the handy work of the natives. More expensive souvenirs were obtained at the extensive dry goods and jewelry stores, including silks, laces and opals. In regard to the purchase of the latter by a novice in that line we consider it a game of chance,—as the chance of getting a stone worth $50 for 50 cents from a street vender, whose judgment is often times no better than that of the purchaser, is liable to occur,—at least one such purchase is said to have been made by a member of our party. Another purchase of opals, that came under our notice, was of three stones by one of the delegates. He paid 50 cents for one, $2 for another and $3 for the third; the one for which he paid 50 cents proved to be worth $20, while the higher priced ones were said to be worthless. In the purchase of opals, as with everything else sold by the Mexicans on the streets, they were generally secured for half the first price asked for them.

The city of Mexico resembles in many respects those of our own country. Its streets are well laid out, are quite broad, and, as a general thing, are kept comparatively clean. San Francisco avenue is the principal street, and runs through the city from the plaza, one of the finest parks. It is free from horse-cars, as they are forced to occupy streets on either side of this avenue, running parallel.

The names of the streets are peculiar, and were chosen from every conceivable source, from the Divinity to Diaz. There is a Calle Espiritu Santo and a Calle Jesus, a Calle Hidalgo, and a Calle Juarez, and one Calle Nino Perdido, Street of the Lost Child. The names change at each corner, or if the name continues more than one square, numbers are prefixed. Thus the the principal street is called San Francisco; where it begins at the Alameda it is called Puente de San Francisco; in the next block it is 1st San Francisco, the next 2d, and so with many others. A more modern system is coming into use, and the streets are beginning to be numbered from end to end.

The buildings are of brick, stone or adobe, and mostly of low structure. On the principal streets, however, they are, of course, three or four stories high, but many are not more than two. Many of the buildings are of American style, and have been built by Americans to quite an extent. The City Hall, the president's city palace and the government buildings are about the plaza, while the swell residences are out on the Pasao or on San Francisco avenue. Many of these are American in style and very fine. Most of the hotels in the city are conducted on the European plan, and are very similar to lodging-houses, as they supply only rooms, and you are obliged to get your meals in residences outside. Usually, however, you will find one in the same court with the hotel.

At the railroad station you find hacks that will carry you to any part of the city. There are three classes to select from, indicated by little tin flags. The prices are 50 cents, $1.00 and $1.50 per hour. Hire your hack by the hour, then you can put in one or four passengers as you like, the price is the same.

The hacks carry no baggage, and you are obliged to hire a native if you have any to carry. There are many at the depots willing to take it; they are called "cargadores," and a brass plate on their breast bearing a number indicates they are licensed. These men are said to be honest and reliable; they meet all trains, and will for a small sum of money carry your baggage—anything from a trunk to a piano—on their backs, to any place you desire it delivered, trotting along under the burden barefooted and seemingly with little difficulty.

One of the noticeable things in Mexico is the large number of persons you see barefooted; men, women and children. Perhaps not quite so many in the city of Mexico, as in the other cities and towns in the Republic; but it seemed to us that one-quarter of the people went without shoes. One reason probably is because it is warm and dry the larger part of the year; they have no cold weather. Another reason, no doubt, is because many of them are very poor, earn but a few cents a day, and are not able to pay much for clothing of any kind.

Another common thing was to see little girls, carrying their babies, tied to their backs or breasts with a scarf or shawl. We were told that it was not uncommon for girls to become mothers when they were twelve to fourteen years old, and grandmothers before they reached twenty-five.

Sunday morning, the last day of our stay in the city, opened bright and clear as had all the mornings since our arrival.

One of the prettiest sights we saw in Mexico was the flower market, which is open each Sunday morning on the west side of the cathedral. In a little pavilion of glass, we saw large quantities of pansies, forget-me-nots, blue violets, tied up daintily with clusters of maiden-hair fern, double white violets, camellias, roses, in short, all the lovely products of our northern hot-houses, found here in such profusion that five cents of our money will procure a dozen delicate tea roses and buds. For fifty cents one receives a mammouth bouquet wrapped about with laced paper and so heavy it is uncomfortable to carry even in both hands. Beautiful pillows and wreaths are supported by the many pillars, while handfuls of pretty blossoms lie heaped, one upon another, awaiting the effect of their charms upon the beholder.

On Saturday evening Rev. Dr. J. W. Butler, who is in charge of the Methodist mission work in the city, called upon the editors gathered at Hotel Yturbide and gave all a cordial invitation to attend his church the next morning; and many accepted the invitation. The church is just across the street from the hotel, and is a part of what once was Montezuma's palace. Services are held every Sabbath—first in the Spanish, then in the English language.

We did not attend, but find in the Farmington, Maine, Chronicle, published by Brother Hunter, who was with us, the following report of Dr. Butler's discourse:

"Dr. Butler spoke upon Mexico's independence and the wonderful reform movement now progressing so successfully in the country; he traced the history of Mexico and showed how Spain had ruled there simply for her own enrichment and not for the good of the people. He said: Humboldt believed there were 30,000,000 people here when the Spanish came, while there were but 13,000,000 here today. The early people ever kept in mind the idea of a supreme being. Just across the lake here will be found the ruins of the ancient city where resided the King David of this country. He repudiated the priests and abolished human sacrifice, and he built a temple to the unknown God and dedicated it. The Spaniards wrung their riches from them, oppressed and impoverished them, discouraged home industries. Hidalgo encouraged the growing of silk only to have it destroyed—by Spaniards, until he finally called the people to freedom. Spain with her religion, established the inquisition here in its worst form, and if a person thought wrong he was tortured to mend his ways. Great stress was laid upon Christ's suffering, and self-torture was enjoined for penance. Meantime the church was plundering the people and sucking away all their substance, until in 1837 a congressman offered a resolution which led to the emancipation of church from state in 1857. Three-quarters of all the wealth of the country has been absorbed by the church, and only one-quarter left in the hands of the people. And so this vast church property was confiscated by the state. President Juarez, a full blooded Indian, was now in power, and he saw the necessity of opening the country to foreigners and giving equal toleration to all forms of religion so long as they did not interfere with the prerogatives of state.

WENT UP ON A KITE.

NEW MODE OF AERIAL NAVIGATION EXPECTED TO BE A SUCCESS.

The New Vessel Is Remarkably Steady In Midair and Phenomenal Results Are Expected From It—Patterns of the Kite Ordered For an Observatory.

About a year ago Charles H. Lamson's experiments with his mammoth airship at Rigby park, Portland, Me., attracted general attention. This exploit was regarded then by Professor Eddy and other experts as the most advanced scientific airship experiment attained up to that time. The experiments then made were with a dummy. Since that time Mr. Lamson has been working steadily and recently, by a personal ascension on his airship, demonstrated that he has every reason to hope that before long he will attain with his invention phenomenal results in aerial navigation.

On the occasion mentioned the most wonderful part of his experiments was the steadiness of the ship while in midair, and this great feature of the Lamson ship was again made evident by the recent trials. Lamson asserted a year ago that he would one day demonstrate the feasibility of his plan of aerial navigation, and when the latest trials were over the critics who watched them agreed that he had gone a long way toward making his claim good.

At the last attempts which were made at Falmouth Foreside Lamson ascended to a height of nearly 100 feet on one of his airships. He went up easily and came down all right after spending time enough up aloft to look about him and feel the novel sensation of kiting through the air. Mr. A. Lawrence Rotch, founder and director of the Blue Hill Meteorological observatory, near Boston, went to Portland, accompanied by his two assistants, H. H. Clayton and S. P. Furguson, to spend the day with Lamson and test some of his newly constructed kites. The steamer was taken for Waite's Landing, where General J. M. Brown had given the use of his big hayfields and barns near the shore. The day and wind were favorable, and many tests were made of the lifting capacity of the various forms of kites to find those having the greatest efficiency for carrying the weight of self registering instruments into the upper atmosphere. The visitors were pleased with the performance of two patterns and have ordered them for the use of the observatory. Through Professor Langley, who is greatly interested in this work, the observatory has received an appropriation from the Smithsonian institution at Washington. They have now several miles of steel piano wire and an engine or steam winch for winding it in, and they hope to send up their instruments to the unprecedented height of five miles, using one of Mr. Lamson's kites as a leader.

Later the same day the mammoth ship was brought out and very successfully launched. It was allowed to remain up several hours. It was on this kite that Mr. Lamson made the ascent. He was delighted with the novel experience and the easy motion of the kite, and while it was deemed advisable not to go higher Mr. Lamson would have enjoyed a trip still nearer the clouds. Only three or four other men have gone up with kites, and some of them have been raised from the ground by tackle after the kite was sent up. In this case the rider started from terra firma with the kite itself, running along the ground as the kite was drawn forward to give it the initial force. This kite may be taken as a fair illustration of what the experts who saw the trial declared will be the coming airship.—New York Sun.

Preached From a Pulpit 200 Feet High.

In the wildest and most picturesque section of Wirt county, near Ceston, W. Va., a huge rock, known as Devil's Tea Table, hangs over the river, high above the valley. Recently the Rev. John Bonnett, an eccentric mountain evangelist, announced that he would preach from this rock on the following Sunday. During Saturday night and early Sunday morning the backwoodsmen and their families began gathering at the foot of the rock, and by 11 o'clock over 1,000 persons awaited the advent of the preacher, who soon appeared on the edge of the rock and delivered his sermon from a pulpit 200 feet above his congregation, his text being "On this rock I build my church." It was the most unique and impressive service ever held in the state.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Dr. James Hall, the geologist of the state of New York, will attend the coming meeting of the international geological congress at St. Petersburg as the representative of this state. Although he is 85 years old he is in vigorous health.

Edward Downes, who has been United States consul general at Amsterdam for the last four years, has decided to study for the Roman Catholic priesthood at the American college in Rome.

Earl Ranfurly, governor general of New Zealand, with his wife and three daughters, arrived in Montreal recently from Europe. They intend to cross the continent by the Canadian Pacific railroad, stopping off for some sport in the Rocky mountains.

England's hydrographic office has received information of the discovery of 209 new rocks and shoals last year, 21 of which discoveries were made by vessels striking on the rocks.

The memorial of Joseph Thomson, the explorer, at Thornhill, near Dumfries, Scotland, is nearly ready. It is a broken obelisk, on one side of which, in a panel, a figure of Fame holds up a map of Africa, palm trees and Mount Kilimanjaro filling up the background.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square Theatre Comedy company continues to appeal successfully to the amusement public and the splendid support given the organization shows that the work done by its members commands hearty approval. For the coming week, Director Tony Cummings has selected "The New South," by Joseph Grismer, as the attraction for the Castle Square theatre patrons and it is safe to anticipate another successful production by the company. The play deals with scenes and incidents in the sunny South but the "late unpleasantness" does not take the usual prominence in the story it tells. It offers fine opportunities for the Castle Square company. Following the "New South" on Monday, July 5th., Robertson's "School" is announced. Daily matinees are given regularly at the theatre and children are admitted free to the afternoon performances when in company of parents or guardians.

The Salvation army, who have held forth in South Braintree for the past month, broke camp on Tuesday. The band has been at Brockton for the week.

Japanese Officials Deny Any Intention of Seizing Hawaii.

Continuance of Present Treaty Only Desired.

Late Honolulu Advices Contain Sensational Rumors.

Washington, June 28.—The Japanese position on the annexation of Hawaii by the United States has been made known from a very high source.

The Japanese base their opposition to annexation almost entirely upon the ground that it is an interference with the treaty rights of Japan, and complain especially that the treaty was negotiated in the face of the most friendly protestations from Japan, and at a time when the Japanese authorities had been led to believe that no such treaty would be undertaken. The following may be accepted as an absolutely accurate outline of the position of the Japanese legation in Washington:

The Japanese insist, as on all former occasions, that the Japanese government has not now and never has had and designs against Hawaii. This they consider a most important point because of the talk about colonization which, they say, has apparently had so much weight in the discussion of the question.

They contend that the Japanese first went to Hawaii in response to the demand for labor in the islands under provision of a treaty concluded in 1886 at the solicitation of the Hawaiian government. They call attention to the fact that the Japanese government has always been averse to having its people go abroad as "coolies," as the Chinese do, and that the government has always striven to prevent such emigration. As a consequence, the Hawaiian treaty was so worded as to prevent even the suspicion of anything like coolie labor.

The interests of all partjes were, the Japanese say, protected, and, as a consequence, the Hawaiian planters secured a high class of agricultural laborers upon fair terms and under circumstances that did not give the least occasion for the dislike and opprobrium which generally attach to contract labor.

This treaty, they say, worked admirably for years and until the planters became restive under the conditions imposed by the treaty, thinking, the Japanese hold, that they could secure labor more cheaply with the restrictions removed.

TO SEIZE CUSTOM HOUSE.

Report That Admiral Beardslee Checked the Landing of Japanese Force at Honolulu.

San Francisco, June 28.—Advices from Honolulu, dated June 20, say:

Since the Philadelphia has been in port weekly battalion drills have been held. On the 14th the men from both the Marion and the flagship were landed. While on the march to the drill grounds, an orderly brought an order and the battalion returned on board. This action was taken, it is understood, on account of a rumor to the effect that Japanese cruiser Naniwa would land a force of men to take charge of the Hawaiian custom house. The Japanese failed to act, and it is believed that Admiral Beardslee's prompt action caused the Naniwa's captain to change his mind.

The English speaking people here believe that there was good foundation for the rumor in spite of the denial made at the Japanese legation.

"There are all kinds of rumors floating around," said Counsellor Akiyama. "One ridiculous one was that the Japanese steamers were to land men and take charge of the custom house. Another is that the Naniwa is to leave on Wednesday next. That rumor, as also the other, is without any foundation."

Japanese Minister Shimamura denies the story that Japan has withdrawn its request for an explanation from the Hawaiian government of the reasons for ejecting the Japanese immigrants.

The minister says that he has addressed two letters to the Hawaiian government on the subject, but has as yet received no reply. Shikawa, editor of the Tokio Shuo Shimbun, who came here to investigate the trouble arising from Japanese immigrations, started for home on the 15th inst. Mr. Shikawa said: "I have found the matter was not worth my time and attention. I am convinced that the difference between Hawaii and Japan will be settled in a most amicable manner."

Hon. Harold M. Sewall made a formal call on President Dole at the executive building on the 7th and presented his credentials as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from the United States.

United States Consul General Mills will leave for Washington as soon as his successor, William Hayward, arrives. Mr. Mills may return to Honolulu and practice law.

Minister Cooper has not yet appointed a successor to the late Frank Hastings, secretary of the Hawaiian legation at Washington.

SUGAR BARK'S FATE.

Crew Killed Off by Java Fever and Vessel a Total Wreck.

Philadelphia, June 28.—The details of the recent total loss of the Philadelphia-bound British sugar laden bark Traveler, Captain Christie, at Port Mathurinn, Rodriguez island, and the death from Java fever of 10 members of her crew, including Captain Christie, have just been received at this port from Mauritius, and bring to light one of the most thrilling and revolting cases of shipwreck and suffering in the annals of shipping.

Two of the sailors, driven to desperation by witnessing the sufferings of their shipmates, committed suicide by leaping overboard, preferring death in this way rather than from the ravages of the fever, which they felt was sure to overtake them. One by one the men died off, until the mate and second mate were the only officers spared, and the former finally succumbed to the dreaded disease. Captain Christie, the commander, and seven men had died and their bodies had been cast over the ship's side.

For nearly two weeks she drifted to the northward and eastward of Rodriguez island and ran into Port Mathurinn. An effort was made to get medical aid from the shore. That night the wind rose, and the following sunrise the vessel drove on the Onlying reefs and became a total loss. She afterward entirely disappeared.

The Traveler, a well-known Liverpool bark, built of iron in Dumbarton, Scullan, and laden with about 6500 bags of sugar, valued at $60,000, left Java for Philadelphia Christmas week, and although she came to grief Feb. 3 at Rodriguez, a remote island in the Indian ocean, nothing was known of it until last month. Captain Christie of the unfortunate vessel was well known here, having sailed out of Philadelphia a number of times on deep water voyages.

Tailors Locked Out.

New York, June 28.—A large number of contractors who had entered into settlement with the Brotherhood of Tailors last week have, according to members prominent in the Clothing Contractors' association, ignored the new agreement, closed their shops and turned their employes adrift. The number of contractors who are said to have thus acted is set down at 400, employing between 1000 and 1500 operators. Leader Schoenfeld characterized the statement as a lie. In the face of this denial a huge force of idle tailors was found congregated at the tailors' headquarters. Many of them said they had been locked out, and made no concealment of the fear entertained by them that they were face to face with another period of idleness. Leader Schoenfeld had intended to relinquish his charge of the tailors on Saturday, but for some unknown reason has decided to remain at his post until the middle of July. Instructions were given to all idle tailors by Schoenfeld not to work under any conditions for contractors who had yielded to the demands. If the threat of the contractors is carried out over 10,000 tailors will be locked out before the middle of the present week.

Heavy Damage by Storm.

Little Rock, June 28.—The worst storm of the season occurred yesterday afternoon. The wind reached a very high velocity for a few minutes and the people who remembered the cyclone of three years ago were terror stricken and hurried to places of safety. Shade trees and fences were blown down all over the city and plate glass windows in the business portions were demolished. Rain fell in torrents, followed by a violent hailstorm. A few small buildings were blown down and roofs damaged. A number of persons were more or less injured by flying timbers.

New York Mayoralty Straw.

New York, June 28.—The straw vote taken Saturday at both ends of the Brooklyn bridge, the elevated trains, ferries, etc., by the National Civic club of Brooklyn to catch the popular drift toward the mayor of Greater New York resulted in the following totals: Seth Low, 4047 votes; P. J. Gleason, 1834 votes; A. J. Cummings, 978; Cornelius N. Bliss, 409; Ashbel P. Fitch, 371; William J. Gaylor, 527; William Sohmer, 604; Benjamin E. Tracy, 418.

New Englanders Interested.

Detroit, June 28.—Secretary Dowling of the National League of Republican clubs returned from his Eastern trip last night and reports excellent progress in securing speakers and assurance of large delegations to the July convention. The New England states particularly promise to be well represented, which, Mr. Dowling said, was an unusual thing, as that section has been in the habit of sending small delegations to the league conventions.

ARE TRUE SPORTSMEN.

Cornell Crew Is Willing to Meet All College Representatives.

Will Yale and Harvard Make Dual Arrangement?

The Cornell-Columbia-Pennsylvania Race Will Be a Good One.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 28.—Will Harvard and Yale enter into a dual aquatic agreement to the exclusion of Cornell and the other college crews? This is the all absorbing question in the boating world today. It has been suggested that all the colleges get together and organize an American Henley, as it were, and, while this is generally favored, Yale and Harvard are inclined to hold aloof. The fact that Cornell has won recognition by masterly rowing may change this attitude of the two older institutions. At present there are many important facts to be considered.

First, Cornell will, as victor, receive almost any proposition from Yale and Harvard that those colleges wish to make, but will not present a proposition as to future engagements.

Second, no proposition will be accepted by Cornell that compels her to join in an exclusive class with Yale and Harvard, at the sacrifice of her friendly relations with Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Third, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania will combine for races, probably upon this course, and will invite the University of Wisconsin to come in. Yale and Harvard may also enter if their exclusive dual agreement is not a handicap.

Fourth, Cornell may try and arrange to race again in England with purely American methods, and as the representative of American college rowing.

Cornell holds that her victory over the other colleges compels recognition if Harvard and Yale wish to hold or attempt to hold the record for American college rowing. She also holds that as Cornell, as victor, condescends to row with Pennsylvania and Columbia in a spirit of true sportsmanship and to make the American championship as great a victory as possible, Yale and Harvard should come into the combination until at least such time as it is demonstrated that they are superior to these other colleges.

Coach Courtney of Cornell says: "Cornell stands ready to meet Yale and Harvard and willing to row them at any and all times, but is not ready to be an unwelcome guest in the three-cornered arrangement.

"American spirit is against withdrawing while beaten. It has been customary over here to keep at it until pluck and skill crown their efforts."

Captain Boyle of Pennsylvania said with much emphasis:

"I don't want to throw cold water upon any scheme that will lead to wide open competition upon the part of all rowing colleges in this country, but I don't believe that Harvard or Yale will row with Cornell again unless Cornell agrees to a three-cornered game. I am quite positive that Cornell will refuse to listen to such a proposition, but will insist that Pennsylvania and Columbia be admitted. What we, of Pennsylcania, expect to see is a quadrangular race on the Hudson course between Cornell, Pennsylvania, Columbia and the University of Wisconsin. Wisconsin would undoubtedly like to come in, and I think she will be invited. Of course if Yale and Harvard broaden out they, too, would be welcome."

Cornell's navy is very much averse to the proposition to again have two sets of races, and one of the directors said:

"Cornell will not agree next year to row twice. It is our idea that it is too trying, and as the victors, we believe that we should have the say as to who will be allowed to row in any one set of races which we may arrange."

The Poughkeepsie course is as good as settled upon for the races next season. Professor Wheeler, who dominates the affairs of the Cornell navy, says that Cornell is perfectly satisfied, and he believes it almost a perfect course. Dr. Walter Peet, who may train the Columbia crews next year, is an enthusiast over the Poughkeepsie course, and Ellis Ward of Pennsylvania and Captain Boyle are both in favor of the course.

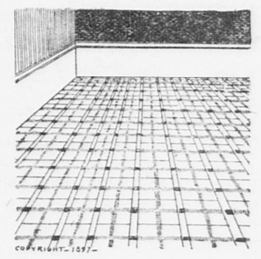

There are rumors of changes in the coaches of the university crews next year. It is said that Mr. Cook, the Yale coach, is to retire, and that Will Beard of Poughkeepsie, who rowed on the Yale Henley crew, is slated to take his place. This statement cannot be confirmed. Courtney will remain with Cornell, and it is generally understood that Harvard will have another try at English methods by having Mr. Lehman come over again next spring. It is expected that Dr. Walter Peet, who coached the Columbia crew in their successful year, will again take hold of Columbia. Ellis Ward will remain with Pennsylvania, and says that he sees very good material in this year's freshman class for a big 'varsity crew next year.

The crews did not go out on the river yesterday afternoon, but there is, nevertheless, speculation as to the outcome, and in that speculation Columbia stands first pick for the freshman race. As to the 'varsity race, Mr. Courtney said he believed the Cornell crew would have to row a harder race on Friday than they rowed on last Friday. The crews in the Friday race will make every endeavor to beat the time of last Friday in the hope of demonstrating that they are very much faster than the Yale and Harvard crews.

WITH GALEN as the reporter at the High school graduation it is not surprising that a certain paper admits a communication with an editorial comment criticising the speaker of the evening. If Col. Guild had said nothing but pleasantries it would have been of no real value to graduates who are going into the field of life. Because Mr. Guild pointed out shortcoming of Democrats as well as Republicans in their duty to country, we are told there were adverse comments. No such comments have reached us, except from one source. The correspondent who attempts to misrepresent and belittle the good sound talk given by Col. Guild is doing much more injury than anything said by the speaker.

Yacht Notes.

A. L. Baker of Wollaston has sold his well known cat boat White Wings to Mr. Stephen B. Wiley, Jr.

The latest acquisition to the Quincy Yacht Club's fleet of racers arrived at the club anchorage on Sunday. She is the famous jib and mainsail Hanley boat, the Little Peter of Falmouth recently bought by Mr. Henry Moebs. She is a famous racer and one of the finest built boats that Hanley ever turned out, having cost $2500. She is 35 feet over all; about 24 feet water line and 11 feet 6 inches beam.

The Cat boat Elsie of the Quincy Yacht Club was struck by a light squall while off Bumkin Island on Sunday afternoon and dismasted. She was towed up to her moorings later in the day.

A Pleasant Occasion.

Children's day was very pleasantly and appropriately observed at the Universalist church on Sunday morning. It was a beautiful day and there were many to enjoy the exercises, which were principally by the Sunday School scholars and the choir.

There were two pretty little ones baptized by the pastor.

EARL CLIFTON BILLS,
ETHEL BELL LINTON.

The platform was profuse with beautiful flowers, and four canaries enlivened the occasion with their sweet songs.

After the exercises by the school were over, Rev. E. W. Preble made a short and pleasing address to the children. The services were very interesting and much enjoyed.

Good Thing for Quincy Neck.

Among the matters to come before the meeting of the City Council tonight is a public hearing on the petition of the street railway for a location on Quincy avenue, from its junction with Hancock street. That there will be no opposition along the route is quite certain, for instead of obstructing a railroad the residents of Quincy Neck will do all in their power to further the petition. It is an important move with them, and they feel they may be in the world again. There are not many prettier sections in Quincy than is Quincy avenue and Quincy Neck, but little is known about them by many of our citizens, for they are rather out of the way. Not having anything in the way of transportation they are seldom visited, except by those who are driving or are called there by business.

A study of the military records of Europe proves that in 1610 the average height of man was 5 feet 9 inches. During the following 100 years this average decreased to 5 feet 7½ inches. In 1790 the average was only 5 feet 6 inches, and in 1890 it was but 5 feet 5 inches. At the present time it is but 5 feet 3½ inches. It is an easy matter to deduce statistics from the above figures to prove that human statue is gradually on the decline. Figuring upward, using the same ratio, we find that Adam's sons and neighbors average 16 feet 9 inches in height, and at the opening of the Christian era the average height was a fraction over 9 feet. Looking into the dim future we can see a time only 2000 years hence when human stature will be reduced to an average of of only 15 inches.

ADAMS GOLD MEDAL.

Annual Declamations by Pupils of Adams Academy.

Name of Gilbert Ray Kent Added to List of Gold Medalists.

A Number of Other Prizes Were Also Awarded.

The annual exercises in declamation by pupils of Adams Academy of this city for the Adams gold medal were held this morning at the Adams Temple, and were of unusual interest, attracting many friends of the school.

The several declamations were well rendered and showed much training on the part of the faculty. The music which was by Dr. F. J. Peirce cornetist, with James F. Harlow as accompanist was very enjoyable.

The programme was as follows:

1. Gryffyth to Harold's Envoys, Bulwer
   Francis Raymond Boyd, West Quincy.
2. Reply to Calhoun, Webster
   Algernon Raymond Burchsted, Wollaston.
3. The Bradford Ms., G F. Hoar

Bicylist Held Up.

John Foley of Willard street was held up on Quincy avenue about 11 o'clock Sunday night. He was returning from Weymouth on his bicycle and had reached a point near the entrance to the Eldridge estate when two men jumped out and knocked him down and went through him. Fortunately he had no valuables about him at the time. Foley asked the men what they wanted and they replied they wanted a little money to go to Brockton. After they had gone through him he was allowed to mount his wheel and go on. His wheel was damaged somewhat and his face and hands were cut.

HOUGHS NECK.

Another Pleasant Sunday Has Wonderful Effect at Beach.

Elegant weather.

Crowded cars on Sunday, and many bicycles and carriages.

The booths were all open for business. It was not a great day for them, but there were many enquires for cottages, and withal a more buoyant feeling.

Many cottages were opened last week but next Sunday will be the Fourth of July and a closed cottage will be the exception then.

Mr. Lloyd Hoey will represent the Quincy DAILY LEDGER and Quincy PATRIOT at Houghs Neck this season, and ask the cooperation of all that this resort may be properly represented in public print. Drop him a postal and he will call at any time, or leave items for him in the LEDGER news boxes at J. L. Harvey's and Milton's bakery. Or news may be forwarded directly to the office of publication by the morning mail.

Officer Sandberg was on duty Sunday, but found little to do. But the presence of one of "Quincy's finest" prevent disturbances.

Mr. T. Downey, of the Boston Globe, has arrived with his family on the hill.

Mr. John Dolan and family, from Roxbury, will spend the summer at the "Bijou."

The Paematic club, of Brockton, are camping on Winthrop street.

Nanny goat has arrived on the beach and pop corn, fresh from the factory.

Mr. Kelley and family, from Avon, have arrived at their cottage on Sea street.

Mr. Morrison and family, from South Boston, are stoping at the Dearing cottage.

Another new dance hall. What next!

Miss Alice Martin is a guest of Mrs. Emery at the Delmont.

Mr. O. Molar and family, from Cambridge, are at their cottage on Winthrop street.

Mr. Jordon and family, from Boston, are spending the summer in their cottage on Winthrope square.

Mr. Packard and family, from Roxbury, are spending the summer months at the Cedar Bluff cottage.

Mr. Hirsh and family have arrived at the Sunset cottage.

Mr. L. A. Hoey and family from Dorchester, have arrived at the Loretto.

Messrs. Robert Webb, Ray and Elry Fickett, Harry Ross, Harry Downing and Frank Strout, of the Harvard Athletic Association, of Dorchester, spent Sunday at the Bo-Peep cottage.

Frank F. Prescott and family, of Quincy, are at their cottage on Bell street for a few days. Mr. F. U. Mowry, of Malden, will occupy the Fayolin this summer.

The Dolphin with Secretary Long on board dropped anchor in the lower harbor on Sunday afternoon. Gov. Long got aboard a steam launch and was taken to Hingham. The Dolphin then put out to sea.

Married Men's Run.

Not often is there a more enjoyable bicycle run indulged in than that which took place Sunday by thirty-one gentlemen from Wollaston who met at eight o'clock A. M., and rode to the Centennial House, North Scituate beach. The affair was gotten up by Mr. "Bert" Seymour and was known, and will long be remembered as the "married men's run." When noses were counted the following answered roll call: Mr. George C. Stebbins, captain and pace-maker, Herbert Seymour, Amos Woodworth, C. W. Woodworth, J. C. Hall, C. J. MacDonald, E M. Dunn, Fred Vaughan, E. A. Mansfield, C. W. Page, H. Corbett, James Lewis, Israel Hey, Ellis McTear, John Tabb, Lorin Robinson, Thomas Atkins, Charles Eldridge, A E. Jordan, on singles; Thomas Raiche and "Andy" Raiche, L. F. Addison and Frank Finnegan, "Al" Hall and A. A. McCosty on tandems; Charles H. Sargent, chief engineer at the Rivet Works, F. L Thurston, William C. Wormington, J. Elwin Glover, J. C. Pierce and George F. Turner in carriages.

Several important factors such as good management, good pace-making, and good behavior entered into a combination to make the run a success. Mr. Andy Raiche, the bugler, (who objected strongly to being called the "burglar,") occasionally inspired the party with his clarion notes and made those whose age was on the shady side of sixty, feel for the time, that they were at least in spirit, entitled to be listed among those whose ages ranged along in the twenties.

Arriving at the beach Bro. C. H. Hardwick, made them feel at home and served dinner fit for a nobleman. The time at the beach was spent pleasantly in roaming about the bold shore, basking in the sun tempered by a gentle westerly breeze, singing by the Quincy Quartette, who were never in better voice, recitations by Mr. Charles Sargent and Mr. Thomas Raich.

The return home was uneventful except for a broken front wheel on the tandem pushed by the Raiche Bros. about two miles from Cohasset. Through the kindness of Mr. MacDonald who connected the unbroken part of the tandem to his single they arrived home safely at 7 30 P. M. It was voted to make the "married men's run" an annual.

Why.

The report of the special commission to investigate the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association says a deficiency of $36,000 was found in the accounts. To meet this $20,000 was taken from the mortuary fund and George A. Litchfield the former president made good the balance. Why should $20,000 have been taken from the mortuary fund?

Another Victory.

The T. R. & S. Co. defeated the South Boston Reds at the park Saturday afternoon by the score of 21 to 14. Chapman, of the South Bostons, was struck on the head by a pitched ball and the molar bone fractured. The features of the game were the stops of Dunn, some of them being phenomenal; Cambell's pitching was very wild, he giving 16 bases on balls. Birse caught a splendid game for the visitors. The attendance was about 400.

Next Saturday the T. R. & S. will play the Atlantics at the park. This will be a benefit game for catcher Mahoney, who broke his ankle on the 17th of June.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED.

A Newly Married Man Cuts His Throat with a Razor.

Enoch De Wire, a young man recently married attempted suicide at his home on Highland avenue, Wollaston, this morning by cutting his throat with a razor. DeWire who has been married but about two months is employed in an insurance office at 4 Post Office square, Boston. This morning he arose at the usual hour, and as far as could be observed, had no thoughts of taking his own life. He busied himself about the house and shortly before the time for him to take the train, for Wollaston he turned to his wife and handing her a bill and some money said, "here, take this, and pay it."

Turning about with his back towards his wife he drew a razor from his pocket and made two deep cuts on his throat, one on each side. He then fell to the floor and lapsed into unconsciousness. His wife, although half dead with fright, summoned aid, and word was sent to Dr. Record who quickly arrived.

Dr. Record went to work upon his patient and after some time had elapsed consciousness returned and it is thought that he will recover.

The only cause given for his rash act is temporary insanity.

City Council Tonight.

At the adjourned meeting of the City Council tonight the joint committee on Public Buildings and Fire Department will report on the petition for a central fire station near Norfolk Downs; the Commissioner of Public Works will submit his estimate for building Brook road up to the grade. And there will be a public hearing on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location on Quincy avenue to the Braintree line.

The only matters in the calendar are the orders laying out Kemper street and Nightingale avenue and granting the New England Telephone Co. a location for one pole on Highland avenue.

Matters that are on the table and may be acted upon are the orders laying out Miller Style road, Brook road and Whitwell street, order for repairing High school house, and order for tide gate near almshouse. Many of these hinge on an opinion from the City Solicitor relative to consolidation of loans, which is expected tonight.

King's Trial.

The trial of Albert M. King for embezzlement will not take place at this term of the United States court. The young man was arraigned on Saturday, pleaded not guilty, and it was agreed that the case should go over until October. He was released on the same bail, $2,500.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. Dr. William Everett preached at King's chapel, Boston, yesterday.

Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows will elect officers tomorrow evening.

The band concert at New Downer Landing attracted a large crowd Sunday.

Chief of Police Hayden put on his specials Sunday for the first time this season.

The Pine Tree club of Braintree is well represented today on the excursion to Bass Point.

Miss Dorcas C. Higgins of South street starts for California on Tuesday next. We wish her a pleasant trip.

Commodore Sanborn of the Quincy Yacht club will be one of the judges at the Boston 4th of July regatta.

Ex-Commodore Pettengill is on the Beatrice at the South Boston race today and she is therefore expected to win.

About $7000 was realized at the annual garden party of the Free Home fo Consumptives at Dorchester on Saturday.

The late Capt. Edward A. Spear was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and Rural lodge attended his funeral this afternoon.

Ex President Litchfield and S. T. Elliott, the treasurer of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association, have replied to the report of the commission.

William Walsh, Samuel Donovan and Michael Duffy, students at St. Bonaventure's college, Alleghany, Penn., are home on their vacations.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will give a pleasing entertainment in Bethany chapel tonight at 7 45. Many interesting parts will be taken by children.

Miss Edith Olney of Wollaston gave a delightful bicycle party to about twenty of her young friends on Saturday afternon. The party rode to Blue Hills. Lunch was served.

The Quincy Shoe Company advertise about 1000 pairs of men's shoes and samples at a special sale this week beginning tomorrow, which they say will be the sale of sales.

Rev. Francis A Friguglietti leaves July 10 for Europe. The reverend gentleman contemplates an extended tour of the continent, with a stay of a few weeks in his natal land.

Very large congregations greeted the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Water street, the last Sunday before his vacation. In the morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. Mr. Henry Farrer was publicly welcomed into church fellowship. In the evening two pews in front were filled with High school graduates, of whom ten or more were present to hear the pastor's sermon on the theme, "What is Your Life?" Those from this church who graduated this year are: Miss Mary Joss and Master Donald Mackenzie in the full course, and Misses Grace Craig, Mary Dackers, Jessie Milne and Jennie Sutherland in the business course. These six are all communicant members of the church, five of whom have been received under the present pastorate.

Y. M. C. A. Reception.

A very pleasant affair took place Saturday evening at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms when a reception was given to fifty new members who had joined during May and June. The first part of the evening was spent in social intercourse and games, while music was furnished by some of the members of the Association orchestra. The walls of the parlor were decorated with the educational exhibit recently returned from Mobile, Ala. At 8.40 the entire company numbering seventy in all, adjourned to the gymnasium where a Priscilla lunch was served, consisting of rolls, strawberries, cake and lemonade. The tables were decorated with flowers, while each of the waitresses were dressed in a Priscilla costume. After the lunch, President Albee welcomed the new members. Short speeches were made by Mr. Delcevare King, Dr. E. R Johnson, A. N. Weeden, Geo. H. Brown. These were interspersed with several appropriate and well rendered readings by Miss Sherman of Wollaston.

Gave Their Teacher a Dinner.

Last Tuesday twenty-five little girls whose average age is about eleven years, under the direction of Miss Mary Smith, Miss Esther Peters, Miss Grace Downs and Miss Alice Maloney, gave Miss Dorcas C. Higgins their teacher a very pleasant surprise in the way of a dinner. The children are pupils of the Wm. H. Lincoln school of Brookline. The school contains an elegant dining room and kitchen where cooking is taught. This is the little girls' first year in cooking and the dinner they served would be a credit to a good many housekeepers. The four little girls above mentioned wore white caps and aprons when serving the dinner.

DIED.

CARGILL—In Valley Falls, R. I., June 21st, Mrs. Harriet S. Cargill in the 77th year of her age.

BERRY—In Quincy, June 27, Mrs. Dorothy C. Berry, aged 74 years and 9 months.
Funeral Tuesday at 1 30 P. M. from the Universalist church.

MERRITT—In Braintree, June 25, Mr. William B. Merritt, a veteran of the war.

Electrics Busy.

If the route from Neponset to Nantasket by electric street cars continues to grow in popularity as it seems likely to grow, the Quincy & Boston will have to have still larger cars or run trains. Sunday the big fifteen-seat cars on this route were not nearly large enough to accommodate the travel, and it was necessary to run also one of the ten-seat and on some trips two of the ten-seat cars with a fifteen-seat car through to Nantasket. At Quincy centre and at Thomas corner the railroad had starters stationed who kept the cars in motion so that there was but little delay, and the Nantasket cars ran nearly on time. The bother of cars meeting each other and having to run back to the switch was avoided, especially so on the Hingham line, where the block signal system was in use for the first time, and it worked to perfection. The same system should be adopted on the Quincy & Boston system.

On the other lines of the Quincy & Boston the travel was equally as heavy, for it was a beautiful day for a car ride, a fact which many thousands readily recognized. Commencing July 1, Higham and Nantasket cars will run through to Neponset.

The Mass. Year-Book.

There has been recently published the third volume of the Massachusetts Year-Book, compiled by A. S. Roe. This is a guide and directory to a vast fund of information upon places, people and businesses, which is not easily found elsewhere. As special features of the volume for this year attention is called to the complete list of all political districts, a compilation impossible a year ago, because the county commissioners had not reported to the legislature at the time of going to press. The directory of the state house can be found nowhere else, and alone should make the book necessary to very many. In banking data the hours of business are specified. The volume, we believe, stands alone in having a list of the pseudonyms of Massachusetts cities. The aim of all concerned in the preparation of the "Massachusetts Year-Book" is to make it indispensible to the professional and business man. We judge that to such it will prove invaluable. F. S. Blanchard & Co., Worcester, Mass, $1.75.

TRUST EVIL.

Secretary of State Sherman Says They Destroy Competition.

New York, June 28.—The Press prints an interview with Secretary Sherman, who is in the city.

On the subject of trusts the secretary talked quite freely. He said:

"The question of the trusts is altogether the most important of the day. A combination of persons engaged in common interests seems on its face to be all right and fair enough, but it breaks down competition and crowds out small establishments.

"The anti-trust law is not strong enough. I wrote it, and the committee on judiciary made changes in it which weakened it. I favor making unlawful all combinations in restraint of trade in the most direct manner. Trusts claim to make lower prices, but I don't believe it.

"They put in the hands of a few men the control of important industries and say the effect is to reduce prices. I don't think so. People have a fight to compete with these industries.

"The restraint of trusts will become effective under the proper kind of a law."

Pastor's Golden Jubilee.

Springfield, Mass., June 28.—The 50th anniversary of the installation of Rev. Dr. Samuel Giles Buckingham, pastor emeritus of the South Congregational church of this city, was observed yesterday by the pastor and members of the church. In the morning Rev. Dr. Phillip S. Moxom preached a special sermon appropiate to the golden jubilee of Dr. Buckingham, and at the communion service in the afternoon a joint letter from the deacons of the church to Dr. Buckingham, dwelling upon his connection with the church and expressing in the tenderest terms their love and admiration for him, was read. Dr. Buckingham, who was present, was deeply moved, and was almost unable to reply, so strong was his emotion. Dr. Buckingham is the oldest pastor in this city or vicinity. He comes of a well-known Connecticut family, and was born in Lebanon, in that state, Nov. 18, 1812. He graduated from Yale in 1833 at the age of 21, and from Yale Theological seminary in 1836, and the following year was installed as pastor of the Second Congregational church in Millbury, where he served for over 10 years, and in 1847 accepted a call to the South church in this city, with which he has been connected ever since.

Union Pacific Can Be Saved.

New York, June 28.—Mr. Henry Rosenbaum, on behalf of many stockholders of the Union Pacific railroad, has issued a statement in which he says that there is no use to deprive the stockholders of their property; that the property is a good one, and if the directors do their duty the road can be made to pay dividends; that there is no real need for foreclosure proceedings, except as a matter of form, because the first mortgage bonds can be extended to run 50 years more at 4 per cent; that the proposed reorganization will turn the road over to men who have managed to get control of the majority of the bonds, and that thousands of people are thus to be deprived of their property. He desires all stockholders who have not already done so to write to him at once.

Austrian Town Flooded.

Vienna, June 28.—Kolomea, in Galicia, has been flooded by the rising of the river Puth. Many houses have been destroyed, and the bridge between Kolomea and Turka has been swept away. The collapse took place while a train was crossing, and it is believed that many have been drowned. The government has ordered the soldiers to assist the inhabitants in the effort to save their property. A terrible storm of hail, thunder and lightning was raging at the time and added to the horror of the scene. The river had risen 21 feet above its normal level. Seven officials, including the postal staff at Mailvan, have been drowned. The distress at Kolomea is terrible. Hundreds are homeless, their houses having been carried away with the rush of the waters.

Outbreak In Crete.

Canea, June 28.—An armed force of 1200 Mussulmans made a sortie from Canea Saturday night, crossed the military cordon and surprised the insurgents at Kanlikastelli, three hours distant. A desperate combat ensued in which 13 Mussulmans were killed and 12 wounded. The Christain inhabitants of the district are preparing to make reprisals by land and sea. Many Christians were killed, as well as many Turks, in the engagements which preceded the principal fighting at Kanlikastelli. The whole district is greatly excited. The trouble arose from the encroachments of the Mussulman refugees who attempted to pasture their cattle within the neutral zone.

Yale Baccalaureate.

New Haven, June 28.—President Timothy Dwight of Yale delivered his annual baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of the academic and scientific deprtments yesterday morning. The seniors, wearing their classic mortar-board caps and gowns, filled the body of the church. President Dwight took six texts as follows: "Finally, brethren, farewell," "Quit you like men," "All the brethern salute you," "My love be with you all," "The salutation of me, Paul, with mine own hand," "Finally, my brethern, rejoice."

Battle In Churchyard.

Pleasant Valley, Tex., June 28.—Augustus A. Garrison and Frank Jones were killed and Tom Jones was mortally wounded in a bloody battle which took place in the Methodist churchyard yesterday. Garrison killed Frank Jones and was then shot by Tom, a brother of Frank. Before dying he mortally wounded Tom Jones. A young lady had been wronged by Frank Jones, and Garrison determined to avenge the wrong.

Attempt to Wreck Train.

Niantic, Conn., June 28.—An attempt was made to wreck the mail train on the Consolidated road near Wood river bridge, R. I., yesterday. Fence rails were piled on the track about four feet high, but they were scattered without damage to the train. This is said to be the fifth attempt within two weeks to wreck the mail train.

Cut Off In His Prime.

Boston, June 28.—Walter H. Lansil, one of the most promising cattle painters of this country, died at his residence in Dorchester Saturday night, aged 42. He was a native of Bangor, Me., and had pursued his studies in Italy, France, Holland, Belgium and Germany.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Sweeney was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy. He was also arraigned for disturbing the peace which case was placed on file.

James Lynch was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Lynch was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until July 26.

Sarah Beane was fined $50 for keeping intoxicating liquors with the intent to sell at Randolph.

The continued case of Michael Sillato of Braintree, for neglecting to send his minor children to school, was called and again continued until August 2.

Mission Closed.

The mission for men, which has been in progress at St. John's church for the past week, was brought to a close Sunday evening. The services were conducted by Frs. Sheehan and Curran. The sermon was preached by Fr. Sheehan, which was followed by one of the most impressive ceremonies ever held in St. John's. The congregation of upwards 800, with lighted candles in their hands, renewed the vows of baptism. The music was by the full choir of the church. The mission has been unusually successful, and the clergymen who conducted it, leave Quincy with the sincere thanks of the congregation.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

BRIEF CABLEGRAMS.

Dr. Jameson has sailed from London for Cape Town, en route for Bulawayo.

The United States warship Brooklyn sailed westward from Portsmouth, Eng., yesterday afternoon.

Captain General Weyler has arrived at Manzanillo. Heavy rains are falling in the interior of Cuba.

A Lima dispatch says Professor Aarporath of the Cordoba observatory asserts that the moon is not a satellite of the earth, but a planet.

William Philip Molyneux, fourth Earl of Sefton, Eng., is dead. He was a Knight of the Garter. He was born in Croxteth Hall, Liverpool, Oct. 14, 1835.

Dr. Moncure Daniel Conway delivered his farewell lecture yesterday before the South Place Ethical society of London, his theme being John Cabot. He will sail for the United States on Thursday by the Mohawk.

Simo-Hamed Ben Mousa, the special envoy of the Sultan of Morocco to the Victorian jubilee festivities, has returned to Morocco insane. He had been staying in Paris, and did not actually go to London because of his malady.

Talking Fight.

Dublin, June 28.—A meeting convened to bring further pressure to bear upon the British government to grant amnesty to the Irish political prisoners, now in Maryborough jail, was held in Phoenix park yesterday. Considerable surprise was expressed that the jubilee week had passed without the release which had been expected. William Field, Parnellite member for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin, in the course of a fiery speech, said: "It will be useless to look to the English government. We will call upon the voices, and perhaps upon the arms of our countrymen in America."

Lucky He Was a Poor Shot.

Manchester, N. H., June 28.—Joseph St. John, a local horseman, fired a shot at Adelard Simard, on Lowell street last night, because he imagined that Simard had stolen his aged trotter Little Jack, and substituted an inferior animal in its place. Little Jack was raced on Fast day when the weather was very cold and he has since gone to pieces. The bullet missed its mark and St. John was locked up. He is believed to be temporarily insane.

Plucking to Lehman.

Cambridge, Mass., June 28.—In the university yard yesterday Harvard men were found discussing the various points of interest in connection with the Poughkeepsie race. They were enthusiastic over Mr. Lehman and asserted that there was no doubt whatever of his return in the fall, to resume work at training the crew of 1898. Indeed, it is understood that Captain Goodrich and Messrs. J. H. Perkins, Boardman and Sprague of the crew of 1897 are to cross with him, and they may have some opportunity of studying English races and the methods of conducting them. They will be back in the fall.

Toughs Met Their Matches.

Skowhegan, Me., June 28. — Local toughs, whose curiosity led them to raise the flaps of the dressing room tents of a circus that arrived here yesterday, were set upon by the circus employes and a lively fight ensued. Tent stakes and poles were freely used, and the row, which was of short duration, ended in favor of the circus men, who drove the intruders from the field.

Child Fatally Burned.

Boston, June 28.—Joseph Perregrino, 3½ years old, while playing with matches at his home, 2 Oneida street, yesterday afternoon, set his clothes on fire and was fatally burned.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. END IS NOT FAR OFF.

Expected That This Week Will See Close of Tariff Debate In Senate.

Democrats Will Make Most of Opportunities to Talk.

House Program Will Be Largely Governed by Action of the Senate.

Washington, June 28.—The end of the tariff debate in the senate is in sight. It is expected that a final vote will be taken this week. There are still some differences among Republican senators to be settled, but no break in the party line is liable to occur.

Many of these differences have been adjusted in the Republican ranks, but the Democrats will naturally take advantage of their knowledge of the feeling existing among their opponents to debate some of the questions at length.

It is understood now that coal, leather, hides and lead ore will each be vigorously discussed as will also the questions, though more briefly, of reciprocity, the treatment of trusts and the disposition of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty.

In view of the determination of the Democrats to exploit all these questions and others as well, it would seem impossible to conclude the senate's work on the bill before the end of the week and it is more than probable that the final word will be reserved for the following week.

The house will continue this week its policy of adjourning from Monday until Thursday. After that its course will depend upon the action of the senate. If by any chance a vote should be had on the tariff bill Wednesday or Thursday, the course will probably be to remain in session to receive the bill, disagree with the senate amendments and appoint conferees. Otherwise an adjournment will be had from Thursday to Monday.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS.

Secretary of the Treasury Gage Talks on the Revival of Business.

Washington, June 28.—"The evidence I have obtained from all sections of the country, from the press, from callers and from personal correspondence, all point in one direction—an actual improvement in trade and in manufactures," Secretary of the Treasury Gage said yesterday. "In some places this improvement is more marked than in others, and in some localities it has been scarcely felt at all. I do not keep a book showing these various instances, and therefore am unable to state just where the improvements are most noticeable.

"The business situation is particularly improved, by reason of increased trade and enlarged manufactories in various kinds of industry. As an illustration, I may cite the experience of a friend who called upon me several days ago. He is a manufacturer of furnaces. He told me he had more orders to execute at this time than he had during the entire year of 1896. His is rather a marked case. Others are less marked, but all show an improvement. No one has spoken to me within the last month in a tone of discouragement. All of those with whom I have talked speak with a hope and expectation of prosperity, which is justified, they think, by a degree of improvement in their business affairs.

"The business outlook is very encouraging. Every man set at work creates a new demand that helps another man to secure employment. A forward and upward movement is like a snowball which gains accretions as it rolls. The contrary tendency may be compared to a stationary snowball, which melts and soon dissipates. By the onward movement the ball gathers force as it goes, and while it may be some time before we have the intensity of motion which we would like to see, we must be satisfied if our progress is gradual, if it be constantly in the right direction.

"Of course, a settlement of the tariff question will furnish the country with the necessary data from which to make all the necessary estimates, and if not intimidated by war alarms or other depressing influences, and if sustained by the expectation of necessary financial reforms next winter, there is no good reason that can be pointed out to prognosticate a change except a recovery from business depression.

"Naturally, I am in the same position as everybody else with reference to the features of the tariff bill which will ultimately reach the president. All that I can say about that measure is that it is a foundation upon which the people can build figures."

Colby Baccalaureate.

Waterville, Me., June 28.—A large audience of alumni and friends of Colby university assembled in the Baptist church yesterday morning and listened to a fine baccalaureate sermon by President Nathanial Butler, D. D. Last evening the annual sermon before the Boardman Missionary society and College Christian associations was preached by Rev. C. V. Hanson, D. D., of Skowhegan. The subject of President Butler's address was "Verities of the Christian Faith."

Dover Landmark Gone.

Dover, N. H., June 28.—The Garrison Hill observatory, a wooden structure, which has been one of the landmarks in this vicinity for many years, was completely destroyed by fire last night. The observatory was 65 feet in height, and being on such a high hill the view from the top was most extensive. The actual value oft he building was about $1000, but the citizens of Dover feel the loss keenly.

Fired Three Shots at Himself.

Holyoke, Mass., June 28.—After threatening the life of his 18-year-old wife, William Alvey, aged 60, of this city, yesterday afternoon fired three shots at himself with a revolver, and but for a hat which he wore at the time he would probably have been killed. As it is he has an ugly wound in the forehead. Jealousy of his wife, together with heavy drinking, brought on a quarrel between the couple.

WABASH WRECK.

Seven Coffins Containing Remains of Victims Sent to St. Louis.

Kansas City, June 28.—Seven coffins were forwarded to St. Louis yesterday from Missouri City. They contained the remains of victims of Saturday night's wreck on the Wabash road.

The conductor of the train, G. C. Copeland of St. Louis, who was reported among the dead, is still alive. He was removed to the railroad hospital at Moberly with a fractured skull and several broken ribs.

Of the 19 others injured, not one is in a critical condition. Among them all there is not one broken limb, although many of them were thrown three-quarters of the length of the coaches in which they were riding.

All indications are that death came to at least four of the five mail clerks almost instantly. Their car pitched end first through the break in the trestle, and they must have been drowned in the raging stream while in an unconscious condition.

Yesterday but a small stream was flowing beneath the trestle. In ordinary weather it is a dry creek bed. The storm, which was almost a cloudburst, had swollen the little stream to a torrent. The flood carried away a wagon bridge a short distance above the Wabash trestle. The wreck of this bridge was hurled down upon the railroad trestle and carried away a row of wooden supports in the center.

A neighboring farmer noticed the perilous condition of the trestle and resolved to flag the passenger train, which he knew was about due. For nearly an hour he stood in the terrific downpour of rain only to fail at last in his good intentions, for when the fast mail came thundering on the storm was almost blinding, and the engineer evidently could not see the signal which the farmer so frantically waved across the track. The locomotive struck the trestle. The engine passed over, but the tender went through with the crumbling bridge. The baggage car toppled off on its side, while the mail car, which followed, pitched into the stream end first. Every life in this car was lost. The smoker, next behind, followed. It was in this car that Conductor Copeland was riding. The other occupants escaped serious injury. The chair car, next behind, also plunged in upon the mass of wreckage end first, and all its passengers were thrown to the forward end in a heap. The front end of the sleeper, next in the rear, jammed into the protruding end of the chair car and was thus prevented from following the others into the chasm. The two Excelsior Springs coaches in the rear remained on the track.

The postal authorities report that probably nearly all of the mail carried on the train was lost or destroyed. The Wabash train carries all of Kansas City's afternoon mail for the East, and it is always heavy and valuable.

Season of Banquets In London.

London, June 28.—The Duke of Cambridge gave a jubilee banquet Saturday evening at Gloucester House, Park lane. Among the guests were the Prince of Wales, all the visiting royalties, and the special envoys, including Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States. No ladies were present. At the same time the German embassy gave a banquet and reception in honor of Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia, and of the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg. Among the guests were Ambassador Hay and Miss Hay, with the leading members of the German colony in London. William Waldorf Astor will entertain the colonial premiers at Cliveden on Tuesday.

Occupants Escaped With Difficulty.

West Newton, Mass., June 28.—A brick building known as Fisk's block and occupied on the second floor by a boarding house and on the first by a laundry, was considerably damaged by fire last night. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock on the second floor and worked down into the laundry. Mrs. Joanna Harris, who keeps the boarding house, lost nearly all her effects, while she and the occupants of the building escaped with some difficulty. The loss will be about $2500, partly covered by insurance.

Edward S. Stokes Dying.

New York, June 28.—It is reported that Edward S. Stokes, who was the principal in the great Fisk tragedy of over 20 years ago, is so broken down in health that it is a terrible fight for life with him.

DEBATE ON BIG TRUSTS

Senators Again Discuss Remedies For Restricting Vicious Combines.

Duty on Hides Fixed at 20 Per Cent Ad Valorem.

Hoar Believes Most Serious Phases of Trust Evil Must Be Dealt With by States.

Washington, June 29.—The senate spent almost all of yesterday's session debating the hide and leather schedules, and finally passed the senate finance committee's amendment for an ad valorem duty of 20 per cent on hides by a vote of 39 to 20. Every senator from New England, as well as from Pennsylvania and other sections where the opposition to the duty on hides was strongest, were recorded in favor of the duty, either by direct vote or by pairs that were announced, thus standing by the agreement reached in the Republican caucus on Thursday night last.

Not a single senator from the New England states spoke in opposition to this tax, and, in fact, no opposition was manifested in the debate, except by Senators Smith of New Jersey, Vest of Missouri and Jones of Arkansas.

Senator Smith made a formal speech against the tariff bill, paying particular attention to the hide and leather schedule. He came into the senate after a severe sickness, and had to stop in the middle of his speech and take a rest of 20 minutes or more.

Senator Vest took this opportunity to make a speech in opposition to the tax on hides, and especially to denounce the Chicago Beef trust.

This provoked a debate, entirely foreign to the hide schedule, as to the power of the United States to suppress trusts.

Senator Allen of Nebraska was very anxious to have a duty on hides, because he thought it would benefit the farmers in his state, he said, but he spent most of the time of his speech in denouncing the Beef trust, which, he said, ought to be indicted under the common law for conspiracy.

The incidental debate on trusts led to severe arraignment of the Sugar trust by Messrs. Caffery and Lindsay, and a general discussion of means to deal with trusts by Mr. Hoar. Among other paragraphs disposed of during the day were all those relating to gloves, a substitute for the paragraph on live animals, iron ore and stained glass windows.

Mr. Smith's references to trusts led Mr. Stewart of Nevada to follow with an extended arraignment of the money trust, which, he asserted, was the worst of all trusts.

Mr. Stewart argued also that if there was to be a protective tariff bill all sections should share in the advantages it gave.

Mr. Allen of Nebraska said that while not an advocate of a general protective system, yet he concurred with the view that if there was to be such a bill every section should share in the benefits it gave. He favored a duty on hides. The discussion branched off to the prosecution of trusts, Messrs. Allen and Hoar debating the law. Mr. Hoar said that he thought it likely an amendment relating to trusts would be offered in connection with the present bill tending to perfect the provisions on that subject in the tariff bill of 1894, and declaring that such provisions are not repealed by this bill. Such an amendment had been prepared by Mr. Pettus of Alabama, and Mr. Hoar said he expected to vote for it when it came up.

Mr. Hoar said that while the question of trusts could be dealt with to some extent by striking at their imports, as in the law of 1894, yet he feared that the most serious phases of the evil must be dealt with by the states. He explained the technical legal meaning of the word "Trust," and showed the difficulties in making the Sugar trust and Standard Oil trust amenable to federal law. He regarded these monopolies as a menace to the republic, and was hopeful that some means might be found to check them, yet he could not say how they could be hit. The state could limit their amount of capital, which would be one effective means of dealing with them.

Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky said that in the case of a confessed monopoly, such as the Sugar trust, one effective means of dealing with it would be to extend it no further benefits from tariff legislation.

Mr. Hoar replied that the answer to this was that the policy seemed to be established that revenue was to be raised on refined sugar, and it was further desired that the business of refining sugar shall be done in this country rather than abroad.

A great foreign government was about the biggest trust that could menace the trade of the United States, Mr. Hoar asserted. He hoped that some effective remedy would be found instead of going on the theory that because a jackal or fox preys on our commerce it should be given over to a foreign wolf or lion.

Mr. Caffery of Louisiana argued that the Sugar trust was within the operation of the anti-trust law, and he felt that it was time the attention of the attorney general and the United States district attorneys was called to the frequent and flagrant violations of the law by the Sugar trust.

Mr. Allen declared that the country was "rotten with trusts," every article the people ate and wore and used being controlled by trusts, while congress, the judiciary and the executive authorities were powerless to act, according to those who argued that the federal laws could not reach the trusts. He maintained that the laws were sufficient if energetically enforced, but that the authorities had not executed them with zeal.

Shafroth's Novel Scheme.

Washington, June 29.—Representative Shafroth of Colorado introduced in the house yesterday a novel measure to encourage the economical administration of the government. It provides that "in order that each officer and employe of the United States shall have a direct interest in the economical administration of the government, the secretary of the treasury is directed for each month the expenditures of the government are greater than the receipts to deduct and retain in the treasury from each salary in excess of $200 per month, 20 per cent thereof, and from each salary under said amount, 10 per cent thereof."

Rather Against Annexation.

Washington, June 29.—Representative Crumpacker of Indiana has introduced in the house a resolution for a constitutional amendment providing that hereafter no non-contiguous territory shall be annexed to the United States except in pursuance of a treaty negotiated by the president, concurred in by two-thirds of each house of congress and ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states, and no contiguous territory except by treaty concurred in by two-thirds of each house, the vote on the question of concurrence not to be taken in the house of representatives until two years have elapsed from the time of taking the vote in the senate.

IN AND AROUND THE CAPITOL.

William J. Lyster, commanding the Ninth infantry at Sacketts Harbor, N. Y., was placed on the retired list of the army yesterday on account of age.

After reaching his home from the senate yesterday, Mr. Smith of New Jersey was compelled to take to his bed. He has been suffering with stomach trouble but is not seriously sick.

Senator Davis has reported from the committee on foreign relations an amendment to the general deficiency bill to pay $6000 to the families of three Italians lynched at New Orleans.

The condition of Senator Pettigrew, who was taken sick in the senate Saturday, continues to improve. His physician believes he will be able to resume his senatorial duties in a few days.

The state department has received a statement from Consul General Lee at Havana in which he declares that his son had no connection whatever with the premature publication some time ago of the Ruiz report.

Senator Harris of Tennessee, who has been sick for some time, but who was gradually recovering, suffered a setback, which at first caused his friends some apprehension, but he is now reported to be better.

Representative King of Utah has introduced in the house a bill identical with that introduced by Senator Morgan in the senate providing for the annexation of Hawaii under the conditions of the treaty negotiated by the president.

Speaker Reed has decided, in view of the proximity of the return of the tariff bill from the senate, that he will be unable to attend the meeting of the Republican clubs in Detroit July 13, where it was expected he would make an address.

In anticipation of the passage of the tariff bill by the senate this week, Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio, chairman of the Republican caucus of the house, has issued a request to all Republican members of the house to be in their seats next Monday, July 5.

The Republican members of the senate committee on judiciary will meet today to consider the various forms presented for an anti-trust amendment to the tariff bill. There are a dozen anti-trust amendments in print and others have been suggested. The judiciary committee is striving to secure a form that will be acceptable to all Republican senators and that will also stand the test of the courts.

Bomb Thrown at Jail.

Franklin, Ky., June 29.—George Dinning, a negro, who killed Jodie Conn, a young farmer, last January and who was brought here for trial with a guard of two militia companies from Frankfort, seems to be in great danger of summary violence. Last night a dynamite bomb was hurled at the jail, but exploded without doing great damage. Lieutenant Gordon of the Frankfort militia fired his revolver at the crowd of men who threw the bomb, and thinks he hit one of them.

Bitter Fight Against Hough For Governor. McLean All Right For Senator.

Columbus, O., June 29.—With the unusually large number of Democratic candidates and their workers here last night, the anti-convention contests were very animated. The field has concentrated against R. T. Hough as the favorite for governor, and will fight him to a decisive ballot. The Press Post, the central Democratic organ, questions Hough's orthodoxy on the silver question. Ex-Congressman S. S. Yoder has published a statement about Hough being an original Bryan man at Chicago, and wanting a free silver plank in the state platform three years ago. With the bitter fight made on Hough there has been considerable rise in the booms of other candidates. While the fight for the head of the state ticket is very animated there is no visible opposition to McLean. Even the gold Democrats, who are in attendance at the convention, favor him for senator, notably Lawrence T. Neal, who was McKinley's opponent for governor. Ex-Governor Campbell, who is here managing the canvass of ex-Congressman Sorg for governor, is not unfriendly to McLean.

The State League of Silver Republicans has its representative here demanding that the nomination for lieutenant governor be given to a silver Republican, but it is not likely that the demand will be granted.

At Boston—

With the game apparently safe for Brooklyn in the eighth, the crowd so rattled Daub that he gave three Bostonians their bases on balls, and singles by Duffy and Stivetts brought in the necessary runs. The playing of Long and Collins for the home team, and Griffin and Jones for the visitors were the features of the game.

Funeral of Veteran

The funeral of Capt. Edward A. Spear was held Monday afternoon from his late residence on Washington street, and was largely attended by his many friends, including Rural lodge of Masons, Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., and several of the members of his old regiment.

The services which were very impressive were conducted by Rev. Edgar W. Preble of the Universalist church, and a quartette composed of Mr. Herbert Fay Nye, Mr. Walter H. Hersey, Miss Abbie G. Barnes, and Miss Alice Coburn, sang "Abide with Me," and the hymn "Hursley."

At the conclusion of the services at the house, the remains were escorted by the Masons and Grand Army to Mt. Wollaston cemetery for interment. Arriving at the grave the Grand Army and Masons performed their burial services.

"For three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house," says A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., "and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by A. G. Durgin.

CONGRESSMAN BARROWS has made an exceedingly intelligent diagnosis of the post office case in this city, as shown by his interview today. The sentiment and preference is undoubtedly with ex-Representative Charles L. Hammond, and it was so strong that, as the Congressman says, there was no need of holding a caucus. From a Republican standpoint the appointment is the wisest which could be made, for Mr. Hammond is a power in local politics and will continue to be until disbared by a federal position. His friends are legion, and evidently determined to have satisfaction, but if Mr. Hammond is honored by appointment as postmaster, all differences will be buried, and the Republicans with an united front will sweep the city at the fall elections. Mr. Hammond is a bright, intelligent young man, and in everyway qualified for the position as postmaster of the "City of Presidents," and the LEDGER unites with others in congratulating him upon his prospects.

MR. BOWDITCH called at the LEDGER office yesterday and demanded an apology for reference to him as a reporter. To hold him responsible for what appears in the paper is perhaps a hardship, but it would take a column to tell all the gentleman has had to say regarding Col. Guild's address, and he probably had an influence on the editor.

THAT IS a happy solution of the turnout squabble on Hancock street. Mr. Theophilus King has the faculty of smoothing troubled waters, and the street railway gets its turnout, and the city gets the street paved its entire width.

THE LOAN order is all right as far as it goes, but if the new central fire station is really needed this year the order should be amended to include the appropriation for station and lot.

Dynamite Returned.

The one hundred pound box of dynamite, stolen from the quarry of the Merry Mount Granite Co. last Wednesday night, was returned sometime Monday night. Ever since it became known that the dynamite was stolen the people about Common street have not slept very soundly, expecting every night to have their houses blown up. Monday night Inspector McKay got at some boys whom he suspected of being concerned in the thieving and told them that if the dynamite was not returned that night he should lock them up today. The threat had the desired effect for the dynamite came back.

South Boston Race.

The winners of first prizes in the open race of the Mosquito fleet club at South Boston on Monday, were the Emma C., Fly, Privateer, Hoodlum, Omeme and the Alpine. The Privateer and Omeme, the two Quincy boats, had minutes to spare.

Second prizes went to the Little Pete, Cockatoo, Yankee, Wrinkle and Circe, and the third boats in their classes were the Ida J., Gosling, Nettie, Arab III and Vistesse.

The Beatrice, Rex, Vexer, Cleopatia, Sphinx and Gnome were entered.

Arrested on Suspicion.

Officer Bradley arrested a man this morning on Granite street upon suspicion of being one of the parties who held up the railroad conductor last week near Merry Mount park and also Mr. Foley on Quincy avenue Sunday night.

The fellow was seen hanging about South Quincy Monday night and about Granite street this morning. He gave his name as James Salven and he will be held to see if he can be identified.

Thayer Graduation.

The graduates from Thayer academy at Braintree on Saturday were: Alice H. Arnold, Florence Gilman, Lowell T. Hayden, Alice S. Morrison, Ernest S. Rogers, Mary A. Sayward, Laila G. Staples, Louis M. Stevens, Rayol B. Thayer, Julia Lombard; three-year course, Fred W. Allen, Norton P. Potter, Ralph B. Rogers, Charles H. Wilson. There was an address by Prof. Emerton of Harvard, and at the close of the exercises the class gave a reception and dance.

HAMMOND FOR POSTMASTER.

Congressman Barrows Interviewed—Will Endorse His Candidacy.

Congressman Barrows returned to Boston last week, en route for Europe to represent the United States on the International Prison Commission and also on the International Arbitration Conference. In view of the interest in Quincy concerning the candidacy for the post office Mr. Barrows was asked if he was ready to grant an interview on this subject. He cheerfully consented and the following is the substance of his remarks:

I am quite aware of the interest which the people of Quincy have in the appointment of a postmaster. The present postmaster, Mr. Burke, I am sure, has rendered good service, and as his term will not expire for some months yet, there has seemed to be no need of haste in the designation of a successor. Nevertheless I cannot be indifferent to the interest which exists concerning this matter.

As you are well aware the names of two candidates, Mr. Warren W. Adams and Mr. Charles L. Hammond were presented to me by their friends some five or six months ago and I was asked to select one of them for endorsement. More or less pressure has been brought upon me to come to an early decision. It has not seemed to me desirable however that I should base my choice on any personal preference, but rather that I should consider the wishes of the community. A man who is appointed postmaster ought to be capable first of rendering faithful and honest service to the United States, and secondly by serving well and satisfactorily the city or town to which he is appointed.

SAMUEL J. BARROWS.

Concerning these two points there is every reason to believe that either of the two candidates would render honest and faithful service, both to the government and to the patrons of the office. A careful comparison of their endorsements shows that they have each enlisted the support of a large and worthy section of the business community. I have personally no doubt that any man who could satisfy the reasonable demands of one of these sections of the business community as postmaster could equally satisfy the other. There remains therefore, simply the question of the

Sentiment and Preference

Of my political associates, the Republicans of Quincy.

I am quite aware that there has been a lack of harmony in the Republican party of Quincy. It has grown not out of national contests but out of local political issues. I do not wish to interfere in such contests and in a federal appointment merely local political differences should not intervene. If a man is running for mayor, for instance, that is one thing, if he is a candidate for a federal post office it is quite another. The two offices are very different and people may divide differently in regard to them. I have found it so in this case.

Mr. Hammond was a candidate for mayor. In that contest he lacked the support of a significant number of Republicans. But since his name has been presented to me many of those same Republicans who voted against him as mayor have warmly endorsed him by word and pen as a candidate for postmaster. I have been surprised, and Mr. Hammond ought certainly to be gratified at the generosity of some of his recent political opponents.

I dislike feuds, whether religious, political or social. There is nothing to regret in a good manly contest; there is much to regret in a prolonged feud. I should be the last one therefore to stand in the way of harmony in the Republican party in Quincy, especially when I see men discarding their previous differences in order to produce it.

When a question is reduced, as this seems to be, to one of a preponderance of choice among political associates it is comparatively easy to settle it. If we want to know what the majority of Republicans in Quincy wish in this matter it can easily be found by holding a caucus. It seemed to me for a while that to ascertain the wishes of the majority such a caucus might be necessary. But there is if the will of the majority can be ascertained without it.

No Need of Holding a Caucus

In the last two months I have been holding what might be called a silent caucus. I have been ascertaining Republican sentiment and preference, until I have no doubt as to what the result would be if a caucus were held. Two facts have been perfectly evident: First, as already said, that many of Mr. Hammond's Republican opponents in the mayoralty contest are generously supporting him now; and, secondly, that friends of Mr. Adams who endorsed his position at the outset are now willing in the interest of harmony to transfer their endorsement to Mr. Hammond. This does not mean that they are disloyal to Mr. Adams, but simply that they are convinced that the majority want Mr. Hammond and feel that the majority ought to decide it.

As I am aiming simply to fulfil the wishes of the majority in this matter, I cannot do otherwise, it seems to me, than be guided by clear and decisive indications.

I have waited reasonably long for the appearance of any third candidate who might unite both sections with uncontested unanimity. But no such candidate has appeared.

Unless, therefore, something unforeseen occurs to radically change the facts on which my decision is based, I shall undoubtedly endorse the candidacy of Mr. Hammond when the proper time comes.

The little boy who tickles a tiger with a straw and the man who fools with his health are on a par. If there is any distinction it is in favor of the boy who imagines he is playing with a big cat and is not old enough to realize his danger. The man if he don't know, ought to know that when he neglects his health he is tempting fate and tampering with death. Nine men out of ten neglect their health. The result is that untold thousands fall victims every year to the insatiable tiger called consumption.

98 per cent. of all cases of consumption are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the lungs, building new tissue in place of old, and driving out all impurities and disease germs. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and restores the lost appetite. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. Thousands have testified to their recovery under its use after their cases were given up by the doctors and all hope was gone. The druggist who claims to have something that will do just as well is untrustworthy.

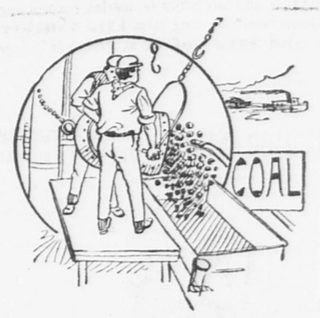

"I was afflicted for four years with local weakness, but would not confess it for a time," writes Mrs. Beulah Woodall, of Bateman, Patrick Co., Va. "My mother told me she had read of Dr. Pierce's medicines and advised me to try them. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they cured me. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines too much."

Nothing will keep down the fortunes of an ambitious family more than big doctor's bills. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser enables a family to get along without calling in a doctor except in cases of serious illness or accidents. It teaches a mother how to treat the minor maladies and accidents of every-day life. It contains 1,008 pages, over 300 illustrations, and is written in plain English that any one can understand. Over a million homes own copies of it. A new edition is ready and will be given away absolutely FREE. If you want a paper-covered copy send twenty-one one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a fine cloth binding, send ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all.

Do you know the prices we are making on Coffee? Are you acquainted with the quality of Coffee we sell? The very best Coffee only costs half a cent per cup if it is properly made. The best Mocha and Java we sell for 35c. per lb. There are very few dealers who carry this high grade Coffee, for, as they say, they can't make as much money on it as they can on cheaper grades—that is why they all try to sell something cheaper.

We always try to sell you something better than you had last. We don't want you to think that this is all the kind we carry in stock, however, for we keep all the different grades in Coffee, and we are bound to suit you.

We believe in giving credit where credit is due, and from a long trial (more than ten years) of Chase & Sanborn's Coffees, we are convinced that they are of the best grown and imported into this country. The Seal Brand in cans and Old Government Java are especially nice and you will make no mistake if you buy and use either. We have cheaper grades like Rio and Mararíato and all kinds of good, sound, reliable goods. Our coffee trade is large and is a feature in our business.

New Vapor Stoves.

It's just fun to cook in summer, if you own a vapor stove, and when you consider the saving of fuel, the saving of time, and the absolute comfort that goes with them, it's no wonder people everywhere are beginning to use them.

No Coal, No Wood, No Smell, No Smoke, No Dust, No Ashes. A fire piping hot in a twinkling, ready to bake or to roast, and just by the touch of a finger, it's cold as charity when you're done.

They are economical from beginning to end, and cost almost nothing to run. After using them once, you'll wonder how you ever lived without one. The new process. 1 Burner, $3.50; 2 Burner, $5.00; 3 Burner, $7 50.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

No Special School Appropriation Thought Necessary.

Order Reported for Site for New Fire Station.

Miller Stile Road, Whitwell Street and Others Accepted.

Every meeting of the City Council nowadays seems important, for many weighty matters continue to arise. The business, however, is dispatched promptly and usually for the best interests of their constituents.

The absent members were Councilmen Badger, Geary and Pinkham.

New Public Building.

City Auditor Hall forwarded a communication stating that he had received two bills for work done on the tool house at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. He did not think they should be charged to Public Buildings. To Committee on Finance.

Brook Road.

Commissioner Knowlton forwarded his estimate of cost to build Brook road to grade which was as follows: Culverts, $186; fence, $45; filling, $525; total, $756. If curbing were put in it would add $330 more; $1000 for paved gutters. Placed on file.

High School.

The Mayor submitted the expert's report by Jerome C. Hosmer on the High school building, which said that the trouble was caused by timber shrinkage, if shored up and nuts tightened there would be no more trouble. The cost would not exceed $2,050. Placed on file.

The Turnout Again.

Councilman Nickerson presented a petition from the Quincy & Boston street railroad asking that the paving from curb to curb clause in the order for a turnout on Hancock street be stricken out. To Committee on Streets.

Later in the evening the reference was withdrawn and Councilman Nickerson offered an order striking out the clause. He also read a letter from Mr. Theophilus King stating that he would agree to pave the street if the clause was stricken out. The order was then adopted.

More Light.

Councilman Rideout presented a petition for two lights on Payne street. To executive department.

Sea Street.

Councilman Swithin presented a petition of the Houghs Neck Improvement society asking the Council to give them a public hearing on the necessity of improving Sea street to Houghs Neck. To Committee on Streets.

Squantum Street.

Councilman Sprague presented a petition to have the boundary lines of Squantum street defined and the street widened to a uniform width. To Committee on Streets.

Report of Committee.

The Committee on State Aid recommended that Augustus H. Young be paid $6 per month, and Theresa W. Young $4 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to order laying out Brook road, striking out the payment clause. Amendment adopted and order laid on the table.

New Fire Station.

The joint Committee on Public Buildings and Fire Department on petition for new fire station at Norfolk Downs reported the same necessary, and reported an order appropriating $2,028.60 for the purchase of a lot of land on Hancock street, 70 feet front and 126 feet deep. To Committee on Finance.

Motions, Orders, Etc.

Councilman Sidelinger offered an order granting Ella M. Freeman a license to sell fireworks, and C. H. Johnson a license as auctioneer. Adopted.

No Appropriation for High.

Upon motion of Councilman Anderson the order appropriating $2,000 for repairs on the High school was taken from the table and took its second reading.

The rules were then suspended.

Councilman Field moved the matter be referred to the Commissioner.

Councilman Anderson opposed. It was evident that he had not sufficient funds.

Commissioner Knowlton stated he had about $1,900 that was available for repairs of public buildings. Schools had just closed and buildings would have to be repaired.

Councilman Field thought it strange that city should go out of town for an expert. The Commissioner should repair the building and if he runs short of funds he can ask Council for more money. He was of the opinion that $400 would do the job if the Commissioner would only do as he wanted him to. The partitions were the cheapest job he ever saw done.

Councilman Nickerson favored Councilman Field's motion.

Councilman Poland had examined the building and all damage done was on the top story. He thought $2,000 exhorbitant, $500 was enough.

Councilman Nickerson moved as an substitute that the matter be referred to the Executive department. Adopted.

Miller Stile Road.

The order appropriating $1,200 for laying out Miller Stile road was taken from the table and passed to be ordained.

The order appropriating $500 for acceptance of Whitwell street extension was taken from the table and amended by striking out the clause relative to borrowing money.

The order then took its second reading, and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Nickerson opposed. He thought it foolish to appropriate $500 when $3,000 was necessary.

Councilman McGrath hoped order would pass. It would be a street of great benefit to the citizens.

Councilman Packard said the street was in better condition now than half the streets in Quincy.

The order was then passed to be ordained Councilmen Nickerson and Johnson voting No.

Quincy Avenue Location.

At this point a public hearing was given on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location on Quincy avenue.

John R. Graham, Arthur W. Newcomb, Henry H. Faxon and William Parker formed the petition.

Mr. Newcomb said everyone at Quincy Neck was interested. It now costs 50 cents to ride to the depot. There were not as many houses there now as a few years ago. It was a pretty place.

Henry H. Faxon had ten tenements at Quincy Neck and where he used to get $900 a year for them he now did not get $300.

Mr. Parker thought centre of street from Hancock street to New road the place for the track.

No one appeared against the petition and the hearing was closed. The order recommitted.

Brook Road.

The order laying out Brook road and appropriating $600 was taken from the table.

The borrowing clause was stricken out and the order took its second readiug, and under suspension of the rules was passed to be ordained, Councilman Nickerson voting no.

The order appropriating $300 for a tide gate near the poor farm was taken from the table.

The borrowing clause was stricken out, the rules suspended and the order passed to be ordained.

Loan Order.

Councilman Anderson offered an order authorizing the City Treasurer to borrow $2400 to cover the expenses cause by Brook road, Whitwell street, Miller Stile road and the tide gate; $500 to become due in 1898, $500 in 1899, $500 in 1900, $500 in 1901 and $400 in 1902. To Committee on Finance.

Upon motion of Councilman Anderson it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until July 6.

Calendar.

The order granting the Electric light company a location for one pole on Highland avenue was passed to be ordained, under suspension of the rules.

The order laying out Kemper street took its second reading, and question came on passage.

Councilman Swithin thought the Commissioners estimate to build the street to grade should be obtained before the order was passed.

Councilman Nickerson said the last gentleman voted for the street in the committee but afterward he had changed his opinion simply on account of Whitwell street.

Councilman Swithin denied this.

Councilman Anderson was called to the chair.

Councilman Bryant said the street was in good repair and the citizens wanted to improve it and put in edgestones. The Committee on Streets had recommended it and it made him a trifle tired to have some one get up and ask cost.

Councilman Field called the street in good condition and thought grade all right.

The order was passed to be ordained.

The order laying out Nightingale avenue took its second reading and was passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 9.13, to meet July 6.

Wollaston Suicide.

Mr. Enoch J. De Wire of Wollaston whose attempt to commit suicide on Monday forenoon has been noted in these columns, was resting comfortably last evening with good chances for his recovery. No vital spot was touched by the razor, although the gash inflicted was a savage one on the left side of the neck. No other reason can be assigned for the act other than temporary abberation of the mind. He is conscious but as yet has not intimated the cause.

Runaway Boys.

Cornelius and Hugh McDonnell, two 16-year old boys residing on Town Hill, ran away from their homes last Friday night and as yet their parents have been unable to locate them. One of the boys had $5 in money and the other had about the same sum. They had been talking of shipping on a cattle steamer.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. HOUGHS NECK.

Condition of Sea Street Again Before City Council.

Again a petition has been presented to the City Council of Quincy for the improvement of Sea street, the only thoroughfare to Houghs Neck and Germantown. A grand wide boulevard could be made here at such small cost that it should not longer be delayed. It means considerable to the value of beach property, which has declined some of late. It would be more economical for the city to make the improvement than to reduce the assessments on valuation. A grand boulevard to Houghs Neck connecting with the State boulevard from Boston to Squantum, Merry Mount park, and the Blue Hills reservation would not only be a popular drive for Quincy people, but for residents of Boston, Milton, Hyde Park, Braintree, Weymouth, and surrounding towns. Houghs Neck does not ask an extravagant outlay, however, but the widening and rebuilding of its only city street, and then that it shall be lighted at least during the summer season.

N. C. Read of Rock Island has been appointed a constable.

Mr. John Cavanagh and family from Braintree have arrived at their cottage on Bay View avenue.

Why don't the young men of Houghs Neck get together and make a ball field down on the flats.

Harry and James Hoggarty were guests of Mr. J. Dolan at the Bijou on Sunday.

Mr. Frank Bleiler of the Heath cottage lost a cameo ring Monday.

Mr. Frank Jacobs and family of Roxbury have opened their cottage, the Perkins, for the summer.

Mr. Williams of Dorchester will spend a few weeks at the Starnes cottage.

Mr. George Rice and family from Cambridge have arrived on Rock Island.

Monday two young men from Roxbury, whose names were not to be had, were upset off Nut island.

The flash lights from the warship Marblehead at Marblehead, last night, were seen at Houghs Neck.

The street railway is repairing its track at several points on its Manet beach line. There is need of it, for a car was derailed some time last evening on the hill, above the postoffice.

FREE KINDERGARTEN.

Parents and Children of John Hancock District Favored.

A free kindergarten school was opened Monday in the John Hancock school building, under the auspices of the Quincy Home Science Association, and at present has 48 pupils. It is hoped that number will be increased as it seems likely to be as soon as the object and purpose becomes more generally known.

The school is in charge of Miss R. Trask of Weymouth, a lady with a large experience in this class of schools and in the East Braintree Kindergarten school. She is assisted by Miss Walker and Miss Perry.

When the school opened Monday many of the parents came with their children and at once became greatly interested in the work, for not only does it take the children from their care and keep them off the streets but it begins their education as well and in such a manner that from the first the child becomes interested. Only those children under school age are eligible.

It is the purpose of the Association to maintain the kindergarten during the summer months and during the fall and winter to hold free lectures on home science subjects.

The Quincy Home Science Association, takes up subjects connected with home and family life. The membership fee is fifty cents and the money thus obtained is expended in carrying on the work.

The Quincy Association which was organized last May is officered as follows:

President,—Miss Elizabeth Johnson.

Vice President,—Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick.

Secretary,—Mrs. W. T. Babcock.

Assistant Secretary,—Mrs. T. King.

Treasurer,—Mrs. Warren W. Adams.

Directors,—Mrs. E. N. Hardy, Mrs. Charles H. Porter, Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, Mrs. George G. Saville, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. W. B. Rice, Mrs. T. L. Sturtevant, Mrs. T. H. Pollard, Mrs. R. W. Peach, Mrs. H. E. C. Burns.

TODAY'S COURT.

Fred Gullickson was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy. He was also arraigned for disturbing the peace and fined $5.

John F. Burns was arraigned for keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell at Randolph. Case continued until Thursday, July 8.

Peter Delory of Quincy was arraigned for concealing mortgaged property valued at $55 from John H. Dinegan. The case was continued until Wednesday and in the meantime Delory was ordered to return the property to Mr. Dinegan.

The favorable result of the recent test in this city of the value of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills as a remedy for diseases of the Kidneys and kindred ailments has caused sufferers residing here and in adjoining towns to send for samples and go to the drug store for full boxes. The pills seem to be in general demgnd.

Letters from recovering and cured patients are coming in daily. Physicians are astounded at the rapid improvement in cases they have treated with the pills.

A physician, who had little idea that his words would ever appear in print, was recently overheard to say: "I have never in my life had faith in anything advertised as a medicine until recently, but I must confess that I really do believe that Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are a remedy of great worth. I procured some of these pills and used them in my practice. Several of my patients have been taking them, and have experienced a great change for the better."

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The tailors' strike at New York is over. All the locked-out garment makers have returned to work.

Urgent appeals for aid are coming in from that part of Alachus county, Fla., which was devastated by the great hurricane of Sept. 29.

The seventh annual convention of the National Association of Elocutionists, representing all parts of the country, opened at New York yesterday.

Professor N. J. Whitehill of Randolph, Vt., has been chosen principal of the public schools of Montpelier. He was graduated from Dartmouth in 1883.

Prince Hohenlohe, accompanied by Herr von Bulow and Baron Wilmowski, paid a four hours' visit to Prince Bismarck at Friedrichsruhe yesterday while on their way from Kiel to Berlin.

Hon. Matthew Winne, the oldest ex-member of the New York legislature, and father of the present assemblyman of Schenectady county, Hon. Thomas Winne, died in Viskayuna yesterday. He was 91 years old.

The colored ministers of Boston have entered a vigorous protest against the attempt of the Nashville ministers to induce the executive board to change the place of the next session of the Colored National Baptist association from Boston to that city.

The Salem (Mass.) hospital trustees announce that a gift of $10,000 has been received from Mrs. William G. Webb, to be used in founding a home for convalescents. The gift is in memory of her husband, who died last winter, and who for many years was one of the trustees.

Gambling Raid at Leadville.

Leadville, Colo., June 29. — Public gambling has probably received its death blow here. Acting under orders from Judge Owers of the district court a posse of deputy sheriffs raided every gambling establishment in the city, seizing over $1000 worth of tables and implements, which will be destroyed. All the proprietors of the gambling houses were arrested. The raid has caused a great sensation, as it breaks up an industry that has flourished here since 1879.

More Troops For Cuba.

Madrid, June 29.—Senor Canovas Del Castillo says that in case the Spanish forces in Cuba should suffer severely from sickness during the rainy season the government will send 20,000 additional troops to the island in October in order to maintain the army at its full strength and to inflict a final blow upon the insurgents.

Valuable Bibles.

London, June 29.—At the Ashburnham library sale yesterday the famous Mazzarin or Gutenburg Bible, en volume, fetched £4000 ($20,000). The first Latin Bible, with the date 1500, and several others, sold for over £1000 ($5000) each.

Mills Will Close.

Anderson, Ind., June 29.—The National Tin Plate company has posted notices of a shut down on Thursday morning, as per contract, for a readjustment of the wage scale. At the same time, all the union tin plate factories in the country will close. The conferences of manufacturers and workmen wage committees will begin at Pittsburg next Saturday. All the union window glass factories are preparing to close down this week for a readjustment of the wage scale. On account of the factional fight between the blowers and gathers on one side and the cutters and flatteners on the other, some delay in settlement is anticipated. The window glass shut down will cause some 15,000 men to lie idle, while the tin plate closing lays off about 12,000 men.

Granite is quarried in Bangalore, in southern India, by burning a wood fire about seven feet long over the surface of the flat rocks, and keeping this continually moving forward. To such perfection has this method been brought that in less than a day about 700 square feet may be split up, burning wood at the small rate of one pound to 30 pounds of stone quarried.

WEEKLY CROP REPORT

Slight Improvement In General Conditions Noted In All Sections.

Vegetables Backward as a Result of Cool Nights.

Small Damage by Frost In Exposed Localities. Very Little Rain.

Boston, June 29.—In extreme southern New England the past week has favored the farmer. In central and northern sections, while several warm days occurred, the nights were too cool. Frosts occurred on the 21st in exposed localities, but the damage was probably slight. The precipitation of the week was confined mostly to western and northern Vermont, where heavy thunder showers occurred on the 24th. Elsewhere the rainfall was light, and there was practically none in Connecticut, Rhode Island and southern Massachusetts.

Maine.

The general situation shows slight improvement, owing to bad weather. On the 24th only was there any precipitation, and the temperature rose to summer figures on several days. Low lands are still too wet for cultivation. Large areas will be sown to Hungarian and other feeds. Corn is very small and backward. Potatoes are not coming up well, the seed rotting in the wet ground. Grass and early grain look well, and the hay crop will undoubtedly compare with average years. Apples do not promise to be abundant.

New Hampshire.

Generally fair weather and three warm days have favored all crops. Haying has commenced on all fields. On old fields and dry ground the crop will be large; heavy soil will have a light crop. Corn is looking better, but there are many backward fields. Potatoes and small grain are in good condition. An average fruit crop is promised. All kinds of berries, however, give abundant promise. In extreme northern sections a frost on the 21st killed many garden vegetabes.

Vermont.

The season is regarded as being two weeks late. Frosts on the 21st and heavy thunder storms on the 24th damaged crops somewhat in some localities. Haying has begun with fair prospects. Corn requires warmer weather to enable it to grow. Not much fruit is expected; no plums or cherries to speak of. Potatoes and grain on high lands look well; on low lands both are light.

Massachusetts.

Normal developments of crops (corn in particluar) cannot be expected with continued cool nights. Tender vegetation was slightly damaged by frosts on the 21st. Peas are doing very well, early varieties are being picked around Boston. Haying is under way, mainly on high land where the cut is excellent. Corn is improving. Strawberries are fair to good. Cultivated blackberries promise to be far above the average. It is said that cherries and other fruits lack flavor, owing to insufficient sunshine and the heavy rains.

Rhode Island.

The week has been one of good growing weather, and crops are advancing. The top of the ground is becoming quite dry. Much haying is being done on high land; the crop is heavy. Corn, tomatoes and beans have improved. Potatoes are threatened with blight. Oats and rye will be heavy.

Connecticut.

A clear, warm week; crops showing a decided gain. Corn is backward, but is doing well. Potatoes are blossoming and receiving last hoeing. Considerable clover hay secured; newly seeded fields heavy; old meadows above ordinary. Early oats heading; rye and wheat filling well. Small fruits excellent.

ENDEAVORERS DEPART.

Two Trains Containing Five Hundred Excursionists Leave Boston For San Francisco.

Boston, June 29.—Two special trains containing 520 Christian Endeavorers left here by way of the Boston and Albany yesterday afternoon for the international convention of the society at San Francisco.

The first train which left carried President Francis E. Clark, Mrs. Clark and Secretary John W. Baer, together with other prominent Endeavorers.

The second train bore Treasurer William Shaw, among others.

The route of the excursion is as follows: Boston and Albany, New York Central, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, Chicago and Northwestern, Union Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, Western and Southern Pacific.

San Francisco will not be reached until Tuesday, July 6, for the Endeavorers will spend two days in Colorado, and one day in Salt Lake.,

Whalers Caught In the Ice.

New Bedford, Mass., June 29.—Letters received in this city from Herschel island bring the intelligence that three of the staunchest steamers of the San Francisco whaling fleet were caught in the ice off the mouth of the Mackenzie river last September and could not make a harbor. These vessels, the Mary D. Hume, Captain William Haggerty; Jesse H. Freeman, Captain W. P. S. Porter, and Fearless, Captain James McKenna, were frozen in the ice while trying to make a harbor. They were in no danger during the winter, but the letters stated that during June, when the ice pack breaks up, the vessels will have a hard time of it, and the chances are that all three will be crushed in the ice. If so the lives of from 120 to 150 men will be in danger. The whalers were short of provisions, and the crews had to haul supplies from Herschel island over the ice on dog sledges to the vessels.

Dartmouth's New Trustee.

Hanover, N. H., June 29.—The board of trustees of Dartmouth college met yesterday afternoon and elected Rev. Cecil F. P. Bancroft, D. D., LL. D., to the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. A. H. Quint of Boston. Dr. Bancroft is a graduate from the Andover Theological seminary, and is a member of Dartmouth alumni class of 1860. He has been principal of Phillips-Andover for 25 years. He will take his seat on the board this commencement. The trustees christened Dartmouth's new dormitory to be built this summer the James B. Richardson hall in honor of Judge Richardson of Boston, recently deceased.

Portland Editor Dead.

Boston, June 29.—George B. Bagley, editor and proprietor of the Portland Sunday Telegram, died at Hotel Thornlike at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon of pneumonia. Mr. Bagley came on from New York on Friday, having apparently recovered from a severe attack of the disease, but on Saturday he had a relapse, and his wife was summoned from Portland. His remains will be sent to Portland today.

Portland, Me., June 29.—Mr. Bagley came to Portland several years ago and opened a job printing office. Later he purchased the Cumberland Globe, a weekly paper devoted to suburban towns, and changed the name to the Portland Globe. Ten years ago he established the Sunday Telegram. All his newspaper enterprises have been remarkably successful. He was about 55 years old, and leaves a widow and one sister, Mrs. Lucien Clark of this city.

Ex-Governor Plaisted Sick.

Boston, June 29.—A special to The Herald from Bangor, Me., states that the condition of ex-Governor Harris M. Plaisted seriously alarms his friends, who fear that he is now prostrated by what will prove his final illness. His physicians announce that he has Bright's disease. Ex-Governor Plaisted returned to Maine a few weeks ago from his winter home in North Carolina, and went to Poland Springs. He continued to fail, however, and at last expressed a desire to go to his home in Bangor. He was removed to this city in a hospital car and has since been confined to his residence rallying only occasionally.

Marblehead Celebration Over.

Marblehead, Mass., June 29.—Last night came the culmination in the celebration of the visit of the cruiser Marblehead. It was the people's night, and they came from near and far, probably 12,000 or 15,000 of them. The cruiser brought into use all her electric appliances, beside which her officers, or Uncle Sam, contributed a very creditable display of fireworks, which was a finishing touch to the picture, for she, beside being the center of attraction, was the central figure in the picturesque scene, for both the town and the neck shores of the harbor were brilliant with illumination and vari-colored fires.

Fooling In a Boat.

Waltham, Mass., June 29.—Harris H. Cutting, about 19 years of age, and residing on Crescent street, was drowned in the Charles river just above the American watch factory last evening. He was in a double pointed boat, and had as a companion Miss Bridget Cady. The accident was the result of fooling. Miss Cady was rescued by a man in another boat, who happened near the scene of the accident, but Cutting sank at once. Cutting was a life insurance agent. This is the fourth drowning accident in this city within a month and the second one within a week.

Seniors Praise Lehman.

Boston, June 29.—The senior class at Harvard held its last class dinner last night, and the result of the boat race was the theme of many of the speeches. W. L. Garrison, Jr., said that he was sure every man of the class heartily supported Mr. Lehman, the coach, in all he had done, and resented as a personal affront every attack that had been made upon him. E. N. Wrightington, captain of last year's eleven and a member of the recently defeated crew, urged that every member of the class back up Mr. Lehman in his work next year.

Portrait of Dante For Mount Holyoke.

South Hadley, Mass., June 29.—Mount Holyoke college has received from Mrs. Henry F. Durant of Wellesley, widow of the founder of Wellesley college, a likeness of Dante, the great Florentine poet, by Mr. Jackson. This gift is a marble medallion copied from a fresco which Giotto painted from life, and which fresco was painted over when Dante was forced to leave Florence. Some years ago the painting was found and is considered a perfect likeness. Mr. Jackson was permitted to copy it by working before the old masterpiece.

Business Men Indorse Mr. Apsley.

Hudson, Mass., June 29.—The final in a series of meetings by the business men of Hudson, held for the purpose of harmonizing the serious relations between the Apsley Rubber company and the striking portion of their employes, was held last night in the town hall. It was a representative gathering, aroused to the importance of retaining in town one of its largest and most promising industries. Resolutions were adopted indorsing Mr. Apsley's position in the matter.

Boy Firebugs Arrested.

Haverhill, Mass., June 29.—Inspector Durgin placed under arrest last night John P. Moulton, Frank Gardner and Ralph Greggs, all about 17 years of age, charged with setting fire to the gatehouse of Lake Salstonstall, last Wednesday. The boys belong to prominent families and are thought to be interested in other fires. The boys acknowledged to setting the fire on Wednesday, saying that they wanted to see the department respond to the fire alarm.

"Black Bart" Identified.

Woburn, Mass., June 29.—The colored man who was arrested Sunday on the charge of holding up the Reading electric car on the night of June 11 was taken to Reading by the chief of police of that town. The arrested man has been identified by four section men of the Boston and Maine railroad as the man seen hanging around the bridge near which the holdup took place about noon of the same day.

Cafe Broke Him.

Worcester, Mass., June 29.—T. H. Buckley, the originator of the night lunch carts, which are now common all over the country, has filed a voluntary petition in insolvency, with liabilities estimated at $30,000. The handsome cafe which he recently opened in this city is said to have caused the failure.

Daughter of Fairfield's Founder.

Fairfield, Me., June 29.—One of Fairfield's oldest residents, Mrs. E. K. Hudson, daughter of General William Kendall, the first settler and for whom the village was first named "Kendall's Mills," died yesterday, aged 95 years. A brother of Mrs. Hudson, who is 97 years of age, still lives here.

RACE CALLED FOR 5:30

Cornell, Columbia and University of Pennsylvania Race Today.

Crews In Fine Condition and Fast Time Expected.

Cornell Secures the Best Course Unless the Race Is Delayed.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 30.—Another triangular freshmen race will, weather and tide permitting, be rowed this afternoon. Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania are the contestants. Each crew is in fine condition, and a swift race is expected. The race is set for 5:30.

In the drawing of positions Cornell got the advantage by drawing the outside course, nearest the channel, while Pennsylvania got the worst position, by drawing the shore course. Columbia is in the middle. Such favor as Cornell is supposed to gain by her successful draw is, however, subject to the hour of starting. Old river men say that if the race should be delayed an hour the advantage that Cornell seemingly has will go to Pennsylvania, as the tide in the centre where Cornell rows will begin to turn or to be slack, while where Pennsylvania rows it will be running out extra fast just before the full ebb.

There was a curious mix up over the selection of a referee. When Manager Sinkler of Pennsylvania, Fearing of Columbia and Murdock of Cornell met to draw for positions they understood that they would meet George S. Mumford of Harvard, whom it was practically agreed should be referee. Mr. Mumford was not there, and there was no word from him. Then it transpired that about 10 different people had been asked to referee the race, and that the answers of acceptance, if there were any, were in the hands of the college representatives, Mr. Wheeler of Cornell, Mr. Bangs of Columbia and Mr. Reath of Pennsylvania. There is no doubt that the person selected is Mr. Mumford, but official notice of it will not be forthcoming until these gentlemen arrive here today.

Art to Be Taxed.

Washington, June 30.—The decision of the senate finance committee to restore paintings to the dutiable list will be final, if it is accepted by the senate. The house imposed a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem upon paintings and statuary, but the paragraph was erased by the senate committee. They reconsidered this action yesterday, after having the paragraph passed over when it was reached in the sundry schedule, and now propose to impose a duty. The house having imposed a duty, the matter will not be an issue between the two houses, and the duty will stand, unless the senate refuses to accept the recommendation of the committee.

Vermont Investors Affected.

Montpelier, Vt., June 30.—The closing of the South Dakota Savings institution at Pierre, S. D., word of which was received yesterday, will affect a large number of investors in this city and vicinity, who hold nearly all of the capital stock of the bank, amounting to $50,000. Besides the stock held here many Vermont people have invested in loans and discounts amounting to over $60,000, but Mr. Cummings states that all of this indebtedness will undoubtedly be met without loss to the investors, and that the real estate taken on foreclosure can be sold the stockholders will also get back their money.

Another Reception to Parliament.

London, June 30.—In the house of commons yesterday Arthur J. Balfour, the first lord of the treasury and government leader, read a message from the queen in reference to the reported dissatisfaction of certain members of the house of commons with the arrangements made for the reception of commoners at Buckingham palace last Wednesday. In the message the queen expressed a desire to receive all members of the house of commons, with their wives, at Windsor castle on Saturday next.

Mgr. Conaty.

New York, June 30.—Monsignor Martinelli announced last night at a dinner given by Brother Justin of Manhattan college that he had received a cable from Rome that the Very Rev. Thomas A. Conaty, D. D., of the Catholic university at Washington had been elevated by the pope to the rank of monsignor. Mr. Conaty was one of the guests at the dinner and the announcement was a surprise to him and to the other guests who were present when Monsignor Martinelli made the announcement.

President Leaves For Canton Tomorrow.

Washington, June 30.—The president will go to his old home at Canton, O., tomorrow, to visit his mother for a few days. Mrs. McKinley, Miss Mabel McKinley and probably Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Day will accompany him. They will leave here on the regular train over the Pennsylvania railroad Friday evening at 7:10, arriving in Canton at 10:30 Saturday morning. They will remain over the Fourth, and return Monday or Tuesday evening.

ON THE DIAMOND.

National League.

At Boston—

Brooklyn earned more runs than Boston yesterday, yet lost the game, 8 to 7, errors and chance hits giving Boston the victory. Boston played an errorless game. Klobedanz was batted very freely, 10 hits being made off him up to the eighth inning. Nichols was then substituted and held the visitors down to one hit for the rest of the game. It was not an especially interesting game, although there were a number of brilliant individual plays.

Sullivan and Muldoon Quit.

New York, June 30.—John L. Sullivan, who has been in training at William Muldoon's at White Plains for the past week or two, in anticipation of a meeting with Fitzsimmons, has had a falling out with the veteran trainer, and as a consequence he left his training quarters and came to New York city. He stated that he would go either to College Point or Oceanic, N. J., and there resume his training. He says that he has not as yet selected a new trainer.

To Study Ornithology.

New York, June 30.—William Henry Phelps leaves this city today by the steamship Grenada for Venezuela, where he will continue the ornithological investigation begun by him last year. He is the son of Colonel Dudley F. Phelps, chief of the law division of the custom house at this port. The traveler was graduated with distinction in this year's class at Harvard. Young Phelps is an ex-president of the Harvard Natural History society.

MANY ASPIRANTS.

A Dozen Candidates Seek Democratic Nomination For Governor of Ohio.

Columbus, O., June 30.—When the Democratic delegates met by districts it developed that there was a strong feeling against some of McLean's managers, because of their attempt to dictate the state nominations, especially that of R. T. Hough for governor. After the pulse of the delegates had been felt in these preliminary meetings a conference was called last night between McLean's lieutenants and other leaders.

The McLean men carried all of the 21 congressional districts by large majorities for members of the state central committee, and for all other committees, but many who co-operated with them at these meetings objected to the word being given out for any one of the dozen candidates for governor.

The members of the state central committee are all classed as silver men and favorable to McLean for senator, with possibly two exceptions.

After the meeting of the delegates by districts, there was a movement to bring out a new man for governor, one who had not been involved in the complications of the past two days, and General A. J. Warner, president of the National Bimetallic league, and one of the original silver advocates in congress, was most prominently mentioned as the dark horse.

The convention assembled at 10 a. m. today, and it is stated that there will be no recess or adjournment until a nomination is made for governor. It is believed that some of the candidates will drop out early, but that there will be almost a dozen names presented for governor.

The committee on resolutions organized with General A. J. Warner as chairman and D. S. Oliver as secretary. The following sub-committee was appointed to draft a platform: A. J. Warner, F. B. Finley, Allen O. Myers, George Moore, W. T. Hockey. This committee reported to the full committee, and after discussing the platform till after midnight it was adopted.

All the resolutions on Cuba, tariff and everything else were thrown away. The Chicago platform is reaffirmed, and that part of it which refers to the financial question is reincorporated in the same language as that used at Chicago. This is all the platform that McLean wanted in the state convention last year, and it is all that he wanted at Chicago.

Gardner Is a Flyer.

Springfield, Ills., June 30.—Arthur Gardner of Chicago, in yesterday's races of the national circuit bicycle meet, held at the state fair grounds, broke the world's 1-mile handicap record, his time being 2:05 1-5. The world's previous record was 2:05 3-5, made by Mertens.

A DISPATCH from Quincy to a Boston paper says that Mr. Charles L. Hammond was an anti-Barrows man at the last Congressional election. This should be qualified. In the convention it is undoubtedly a fact that Mr. Hammond did not support Mr. Barrows, but after the nomination he was a Barrows man and gave him hearty support at the polls, and Congressman Barrows is conversant of the fact. As Mr. Hammond will be postmaster before the next Congressional election he will not be in active politics at that time.

Italian Camp.

The residents of Field street and Brackett place are much worked up over the announcement that the Italians employed on the sewer are to occupy a building owned by Henry H. Faxon. The building is about 60x30 and was built for the Walworth Manufacturing company some years ago. Bunks are being built in tiers within the building and it is said that sleeping quarters will be provided for about 200 "dagoes."

The small property owners nearby do not believe that their years of toil and hardship in founding small homes should at this day all be lost, and their property suffer depreciation just because one man is willing to have a lot of irresponsible aliens as tenants.

The residents are perhaps powerless to prevent the settlement of these Italians, but if any lawful means can be devised, now or later, to drive them from the place, such means will surely be employed.

Will Contest.

Judge B. W. Harris of the Plymouth county probate court gave a hearing Monday on the question of appointing a special commissioner on the estate of the late Clift Rogers of Marshfield, a former resident of Quincy.

Mr. Rogers left an estate valued at about $125,000 much of which is in stocks and bonds. He also left a will but there is some question as to it being a legal document.

Those who desired Mr. Phillips appointed as special administrator were represented by Clifford Clapp, while Arthur R. Torrey represented those opposed to his appointment.

Mr. Torrey among other things remarked that the contest was likely to bitter one and would probably go to the supreme court, but refused to state his reasons for opposing the appointment of Mr. Phillips, as the senior counsel Hosea Kingman was absent.

Judge Harris will make an appointment later.

Crimson Cherries.

On many a watery field have the Hon. Charles Francis Adams, 2d, and Mr. A. G. McVey met. Both are well known in the rowing and yachting world, Mr. C. F. Adams, 2d, being without doubt the leading practical amateur yachtsman of America. He has also been a college oar, and today is consulted on all Harvard College athletic matters. For months Messrs. Adams and McVey have discussed the outcome of the 1897 boat race, the former predicting a win for Harvard, while the latter stoutly contented for Cornell, not only as against Harvard, but against the field. The race has been rowed; the result is known. Monday Mr. Adams sent to Mr. McVey a basket of fine cherries, picked by himself.—Herald.

Illegal Business.

The Massachusetts Benefit Life Association received another black eye Tuesday. Attorney General Knowlton condemns the methods of the Association's officials, but sees no way in which the Commonwealth can now interfere in behalf of the policy holders. There is presented an interesting resume of the affairs of the Benefit Life, tending to show what a fruitful harvest this particular province of insurance has been made to yield. Finally, to cap the climax of news touching the Association, comes the announcement that the policy holders are to be touched up for an extra assessment, in order to help lift the concern out of its difficulties.

AT THE WOODWARD.

The Class of '97 Graduation Exercises Last Evening.

Addresses by Rev. Dr. Anderson and Rev. E. C. Butler.

Music a Feature of the Programme. Original Class Song.

Woodward hall was crowded last evening at the graduation exercises of the class of '97 of the institute, and it was a happy occasion. All the members of the school were in white, and a profusion of green was used for decoration. Ferns were banked on the wall back of the platform and also on the walls at the head of the hall. Above the platform was suspended the motto of the class:

BE TRAIST.

The letters being in the class color on white, the whole having a border of ferns. The excellent portrait of Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, the founder of the institute was on the wall back of the platform entwined with ivy. On the platform were also potted plants.

At eight o'clock the gentlemen composing the board of directors, and the board of managers of the fund, together with the speaker of the evening, took seats upon the platform. These included Revs. Butler, Gurney, Preble, Robinson, Bagley, Carey, Dornan, Turk, Roche and others; Mayor Adams, City Auditor Hall and Mr. Clarence Burgin.

The musical programme was under the direction of Miss Maud E. Rice and was very good. The voices were sweet and the enunciation clear. It included these numbers:

CHORUS,—"Folk Songs,"
(a) Scotch Song.
(b) Irish Song.
CHORUS,—"The Frogs' Singing-School."
SELECTED CHORUS,
(a) "Ebb and Flow."
(b) "Down in the Dewy Dell."
CLASS SONG.

The class song was written by one of the graduates, Miss Eugenia M. Hatch, and was sung by the class, the school taking the chorus. The music of Ben Bolt was adapted to the words and as the school put all their enthusiasm into the song it was perhaps the best number. The words:

We pass from our school, through the gate of today,
To the highways of joy and of strife;
With "Be Traist" on our banner, with joy we set forth
To win in the contest of life.
Like the Knight who of old from his castle did ride,
Bravely bound on his true quest to fight,
All fearless we venture, in armor of faith,
With the glory of truth for our light.

CHORUS.

The Knight rode to victory, his faith faltered not,
He triumphed—for truth doth not fail;
And we from the conquest shall one day return,
In our eyes the glad light of the Grail.

To the heart of the Knight, as he rode from his gate,
Spake the voices of by-gone days;
And he knew that the message they brought was the same
That should guide through the long future ways.
We, too, as we turn to the wide world beyond,
From the home that to us is so dear,
Know its message of truth, in the days yet to be,
Shall ring in our hearts true and clear.

CHORUS.

After the opening choruses the six graduates were escorted to the platform by two members of the younger classes: Helen Baxter and Ethel Babcock.

The graduates were: Mabel Louise Drew, Eugenia Maynard Hatch, Mabel Gordon McKenzie, Helen Arabella Mitten, Alice Grafton Thompson, and Anna Josephine Walsh.

Rev. Preston Gurney of Wollaston introduced the speaker of the evening, saying things were different now than 250 years ago. Then Roger Williams, Ann Hutchinson and others, the cream of Massachusetts, found it convenient to go to Rhode Island; not only the cream but the whipped cream. He then presented Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, D. D., of Brown University of Rhode Island.

Dr. Anderson said cream which had taken 250 years to rise must be rich. Now, however, the States were on a common ground—education, knowledge, instruction of truth. The present is but a fleeting moment, the product of life that has been and the carrier of the germ of the life to be. We yearn for something better. What of the future? The answers are vague. We are seeking after a sign. It was desirable to forecast the future. Stoics of years ago set forth principles which we now proclaim as laws. Interdependence is now applied to minute matters, and there is a close and intimate relation between everything.

He spoke of the potency of influence of environment. Life was largely determined by community. These graduates are all Quincy born girls. For some time they have carried on education under the star of the Woodward Institute. You must know the principle of your life. Its breadth of relationship with the universe. Recognize your largeness; your relation with man and with God. There must be appropriation. The oak is not in the acorn but evolves from it; so the woman of forty is not in the graduate. The Almighty has not finished the physical condition or the moral condition. There must not only be accumulation but assimilation. Graduates you have accumulated; now assimilate. Assimilate in wisdom. What is the value of gold? Only for term of life. Assimilate in intellect, in moral life. In crises of life we grow mightily. Recognize the principles of nature, of man, and of God, and appropriate from them. Accumulation cannot bring happiness until transmitted into life. We need a moral purpose.

Rev. E. C. Butler in presenting the diplomas, said it was again his duty to invest the graduates with the degree which marks their passage from the quiet studies of academic halls into life. You were entered apprentices, have become fellow craftsmen, but are not yet past mistresses of it all. We have tried to give mental equipment. Great are the rewards of an intellectual life. It brings at least content. Culture is more than skin deep. Physical life as well will transmit the noblest passions of the soul. The difference with self-made men is not that they are not strong in life, but their basis of comparison is small. They don't know thoughts of the past and what has been worked out, and therefore don't know how to apply their strength. Here culture comes in. It was not beauty but grace of intellect that makes woman strong and wise. Womankind needs intellectuality. Goodness is also woman's prerogative. Be good, sweet maid; do noble deeds.

Diplomas were then presented individually; each young lady receiving applause. The school then marched out closing the exercises.

Miss Small, the principal, received many congratulations from those present.

In the upper room a fine exhibition of drawings were admired.

This evening the graduates hold a reception.

The Benefit Game.

The T. R. & S. Co. B B. team will cross bats with the Atlantics on Saturday at Merrymount Park. The purpose of this game is a benefit for catcher Mahoney of the T. R. & S. Co.'s team who broke his ankle June 17 while running from second to third base. It is expected that a large crowd will turn out as the Atlantics and the T. R. & S. Co. team have played each year for the championship.

For the past two years the Atlantics have come out victorious in almost every game but this year the T. R. & S. Co. have the strongest team that has ever played in Quincy and the Atlantics will have a job on their hands. But the T. R & S. boys should not forget that Mr. John McKenna is manager of the Atlantic team and judging from his care and skill in managing the team in past years we have no doubt he will have a very strong one. We also do not want to lose sight of the spirit which prompted the formation of this team. It is the spirit of charity, the bond of all friendship. Such a spirit should receive the commendation of every man and such we are sure will be the case, as Mr. Mahoney is a man with many friends; one who is liked by every person that knows him, and his hand has always been out to help a friend. It is hoped by this game to raise a goodly sum for him, as he will not be able to work for some time to come.

Judgment Against Quincy.

In the Norfolk superior court, in the case of James Ward vs. Josiah P. Quincy, the court has ordered judgment for the plaintiff as of June 1, for $1,035, the plaintiff having consented to have judgment entered for that sum rather than have a new trial granted. In this case the jury on June 4, returned a verdict for the plaintiff of $1,823 21.

The case was an interesting one. The plaintiff, in his declaration, said that on June 11, 1895, the defendant entered into a written agreement with him to sell him, for $679.50, a certain lot of land in Wollaston Park, Quincy, and that the defendant broke the condition of said agreement, refusing to accept payments due under the agreement or to convey the property to the plaintiff. He alleged the defendant's failure so to do put him to great damage and expense.

Mounted Officer Wanted.

There is urgent need at Quincy Point of a mounted police. Such disturbances as were made Sunday and not only last Sunday but every Sunday, is a disgrace to the community, and could be stopped to a great extent by a mounted officer. The disturbance Sunday was caused by a crowd of "hoodlums" on a tally-ho hollering and blowing horns. The "hoodlums" called themselves the Merrymount Outing Club. Undoubtedly some one will kindly furnish a horse for the use of an officer.

What the Shakers of Mount Lebanon know more about than anybody else, is the use of herbs and how to be healthy.

They have studied the power of food. They nearly all live to a ripe old age.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is prepared by the Shakers from herbs and plants with a special tonic power over the stomach.

It helps the stomach digest its food, and digested food is the strength-maker.

Strong muscles, strong body, strong brain, all come from properly digested food.

A sick stomach can be cured and digestion made easy by Shaker Digestive Cordial.

It cures the nausea, loss of appetite, pain in the stomach, headache, giddiness, weakness and all the other symptoms of indigestion, certainly and permanently.

A SOCIETY EVENT.

The Pierce-Ela Church Wedding at Wollaston.

Beautiful Decorations of Green and White by Friends.

The Ceremony Performed by the Rev. James E. Bagley.

Another society event, the second this month, took place in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening before a large audience. The affair was the marriage of Miss Mary Florence Ela, daughter of Mr. Levi C. Ela, of Wollaston, and Mr. Herbert Francis Pierce, son of the late Henry A. Pierce, of South Braintree.

At eight o'clock the bridal party entered the edifice and marched slowly up the aisle to the strains of the Lohengrin march, played by Mrs. Amos Towle Leavitt, the ushers—Mr. Lewis B. Ela and Mr. Walter P. Ela of Wollaston, brothers of the bride and Mr. Walter S. Pierce of South Braintree, and Mr. J. Albert Scott of Newton—preceding the party. The bride was gowned in a beautiful white figured silk with pearl and chiffon trimmings and tulle veil with a bouquet of bride roses in her hand, and leaned upon the arm of her father.

The maid of honor, Miss Estella W. Pierce of South Braintree wore a white Swiss muslin trimmed with ribbons and carried a bouquet of Catherine Mermot roses.

The bridal party was met at the altar by the bridegroom, his best man Mr. Rowland H. Barnes of Waltham, and the Rev. James E Bagley, the pastor of the society.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as a recessional.

The decorations at the church by several young ladies, friends of the bride, were beautiful, consisting of arches of green and white, the pews being decorated with roses, and palms and ferns were also liberally used.

The Whatsoever Ten, King's Daughters, of which the bride is a member, occupied reserved seats.

Among the many beautiful presents were noticed a case of silver spoons from the Wollaston Unitarian society and a banquet lamp from the Ten.

After the ceremony the couple left for their bridal tour, visiting New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other points of interest. They will be absent about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will reside on Washington street, South Braintree. They will be at home Wednesdays in September.

HOUGHS NECK.

Cottagers are arriving very fast, some coming in the rain today.

Mr. Harry Squires and family from Roxbury are at their cottage the "Elmsvale" on Manet avenue for the summer.

A game of "whist" was played last night at the "Delmonte."

Mr. J. Dimmock of Roxbury and family have arrived on Manet avenue.

Mr. W. Keasley and family have leased the "Wild Rose" and will spend the summer months there.

Mr. H. E. Guy and family are at the "Ever-Breeze" cottage.

The half hour service on the electrics will go into effect tomorrow, July 1.

High tides today at 11.30 A. M., and 11.45 P. M.

The police have heard rumors of proposed deviltry at the beach the "night before the Fourth," and will be prepared for it.

Mr. Lloyd Hoey will represent the Quincy DAILY LEDGER and Quincy PATRIOT at Houghs Neck this season, and asks the cooperation of all that this resort may be properly represented in public print. Drop him a postal and he will call at any time, or leave items for him in the LEDGER news boxes at J. L. Harvey's and Milton's bakery. Bicycle Road Race.

An eight mile handicap road race open to riders from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Milton will be held in Quincy on the forenoon of July 5th. It will be run over the same course as the big race held here on May 31st and will be started at 9.30 to give riders a chance to compete in the afternoon races. Jacobs and Lamb who so successfully managed the Quincy road race are the promoters.

This race will give our local men a chance to settle the much mooted question of superiority among them. There will be fifteen valuable place prizes and three time prizes. First prize will be silver tea set $40. First time prize silver tea set $25. Prizes will be on exhibition in Hearn's window. Entry blanks can be obtained at the cycle stores or from J. G. Jacobs, Wollaston.

July 12, Hodensaunee Tribe of Wollaston and Nahanton Tribe of Braintree will attend the raising up of the chiefs of Pequot Tribe, who will also entertain the past sachems of Southeastern Massachusetts at a meeting is to be held to take steps toward forming an Old Colony Association of past sachems.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

L. M. Pratt & Co. will sell fireworks this year.

A storm came with the new moon last night.

Four days to "the Fourth," but five days to the holiday.

The afternoon of Friday will be a minute shorter.

William Gragg of Crescent street is visiting friends in Maine.

So many complained of the dust that it is not surprising that it rained today.

Monday will be observed as the Fourth of July, and no LEDGER will be issued.

Mrs. Walter J. Wellington and Miss Wellington of Wollaston are at Wiscasset, Maine.

Mr. Enoch J. DeWire passed a comfortable night and is now probably out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Bates and family of Wollaston are at Castine, Me., for the summer.

Alexander McWilliams of Copeland street has accepted a position in Boston with the Blue Hill Spring Water company.

Ex Representative Hammond received many congratulations last evening on his probable appointment as postmaster of Quincy.

Now that the postmastership has been practically settled there are rumors that Representative Newcomb was talked as a candidate.

Rev. Edwin N. Hardy made a flying trip to Amherst college Tuesday to attend the decennial reunion and banquet of the class of '87.

The West Quincy Methodist Sunday School will hold its annual picnic at Highland Park, Avon, next week and will make the trip on electric cars.

Another opening for sewer construction has been made on the Newcomb street extension, the line of the main trunk sewer, which will be of brick.

Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., held its semi-annual election Tuesday evening and elected these officers: Noble Grand, Walter H. Ripley; Vice Grand, Henry P. Furnald.

N. G. Nickerson, Wollaston, real estate, has bought 10,875 square feet of land on Grand View avenue, nearly opposite the Whittemore lot, and will build what will be from an architectural point of view, one of the finest places in Wollaston.

Many of our local riders are practising for the road race of Monday, and it promises to be a very interesting affair. The management has been very successful in securing prizes and there will probably be twenty-five place prizes instead of fifteen as first advertised. Small prizes will be tires, shoes, saddles, sweaters, etc.

The Quincy Yacht club's flyers made a good showing at the City of Boston's open race on Monday afternoon. In the first class the Little Peter was second; in the second class the Privateer was first, and in the third class the Oneme was first. Quincy may well be proud of a club that has the fastest fleet of boats on the coast.

The Dorcas society of the Universalist church will have a lawn party at the home of Miss Abbie Barnes on Thursday evening, July 1st. Arrangements are being made for an extra good time. It is expected that the Weymouth Band will be present and that there will be other and equally as good attractions. Admission ten cents. Should it rain Thursday, party will be Friday, if fair.

Miss Annie McGowan entertained a few friends at her home on Crescent street on Tuesday evening in honor of her cousin, Mr. George Moore, of New York, an accomplished violinist. During the evening Mr. Moore entertained the gathering with violin solos, and Miss Nellie Hart gave several piano solos. There were also vocal selections by the guests present. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Summer Sloyd.

The Y. M. C. A. has arranged to repeat its successful experiment of last year and will organize two Sloyd classes which will hold sessions for six weeks during July and August. The advance class for boys of ten or over who are competent will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at four o'clock. The elementary class for boys under ten will hold its sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the same hour. Mr. C. F. Merrick last years instructor will conduct the classes.

Quincy Post Office.

TODAY'S COURT.

Dennis F. Russell was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Ernest W. Phillips was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until July 10.

David Cunningham was arraigned for assault on Henry A. Peach at Randolph and was fined $5.

DAY IN THE SENATE.

Tillman and Chandler Indulge In a Sarcastic Colloquy

Over Former's Immigration Tax Amendment.

Quay Creates a Laugh by Voting With the South Carolinian.

Washington, June 30.—The tariff bill was taken up yesterday on paragraph 189, relating to watch movements, clocks, etc.

Mr. Lodge said that the watch industry had been revolutionized by American machinery. We make watches so much better and cheaper that no hand-made watch could compete with them. Now the Swiss makers had bought American machinery and operated it with comparatively cheap labor.

Mr. Hoar, after reviewing the growth of the American watch industry, predicted that the proposed duties would give the American market better American watches and in time at a reduction of 50 to 60 per cent of present prices.

The paragraph was agreed to.

Mr. Tillman was recognized for a speech in support of his amendment to the tariff bill:

"That there shall be collected a head tax of $100 on all immigrants coming to the United States."

Mr. Tillman spoke of the rapid spread of pauperism, as shown by the statistics of the jails and prisons. It was time, he said, to keep platform promises to do something for labor, to keep back the 500,000 immigrants arriving annually and to place a value on American citizenship.

"To sell it at $100 a head," suggested Mr. Chandler, ironically.

"Oh, if the senator wants a colloquy with me he can have it before I get through," answered Mr. Tillman.

Mr. Tillman spoke of the miserable condition of the coal miners of Pennsylvania, and read from official reports, saying many of the miners were compelled to live like beasts. And this, exclaimed Mr. Tillman, derisively, when senators were framing their laws for protection of American labor and American industry.

Mr. Quay remarked that the report from which Mr. Tillman read was made by a Republican committee, appointed by a Republican legislature.

"And I am asking a Republican congress to protect these people against competition," declared Mr. Tillman.

"Will you do it? Dare you do it? Or will you be satisfied with giving labor lip service?"

He gave the extent of the slum element in New York, Baltimore, Chicago and other cities, and said that showed where the big Republican majorities came from last year. He closed with a gloomy prediction that if the tide of immigration was not turned back the country would be torn by revolution and bloodshed and a repetition of the Paris commune.

Mr. Chandler briefly responded to the South Carolina senator and asked why it was that the immigration bill passed by Republican majorities in the last congress had been defeated?

"Because your Republican president, Grover Cleveland, vetoed it," shouted Mr. Tillman.

Amid the laughter Mr. Chandler protested against having Mr. Cleveland designated a Republican when the senator from South Carolina (Tillman had joined other Democrats in electing that president as a Democrat.

"Yes," observed Mr. Tillman, while the galleries roared, "I ask forgiveness for that and promise, so help me God, I'll never do it again."

Mr. Chandler went on to say that the failure of the only recent amendment to the immigration law was defeated by a Democratic president.

"And the senator should have turned the tines of his pitchfork on Grover Cleveland and left the Republican party for another day," continued the senato. in droll tones.

Here Mr. Tillman insisted on "setting himself straight on Grover Cleveland," and in spite of protests he proceeded rapidly to assert that in 1892 he went to the national convention at the head of the South Carolina delegation after the state convention had declared Mr. Cleveland to be a "prostitute of Democracy."

Mr. Chandler here interposed a protest, and with mock seriousness convulsed the senate by refusing to yield longer.

"I cannot permit," he said, "such language against the president of the senator's party."

Mr. Tillman reviewed the circumstances of his support of Mr. Cleveland.

"And now," concluded Mr. Tillman, as he took his seat, "I hope the senator will not twit me again for having made a fool of myself once."

Mr. Chandler, continuing his mock, serious manner, insisted that now that the president was gone the members of the Democratic party were responsible for all his acts, good and bad. The senator was speedily involved in another colloquy with Mr. Tillman, during which the South Carolina senator referred to Mr. Chandler as "you."

"I must object to this unparliamentary action," interposed Mr. Chandler, "as the senator's direct use of 'you' frightens me more than he is aware of."

"I have no pitchfork," called back Mr. Tillman, who added that he recognized Mr. Chandler's purpose to ridicule him.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Tillman's amendments and they were rejected—3 to 48. The votes in the affirmative were Butler, Quay and Tillman.

When Mr. Quay voted for the amendments there was a hearty laugh, in which the senator joined.

The bill was then laid aside.

During the day the senate disposed of the lead paragraphs, the committee rate of 1½ cents per pound on lead ore being agreed to—30 to 23.

Newtons' Free Delivery.

Newton, Mass., June 30.—The extension of the free delivery service in the Newtons has been postponed till July 16 in order to give the superintendents and postmasters of the stations sufficient time to reorganize their offices and lay out the routes. Fifteen regular and four substitute carriers will be appointed.

Q. & B. Dance.

The first grand dance of the Quincy & Boston street railway base ball club was held Tuesday evening at St. Mary's hall and was attended by over seventy-five couples. Haley and Berry's orchestra furnished music and continuous dancing was in order from 8 to 2 o'clock. It was a great night for the extras for the larger part of the regular men preferred the waxen floor of the dance hall and the society of charming young ladies to the running board of a car, and the boys proved themselves just as efficient at dancing as at ringing up fares or handling the controller.

Although the order of dances was not an elaborate affair it created much merriment from the titles given several of the numbers among which were: "Put's last game," "Bailey's slippers," "The Brooklyn Sparrow," "Speak right up, Blondie," "The rival horse doctor," "Rain in the face," "The Hiram schoolmaster," "The baby carriage," "No man's in de lobreye," "A friend of mine from Brockton," "Set-up the cigars, Henry," "I am an Indian," and "Jack's wax doll."

During the evening Mr. Charles Baron gave banjo and harmonica solos, and Mr. Richard Callahan vocal solos.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.
GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.
ARTHUR WOOD,
Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.
GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.
Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.
Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.
P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once.
P. P. P. cures blood poisoning in all its various stages, old ulcers, sores and kidney complaints.

LAURIER'S HOPE.

"That the God of War Will Never Spread His Wings Between America and England.

London, June 30.—Three hundred and thirty-four guests were present at the banquet given last evening at the Hotel Cecil in honor of Dominion day. Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner, presided. Sir Wilfred Laurier, premier of Canada, on rising to respond to a toast, was received with prolonged cheering. He said it was a very keen pleasure to him to join in celebrating a nation's birthday in the mother country. At the same time Canada was never dearer to his heart than at the present moment. Her history equalled, if it did not excel, in dramatic interest, the history of England, France or any other country in the world. She did not choose to assume independence, because she was already virtually independent, and could not have more power, freedom, happiness and prosperity if she were separated from England.

He dwelt at some length upon the relations between England and the United States, and said that since he had been in London he had seen evidences of misapprehension on the part of the public men as to the latent sentiment of the Americans toward Great Britain. He would not hesitate to declare that the sentiment was one of affection and reverence. The enmity which once existed between Great Britain, Canada and the United States had been largely removed by the queen herself in such wise and kindly acts as her letter to the widow of Lincoln and her intervention to prevent friction in the Trent affair.

After an eloquent reference to the jubilee service at St. Paul's, he said:

"Let us hope that the god of war will never spread his wings between England and the United States," and concluded: "If on my deathbed every trace of racial feud has been removed I shall die happy in the belief that I have not lived in vain." (Loud cheering).

Proud of Cornell Boys.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 30.—The business men and citizens of Ithaca are making arrangements for a grand reception to the Cornell crews on their return to this city. The crews will probably arrive in this city at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening. It has been decided to have a display of fireworks, general illumination of the city, a parade and a banquet in honor of the occasion. A testimonial will probably be presented to Coach Courtney.

Militia at Negro's Trial.

Franklin, Ky., June 30.—The trial of Green Dinning, the negro who is charged with killing Joe Conn, a farmer, began yesterday. Eighty-seven members of the Kentucky state guard were present to protect the negro from the hands of a mob. Acting on instructions from Governor Bradley, Colonel E. H. Gaithers searched every person who entered the courtroom for concealed weapons.

Endeavorers' Excursion.

Chicago, June 30.—Fully 10,000 delegates to the annual Christian Endeavor meeting at San Francisco and others taking advantage of the lower rates for a trip to the coast departed from Chicago yesterday over the different roads leading west. Delegates and excursionists poured into the city from the East and South all day. Every road is taxed to its utmost capacity.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or cooffee. Have you tried the new food drink called Grain-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about one-fourth as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

MORSE WILL REMAIN.

Amherst Professor Said to Have Withdrawn His Resignation.

Trustees Dissatisfied With President Gates' Work.

He May Resign Before Professor Morse Again Takes Up His Duties.

Amherst, Mass., June 30.—The trustees of Amherst university met yesterday and immediately took up the resignation of Professor Morse, who, until recently, had charge of the department of history. A committee was appointed to call on Professor Morse and request him to withdraw his resignation.

It has been learned that the trustees voted by a large majority to ask Professor Morse to withdraw his resignation and reaccept the full charge of the department of history, with the understanding that he should take up his work in September, 1898. Professor Grosvenor will continue to hold the chair of European history, and will have this department under him when Professor Morse takes full charge of the entire department.

At the meeting resolutions from various classes of the alumni, as well as from the graduating class, were read, urging the retention of Professor Morse. It is further understood that Professor Morse will accept the offer of the trustees, with the tacit understanding, however, that he shall not be hampered in the future by the administration, and that President Gates will resign in the near future.

The board of trustees appear to be thoroughly aroused, and will not allow the present condition of affairs to continue. An investigation on the part of the majority of the board has made them dissatisfied with President Gates. The excitement among many of the alumni who are here, while the trustees were in session, was intense, and but little was talked about except the probable outcome of the controversy. Many of the alumni, upon hearing of the action of the trustees and of Professor Morse, expressed themselves as satisfied.

WRIGHT ON LABOR PROBLEM.

Government Statistician Delivers an Address at Dartmouth.

Hanover, N. H., June 30.—Hon. Carroll D. Wright of Washington gave an address to the Dartmouth literary societies, including the former Fraternity of Social Friends and the United Fraternity, yesterday morning. His subject was: "Is there any solution of the labor question?" and his address in part was as follows:

"There is no solution to the labor question. It means the struggle for a higher standard of living. It always has existed and it always will so long as ambition lasts. It doesn't mean how wages are going to be increased or hours of labor shortened.

"The labor question changes as conditions and environments change. Under the iron law of wages, as announced by Ricardo, it is a struggle simply to secure barely enough of food, raiment, and shelter to preserve the working physical machine, the rule being that wages ought not to be paid over the bare necessities.

"Today the standard of living of the ordinary wage receiver involves margins above the iron law of from 10 to 15 per cent, out of which margin is to be found what are now called spiritual necessities, means of leisure, reading, music, recreation, etc., so that the demand of the worker in all civilized countries is for expansion of their margin. He feels entitled to this because society has insisted upon educating him, giving him a taste for higher things, making him a social and political factor, in fact fitting him for membership in a democratic community.

"With this change the world has grown into industrialism, and as this growth has taken place the world has passed out of simple despotic rule into the ever increasing complications involved in an industrial regime.

"The labor question continues the ancient unrest which has been the source and inspiration of all conflicts and contests. It began in Asia and has gone round the globe and will continue so long as man has intellect, heart and ambition. And in consideration of this conflict we must conclude with John Stuart Mills 'that there is no one evil or wrong which, if removed, universal happiness would result.'

"There can be no solution of the problem which comprehends progress itself. All the panaceas that are offered, if practically applied, could not solve it. The evils must be attacked all along the line. The individual developed to the highest perfection of social service is demanded of all. So in the co-ordination of ethical and economic principles which result from the practical application of the precepts of Christian religion which procure the basis of all mooted solutions, is to be found the only sure means of guiding the struggle, but not of removing it."

Colby Alumni Meets.

Waterville, Me., June 30.—The Colby University Alumni association met yesterday afternoon in Alumni hall for its annual meeting. A committee was chosen to confer with the trustees on the question of permitting the alumni to nominate every third member of the board. Necrologist C. V. Hanson reported six deaths during the year. The officers chosen were as follows: President, Leslie C. Cornish, Augusta; vice president, R. W. Dunn, Waterville; secretary, Professor E. W. Hall, Waterville; necrologist, Rev. C. V. Hanson, D. D., Skowhegan; councilmen, F. W. Johnson, Harvey D. Eaton and W. C. Philbrook of Waterville. Governor Powers, class of '70, arrived yesterday afternoon to attend the exercises.

Commencement at Radcliffe.

Cambridge, Mass., June 30.—Radcliffe college, the feminine annex of Harvard, held its commencement exercises at Sander's theatre yesterday afternoon. The audience filled the theatre. After Mrs. Aggassiz, the president of the college, Miss Irwin, the dean, and the members of the board of government had come in, the senior class in cap and gown, and the glee club marched to the platform seats. The exercises opened with prayer by Dean Hodges of the Cambridge Theological school. The glee club sang the 10th ode from the second book of Horace. Mrs. Aggassiz, who presided, then reviewed the work of the year, and looked into the future. Dr. Henry P. Walcott, as the representative of the university, offered congratulations. Then the degrees were conferred by Mrs. Aggassiz. Thirty young ladies were given the degree of bachelor of arts, and the degree of master of arts was conferred upon six others.

Boynton Charter Accepted.

Boston, June 30.—Pursuant to the legal notices, the incorporators of the Boston, Quincy and Fall River Bicycle Railroad company met yesterday afternoon and elected Edward A. Perkins clerk, and voted to accept the charter passed by the legislature. The following directors were elected: Albert H. Overman, Robert L. Evans, James F. Shaw, Augustus G. Perkins, Francis W. Breed, E. Moody Boynton and Edward A. Perkins. The directors, later on, selected the following officers: Albert H. Overman of Chicopee, president; James F. Shaw of Boston, treasurer; E. Moody Boynton and General O. O. Howard, vice presidents; Edward A. Perkins, secretary. It was resolved to proceed in the selection and survey of a portion of the route for an elevated railroad from Boston to Fall River.

The Wool Market.

Boston, June 30.—The wool market here has shown more speculative strength this week, and considerable wool is being shown. Prices quoted on territory wools are largely nominal and represent more what buyers will pay rather than what is asked for the new wools. It is hard work to sell any lot of fine medium and fine above the basis of about 35 cents scoured, although a buyer would have trouble to get anything except some old lots at that figure. Choice staple lots are quoted at 38 to 40 cents scoured, but they will not sell as yet. Fleece wools are almost entirely nominal in price, with little demand and light offerings. Australian wool is firm, and in some cases a 2-cent increase is asked and obtained. Sales are fairly big.

Yale Beaten.

New Haven, June 30.—When Yale lost her commencement day ball game to Princeton here a year ago the alumni held up their hands aghast. Such a thing had never happened in the memory of the oldest Yale enthusiast. But yesterday afternoon Harvard did just what Princeton performed a year ago—defeated the Blue on the grounds of the latter university, the final score standing 10 to 8. Harvard was outbatted, Yale getting twice as many hits, but Fincke's unsteadiness in the box gave the Crimson many runs and cost the game.

Alleged Milford Thief.

Boston, June 30.—North End policemen arrested Frank Williams, 24 years old, belonging at Milford, N. H., for the alleged larceny of two gold watches, four gold chains, 1000-trip mileage book on the Boston and Maine railroad and $10 in cash from Christopher C. Shaw of Milford. Williams was employed by Mr. Shaw to work on his farm about 10 days ago, and it is alleged that after getting what he could lay his hands on he disappeared. A constable will come from Milford for the purpose of taking the prisoner back.

Langley Goes to Prison.

Boston, June 30.—James H. Langley, better known as "Doc" Langley, the king of confidence men, was sentenced yesterday to state prison for a term of not more than eight years and not less than four years and six months. He was convicted in January, and pending a ruling of the supreme court on exceptions has been in the Charles street jail. Langley is 56 years old, and was born in New Hampshire. Last January he was convicted on three counts of an indictment which charged him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Concord and Rochester Road.

Concord, N. H., June 30.—The grantees of the Concord and Rochester railroad met in this city yesterday and elected a board of 15 directors, representing the cities and towns the road will benefit if built. The board organized with Gustavus Walker as president; Henry McFarland as treasurer and James H. Morris as clerk, all of Concord. There is a possibility that the proposed road, which would open up rich sections of the state, may be built and operated by electricity.

Crazed by Son's Death.

Taunton, Mass., June 30.—The body of Mrs. Martha Bailey, 65 years of age, who has been missing since last Tuesday, was found last evening in a swamp off Chestnut street. The body was somewhat decomposed. Deceased had been mentally unbalanced since the death of a son last fall, and probably wandered away during one of her attacks, and fell into the water. She leaves two married sons in Boston and three sons and a daughter in Taunton.

President's Summer Cruise.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 30.—Captain H. W. Lyons of the United States dispatch boat Dolphin stated yesterday that President McKinley would visit this city some time this summer in the course of an extensive cruise along the coast in the Dolphin. It is his intention while here to stop at the Wentworth, and also at the Isle of Shoals. From here he will go to Bar Harbor and Sorrento.

Fatally Injured by a Fall.

Richmond, Me., June 30.—Mrs. Robert Stuart, wife of a prosperous farmer in this town, while stepping upon a stone to get something, fell to the floor, sustaining internal injuries, from the effects of which she died. She was 49 years old, and leaves a husband and four small children.

Yale Pensioners.

New Haven, June 30.—At a meeting of the Yale trustees yesterday a system of retiring allowances for professors was established, by which an opportunity is given for any professor who has fulfilled 25 years of service to retire on an allowance after having reached the age of 65 years.

Fell Into River.

Dover, N. H., June 30.—Dominick E. Lavine, the 9-year-old son of Thomas Lavine, while fishing on the bank of the Cocheco river here yesterday afternoon, lost his balance and fell into the water and was drowned.

K. P. Hall Dedicated.

Lewiston, Me., June 30.—The new hall of Industry lodge, K. of P., was dedicated last night with appropriate ceremonies. This hall is one of the finest in the state.
